This psalme made David vpon some greafe and Jeopardous perill against which he herced him self not a lytel with calling to remembrance the promys of God: & thereby persuaded him selfe that he shoulde haue the victorie / & after lyue peacefully in the shade of godly ppyng.

Of David.
The Lord is my light and my health: whom then shoulde I feare? the Lord is the strength of my lyfe / for whome then shoulde I be afrayed?

Therefore when the wyched / euen myne enemys and my foes / came vpon me / to eate vpon my flesh / they stumbled and fell.

Though an host of men were layed against me / yet shall not my hart be afrayed:
for though there rose vpon warre against me / yet will I put my trust in him.

One thyng haue I desired of the Lord / which I will requyre: namely / that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the dayes of my lyfe / to beholde the sayre beutie of the Lord / and to blyss his temple.

For in the tyme of trouble he hath hyd me in his tabernacle / yee in a secreete place of his dwelling hath he kepte and set me vpon his face: for he hath bydon a roche of stone.

And now hath he lyft vpon my head aboue

Therefore will I offre in his dwellinge / the oblation of thanksgyng: I will synge and speake prayes vnto the Lord.

Harken vnto my voyce / O Lord / when I crye vnto the: haue mercy vpon me and heare me.

Hyde not thou thy face from me / cast

For my father and my mother haue for-

Shewe me thy waye O Lord / & lede me in the right path / because of myne enemys.

Deliver me not in to the wyces of myne aduersaries / for there are falsse wytnesses tyen vpon agaynst me / and they ymagyn myschefe.

Nevertheless I beleue hereby to see the goodnesse of the Lord in a lade of ppyng.
Therefore thou O Lord / leaue me not / for I have sayd.

let thine hert be of good comforte / & waite thou still for the Lord.

The xxviii. Psalme.
He prayeth the Lord not to forsake him in his great necessitie: he desireth that he being innocent he not be nenged with the wyched: and wisheth that euen they also maye not haue wyche iudgement as they haue de-serued: Then geueth he thanks to God for the vic-torye: and prayeth for the people.

Of David.

yf thou make as though thou herdest not / I be come lyke them / that go downe in to the pytte.

Reuarde them accordyng to their dedes

Recompense them after the woorkes of their handes / paye the paye they haue deserued.
For they regarde not the woorkes of the Lord / neyther the operacion of his handes: therefore shall he breake the downe / & not buyde my foes to triumphe ouer me.

O Lord my God / I cryed vnto the / and thou hast healede me.

Thou Lord hast brought my soule out of hell: thou hast kepte my life / where as they go downe to the pytte.

Synge prayes vnto the Lord / O ye sayn-tes of his / geue thanks vnto hym for a re-membraunce of his holynesse.

For his wyath endureth but the twinkling of an eye / and his pleasure is in lyfe: heury-nesse maye well endure for a nyght / but loye corrupteth in the morninge.

As for me / when I was in prosperite / I sayde: I will neuer fall more.

And why? thou Lord of thy goodnesse hast made my hert so stronge.

But as soone as thou turnedest thy face from me / I was brought in feare.

Then cryed I vnto the Lord / yee vnto the Lord made my prayer.

What profyt is there in my bloude / yf I go downe to corrupcion?

Why the dust geue thanks vnto the?
Why shall it declare thy saythfulnesse?

Hear / O Lord / and haue mercy vpon me: O Lord be thou my helper.

And so thou hast turned my heuryne in to loye: thou hast put of my lack cloth / & gydded me with gladnesse.

That myne honour myght synge prayes vnto the without ceasing: O Lord my God /
I will geue thanks vnto the for euer.

The xxxi. Psalme.
He sheweth wherewith he strengthened his hope / what he desired for / what he complained of / in what case he was / and how he was mydded: when he was in the wilderness of Idumea: many other ab & sought a mean: to escape. He prayeth the great goodnes of God / to waite all forcheas feare him:
And moueth men to the feare and loue of God / whych cannot forsake them that leane vnto him.

To the chaunter / A Psalme of David.
The Lord is my trust: let me neuer be put to confusyon / but deliuer me in thy rightousnesse.

Booke downe thine eare to me / make haste to deliuer me: be thou my stronge roche and a house of defence / & thou mayest saue me.

For thou art my strong holde & my castel: & be thou my gide / & lede me for thy name sake.

Deliuer me out of the nett that they haue laid priuely for me / for thou art my strength.

Into thy hand I comede my soule: thou hast deliuered me O Lord thou God of treuth.

I hate them that holde of vanities / & my trust is in the Lord.

I will be glad and reioyce in thy mercy:
for thou hast cōfounded my trouble / thou hast knowne my soule in aduersite.

Thou hast not deliuered me ouer in to the handes of the enemye / but hast set my fete in a large towne.

Haue mercy vpon me / O Lord / for I am in trouble myne eyes consumed for very heuynesse / yee my soule and my body.

My lyfe is woren olde with heuynesse / & my yeares with mourninge.

My strength fayleth me because of myne aduersitye / and my bones are corrupte.

I am become a very reprofe amonge all myne enemys / my neyghbours and they of myne awne acquaintance are afrayed of me: they that se me in the strete / conueye them selues from me.

I am cleane forgotte & out of mynde / as a dead man: I am become lyke a broke beell.

For I haue herde blasphemie of & multitude: euery man abhorreth me: they haue gathered a counsell together agaynst me / & are purposed to take awaye my lyfe.

But my hope is in the Lord / and I saye:
thou art my God.

My tyme is in thy hande: deliuer me fro the hande of myne enemys / and from them that persecute me.

Shewe thy seruaut the lyght of thy confession / helpe me for thy mercyes sake.

Let me not be confounded / O Lord / for I call vpon the: let the vngodly rather be put to confusyon / and brought vnto the hell.

Let the lyenge lypes be put to silence / whyche cruelly / disdainfully / & despytfully / speake agaynst the rightous.

How

How greates & manyfolde is thy good/which thou hast hyd for the that feare the?
What thinges bringest thou to passe for them/that put their trust in the/euen before the sonnes of men?

Thou hyddest them pryncely by thine awone presence from the proude men/ thou keptest them secretly in thy tabernacle/ fro the strife of tonges.

Thanks be to the Lorde/for he hath re-wed me maruelous greates kynnes in a stronge cytie.

For when the foddane feare cam vpon me/
I sayde: I am cast oute of thy syght.

Reuertheles/ thou herdest myne humble prayer/when I cryed vnto the.

Like Cro. ruf. d. s. l. Reg. by. b.
O loue the Lorde (al ye his sayntes) for the Lorde pserueth the saythfull/ and plenteously rewardeth he the proude doer.

We stryde therfore and take a good herte vnto you / all ye that put youre trust in the Lorde.

The. xxii. Psalme.

He sheweth that all aduersities come of synne / & that he therfore is happye that hath his synnes forgotten: And further/ that both forgiveness of synnes and the psecution and defence of God are obtained by entire acknowledgement of oure offences: & seruenc prayer.

An instruction of David.

Blessed are they / whose myghty out-nesse is for geue / and whose synnes are couered.

Roma. iij. 4.
Blessed is the man/ vnto who the Lorde imputeth no synne / in whose syete there is no gyle.

For whyle I helde my tonge/ my bones co-sumed awaye thow my daylye complay-nynges.

And because thy hande was so heuy vpon me both daye and nyght / my myghture was lyke the drouth in Sommer. Seiah.

Like the thirde Psalme.
Therefore I confessed my synne vnto the/
and hyd not myne myghty outnesse.

I sayde: I will knowlodge myne offence/& accuse my self vnto the Lorde/ and so thou forgauest me the wychednesse of my synne Seiah.

For thus shall every saynte make hys prayer vnto the in due season/ therfore shall

Of the not greates water floudes come npe him.
Thou art my defence in the trouble that is come aboute me / O compasse thou me about also wth thy love of deliuerance. Seiah.

I will informe the/ & theme the the waye wherin thou shalt go: I will fallen myne eyes vpon the.

Be not ye now lyke horses and mules/which haue no vnderstandenge.

Whose mouthes thou must holde with byt and byde/ yf they will not obeye the.

Greates plagis shall I begodly haue/ but who so putteth his trust in the Lorde/ mercy shall compasse him on every syde.

We glad/ O ye righteous/ & reioyse in the Lorde/ he is full all ye are true of hert.

The. xxiii. Psalme.
He exhorteeth and moueth men diligently to praye for God: And sheweth that all thynges are full of hys goodnes.

Reioyse in the Lorde/ O ye righteous/ & for it be cometh well the iust to be thankfull.

Playe the Lorde with harpe: synge psalmes vnto him with the lute and instrument of ten strynges.

Synge him a new songe/ yee synge lustely vnto him/ and with a good coage.

For the worde of the Lorde is true / & all his woordes are saythfull.

He loueth mercy and iudgment / the earth is full of the goodnesse of the Lorde.

By the worde of the Lorde were the hea-uens made/ and all the hostes of them by bryght of his mouth.

We gathereth the waters together as fe were in a bottell/ & laeth vpon hyde in secret.

Let all the earth feare the Lorde/ and lett all them that dwell in the worlde / stande in awe of hym.

For loke what he sayeth / it is done: and loke what he commaundeth/ it standeth fast.

The Lorde byngeth the counsell of the Heithen to naught/ and turneth the deuyces of the people.

But the counsell of the Lorde endureth/and the thoughtes of his herte from generacion to generation.

Blessed are the people that holde the Lorde for their God/ and blessed are the folke who he hath chosen to be hys heretage.

The Lorde loketh downe from heauen/ & beholdeth all the chyldren of men: from hys stronge seate he conspyereth all them that dwell in the worlde.

He only hath fashioned all the hertes of them/ and knoweth all their woordes.

A kynge is not helped by his awone great hoost/ neither is a gyaunte saued thow the myght of his awone strenght.

A horse is but a bayne thing to saue a ma it is not the power of hys strenght that can deliuer him. Beholde / the eye of the Lorde lokethe vnto them that feare hym/ & put their trust in his mercy.

That he maye deliuer their soules from death/ & to fede them in the deare tyme.

Let oure soule patiently abyde the Lorde/for he is oure helpe and shyde.

So shall oure herte reioyse in hym / because

cause we haue hoped in his holy name.
Let thy mercifull kynnesse/ O Lorde/be vpon vs/ like as we put oure trust in the.

The. xxiii. Psalme.

David prayeth the Lorde/ because he prayeth for his chosen in tyme of neede: and moueth all men to endure them selues to innocenpe and godynes/because such as are indured the twich/ are repde forth of all payes & abundantly rewarded with al goodnes.

Of David/ when he sayned hymself to be made before Abimelech: whych droue hym awaye/ and he departed.

I will alwaye geue thanckes vnto the Lorde/ hys praye shall euer be in my mouth.

My soule shall make her boast in the Lorde:
the humble shall heare therof/ & be glad.

Playe the Lorde with me/ and let vs magnifye his name together.

I sought the Lorde/ and he hearde me/ yee he deliuered me out of all my feare.

They that haue an eye vnto hym/ shall be lightened/ & their faces shall not be ashamed.

This pooze man cryed vnto the Lorde / & he hearde hym/ yee and deliuered hym out of all his troubles.

The Aungell of the Lorde pytcheth hys tente rounde aboute hym that feare hym/ & deliuereth them.

O taste and se how frendly the Lorde is/blessed is the man that trusteth in hym.

O feare the Lorde/ yee that be his sayntes:
for they that feare hym/ lacke nothinge.

The tryche shall want and suffre hunger/ but they which seke the Lorde/ shall wat no manner of thyng/ that is good.

Come hyther/ O ye chyldren/ herke vnto me/ I will teach you the feate of the Lorde.

Who so lyketh to lyue/ and wolde sayne see good dayes.

Let hym refrayne his tonge from euell/ & hys lippes that they speake no gyle.

Let hym eschue euell/ and do good: Let hym seke peace and ensue it.

For the eyes of the Lorde are ouer the rightu-ous/ & his eares are open vnto their prayers.

But the face of the Lorde beholdeth the that do euell/ to destroye the remembraunce of them out of the earth.

When the righteous crye/ the Lorde heareth them/ & deliuereth them out of all their troubles.

The Lorde is nye vnto them that are comelyt in hert/ and will helpe such as be of an humble spete.

Greates are the troubles of the righteous/but the Lorde deliuereth them out of all.

He kepeth all their bones/ so that not one of them is broken.

But myghty shall lape the bngodly/ & cause

they that hate the righteous shall be gylete.
The Lorde deliuereth the soules of hys seruautes/ and all they that put their trust in hym/ shall not offende.

The. xxiv. Psalme.

David prayeth the Lorde to fight for him agaynst Saul & his adherentes/ & to deliuer hym forth of their hanes.

Of David.
Strive thou with them/ O Lorde/ & strive with me / fyghe thou agaynst them that fyghe agaynst me.

Laye hande vpon the spyde & speare/ and stande by to helpe me.

Drawe out thy swearde / and stoppe the waye agaynst them that persecute me/ laye vnto my soule: I am thy helpe.

Let them be confounded & put to shame/that seke after my soule: let them be turned back and brought to confusyon/ that pmygen my selfe for me.

Let them be as the dust before the winde/and the aungell of the Lorde scaterynge the.

Let their waye be darcke and slipperry/ &
the aungell of the Lorde to persecute them.

For they haue pryncely layed their nett to destroye me without a cause/ yee and made a pytte for my soule/ which I neuer deserued.

Let a soden destruccyon come vpon him bna warres/ & the net that he hath layed pry-uely/ catch hym selfe/ that he maye fall in to hys awone myschete.

But let my soule be sayfull in the Lorde/and reioyse in hys helpe.

All my bones shall saye: Lorde/ who is lyke vnto the/ which deliuereth the pooze fro those that are to stronge for hym/ yee the pooze and the neddy from hys robbers.

False wytnesses are rylen vpon/ and laye to my charge thynges that I knowe not.

They reward me euell for good/ to the greates dyscomforth of my soule.

Reuertheles/ when they were syck / I put on a sack cloth: I habyled my soule with ashes/ and my prayer turned into myne awone bosome.

I behaued my selfe as though it had bene denyng of the my frende & my brother/ I wente heuely/as one that mourneth for his mother.

But in myne aduersite they reioyse/ & gather them together: yee the very iame come together agaynst me bna warres/ makinge momes at me/ and cease not.

With the greedy and scozefull pproctres they gna shed vpon me with their teeth.

Lorde/ when wilt thou loke vpon thys?
O restore my soule from the myched rumour of them/ my deatlyng from the lyss.

So will I geue the thanckes in the greates cogregaciō/ & playe I amonge much people.

Let the not triumphe ouer me/ & are myne kemyes

enemies for naught: & let the not wynche to their eyes: that hate me without a cause.
And why: their coming is not for peace/but they ymagyn false wordes agaynst the outcastes of the lande.

They gape vpon me with their mouthes/saying: there: there: we see it with our eyes.

This thou seist: O Lorde: holde not thy tongue then: go not farre fro me: O Lorde.

Awake Lorde: & stande vpon: auenge thou my cause: my God: & my Lorde.

Judge me: O Lorde my God: accordyng to thy rightuousnesse: that they triumphe not ouer me.

Let them not saye in their hertes: there there: so wolde we haue it: & let them not saye: we haue overcome hym.

Let them be put to confusion & shame/that reioyse at my trouble: let them be clothed with reuoke and dishonoure: that boost themselues agaynst me.

Let them also be glad and reioyse: that fa-uoure my rightuous dealing: yee let them saye alwaye: blessed be the Lorde: which hath pleasure in the prosperite of his seruant.

And as for my tongue: it shalbe talkyng of thy rightuousnesse and of thy prayse: all the daye longe.

The xxxvi. Psalme.

The prophet the goodness of God exclaimyng that he shal not vpon his mercy from the vngodly: when they haue greuously offended hym. He sheweth also that the chosen receaue his goodness before: & that praiseth hym more largely to dyssipate his benefi-tes vnto them that knowe hym: and to dysperce hym from the violence of the wicked: whose fall & ruine he also prophesyeth.

To the Chaunter: of David the seruant of the Lorde.

My hert sheweth me the wickednesse of the vngodly: that there is no feare of God before his eyes.

For he dyemeth before his face: so long till his abhominable synne be founde out.

The wordes of his mouth are bryghtous-nesse & discreete: he wil not be lerne to do good.

He ymagyneth myschefe vpon his head:
he wil come in no good waye: ner refuse & the thinge that is euell.

Thy mercy: O Lorde: reacheth vnto the heauen: & thy faythfulnesse vnto the cloudes.

Thy rightuousnesse standeth lyke the stronge mountaynes: and thy iudgemente lyke the greates wynde.

Thou Lorde preferrest both men & beest.

How precious is thy mercy: O God: that the chyldre of men maye put their trust in-

They shalbe satysfied with the plenteousnesse of thy house: and thou shalt geue them the ryuer of thy pleasures.

For by the is the well of lyfe: and in thy lyght, shall we see lyght.

Spredde forth thy louyng kyndnesse vnto them that knowe the: and thy rightuous-nesse vnto them that are true of hert.

Let not the fote of pryde ouertake me: & let not the hand of the vngodly cast me downe.

As for wycked doers: they fall: they are cast downe: & are not able to stande.

The xxxvii. Psalme.

Let the prosperite of the euell shoulde greue the good: he sayeth: that vnto such as feare God and lye rightously: all thynges shall happen well: and that they shal in very deade be happy: where as the vngodly although he seeme to floure for a tyme: shal at last be roted: & wyed cleane out of the waye.

A Psalme of David.

Let not thy self at the vngodly: be not thou enuyous agaynst the euell doers.

For they shal soone be cut downe lyke the grasse: and be wythered euen as the grene herbe.

Put thou thy trust in the Lorde: & he doinge good: so shalt thou dwell in the lande: & herely it shal fede the.

Deelyte thou in the Lorde: & he shal geue the thy hertes desyre.

Commynge thy waye vnto the Lorde: let thy hope in hym: & he shal brynge it to passe.

He shal make thy rightuousnesse as cleare as light: & thy iust dealing as noone daye.

Holde the still in the Lorde: & abyde pacely vpon hym: but greue not thy selfe at one that hath prosperite: and lyeeth in abhomynation.

Leaue of from wrath: let god displeaure: & let not thy gelously moue the also to do euill.

For wycked doers shalbe roted out: but they that pacely abyde the Lorde: shal enheret the lande.

Suffre yet a lytle whyle: and the vngod-ly shalbe cleane gone: thou shalt loke after his place: and he shalbe a waye.

But the meke spreted: shal possesse the earth: and haue pleasure in moche rest.

The vngodly layeth waye for the tust: & gnatheth vpon him with his tethe.

But the Lorde laugheth him to scorne: for he seyth that his daye is commynge.

The vngodly byawte out the swerde and bende their bowe: to cast downe & symple poore: & to slaye such as go the right waye.

Nevertheless: their swerde shal go thorow their awne herte: & their bowe shalbe broken.

A small thinge that the rightuous hath:
is better then greates riches of the vngodly.

For the armes of the vngodly shalbe broken: but the Lorde byholdeth the rightuous.

The Lorde knoweth the dayes of the godly: & their inheritaunce endureth for euer.

They shal not be confounded in perous tyme:

tyme: & in the dayes of death they shal haue proue.

As for the vngodly: they shal perishe: and when the enemies of the Lorde are in their floures: they shal consume: yee euen as the smoke shal they consume a waye.

The vngodly borroweth and payeth not agayne: but the rightuous is mercifull and lyberall.

Such as be blessed of hym: shal possesse the lande: and they whom he curseth: shalbe roted out.

The Lorde ordreth a good mans goyng:
and hath pleasure in his waye.

Though he fall: he shal not be hurte: for the Lorde byholdeth him with his hande.

I haue bene ponge: and now am olde: yet saue I neuer the rightuous forsahe: ner his sede to seke their byedde.

The rightuous is euer mercifull: and ledeth gently: therfore shal his sede be blessed flee from euell: and do the thynges that is good: so shalt thou dwell for euer.

For the Lorde loueth the thynges that is right: he forsaiketh not his saynct: but they shal be preserued for euermore: as for the sede of the vngodly: it shalbe roted out.

Yee the rightuous shal possesse the land:
and dwell therein for euer.

The mouth of the rightuous is exercysed in wysdome: and his tongue talketh of iud-gment.

The lawe of his God is in his hert: therfore shal not his fote sleppes asyde.

The vngodly seyth & rightuous: & goeth aboute to slaye him.

But the Lorde wyll not leaue him in his handes: ner condemne hym when he is iudged.

Hope thou in the Lorde: & kepe his waye.
He shal so promote the: & thou shalt haue the lande by inheritaunce: and se: when the vngodly shal perishe.

I my selfe haue sene the vngodly in great power: & flourishyng lyke a grene baye tree: but wher I wet by: lo: he was gone: I sought him: but he coude no where be founde.

Kepe innocency: and take hede vnto the thynges that is right: for that shal brynge a man peace at the last.

As for the transgressours: they shal perishe together: and the vngodly shal be roted out at the last.

The helpe of the rightuous commeth of the Lorde: he is their strength in the tyme of trouble.

The Lorde shal stande by them: and saue them: he shal deliuer the from the vngodly:
and helpe them: because they put their trust in hym.

The xxxviii. Psalme.

David taken with a feruent dyscase: desyeth to be redde therof: although he by synnes haue deserued to be chastysed. He complayneth woderfully of the intolerable violence of his synnes: of the fayntnes of his synnes which forsake him: and of the cruelties of his enemies: When requyeth he the helpe of God:
vnto whom he wholly commytteth him selfe.

To the chaunter: to brynge to remembrance.

Understande: the benefyte of God in to the her-tes of the people: because he had deliuered hym from a paynfull dyscase: and redde hym to his health.
Howbeit some thynke that this whole psalm increaseth of the synnes of the soule: that is: of the synnes wherewith David was exerceysed. And they vnderstand the tyme thus. As byng to remembrance: & to know oure corrupcion and fraplines: take awaye by which to as many as repent and beloue.

Put me not to rebuke: O Lorde: in thyne anger: O chaste me not in thy heuy displeaure.

For thyne arrowes styck fast in me: & thy hande pesselth me sore.

There is no whole parte in my body:
because of thy displeaure: there is no rest in my bones: by reason of my synnes.

For my wyckednesse are gone ouer my heade: and are lyke a soze burthen: to heuy for me to beare.

My woundes syncke and are corrupte:
thorow my folyshnesse.

I am brought in to so greates trouble and mytery: that I go mourninge all the daye longe.

For my loynes are cleane dreyed vp: and there is no whole parte in my body.

I am feble & soze smytten: I roare for the bery dysquyetnes of my hert.

Lorde: thou knowest all my dyspoyse: & my goynges is not hyd from the.

My hert panteth: my strength hath fayled me: & the lyght of myne eyes is gone from me.

My louers and frendes stande lokyng vpon my trouble: and my kynsmen are gone a farre of.

They that sought after my lyfe: and to do me euell: spake of iyes & ymagined discreete all the daye longe.

As for me: I was lyke a deafe man: & herde not: and as one that were domme: not ope-nyng his mouth.

I am become as a man that heareth not:
and that can make no resistance wth his mouth.

For in the O Lorde: is my trust: thou shalt heare me: O Lorde my God.

My dyspoyse is: that myne enemies triumphe not ouer me: for yf my fote slyppe: they reioyse greatly agaynst me.

I am redy to suffre trouble: and my heunesse is euer in my lyght.

ij. Of David. Psal. xliii. & xlv.

uely/why the enemy oppresseth me?
 He sende out thy lyght and thy trueth/they maye leade me and bynne me into thy holy hill/and to thy dwellinge.

That I maye go in to the altar of God/Wuen into the God whych is my ioye & pleasure/ & upon the harpe to geue thanks unto the/ O God/ my God.

Why art thou so heuy (O my soule) and why art thou so disquyeted within me?

O put thy trust in God/ for I wyll yet geue hym thanckes for the helpe of hys confession/and because he is my God.

The xliii. Psalme.

The coplayneth that I haue suffered in greuous per-secucion for the honoure of God and holy iymges sake/and that yet God is not present with the in myracles doynge/as he in tymes past was: And prayeth him to put forth his power/and deliuer him from the mynyes of the wycked.

To the chaunter an instruccyon of the sonnes of Cozab.

We haue herde in oure eares (O God) oure fathers haue tolde vs/what thou hast done in their tyme of olde.

How thou hast dyuyn out the heithen in thy hande/and planted* them in: how thou hast destroyed the nacjons and cast the out.

For they gat not the lande in possession thowme their awne swerde/ nether was it their awne arme that helpe them.

But thy right hande/ thyne arme and the lyght of thy countenance/ because thou haddest a fauoure vnto them.

Thou art the kynge and my God/ thou sendest helpe vnto Jacob.

Thowme the/ wyll we oure thowme oure enemyes: & in thy name wyll we treade them vnder/ But thy right hande/ that ryle by agaynst vs.

For I wyll not trust in my bowe/ it is not my swerde that shall helpe me.

But it is thou that sauest vs from oure enemyes/ & puttest the to confusion & hate vs.

We wyll allwaye make oure boaste of God/ & prayse thy name for euer. Selah.

But now thou forsakest vs: & puttest vs to confusion/ and goest not forth with oure chyldren.

Thou makest vs to turne oure backs by oure enemyes/ so that they whyche hate vs/spoyle oure goodes.

Thou lettest vs be eaten by lyke shepe/ & scatterest vs amonge the heithen.

Thou sellest thy people for naught/ & ta-kest no moneye for them.

Thou makest vs to be rebuked of oure neyghbours/ to be laughed to scoone and had in derisyon/ of them & are rounde about vs.

Thou hast made vs a very byword amonge the heithen/ and that the people shake their heades at vs.

Psal. xliii. & xlv.

For the voyce of the sclanderer and blasphemer/ for the enemye and auenger.

All this is come vpon vs/ and yet haue we

Oure herte is not turned backe/ nether oure steppes gone out of thy waye.

For thou hast* smitten vs in the place of by-

If we had forgotte the name of oure God/& holde by oure handes to any strange God/

Shulde not God fynde it out/ for he knoweth the hery secretes of the herte.

But for thy sake we are kylled all the daye be slayne.

Why Lord/ why sleepest thou? I wake/ & cast vs not of for euer.

Wherefore* hydest thou thy face? wyll

For oure soule is brought lowe vnto the Arise O Lord/ helpe vs and deliuer vs for thy mercys sake.

heare continually the name of God blasphemed & all

For God is sayd to hyde his face/ why he suffereth the good to be per-

The xlv. Psalme.

The sonnes of Cozab prayse Shalom for the bet-him and of his wyfe/ and also for the noblyte of their chyldren. In them do they also figure Shalom/ and the tytle of the

To the chaunter/ vpon* Solanin/ an in-

There is endyng of a good matter/ I the kynge: My tonge is the penne of a ready wyter.

Thou arte the sayest amonge the chy-

Good lucke haue thou with thyne honouwonderfull thynges.

Thy* arrowes are sharpe/ the people shall be subdued vnto the/ euen in the myddest of Thy seate (O God) endureth for euer/ the scepter of thy kyngdome is a ryght scepter.

Thou hast loued righteuousnesse/ & hated hath anoynted the with the oyle of gladnes rye palaces in thy beutifull glory.

Kyngs daughters go in thy goodly arraye/and vpon thy right hande standeth the quene in a besture of the most fyne golde.

Heithen (O daughter) confyde/ & enchyne thine eare: forget thyne awne people/ & thy fathers house.

So shall the kynge haue pleasure in thy beutye/ for he is thy Lord/ & thou shalt wor-shypp him.

The daughters of Tyre shall be there with gyftes/ the ryche amonge the people shall make their supplicacon before the.

The kynges daughter is all gloriously within/ her clothyng is of wrought golde.

Shee shall be brought vnto the kynge in raymet of nedle woyle/ & maydes after her loch as be next her shall be brought vnto the.

With ioye and gladnesse shall they be brought/ & go in to the kynges palace.

In steade of thy fathers thou hast gotten

I wyll remembre thy name from one ge-

The xlv. Psalme.

The therty wherem the godly be in all manner of copardship by the helpe of God.

To the chaunter/ a songe of the chyldren of Cozab vpon* almuith.

Our troubles & aduersyte/ we haue founde/ that God is oure refuge/ oure strenght and helpe.

Wherefore wyll we not feare/ though the erth fell/ and though the hylls were caryed in to the myddest of the see.

Though the waters of the see raged & were neuer so troublous/ and though the mountynes shoke at the tpeest of the same. Selah.

For there is a cloude/ which with hys ry-uers reioyleth the cytie of God/ the holy dwel-lyng of the most hyst.

God is in the myddest of her/ therefore shall she not be remoued: for God helpeth her/ and that ryght early.

The heithen are madd/ the kyngdomes make moch a doo: but when he sheweth hys voyce/ the earth melteth awaye.

The Lord of Hostes is with vs/ the God of Jacob is oure defence. Selah.

Come hither/ and beholde the wozykes of the Lord/ what destructions he hath brought vpon the earth.

He hath made warres to cease in all the wozyde: he hath broken the bowe/ he hath knapped the speare in sonder/ and bent the charrettes in the fyre.

Lxxi

We styl then and confesse that I am God:
 I wyll be exalted amonge the heithen/ and I wyll be exalted vpon earth.

The xlvii. Psalme.

Of the excellēt glorye of God declared thow the Clappe youre handes together (all ye ce of thanckelgeuyng.

For the Lord the most hyst is to be fea-

He shall subdue the people vnder vs/ and the heithen vnder oure fete.

He cholet vs for an heretage/ the beutye of Jacob whom he loued. Selah.

God is gone by with a myery noyle/ & the Lord with the sounde of the trompet.

Synge prayles/ synge prayles vnto God:
 synge prayles/ synge prayles vnto oure kynge.

For God is kyng of all the earth/ & synge prayles vnto him with vnderstandyng.

God is kyng ouer the heithen/ God syt-teth in his holy seate.

The prynces of the people are gathered together vnto the God of Abraham: for God is farre hyer exalted/ then the myghty lord of the earth.

Reate is the Lord & helpe to be prayled/ &

The* hill of Sion is like a sayre plate/wherof all the lande reioyleth: vpon the north syde lyeth the cytie of the great kynge.

God is well knowne in her palaces/ & he is the defence of the same.

For lo/ kynges are gathered/ and gone by together.

They manured/ to se loch thynges: they were astonied/ and suddenly cast downe.

Fear came there vpon them/ and sozome

Thou shalt breake the thyppes of the see/

Lyke as we haue herde/ to se we in the cytie

They that hate me without a cause / are

Take me out of / myre / & I syncke not: /
Oh let me be deliuered from them that hate

Hear me / O Lord / for thy louyng kynd-

Hyde not thy face from thy seruants / for Drawe nye vnto my soule / & saue it: Oh

Thou knowest my reproche / my shame & me euill.

As for me / I will paciently abyde all waye / and will euer encrease thy prayse.

My mouth shall speake of thy rightu-ousnesse and sayunge health: * all the daye longe / for I knowe no ende therof.

Let me go in / O Lord God / and I will make mencyon of thy power and rightu-ousnesse only.

Thou / O God / hast leered me fro my youth by vntyll now / therfore will I tell of thy wonderous woyses.

Forsake me not / O God / in myne olde age / when I am gray headed: vntyll I haue shewed thyne arme vnto chylders / chyldre / & thy power to all the that are yet for to come.

Thy rightuousnesse / O God / is very hye / thou that doest greates thynges: O God / who is lyke vnto the?

What great troubles and aduersities hast thou shewed me: and yet dydest thou tunie and refreth me: yee and broughtest me from the depe of the earth agayne.

Thou hast brought me to great honour / and comforted me on euery syde.

Therfore will I prayse the and thy saythfulnesse / O God / playng vpon the lute / vnto the will I synge vpon the harpe / O thou holy one of Israel.

My lippes wolde fayne synge prayse vnto the: and so wolde my soule whom thou hast deliuered.

My tonge talketh of thy rightuousnesse all the daye longe / for they are confounded and brought vnto shame / that sought to do me euill.

Salomon.

Of Salomon.

Give the kyng the iudgemēt / O God / & thy rightuousnesse vnto the kynges some.

That he maye gouerne thy people accor-dyng vnto right / and defende thy poore.

That the mountaynes maye byngge peace / and the lytle bylles rightuousnesse vnto the people.

He shall kepe the synple folke by their right / defende the chyldren of the poore / & punish the wrongous doer.

Thou shalt be feared as long as / sunne

He shall come downe lyke the rayne in to a felle of wolfe / & lyke the droppes that wa- ter the earth.

In hys tyme shall ryghtuousnesse florey / pre and aboundance of peace / so longe as the mone endureth.

His domynyon shall be from the one see to the other / & from the founte into the wyldes ende.

h That is / Shall humble / to the dust.*
The kynges of the see & of the fies shall brynge presentes / the kynges of Araby and Saba shall offre gyftes.

All kynges shall worshype hym / and all heathen shall do hym seruyce.

For he shall deliuer the pooze when he cryeth / and the needy that hath no helpe.

He shall be fauorable to the simple & pooze / he shall preserue the soules of soche as be in aduersyte.

He shall deliuer their soules from extor- cyon and wrong / and deare shall their bloud be in hys syght.

e That is to / wote the king / after that he / after some.*
He shall lyeue / and bnto hym shall be ge- uen of the golde of Arabia: Prayer shall be made euer bnto hym / and daylye shall he be prayled.

There shall be an heape of corne in the earth / hys byles his frute shall make lyke Libanus / and shall be grene in the cyte / lyke grasse upon the earth.

His name shall endure for euer / his name shall remayne vnder the sunne amonge the posterites / which shall be blessed thozow hym / and all the heathen shall prayse him.

Blessed be the Loyde God / euen the God of Israel / which only doth wonderous thyngs.

And blessed be the name of his maiesty for euer / and all landes be fulfylled with his glo- ry. Amen / Amen.

Here ende the prayers of David the sonne of Jesse.

The thynde Creatyfe.

The lxxiiij. Psalme.

He sheweth vnto the consolacyon of the godly / which are greued and offended with the prosperite of the wyched / how vngreuous an ende it shall haue. And agayne how fortunate and happy an ende the myserie wherewith the godly seme here to be exersysed / shall be rewarded with.

A Psalme of Asaph.

How lounge is God vnto Israel / to soche as are of a cleane hert.

Neuertheless my fete were almost gone / my treadynges had well nye stypte.

And why? I was greued at the wyched / to se the bngodly in soche prosperite.

For they are in no parell of death / but stande fast lyke a palace.

They come in no myfortune lyke other folke / nether are they plagued lyke other me.

And this is the cause that they be so putt by in pryde / and ouerwhelmed with cruelte and vngreuousnesse.

Their eyes swell for fatnesse / they do eue what they lyst.

Corrupte are they / and speake blasphemys malyciously / proude and presumptuous are their wordes.

They stretch forth their mouth vnto the heauen / & their tonge goeth thozow the world.

Therefore fall the people vnto the / & there outfliche they no small awauntage.

Curst (saye they) how shuld God perceau- ce / is there knowlege in the mood of the?

Lo / these are the bngodly / these prosper in the world / these haue ryches in possesyon.

Shulde I then cense my herte in bayne (thought I) & waite my handes in innocency?

Wherefore shuld I be then purged day- ly / & be chastened euer more?

Yee I had almost also sayde euen as they: but lo / then shuld I haue condemned the ge- neracyon of the chylozen.

When thought I to vnderstande this / but it was to harde for me.

Untyll I wente into the Sanctuary of God / and consyded the ende of the leman.

Namely / how thou hast sett the in a try- per place / that thou mayst cast the downe headlynges and destroye them.

How suddenly do they consume / perrysh / and come to a fearfull ende?

Yee eue like as a dreame when one awak- eth / so makest thou their ymage to van- nysh out of the cite.

Thus my hert was greued / and it wente euen thozow my reynes.

So soley was I and ignozant / and as it were a beast before the.

Neuertheless I am all waye by the / thou holdest me by my ryght hande.

Thou ledest me with thy counsell / and afterwarde receauest me vnto glory.

What is there prepared for me in hea- ven? there is no thing vpon earth / that I de- syre in comparyson of the.

My flesh & my hert sayleth / but God is the strength of my hert / & my portid for euer.

For lo / they that forsake the shall perishe: thou destroyest all them that comyte / for- nyacyon agaynst the.

But it is good for me / to holde me fast by God / to put my trust in the Loyde God / and to speake of all thyngs.

The lxxiiij. Psalme.

The complayneth of the destruction of the temple / and of the blasphemie of the wyched people agaynst God and his holy thynges: And after he hath mepo- sed the power of God in the pryncypall thynges of this world / to the strengthe of hope / he prayeth / that the sayntes & godly personnes maye be mended / and the heathen brought vnder with wo: thyne punishment.

An instruccyon of Asaph.

h The wrath of God is some tyme taken for the wretchednesse wherewith he purgeth synners in the world.*
God / wherfore dost thou cast vs so cleane awaye? why is thy wyche so hote agaynst the shepe of thy pasture?

Thynke vpon thy congregacyon / whom thou hast purchased from the begynnyng: the state of thyne enherytaunce / whom thou hast redeemed / euen this hyll of Sion wherthou dwellest.

Treade vpon them with thy fete / and cast them downe to the grounde / for the enemye hath destroyed all to gether in thy Sanctuary.

Thyne aduersaries roare in thy houses / & set vp their banners for tokens.

When maye se the axes glyster aboute / like as those that hewe in the wood.

They cut downe all the syng wo: che of the Sanctuary with bylles and axes.

They haue set fyre vpon the Sanctuary / they haue defyled the dwelling place of thy name / euen vnto the grounde.

Yee they saye in their bettre: let vs spoyle them all to gether / thus haue they bzent by all the houses of God in the lande.

We se oure tokens no moze / ther is not one Prophet moze / no not one that vndersta- deth eny moze.

God / how longe shall the aduersary do this deshonoure: how longe shall the enemye blaspheme thy name: for euer?

Why withdrauest thou thyne hand? why pluckest thou not thy right hande out of thy bosome / to consume thyne enemyes?

But God is my kyng of olde / the helpe that is done vpon earth / he doth it hym selfe.

Thou breakest the ser thozow thy power / thou breakest the heades of the dragons in the waters.

Thou smytst the heades of Leuiathan in peeces / & geuest hym to be meate for the pro- ple in the wyldernes.

Thou diggest by welles and byokes / thou dzyest by myghtye waters.

The daye is thyne / & the nyght is thyne: thou hast prepared the light and the sunne.

Thou hast sett al the borders of the earth / thou hast made both sommer and wynter.

Remember this / O Loyde / how the ene- mye rebuketh / & how the soley people blas- pheme thy name.

Deliver not thy soule of thy turtle doue vnto the beastes / and forget not the congregacyon of the pooze for euer.

Loke vpon the couenaunt / for the darthe houses of the earth are full of wychednesse.

Let not thy symple go awaye ashamed: for the pooze & needy geue prayles vnto thy name.

Arise / O God / & maynteyne thyne awne cause / remember how the soley man blas- phemeth the daye.

Forget not the boyce of thyne enemyes / for the presumpcyon of them that hate the / increaseth euer moze and moze.

The lxxv. Psalme.

h Dure saupour here vnder the shadowe of Dauid glorieth of the power geuen vnto hym / wherewith he will restore the world now dryng to an ende: and warneth that no man be so hardy as to withstande his kyngdome: and also prophesyeth greuous vengeance vnto all that goe therabout / and all manner of prospe- ritye to them that beleeue in hym.*

iii. Of David. Psal. lxxxiiij. lxxxv. & lxxxvi.

Christ expoundeth this in John. 7. 6.
a. The rising of God is the declarynge of hys power against his enemies: Arise O
God: That wyl-scape forth & showe thy power agaynst myne enemye
to my deliverance. As in the psal. 124.
O Lord and
helpe me. & c.

I have sayde: ye are Goddes / ye all are the chyldren of the most hycht.
But ye shall dye lyke men / and fall lyke one of the tyrantes.
Arise O God / & iudge thou the earth / for all heathen are thine by enheritaunce.
The lxxxiiij. Psalme.
The holy people complayneth that all the heathens about the had conspired to destroye them: & prayeth that they maye better be consumed and wasted as their dyde enemies were consumed and wasted.
A longe and Psalme of Asaph.
O bide not thy tonge / O God / kepe not thy silence / refrayne not thy selfe O God.

For lo / thine enemyes make a murmurynge / a they hate the / lyft up their heade.
They ymagyn craftely agaynst thy people / & take coucell agaynst thy secrete ones.
Come (saye they) let vs rote them out fro amonge the people / that the name of Israel maye be put out of remembraunce.
For they have cast their heades together to one consent / & are confederate agaynst þ.
The tabernacles of the Edomites and the maclites / the Moabites and Hagarenes.
Gabal / Ammon / and Amalech: the Philis-tynes with them that dwell at Tyre.
A sur also is ioyned unto them / and helpe the chyldren of Loth. Selah.
But do thou to them as unto the Cananites / unto Sissers / and unto Habin by the byoke of Hyson.

Whych perished at Endor / & became as the donger of the earth.
Make their Princes lyke Jeb & Zeb.
Yee make all their Prynces lyke as Zebai and Salmana.
Whych saye: we wyl haue the houses of God in possesyon.
O my God / make the lyke unto a whele / and as the stubbe before the wynde.
Lyke as a fyre that burneth by the wod / as the flame þe consumeth the mostaynes.
Persecute them euil so with thy tempest / and make them a frayd with thy storme.
Make their faces ashamed / O Lord / that they maye seke thy name.
Let the be confounded & bered ever moze & moze: let them be put to shame & perishe.
That they may knowe that thou art alone / that thy name is the Lord / & that thou only art the most hycht over all the earth.

The lxxxv. Psalme.
There is described the crypynge fervent desyre of David to come unto the holy assemblie: and the felici-tye of che that come unto it: & that praye God in it.
Arise O God / with a Psal. of the sonnes of Corah.
How amiable are thy dwellynge /
Thou Lord of Hostes:
My soule hath a desyre & longynge for the court of the Lord / my hert and my desyre in the lyvynge God.

For the sparrow hath founde her an house / and the swallowe a nest / where she maye laye her yonge: eue thy altars O Lord of Hostes / my kynge and my God.
O how blessed are they that dwell in thy house / they are all waye prayynge. Selah.
Blessed are the men whose strength is in the / in whose herte are thy wayes.
Which goynge thow to the hale of mysery ble it for a well / and the poles are filled with musk.
They go from strength to strength / and so the God of Goddes appeareth unto them in Sion.
O Lord God of Hostes / heare my prayer:
herken O God of Jacob.
Beholde O God our defence / & loke vpon the face of thine anoynted.
For one daye in thy court is better then a thousande.
I had rather be a doze keeper in the house of my God / then to dwell in the tentes of the ungodly.
For the Lord God is a lyght and defence / the Lord wyl geue grace and worshyppe / and no good thinge shall he withhold from them that lyue a godly lyfe.
O Lord God of Hostes / blessed is the man that putteth his trust in the.

The lxxxvi. Psalme.
A prophete of the kynge dome of David: & a prayer for hys commynge: with a descriptyon of the felicitie wherewith all thynges shalbe full / when it shall happ.

To the chaunter / a Psalme of the O Lord / thou barest a loue vnto thy land / thou owest byngne agayne the captyuete of Jacob.

Thou dydest forgiue the offence of thy people / & cluodest all their synnes. Selah.
Thou tokest awaye all thy dyspleasure / and turndest thy scile from thy wrathfull indignacion.
Turne vs then / O God our Saupour / and let thyne anger cease from vs.
We pit thou be dyspleased at vs for ever?
Wylthou stretch out thy wrath fro one ge-neracyon to another?
Wylthou not turne agayne and quychen

I wyl herken what the Lord God wyl saye / & for he shall speake peace vnto hys people and to hys sayntes / that they turne not them selues vnto folyshnes.
For hys saluacion is nye them that feare

Mercy & trueth are met to gether / rygh-tuousnesse and peace byke ech other.

Trueth shall ryse out of the earth / and ryghtuousnesse shall loke downe fro heauē.
And why? the Lord shall shewe lounge kyndnesse / and oure lande shall geue her en-

Ryghtuousnesse shall go before hym /

O bide downe thine eare / O Lord / and lyte in fearynge thy name.

I thanke the / O Lord my God / & wyl

For great is thy mercy towarde me / thou hast deliuered my soule from the nether-

But thou / O Lord God / art full of com-passyon / and mercy / longe suffrynge / great wherefore hydest thou thy face from me: My strength is gone for very sorow & mytery/ I feare/ I knowe do I beare the burthen.

thy wrathfull displeasure goeth ouer me/ the feare of the opp[re]sseth me. they come rounde about me daye by daye water/ & cōpasse me together on every syde.
My louers & frinds hast thou put away frome/ & turned away myne acquaintance.

The lxxxix. Psalme.

The elegantly and copyously written that the newe and euerydaye couenaunt which is made by Christ the sonne of David/ betwixt God and the chof. n. shall neuer be broken/ and that vnder the figure of David his posterity. In the begynnyng of the psalme he extollet the goodnes of God/ by which he vouchsafed to make a couenaunt with his sapientes.

An instructyon of Ethan the Gethayte.

My longe shall be all waye of the louing kindnes of the Lorde/ in my mouth will I euer be shewing thy saythfulnes from one generacyon to another. for I haue sayde: mercy shall be set vp for euer/ thy saythfulnes: what thou stablysh in the heauens.

I haue made a couenaunt with my chosen/ I haue sworn vnto David my seruante. thy seide will I stablysh for euer/ and let thy throne from one generacyon to another. Selah.

Lorde the very heauens shall prayse thy wonderful wo[r]kes/ yee and thy saythfulnes in the congregacyon of the sapientes.
for who is he amōge the cloudes/ & may be compared vnto the Lorde: Yee what is he amōge the goddes/ that is lyke vnto the Lorde:

God is greatly to be feared in the cōfess of the sapientes & to be had in reuerence of all them that are aboute hym.

Lorde God of hostes who is like vnto thee in power: thy truely is rounde aboute
the.

thou rulest the pryde of the see/ thou stillest the waues therof/ when they aryse.

thou breakest the proude/ lyke one that is wounded/ thou scatterest thine enemyes abroade with thy myghty arme.

the heauens are thine/ the earth is thine:
thou hast layed the foundation of the rounde worlde/ and all that therein is.

thou hast made the north and the south/Taboz & Hermon shall reioyse in thy name.

thou hast a myghty arme/ strong is thy hande/ and hye is thy ryght hande.

thy ryghteousnes and equite is the habita-cion of thy seate/ mercy and truely go before thy face.

Blessed is the people/ O Lorde/ that can reioyse in the / & walketh in the lyght of thy countenance.

their helpe is in thy name/ all the daye longe / and thou thy ryghteousnes they shall be exalted.

for thou art the glory of their strength/ & thou thy fauour shalt thou lye vnto oute horns.

the Lorde is our defence/ and the / holy one of Israel is our kynge.

thou spakest somtyme in bysons vnto thy sapientes/ and saydest: I haue layd helpe vpon one that is myghty/ I haue exalted one chosen out of the people.

I haue founde David my seruante/ with my / holy oyle haue I anoynted him.

My hand shall holde hym fast/ and myne arme shall strengthen hym.

the enemye shall not overcome hym/ & the sonne of wyckednes shall not hurte hym.

I shall smyte downe his foes before his face/ and plage them that hate hym.

My truely also & my mercy shall be with hym/ and in my name shall his / home be exalted.

I will set his hande in the see / and his ryght hande in the floudes.

he shall call me: thou art my father/ my God/ and the strength of my saluacyon.

And I will make hym my fyrst borne / hyer then the kynges of the earth.

My mercy will I kepe for him for euermore / and my couenaunt shall stande fast with hym.

His seide will I make to endure for euer/yee and his throne as the dayes of heauen.

But yf his chyldren forsake my lawe/ & walke not in my iudgements.

I fthey bryake myne ordynances / and kepe not my commaundementes.

I will vylet their offences with the rodde/ and their synnes with scourges.

Neuerthelesse/ my louing kindnes will I not utterly take from hym/ nee suffer my trueth to faile.

My couenaunt will I not bryake/ nor dysanulle the thyng that is gone out of my lyppes.

I haue sworn once by my holynesse/ that I will not faile David.

His seide shall endure for euer / and his seate also lyke as the sunne before me.

he shall stande fast for euermore as the moone/ and as the saythfull wynter in heauen. Selah.

But

But now thou forsakest & abhorrest thine anoynted/ and art displeased at hym.

thou hast turned backe the couenaunt of thy seruante / and cast his crowne to the grounde.

thou hast ouerthrowne all his hedges/ & broken downe his stronge holdes.

Al they that goo by/ spople him/ he is become a rebuke vnto his neyghbours.

thou setteest by the ryght hande of his ene-myes/ and madeest all his aduersaries to re-ioyse.

thou hast taken awaye the strength of his swerde/ and geuest him not victorie in the battayle.

thou hast put out his glory/ and cast his croune downe to the grounde.

the dayes of his youth hast thou shortened/ & couered him with dishonoure. Selah.

Lorde/ how longe wilt thou hye thy self:
for euer: shall thy wrath burne lyke fyre:

Remember how shorthe my time is/ hast thou made all men for naught: what mā is he that lyueth/ and shall not se death:

Maye a man deliuer his soule fro the hande of hell: Selah.

Lorde/ where are thy olde louing kindnesses / whych thou swore vnto David in thy treuty:

Remember Lorde the rebuke that I multitude of the people do vnto thy seruantes/and how I haue borne it in my bosome.

Whether with thine enemyes blaspheme the/ and slaunders the footeleppes of thine anoynted.

Chances be to the Lorde for euermore:
Amen: Amen.

The fourth treatise.

The xc. Psalme.

The complaynt of the vanyte of this present lyfe/and desyreth the fauour of God/ that he will vouchsafe to prosper the thynges which he goeth aboute.

A psalme of Moses the man of God.

Lorde thou art our refuge fro one generacyon to another.

Before the mountaynes were brought forth/ or euer the earth & the worlde were made / thou art God from euerlasting and worlde without ende.

thou turnest mā to destruction/ agayne/thou sayest: come agayne ye chyldre of mā.

for a thousande yeares in thy syght are as yesterdaye that is past / and lyke as it were a nyght watch.

As sone as thou scatterest them / they are euen as a shepe/ and fade awaye sodenly lyke the grasse.

In the morning it is grene and groweth

but

by/ but in the eueninge it is cut downe and wythered.

for we consume awaye in thy dyspleasure/ and are afrayed at thy wrathfull indi-gnacyon.

thou setteestoure misdeeds before the / & oute secrete synnes in the lyght of thy countenance.

for when thou art angrye/ all oure dayes are gone/ we brynge our yeres to an ende/as it were a tale that is tolde.

the dayes of oure age are. iij. score yea-res and ten: and though men be so stronge they come to. iij. score yeares / yet is their strength then but labour & sorrow: so soone passeth it awaye/ and we are gene.

But who regardeth the power of thy wrath/thy fearfull and terrible displeasure:

teach vs to nombe pure dayes / that we maye applye oure hertes vnto wysdome.

Turne the agayne (O Lorde) at the last / and be gracious vnto thy seruantes.

Satisfie vs with thy mercy/ and soone:
so shall we reioyse and be glad all the dayes of oure lyfe.

Comferte vs agayne / now after the tyme that thou hast plagued vs / and for the yeares wherin we haue suffered aduersyte.

Showe thy seruantes thy wo[r]ke/ and their chyldren thy glory.

And the glorious maiesty of the Lorde oure God be vpon vs: O prosper thou the wo[r]ke of oure handes vpon vs / O prosper thou oure handy wo[r]ke.

iii. Of David. Psal. xcii. xciii. & xciiii.

Yee with thine eyes shalt thou beholde/and se the rewarde of the vngodly.
For thou Lord art my hope / thou hast set thyne house of defence vnder myne.
There shall no euell happen vnto the / nether shall any plage come nye thy dwelling.
For he shall geue his angels charge ouer the / to kepe the in all thy wayes.
They shall beare the in their handes / that thou hurt not thy fote agaynst a stone.
Thou shalt go vpon the Lyon and Adder / the yonge Lyon and the Dragon shalt thou treade vnder thy fete.
Because he hath sett his loue vpon me / I shall deliuer him: I shall defende him / for he hath knowne my name.
When he calleth vpon me / I shall heare him: yee I am with him in his trouble / wher out I will deliuer hym / and bringe hym to honoure.
With longe lyfe will I satysfye him / and shewe him my saluacion.

The xcii. Psalme.

The Sabbath daye is a mete and due tyme to praise the Lord: because there is then leasure to thyne of his benefytes and to thank hym for the same.

A Psalme of the songe for the Sabbath daye.
It is a good thing to geue thanks vnto the Lord: and to synge praises vnto thy name / O most hyest.

To tell of thy louynge kyndnesse early in the mornynge / and of thy trueth in the night season.

Vpon an instrument of ten stringes / vpon the lute and with a songe vpon the harpe.

For thou Lord hast made me glad thow thy workes / and I will reioyse ouer thy ope-racion of thy handes.

O Lord / how glorious are thy workes / thy thoughtes are very depe.

An vnwysse man will not knowe this / and a foole will not vnderstande it.

a * An vnwysse man is he that is unfaithfull / an hypocrite / or
one that trusteth in himselfe.
Psalm. xxi. a. v. 1. a. v. 1. a. v. 1.

That the vngodly are grene as the grasle / that all the workes of wyckednes do florish / to be destroyed for euer.

But thou Lord O most hyest / abydest in thy house without end.

For to thyne enemyes / O Lord / to thyne enemyes shall perishe / and all the workes of wyckednes shall be scattered abroade.

But my home shall be exalted like a home of an vngodly / and shall be anoynted with fresh oyle.

a * An vnwysse man is he that is unfaithfull / an hypocrite / or
one that trusteth in himselfe.
Psalm. xxi. a. v. 1. a. v. 1. a. v. 1.

Myne eye also shall see the lust of myne enemyes / and myne eare shall heare his despite of the wycked that ryle vpon agaynst me.

The ryghteous shall flourish lyke a palme tree / and growe lyke a Cedre of Libanus.

Such as be planted in the house of the Lord / be fructifull / plenteous and grene.

That they maye shewe / how true is the Lord my strength is / and that there is no bryngh-tuoulnesse in him.

The xciii. Psalme.

The psalme is the mactate of God for the creation of the world / and ouerthrowing of fearfull & myg-htie people.

The Lord is kynge / and hath put on glorious apparell / the Lord hath put on his apparell / and gyrded him selfe with strength: he hath made the rounde world so sure / that it can not be moued.

From that tyme forth hath thy seate bene prepared / thou art from euerlastynge.

The floudes arysse / O Lord / the floudes lyft vp their noyse / the floudes lyft vp their waues.

The waues of the see are myghtie / & rage horribly: but yet the Lord that dwelleth on hye / is myghtier.

Thy testimonies / O Lord / are very sure / holynesse becommeth thyne house for euer.

The xciiii. Psalme.

The psalme is for the iudgment of God agaynst the wycked oppressours of the innocent and afflicte persones.

Lord God / to whom vengeance be: I longeth: thou God to whom vengeance belongeth / shewe thy selfe.

Arise thou iudge of the world / & rewarde the proude after their deservynge.

Lord how longe shall the vngodly / how longe shall the vngodly triumphe?

How long shall all wycked doers speake so disdaynfully / & make soch proude boasting?

They shall come downe thy people / O Lord / and trouble thyne heritage.

They murdure the wyddowe & the strager / and put the fatherlesse to death.

And yet they saye: Cusse the Lord / sayth not / the God of Jacob regardeth it not.

Take heede / ye vnwysse amonge & people:
O ye fooles / when will ye vnderstande?

He that planted the eare / shall he not heare?
he that made the eye / shall he not see?

He that nutureth the Deachen / and teacheth a man knowledge / shall he not be punish?

The Lord knoweth thy thoughtes of men / that they are but vayne.

Blessed is the man / whom thou leuest / O Lord / and teachest him in thy lawe.

That thou mayest geue hym patience in tyme of aduersyte / vnto the ende of his dayes.

For the Lord will not sayle his people / neither will he forsake his inheritance.

And why? iudgment shall be turned agayne vnto ryghteousnesse / and all soch as be true of hert shall folowe it.

Who ryleth vp with me agaynst the wycked? who taketh my parte agaynst the cruel doers?

iii. Of David. Psal. xcvi. xcvi. & xcviij. Lxxxiij.

doers? If the Lord had not helped me / my soule had almost bene put to silence.
When I sayde: my fote hath slippyd / thy mercy / O Lord / helpe me vp.

In the multitude of the sorowes that I had in my herte / thy comforters haue refreshed my soule.

Whyt thou haue encreased to do with a scole of wyckednesse / which ymagineth myschefe in the lawe.

They gather them together agaynst the soule of the ryghteous / and condemne the innocent bloude.

But the Lord is my refuge / my God is strength of my confidence.

He shall recompence the their wyckednesse / & destroye them in their awne malice: yee the Lord oure God shall destroye them.

The xcvi. Psalme.

The psalme is for the earnest prayynge of God.

Come let vs praise the Lord / lett vs herely reioyse in the strength of oure saluacion.

Let vs come before his presence with thankesgyuyng / and shewe oure selfe glad in hym with psalmes.

For the Lord is a greate God / & agreat kyng aboue all goddes.

In his hysse are all the cornes of the earth / and the strength of the hylls is his also.

The see is his / for he made it / & his handes prepared the drye lande.

O come / lett vs worshype & bowe downe oure selues: Lett vs knele before the Lord oure maker.

For he is oure God: and we are the people of his pasture / and the shepe of his handes.

a * This temptacion was at xvi.

Todaye yf ye will heare his voyce / harden not your hertes / as when ye prouoked in tyme of temptation in the wyldernes.

Where your fathers tempted me / proued me / and sawe my workes.

Forty yeres longe was I grieved with ge-neracioun / & sayd: they euer erre in their hert / they beuery haue not knowne my wayes.

Therefore I sayde vnto them in my wrath / that they shoulde not enter in to my rest.

The xcviij. Psalme.

The psalme is for the praye of God. A prophecie of the kyngdome of Christ and of the increase therof.

Synge vnto the Lord a new songe / synge vnto the Lord all the whole earth.

a * That is

Synge vnto the Lord / and praise his name / be tellynge of his saluacion from daye to daye.

Declare his honour amonge the Deachen / and his wonders amonge all people.

a * That is the same
psalme.

For the Lord is greate / and can not wor-thyly be prapled: he is more to be feared then all goddes.

As for all the goddes of the Heathen / they be put to shewe / but it is the Lord that made the heauens.

Chanckelgyuyng and worshippe are before him / power & honour are in hym Sanctuary.

Ascribe vnto the Lord / O ye kynredes of the Deachen / ascribe vnto the Lord wor-shipe and strength.

Ascribe vnto the Lord the honour of his name / by synge presentes / and come in to hym courte.

O worshipe the Lord in the beautye of holynesse / lett the whole earth stande in awe of hym.

Tell it out amonge the Deachen / that the Lord is kynge: and that it is he which hath made the rounde world so fast / that it can not be moued / and how that he shall iudge the people rightously.

Let the heauens reioyse / and let the earth be glad: lett the see make a noyse / yee and all that therein is.

Let the felde be ioyfull and all that is in it / lett all the trees of the wood leape for ioye.

Before the Lord / for he commeth: for he commeth to iudge the earth: yee with ryghtuoulnesse shall he iudge the world / and the people with his trueth.

The xcviij. Psalme.

There propheciech he also of Christ / in whom God wonderfully shewed his power vnto the saluacion of his chosyn / and to the ouerthrowing of their enemyes and of vayne supersticyons: vnto the knowledgyng of whom he also exhorteth.

The Lord is kynge / the earth maye be glad therof: yee the multitude of the fleshe maye be glad therof.

Cloudes & darchnesse are rounde aboute him / rightuoulnesse and iudgment are the ha-bitacion of his seate.

Where goeth a fyre before hym / to burne by his enemyes on euery syde.

His lychtenynges geue thyne vnto the world / the earth seeth it and is afrayed.

The hylls melt like ware at the presence of the Lord of the whole earth.

The very heauens declare his ryghtuousnes / and all the people se his glory.

Confounded be all they that worshippe ymages / and deliue in their doles: worshipe him all ye goddes.

Sion heareth of it & reioyscheth: yee & all the daughters of Iuda are glad because of thy iudgements / O Lord.

For thou Lord art the most hyest ouer all the earth / thou art exalted farre aboue all goddes.

a * That is
the same

For the Lord is greate / and can not wor-

tuoulnesse shall he iudge the world / and the people with his trueth.

Ye that loue the Lorde / se that ye hate the thynge which is euill: the Lorde preferreth the soules of his sayntes: he shall deli-uer them from the hande of the vngodly.

There is synginge by a lyght for the ryghtious: and a topfull gladnesse for such as be true hearted.

Reioyce therefore in the Lorde / ye ryghtious: and geue thakes for a remembrance of his holynesse.

The xcviij. psalme.
The here declarerth the same þe hys in the psalme next before and in the xcvi.

A psalme.
Synge vnto the Lorde a new songe / for he hath done maruelous thynges.

With his awne ryght hande & with his holy arme hath he gotten the victory.
The Lorde hath declared his sayng health / & his ryghteousnes hath he openly shewed in the syght of the heathen.

He hath remembred his mercy and truely toward the house of Israel: * so that all the endes of the worlde se the sayng health of our God.

Shewe poure selues topfull vnto þe Lorde all ye landes / synge / reioyce / & geue thakes.
Praise the Lorde vpon the harpe / synge to the harpe in a psalme of thankesgeyng.
With trumpettes also and shawmes: & shewe poure selues topfull before the Lorde the kynge.

Let the see make a noyse and all þe therein is: see the whole worlde / & all þe dwell therein.
Let the floures clappe their handes / and let all the hylls be topfull together:

Before the Lorde / for he is come to iudge the earth.

Yee with ryghteousnes shall he iudge þe worlde / and the people with equite.

The xcix. psalme.
This psalme declarerth the goodnes and power of God for the benefytes and widders done to Israel.

The Lorde is kynge / he & people neuer so vnpatient: he sitteth vpon the che-rubins: be the earth neuer so vnquiete.
The Lorde is greates in Sion / & hys aboue all people.

Let men geue thakes vnto thy great and wonderfull name / for it is holy.

The kynges power loueth iudgment / thou preparerest equyte / thou executest iudgment and righteousness in Jacob.

Magnifye the Lorde oure God / fall downe before his * fote stole / for he is holy.

Moses and Aaron amonge his prestes / &
Samuel amonge such as call vpon his name:

These called vpon the Lorde / & he hearde the.

He spake vnto them out of the cloudy pp-er: when they kepte hys testimonies / and the lawe that he gaue them.

Thou heardest them (O Lorde oure God) / thou forgavest them (O God / and punyshedst their awne inuencions.

Magnifye the Lorde oure God / & worship him vpon his holy hyll / for the Lorde oure God is holy.

The c. psalme.
A mocyon to the people of God in þe holy assemble.
A psalme of praise.

Be topfull in God (all ye landes) / serue the Lorde in gladnes / come before his presence with toye.

Be ye sure / that the Lorde he is God: It is he that hath made vs / and not we oure selues: we are but his people / & þe shepe of his pasture.

Go poure waye into his gates then in thankesgeyng / and into his courtes with praise / be thankfull vnto hym / and speake good of his name.

For the Lorde is gracious / hys mercy is euerslastyng / and his treuth endureth from generation to generation.

The ci. psalme.
The prometh that he wyl requyte the offyce of a godly and holy prince: that is to saye / that he wyl both lyue innocently / and also oppresse the euill & avenge the good.

A psalme of David.
A songe shalbe of mercy & iudgment / vnto the (O Lorde) wyl I synge.

Let me haue vnderstandyng in the waye of Godlynesse: vntill the tyme that thou come vnto me: and so shall I walke in my house with an innocent herte.

I wyl take no twiched thinge in hande / I hate þe synne of vnfaythfulnesse / it shall not cleue vnto me.

* I towarde herte shall departe from me /
I wyl not knowe a twiched personne.

Who so pruely sleaungeth his neyghbourre / him wyl I be rope: who so hath a proude loke & an hye stomache / I maye not awaye with him.

Myne eyes shal loke for such as be faith-full in the lande / that they maye dwell with me: & who so ledeyth a godly lyfe / shalbe my seruaunt.

There shall no discreatfull personne dwell in my house: he that telleth lyes shall not tary in my sight.

I shall soone destroye all the vngodly of the lande / that all wicked doers maye be roted out of the cytie of the Lorde.

The ch. psalme.

A belement bewayping of the myserie of the holy people / in which they were almost oppressed with innumerable iniuries of the borderers and people that dwelt next vnto the m. at their returne fro Babilon when they came to repaire the temple & cytie of Ie-rusalem.

A prayer

A prayer of the afflicte / when he was in

Care my * prayer / O Lorde / and lett

Hyde not thy face from me in þe tyme

My herte is smytten downe and wythered lyke grasse / so þe I forget to eate my * b:ed.
For the voyce of my gromyng / my bone wyl scarce cleue to my flesh.

I am become lyke a pellycane in þe wast-ernes / and lyke an hole in a broken wall.
I wake / and am euil as it were a sparrow that requy-
sytynge alone vpon the house toppe.

Myne enemyes reuple me all the daye longe / they laugh me to scoone / & are sworne together agaynst me.

I eate ashes with my b:ed / and mingle my b:rynke with wepyng.

And that because of thynne indignacyon & wrauth / for thou hast taken me by / and cast me awaye.

My dayes are gone lyke a shadowe / and I am wythered lyke grasse.

But thou / O Lorde / endurest for euer / and thy remembrance shal endure out all generacyons.

Thynges therefore & haue mercy vpon Sion / for it is tyme to haue mercy vpon her / see the tyme is come.

And why: thy seruantes haue a loue to her stones: & it pitieth the to se her in the dust.

The heathen shall feare thy name / O Lorde / and all the kynges of the earth thy maiesty.

For the Lorde shall buyde by Sion / and shall apere in his glory.

He turneth him vnto the prayer of the poore desolate / & despyeth not their desyre.

This shalbe wyrtten for those that come after / that the people whych shalbe doome / maye praise the Lorde.

For he loketh downe from his Sanctuary / out of the heauen both the Lorde beholde
the earth.

That he maye heare the mourninges of the lych as he is in captiuite / and deliuer the chyldren of death.

That they maye preach the name of the Lorde in Sion / & his worship at Ierusalem.

When the people are gathered together /
I & the kyngdomes also to serue the Lorde.

He hath brought downe my strenght in my iourney / and shortened my dayes.

Yet wyl I saye: O my God / take me not awaye in the myddell of myne age: as for thy reares / they endure thowow out all generacyons.

Thou Lorde in the begynnyng hast layed the foundacyon of the earth / and the heauens are the workes of thy handes.

* They shal perishe / but thou shalt endure: & they all shal waxe olde as doth a garment / and as a vesture shalt thou chaunge them / & they shalbe chaunged.

But thou art the same / & thy reares shall not faile.

The chyldren of thy seruantes shal cry-me / & their sede shal prospere in thy sight.

The ciiij. psalme.
The prayeth the goodnes of God toward me / which hath forgyneth them their synnes and aboundantly distributed vnto them wo:ldly goodes.

Of David.
Praise the Lorde / O my soule / and all þe is within me praise hys holy name.
Praise the Lorde O my soule / and forget not all his ben. fytes.

Whych forgyneth all thy synnes / & hea-leth all thynne infirmities.

Whych saureth thy lyfe from destruccyon / and crowneth the with mercy / and iourynge kyndnesse.

Whych satisfieth thy desyre with good thynges / makinge the yonge and lusty as an eagle.

The Lorde executeth ryghteousnesse and iudgment / for all them that suffre wronge.

He shewed his wayes vnto Moses / & hys workes vnto the chyldren of Israel.

The Lorde is full of compassion and mercy: * longe sufferyng / & of great goodnesse.

He wyl not alwaye be chydnyng / nether wyl he kepe his anger for euer.

He hath not dealt with vs after oure syn-nes / nether rewarded vs according to oure wickednesse.

For loke how hye the heauen is in comparison of the earth / so greates is his mercy also toward them that feare him.

Loke how wyde the east is from þe west / so farte hath he let oute synnes from vs.

Yee like as a father pitieth his awne chyldren / euen so is the Lorde mercyfull vnto the that feare hym.

For he knoweth wherof we be made / he remembreth that we are but dust.

What a man in his time is but as is grasse / and flourisheth as a floure of the feld.

For as soone as the wynde goeth ouer it / it is gone / and the place therof knoweth it no more.

But the merciful goodnesse of the Lorde endureth for euer and euer / vpon them that feare him / and his righteousness vpon their chylders chyldren.

Such as kepe his couenaunt / & thynke upon his commaundementes to do them.

The Lorde hath prepared hys seate in heauen / and his kyngdome ruleth ouer all.

¶ praye the Lorde ye angels of his / ye be myghte in strength / fulfylling his commaundement that men maye heare the voyce of his wordes.

¶ praye the Lorde all ye his hostes / ye seruauntes of his / that do his pleasure.

¶ speake good of the Lorde all ye woꝝches of his / in every place of his domynion: praye thou the Lorde / O my soule.

The. ciii. Psalme.

¶ praye the Lorde for the creaſon of all thynges / for his good gouernance therof.

¶ praye the Lorde O my soule: O Lorde my God / thou art become excedyng gloꝝious / thou art clothed wth maiesty and honoure.

Thou deckest thy self wth lycht / as it were with a garment / thou spreadest out thy heauen lyke a curtayne.

Thou boldest it aboue wth waters / thou makest the cloudes thy charer / & goest upon the wynges of the wynde.

¶ Thou makest thyne angels spytes / and thy ministers flammes of fyre.

Thou hast layed the earth upon her foundacion / that it neuer moueth at any tyme.

Thou couerest it wth the depe lyke as with a garment / so that the waters stande aboue the hylls.

But at thy rebuke they fle / at the voyce of thy thonder they are aſtayed.

¶ (Then are the hylls ſene alofte / and the balles beneth in their place which thou hast appoynted for them.)

Thou hast set them their boundes / which they maye not paffe / that they turne not a-gayne to couer the earth.

Thou causest the welles to ſprynge by amonge the balles / & the waters to runne amonge the hylls.

¶ That all beastes of the ſelde maye haue dryncke / & that the wilde aſſes maye quenche their thyrſte.

Aboue vpon the hylls haue the foules of the ayre their habitacion / and ſynge amonge the braunches.

Thou waterest the hylls from aboue / the earth is fylled wth the frutes of thy woꝝches.

Thou byngest forth graſſe for the catell / and grene herbes for the ſcrupce of men.

Thou byngest fode out of the earth: wyne to make glad the herte of man / oyle to make hym a chearfull countenance and byrd to strengthen mans herte.

The trees of the Lorde are full of ſap / and the trees of Libanus which he hath plantyd.

¶ There make the byrdes their nestes / and the fyre hylls are a dwelling for the byrdes.
The hylls are a refuge for the wilde oates / and so are the stony rockes for the conyes.

Thou hast appoynted the Moone for certaine seasons / the Sunne knoweth hys goinge & comynge.

Thou makest darcknesse / that it maye be night / wherin all the beastes of the forest do moue.

¶ Yet and the yonge Lyons which roare after their praye / and seke their meate at God.
But when the sunne aryleth / they get them awaye together / & lye them downe in their dens.

¶ Then goeth man forth to his woꝝche / and to till his lande vntill the euenynge.

¶ O Lorde / how manifoꝝde are thy woꝝches / right wysely hast thou made them all: y^e the earth is full of thy ryches.

So is this grete & wyde ſee alſo / wher-in are thynges crepyng innumerable / both small and grete beastes.

¶ There go the ſhyppes ouer / and there is that the Leuita / whome thou hast made / to take his payme therein.

¶ They waite all vpon the / that thou mayest geue them meate in due season.

¶ When thou geuest it them / they gather it: when thou openest thyne hande / they are fylled wth good.

But when thou hydest thy face / they are forſouful: yf thou takeſt awaye their breath / they dye / & are turned agayne to their duſt.

Agayne / when thou lettest thy breath goo forth / they are made / and so thou renewest the face of the earth.

¶ The gloꝝious maiesty of the Lorde endu-reth for euer / & the Lorde receyvethe in hys woꝝches.

¶ The earth trembleth at the loke of him / he both but touch the hylls and they ſmoke.

¶ I will ſynge vnto the Lorde as longe as I lyue / I will praye my God whyle I haue my breath.

¶ That my woꝝdes myght please him / for my loye is in the Lorde.

¶ As for ſynners / they ſhall be conſumed out of the earth / and the vngodly ſhall come to an ende: but praye thou the Lorde / O my soule.

¶ praye the euerlaſtynge.

The. c. Psalme.

¶ The moueth to praye God in thy holy aſſembly at the Arche of testam^{te} / and receyvethe his benefites done to the holy people.

¶ Geue thanckes vnto the Lorde / and call vpon his name: tell the people what thynges he hath done.

¶ Let your ſonges be of hym: praye him / and

and let your talke be of all hys wonderous woꝝches.

¶ Geue hys holy name a good report / lett their hertes reioyce that seke the Lorde.

¶ Seke the Lorde / and hys strength / seke his face euermore.

¶ Remembere the maruelous woꝝches that he hath done / his wonders & the iudgmentes of his mouth.

¶ O ye ſede of Abraham hys ſeruaunt / ye chyliden of Jacob hys choſen.

¶ He is the Lorde oure God / whose puniſh-mentes are thowowt out all the woꝝde.

¶ He is alwaye myndfull of hys couenaunt / and promyſe that he made to a thousand ge-neracions.

¶ Yet the couenaunt that he made wth Abraham / and the oath that he ſware vnto Isaac.

¶ And apoynted the ſame vnto Jacob for a lawe / and to Israel for an euerlaſtynge teſtament.

¶ Sayenge vnto the wyll I geue the lande of Canaan / the lot of your heritage.

¶ When there was yet but a ſewe of them / and the ſtraungers therein.

¶ What tyme as they went fro one nacion to another / from one kyngdome to another.

¶ He ſuffered no man to hurte them / but re-proued euen kynges for their ſakes.

¶ Touch not myne anoynted / do my prophtes no harme.

¶ Morouer he called for a dath vpon the lade / & deſtroyed all the prouyſe of bread.

¶ But he had ſent a man befoze them / euen Joseph which was ſolde to be a bond ſer-uaunt.

¶ They hurte hys ſete in the ſtocke / the burden of hys yon pearled hys herte.

¶ Vntill the tyme that his woꝝde came / and till the woꝝde of the Lorde had tryed him.

¶ Then ſent the kyng & cauſed him to be de-liuered / the prince of the people had leſt him go.

¶ He made him Lorde of his houſe / & ruler of all his ſubſtance.

¶ That he might enſourme his princes after his will / & teach his ſenatours wyſdome.

¶ Israel alſo came in to egypt / and Jacob was a ſtraunger in the lande of Ham.

¶ But he increaſed his people excedyngly / and made them ſtronger then their enemies.

¶ Whose hert turned / ſo that they hated his people / & dealt vntuly wth his ſeruauntes.

¶ Then ſent he Moſes hys ſeruaunt / and Aaron / whom he had choſen.

¶ Theſe vpon his tokens amonge them / and wonders in the lande of Ham.

¶ He ſent darcknesse and it was darcke / for they were not obedyent vnto hys woꝝde.

¶ He turned their waters in to bloude / and ſlew their fyſhe.

¶ They had brought forth frogges / yee eue in their kynges chambers.

¶ He ſpake the woꝝde / and they came all maner of ſpyes and lye in all their quarters.

¶ He gaue them hayle ſtones for rayne / and flammes of fyre in their lande.

¶ He ſmote their vineyardes & fyge trees / & deſtroyed the trees & were in their coaſtes.

¶ He ſpake the woꝝde / & there were grethoppers and catyppylers innumerable.

¶ Theſe ate vpon all the graſſe in their lande / and deuored their frutes of the grounde.

¶ He ſmote all the fyrſt borne in the land / euen the cheſe of all their ſubſtance.

¶ He brought them forth wth ſyluer and golde / there was not one feble perſonne amonge their trybes.

¶ Egypte was glad of their departynge / for they were aſtayed of them.

¶ He ſpyed out a cloude to be a couerynge / and fyre to geue lycht in the night reaſon.

¶ At their deſyre / there cam quayles / & he fylled them wth the bread of heauen.

¶ He opened the rocke of ſtone / and waters ſlowed out: ſo that ryuers ranne in the wylderneſſe.

¶ For why? he remembred hys holy promyſes which he had made vnto Abraham hys ſeruaunt.

¶ Thus he brought forth hys people wth loye / and his choſen wth gladneſſe.

¶ And gaue the landes of the Heathen / where they toke the labours of the people in poſſeſſion.

¶ That they myght kepe his ſtatutes / and obſerue his lawes. Praye the euerlaſtynge.

The. cxi. Psalme.

¶ The people of God / ſparpled a troſſe for their ofrices in dyuers and ſtraunge contryes / & hoſt them ſelues to praye the goodnes of God / whych is euer ready for them that ſeake hym: And do alſo receyve the ſynnes of their elders and forſathers: and agayne / the benefytes of God / which he ſheddeth vpon them: both in the wyldernes and after in the lande of Canaan.

¶ praye the euerlaſtynge.

¶ Geue thanckes vnto the Lorde / for he is gracyous / and hys mercy endureth for euer.

¶ Who can expreſſe the noble actes of the Lorde / or ſhewe forth all his praye?

¶ Bleſſed are they that allwaye kepe iudgment / and do ryghtyſhewneſſe.

¶ Remembere vs / O Lorde / accoꝝdyng to the fauoure & thou beateſt vnto thy people:

¶ O byſet vs wth thy ſauynge health.

¶ That we myght ſe the pleaſure of thy choſen / that we myght reioyce in the gladneſſe poſſeſſed of thy people / & geue thanckes wth hymne enherſtaunce.

¶ We haue ſynned wth our fathers / we haue done amys / we haue dealt wyckedly.

¶ We haue deſerued thy wrath / we haue griued thy holy ſpyte.

¶ We haue bene as filthy ſnowe / as wolle / as ſaffron.

¶ We haue bene as cleane ſnowe / as
wolle / as ſaffron.

wolle / as ſaffron.

wolle / as ſaffron.

¶ We haue bene as cleane ſnowe / as
wolle / as ſaffron.

v. Of David. Psal. cxij.

Dure fathers regarded not thy wonders in Egypt / they kepte not thy greate goodnesse in remembrance: but were disobedient at the see / euen at the reed see.

Nevertheless he helped the for his names sake / that he myght make his power to be knowne.

Herbusheth the reed see / and it was dryed by: so he led the thowow & depe as in a wyl-dernesse.

Thus he saved them from the hand of the hater / and deliuered them fro the hande of the enemye.

Exod. xij. g * As for those that troubled them the waters ouerwhelmed the / there was not one of them left.

Then beleued they in his worde / & sange prayse vnto hym.

But within a while they forgot his woꝝ / and wolde not abyde his counsell.

A lust came vnto them in the wyldernes / so that they tempted God in the deserte.

Yet he gaue them their desyre / and sent the enough at their wylles.

They angred Moses in tentes / & Aaron the saynte of the Lorde.

So the earth opened & swalowed by Ba- chan / & couered the congregation of Abiram.

The fyre was kindled in their company / the flame bent by the vngodly.

Exod. xxxij. a. * They made a calfe in Horeb / and woꝝ-hipped the molten ymage.

*b. * That is.* Thus they turned their * gloꝝy in to the synnitude of a calfe / that eateth haye.

Exod. xxxij. a. They forgot God their Sauour / whych had done so greate thynges in Egypte.

*c. * That is.* Wonderous woꝝkes in the lade of * Ham / and fearfull thynges in the reed see.

Exod. xxxij. a. So he sayde he wolde haue destroyed the / had not Moses his chosen name before him in that gappe: to turne a waye his wrathful indignacion / lest he shoulde destroye them.

Yet they thought scoone of that pleasaunt lande / and gaue no credence vnto his worde.

But murmured in their tentes / and her-kened not vnto the voyce of the Lorde.

Then lyft he by his hande agaynst them / to ouerthrowe them in the wyldernes.

To cast out their lade amonge the nations / and to scatter them in the landes.

They ioynd the selues vnto Baalpeor / and ate the offerynges of the deede.

Thus they prouoked hym vnto anger in their awne inuencion / and the plage was greate amonge them.

Exod. xxxij. a. * Then stode by pharahe & executed iustice / and so the plage ceased.

And that was counted vnto him for rygh-tyuousnesse / amonge all posterity for evermore.

They angred hym also at the waters of stryke / so the Moses was punyshed for their sake.

Because they prouoked his spere / and he tolde them plainly with his lippes.

Neither destroyed they the heathen / as the Lorde commaunded them.

But were mingled amonge the heathen / and learned their woꝝkes.

In so much the they woꝝshipped their yma- ges / which turned to their awne decaye.

Yet they offered their sonnes & their daugh- ters vnto beuells.

And shed the innocēt bloude of their sonnes & of their daughters / whom they offered vnto the ymages of Canaan / so that the lande was defyled with bloude.

Thus were they stayned with their awne woꝝkes / and wente a whoꝝunge with their awne inuencion.

Therefore was the wrath of the Lorde kindled agaynst his people / in so much the he ab- horred his awne inheritance.

And gaue them ouer in to the hnde of the heathen / & they that hated them / were lordes ouer them.

Their enemyes oppressed them / and had them in subieccion.

Many a tyme byd he deliuer the / but they prouoked him with their awne inuencion / & were brought downe for their wickednesse.

Nevertheless when he sawe their aduer- sitye / he herde their complaynte.

He thought vpon his couenaunt / and py- tied them / according vnto the multitude of his mercyes.

Yet he made all those that had lead them awaye captiue / to pytie them.

Deliver vs / O Lorde our God / and ga- ther vs from amonge the heathen: that we maye geue thanckes to thy holy name / and make our boast of thy prayse.

Blessed be the Lorde God of Israel fro euer- lasting & world without ende / & let all peo- ple saye: Amē / Amē. Praise the euerlasting.

To the chaunter/ a Psalme of Dauid.

Helde not thy tongue/ O God of my prayse.

For the mouth of the vngodly / pre & the mouth of the disceatfull is opened bpd me/ & speake agaynst me in false tongues.

They cōpase me aboute in wordes of hatred/ & fyghe agaynst me without a cause.

For I loue that I had vnto the/ they take how my contrary parte/ but I geue my selfe vnto prayer.

Thus they rewarde me euell for good / & hatred for my good wyl.

Set an vngodly mā to be ruler ouer hym/ & let Satan stande at his ryght hande.

When sentence is geue bpd hym/ let hym be condempned/ and let his prayer be turned in to synne.

Let his dayes be fewe/ & his bishopricke let another take.

Let his chyldren be fatherlesse / & his wyfe a wydowe.

Let his chyldre be bagaboundes/ & begg their bread: lett them seeke it / as they that be destroyed.

Let the extorcioner consume all that he hath/ and let straungers spoyl his laboure.

Let there be no man to perpe/ ner to haue compassion vpon his fatherlesse chyldren.

Let his ende be destruction/ & in the nexte generacion let his name be cleane put out.

Let the wyckednesse of his fathers be had in remembrance in the syght of the Lorde/ & let not the synne of his mother be done awaye.

Let the alwaye be before the Lorde/ but as for the memoriall of them selues / lett it perishe from out of the earth.

And that because his mynde was not to do good/ but persecuted & pooze helplese / & hym that was vexed at the herte / to slaye hym.

His deyle was in cursynge / and therefore shall it happen vnto hym: he loued not blessing/ and that shall be farre from hym.

He clothed hym selfe with cursynge lyke as with a tapyment: yee it wente in to his bowels lyke water/ & lyke oyle in to his bones.

Let it be vnto hym as the clocke that he hath vpon hym/ and as the gyrdle that he is gyrded with all.

Let it thus happen from the Lorde vnto myne enemies / & to those that speake euell agaynst my soule.

But deale thou with me/ O Lorde God/ accorpyng vnto thy name/ for sweete is thy mercy.

O deliuer me/ for I am helplese & pooze/ and my herte is wounded within me.

I go hence lyke the shadowe that departeth/ & am bypse a waye as the grethoppers.

My knees are weake thowow fastynge/ my flesh is dried by for want of fatnesse.

I am become a rebuke vnto the/ they loke vpon me and shake their heades.

Helpe me/ O Lorde my God / oh saue me for thy mercyes sake.

That they maye knowe/ how that this is thy hande/ and that thou hast done it.

Though they curse/ yet blesse thou: and let the be confounded/ that ryle by agaynst me/ but let thy seruaunt reioyse.

Let myne aduersaries be clothed with their awne shame/ as with a cloake.

As for me/ I will geue thanches vnto the Lorde wth my mouth/ & prayse hym amonge the multitude.

For he standeth at the ryght hande of the pooze/ to saue hym fro such as condempne his soule.

The. cx. Psalme.

The deserveth the kyngdom of Christ/ which begane in the world & is come through the whole world: shall haue the ouerhande tyll his enemies be made his foete stole.

The. Psalme of Dauid.

Lorde sayde vnto my Lorde: Set thou on my ryght hande/ & vntyll I make thynne enemies thy foete stole.

The Lorde shall sende the rodde of thy power out of Sion/ be thou ruler euen in the myddest amonge thynne enemies.

In the daye of thy power shall thy people offer the freewill offering with an holy wyse/ the dewe of thy byrth is of the wombe of the morninge.

The Lorde swaie/ & will not repete: thou art a yest for euerafter/ order of Melchisedec.

The Lorde vpon thy ryght hande / shall smyte euen kinges in the daye of his wrath.

He shall be iudge amonge the heathen/ he shall fyll them with deed bodies/ & smyte in sonder the heades ouer diuerse countreys.

He shall byrynke of the broke in the waye/ therefore shall he be left by his head.

The. cxi. Psalme.

The power/ wysdome/ & goodnes of God are prayse/ which are euident to be by his warkes and actes done amonge the people of Israel.

Prayse the euerafastynge.

I will geue thanches vnto the Lorde wth my whole herte: secretly amonge the faithfull/ & in the congregacyon.

The warkes of the Lorde are great/ sought out of all the that haue pleasure therein.

His wyche is worthy to be prayed and had in honoure/ and his ryghtuousnesse endureth for euer.

The mercifull and gracious Lorde hath so done his maruelous warkes / that they ought to be had in remembrance.

He geueth meate vnto them / that feare hym/ he is euer myndfull of his couenaunt.

He sheweth his people the power of his warkes/ that he maye geue them the heritage of the heathen.

The warkes of his handes are verryte and iudgment/ all his commaundementes are true.

They stande fast for euer and euer / & are done in trueth and equitye.

He sent redemption vnto his people / he hath commaunded his couenaunt for euer/ holy and reuerent is his name.

The feare of the Lorde is the beginning of wysdome. a good vnderstandynge haue all they that do therafter: the prayse of it endureth for euer.

The. cxii. Psalme.

The declareth the perpetuall prosperite of the which feare and worship God/ and confesse his goodnes.

Prayse the euerafastynge.

Lessed is the mā that feareth the Lorde/ & hath greates deyle in his commaundementes.

His seede shall be myghty bpd earth/ the generacyon of the faithfull shall be blessed.

Ryches and plentyousnesse shall be in his house/ & his rightuousnesse endureth for euer vnto the godly there aryseth by ryght in the darknesse: he is mercifull / louynge and rightuous.

Well is he that is mercifull / and lendeth gladly/ & pōndreth his wordes in discrecion.

For he shall neuer be moued/ & rightuous shall be had in an euerafastynge remembrance.

He wyl not be afayed for any euell thynges/ his herte standeth fast/ and beleueth in the Lorde.

His herte is stablished. he will not shyne/ he/ vntill he se his deyle bpd his enemies.

He hath sparled abroade / & geue to the pooze/ his ryghtuous remembrance for euer/ his home shall be exalted with honoure.

The vngodly shall se it/ and it shall greue hym/ he shall gnash with his teeth & consume awaye/ & the deyle of the vngodly shall perishe.

The. cxii. Psalme.

The mōeth is the prayse of God/ because he seyth all thynges/ and ruleth and gouerneth them after his wyl and pleasure.

Prayse the euerafastynge.

Praise the Lorde (O ye seruautes) & prayse the name of the Lorde.

Blessed be the name of the Lorde/ from this tyme forth for euer more.

The Lordes name is worthy to be praysed/ from the ryngynge by of the Sunne vnto the goinge downe of the same.

The Lorde is hye aboue all heathen / & his glorye aboue the heauens.

Who is lyke vnto the Lorde oure God/ that hath his dwellyng so hye/ whych hym bleseth hym selfe / to beholde that is in heauen and earth?

Which taketh by the symple out of dust/ and lyteth the pooze out of the myre.

That he maye sett hym amonge the prynces/ euen amonge the prynces of his people.

Which maketh the bare womā to be a house/ and to be a toful mother of chyldre.

Prayse the euerafastynge.

The. cxiii. Psalme.

The briefly recyeth the greatest and cheape myracle which the Lorde dyd for Israel/ when he brought them out of Egypt.

When Israel came oute of Egypt/ & the house of Jacob fro amonge that strange people.

Juda was his Sanctuary / Israel his domynion.

He se saue that / and fled / Jordan turned backe.

The mountaynes skipped like rammes/ and the lytle hylls lyke ponge shepe.

What ayled the/ & thou see / & thou fled. and thou Jordan / that thou turnedest backe?

Ye mountaynes / that ye skipped lyke rammes: & ye lytle hylls / lyke ponge shepe?

The earth trembled at the presense of the Lorde/ at the presense of the God of Jacob.

Which turned the harde rocke in to a standynge water / and the flynst stone in to a springynge well.

This is expounded in the psal. lxxv. a. howbeit some of those excellently lerned vnderstande it of the shakynge/ tremblynge & scapynge of the hyll Sion / when the Lorde came downe to geue the lawe. Erob. x. c. d. tohuu shakynge (saye they) was not onely lene in that hyll alone/ but also in all the hylls nye vnto hyt.

The rock turned in to water/ yee & sate. Erob. x. c. d. Num. xx.

The. cxv. Psalme.

The prayeth God for the glorie of his names sake / forther his people/ to thynke that it maye be euidently knowne that he alone is God/ and the Jokes of the heathen but vayne thynges.

What vnto vs/ O Lorde/ not vnto vs/ but vnto thy name geue the prayse / for here is thy louynge mercy & faithfulness.

Wherefore shall the heathen saye: where is the God of the Lord?

O let thy louynge mercies come vnto me /

Thou thyngest thy commaundement hast

Yee I am wylter then & aged / for I kepe

O stablissh me accorde vnto thy worde / that I maye lyue / & let me not be disapoy-

Solde thou me by / and I shall be safe / pēe
I shall euer be talkynge of thy statutes.
Thou treadest downe all them & departe fro thy statutes / for they ymagin but discreate Thou puttest awaye all the bngodly of the earth lyke bzaude / therefore I loue thy testimonies.
My flesch trembleth for feare of thee / and I am afrayed of thy iudgmentes.

I deale wth the thinge & is lauffull & right /
O geue me not ouer vnto mine cōpyssours.
Be thou swerthe for thy seruante to do him good / & the proude do me no wronge.
Myne eyes are wayted a waye with lo-kyng for thy health / and for the worde of thy ryghteousnesse.
O deale wth thy seruante accorde vnto thy louynge mercy / & teach me thy statutes.
I am thy seruante / O graunte me vnderstādyng / that I maye knowe thy testimonies.
It is tyme for thee / O Lorde / to laye to thyne hāde / for they haue destroyed thy lawe.
For I loue thy cōmaundementes about golde and precious stone.
Therefore holde I strenght all thy commaundementes / and all falsse wayes I vterly

Thy testimonies are wonderfull / therfore doth my soule kepe them.
When thy worde goeth forth / it geueth

I cpe my mouth and declare in my bryth / for I desyre thy cōmaundementes.
O loke thou vpon me / & be mercifull / as

O dye my goynge after thy worde that shed / chylde & those toward and thyrpe outspred.

The songe of the sheares.
Except the Lorde buyde the house / their laboure is but lost that buyde it.

Except the Lorde kepe the cyrpe / the watchman waketh but in dayne.

It is but lost labour that ye rise by early / and take no rest / but eate the bredde of carefullnesse / for loke to whom it pleaseth hym / he geueth it in slepe.

Lo / chylde / and the frute of the wombe are an herytage & gyft / & cometh of God.

Lyke as the arrowes in the hande of the gyuant / even so are the yonge chylde.

Happy is the man / that hath his quyer full of them / they shal not be ashamed / when they speake with their enemyes in the gate.

The cxxviii. Psalme.
That feareth God shal do well and fortunately at all seasons.

The songe of the sheares.
Lesse are all they that feare God / Lorde / and walke in his wayes.

For thou shalt eate the laboures of thyne awne handes / O well is the / happy art thou.

Thy wyfe shalbe as a frutesfull vyne by the walles of thy house.

Thy chylde lyke the Olive braunches rounde aboute thy table.

Lo / thus shall the man be / blessed / that feareth the Lorde.

The Lorde shall so blesse the out of Sion / that thou shalt se Jerusalem in prosperyte

all thy lyfe longe.
Yee that thou shalt se thy chylde chylde / and peace vpon Israel.

The cxxix. Psalme.
Although the wycked do longe and greatly persecute the good / yet shal they not preyale ouer them / for they shal as the length perche when the godly shal be in safete.

The songe of the sheares.
Any a tyme haue they fought agaynst me from my youth by (maye Israel now saye.)

Yee / many a tyme haue they fought a-gaynst me from my youth by / but they haue not overcome me.

The flowers plowed vpon my backe / & and made longe folowes.

Lo /

But the righteous Lorde hath betwixt the pocke of the vngodly in peres.

Let them be confounded & turned backward / as many as haue euyl will at a * Sion

Let them be euen as the haye vpon the house toppes / whych wythereth afore it be plucked by.

Wherof the mother spelleth not his hande / neither he that byndeth by the sheaves / hys holome.

So & they which go by / saye not so much as God prospereth you / we wish you good lucke in the name of the Lorde.

The cxxx. Psalme.
An earnest prayer of him that is oppressed with ad-uersitie for his sinnes / & that sorely hopeth to obayne of God vnto the forgiveness of his synnes & deliuerance from hys aduersities.

The songe of the sheares.
Out of the * depe call I vnto the /

O Lorde / Lorde heare my voyce.
Oh let thyne eares consyde well the voyce of my complaynte.

If thou Lorde wilt be extreme to marche what is done a myse / Oh Lorde who maye abide it.

But there is mercy wth the / that thou mayest be feared.

I loke for the Lorde / my soule doth waite for hym / and in his wynde is my trust.

My soule doth patiently abyde God / Lorde / from the one morninge to the other.

Let Israel trust in the Lorde / for with the Lorde there is mercy & plenteous redemption.

And he shal redeme Israel fro al his synnes.
The cxxxi. Psalme.
The which he was not proude / but meake & lowly.

The songe of the sheares.
Lorde / I am not hye mynde / I haue no proude lokes.

I do not exerceyse my selfe in greates matters / which are to hye for me.

But I restrayne my soule & kepe it lowe / lyke as a childe that is weened from his mother / for my soule is euyl as a weened childe.

Let Israel trust in the Lorde / from thys tyme forth for euermore.

The cxxxii. Psalme.
The which that the prosperyte of Chyldes hyng-dome dureth euer / that God is alwaye present wth his churche and congregacyon / & hys both be vnder the figure of David & of the arche abyding in Sion.

The songe of the sheares.
Lorde / remembre David & al his trouble.

How he swoze vnto the Lorde / and howe he bothe vnto the almyghty one of Jacob / I wyll not come within thy tabernacle of my house / nor clyme by in my bedde.

I wyll not suffer myne eyes to slepe / nor myne eye liddes to slumber.

Wntill I fynde out a place for God / Lorde / an habytacyon for the myghty one of Jacob.

Lo /

Lo we hearde of the same at Ephrata / & founde it in the wod.

We wyll go in to his tabernacle / and fall downe before his fote stole.

Arise / O Lorde / into thy * resting place / thou and the arche of thy strength.

Let thy Preestes be clothed with righte-ousnesse / and let thy sayntes reioyse.

For thy seruant Dauides sake * turne not awaye the presence of thyne anoynted.

The Lorde hath made a saythfull oath vnto David / he shal not synne from it. Of the frute of thy body shal I set vpon thy seare.

If thy chylde wyll kepe my couenaunt / my testimony I shal lerne the / their chylde also shal lerne the / thy seate for euermore.

For the Lorde hath chosen Sion / to be an habytacyon for hym selfe / hath he chosen her.

This shalbe my rest / here wyll I dwell / for I haue a dellyte therin.

I wyll blesse her bytalles with increase / and wyll satysfye her pooze with bred.

I wyll decke her Preestes with healt / & her sayntes shal reioyse and be glad.

There shal I make the * home of Da-uid to floze / I haue ordened a lanterne for myne anoynted.

As for hys enemyes / I shal clothe them in shame / but vpon him selfe shal his crowne floze.

The cxxxiii. Psalme.
The prayse of the vyrgyne & concorde of bretheren.

The songe of the sheares
of David.
Beholde / how good & saythfull a thyng it is / brethren to dwell together in vnyte.

It is lyke the precyous * oynement vpon the heade / that ramedowne vnto the beerd / euen vnto Tayons beerd / and wente

downe to the sayntes of his clothynge.
Like the dewe of Hermon / which fell vpon the hyll of Syon.

For there the Lorde promysed hys blessynge / and lyfe for euermore.

The cxxxiiii. Psalme.
The which he prayeth to praye and praye God / yee and that also in the nyght.

The songe of the sheares.

Beholde / O prayse the Lorde / all ye ser-uautes of the Lorde / yee that by night stande in the house of the Lorde.

O lyft vp youre handes in the Sanctuary / and prayse the Lorde.

The Lorde that made heauen and earth blesse the out of Sion.

The cxxxv. Psalme.
The moueth men to the prayse of God / and declareth hys power by his workes / as well by those whych he cury where doeth / as by those wherwith he pecunary auanced Israel.

Prayse the euerlastynge.

Prayse the name of the Lorde / prayse it O ye seruantes of the Lorde.

Ye that stande in the house of the Lorde / in the court of the house of oure God.

O prayse the Lorde / for the Lorde is gracious / O synge prayse vnto hys name / for it is louely.

For why the Lorde hath chosen * Jacob vnto hym selfe / & Israel for his awne possession / knowe that the Lorde is greates / that oure Lorde is aboute all goddes.

Wha soeuer the Lorde please that both he in heauen and in earth / in the see / and in all deape places.

He byngeth forth the cloudes from the endes of the worlde / he turneth the leghenynges vnto rayne / byngynge the wyndes out of their treasuryes.

Which smote the fyrst borne of Egypte /

both of man and of beast.
He hath sent tokens and wonders into the middest of the / O thou lande of Egypte / vpon Pharao and all his seruantes.

Which smote dyuers nacyons / and strowe myghty wynges.

Schonyng of the Amorytes / O the kyng of Basan / and all the kyngdomes of Canaan.

And gaue their lande for an heritage / for an heritage vnto Israel his people.

Thy name / O Lorde / endureth for euer / for both thy memory / O Lorde / from one generacyon to another.

For the Lorde wyll auenge his people / & be gracious vnto hys seruantes.

As for the ymages of the heathen / they are but siluer and golde / the worke of mens handes.

They haue mouthes / & speake not / eyes

haue they / but they se not.
They haue eares / and yet they heare not / neither is there any bytch in their mouthes.

They that make them / are lyke vnto the /

& so are all they that put their trust in them.
Prayse God / O Lorde / house of Israel / prayse the Lorde / ye house of Aaron.

Prayse the Lorde / ye house of Levi / ye feare the Lorde / prayse the Lorde.

Prayse the Lorde out of Sion / which dwelleth at Jerusalem.

Prayse the euerlastynge.

The cxxxvi. Psalme.
To thynke vnto the prayse of God / he reherceth the myracles of the creatyon / and also those whych he afte dyd in the reuengynge of Israel.

Geue thankes vnto the Lorde / for he is gracious / and hys mercy endureth

for euer.
Geue thankes vnto the God of all god-des / for hys mercy endureth for euer.

O thanke

b. Of David. Psal. cxliij. & cxliiij.

The cxliij. Psalme.

The hereth how he prayed unto the Lorde when he fledde fro Saul into the cave: & thought that he shoulde there have bene taken.

The instruction of David: a prayer when he was in the cave.

I crye unto the Lorde with my voyce / I see even unto the Lorde do I make my supplycation.
I pout out my complaynte before hym / and shewe hym of my trouble.

When my sprete is in hevynelle / for thou knowest my path: in þe waye wherein I walke have they preyely layed a snare for me.

I loke upon my right hande / & se: there is no man that will know me.

I have no place to fle unto / no man careth for my soule.

Therefore do I crye unto the Lorde / & saye: thou art my hope and my portoun in the lande of the livinge.

Consider my coplaynte / for I am brought to the very lowe.

Deliver me from my persecuters / for they are to stronge for me.

Wynge my soule out of prison / that I maye geue thanckes unto thy name: whych thynges thou wilt graunte me / then shall the ryghteous rejoyce unto my company.

The cxliij. Psalme.

This psalme & the psalme next before are bothe
of one tenour: & made bothe of one thyng.

A psalme of David.

Heare my prayer: O Lorde / confounde my besyng: and were me for thy treuth & ryghteousnesse sake.

And entre not into judgement with thy servaunt / for in thy sight shall no man ly-upnge be justyfied.

For the enemye persecuteth my soule / he smyteth my lyfe downe to the grounde / he layeth me in the darke: as the deede men of the worlde.

Therefore is my sprete vexed within me /
& my herte within me is desolate.

Yet do I remembre þe thynges past / I muse upon all thy workes / & I extolpe my self in the workes of thy handes.

I stretch forth myne handes unto the / my soule cryeth unto the out of the thynges lande. Selah.

Hear me / O Lorde / & that soone / for my sprete wareth saynte: hyde not thy face fro me / lest I be lyke unto them that go downe into the graue.

Let me heare thy lownges hyndnesse by thynges in the morning / for I am my trust: before thou me the waye that I shoulde walke in / for I left by my soule unto the.

Deliver me / O Lorde / fro myne enemyes / for I rejoyce unto the.

The cxliij. Psalme.

Teache me to do the thynges that pleasest the / for thou art my God: let thy lowng sprete leade me forth unto þe lande of ryghteousnesse.

Quench me / O Lorde / for thy names sake / and for thy ryghteousnesse sake bringe my soule out of trouble.

And of thy goodnesse scatter myne ene-myes abroad: & destroye all them that bere my soule / for I am thy servaunt.

The cxliij. Psalme.

The prayeth and thancketh God: because he had delivered hym from all jeopardyes and purpunge of his enemyes: and promoted hym to be a kynge: and also made his kyngdome to growe with abundance of all thynges.

A psalme of David.

Blessed be the Lorde my refuge / whych teacheth my handes to warre / and my fingers to fyght.

My hope and my castell / my defence and my deliverer / my hyde in whome I trust / whych governeth the people & is under me.

Lorde what is man / that thou hast soch respect unto hym: O the sonne of man / that thou so regardest hym.

Man is like a thinge of naught / his tyme passeth awaye lyke a shadowe.

Bowe thy heauens / O Lorde / & come downe / touche the mountaynes / that they maye smoke with all.

Send forth the lyghtnyng & scatter the /
oute out thynne: & consume them.

Sende downe thynne hande from above / deliver me / & take me out of the great waters / from the hande of strange chyldren.

Whose mouth talketh of banyte / & their ryght hande is a right hande of falsede.

That I maye synge a new songe unto the / O God / and synge prayles unto the upon a ten stringed lute.

Thou that geuest victorye unto kynges / & hast delivered David thy servaunt from the pawll of the swerde.

Sau me / & deliver me from the hande of strange chyldren / whose mouth talketh of banyte / and their right hande is a right hande of falsede.

That oure sonnes maye growe by as the ponge plantes / & that oure daughters maye be as the polished cornes of the temple.

That oure garners maye be full and plenteous with all maner of store: & oure shepe maye bringe forth thousandes and hundredes thousandes in oure byllages.

That oure oxen maye be stronge to laboure / that there be no myschaunce / no decaye / & no complaynyng in oure stretes.

Happye are the people that be in soche a case: yee blessed are the people / whych haue the Lorde for their God.

The cxliij. Psalme.

b. Of David. Psal. cxlv. & cxlvij. Cxxxij.

The cxlv. Psalme.

The goodness of God is so abundantly geuen unto all men: that all thynges prayse it: cheafly the godly / whych are largelyst indued therewith.

A psalme of David.

I will magnifye the Lorde my kynge /
I will prayse thy name for ever & ever.

Every daye will I geue thanckes unto the / & prayse thy name for ever & ever.

Great is the Lorde / & maruelous worthy to be prayed: there is no ende of his great-nesse.

One generacyon shall prayse thy workes unto another / and declare thy power.

As for me I will be talkyng of thy work-es / thy glory / thy prayse / and wonderful workes.

So that men that speake of the myght of thy maruelous actes / & tell of thy greatnes.

The memorall of thynne aboundant kynd-nes shall be shewed / & men shall synge of thy righteousnesse.

The Lorde is gracious & mercifull / to ge sufferynge / and of greates goodnesse.

The Lorde is lowng unto every man / & hys mercy is over all hys workes.

All thy workes prayse the Lorde / and thy sayntes geue thanckes unto the.

They shewe the glory of thy kyngdome / & talke of thy power.

That thy power / thy glory & myghtnesse of thy kyngdome myght be knowne unto men.

Thy kyngdome is an everlastyng kyngdome / and thy domynion endureth thow out all ages.

The Lorde upholdeth all soche as shulde fall / and lyfeth by all those that be downe.

The eyes of all waite upon the / and thou geust them their meate in due season.

Thou openest thynne hande / and fyllest all thynges / I praynge with plenteousnesse.

The Lorde is righteous in all his wayes / and holy in all his workes.

The Lorde is nye unto them that call by hym / & he heareth their crye / and helpeth them.

The Lorde preserveth all them that love hym / but scattereth abroad all the vngodly.

My mouth shall speake the prayse of the Lorde / and let all flesh geue thanckes unto his holp name for ever and ever.

any chyld of man / for there is no helpe in the.

For when the bryeth of man goeth forth / he shall turne agayne to his earth / and so all his thoughtes perylle.

Blessed is he that hath the God of Jacob for his helpe / & whose hope is in the Lorde.

Which made heauē & earth: & see / & all therin is / which keepeth his promise for ever.

Which helpeth them to ryght that suffre wryng / which fedeth the hongrye.

The Lorde lowseth men out of prison / &
Lorde geueth sight to the blynde.

The Lorde helpeth the by that are fallen / the Lorde lowseth the ryghteous.

The Lorde careth for the straungers / he defendeth the fatherlesse and widdowe: as for the waye of the vngodly / he turneth it vpside downe.

to synge prayles unto oure God: yee a lopyfull and plesant thinge is it to be thankfull.

gather to gether the outcastes of Israel.

He healeth the contrarye in herte / and bryn-deth by their woundes.

He telleth the nombre of the starres / and callethe them all by their names.

Great is oure Lorde / and great is hys power: yee hys wysdome is infynite.

The Lorde setteth by the meke / and bryn-deth the vngodly downe to the grounde.

I synge unto the Lorde with thankelge-uynge / synge prayles upon the harpe unto oure God.

Which couereth the heauen with cloud / prepareth rayne for the earth / & maketh the grasse to growe upon the mountaynes.

Which geueth fodre unto the cattell / & fedeth the yonge rauens that call upon him.

Behold no pleasure in the strength of an horse / nether delgeth he in any mans legges.

But the Lorde delgeth in them & feare hym / and put their trust in his mercy.

Prayse the Lorde O Jerusalem / prayse
the God O Syon.

The Proverbs Chap. ij. & iij.

Wysdome is to be embraced & set by. An aduocate tous woman is to be eschued.

The ij. Chapter.

My sonne / p^rethou wilt receaue my wordes / & kepe my commaundem^e tes by the / & thyne eare may herke vnto wysdome / applye thyne eare then to vnderstandynge. For yf thou cryest after wysdome / & callest for knowlege: yf thou seekest after her as after money / & desyrest for her as for treasure: then shalt thou vnderstande the feare of the Lord / & fynde the knowledge of God. For it is the Lord that geueth wysdome / out of his mouth cometh knowledge & vnderstandynge. He preserveth the welfare of the righteous / & defendeth the that walke innocently: he p^rethem in the right path / & preserveth the waye of his faynctes. When shalt thou vnderstande rightiousnesse / iudgement & equite / yee & every good path. If wysdome entie into thyne herte / & thy soule desyre in knowledge: then shalt counsell p^reserue the / & vnderstanding shall kepe the. What thou mayest be deli-uered fro the euell waye / & fro the man that speaketh from ward things. From soche as leane & lye strete / & walke in the wayes of darchenesse: which reioyse in doinge euell / & desyre in wicked thinges: whose wayes are croked / and their pathes sclaunderous.

What thou mayest be deliuered also fro the strange woman / & fro her that is not thyne a wome: which geueth sweete wordes / fo: she the husband of her youth / & forgetteth the covenant of her God. For her house is encignen vnto death / & her pathes vnto hell.
All they that go in vnto her / come not agayne / neither take they holde of the waye of lyfe.
What thou mayest walke in the good waye / & kepe the pathes of the righteous. For the righteous shall dwell in the lande / & the innoc^e tes shall remayne in it: but the vngodly shall be roted out of the lande / and the wicked shall be taken out of it.

The commaundementes of God must be diligently regarded and observed.

The iij. Chapter.

My sonne / forget not my lawe / but se that thyne herte kepe my comaundementes. For they shall prolonge thy dayes & yeaues of thy lyfe / & bringe thee peace. Let mercy & faythfulnes neuer go fro the: bynde the about thy necke / & wryte them in the tables of thyne herte.
So shalt thou fynde fauoure & good vnderstandynge in the syght of God & men. Put thy trust in the Lord: in all thyne herte / and leane not vnto thyne awne vnderstandynge.
In all thy wayes haue respecte vnto hym / & he shall ordeyne thy goynges. Be not wise in thyne awne conceite / but feare the Lord / & departe from euell: so shall thy nauell be whole / & thy bones stronge.

Honoure the Lord in thy substance / & in the fyrthynges of all thyne encrease: so shall thy barnes be fylled with plenteousnesse / & thy p^resses shall flowe ouer with swete wyne. My sonne / desyre not the chastenynge of the Lord / neither saynte wh^e thou art rebuked of hym.
For whom the Lord loueth him he chasteneth: & yet deliueyth him eu^e as a father in his awne sonne. Well is him that findeth wysdome / & obtayneth vnderstandynge / for the getting of it is better then any marchandise of syluer / & the p^rofit of it is better then golde.
Wysdome is more worth then p^recyous stones / & all the thynges that thou canst desyre / are not to be compared vnto her. Vpon her right hande is longe lyfe / & vpon her left hande is riches & honour. Her wayes are pleasant wayes / & all her pathes are peaceable. She is a tree of lyfe to them that laye holde vpon her / and blessed are they that kepe her fast.

With wysdome hath the Lord layed the foundacion of the earth / & the founndament of hath he stablished the heauens. He ordeyned wysdome & deapthes break vp / & the cloudes droppe downe of the dew. My sonne / let not these thynges departe fro thyne eyes / but kepe my lawe & my counsell: so shall it be lyfe vnto thy soule / & grace vnto thy mouth.
When shalt thou walke safely in thy waye / & thy fote shall not stumbe. If thou slepest / thou shalt not be afraied / but shalt take thy rest & slepe sweetely. Thou needest not to be afraied of any sodaine feare / neither for the violente rushynge in of the vngodly / when it cometh. For the Lord shall beseege the / and kepe thy fote that thou be not taken.
Refuse not to do good vnto hym that shuld haue it / so longe as thyne hand is able to do it.
Saye not vnto thy neyghbour: go thy waye & come agayne / to morowe I will geue the:
where as thou hast now to geue hym.
Intende no hurte vnto thy neyghbour: seing he hopeth to dwell in rest by the. Strype not lightly with any man / where as he hath done the no harme. Followe not a wycked man / & chouse none of his wayes: for the Lord abhorreth the frowarde / but his sekete is amonge the rightuous. The curse of the Lord is in the house of the vngodly / but he blesseth the dwellynges of the rightuous.
As for the scornefull / he shall laugh them to scorne / but he shall geue grace vnto the lowly.
The wyse shall haue honour in possession / but shame is the promociō that foloweth shall haue.

Wysdome and her frutes and wayes ought to be sought.

The iij. Chapter.

My sonne / geue heed vnto my wysdome / & bowe thyne eare vnto my p^rudence: that thou mayest re-garde good counsell / & thy lippes maye kepe nouttoure. For the lippes of an harlot are a dropping honny combe / & her throte is softer then oyle. But at the last she is as bitter as worme wood / & as sharpe as a two edged swerde. Her fete go downe vnto death / & her stappes pearle thornes vnto hell.
She regardeth not the path of lyfe / so vnto the last are her wayes / that thou canst not know them. Heare me therfore / & my sonne / and departe not from the wordes of my mouth.
Kepe thy waye farre fro her / & come not nye the doores of her house. What thou geue not thyne honour vnto another / & thy yeaues to the cruell. What other men be not filled with thy goodes / & that thy laboures come not in a strange house. Yee p^rethou mourne not at the last / when thou hast spent thy body and goodes / & then saye: Alas / why hated I nouttoure: why dyed my herte despitte correccion? Wherfore was not I obediēt vnto the boyce of my teachers / & hearkened not vnto the that instructed me? I am come almost into all my fortune / in the midst of the multitude & congregaciō. Whynke of the matyr of thyne awne well / & of the ryuers that flowe out of thyne awne spring. Let thy welles flowe out abrode / that there may be ryuers of water in the stretes: but let them be only thyne awne / and not straungers with the.
Let thy well be blessed / & be glad with the wyfe of thy youth. Louynge is the hynde / & frendly is the Koo: let her byelles alwaye satisfie the / & holde the euer content with her loue. My sonne / why wilt thou haue pleasure in an harlot / & embrace the bosome of another woman? For euery mans wayes are open in the syght of the Lord / & he pond^reth all their goynges. The wyckednesse of the vngodly shall catch hym selfe / & towe p^r snares of his awne synnes shall he be trapped. Because he wolde not be reformed / he shall dye: and for his greute folyshnesse he shall be destroyed.

Of Salomon. Chap. iij. v. & vi. Cxxxij.

Hear / O ye chyldren / the fatherly exhortaciō / & take good heed / that ye maye lerne wysdome. Yee shall geue you a good rewarde / yf ye will not forsake my lawe. For wh^e I my selfe was my fathers deare sonne / & tenderly beloued of my mother / he taught me also / sayinge: Let thyne herte receaue my wordes / kepe my commaundementes / & thou shalt lyue. Get the wysdome / get the vnderstandynge / forget not the wordes of my mouth / & thyne kepe not from them. Forsake her not / & the shall p^reserue the: loue her / and the shall kepe the. The chiefe poynte of wysdome is / that thou be wyllynge to opeyne wysdome / and before all thy goodes to gett the vnderstandynge. Make moch ocher / & the shall promote the: yee yf thou embrace her / the shall bringe the vnto honour.

She shall make the a gracious head / & garnish the with a crowne of gloze.
Heare my sonne / & receaue my wordes / that the yeaues of thy lyfe maye be many. I will showe the the waye of wysdome / & leade the in the right pathes. So that yf thou goest therin / thou shalt not straytenesse bynde the:
and when thou runnest / thou shalt not fall.

Take fast holde of doctryne / let her not go: kepe her / for she is thy lyfe. Come not in the path of the vngodly / and walke not in the waye of the wycked. Eschue it / and go not therin: departe asyde / & passe ouer by it.
For they can not slepe / except they haue first done some myschete: neither take they any rest / except they haue fyrst done some harme.
For they eate the bred of wyckednesse / and dryncke the wyne of robbery. The path of the rightuous shyneth as the lycht / and is euer brighte and brighte vnto the perfecte daye. But the waye of the vngodly is as the darchenesse / wherin men fall / or they be aware.

My sonne / marche my wordes / & encline thyne eare vnto my sayynges. Let the not departe from thyne eyes / kepe the euen in the night / myddest of thyne herte. For they are lyfe vnto all those that fynde them / & health vnto all thei bodies. Kepe thyne herte with all dyligence / for there vpon hangeth lyfe. Put awaye from the a frowarde mouth / and let the word of thy lippes of sclaunder be farre from the. Let thyne eyes beholde the thyng that is right / & let thyne eye liddes loke straght before the.
Pondre the path of thy fete / so shall all thy wayes be sure. Come not asyde / neither to the right hande nor to the left / but with hold thy fote from euell.
Be warreth to eschue the wyckednesse. He that deth prodigalitye & wastfull spendynge. He wylleth vs to lyue of oure awne laboures. When must I leave thei synnes.

The v. Chapter.

My sonne / p^rethou be swerthe for thy neyghbour / thou hast fastened thyne hand with another man: yee
thou art bounde with thyne awne wordes / & taken with thyne awne speache.
Wherfore / my sonne / do thyss: dyscharge thy self / for thou art come into thy neyghbours daunger. Good thy waye then sonne / & intreate thy neyghbour: let not thyne eyes slepe

The southfull & rough is pyched and styred to warre. The scymatthe is rep^roued. Aduouty ought to be earnestly auoyded.

The vi. Chapter.

My sonne / p^rethou be swerthe for thy
neyghbour / thou hast fastened
thyne hand with another man: yee
thou art bounde with thyne awne
wordes / & taken with thyne awne speache.

treate thy neyghbour: let not thyne eyes slepe
eg^r. ner

ner thynne eye lyddes flouber. Same thy seife as a doo fro the hande / & as a byrde fro the hande of the fouler. So to the Gummert (thou flogard) confydre her wayes / & leme to be wylle. She hath no gyde / no teacher / no leder: yet in the Sommer she prouydeh her meate / & gathereth her fode to gether in the haruest. * How longe wilt thou slepe / thou flogard man? When wilt thou aryse out of thy slepe? Yee slepe on styll a lytle / flouber a lytle / folde thynne handes to gether yet a lytle / & thou mayest slepe: so shal pouerte come into the as one & trauapleth by the waye / & neceite like a weapened ma. A dyssembling person / a wycked man goeth to a frowarde mouth / he wyndeth to his eyes / he tokeneth to his fete / he poynteth to his fyngers he is euer ymagynynge myschefe & frowardnesse in his herte / & causeth dyscorde. Therfore shal his destruction come hastily vpon him / & he shal be all to broken / & not be healed.

There be fyve thynges which the Loyde hateth / and the seuenth he utterly abhorreth: A proude loke / a dyssembling tonge / handes & fode innocet bloude / an herte & goeth about to wycked ymagynacyons / fete that be swyft in rennyng to do myschefe / a false wytnesse that byngeth by lyes / & soch one as toweth dyscorde amonge brethren. A sonne / kepe thy fathers commaundementes / & forsaake not the lawe of thy mother. But the by together in thynne herte / & bynde the aboute thy neck. That they may leade the where thou goest / & preserve the when thou art a slepe / & & when thou awakest / thou mayest talke of the. For the commaundement is a lanterne / and the lawe a lyght: yee chaſtenyng & nourture is the waye of lyfe: that they may kepe the fro the euill woman / & fro the flatterynge tonge of the harlot: & thou wilt not after her beauty in thynne herte / & lest thou be takē to her saye lohes. An harlot will make a man to begg his byed / but a married womā wyl hunt for & pycpous lyfe. Make a man take fyre in his bolome / & his clothes not be byt: & can one go vpon hoate coales / & his fete not be hurte? Euen so / whoſoeuer goeth in to bys neighbours wyfe / & toucheth her can not be bngilty. Men do not bitterly despise a thefe / that stealeth to satisfy his soule / when he is hongry: but yf he may be gottē / he restozeth agayne leuentymes as moche / or els he maketh recompense with all & good of his house. But who so comitteth aduonty with a woman / he is a foole / & byngeth his lyfe to destruction. He getteth him selfe also shame & dishonour / soch as shal neuer be put out. For & gelously & wrath of & mā will not be intreated / no though thou woldest offre him greate gifts to make amēdes / he will not receaue the.

God ought to be feared and honoured: & his commaundementes ought to be kept: & wanton appetites and desyres ought to be shunned.

The vij. Chapter.

Manne / kepe my wordes / & lape up my commaundementes by the. Kepe my commaundementes & my lawe / eue as & apple of thynne eye / & thou shalt lyue. Wynde the vpon thy fyngers / & wyte the in the table of thynne herte. Saye vnto wysdome: thou art my syler / & call vnderstandynge thy kynswoman: that she may kepe the fro the straunge woman / & fro the harlot which geueth swete wordes. For out of the wyndowe of my house I looked thowow & treaſure / & behelde the simple people: & amonge other yonge folkes I spied one yonge soole goynge ouer the stretes / by the corner in & waye toward the harlottes house in the twilight of the euenynge / when it beganne now to be nyght and darcke. * And beholde / there mett hym a woman in an harlottes apparell (a dysceatfull / wanton & an vnstedfast womā: whose fete coude not abyde in the house / now is she without / now in the stretes / & lurketh in euery corner) she caught the yonge man / & bydd hym / & was not aſhamed sayynge: I hadde a howe to paye / & this daye I persoume it. Therfore came I forth to mete the / that I myght seke thy face / and so I haue founde the. I haue deckt my bed with couerynges & clothes of Egypte. My bed haue I made to smell of Myrrour / Aloes / and Cynamon. Come / lett vs lye together / and take oure pleasure tyll it be daye lyght. For the good man is not at home / he is gone farre of. He hath taken the bagge of moneye with him: who can tell when he cometh home? Thus with many swete wordes she ouercame hym / and with hert flatterynge lippes she wanne hym.

Immedyately he folowed her / as it were an ore led to the slaughter / & lyke as it were to the stockes / where foles are punyſhed / so longe tyll she had wounded hym lyuer with her dart: lyke as yf a byrde had ed to & snare / not knowynge that the parell of his lyfe lyeth ther vpon. Heare me now therfore / O my sonne / and marke the wordes of my mouth. Let not thynne herte wandre in her wayes / & be northou dysceaued in her pathes. For many one hath she wounded and cast downe / & many a stronge man hath she slayne. Her houses is the waye vnto hell / where men go downe into the chambers of death.

The people of the wysdome of God.

The viij. Chapter.

Wise

Wisdomme cryeth: both not vnderstandig put forth her voyce: Standeth she not in the hye places in the stretes and wayes: both she not crye before the whole cite / and in the gates wheremen go out & in: It is thou / O ye men (sayeth she) whom I call: vnto you (O ye chyldren of men) I crye: vpon my voyce. Take hede vnto knowledge / O ye ignoraunt / be wylle in herte / O ye foles. Geue eare / for I wyl speake of greate matters / & open my lippes to tell thynges that be ryght. For my throte shalbe talking of the trouth / & my lippes abhorre vngodlynesse. All & wordes of my mouth are righteous / there is no frowardenesse nor falsede therein. They are all playne to loche as wyl vnderstande / and ryght to them that fynde knowledge. Becauſe my doctrine tharfore / & not silver: my knowledge / more then fyne golde. For wysdome is more worth then pycpous stones / & all the thynges that thou canst desyre / are not to be compared vnto it.

I wysdome haue my dwelling in knowledge / & prudent counsell is myne aune. With me is the feare of the Loyde / and the eschuyng of euell. As for pryde / dysdayne / & euell waye / & a mouth that speaketh wicked thynges / I utterly abhorre the. I can geue counsell / & be a gyde: I haue vnderstandynge / I haue strength. Chozow me / & I wyll reygne thowow me / & I wyll make tust lawes. Chozow me / & Loydes beare rule / & all iudges of & earth execute iudgement. I am louynge vnto those that loue me / & they that seke me early / shal fynde me. Riches and honoure are with me / & pyc excellent goodes & ryghtuousnes. My faute is better then golde and pycpous stone / & myne encrease more worth then fyne syluer. I walke in the waye of ryghtuousnes / & in the strete of iudgement.

That I may sende prosperite to those that loue me / & to encrease their treasure. * The Loyde him selfe had me in possession in & begynnynge of his wayes / or euer he beganne his workes afozetyne. I haue bene ordeined fro euery thing / & fro the begynnynge or euer the earth was made. When I was bozne / there were nether depthes nor springes of water. Before the foundacions of the mostaynes were layed / & before all hylles I was I bozne. The earth & all that is vpon the earth was not yet made / no not & groſſe it self. For when he made the heauens / I was present: when he sett by the depthes in ordre: when he hanged the cloudes aboue: when he fastened the springes of the depe: when he shut the see within certayne boundes / & the waters shuld not go ouer their marches. When he layed the foundacions of the earth

I was with him / & ordynge all thynges / & desyryng dayly / & reioyng all waye before him. As for the rounde compasse of his worlde / I make it tustall: for my desyre is to be amonge the chyldren of men. Therfore herke vnto me / O ye chyldren / for blessed are they that kepe my wayes. O geue eare vnto nurture / be wylle / & refuse it not. Blessed is the man that heareth me / watching dayly at my gates / & geuynge attendaunce at & postes of my doores. For who so fyndeth me / & synneth lyte / & shal obtayne fauour of & Loyde. But who so offendeth agaynst me / hurteth his aune soule. All they that hate me / are the louers of death.

The ix. Chapter.

Wysdome moueth all men to embrace her. The property of a wyse.

Wysdome hath buydd her selfe an house / & hewen out & feul pylers: she hath hylled her wynter / & poured out her wyne / & prepared her table. She hath sent forth her maydes to crye vpon & hyest place of & cite: who so is ignoraunt / let hym come hither. And to the vntowle she sayde: O come on your waye / & eate my byed / & dryncke my wyne / which I haue poured out for you. For sake ignoraunce / & ye shal lyue: and se that ye go in the waye of vnderstandynge. Who so reproveth a scozefull personne / getteth hym selfe dyshonour: and he that rebuketh the vngodly / slayneth hym selfe. Reproue not a scozefull / lest he owe the euill wyll: but rebuke a wyse man / & he wyl loue the. Geue a dyscrete man but an occasiō / & he wyl be & wyse / & teache a ryghtuous man / & he wyl increase. The feare of the Loyde is the begynnynge of wysdome / & the knowledge of holy thynges is vnderstandynge. For thowow me thy dayes shalbe prolonged / & the yeares of thy lyfe shalbe many. If thou be wylle thy wysdome shal do thy selfe good: but yf thou thinkest scozefull therof / it shalbe thynne aune harme. A scozefull restlesse woman / full of wordes / & soch one as hath no knowledge / lyteth in & doores of her house vpon a stoule aboute in the cyte / to call soch as go by / and walke streyght in their wayes. Who so is ignoraunt / sayeth she / let hym come byther / and to the vntowle she sayeth: stollen waters are swete / and & byed that is pycely eaten / hath a good taste. But they confydre not that death is there / & that her gettes godowne to hell.

The x. Chapter.

In this Chapter & in all that folowe vnto the thynge / the wyse man exhorteth by dyuers sentences which he calleth Parables / to folowe vertues and de byes: And sheweth also what pycet cometh of wysdome / & what byndance pycadeth of folye.

The Proverbes Chapter. x. & xj.

A Wyle sonne maketh a glad father/ but an vndercrete sonne is the he-upness of his mother. Treasures that are wretchedly gotten/ profite no thinge/ but rightuousnesse deliuereth fro death. The Lorde will not let the soule of the rightuous suffre hunger/ but he putteth the vngodly from his desire. An idle hand maketh poore/ but a quicke labouring hand maketh ryche. Who so gathereth in Sommer/ is wyle/ but he that is slougly in haruest/bringeth him selfe to confusyon. Louyng and fauorable is the face of the rightuous/but the fowheade of the vngodly is past shame/a presumptuous. The memoypall of the fust shall haue a good repoyte/ but the name of the vngodly shall synche. A wyle man will receaue warnyng/ but a foole will so-uer. ¶ To wyche ner he synen in the face. He that lea-deth an innocent lyfe/ walketh surely/ but who so goeth a wryonge waye/ shall be knowne.
¶ He that syncheth with his eye/ will do some harme/ but he that hath a foolys mouth/shall be beaten. The mouth of a rightuous man is a well of lyfe/ but the mouth of the vngodly is past shame/ a presumptuous.
¶ Cypill will stereth by stryfe/ but ioue coue-reth the multitude of synners. In the lyp-pes of him that hath vnderstandyng a man shall fynde wysdome/ but the roode belongeth to the backe of the folysh. Wyle men laye by knowledge/ but the mouth of the folysh is rye destryck. The ryche mans goodes are his stryde holde/ but pouerte oppreseth the poore. The rightuous labourereth to doo good/ but the vngodly bletch his encrease vnto synne. To take hede vnto the chastenynge of nourtoure/ is the waye of lyfe/ but he that refuseth to be reformed/ goeth wryonge.
¶ Wylfullyng lyp-pes kepe haered secretly/ a he that speaketh any sclaunder/ is a foole. Where moche bablyng is/there must nedes be offence/ he that refrayneth hys lyp-pes is wylest of all. An innocent tonge is a noble treasure/ but the herte of the vngodly is no thinge worth. The lyp-pes of the rightuous fede a whole multitude/ but foles shal dye in their awne foly. The blyssyng of the Lorde maketh rich men/ as for carefull trauaple/ it doth nothinge therto. A sole doth wretchedly a maketh but a spozte of it/ neuerthelesse it is wysdome for a man to beware of soche.
He thynge that the vngodly are adrayed of/ shall come vpon them/ but the rightuous shall haue their desire. The vngodly is lyke a tēpest that passeth ouer/ a is no moze sene/but the rightuous remayneth sure for ever.
¶ As vnyger is to the teth/ and as smoke is vnto the eyes/ euen so is a slougly personne to the that sende him forth. The feare of the Lorde maketh a long lyfe/ but the feares of the vngodly shalbe shortned. The paciēt abydng of the rightuous shalbe turned to glad-nesse/ but the hope of the vngodly shal perishe.

The waye of the Lorde geueth a coage vnto the godly/ but it is a feare for wretched doers.
The rightuous shall neuer be ouerthrowen/but the vngodly shal not remayne in the lande.
The mouth of the iust will be talkyng of wysdome/ but the tonge of the frowarde shal perishe. The lyp-pes of the rightuous are occupied in acceptable thngs/ but the mouth of the vngodly taketh them to the wryth.

¶ The. xi. Chapter.
A false balaunce is an abhomynyon vnto the Lorde/ but a true weighte pleaseth him. Where pryde is/ there is shame also and confusion/ but where as is lowlynes/ there is mys-dome. The innocent dealynge of the iust shall lēde them/ but the vnfaithfulnesse of the despyers shalbe their awne destruccyon.
¶ Riches helpe not in the daye of vengeaunce/ but rightuousnesse deliuereth from death. The rightuousnesse of the innocent ozdyeth his waye/ but the vngodly shall fall in his awne wretchednesse. The rightuousnesse of the iust shall deliuer them/ but the despyers shalbe taken in their awne vngodlynesse.

¶ When an vngodly man dyeth/ hys hope is gone/ the confydēce of ryches shal perishe.
The rightuous shalbe deliuered out of trouble/ and the vngodly shal come in his stede.
Whow the mouth of the dyssembler is hys neighboures destruyed/ but whow knowledge shall the iust be deliuered. When he goeth well with the rightuous/ the cytye is mery/ and when the vngodly perishe/ there is gladnesse. When the iust are in wealth/ the citty prospereth/ but when the vngodly haue the rule/ it decayeth. A foole bringeth by a sclaunder of his neyghbour/ but a wyle mā will kepe it secrete. A dyssembler presson will dyscouer pzenynges/ but he that is of a faithfull herte/ will kepe counsell.
Where no good counsell is there the people decaye/ but where as many are that can geue counsell/ there is wealth. He that is suertye for a stranger/ hurteth him selfe/ but he that medleth not with suertye shal be sure.
A gracious womā manereth hys hys/ as for the myghtye/ they manereth ryches.
He that hath a gentile lyberall sto mark is mercyfull/ but who so hurteth his neyghbour/ is a tyrant. The labour of the vngodly prospereth not/ but he that soweth rightuousnesse/ shall receaue a sure rewarde. Like as rightous-nesse bringeth lyfe/ euen so to cleue vnto euill/bringeth death. The Lorde abhorreth a fay-ned hert/ but he hath pleasure in them that are are vnderfild. It shall not helpe the wicked/though they laye all their handes to gether/but the sede of the rightuous shalbe preferued. A saye womā without dyscrete ma-ners/ is like a rig of gold in a swines snoute.

The iust labourereth for peace and tranquyllyte/ but the vngodly for dysquyetnesse.

¶ Some man geueth out hys goodes/ a is the rycher/ but the nygard (haung ynough) will departe from nothynge/ and yet is euer in pouertye. He that is lyberall in geuyng/shall haue plenty/ a he that watereth/ shall be watered also him selfe. Who so hoodeth by his coyne/ shalbe cursed amonge the people/ but blyssyng shall lye vpon his head that selleth it. He that labourereth for honesty fynndeth hys desire/ but who so seketh after myschese/ it shall happē vnto hym. He that trueth in his ryches shall haue a fall/ but the rightuous shall flozth as the grene leaf.
Who so maketh dysquyetnes in his awne house/ he shall haue wynde for his heritage/and the foole shalbe seruaunt to the wyle.
The frute of the rightuous is as the tree of lyfe/ a wyle man also wynteth mens soules.
If the rightuous be recōpended vnto earth/how moch more then the vngodly a synner.

¶ The. xij. Chapter.
Who so loueth wysdome/ will be co-tent to be reformed: but he that hateth to be reformed/ is a foole.
A good man is acceptable vnto the Lorde/ but the wretched will be condempne.
A man can not endure in vngodlynesse/ but the rote of the rightuous shall not be moued.
A stedfast woman is a crowne vnto her husband/ but she that behaueth her selfe vn-honestly is a corrupcyō in his bones. The thoughtes of the rightuous are right/ but the ymagynacyō of the vngodly are dyscratfull.
The talkyng of the vngodly is how they maye lye wayte for bloude/ but the mouth of the rightuous will deliuer the. Of euer thou canst turne the aboute/ the vngodly shal-be ouerthrowen: but the house of the right-uous shall stande. A man shalbe comended for hys wysdome/ but a sole shalbe despyed.
A simple man which labourereth a wozketh/is better then one that is gozgyous and wan-tereth bzead. A rightuous mā regardeth the lyfe of his catell/ but the vngodly haue cruel hertes. He that sylleth hys land/ shall haue plentuousnesse of bzead/ but he that foloweth vnynges/ is a very foole.

¶ The desire of the vngodly hunteth after myschese/ but the rote of the rightuous bringeth forth frute. The wicked falleth into a snare whow he maye of his awne mouth/but the iust shall escape out of pavel. Every man shall enioye good accordyng to the innocency of his mouth/ a after the wozkes of his handes shall he be rewarded. Like what a foole taketh in hāde/ he thynketh it well done/ but he that is wyle/ will be coficeted.

A foole vttereth his wozth in all haste/ but a dyscrete man forgoeth wryge. A iust mā will tell the truth/ a shewe the thynge that is right/ but a false witness dysceaueth. A scla-derous personne prycketh like a sword/ but a wyle mā sōge is wholsome. A true mouth is euer constant/ but a dyssembler tonge is soone chaged. They that ymagyn euell in their mynde/ will dyscreue/ but the councelers of peace shall haue ioye folowynge the.
There shall no mysfortune happen vnto the iust/ but the vngodly shalbe filled in misery.

¶ The Lorde abhorreth dyscratfull lyp-pes/ but they that labourereth for truth please him.
He that hath vnderstandyng/ can hyde hys mys-dome/ but an vndercrete herte telleth out his folishnesse. A dysget hāde shall beare rule/but the idle shalbe vnder trybute. He ynnēse dyscozgeth the herte of mā/ but a good wozde maketh it glad agayne. The rightuous is lyberall vnto his neyghboure/ but the waye of the vngodly will dyscreue the selues. A dyscratfull man shall fynde no bauntage/ but he that is content with that he hath/ is moze worth then golde. In the waye of rightous-nesse there is lyfe/ as for any other waye it is the path vnto death.

¶ The. xij. Chapter.
Wyle sonne will receaue hys fathers warnyng/ but he that is a sconefull/ will not heare when he is reproued. A good mā shall enioye the frute of hys mouth/ but he that hath a frowarde minde shalbe spoyled. He that kepeth his mouth/ kepeth his lyfe/ but who so speaketh vnadvised/ findeth harme. The nygard wold saye haue/ a can not get his desire/ but the soule of the dysligent shall haue plenty.
A rightuous man abhorreth lyes/ but the vngodly shameth both other a him selfe. Right-uousnesse kepeth the innocent in the waye/but vngodlynesse shall ouerthrowe the synner.

¶ Some men are ryche/ though they haue nothinge agaynesome men are poore haung greate ryches. With goodes euer mā deliuereth his lyfe/ a the poore will not be repro-ued. The lyght of the rightuous maketh soy-full/ but the candle of the vngodly shalbe put out. Amonge the proude there is euer stryfe/but amonge those that do all thinges with aduylment/ there is wysdome. Hastely gotten goodes are soone spent/ but they that be gathered to gether with the hand/ shall increase.
Longe tarpyng for a thynge that is dyscrered/ geueth the herte/ but when the desire cometh/ it is a tree of lyfe. Who so despyeth the wordes/

¶ To wyche ner he synen in the face. He that lea-deth an innocent lyfe/ walketh surely/ but who so goeth a wryonge waye/ shall be knowne.
¶ He that syncheth with his eye/ will do some harme/ but he that hath a foolys mouth/
shall be beaten. The mouth of a rightuous man is a well of lyfe/ but the mouth of the vngodly is past shame/ a presumptuous.
¶ Cypill will stereth by stryfe/ but ioue coue-
reth the multitude of synners. In the lyp-pes of him that hath vnderstandyng a man shall
fynde wysdome/ but the roode belongeth to
the backe of the folysh. Wyle men laye by knowledge/ but the mouth of the folysh is rye destryck. The ryche mans goodes are
his stryde holde/ but pouerte oppreseth the

wordes/destroyeth hym selfe: but he þ feareth þ commaundment þat haue peace. The law is a well of lyfe vnto the wise/ þ it may kepe hym fro the snare of death. Good vndersta- dyng geueth fauour/ but hard is the waye of þ despylers. A wyse man doth all thingz with discrecyon/ but a foole wyll declare his folz. An vngodly messaiger bringeth myschefe/ but a faythfull embassytour is wholsome. He þ thynketh scoone to be resour- med/ cometh to pouerte & shame: but who so receaueth correccyon/ shall come to honour.

When a desyre is brought to passe/ it de- lyteth the soule: but fooler abhorreth him that eschueeth euell. He that goeth in the com- pany of wyse men/ shall be wyse: but who so is a companion of fooler/ shall be hurte. Whiche foloweth vpon synners/ but the ryghtuous shall haue a good rewarde. Which thier chylders chyldren shall haue in possesyon/ for the riches of the synner is layed by for the rust. There is plensurouse of fode in the felde of the poore/ & shall be in- created out of measure. He that spareth the rodde/ hateth his soune: but who so loueth hym/ holdeth hym euer in nureture. The ryghtuous eateth/ and is satysfied/ but the help of the vngodly hath neuer ynough.

The xiiij. Chapter.

A wyse woman vpholdeth her house/ but a folysch wyfe plucketh it downe. Who so feareth the Lorde/ walketh in the right path: & regardeth not hym that abhorreth the wayes of þ Lorde. In the mouth of the foolysch is the boostinge of lordshyppe/ but the lippes of þ wyse wyll be warre of loch. Where no or- der labour/ there is moch frute. A fayth- full wyneffe wyll not dyssemble/ but a false recorde wyll make a lye. A scoonefull bo- dy feareth wylde/ and feareth it not: but knowledge is easy to come by/ vnto hym þ wyll vnderstande. Se þ thou medle not with a foole/ & do as though thou hadde no knowledge. The wylde of hym þ hath vnderstandig is/ to take hede vnto his waye/ but the folyschness of þ vnwyse discreueth. Foles make but a spoite of synne/ but there is fauorable loue amonge the rightuous. The herte of hym that hath vnderstandyng wyll nether dyspare for any sorow/ ner be to presumptuous for any soddane ioye.

The houses of the vngodly shall be ouer- throwne/ but þ tabernacles of þ ryghtuous shall stow. There is a waye which some men thynke to be ryght/ but the ende therof is in laughter/ & the ende of mythy is heu- nede. An vnfaythfull perfonne shall be syllyd in his awne wayes/ but a good man wyll be warre of soche. An ignoraunt body bele- ueth all thynges/ but who so hath vndersta- dyng/ loketh well to his goynges. A wyse man feareth/ and departeth from euell/ but a foole goeth on presumptuously. An vnpy- ent man dealeth folyschly/ but he that is well aduysed/ doth other wayes. The ignoraunt haue folyschness in possesyon/ but the wyse are crowned with knowledge. The euell shall bowe them selues before the good/ & the vngodly shall wayte at the doores of the rygh- tous. The poore is hated eu of his awne neyghbours/ but þ rygh hath many frendz.

Who so despyseth his neyghbour/ doth a mysse: but blessed is he that hath ppye of the poore. They þ ymagyn wycheones/ shall be dysapoynted: but they that muse vpon good thinges/ vnto soche shall happen mercy and faythfulness. Diligent labour bringeth ri- ches/ but where many dayne wordes are/ truly there is scarcenesse. Ryches are an ornament vnto the wyse/ but the ignoraunce of fooler is very folyschness. A faythfull witnesseth deliuereth soules/ but a lyar discre- ueth them. The feare of the Lorde is a strong holde/ for vnto his he wyll be a sure defence.

The feare of the Lorde is a well of lyfe/ to auoyde the snare of death. The increase of prosperite of þ comys is þ rynges honoure/ but the decaye of the people is the confusyon of the Prince. Patyence is a token of wyl- domie/ but wyath & hastye dyspleasure is a token of folyschness. A merry herte is the lyfe of the body/ but rancoure consumeth awaye the bones. He that doth a poore mā tozonge/ blasphemeth his maker: but who so hath ppye of the poore/ doth honoure vnto Ged. The vngodly is a trayed of euery pa- rell/ but the ryghtuous hath a good hope eu in death. Wylde resteth in þ herte of hym that hath vnderstandyng/ & he wyll teache them that are vberned. Ryghtuousnesse setteth by the people/ but wychednesse bring- geth folke to destruccyon. A dyscrete ser- uant is a pleasure vnto the Lynge/ but one þ is not honest prouoketh hym vnto wyath.

The xv. Chapter.

Softe answer putteth downe dyspleasure/ but frowarde wordes prouoke vnto anger. A wyse lōge commendeth knowledge/ & a folysch mouth blabbeth out nothyng but folysch- nesse. The eyes of the Lorde loke on euery place/ both vpon the good and bad.

A wholsome tonge is a tree of lyfe/ but he that abuseth it/ hath a broken mynde. A foole despyseth his fathers correccyon/ but he that taketh hede vnto he is repproued shall haue the moare vnderstandyng.

In the house of the rightuous are greates- ryches/ but in þ increase of þ vngodly there is myfodre. A wyse mouth poureth oute knowledge/ but the herte of the folysch doth not so. The Lorde abhorreth the sacrifice of the vngodly/ but the prayer of the rygh- tous is acceptable vnto him. The waye of the vngodly is an abhominacyon vnto þ Lorde/ but who so foloweth rightuousnes/ hym he loueth. He that forsaketh þ right strete/ shall be soze punished: and who so ha- teth correccyon/ falleth in to death. The hell is her payne is knowne vnto the Lorde/ how moch more then the hertes of men? A scoonefull body loueth not one that rebu- keth hym/ nether wyll he come amonge the wyse. A merry herte maketh a chearfull countenance/ but an vnquyet mynde maketh it heuy. A wyse herte wyll seke after know- ledge/ but the mouth of fooler medleth with foolyschness. All the dayes of the poore are myserable/ but a quyet herte is as a conti- nual feast. Better is a lytle in the feare of the Lorde then greates treasure/ for they are not without sorowe. Better is a messe of potage to loue/ then a fat oxe to euell wyll.

An angrie man stereth by strife/ but he þ is patient stylieth dyscorde. The waye of þ pouthfull is full of thornes/ but þ strete of þ rightuous is well clenched. A wyse sonne maketh a glad father/ but an vnderstande- bydeth his mother. A foole reioyseth in foolysch thynges/ but a wyse man loketh well to his awne goynges. Vnadyssed thoughtes shall come to naught/ but where as men are that rangeur counsell/ there is stedfastnesse. How tofull a thyng is it/ a man to geue a comendment answer? How pleasant is a wyde spok in due sea- son. The waye of lyfe leadech vnto heauē/ that a man shal be ware of hell beneth.

The Lorde wyll breake downe þ house of þ proude/ but he shall make fast þ borders of the widdow. The Lorde abhorreth the ymaginacions of þ wyched/ but pure word are pleasur vnto him. The couetous mā roteth by his awne house/ but who so hateth rewarde/ shall liue. A rightuous mā mu- seth in his mynde how to do good/ but the mynde of the vngodly ymagyneth/ how he maye do harme. The Lorde is farre from the vngodly/ but he heareth þ prayer of the ryghtuous. Lyke as the clearenesse of the eyes reioyseth þ herte/ so doth a good name fede the bones. The eare that harkeneth vnto wholsome warnyng/ and enclenyth thereto/ shall dwell amonge the wyse. He that refuseth to be resourmed/ despyseth his awne soule: but he that submitteth hym selfe to correccyon/ is wyse.

The house of the rightuous is the ryght A- lyce of wylde/ & lowlynesse. A man maye well purpose a thyng in his herte/ but the answer of the tonge cometh oute the helpe of the Lorde. A mā thinketh all his wayes of God. to be cleane/ but it is the Lorde þ fashioneth the myndes. Comytte thy wayes vnto þ Lorde/ and loke what thou deuysest/ it shall prosper. The Lorde doth all thynges for his awne sake/ yet & when he keepeth the vngodly for the daye of wyath. The Lorde ab- horreth all presumptuous & proude hertes/ there maye nether strenght ner power escape. With louing mercy a faithfulness synners be forgeuen/ and who so feareth the Lorde eschueeth euell. Whē a mā wayes please the Lorde/ he maketh his very enemies to be his frendes. Better is it to haue a lytle thyng in rightuousnes/ then greates rentes wydeously gotte. A mā deuyseth a waye in his herte/ but it is þ Lorde þ ordreth his goyngs. When þ prophete is in þ lippes of the kyng/ his mouth shall not go wronge in iudgmet. A true measure & a true baladice are þ Lodes/ he maketh all weyghtes. It is a greates abhominacyon when kynges are wyched/ for a kynges seate shal be holden by vngodlynesse. Ryghtuous lippes are pleasur vnto kynges/ & they loue hym þ speaketh þ trouth. The kynges dysplea- sure is a messaiger of death/ but a wyse mā wyll pacifye hym. The cherefull counte- nance of þ kyng is lyfe/ & his lounge fa- uoure is as the euenyng dewe. To haue wylde in possesyon is better then golde/ & to get vnderstandyng/ is more worth then syluer. The path of þ ryghtuous eschuech euell/ & who so lokech well to his wayes/ ke- peth his awne soule. Presumptuousnes goeth before destruccyon/ & after a proude sto- make there foloweth a fall. Better is it to be of humble mynde in the lowly/ then to deuyde the spoyles in the proude. He that hadleth a matter wylly/ opteyneth good: & blessed is he/ þ putteth his trust in þ Lorde. Who so hath a wyse vnderstandyng/ is called to counsell: but he þ can speake saye get- teth more ryches. Vnderstanding is a well of lyfe vnto hym þ hath it/ & so for the chaste- nyng of fooler/ it is but folyschness. The herte of the wyse enfourmeth his mouth/ & amendeth the doctryne in his lippes.

The xvi. Chapter.

The house of the rightuous is the ryght A- lyce of wylde/ & lowlynesse. A man maye well purpose a thyng in his herte/ but the answer of the tonge cometh oute the helpe of the Lorde. A mā thinketh all his wayes of God. to be cleane/ but it is the Lorde þ fashioneth the myndes. Comytte thy wayes vnto þ Lorde/ and loke what thou deuysest/ it shall prosper. The Lorde doth all thynges for his awne sake/ yet & when he keepeth the vngodly for the daye of wyath. With louing mercy a faithfulness synners be forgeuen/ and who so feareth the Lorde eschueeth euell. Whē a mā wayes please the Lorde/ he maketh his very enemies to be his frendes. Better is it to haue a lytle thyng in rightuousnes/ then greates rentes wydeously gotte. A mā deuyseth a waye in his herte/ but it is þ Lorde þ ordreth his goyngs. When þ prophete is in þ lippes of the kyng/ his mouth shall not go wronge in iudgmet. A true measure & a true baladice are þ Lodes/ he maketh all weyghtes. It is a greates abhominacyon when kynges are wyched/ for a kynges seate shal be holden by vngodlynesse. Ryghtuous lippes are pleasur vnto kynges/ & they loue hym þ speaketh þ trouth. The kynges dysplea- sure is a messaiger of death/ but a wyse mā wyll pacifye hym. The cherefull counte- nance of þ kyng is lyfe/ & his lounge fa- uoure is as the euenyng dewe. To haue wylde in possesyon is better then golde/ & to get vnderstandyng/ is more worth then syluer. The path of þ ryghtuous eschuech euell/ & who so lokech well to his wayes/ ke- peth his awne soule. Presumptuousnes goeth before destruccyon/ & after a proude sto- make there foloweth a fall. Better is it to be of humble mynde in the lowly/ then to deuyde the spoyles in the proude. He that hadleth a matter wylly/ opteyneth good: & blessed is he/ þ putteth his trust in þ Lorde. Who so hath a wyse vnderstandyng/ is called to counsell: but he þ can speake saye get- teth more ryches. Vnderstanding is a well of lyfe vnto hym þ hath it/ & so for the chaste- nyng of fooler/ it is but folyschness. The herte of the wyse enfourmeth his mouth/ & amendeth the doctryne in his lippes.

saye wordes are an hony combe/ & a refre- shyng of the mynde/ & a health of þ bones. There is a waye þ men thynke to be right/ but the ende therof leadech vnto death. A troublous soule dysquieteth her selfe/ for her awne mouth hath brought her therto. An

The xxi. Chapter.

The kynge's herte is in the hande of the Lorde / lyke as are the ryuers of water: he maye turne it whither so euer he will. Euery man thynketh his awne waye to be ryght / but the Lorde iudgeth the hertes. To do rightousnesse and iudgment is more acceptable to the Lorde then sacrifice. A presumptuous loke a proude stomacke / & the lanterne of the vngodly is synne. The deuycs of one is diligent / bynging plenteousnes: but he is vnaduysed / cometh vnto pouerte. Who so hoodweth by ryches in the disceitfulness of his tonge / he is a foole / & lyke vnto the that seke their awne death. The robberies of the vngodly shalbe their awne destruction / for they wolde not do the thyng he was ryght. The wayes of the frowarde are straunge / but the woekes of him is cleane / are ryght. It is better to dwell in a corner vnder the house toppe / then in a bawling woman in a wyde house.

is better then he is myghtie of strenght.
for with discrepon must warres be take in hade / & where as are many he can geue coun-cell / there is victorie. wylsome is an hys-theng / pee eue to the soole / for he darre not open his mouth in the gate. He is myage-neth mychete / maye welbe called an ingracions personne. The thoughte of a foolish is synne / & the scornefull is an abhominaciō unto men. If thou be ouerlene & negligēt in time of neede / then is thy strenght but smal.
Delyuer the go vnto death / and are led awaye to be slayne / & be not negligēt therein.
If thou wilt saye: I knewe not of it. A himself thou he which made he hertes / doth not chylde it: & he which regardeth thy soule / seyth it not. Shall not be recompence euery ma accordyng to his wozynges. My sonne / thou eatest honye & the swete honye robe / because it is good & swete in thy mouth. Eue so shall the knowledge of wylsome be vnto thy soule / as soone as thou hast goett it.
And there is good hope / pee thy hope shall not be in bayne. Laye no pryuy waite wickedly byd the house of the rightuous / & disquiete not his resting place. For a lust mā faileth in feue tymes / & ryleth by agayne / but he godly fall in to wickednes. Wicopre not thou at the fall of thine enemye / and lett not thine herte be glad when he stumblith. Lett the Lorde / whē he seyth it / be angrie / & turne hys wraoth fro the. Lett not thy wraoth be geuouly moue the / to foolow the wycked & bngodly. And why? the wycked hath no wraoth / & the hope of the bngodly shall be put out. My sonne / feare thou the Lorde & the kynge / & kepe no cōpany w the sclaunders: for their destrucciō shall come sodenly / & who knoweth the fall of the both?
These are also the sayenges of the wyle.
It is not good / to haue respect of any personne in iudgmet. He that sayeth to the bngodly: thou art ryghtuous / hym shall the people curse / pee he comētie shall abhorre him. But they that rebuke the bngodly shall be comēded / & a ryche blessing shall come vnto the. He maketh him selfe to be well loued / he geueth a good answer. If it make by thy wozyche he is without / & loke well vnto the which thou hast in the selde / & then buyde thyne house.
Be no false witness against thy neyghbour / & hurte hym not w thy lypyes. Saye not:
I will haile him / eue as he hath deale with me / & I will rewarde euery mā accordyng to his dedes. I went by the selde of the clouthfull / & by the byne pades of the foolish mā. And lo / it was all couered w nettels / & stode full of thistles / & the stone wall was bryke downe.
This I sawe / and cōsidered it well: I loked vpon it / & toke it for a warning. Yee slepe on spyl a lytle / & bngodly a lytle / & so the handes together yet a lytle / so shall pou ere come vnto the as one that trauielyth by the waye / & needlyte lyke a weapened man.

The xxv. Chapter.
These also are the sayenges of Salomon / which the men of Ezeiah Kynge of Iuda gathered together.
It is the honour of God to kepe a secrete / but the kynge honour is to search out a secrete.
The heauen is hye / the earth is depe / & the kynge herte is vnsearcheable.
Take the dross fro the syluer / & there shall be a cleane vessel therof.
Take awaye bngodlynes fro the kynge / & his seate shall be stablished w rightuousnes.
But not so / the kynge in the presence of the king / & pteace not in to the place of grete nē.
Better is it he that saye vnto the: come by hither / then thou to be set downe in the pte-sence of the pynce whō thou seyst with thyne eyes. Be not hastie to go to the lawe / lest happie thou odye thy selfe so at the last / that thy neyghbour put the to shame. Handle thy matter w thy neyghbour him selfe / & dyscouer not another mā's secrete: lest when men heare therof / it turne to thy dishonoure / and lett thine euell name do not cease. A woide spoke in due season / is lyke apples of golde in a syluer dish. The correccion of the wyle is to an obediēt eate / & golde cheryne & a Jewell of golde. Lyke as the wynter cocle in the hartest / so is a saythfull mēsaunger to him that sent him / & refretheth his maisters mynde. Who so maketh grete boales & geueth nothyng / is lyke cloude and wynde wout rayne. With pacēce maye a pynce be pacified / & w a soft tōge maye rygozousnes be bryde. If thou syndest honye / eate somuch as is sufficient for the: lest thou be ouer full / & perbreake it out agayne. Withdrow thy foote fro thy neyghbours house / lest he be weery of the / & so abhorre the. Who so beareth false wytnesse agaynst hys neygh-bour / he is a very speare / & a swearde / and a sharpe arrowe. The hope of the bngodly in tyme of neade / is lyke a rottē toth & a slippery foote. Who so syngeth a songe to a wycked herte / clotheth him w ragges in the colde / & pouerth bynegert byd chalyke. If thyne enemye bōger / feade him: pte he thy / geue him dysreke: for so shalt thou heape coales of fyre vnto his head / & the Lorde shall rewarde the. The floyth wynde dyspurteth awaye the rayne / eue so doth an earnest sober countenaunce a backbiter's tōge. It is better to syt in a corner vnder the rose / then w a braw-lyng woman in a wyde house. A good re-pozte

pozte out of a farre countre / is lyke coude water to a thystle soule. A ryghtuous mā fallynge downe before the bngodly / is lyke a troubled well & a springe that is destroyed.
Lyke as it is not good to eate to much honye / euen so he that wyl search out hye thynges / it shall be to heuy for hym. He that can not rule hym selfe / is lyke a cytpe wyche is bryken downe / and hath no walles.
The xxvi. Chapter.
He as snowe is not mēte in sommer / ney rayne in haruest: euen so is moze wyse vnto the for a foole.
Lyke as the byrde & the swalowe take their flight and fle here and there / so the curse that is geuen in bayne / shall not lyghtlye vpon a man. Vnto the hoyle belongeth a whyppe / to the Lorde a byrdle / and a rodde to the foolies backe. Geue not the foole an an-swere after hys foolyshe herte / lest thou become lyke vnto him: but make the foole an an-swere to his foolyshe herte / lest he be wyle in his owne conceite. He is lame of his fete / pee dysonchen is he in hangeth / that comitteth Benythynge to a foole. Lyke as it is an vn-semyly thyng to haue legges & yet to haile / euen so is a parable in the foolies mouth.
He that letteth a foole in hye dignite / that is eue as yf a mā dycast a pteious stone vnto the galous. A parable in a foolies mouth is lyke a thorne that pteyth a dysonchē mā in the hande. A man of experience discer-neth all thynges well / but who so byreth a foole / byreth soch one as wyl take no hede.
Lyke as the dogg turneth agayne to hys bompte / euen so a foole begynneth hys so-lyshynesse agayne a freth. If thou seyst a man that is wyle in his owne conceite / there is moze hope in a foole then in hym. The clouthfull sayeth: there is a leoparde in the waye / & a lyon in the myddell of the stretes.
Lyke as the boze turneth aboute vnto the threholde / eue so doth the clouthfull welter hym selfe in his bedde. The clouthfull body thrusteth hys hande in to hys bosome / and it geueth hym to put it agayne to his mouth.
The dogge detheneth hym selfe wyle / then the byrmen that sytt and teach. Who so goeth by & meddeth w other mens stryfe / he is lyke one that taketh a dogg by the eares.
Lyke as one buterly deadly arrowes and darteres out of a prey place / eue so doth a dis-sembler w his neyghboure. And then sayth he: I dyd it but in spozte. Where no wodd is / there the fyre goeth out: & where the bacbyter is taken awaye / there the fyre cealeth.
Coles kynde heate / & wodd the fyre: eue so doth a brawling felowe steepe by variatice.
A sclaundersers wozynges are lyke flattery / but they pearce the inward partes of the body.

menymous lypyes & a wycked herte / are lyke a pottherde couered w syluer dross.
An enemye dissembleth w hys lypyes / and in the meane season he ymagineth myschete: but whē he speaketh saye / beleue him not / for there are seuen abhominacions in his herte. Who so kepeth euell myll / secrely to do hurte / his malice shall be shewed before the whole congregaciō. Who dysgeth by a pytt / shall fall therein: and he that wyltreth a stone / shall stumblen vpon it hym selfe. A dyssemblinge tonge hateth one he rebueth hym / and a flatteringe mouth wozyketh mychete.
The xxvii. Chapter.
The not thy boote of to mozoyme / for thou knowest not what maye happē to daye. Lett another man prayse the / and not thine owne mouth: yee other folkes lypyes & not thine.
The stone is heuy / & the lande weyghty:
but a foolies wraoth is heuyr then they both.
Wraoth is a cruell thyng / & furiousnesse is a very tempest: yee who is able to abyde enue? An open rebuke is better then a secrete loue. Saythfull are the woundes of a louer / but the bydes of an enemye are disceatfull. He that is full / abhorreth an hony combe: but vnto hym that is hongrye / euery lower thyng is swete. He that off-tymes sitteth / is lyke a byrde that forlaken her nest. The herte is glad of a swete opytment & sauoure / but a stomache he can geue good counsell / & cōpyleth a mā's neyghboure.
Thyne owne frende & thy fathers frende se thou forsake not / but go not in to thy bzo-thers house in tyme of thy trouble.
Better is a frende at hand / then a brother farre of.
My sonne / be wyle / and thou shalt make me a glad herte: so that I shall make answer vnto my rebukers. A wyle man seynge the plage wyl hyde hym selfe / & for foolies they go on still / & suffer harme. Take his gat-ment that is swerpe for a straunger / & take a ptege of hym so / the bngodly mā's sake.
He that is to haile to prayse his neygh-bour aboute measure / shall be taken as one that geueth him an euell repozte. A braw-lyng woman and the rose of the house dysoppyng in a rayne daye / maye well be compared together.
He that refrayneth her / refrayneth the wynde / and holdeth oyle fast in his hande.
Lyke as one pzon whetteth another / so doth one man cōsozte another. Who so kepeth his fyge tre / shall enioye the frutes therof: he that mayteth vpon hys maister / shall come to honoure. Lyke as in one water there appeare dyuerse faces / euen so dyuerse

The Proverbes Chap. xxviii. & xxix.

men haue dyuerse hertes. Lyke as heil & destruccyon are neuer full / eue so the eyes of men can neuer be satisfied. Syuer is tryed in the moude / & golde in the soynace / so is a ma / when he is openly p'ayed to his face. Though thou shouldest buy a foole with a pestell in a mortar lyke sterneel / yet wyl not his fooly synelle go fro hym. Se that thou knowe the nomb' of thy cattell thy selfe / & loke well to thy flockes. For ryches abyde not alwaye / & the crowne endureth not for euer. The hey groweth / the grasle commeth by / and herbes are gathered in the mountaynes. The lambes shall clothe the / and for the goates thou shalt haue money to thy husbundry. Thou shalt haue goates mylch enough to fede / to upholde thy housholde / and to susteyne thy maydens.

The xxviii. Chapter.
The bngodly sayeth no man chaunge him / but the righteous stablisheth selfe as a lyon. Because of synne the lade doth oft charge her pryuce / but thozow men of vnderstandynge and wysdome a realme endureth longe. One pooze man opp'esseth another by violence / lyke a continuall rayne that destroyeth the frute. They that forsake the lawe / p'aple the bngodly / but such as kepe the lawe / abhorre them. Wycked men desire not the thyng that is ryght / but they that seke after the Lawe / discusse all thyngs. A pooze man ledynge a godly lyfe / is better then a ryche that goeth in frowarde wayes. Who so keepeth a lawe / is a chyld of vnderstandynge / but he that seeth vntowen men / shameth his father. Who so increaseth his ryches by v'auuntage & wyngynge / let hym gather them to helpe the pooze withall. He that turneth away his eare fro hearing / shall fall in to his awne pyte / but he that shall haue the good in possession. The ryche man synneth hym selfe to be wyle / but a pooze de / searcheth it. that hath vnderstandynge / can perceaue / that is to saye / hym well enough. When ryghteous men are in prosperite / then doth honoure floure / but when the bngodly come by / the state of men chaungeth. He that bydeth his synnes / shall not prosper / but who so knowledgeth them and forsaketh them / shall haue mercy. Well is hym that standeth alwaye in awe / as for hym that hardeneth his herte / he shall fall in to myschance. Lyke as a roarynge lyon and an hongry beare / eue so is an bngodly pryuce ouer the pooze people. Where the pryuce is without vnderstandynge / there is greute opp'ession & tolonge / but yf he be such one as hateth couetousnesse / he shall longe raygne. He that by violence sheddeth any mans bloude / shall be a renegate vnto his graue / and no man shall be able to succoure him. Who so leadech a godly & an innocent lyfe / shall be safe / but he that goeth frowarde wayes / shall once haue a fall. He that sylleth his land / shall haue plentyfoulnesse of bread / but he that foloweth v'oluntie / shall haue pouerte ynough. A saythfull ma is greatly to be comended / but he that maketh to moch haste for to be ryche / shall not be bngodly. To haue respecte of personnes in iudgment is not good / and why / he will do w'oge / per eue for a pere of bread. He that wyl be ryche all to soone / hath an euell eye / and consydereth not / that pouerte shall come vpon him. He that rebuketh a man / shall fynde moze sauour at the last / then he that flattereth him. Who so robbeth his father and mother / and sayeth it is no synne / the same is lyke vnto a motherer. He that is of a proude stomacke / stretcheth his ryche / but he that putteth his trust in the Lawe / shall be well fedd. He that trusteth in his awne herte / is a foole / but he that desleth wylly / shall be safe. He that geueth vnto the pooze / shall not wante / but he that turneth away his eyes from such as be in need / shall suffre greute pouerte hym selfe. When the bngodly are come by / men are sayne to hyde them selues / but who they p'p'ly / the ryghteous increaseth.

The xxix. Chapter.
That is synned and wyl not be reformed / shall sodenly be destroyed without any helpe. Where the righteous haue the ouer hand / the people are in prosperite / but where the bngodly beareth rule / there a people mourneth. Who so loueth wysdome / maketh his father a glad man / but he that keepeth harlottes / spendeth awaye that he hath. With true iudgment the kynge setteth by a lande / but yf he be a man that taketh gyftes / he turneth it vnto synne. Who so flattereth his neyghbour / layeth a nette for his fete. The synne of the wycked is his awne snare / but the ryghteous shall be glad and reioyse. The ryghteous consyderech the cause of a pooze / but the bngodly regardeth no vnderstandynge. Wycked people bynge a cite in decaye / but wyle men set it by agayne. If a wyle ma go to lawe with a foole / whether he deale wyth hym frendly or reughly / he getteth no rest. He bloude thepye hate the ryghteous / but the iust seke his soule. A foole pouereth out his spete altogether / but a wyle man keepeth it in till a fterwarde. If a pryuce deyle in lyes / all his seruantes are bngodly. The pooze and a lender mete together.

Exposition
This light is the feare wherof is spoken in the 10. psalm. They are affrayed where no feare is. Whych violence is lyke a continuall rayne that destroyeth the frute. They that forsake the lawe / p'aple the bngodly / but such as kepe the lawe / abhorre them. Wycked men desire not the thyng that is ryght / but they that seke after the Lawe / discusse all thyngs. A pooze man ledynge a godly lyfe / is better then a ryche that goeth in frowarde wayes. Who so keepeth a lawe / is a chyld of vnderstandynge / but he that seeth vntowen men / shameth his father. Who so increaseth his ryches by v'auuntage & wyngynge / let hym gather them to helpe the pooze withall. together / the Lawe lyghteneth both their eyes. The state of the kynge that sayth / fully budgeth the pooze / shall continue sure for euermore. The robbe and correccion mynistrer wysdome / but yf a chyld be not lohed vnto / he bringeth his mother to shame. When the bngodly come by / wickednesse increaseth / but the righteous shall be their sal. Pursoure thy soune with correccion / and he shall comforte the / yet he shall doo the good at thyme herte. Where no prophete is / there the people perishe / but well is hym that keepeth the lawe. A seruante wyl not be the better for wordes / for though he bnderstande / yet wyl he not regarde them. Yf thou seest a man that is hasty to speake vndulyed / thou mayest trust a foole more then hym. He that deipately byngeth by his seruante fro a chyld / shall make hym his master at length. An angry man stretcheth his ryche / and he that beareth euell wyl in his mynde / doth moch euell. After pryde commeth a fall / but a lowely spyre byngeth greute wysdome. Who so keepeth company with a thete / hateth his awne soule / he beareth blasphemys / and telleth it not forth. He that seareth men / shall haue a fall / but who so putteth his trust in the Lawe / shall come to honoure. Whynere be that seke the Prynces sauoure / but euer mans iudgement commeth from the Lawe. And lest I beinge constrained thozow pouerte / fall vnto slealyng / and for weate the name of my God. Accuse not a seruante vnto his master / lest he speake euell of the also / and thou be hurte. He that bringeth by an euell report vpon the generacion of his father and mother / is not worthy to be commended.

The generacion that thynke them selues cleane / shall not be censed from their synnes. There are people that haue a proude loke / and cast by their eye lyddes. This peoples ceth are swerdes / and with their chafe bones they consume and deuoure the simple of the earth / and the pooze from amonge men. This generacion / whych is lyke an host / leche / hath two daughters / the one is called / fetch hither / and the other byngeth hither.

There be thre thynges that are neuer sa. The first / and the fourth sayeth neuer hoo. The hell / a womans wombe / and the earth hath neuer water ynough. As for the / it sayeth neuer / hoo. Soche is the waye also of a wyfe that breaketh wedlocke / which wipeth her mouth like as when she hath eaten / & sayeth. As for me / I haue done no harme. Thozow a seruante that beareth rule / thozow a foole that hath greute riches / thozow an ydle houswyfe / and thozow an handmayden that is heyre to her mastres. There be foure thynges in the earth / the whych are berylye / but in wysdome they excede the wyle. The Emmettes are but a weake people / yet gather they their meate together in the haruest. The Conyes are but a feble folke / yet make they their couches amonge the rockes. The grethoppers haue not a gide / yet go they forth together by heapes. The spyder labourereth with her handes / & that in the kynge's palace.

There be thre thynges that go styfly / but the going of the fourth is the godlyest of all. A Lyon / which is king of beastes / a geueth place to no ma. A cock ready to fight / a came and a kyng that goeth forth with his people. Yf thou be so folly to magnifie thy selfe / or myblest with any such thyng / then laye thine hande

The ende of the Proverbes of Salomon.

The boke of the Preacher.

Chapt. i. & ii.

Eccl.

The boke of the Preacher / otherwise called Ecclesiastes.

All that is in this worlde is vayne.

The first Chapter.

These are the wordes of the Preacher/ the sonne of Dauid/ kynge of Ierusalem. All is but vayne/ sayeth the preacher/ all is but playne vanitie. For what els hath a man/ of all the labour he taketh vnder the Sunne? One generation passeth away/ another cometh/ but the earth abydeth still. The Sunne aryleth/ the Sunne goeth downe/ and returneth to his place/ that he maye there ryle by agayne. The winde goeth toward the South/ & fetcheth his course aboute vnto the North/ & so turneth in to him selfe agayne. All flouds runne in to the see/ & yet the see is not fylled: for loke vnto what place the waters runne/ thence they come agayne. All thynges are so harde/ & no man can expresse the. The eye is not satysfied wth sight/ the eare is not fylled wth hearinge. The thyng that hath bene cometh to passe agayne: & the thyng that hath bene done/ is done agayne/ there is no new thyng vnder the Sunne. Is there any thyng wherof it maye be sayde: lo/ this is newe? For it was longe agoe in the tymes that haue bene before vs. & the thyng that is past/ is out of remembrance: euen so the thynges that are for to come/ shall no moze be thought vpon amonge the that come after. I my selfe the Preacher/ beyng kynge of Irael & Ierusalem/ applyed my mynde to seeke out a search for the knowledge of all thynges that are done vnder heauen. Soch trauaile & labour hath god geue vnto me/ & child of me/ to exerce the felix therein. Thus I haue considered all the thynges that come to passe vnder the Sunne/ and lo/ they are all but vayne & heracion of mynde. The croked can not be made straight/ & the fault can not be nombred. I comoned with myne aune herte/ saying: lo/ I am come to a great estate/ & haue gotte moze wysdome/ then all they that haue bene before me in Ierusalem

For my herte had grete experience of wysdome & knowledge/ for there vnto I applyed my mynde: that I might knowe what were wysdome & vnderstanding/ what were errour & folyshnes. And I perceaued that this also was but a heracion of mynde: for where moche wysdome is/ there is also grete trauaile & disquietnes: and the moze knowledge a man hath/ the moze is his care.

Abundance of rychesse/ of pleasure & of buytynges are vayne thynges.

The ii. Chapter.

When I sayd thus in my herte: Now I go to/ I wyll take myne ease and haue good dayes. But lo/ I was vayne also: in so moche that I sayde vnto laughter: thou art madd/ and to myrth: what doest thou?

So I thought in my herte/ to withdraue my selfe fro wyne/ to applye my mynde vnto wysdome/ & to cōprehēde folyshnes vntill the tyme that I amōge all the thynges which are vnder the Sunne/ I myght see what were best for me to do/ so longe as they lyue vnder heauen.

I made gorgeous sayre woorkes. I buyt ded me houses/ & plantyd vineyardes. I made me orchardes & gardens of pleasure/ & plantyd trees in the of all maner frutes. I made poles of water/ to water the grene & frutefull trees withall. I bought seruantes & maydens/ & had a grete household. As for cattell & shepe/ I had moze substance of the/ then all they that were before me in Ierusalem. I gathered syluer and golde together/ euē a treasure of kynge and landes.

I prouyded me syngers and wemen which coude playe of instrumentes/ to make me mirth & pastime. I gat me drynkyng cuppes also & glades. Shortly I was greater in moze woorkes/ then all my predecessours in Ierusalem. For wysdome remayned w me: & loke whatlocuer myne eyes despyed/ I let the haue it: & wher in soeuer my herte delited/ I had eny pleasure/ I w helpe it not from it. Thus my herte reioyced in all that I dyd/ & this I toke for the porcion of all my trauaile. But when I considered all the woorkes that my handes had wrought/ & all the labours that I had takē therein: lo/ all was but vayne & heracion of mynde/ and nothinge of eny value vnder the Sunne. Then turned I me to consider wysdome/ erroure & folyshnes/ for what is he amōge men/ that might be compared to me the kynge in soch woorkes? & I sawe/ that wysdome excellēth folyshnes/ as farre as lyght doth darknesse. For a wyse mā heareth his eyes aboute in his head/ but the fool goeth in the darknesse. I perceaued also that they both had one ende. Then thought I in my mynde: If it happen vnto the fool as it doth vnto me/ what nedeth me then to labour euy moze for wyldome. So I cofessed withyn my herte / & this also was but banite. For I wyle are euer as tylle in remembrance as I folow / & all dayes for to come shalbe for goode / yee the wyle madieth as well as I foole. Thus beganne I to be weery of my lyfe / in so much I coude a-wayne to nothing I is done vnder I Sunne / for all was but vanite & vexaciō of mynde. Yee I was weery of al my labour / which I had take vnder the Sunne / because I shulde be fayne to leaueth the vnto another ma / I cometh after me for who knoweth / whether he shalbe a wyle ma or a foole. And yet shal he be lord of all my labours / which I to soch wylsome haue take vnder the Sunne. Is not this a bayne thyng?

So I turned me to restrayne my mynde fro all soch trauayle / as I toke vnder the Sunne.
For so much as a man shulde weery him selfe to wylsome / to vnderstanding & opportunitie / & yet be fayne to leaueth his labours vnto another / I neuer swett for them. Chys is also a bayne thyng and a greate myserie. For what getteth a man of all I labour & trauayle of his mynde / I he taketh vnder I Sunne / but heuyne / for to we & disquietnes all I dayes of his lyfe. In so much that his herte can not rest in I night. Is not this also a bayne thyng?
Is it not better then for a ma to eate & drincke his soule to be mery in his labour? Yee I sawe I this also was a gyfte of God: for whomaye eate / drincke / or bringe any thing to passe wpythouthym? And why? he geueth vnto ma / what it pleaseh him: whether it be wylsome / vnderstanding / or gladnesse. But vnto I synner he geueth weerynes & sorow /
I he maye gather & heape together I thyng /
I afterwarde shalbe geue vnto hym whom it pleaseh God. Chys is now a bayne thyng / yee a very disquietnesse & vexaciō of mynde.
All thynges come in their tyme and passe awaye in their tyme.

¶ The iij. Chapter.

Every thyng hath a tyme / yee all that is vnder the heauē / hath is comuent season. There is a tyme to be borne / & a tyme to dye.

There is tyme to plante / & a tyme to plucke bp the thyng / that is planted:

- 1 A tyme to slape / and a tyme to make whole
- 2 A tyme to breake downe / & a tyme to build bp.
- 3 A tyme to wepe / and a tyme to laugh:
- 4 A tyme to mourne / and a tyme to daunce:
- 5 A tyme to cast awaye stones / and a tyme to gather stones together:
- 6 A tyme to enbrace / & a tyme to restrayne fro enbraceynge:
- 7 A tyme to wyne / and a tyme to lese:
- 8 A tyme to spare / and a tyme to spende:
- 9 A tyme to cutt in peces / & a tyme to soide together:

A tyme to kepe silence / & a tyme to speake:
A tyme to loue / and a tyme to hate:
A tyme of warre / and a tyme of peace:

What hath a ma els / I doth any thing / but weerynesse & labour? For as touching the trauayle & carefullnesse which God hath geuen vnto men / I se I he hath geue it the / to be exercised in it. All this hath he ordeined mar-uelous goodly / to euer thyng his due tyme.
He hath plantēd ignorance also in the hertes of men / I they shulde not fynde out I ground of his woekes / which he doth fro I beginning to I ende. So I perceaued / I in these thynges there is nothinge better for a man / then to be mery & to do well so longe as he lyueth. For all I a man eateth & drincketh / yee what so euer a ma enioyeth of all his labour / I same is a gyfte of God. I cōsidered also I what foeuer God doth / it cōtinueth for euer / & I no thyng can be put vnto it nor take fro it: & I God doth it to the inter / I men shulde feare hym.
The thynges I hath bene / is now: & I thynges I is for to come / hath bene also tyme / for God reioyseth agayne the thynges that was past.

Mozeouer / I sawe vnder the sunne vngodlynesse in the steade of iudgement / & iniquyte in steade of ryghteousnesse. Then thought I in my mynde: God shall separate the rygh-tuous fro the vngodly / & then shalbe I tyme and iudgement of all counceils & woekes.
I comened to myne a myne bert all soch cōcerning the chyldre of men: how God hath chosen the / & yet letteth the apeare: as though they were beastes: for it happeneth vnto men as it doth vnto beastes / & as the one dieth / so dyeth the other: yee they haue both one maner of byrth / so that (in this) a man hath no p̄c̄mynence aboue a beast / but all are subdued vnto ha-mitie. They go all vnto one place / for as they be al of dust / so shal they all turne vnto dust agayne. Who knoweth the sp̄yte of man I goeth bpwarde / & I byrth of the beast that goeth downe into I earth? Wherfore I perceaued / I there is nothinge better for a man / then to be Ioyfull in his labour / for that is his porcyon. But who wyl bringe him to se the thynges that shall come after hym?

The myserie of the innocent. The superfluous labours of men. The child that is poore & wyle. &c.

¶ The iij. Chapter.

I turned me / & cōsidered all the vpylent wroge I is done vnder the sunne: & beholde / the teares of soch as were oppressed / & there was no man to cōforte the or I wolde deliuer & defende the fro I violēt of their oppressours.
Wherfore I iudged those that are deed / to be moze happye then soch as be alpye: yet hym that is yet vnborne to be better at ease then they both / because he seith not the myserable woekes that are done vnder the sunne.

Agayne

I Agayne / I sawe that all trauayle and dilygence of labour was hated of euerp man.
Chys is also a bayne thyng / and a vexaciō of mynde. The foole solbeth his hādes together / and easeth bp his awne fleth. One hande full (sayeth he) is better wpyth rest / then both the handes full wpyth labour and trauayle. Mozeouer / I turned me / and be-holde yet another baynte vnder the Sunne.

There is one man / homo but hym selfe alone / haupnge nether chyldre ner byother:
yet is there no ende of his carefull trauayle / hys eyes can not be satysfied wpyth ryches / (yet doth he not remembre him selfe / & saye:) For whom I do take soch trauayle? For whose pleasure do I thus consume awaye my lyfe? Chys is also a bayne and myserable thyng. Wherfore two are better then one / for they maye well enioye the p̄ofyt of their laboure. I one of them fall / hys companion helpeth hym bp agayne: But wo is him that is alone / for yf he fall / he hath not another to helpe him bp. Agayne / when two sleepe together / they are warme: but how can a body be warme alone? One maye be ouer-come / but two maye make resstaunce: A chysolde cable is not lyghtly broken. A poore chyldre beyng wyle / is better then an olde hyng / that doteth / and can not beware in I tyme to come. Some one cometh out of p̄eson / & is made a hyng: & another whych is borne in the hyngdome / cometh vnto pourte. And I perceaued / I all men lyuing vnder the Sunne / go wpyth the secōde chyldre / that cometh bp in the steade of the other.

As for the people that haue bene before hym / and that come after hym / they are num-merable: yet is not their hope the greater thoro to hym. Chys is also a bayne thyng & a vexaciō of mynde. When thou comest in to I house of God / kepe thyfote: & saye my / that thou mayest heare: that is better then I offerynges of foolles / for they knowe not what euell they do.

Some rea-
be: for he is reuer to be-re (under I thynges) the
to reuer the theuities that foley geue.
I shalme rea-
be: rather to heare / then to goue / as foolles offerynges sacry-
fice.

A monition to beware of rather commynycarion.
We ought not to meruel at the oppressed of the poore.
The courteous is not satysfied wpyth his ryches.

¶ The v. Chapter.

I not hadde with thy mouth / & lett not thyne herte speake any thyng rashly before God. For God is in heauen / and thou vpon earth / therfore let thy woordes be fewe. For where much carefullnesse is / there are many dre-mes: and where many woordes are / there men maye heare foolles. If thou make a bowe vnto God / be not slacke to performe it. As for folish voyses / he hath no pleasure in the.
If thou promyse any thyng / paye it: for better it is that thou make no bowe then that Deute. xxiij. b

Mat. vi. c.

thou shuldest promyse / and not paye. Wile not thy mouth to cause thy fleth for tofenne / that thou saye not before the angell my scoolyshnesse is in the faulte. For the God wylbe angrye at thy voyce / & desire oye all I woerch of thyne handes. And why? where as are many dreames and many woordes / there are also dyuerse banities: but loke I thou feare God. If thou seyst the poore to be oppressed and wrongeously dealt wpythail / so that equyte and the ryght of the lawe is wraiked in the lande: maruell not thou at soch iudgment / for one greate man kepeth touch wpyth another / and the myghtie helpe them felues together. The whole lande also wpyth the felbes and all that is therein / is in subseccion and bondage vnto the hyng. He that lotieth money / wyl neuer be satysfied wpyth money:
and who so delieth in ryches / shal haue no p̄ofyt thereof. Is not thys also a bayne thyng? Where as moche ryches is / there are many also that spende them awaye.
And what pleasure moze hath he that pos-selleth them / saynge that he maye loke vpo them wpyth hys eyes? A labouryng ma de-peth swetely / whether it be tyllē or moche I he eateth: but the aboundaunce of the ryche wyl not suffice hym to slepe.

Yet is there a soze plage / which I haue sene vnder the sunne (namely) riches keppe to the hurte of hym that hath them in possession.

For oft tymes they perissh wpyth his greate myserie & trouble: and yf he haue a chyldre / it getteth nothyng. Lyke as he came naked out of his mothers wobe / so goeth he thither agayne / and carryeth nothyng awaye wpyth of all hys laboure. Chys is a myserable plage / I he shal go awaye euē as he came.
What helpeh it hym then / that he hath labozed in the wynde? All the dayes of hys lyfe also must he eate in the darcke / wpyth greate carefullnesse / synnesse and sorow.

Wherfore me thinke it a better and a fayrer thyng / a man to eate and dryncke / and to be refrethed of all hys laboure / that he taketh vnder the Sunne all the dayes of hys lyfe whych God geueth hym / for thys is his porcyon. For vnto whom foeuer God geueth riches / goodes / and power / he geueth it hym to enioye it / to take it for hys porcyon / and to be refrethed of hys laboure: thys is now the gyfte of God. For he thynketh not moche how longe he shal lyue / for so much as God fylleth his herte wpyth gladnesse.

The myserie of the ryche and couetous. The discreaunce of a foole and a wyle man.

¶ The vi. Chapter.

Th. iij.

There

Where is yet a plage vnder þe Sonne / it is a generall thyng amonge men: when God geueth a man ryches / goodes & honoure / so that he wanteth nothyng of all that hys herte can desyre: and yet God geueth hym not leue to enioye the same / but another man spendeth them. This is a bayne thyng & a myserable plage. If a man begett an hundred childre / and lyue many yeares / so that his dayes are many in nombere / and yet can not enioye his good / nether be buried: as for hym I saye / that an vntymely byrth is better then he. For he cometh to naught / & goeth his waye in to darcknes / and his name is forgotten. Whouer he seyth not þe Sonne / & knoweth of no rest nether here / ner there: Yee though he lyued two thousand yeares / yet hath he no good lyfe. Come not all to one place: All the labour þe a man taketh / is for hym selfe / and yet hys desyre is neuer fylled after hys mynde. For what hath the wyse moore then the fool: what helpeth it the poore / that he knoweth to walke before the lyping: & he syght of the eyes is better / then that þe soule shulde so departe awaye. Whouer this is also a bayne thyng and a dysquyetnesse of mynde. What is moze excellent then man: yet can he not in the same get the victorie of of him that is myghtier then he: A bayne thyng is it to cast oute many wordes / but what hath a man els?

¶ That which passeth oure strengthes & written ought we not to seke after.

¶ The vii. Chapter.

Who knoweth what is good / for man lyping / in the dayes of his bayne lyfe / which is but a shadowe? Who will tell a man / what shall happen after him vnder þe Sonne? A good name is moze worth then a precious oymnt / and the daye of death is better then the daye of byrth. It is better to go in to an house of mourning / then in to a bacheleryng house. For there is the ende of all men / & he that is lyping / taketh it to hert. It is better to be soye then to laugh / for when the countenance is heuy / the herte is soylfull. The herte of the wyse is in the mourning house / but the herte of þe foolish is in the house of myrth. It is better to geue eare to the challyngge of a wyse man / then to heare the songe of foolis. For the laughing of foolis is lyke the crackyng of thornes vnder a pot. And that is but a bayne thyng.

Who so doeth wronge / & desyreth a gentle herte. The ende of a thyng is better then the begynnyng. The paciet of spete is better then the hys mynde. Be not hasely angrie in thy mynde / for wotht rellish in the bolome of a fool. Saye not thou: What is the cause that the dayes of the olde tyme were better / then the p that be now: for that were no wyse question. Wysdome is better then ryches / yee moze moze worth then the eye syght. For wysdome defendeth as well a smouere / and the excellent knowledge and wysdome geueth lyfe vnto hym þe hath it in possession. Consider the woche of God / how that no man can make the thyng straight / which he maketh croked. Wale well the tyme of prosperite / and remembre the tyme of mysfortune: for God maketh the one by the other / so þe a mā can fynde nothyng els.

Wysdome geueth moze corage vnto the wyse / then ten myghtie men of þe cite: For there is not one iust vpon earth / þe doth good / and synneth not. Take not hede vnto euery woche that is spoken / lest thou heare the seruauant curse the: for thyne awne herte knoweth / that thou thy selfe also hast oft tymes spoken euell by other men. All these thynges haue I proued because of wysdome: for I thought to be wyse / but he went farther frome then he was before / yee & so depe that I might not reach vnto her. I applied my mynde also vnto knowledge / & to seke oute science / wysdome and vnderstandyng: to knowe the foolishnesse of the vngodly / & the erreure of dotyng foolis. And I founde / that a woman is betterer then death: for she is a veryng angle / her herte is a nett / and her handes are cheynes. Who so pleaseyth God shall escape from her / but the synner wyll be taken with her.

Weholde (sayeth the preacher) this haue I dysgently searched oute and proued / that I myght come by knowledge: whych as yet I seke / and fynde it not. Amonge a thousande men I haue founde one / but not one woman amonge all. Lo / thus onely haue I founde / that God made man iust and right / but they seke byuerse lordshippes / where as nomā hath wysdome and vnderstandyng / to geue answere ther vnto.

¶ The viii. Chapter.

¶ Wysdome

Wysdome maketh a mans face to shine / but malysce putteth it oute of fauoure. Kepe the rynges commaundement / I warne the / and the othe that thou hast made vnto God. Be not hastie to go out of his syght / and se thou continue in no euell thyng: for whatsoeuer it pleaseyth him / þe doeth he. Like as when a king geueth a charge / hys commaundement is myghtie: Euen so who maye saye vnto hym: what doest thou? Who so hepeyth the commaundement / shall fele no harme: but a wyse mans herte discerneth tyme and maner: for euery thyng wyll haue oportunitie and iudgment / and this is the thyng that maketh a man full of carefulnes and sorowe. And why? a man knoweth not what is for to come / for who wyll tell hym? Nether is there any man that hath power ouer the spete / to kepe still the spete / ner to haue any power in þe tyme of death: it is not he also that can make an ende of þe battayll / nether maye vngodlynes deliuer hym that medleth with all.

All these thynges haue I considered / and applied my mynde vnto euery woche that is vnder the Sonne: how one mā hath lordshipe vpon another to his awne harme. For I haue oft sene þe vngodly brought to their graues / and fallen downe from the hye and glorious place: in so moch that they were forgotten in the cytie / where they were had in so hye and greute reputacyon. This is also a bayne thyng. Because now that euell woche is not hastily punished / the herte of man geueth hym selfe ouer vnto wyckednesse. But though an euell personne offende an hundred tymes / and haue a longe lyfe: yet am I sure / that it shall go well with the that feare God / because they haue hym before their eyes. Agayne / as for þe vngodly / it shall not be well with hym / nether shall he longe his dayes: but euen as a shadowe / so shall he be that feareth not God.

¶ Yet is there a banyte vpon earth: There be iust men / vnto whom it happeneth / as though they had the woche of the vngodly: Agayne / there be vngodly / with whom it goeth as though they had the woche of the ryghteous. Chys me thynke also a bayne thyng. Therefore I commende gladnesse / because a man hath no better thyng vnder þe Sonne / then to eate and drynke / and to be merry: for that shall he haue of his labour all the dayes of his lyfe / which God geueth him vnder þe Sonne. When I applied my mynde to learne wysdome / and to knowe the trasayle that is in the worlde (and that of such a fashion / þe I suffred not myne eyes to slepe nether daye ner nyght) I vnderstode of all þe woche of God / that it is not impossible for a man / to attayne vnto the woche that are done vnder the Sonne: & though he bestowe his labour to seke them out / yet can he not reach vnto the: yee though a wyse mā wolde undertake to knowe them / yet myght he not fynde them.

¶ A man wotteth not / by the ryghteousnes of hys awne woche / whether he be worthy of loue or hate. A mā ought to lyue merely with his wyse. & praye of wysdome.

¶ The ix. Chapter.

Who all these thyngs purposed I in my mynde to seke oute. The ryghteous & wyse yee & their woche: these also are in the hande of God: & there is no man that knoweth ether þe loue or hate of the thyng that he hath before him. It happeneth vnto one as vnto another: It goeth with the ryghteous as with the vngodly: with the good and cleane as with the vncleane: with hym that offereth as with hym that offereth not: lyke as it goeth with þe vertuous / so goeth it also with the synner: As it happeneth vnto the pured / so happeneth it also vnto hym þe is afraid to be forsworne. Amonge all thynges that come to passe vnder the Sonne / this is a mystry / that it happeneth vnto all alike. This is the cause also þe hertes of men are full of wyckednesse / and madd foolysnesse is in their hertes as longe as they lyue / vntill they dye.

¶ And why? Is longe as a man lyueth / he is careless: for a quick dogg (saye they) is better then a deelyon: for they that be lyping / knowe that they shall dye: but they that be deelyon / knowe nothyng / nether deserue they any moze. For their memorie is forgotten / so þe they be nether loued / hated ner enuyed: nether haue they any moze parte in þe worlde / in all that is done vnder þe Sonne. Whouer thy wage then / eate thy bred with ioye / and drynke thy wyne with gladnesse / for thy woche please God. ¶ Let thy garmentes be alwaye whyte / & let thy head wat none oymnt. Wale thy selfe to lyue so fully with thy wyse whom thou louest / all the dayes of thy lyfe / which is but bayne / þe God hath geuen manerly a reward. For that is thy porcion in this lyfe / of all thy labour and trasayle that thou takest vnder the Sonne. Whatsoeuer thou takest in hande to do / that do with all thy power: for amysge the deers / where as thou goest vnto / there is nether woche / counsell / knowledge ner wysdome.

¶ So I turned me vnto other thynges vnder the Sonne / and I sawe / that in runyng / it helpeth not to be swyft: in battayll / it helpeth not to be stronge: to fedynge / it helpeth not to be wyse: to ryches / it helpeth not to be

¶ Some reade: and man knoweth ne / ther the loue / ner the hate: which is all the / sent ce / synne / flesh as moche / as no mā knoweth whether / God loue or hate any man: vnderstande / by the right / wises of hys awne woche.

¶ That is / he not knowyng / and synchelp / lyfe / which is but bayne / & God hath geuen manerly a reward.

¶ Ph. iii. Outell

Succell: to be had 'n fauoure / it helpeth not to be comminge: but that all lyeth in tyme and fortune. ffor a man knoweth not hys tyme / but lyke as the fyfhe are taken wryth the angle / and as the byrdes are catched wryth the snare: Euen so are men takē in the perious tyme / when it commeth suddenly vpon them.

Whis wylsome haue I sene also under the Sonne/ and me thought it a greate thyng.
 There was a litle cite/ and a feweme with in it: so there came a greate kynge and beleged it / & made greate bulwarches agaynst
 it. And in the ctyte there was founde a poore man (but he was wyse) which wth hys wyl-some deliuered the ctyte: yet was there no body/ that had eny respecte vnto soch a symple man. Then sayde I: wylsome is better then strength. Neuertheles / a symplemans wylsome is despised/ and his wordes are not herde. A wyse mā's counceill that is folowed in sylence / is farre aboue the cryenge of a captayne amonge fooles. * ffor wylsome is better then harnesse: but one bnt^h yf alone destroyeth moch good.

EThe difference betwixt a sole and a twyle man.
Fortunate and happie is that realme which hath a twyle pryncer.

The x-Chapter.

Deepest & corruppe swete oymment and make it to synche / are somthyng moze worth then the wyldome and honoure of a foole.
A wyse mans herte is * vpon & ryght hāde / but a foolers herte is vpp the left. A dotynge foole thynketh / that euery man both as foolyshly as hym selfe. If a princypall sprete be geuen the to beare rule / be not negligēt then in thyne offyce: for to shall greate wyched-nesse be put downe / as it were with a mede-

28 cyne. Another plague is there / whych I haue sene vnder the sonne: namely / the ignozafice that is commonly amonge p^rinces: in that a foole syteth in greate dignyte / and the ryche are sett downe beneth : I se seruantes ryde vpon hofes / a p^rinces goinge vpo their fete as it were seruantes. * But he þat p^reggeth vpon a pyt / shall fall therein him selfe : a who so breaketh downe þe hedge / a Serpēt shall bite hym . who so remoueth stones / shall haue trauayle therwith: a he þat beweth wod / shall be hurt therwith.

is great madnesse. A foole is so full o f words/that a man can not tell what ende he will make: who will then warne hym to make a conclusyō: & the labour of the foole is greuous vnto the / whyle they knowe not how to go in to the citty.

Woe be unto the (O thou realme & lande) D whose kyng is but a childe / & whose prynces are earp at their banckettes. But well is the (O thou realme and lande) whose king is come of nobles / and whose prynces rate in due season / for strength and not for lust.
 Whoso stouthe fullie & halch / fall downe / and thow ydle handes it rayneth in at the house. Meate maketh men to laugh / & wine maketh them mery: but unto money are all thynges obedient. With the kyng no euell in thy thought / and speake no hurte of & ryche in thy pryncy chambrer: for a chyde of the ayre shall betraye thy boyce / and with her selynes shall she betraye thy wordes.

Qryphell ought to be distribute unto the needy.

The 11. Chapter.

Sende.* the bytayles ouer the waters / & so wait thou vnder the after monge seuen or eyght / for thou knowest not what mysery shall come vpon earth. *1) whē þe cloudes are full / they poure out raine vpon the earth. And when the tre falleth / whether it be towarde the South or North / in what place soeuer it fall / there it lyeth. He that regardeth the wynde / shall not lowe: and he þe hath respecte vnto þe cloudes / shall not reape. Now lyke as thou knowest not the waye of the wynde / ner how þe bones are fylled in a mothers wombe: Euē so thou knowest not the workers of God / whych is the workemaister of all.

Crease not thou therefore with thy handes to some thy lede. / whether it be in the monyng or in the euenyng: for thou knowest not whether this or that shall prosper / and yf they both take / it is the better. The lyght is swete / and a pleasaunt thyng is it for the eyes to loke vpon the Sunne. If a man haue many prayes / and be glad in them all / let him remembze the dayes of darknesse / whych shall be many: 3 when they come / all thyngs shall be but banys. Be glad then (O thou yonge man) in thy youth: and let thine herte be mery in thy yonge dayes: solowe þe wayes of thine a lone herte / & the lust of thine eyes: but be thou sure / that God shall brynge the in to iudgment for all these thynges.

¶ From once you sh^ould we to consider and re-garde the goodnes of God.

Rut awaye displeasure out of thyne of the wyndowes shall waxe dymme: when the doores in the stretes shalbe shutt/ & when the boyce of the myller shalbe layed downe:

when men shall ryle vp at the boyce of the byrde/ and when all the daughters of musike shalbe brought lowe: when men shall feare in hye places/ and be afayred in the stretes:
when the Almonde trece shalbe despyled/ the (saith þe Preacher) all is but playne vanite.

The same Preacher was not wyle alone/but taught þ people knowledge also: he ga-ue good hede / sought out the ground and set forth many parables. His diligence was to fynde out acceptable wordes, ryght scripture /and the wordes of trueth. For the wordes of the wyle are like pyckes and nayles that goo tothow / toherwith men are kepte together: so they are geue of one sheperde one-ly. Therfoze be warre (my some) that aboue these thou make the not many and innumerable bokes / no: take dyuerse doctrynes in hande / to weery thy body withall.

Let vs heare the cōclufion of al thinges:
 Feare God: and kepe hys cōmaundemētes/For that toucheth all men: For God ſhall iudge all woꝝkes and ſecret thynges/whē
 they be good
 or euell.

¶ The ende of the booke of the Preacher/other wyse called Ecclesiastes.

Come into my garden & my sister/my Spouse: & haue gathered my Myrrour with my Myrrour. I will eate my hony and my hony combe: & I will drynke my wyne and my myrrour.

Christ to the Church.
Care, & ye frendes, drynke & be merry/ye beloved.

Christ to the Church.
As I was a slepe, & my hert was ynge/hearde the voyce of my beloved / when he knocked.

Christ to the Church.
Open to me (sayde he) & my sister/my loue/my dowe, my derlyng: for my heade is full of dewe/and the lockes of my hearte are full of the myghty dropes.

Christ to the Spouse.
I haue put of my cote/how can I do it on agayne: I haue washed my fete / how shall I cleane them agayne?

Christ to the Church.
But when my loue put in his hand at the hole, my herte was moued toward hym: so that I toode by to open vnto my beloved. My handes dropped with Myrrour / & the Myrrour ranne downe my fingers vpon the lock. Ne-uerthelesse when I had opened vnto my be-loued, he was departed and gone hys waye.

How lyke as afoze tyme when he spake/my herte coude not longer refrayne: & then so now I sought hym, but I coude not fynde him: I cryed vnto hym / neuerthelesse he gaue me no answer.

Christ to the Church.
So the watchmen that wente about the cite founde me / smote me / & wounded me: Yee they that kepte the walles/toke awaye my garment frome.

Christ to the Church.
I charge you therfore, & ye daughters of Jerusalem / ye fynde my beloved / that ye tell hym how that I am sick for loue.

Christ to the Church.
Who is thy loue aboute other louers / & thou sayest amonge women: & what can thy loue do / more then other louers / & thou chargest vs so straitly?

Christ to the Church.
As for my loue, he is whyte and redde coloured / a singular personne amonge many thousandes: his heade is the most fine golde/the lockes of his hearte are bushed / browne as the euenynge: His eyes are as the eyes of doves by the water brookes / washed with mylk/and remainynge in a plenteous place: His cheekes are lyke a garden bedd / where in the Apotecaries plate almaner of swete thinge: His lippes droppe as the floures of & most principall Myrrour / his handes are full of golde rings & precious stones. His body is as the pure purp / dect over with Sapphires: His legges are as the pylers of Harbell / set vpon sockets of golde: His face is as Libanus/and as the betwixe of the Cedre trees: His thyrote is swete / yee he is altogether louely.

Soche one is my loue / & ye daughters of Jerusalem / soche one is my loue.

Christ to the Church.
Whither is thy loue gone then (& thou sayest amonge women) whither is thy loue departed / that we may fynde hym with the?

Christ to the Church.
My loue is gone downe into his garden / vnto the swete smellyng bed-des / that he may refresh him selfe in the garden / & gather floures.
My louers myne / and I am his / which se-beth amonge the lippes.

Christ to the Church.
Thou art pleasaunt (& my loue) euen as louelynelle it self / thou art saye as Jerusalem / glorious as an armie of men / in their banners. (Turne awaye thyne eyes frome / for they make me so proude.) My hearte lockes are lyke a flocke of goates vpon the mount of Galaad. Thy teth are lyke a flock of shepe that be clipped / which go out of the washynge place: where euerie one beareth two twinys / and not one vnfrutefull amonge them. Thy cheekes are lyke a peece of a pomgranate / besydes that which lyeth byd within. There are thye scoze Quenes / foure scoze concubines / & yonge women without nombre. But one is my dowe / my derlyng. She is the onely beloved of her mother / and deare vnto her that bare her. When the daughters sawe her / they sayde / We was blessed: Yee the Quenes & concubynes prayd her.

Christ to the Church.
What is the this / that peperth out as the moynynge: saye as the moone / excellent as the sunne / glorious as an armie of men / with their banners.

Christ to the Church.
I wente downe into the notte garden / to se what grewe by the brookes / to loke yf the vineyarde flourished / and yf the pomgranates were shot forth.

Christ to the Church.
Then the charettes of the Prince of my people made me sodenly astrayed.

Christ to the Church.
Turne agayne / turne agayne / & thou Sulamite / turne agayne / turne agayne / & we may loke vpon the.

Christ

Christ to the Church.
What pleasure haue ye more in the Sulamite / than when she daun-ceth amonge the men of warre?

Christ to the Church.
How pleasaunt are thy treadynge / to thy shues / thou prices daughter: & thy thyges are lyke a saye iewel / which is wrought by a conynge wothe master: Thy nauell is lyke a rosin goblet / which is neuer without drinke: Thy wombe is lyke an hepe of wheate / sett about with lippes: Thy two brestes are lyke two twinys of posage roses: Thy neck is as it were a tower of puerp: thyne eyes are lyke the water poles in Bethon / beynde & pozt of Bathzabbar: thy nose is lyke the tower of Libanus / which loketh toward Damalus:
That head that standeth vpon the is lyke Carmel: the hearte of thy heade is lyke the hynges purple folden by in plates.

Christ to the Church.
How saye & louely art thou / my dear-lyng / in pleasures: Thy stature is lyke a date tree / and thy brestes lyke the grapes.

Christ to the Church.
I sayde: I will clymme by into the date tree / and take holde of his banches.

Christ to the Church.
Thy brestes also shall be as the hyne grapes / the smell of thy nostrels lyke the smell of apples: & thy thyrote lyke the beste wyne.
This shall be pure & cleare for my loue / hys lippes and teth shall haue their pleasure.
There will I turne me vnto my loue / & he shall turne hym vnto me.

Christ to the Church.
Come on my loue / let vs go forth into the felde / and take oure lodgynge in the byllages. In the moynynge will we ryle by tymes / and go se the byneyarde: yf it be syngge forth / yf the grapes be growne / & yf the po-granates be shot out. There will I geue the my brestes: there shall the Mandragoras geue their smell besyde oure dozes: there / & my loue / haue I kepte vnto the all maner of frutes / both new and olde.

Christ to the Church.
The batrachys speakeynge of Christ.

Christ to the Church.
That I myght fynde the without/and kyle the / whom I loue as my brother which suckte my mothers brestes: & that thou woldest not be offended / yf I toke the / and brought the into my mothers house: & thou myghtest teache me / and that I might geue the drinke of spiced wyne & of the swete saype of my pomgranates. His left hand lyeth vnder my head and his right hande embzaceeth me.

Christ to the Church.

I charge you / & ye daughters of Jerusalem / that ye wake not by my loue / ner touch her / tyl she be content her selfe.

Christ to the Church.
What is the this / that cometh by fro the wyldernes / and leaneeth vpon her loue?

Christ to the Church.
I am the samethat waked the by amoge the apple trees / where thy mother bare the / where thy mother brought the in to & world.

Christ to the Church.
Set me as a scale vpon thyne hert / and as a scale vpon thyne arme: for loue is myghtye as the death / and gelously as the hell. Her coales are of tyre / and a very flame of the Lorde: so that many waters are not able to quiche loue / nether maye & streames drowne it. Yee yf a man wolde geue all the good of his house for loue / he shulde counte it nothyng.

Christ to the Church.
When oure loue is tolde oure younge sister / whose brestes are not yet growne / what shall we do vnto her?

Christ to the Church.
Yf she be a wall / we shall buyde a syluer bolwercke ther vpon: yf she be a tower / we shall fasten her with bordres of Cedre tre.

Christ to the Church.
Yf she be a wall / & my brestes like towres / then am I as one that hath founde fauoure in his syght.

Christ to the Church.
Salomō had a byneyarde at Baal Hamon / this byneyarde delquered he vnto the hepers: that euerie one for the frute therof shulde geue him a thousand peces of syluer.

Christ to the Church.
But my byneyard / & Salomon / geueth the a thousand / and two hundred to the he-pers of the frute. Thou that dwellest in the gardens / & let me heare thy voyce / that my companions maye herken to the same.

Esa. vi. b.

The worde of the Lorde endureth for ever.
Esay. xl. a.

Jerusalem & Juda. The booke of the prophete Esay.

Esay prophesieth that the anger of God shall come upon Jerusalem because of their synnes.

The first Chapter.

In the vision of Esay the sonne of Amos / which he sawe upon Juda & Jerusalem: In the time of Oziah / Joatham / Ahaz / and Jheremias / synnes of Juda. Heare the word of the Lord / for the Lord speaketh: I have not heard a brought by chyldren / and they are false a waye from me. In ore knoweth his Lord / & an Iste his masters shall / but Israel knoweth nothyng / my people hath no understanding. Alas for this synfull people / which are experte in blasphemys / a forward generation / bunnaturall chyldren. They have forsaken the Lorde / they have prouoked the hoip one of Israel vnto anger / & are gone backward. wherfore shulde ye be plagued any more? For ye are euer fallenge a waye. The whole head is sick / & the herte is very heuy. From the sole of fote vnto the head / there is no whole parte in all your body: but all are woundes / botches / sores & bruyes / which can nether be helped / bounde by / mollified / ner eased with any oymment.

Your lande lyeth waste / your cities are bzint by / your enemyes deuoure your land / and ye must be fayne to stande / and loke vpon it: and it is desolate / as it were with enemyes in a battell. Mozeouer / the daughter of Sion is left alone lyke a cotage in a vineyard / lyke a watchhouse in tyme of warre / lyke a beleged ctye. And excepte the Lord of Hostes had left vs a few alpye: we shulde haue bene as Sodom / and lyke vnto Gomorra.

Here the worde of the Lord ye tyrantes of Sodom: and herken vnto the lawe of our God / thou people of Gomorra. Why offere ye so many sacryfices vnto me? I am displeased with you / & bzento synnes of wethers / here callerth the Lord / & fatnelle of fedbeastes. I haue no complaisance in the bloude of bullockes / lambes / and goates. When ye appeare before me / who requyre I ou to treade within my porches? Offere no mo oblations / for it is but lost labour. I abhorre your incense. I maye not awaye / your newmoones / your Sabathes / your Solempne dayes. Your fastynge are also in vayne. I hate your newe holy dayes / & synnges / euen fro my very herbe. They make me weery / I can not abyde them. Though ye holde out your handes / yet turne I myne eyes from you. And though ye make many prayers / yet heare I nothyng at all / for your handes are full of bloude.

Wash you / make you cleane / put awaye your euell thoughtes out of my syght / cease from doyng of euell and violence. Lerne to do ryght / applye your selues to equyte / deliuer the oppressed / helpe the fatherlesse to his ryght / let the wydowes complaynte come before you. Now go to / sayeth the Lorde / we will talke together. Is it not so? Though your synnes be as read as scarlet / shal they not be whiter then snowe? And though they were like purple / shal they not be like white wolles? Is it not so? If ye be lounyng and obdient / ye shall enioye the best thyng that groweth in the lande. But if ye be obstinate & rebellious / ye shalbe deuoured wth the swerde: for thus the Lorde hath promysed to his awne mouth.

How happeneth it then that the ryghtuous ctye / which was full of equyte / is become vnfaithfull as an whoze: rightuous dwelt in it / but now murthure. The Spyllet is turned to brosse / and the wyne myxted with water. The princes are traytours and compassions of theues. They loue gyftes altogethert / and solow rewardes. As for the fatherles / they helpe him not to his ryghte / nether will they lett the wydowes causes come before them. Wherfore speaketh the Lord God of Hostes / the myghty one of Israel: Ah I must ease me of myne enemyes / and a benge me vpon them. And therfore shall I laye my hand vpon the / and burne out thy brosse from the synest and purest / and put out all the lead / and let thy iudges agayne as they were sonetye / and thy Senatours as they were from the begynnyng. Then shalt thou be called the ryghtuous ctye / the faithfull ctye. But Sion shalbe redeemed with equyte / and her captiuite with ryghtuousnesse. For the trasgressours and vngodly / and such as are become vnfaithfull vnto the Lord / must altogethert be utterly destroyed.

And excepte ye be ashamed of the oke trees wherin ye haue so delpted / and of the gardes that ye haue chosen: ye shalbe as an oke whose leaues are fallen awaye / as a garde that hath no moystnesse. And as for the glory of these thynges / it shalbe turned to drye strawe / and he that made them to a sparke. And they shall both burne together / so that no man shalbe able to quench them.

Of the comynge and deeth of Christ: and of the callynge of the heathen.

The prophesie that at the coming of Christ all strength & power shall be put forth of Ieruse.

Every man can eschue a persone moued in anger/ so: what doth he wysely? Euen so shall the Lord of Hostes take awaye from Ierusalem a Iuda/ all possessions a power/ all meat and drinke/ the captayne a the souldpate/ a Iudge a the prophete/ the wyse a the aged man/the woorshipfull of sytie yeare olde / a the honorable/ the Senatours/ and men of vnder-standing: the masters of crafter a oratours.
And I shall geue you chyldren to be youre prynces (sayeth the Lord) a babes shall haue the rule of you. One shall euer be doyng violence and wronge to another. The hope shall presume agaynst the eider/ and the byle persone agaynst a honozable. Ye one shall take a frende of his awne kynred by the bosome/and saye: "thou hast clothyn/ thou shalt be oure head/ so: thou mayest kepe vs fro thys fall and perrell.

¶ Then shall he sweare and saye: I can not helpe you. Moreover/ there is neither meate nor clothyng in my house/ make me no ruler of the people. For Ierusalem and Iuda must decaye / because that both their wordes & counceils are agaynst the Lorde / they prouoke the presence of hys mayesty vnto anger. The chaunginge of their countenance bewrayeth the/ yee they declare their synnes synnes them selues/as the Sodomites/and hyde them not. Wo be vnto their soules / for they shal be heuely rewarded. ¶ When shal they saye: O happy are the godly / for they maye entoye the frutes of their studies. But wo be to the bngodly & bmyghtuous for they shal be rewarded after their woorkes. ¶ My people/ ^{the} rybaudes oppresse the/ & women haue rule of the.

Whoreouer thus sayeth þe Lorde: Seinge þe daughters of Sion are he come so proude/and come in with stretched out neckes / and with hye wanton eyes: Seynge they come in treppynge so nyceley with their fete: Ther-foze shall the Lorde *haue the heades of þe daughters of Sion / & make their betwyxe bare in þe daye. In that daye shall the Lorde take awaye þe gorgiounes of their apparell/rynges and garlandes / holp daye clothes &

And in steade of good smell there shalbe stynch amonge them. And for their gyddes there shalbe some bandes. And for well sett stomacher / a sack cloth / & for their bewty wytheoponede & sonneburnyng. their hous-

Whether they be chylde christend/ or marriages made/ or men come

Moreover vpo all the dwellinges of the hyll of Sion and vpon their whole congregacion / shall the Lord poure a cloude and smoke by daye / and the sprayng of a flaminge fyre by night: for all their gloze shall be persued. And Ierusalem shall be a tabernacle for a shadowe because of hete in þ daye tyme / a place and refuge where a man maye kepe him for wether and rayne.

Well / I shall tell you how I will do with my vineparde: I will take the hedge fro it/that it maye perishe / & bryake downe the wall/that it maye be troden vnder fote. I will laye it waste / & it shall neither be twisled no; cut/but beare thornes and brestes. I will also forbyd the cloudes / that they shall not rayne vpon it. As for the vineparde of the Lord of Holtes it is the house of Israel / a whole Iu-equyte / but se there is wyldege: so; rightwousneghe are more superfluous wryth wyne. In those companyes are harpes and lutes / tabrettes and pypes / and wyne. But they regard not the moche of the Lorde / and consider not the operation of his handes. Therefore commeth my folk also in captivite / because they have no understandinge. Their glory shall be myrte wryth hunger / and their pryde shall be married to thyrsle. Therefore gapeth heil / and openeth her mouth marvelous wyde: that pryde / boostynge and wyl-dom / with such as relye therein / maye descende in to it.

Thus shall man have a fall / he shall be brought lowe / & he shall loke of the proude layde downe. But the Lorde of Hostes / that holy God / shall be exalted & intoucheth / when he shall declare his equitye and ryghteousnesse after this maner: When shall I lambes eat their apointed fodder / & shall fede plentifully in the mostaynes. Who be unto bayne persones / that drawe wyckednesse unto the / as it were with a coorde: & synne / as it were with a cart rope. Which shal to speake on thys maner: let him make haste now / and go forth with his wycke / that we maye se it. Lett the councill of the holy one of Israel come / and drawe nye / that we maye knowe it.

Who be unto them that call euell good / & good euell: which make darthe lycht / & lycht darthe / that make sower swete / and swete sower. Who be unto them that are toyle in their awne lycht / and thynke them selues to have understandinge. Who be unto them / that are conynge men to suppe oute wyne / and experte to sett by donckemess. These geue sentence wryth the vngodly for rewardes / but condemne the iust cause of the ryghteous.

Therefore lyke as fyre lyketh by strawe / and as the flame consumeth the stubble: euell so / when their roters full / their blossome shall banysh awaye lyke dust or smoke: for they bespyle the lawe of the Lord of Hostes / and blasfeme the worde of the holy maker of Israel.

Therefore is the wrath of the Lord kyndled also agaynst his people / and he waketh his hande at them: yee he shall smyte so / that the hylls shall tremble. And their harcares shall lye in the open stretes / lyke myrte. Allet all this / the wrath of God shall not cease / but he shall stretch his hande wyder. And he shall geue a token unto a straunge people / and call unto them in a farre countre: and behold / they shall come hastily wryth speede. There is not one saynt nor feble amonge the / no not a doggish nor slepery persone. There shall not one of them put of the gyde from his lognes / nor lowse their lachet of his shue

Their arrowes are sharpe / and their bowes bent. Their horse hooles are lyke flynt / and their cartwheles like a stormy winde. Their crye is as it were of a tyon / and the roaring of the lyke tyons whelpes. They shall roare / and hantch by the pryde / and no man shall recover it or get it from the. In that daye they shall be so scarce upon them / as the see. And yf we loke vnto the lande / behold / it shall be all darthe and lowe. If we loke to heauen: behold / it shall be darthe wryth carefull desperacyon.

Clay sawe the glorie of the Lorde / and was sent to prophete the desolacion of Iurye.

The vij. Chapter.

In the same yere that kynge Dabiah dyed I sawe the Lorde sytting vpon an hygh & glorious seate / and his trayne fylled the palace. Aboute flaketh the Seraphins / wherof euery one had six wynges. Wryth twayne ech couered his face / wryth twayne his fete / and wryth twayne dyd he lye. They cryed also ech one to other on this maner: holy holy holy / is the Lord of Hostes. The whole world is full of his glorie. Yee the geastes and doxechekes moved at their cryenge / and the house was full of smoke. Then I sayde: Who is me. For I was astonysed: that I (whych am a man of vncleane lippes / and dwell amonge people that hath vncleane lippes also) shuld se the kynge and Lorde of Hostes with myne eyes.

Then flew one of the Seraphins vnto me / hauynge a hote cole in his hande / whych he had taken from the auter with the tonges / and touched my mouth / and sayde: lo / thes hath toucheth my mouth / and thine vncleane rightousnes is taken awaye / and thy synne forgiven. After this I heide the voyce of the Lorde saynge aduylement on thys maner: Whome shall I sende / and who shal be our messenger? Then I sayde: here am I / sende me. And so he sayde: go / and tell thys people: yee shall heare in dede / but ye shall not vnderstande / ye shall plane ly se / & not perceaue. Harden the harte of this people / stoppe their eares / & shut their eyes / that they se not wryth their eyes / heare not wryth their eares / & vnderstande not wryth their hertes / and couerte and be healed.

Then spake the Lorde / how longe he answered: vntill the cytyes be utterly wythout inhabytours / and the houses wythout men / vntill the lande be also desolate / & lye vnburied. For the Lorde shall take the men farre awaye / so that the lande shall lye waste. Neuertheles / the tenth parte shall remayne therein / for it shall conuerte and be fruite full full. And lyke wyse as the Cerebyntes and Wheatrees brynge forth their frutes / so shall the holy sede haue frute.

The Syrians more battell agaynst Jerusalem. A virgin shall beare a chyld.

The viij. Chapter.

It happened in the tyme of Ahaz the sonne of Iotham / whych was the sonne of Dabiah kynge of Iudah: that Razin the kynge of Siria / and Phakeh the sonne of Romeliah / kynge of Israel: went by toward Jerusalem to beslege it / but wanne it not. Now when the house of David (that is Ahaz) herde worde therof / that Siria and Ephraim were confederate together: his herte quaked / yee and the hertes also of his people lyke as a tre in the felde / that is moued with the wynde.

Then sayde God vnto Clay: go mete Ahaz (thou and thy sonne Scar Tasub) at the head of the ouer pole / in the fote path by the fullers grounde / and saye vnto hym: take hede to thy selfe and be still / but feare not / nether be saygharted / for these two tales: that is: for these two smokynge fyre byandes / the wrath and furiosnes of Razin the Sirian and Romelies sonne: because that the kynge of Siria Ephraim & Romelies sonne haue wickedly conspired agaynst the / sayng: We wyll goo downe into Iuda / bere them / and bynne them vnder vs / and set a kynge there / euen the sonne of Abael. For thus sayeth the Lorde God therto / It shall not so goo forth / nether come so to passe: for the head cytye of the Sirians is Damascus / but the head of Damascus is Razin. And after thys & thre score yere / shall Ephraim be nomore a people. And the cheste cytye of Ephraim is Samaria / but the head of Samaria is Romelies sonne. And yf ye beleue not / there shall no byrnyng be kepte with you.

Moreouer / God spake vnto Ahaz / sayng: requyre a token of the Lorde thy God / wherther it be towarde the depth beneath or towarde the heygth aboue. Then sayde Ahaz: I wyll requyre none / nether wyll I tempte the Lorde. The Lorde answered: When heare thou / ye of the house of David: Is it not ynough for you / that ye be greuous vnto men / but ye must greue my God also? And therefore the Lorde shall geue you a token of hym selfe: Beholde / a virgin shall conceaue and beare a sonne / and shall call his name Emanuel. Butter and hony shall he eate / that he maye knowe the euell / and chosse the good. But o euer & chylde come to knowledg / to eschue the euell and chosse the good: the lande (that thou art so stayde for) shall be desolate of both her kynnes.

The Lorde also shall sende a tyme vpon the / vpon the people / and vpon the cathedrales house (such as neuer came sence the tyme that Ephraim departed from Iuda) thozow the hynde of the Sirians. For at the same tyme shall the Lorde whyle for the fyres that are aboute the water of Egypt / and for the Bees in the Sirians lande. These shall come / and shall lycht all in the valeyes / in the valeyes of Syria / Egypt / of Iudah / vpon all grene thynges / and in all comers.

At the same tyme shall the Lorde haue the heart of the head and the fete and the beerd cleane of / wryth the rasoure he shall paye them withall beyonde the water name / wryth the kynge of the Sirians. At the same tyme shall a man lye with a cowe / & two shepe: then because of the aboundance of mych / he shall make butter and eate it. So that euery one which remayneth in the lande / shall eate butter and hony. At the same tyme all bynnynges (though there be a thousande bynnes in one / and were solde for a thousande silver pynnes) shall be turned to byers and thornes. Lyke as they shall come in to the lande wryth arrowes and bowes / so shall all the lande be come byers and thornes. And as for all hylls that now are betwen downe / thou shalt not come vpon them / for feare of byers and thornes. But the castell shall be byruen thryther / and the shepe shall fede there.

The deliuerance of the lande by Emanuel. The soue of offencar which many shall comble.

The ix. Chapter.

Remember the Lord sayde vnto me: Take the a grate iras / and wryle in it / as men do with a penne / that I the speche hym to robbe / and haile him to people. And immediatly I called vnto me saythfull wyrmes: Razin the prest / and Zachariah the sonne of Barachiah. After that went I vnto the Prophetesse / that now had conceaued & borne a sonne. Then sayde the Lorde to me: geue him thys name: Ahabertchalai hachbas (that is: a spede robber: an hachie spople). For why / o euer the chylde shall haue knowledg to saye: Abi and Im / (that is father / and mother): shall the ryches of Damascus and the substance of Samaria be taken awaye / thozow the kynge of the Sirians.

The Lorde spake also vnto me / sayng: For so moch as the people refusethe the still remynge water of Silo / and put their dryte in Razin and Romelies sonne: Behold / the Lorde shall bynne myghtye and greete floudes of water vpon the: namely / the kynge of Sirias with all his power. The Golbery tymber is broken, but we shall sett it by agayne with Cedze. It shall neuer be more inhabited / nether

The Arabians shall make no more tents there, neither shall the Shepherdes make their foldes there any more: but wild beasts shall lye there, & the houses shall be full of great Owles. Estriches shall dwell there, and a pes shall daunce there: the lytle Owles shall crye in the palaces, one after another, and Dragons shall be in the pleasaunt parlours. And as for Babelons tyme it is at hand, and her dayes maye not be longe absent:

The retourne of the people from captiuitie. The prosperitie of the people of God / and affliction of their enemies. The pride of Babylon.

A prophecy against Sodom.

This is the heuy burthen dyd Moab: Ar of Moab was destroyed (as me thought) in the nyght season:
The wailles of Moab perished in the nyght / & banyshed awaye: They were to Baith & Dibon in þe hye places / for to wepe:
Moab dyd mourne from Nebo to Medba:
All their heades were colled / and all their heardes shauen. In their stretes were they gyrded aboute with sack cloth. In all þe top-pes of their houses and stretes was there no thyng / but mournynge & wepyng. Hesebon and Eleale cryed / that their boyce was hearde vnto Jahaz. The wythtes also of Moab beared and cryed for very sorow of their mynnes: Who is my herte for Moabs sake. They fled vnto the cyte of Zoar / which is lyke a layze frutefull bullock / they went vp to Luhith / wepyng. The waye towarde Hozonaim was full of lamentacyon for the hurt. The waters of Dimon were dyed by the grasse was wythred / & herbes destroyed / a what necessary grene thinge there was besyde. In lyke maner the thyng that was left them of their substance / they carped it by water to Araby. The crye wet ouer þe whole lande of Moab: fro Eglaim vnto Beer / was there nothinge but mournynge. The waters of Dimon were full of bloude / for the enemye had sent thither a bonde of men / which as a lyon laye a wayte for the remmaunt of the lande & for them that were escaped.

CA prophete agaprie Egypt.

● The. xviij. Chapter.

Whe to the lande of Egypt theyppech is of this syde the floude of Ethiopia: which sendeth her message ouer the see in theyp-pes bpo the water: and sayeth: goo soone / do poure message onto a straunge and harde folke: to a fearfull people / a to a people that is further then this: to a desperate and pylled folke, whose lande is deuoued fro bz with ryuers of water. Yee all ye that lye in the con-
 passe of the world / and dwell vpon the earth:
 when the token shalbe geuen vpon the mostsaynes / then loke bp: and when the horne bloweth / then hearken to / for thus hath the Lorde sayde vnto me. I layde me downe / and pondered the matter in my house / at the noone daye whē it was hote: And there fell a mysynge shower / lyke a dew / as it happe-neth in Haruest. But the frutes were not yet rype cut of / and the grapes were but younge and grene. Then one smote of /
 the

the grapes id an hoke / pee he hewed downe also the bowes and the bzaiches / & dyd cast the awaye. And thus they were layde waste / for the foules of the mountaynes / & for the beastes of the earth together. So that the foules sat ther vpon / & the beastes of the earth wintered there. Then shall there be a present brought vnto the Lorde of Hostes: eue that harde folke / that fearful folke / & that further is then thys: that desperate and pylled folke (whose lande is deuyded fro by wylth floudes of water) vnto the place of the name of the Lorde of Hostes: eue vnto the hill of Syon.

The prophecyeth still agaynst Egypte.

The .xx. Chapter.

In this is the heuy burthen vpon Egypte:
Beholde / the Lorde wyll. * cpe vpon a swifte cloude / & come vnto Egypte. And the goddesses of Egypte shall tremble at hys comynge / & the heie of Egypte shall quake wylth in her. For thus sayeth the Lorde: I wyll steepe by the Egyptians one agaynst another amonge them. I will deliuer Egypte also in to the handes of greuous rulers / and a cruell kynge shall haue the rule of them. * The water of the see shall be drawen out / Nilus shall synche awaye / & be drye. The ryuers also shall be drye awaye. Rede & rush shall sayle / & graue by the waters syde: & vpon the ryuers backe / pee and whatsoeuer is sowe by the waters / shall be wythered / & destroyed, and brought to naught. The fyshers shall mourne / all such as cast angles in the water / shall cōplayne / & they that spredde their nettes in the water / shall be sayn harted. Soch as laboure vpon flax & spych / shall come to pouerte / & they also that weue fine wozyes. All the poundes in here called by diuers names: some tyme the see / some tyme ryuers / some tyme welles / some tyme poundes. & c. For that shalbe cōfessyd. bñ. sond. p. wapes: & it is called the see / not only because the hebrues call al congregacyons of waters the see / generally: but also because it was of old tyme a condeit opyned after the storyes: that it hath his originall begynnyng from the Ocean see. Ye maye also vnderstand by the dy-nec of Nilus: that it ouerflowed not the lande / contrarye to the olde accustomed maner therof. Some had leuer haue this to be figurately applied. As there be certen waters of the Gospell / whych the holy goost geuech: so are ther also the troublous waters of Egypt / that is / of wo: idyl doctrine. Therfore when the word of God is ones heard / those waters drye by: For the holy goost repyndereth the woyle of spynne: & opneth & declareth the wozyes of darcknes. In these waters do fede & enlure groweth that is: vayne & traynyng wozyes: such as are the wozyes of hyppocrytes / which after the outward shewe a performance seems greene & frische: but are withyn vayne & naught wozye.

of Egypte / all the pollyce of their Moates and dyches shall come to naught.

Yee the bndyscrete Princes of Zoan / the cōcill of the wise Senatours of Pharaon / shall turne to foolysnesse: Those that darre boast & saye of Pharaos behalfe: I am come of wyle people / I am come of the olde regall Progeny. But where are now thy wise men?
Let them tell the & shewe the / what the Lorde of Hostes hath takē in hand agaynst Egypte.
Foolles are those Princes of Zoan / & proude are the Princes of Phoph: pee they dysceane Egypte with the nobilitie of their Roche. For the Lorde hath made Egypte dryenchen with the spere of erreure / & they shall ble it in all matters: euen lyke as a dryenche man goeth spewynge aboute. For Egypte shall lacke good counsell / so that they shall not knowe what to do / nether begynnyng nor ende / nether vpon the lande ner water. & hen shall Egypte be lyke vnto women / asrayde and astounded / at the lyste of the head / which the Lorde of Hostes shall lyste by euer them.
The land of Juua also shall make the Egyptians asrayde / who so doth but speake vpon it / shall put them in feare: And that because of the cōcill / which the Lorde of Hostes hath deuyded agaynst them. Then shall the true cytyes of Egypte speake wylth the Canany-tes tynge / & smere by the Lorde of Hostes / & Deliopols shall be one of them. At the same tyme shall the Lorde of Hostes haue an auteler in the myddell of the lande of Egypte / with this tyle therby: vnto the Lorde. & his shall be a token of testimony vnto the Lorde of Hostes in the lande of Egypte / when they shall crye vnto him / because of those that op-presse them: that he shall sende them a Captayne and a Sauoure to deliuer them.

Moreouer / Egypte shall be bought vnto the Lorde / & the Egypciāns also shall knowe the Lorde at the same tyme: they shall do him reuerēce with peaceoffringes / & with meat-offringes: they shall promyse him offringes: pee and paye hym also. & thus the Lorde shall smyte Egypte / and heale it agayne: & so shall they turne to the Lorde / & he also shall haue mercy vpon the / & saue the. Then shall there be a cōmen waye out of Egypte in to Assyria.
The Assyrians shall come into Egypte / & the Egypciāns into Assyria. & the Egypciāns also & the Assyrians shall both haue one Godes seruyce. & hen shall Israel with honoure be the thynde to Egypte & Assyria. And the Lorde of Hostes shall blesse them / sayinge: Blessed is my people of the Egypciāns / Assyria is the wozke of my handes / but Israel is myne enheritance.

Agaynst Egypte and Ethiopia.

The .xx. Chapter.

In the same yere that Chartha came to Ahdod / where Sargō the King of the Assyrians sent hym / what tyme as he also beleged Ahdod / and warne it the same season: Then spake the Lorde vnto Esay the sonne of Amoz / sayinge: go & tolme of that sack cloth fro thy loynes / & put of thy shues fro thy fete. And so he dyd / goynge naked and barefote. Then sayde the Lorde: where as my seruāt Esay goeth naked & barefote / it is a toke & signyfyng of the thyng / that after thye yere shall come vpon Egypte & Ethiopia. For euen thus shall the kynge of the Assyrians dyspue both yong & olde / as prisoners naked and barefote / out of Egypte & Ethiopia. And shall discover the name of Egypte. They shall be also at their wettes ende / & ashamed one of another: the Egypciāns of the Assyrians / and the Assyrians of the Egypciāns / at the sight of their glory. * Moreouer they that dwell in the fles shall se euen the same daye: beholde / this is oure hope / to whom we fled to seke helpe / & we myght be deliuered from the kynge of the Assyrians. How wyll we escape?

Agaynst Babylon / Juua and Arabia.

The .xxi. Chapter.

In this is the heuy burthen of the waste see: A greuous byld was dred vnto me / lyke as when a Roome of wynde & rayne rullerth in from the wyldernesse / that terrible lande.
Who so maye dysceane / sayde the boyce / let him dysceane: Who so maye dystrope / let him dystrope. Wylth Elam / belege it / & Madai / for they will lye all their gromynges. With thys / smyte / whereby the reynes of my backe were full of payne: the pages came vnto me / as vnto a womā in her trauayle. When I herde it / I was abashed:
I was a pro. & when I looked by / I was asrayde. Myne nerbe: I was hert pated / I trembled for feare. The darcknesse of the see / made me fearefull in my mynde.
Yee soone make ready & table / sayde this boyce / kepe the watch / eate & drynche: wylth Captaynes / take you to yourre wynde / for thus the Lorde hath charged me: go thy waye / & set a watchman / that he may tell what he seyth. And when he had wayted diligently / the same two hoymen: the one rydyng vpon an Asse / the other vpon a Camell. And the hoymen cryed: Lorde / I haue stande waytynge all the whole daye / & haue kepte my watche all the nyght. Wylth that came there one ry-dyng vpon a charet / whych answered / and sayde: Babylon is fallen / she is turned by-side downe / & all the ymages of her Godes are smytē to the groude. & his / O my felow it vnto you.

The heuy burthen of Dania.
One of Seir cryed vnto me: Watch / man what hast thou clyped by nyght / watch / man what hast thou clyped by nyght?
The watchman answered: The daye breaketh on / and the nyght is comynge: If youre request be earnest / then aske & come agayne.

The heuy burthen of Arabia.
At euen ye shall abyde in the wood / in the waye to wardē Bedanīm. Wete the thurstye wylth water / & ye cytyens of Hema / mete those wylth that are fled. For they shall turne awaye from the weapen / from the drawen swerde / fro the bent bowe / & from the greate batell. For thus hath the Lorde spoken vnto me / ouer a yere shall all the power of Cedar be gone / lyke as whē the offyce of an hy-red seruāt goeth out: And the remnant of the good Trechers of Cedar / shall be very fewe:
For the Lorde God of Israel hath spoken it.
A prophecy agaynst Ierusalem.

The .xxii. Chapter.

In this is the heuy burthen vpon the house of Dania. What hast thou there to do / that thou clymmest by in to the house toppe / & thou clype of miracles / & sayest: I will not be shamed / for I am nether kyled wylth swerde / nor deed in batell: For all thy Captaynes gat them to their hoyses fro the ordynance / yee they are all together ridde awaye / & fled farre of. When I perceaued that / I sayde: awaye frome / that I may wepe bitterly. Take no laboure for to comforte me / as touching the destruction of my people. For this is the daye of the Lorde of Hostes / wherein he wyll plage / trede downe / & webe out the balley of byp-sons / & bryake downe the walles / with such a crack / that it shall geue a sowne in the mountaynes.

I saue the Elampes take the quyers to carte & to hore / & the walles were bare fro harnesse. The goodly balles were full of charettes / the hore men made them soone to belege the gates. & hen was the couerynge the lege of the tymbre house. There shall ye se the rytes in the walles of the cite of Da-and tell the houses of Ierusalem / & bryake of some of them to kepe the walles. And ye shall make a pyt betwixte the two walles of the water of the olde pole / & nothinge regarde the same tyme shall the Lorde of Hostes call

Thou shalt be visited of the Lord of Hosts with thondre/earthquake/ and with a greate crack/ in the whyle wynd/ tempest/ and with the flame of a consuming fyre. But now the multitude of all the people/ that went out agaynst Ariel: the whole house/ the stronge holdes/ and sege: is lyke a dreame which appeareth in the nyght. It is lyke as when an hungry man dreameth he is eatyng/ and when he awaketh/ he hath nothing: lyke as when a thyrstye man dreameth that he is drynckynge/ & when he awaketh/ he is thyrstye/ & his soule vnpacient.

So is the multitude of all people that drawe them selues agaynst the hyll of Sion. But ye shall be at your wyttys ende/ ye shall be abashed: ye shall shakke/ & reue to a fro. Ye shall be drunken/ but not of wyne. Ye shall fall/ but not thowen downe: for the Lord shall geue you an hard slepyng spyete/ & holde downe your eyes: namely your prophetes & heades which shalbe se/ them shall be couer. And all visions shalbe into you/ as the word that stande in a sealed lettre/ which one offeth it to a man that is lerned/ & sayeth: rede vs this lettre. Then he answereth: I can not rede it/ for it is shutt. But yf it be geuen to one that is not lerned/ or sayde vnto him: rede this lettre: then sayeth he: I can not rede.

Therefore thus sayeth the Lord: For so much as this people draweth nye me to their mouth/ & prayeth me hyghly with their lippes/ (where as their herte neuertheles is farre from me/ & the feare which they owe vnto me/ that turne they to mens lawes & doctrines) therefore will I also shewe vnto this people a marvelous/ terrible/ & greate thing (namely this): I will destroye the wylidome of their wyle/ & the vnderstandynge of their lerned men shall perperhe. Who be vnto them that seke to depe/ to hyde their pynagynacon before the Lord/ which reherce their counsels in the darcknes/ & saye: who seeth vs/ or who knoweth vs: whych pynagynacon of yours is euil as when the potters claye taketh tute of coldest/ aduylment/ as though he wozke myghte saye not of the wynde to the wozkmaster: make me not/ or as when he that seeth the potter: he vnderstandeth not. * * * Se ye not that it is hard to dreame this/ and the wyne of recreacion & myght shall ye not taste of. Ye shall be feble/ fall as ye go/ ye shall be rennagates for the confusyon/ hate/ and persecucion of all men: not for dronchenes or stronge dryncke/ whych ye shall want. Some expound this sentence of them that be dronchen in hypocrisie & dissimulation: and of them that be full of the rygghynesse of their owne wozkes.

The xxx. Chapter.

V be to those drynckynge chyldren (sayeth the Lord) which seke comfort/ but not at me: whych take a webbe in hande/ but not after my wyl: that they maye heape one synne vpon another. They goe downe in to Egypte (and aske me no counsell) to seke helpe at the power of Pharaon/ and comforte in the shadowe of the Egyptians. But Pharaos helpe shalbe your confusyon/ and the comforte in the Egyptians shadowe shalbe your shame. Your rulers haue bene at Zoan/ & your messengers came vnto Hanes. But ye shall all be ashamed of the people that maye not helpe you/ which shall not brynge you strength or comforte/ but shame & confusyon. Your beastes haue borne burthens vpon their backs towarde the South/ thowen the waye that is full of patell and trouble/ because of the Iyon & Iyones/ of the Cockatrice and shynge dragon. Yee the Gules haue your substance/ and the Camels brought your treasure vpon their crooked backs/ vnto a people that can not helpe you.

For the Egyptians helpe shalbe but bayne and lost. Therefore I tolde you also that your pryde shalbe haue an ende. Wherefore go hether and wryte them thys in their tables/ & note it in a boke: that it maye remayne by their posterite/ & be styll kepte. For it is an obsequy nate people/ vnfaithfull chyldren/ chyldren that wyl not heare the lawe of the Lord.

For the Egyptians helpe shalbe but bayne and lost. Therefore I tolde you also that your pryde shalbe haue an ende. Wherefore go hether and wryte them thys in their tables/ & note it in a boke: that it maye remayne by their posterite/ & be styll kepte. For it is an obsequy nate people/ vnfaithfull chyldren/ chyldren that wyl not heare the lawe of the Lord.

They saye to the Prophetes: Intro mytte your selues with nothyng/ and vnto the Sayeres: tell vs of nothyng for to come/ but speake friendly wozdes vnto vs/ and pzease vs false thinges. Creade out of the waye/ go out of the path/ turne the holy one of Israel from vs. Therefore thus sayeth the holy one of Israel: In as much as ye haue cast of your bewtye/ and comforted your selues with power and nymblenesse/ & put your confidence therein: therefore shal ye haue thys myschance agayne for your destruccyon and fall/ lyke as an hys wall/ that falleth because of some ryft (or blast) whose breakynge cometh suddenly.

And your destruccyon shalbe lyke as an erthen pot/ which breaketh nomā touching it/ & your bewtye shalbe so for/ that a man shall not synne. Heuer of it to fetch fyre in/ or to take water with all out of the pyt. For the Lord God/ cuen the holy one of Israel hath promysed thus: With styll stytynge and rest shal ye be healed/ in quyetnesse a hope shall brynge strength vnto you. Nor wyl standynge ye regarde it not. But ye wyl saye: No/ for thus are we constrained to lie vpon hoyses. And therefore shal ye lie/ we must ryde vpon swift beastes/ & therefore your persecutours shal be as wynter. A thousand of you shal lie for ouer/ or at the most for fyre/ whych do but only geue you euell wozdes: vntill ye be desolate as a ship mast vpon an hys moatayne/ and as a beken vpon on hys.

Yet standeth the Lord waytynge/ that he maye haue mercy vpon you/ and lyteth hym self by/ & he maye receaue you to grace. For the Lord God is rygghynous. Hapye are all they that wayte for hym. For thus (O thou people of Syon and ye crylens of Iherusalem) shal ye neuer be in heuyness/ for doubtlesse he wyl haue mercy vpon the. As soone as he heareth the voyce of thy crye/ he wyl helpe the. The Lord geueth you the bryde of aduersyte/ & the water of trouble.

But thynne instructer lyeth not farre from/ & yf thynne eyes loke vnto thynne instructer/ and thynne eares harken to hys wozde/ that cryeth after the and sayeth: this is the waye/ go thys/ and turne nether to the rygghynesse of aduersyte/ next to the lette.

Therefore yf ye destroye the syluer wozdes of your Idoles/ and cast awaye the golden coopes that ye deckte them wythall (as sylchpnes) & saye: gett you hence: then wyl he geue rayne to the fede that ye shall sowe in the earth/ and geue you bzedde of the increase of the earth/ so that all shalbe plentifulous and aboundant. Thy cattell also shal be fede in the bzedde medowes/ & thynne oxen and Gules that tyll the grounde/ shal rate good fodder/ which is purged with the fanne. Goodly ryuers shal flow out of al his moste taynes and hylles. In the daye of the greate slaughter when the towres shal fall/ the mone shal synne as the sunne/ and the sunne synne shalbe seuenfolde/ and haue as moche synne/ as in seuen dayes besyde.

In that daye shal the Lord bynde by the bzedde sores of hys people/ and heale their woundes. Sholde the gloze of the Lord shal come from farre/ hys face shal burne/ that noman shalbe able to abyde it/ hys lippes shal wagge for very indignacion/ and hys tonge shalbe as a consuming fyre. Hys bzeath lyke a behemēt floude of water/ which goeth by to the throte. That he maye take awaye the people/ which haue turned them selues vnto bawtye/ & the bzyble of erreure/ that lyeth in other folkes chawes.

But ye shall synge/ as the bse is in the night of the holy solempnyte. Ye shall reioyse fro your herte/ as they that come with the pyper/ when they go by to the mount of the Lord/ vnto the rock of Israel. The Lord also shal set by the power of hys voyce/ & declare hys terrible arme/ with his angry countenance/ & the flame of the consuming fyre/ with earthquake/ tempest of wynde/ & hayle stones. Then shal the Egyptians feare also/ because of the voyce of the Lord/ which shal smyte him with the rodde. And the same rodde which the Lord wyl sende vpon hym/ shal moue the whole foundacyon: with trompet/ with noyse of warre and batell to be stroye. For he hath prepared the fyre of payne from the begynnyng/ & yee euen for synners also. This hath he made depe & wyde/ & noz thing therof is fyre and modd innumerable/ which the bzeath of the Lord dryndeth/ as it were a match of brymston.

A curse them that forsake God/ and seake for the helpe of men.

Jerusalem is straggled by Sennacherib, in the time of kynge Hezekiah.

• ff. 102v-103r •
TTCG.8.

In the .xliij. yere of Kyng Hezekiah / came Sennacherib kynge of the Assyrians downe / to laye siege vnto all the stronge cyties of Iuda.
* And the Kyng of e Assyrians sent Rablahesh fro Lachis towarde Ierusalem / agaynst Kyng Hezekiah / with a greuous hoste / which sethim by the condyte of the ouerpole / in the way that goeth thorow the fullers lande. And so there came forth vnto him Elikinn Deliahs sonne & Presydet / Sodna & Scribe / & Ioab Mapahs sonne & Secretary.

And Balaiah sayde vnto them: Tell Hezekiah / that þe greate kyng of Assyria sayeth thus vnto hym: What presumption is this / that thou trustest vnto: Thou thinkest (peradventure) that thou hast counceill & power ynough to mayntene this warre: or els wher to trustest thou / that thou castest thy selfe of frome: lo / thou puttest thy trust in a broken staffe of reede (I meane Egypte) wherby he that leaneth vpon / it goeth in to his hande & smyteth hym thowome. Euen so is Pharaos the kyng of Egypt / vnto all the that trust in hym. But yf thou woldest saye to me: we trust in the Lorde ourr God: A goodly God in dede: whole hye places & altiers Hezekiah toke downe / & comasford Iuda & Ierusalem / to wozypppe only befoze þe altier. A hyde þe / thou hast made a condecyð wyth my lord & kyng of þe Assyrians / þe he shoulde geue the two thousand horses: art thou able to set men ther by? Seyng now þe thou canst not resist þe power of þe smallest prynces þe my Lorde hath / how darrest thou trust in þe charrett & horse mē of Egypt: Whowser / thichest thou þe I am come hither / to destroye this lande without þe Lordes weyl: The Lord sayde vnto me / go downe in to þe lāde / þe thou mayest destruye it.

Then sayde Eliakim/ Sobna & Joab bro-to Rablakh: Speake to vs thy seruantes (we praye the) in the Syrians language, for we vnderstande it well: And speake not to vs in the Jewes tonge / lest the folke heare/whych I praye vpon the waile. Then answered Rablakh: Thynke ye, that the kynge sente me to speake this only vnto you? Hath he not sent me to them also, that I praye vpon the waile?
that they be not compelled to eat their awne donge, & drynke their awne steele with you?

And Iablahedh rode sylf/and cryed with a loud voice in the Jewes tynge/and sayd:
Now take heede/how the greates kynge of the Assyrians geureth you warning. Thus sayeth ¶ kyng: Let not Hezekiah disreoue you/for he shall not be able to helpe you. Whowever let not Hezekiah cōfote you in ¶ Lord/whē he sayeth: The Lord without doute shall defende vs/¶ I shall not geue ouer this cite into the handes of ¶ Kyng of the Assyrians/beloue hym not. But thus sayeth ¶ King of Assyria: opteyne my sauoure/enclayne to me: so maye euery mā enioye his blyngard/¶ sygetrees/¶ drynke the water of his cistern: vnto the tyme that I come my self/¶ I brynge you into a lande that is like poure stone: wherein is no beate & wyne/which is both sowne wth sede/and plantyd wth byngardes.

Ierusalem. Let not Berethiah dysceane you / when he saith unto you: the Lorde shall deliuer vs:

Wright the Goddess of the Gentiles hepe of the Assyrians: Where is the God of Hemach & Arphad? Where is the God of Se-pharuaim? And who was able to defende Samaria out of my hãde? O which of all Goddess of the landes / hath deliuered their couñtre out of my power/ so that the Lord shuld deliuer Ierusalem fro my hande: wnto this Hezekiahs messaugers helde their tungen/& answered not one worde: so the King had charged the; that they shuld geue him none answere. So came Eliachim Helkias sonne the President; Sobna the Scribe; & Ioab Zaphan sonne the Secretary/ vnto Hezekiah with rente clothes/ & tolde hym the word of Babelakeh.

¶ Desiriah humble to hym selfe before the Lorde. The Lorde: & he hym selfe is hylled of his arme leynne.

When Hezekiah hearde that, he rent his clothes, & put on a sack cloth, & wēt into the temple of the Lorde.
But he sent Elakim the Priest Scribe / Sobna the Scribe, with the eldest priests, clothed in sack, vnto the Prophet Elay the sonne of Amoz / & they sayde vnto hym: Thus sayeth Hezekiah: This is the daye of trouble, of plege, & of wrath: lyke as when a childe cometh to the byrth, but the woman hath no power to brynge it forth. The Lord thy God, (no doute) hath well considered the woydes of Rabshakeh / whom hys lord the Kynge of the Assyrians hath sent, / to despye & blaspheme the luyving God: with such wordes as the Lord thy God hath hearde right well.
And therefore lyft by thy prayer for the remnant, that yet are left. So the seruantes of Kynge Hezekiah came to Elay.

And Esay gaue them this answer: Saye
W thus vnto youre lord: thus sayeth the Lord Be not afrayed of the wordes that thou hast hearde, wherewith the kynge of the Assyrians seruantes haue blasphemed me. Beholde / I wyll cause a wynde go ouer hym / as sone as he heareth it, he shall go agayne into his countre / there wyll I destroye him with the sworde. Now when Rabshakeh returned / he founde the kynge of Assyria layenge sege to Lodonah / for he had vnderstande / & he was departed from Lachis. for there came a rumoure / that Chathakah kynge of ethiopia was come forth to warre agaynst him.

And when the King of Assyria heard that he sent other messengers to King Hezekiah with this commandment: Say thus to Hezekiah King of Juda: Let not thy God discreetly thy / in whom thou hopest / a sayest: Yerusalem shall not be grieved in to the hands of heapes of stones. For their inhabitants wal-be lyke lame men / brought in feare & con-founder. They shalbe lyke the grasse & grene herbes in the felde / lyke the hay upon house toppes / & withereth a foze it be growne by.

I knowe thy wayes / thy goinge forth and thy comynge home / yee & thy madnesse agaynst me. Therefore thy fury shalbe agaynst me / and thy pyde is come before me. I will put a ringe in thy nose / and a bydle byt in the cheekes of the / & turne the aboute / even the same waye thou camest. I will geue & also this toke? (O Hezekiah) this yere shal thou eate that is kept in store / & the next yere such as groweth of him self / & in the thyrde yere ye shal sowe & reape / yee ye shal plante byneyardes / & enioye the frutes thereof.

And loth of the house of Juda as are escaped / shal come together / and the remnant shal take rote beneth / & byng forth frute aboue. For the escaped shal go out of Jerusalem / & the remaunte fro the mount Syon.

And this shal the gealousy of the Lorde of hostes bynge to passe. Therefore thus saith the Lorde / concerninge the kynge of Assyrians: He shal not come in to the cite / and shal shote no arrowe in to it / there shal no shilde hurte it / nether shal they graue aboue it. The same waye that he came / shal he retourne / & not come at this cite / saith the Lorde. And I will kepe and saue the cy-tie (saith he) for myne awne / and for my seruaunte Dauid sake.

Thus the angel went forth / and stode of the Assyrians hoste / an cccc. thousande.
And when men arose by early (at Jerusalem:) Beholde / all laye full of deed bodyes.
So Sennacherib kynge of Assyria brake by / & dwelt at Minue. Afterwarde it chaun-ced / as he prayed in the temple of Restah bys god / that Adramalech & Sarazer his awne sonnes slewe him with the swearde / and fled in to the lande of Ararat. And Asarhadon his sonne reigned after him.

 When thou walchest in the fyre / it shall not

 And to the South / kepe not backe: but bring the Lorde) that I am God. And euen he am I from the begynnyng / & there is none that

Thus layeth the Lord the holy one of Israel your redeemer: for your sake I will other God: the true God and Sauoure / & there is els none but I: And therfore turne pou vnto me (all ye endes of p earth) so shall ye be saued/ for I am God / and there is els none. I sweare by my selfe: out of my mouth cometh the wo: de of ryghtuousnes/ & that maye no mā turne: but all knees shall bowe vnto me/ and all tynge shal swere by me/ sayyng: wercly in the Lorde is my rygh- tousnes and strength. O hym shall men come: but all they p thynke come of hym/ shalbe cofounded. And the whole seide of Is- rael shalbe iustified/ & praysed in p Lorde.

Idolatrie is reproved. The health that cometh by Christ is prophesied.

The xlv. Chapter.

Curtheses. Well shall fall/ and Babel shalbe broken: whose yma- ges are a burthen for the beastes catell/ to ouerlade them / and to make them werry. They shal synke downe / and fall together: for they maye not raise the of their burthen/ therfore must they go in to captiuite.

Then vnto me / O house of Jacob/ and all ye that remayne yet of p householde of Is- rael: whom I haue borne fro your mothers wombe / & brought you vp from your birth/ till ye were grown: I I whych shall beare you vnto your last age: I haue made you / I will also no: yth you/ beare you and saue you. Whom will ye make me lyke/ in fashid o: ymage/ p I maye be lyke him: Ye foolles (no doute) will take out syluer & golde oute of your purses/ & wepe it / and byre a gold- smith to make a God of it/ p me maye knele downe & wo: shippe it. Yet must he be taken on mens shoulders & borne/ & set in his pla- ce/ that he maye stande & not moue. Alas p men shalbe cye vnto him/ which geueth no answer: and delperetib not the mā p calleth vpon him/ from his trouble.

Confyde this well/ and be ashamed. Go in to your a: one selues (O ye rumnagates). Remembre p thynges which are pass/ sence the begynnyng of the wo: de: p I am God/ and that there is els no God/ yet and p there is nothyng lyke vnto me. In the beginning of a thyng I shewe the ende therof: and I tell before / thynges that are not yet come to passe. With one wo: de is my deuyce accom- plished / and fulfilleth all my pleasure. I call a byde out of the East / and all that I take in ha: de/ out of farre costiers/ as soone as I comaunde / I bynge it hither: as soone as I thynke to deuyse a thyng / I do it. Heare me / O ye p are of an hye stomack/ but farre fro ryghtuousnesse/ I shall bringe vnto you. Forth my ryghtuousnesse. It is not farre/ & my health shall not tarpe lge awaye. I will laye health in Sion/ & geue Israel my gloze. The wo: de of the Lorde agaynst Babylon.

The cxij. Chapter.

As for p daughter thou bir- gin Babylon. Thou shalt sit vps p groude/ & not in a trone (O thou mayden of Chaldea) Thou shalt no more be called fether & pleasaunt. Thou shalt bring forth p quer- ne & grinde meeles/ put downe thy stomacher make bare thy knees & shalt waide thy o: w water spurs. Thy shame shalbe discouered/ and thy prauities shalbe sene. For I will auenge me of the/ and no man shall lett me: I saye our redemer/ which is called p Lorde of Hostes/ the hoys one of Israel.

Syt I will holde thy tynge/ & get the in to some darcke corner/ O daughter Chaldea/ for thou shalt nomore be called lady of king- domes. I was so wryth with my people/ p I puni: shd myne enheritaunce / & gaue the in to thy power. Neuertheles/ thou shewdest thy no mercy/ but euen the berp aged men of the/ bidest thou opp: se ryghte soze wryth thy p: rams po: rch/ & thou thoughtest thus. I shalbe lady for euer. And belyde all p / thou hast not re- garded these thynges/ nether cast/ what shalbe come after. Heare now therfore / thou wyl- linge/ p lyttel so carelesse/ & speakest thus in thine herte: I am alone / & about me is there none: I shall neuer be wpydome/ ner desolate agayne. And yet both these thynges shall come to the vps one daye in the twynkyng of an eye: Namely wpydome/ and desolacion.

They shall mightely fall vps the/ for p mul- titude of thy witches/ & for the grea: heape of thy coluers. For thou hast comforted thy selfe in thy dycefulness / and hast sayde: No man seyth me. O thynne a: one wpydome & conynges hath discaued the. In that thou hast sayde: I am alone/ & without me there is none. Therfore shall trouble come vps p / & thou shalt not knowe/ from whēce it shall arys. Wylche shal fall vps p / which thou shalt not be able to put of. I sodane mysery shall come vps the/ o: euer thou be a warre.

Now go to thy conuultes/ and to the mul- titude of thy witches (whom thou hast bene acquainted withall from thy youth) ye they maye helpe the/ o: strengthen the. Thou hast hitherto had many counsels of them / so let the heuengalers & the beholders of starres come on now and delper the: yet & lett them shewe/ when these new thynges shall come vpon the. Beholde/ they shalbe lyke strawe/ which ye it be bynded with fyre/ no mā maye ryde it for the vehemence of the flame: And yet it geueth no synders to warme a man by/ ner cleare fyre to syt by. Cuius shal they be burnt be unto the whom thou hast ble: & occupy-de from thy youth. Every one shall theoe & hys erroneous waye/ yet shall none of them defende the.

The pprophie of the Jewes is reproach. The Lorde alone will be worshipped/ which hath choise us/ and which locou reth us for his alone sake.

The xlviii. Chapter.

I Care this, O thou house of Jacob: that are called by the name of Israel/ & are come out of one stocke in Juda: which sweare by the name of the Lorde/ & beate witness by the God of Israel/ (but not in truth & righte) which are called the men of the holy cyrie/ as they that loke for confort in the God of Israel/ whose name is the Lorde of hostes.

The thinges I shewed you ever sence have purposed the begynnyng: have I not brought them to passe/ immediately as they came out of my mouth/ & declared them: And they are come/Howbeit I knewe that thou art obstinate/that thy neck hath an yron yegne/ and that thy browe is of brasse. Nevertheless I have ever sence the begynnyng shewed the of thinges for to come/ and declared them unto the / or they: for I have sence they came to passe: that thou shouldest not saye: myne I shall have done it/ my carued or cast ymage hath shewed it. Where and consider all these thinges whether it was I or a pprophetd them: But as for me/ I tolde the before at the begynnyng/ now and secrete thinges/ that thou knewest not of: And some done now not of olde tyme/ whereof thou never herdest/ before they were brought to passe: that thou canst not saye: I knewe of this: for I shewed the. Moreover there be some wher of thou hast nether herde nor knowne/ nether have they bene opened unto thine eares afore time proude and puffed up/ from which all maner of wofe is cleaned/ there shulde nothing have remayned in the earth/ for I have chosen the/ and not for moneye. I have chosen the neamed: But in the fyre of poyerte/ And that only for myne sake/ that thou shouldest not despise me.

Herken unto me O Jacob/ & Israel whom I have called. I am even he that is/ I am the first and the last. My hande is the founda-cyon of the earth/ & my right hande spanneth ouer the heauens. As soone as I called them out of Egypt/ from whych I after they were there. Gather you all together/ & worshippe herken: which of yonder goddes hath declared this/ that the Lorde will do by the hande of Babylō (whome he loueth & saoureth) and by the Caldees his arme: I my self alone have tolde you this before. Yet I shall call him and bringe him forth/ & geue him a psperous iourneye. Come nye and heare this:

haue I spoken any thyng darly/ sence the begynnyng: when a thyng beganeth/ I am there.

Wherefore the Lorde God with his spete hath sent me/ And thus saith the Lorde God thyne auenger/ the holy one of Israel: I am the Lorde thy God/ which teach the profitable thinges/ & leade the waye/ that thou shouldest go. Yet thou wilt not regarde my coma-ndement/ thy welthynes shall be as the water stream: & thy righteuousnes as the water flowynge in the see. Thy seede shall be lyke the sande in the see/ & the fruite of thy bodye/lyke the grauel stones therof: Thy name shall not be rote out/ nor destroyed before me. Ye shall go awaye from Babylon/ and escape the Caldees with a mery voyce. This shalbe spoked of/ declared abroad/ & go forth unto the ende of the world: so that it shalbe sayde: the Lorde hath defended his seruante Jacob/ that they suffred no thurde/ when they traueled in the wilderness. He claue the rockes a founteyne/ and the water gusheth out.
As for the bngodly/ they haue no peace/saith the Lorde.

not geue unto another people or nacion. The health of the world shall come of the Jewes. Job. xij. & from none other. The ylls of synges of health shall the whole worlde receiue of no maner of health/ by the pprophie of the Apostles. &c.

The xlix. Chapter.

Christ shall gather to gether all saydes be they never so farre of.

Yes/ herken vnto me/ & take heede ye people fro farre: The Lorde hath called me fro my byrth/ and before my made mencion of my name fro my mothers wombe: he hath made my mouth lyke a sharpe swerde/ vnder the shadowe of hys hande hath he defended me/ & hepo me in his quier/ as a good archer/ and he pce unto me: Thou art my seruant/ Israel/ I will be honoured in the. When and where I will I will sende my seruante/ I will spende my strength in vayne. Nevertheless I will commytte my cause and my worke vnto the Lorde my God.
And now sayeth the Lorde/ euen he that red me fro my mothers wombe to be his seruante/ that I maye bringe Jacob agayne vnto him: howbeit/ Israel will not be gathered vnto him agayne. In whose syght I am greate/ which also is my Lorde/ my God and my strength. Let it be but a small thyng/ & that thou art my seruante/ to sett by the reddes of Jacob/ & to restore the destruction of Israel: yet I make the not also the lyght of the Gentiles/ & thou mayest be my health vnto the ende of the world.

Moreover call. &c.

Moreover thus sayeth the Lorde the auenger and holy one of Israel/ because of abhorring and despyllinge amonge the Gentiles/ concerninge the seruant of all them that beate rule: kynge and princes shal se/and arise and worshippe/ because of the Lorde that he is saythfull: and because of the holy one of Israel/ which hath chosen the.

And thus saith the Lorde: In the tyme appointed will I be present with the. And in the houre of health will I helpe the/ and de-liuer the. I will make the a pledge for the people/ so that thou shalt helpe by the earth agayne/ and chalenge agayne the scattered he-ritages: that thou mayest saye to the pre-soners: go forth/ & to them that are in dark-nesse: come in to the light/ that they maye see in the hie wayes/ and get their iuyng in all places. There shal nether hunger nor thurde/beate nor saine hurte them. For he that sa-uoureth them/ shall leade them/ & geue them dynke of the springe welles. I will make wayes vpon all my mountaynes/ & my forte pathes shalbe exalted. And beholde/ they shall come from farre/ some from the north and west/ some from the south. & a people ye beauers/ and synges prayles thou earth: Calke of ioye ye hills/ for God will cosort his people/ & haue mercy vpon his/ & be in trouble.

Then shall Syd saye: God hath forsake me/ and the Lorde hath forgott me. & both saye: a wife forget the childe of hir wombe/ & the sonne who she hath borne: And though she do forget/ yet will not I forget the. Beholde/I have writen the by vpon my handes/ thy wailles are euer in my sight. & they haue broken the downe/ shal make haste to buyde the by agayne/ and they that made the waste tyles.

And thus saith the Lorde: I will gather them to gether/ as a fowle/ & come to the. As truly as I liue/ saith the Lorde/ thou shalt put them all vpon the/as an apparell/ and gyde them to the/ as a byrde doth her Jewels. As for the lande that is left desolate/ wasted & destroyed: it shalbe to narrow for them/ that shal dwell in it. And they that wolde deuoure the/ shalbe farre awaye. Then the childe who the baren shal bring forth vnto the/ shal saye in thine eare:
this place is to narrow/ set nye together/ that I maye haue room. The wait thou thinke by thy self: who hath begotte me these/ seeing
I am bare & alone/ a captiue & an out cast:
And who hath noryshed the by for me? I am desolate & alone/ but fro whence come these?

And therefore thus sayeth the Lorde God:
Beholde/ I will stretch out myne hande to the Gentiles/ and sett by my token to the people of the earth/ that they shal bringe the thy sonnes in their lap-pes/ and carrie thy daughters vnto the byon their shoulders. For kings shalbe thy nourlinge fathers/ and Quenes shalbe thy nourlinge mothers. They shall fall before the their faces flat vpon the earth/ and saye by the dust of thy feet: that thou mayest knowe/how that I am the Lorde. & And who so putte his trust in me/ shall not be confounded. Who spoke the gyaute of his praye: or who taketh the prisoner fro the myghtye? And therefore thus sayeth the Lorde: The prisoners shalbe taken from the gyaute/ & the spolie deliuered from the violence: for I will maynteyne thy cause agayne thyne aduersaries/and saue thy sonnes. And wil seue thyne enemies with their awne fleshe/ and make them dynke of theyr awne bloude/ as of sweete wyne. And all the world shal knowe (O Jacob) that I am the Lorde thy Sauoure/ & stronge auenger.

The Jewes are reproued/ and also called.

The l. Chapter.

Ius saith the Lorde: Where is the blurr of your mothers deuor-ment/ that I sent vnto her/ or who is the blurr/ to who I tolde you: Beholde/ for your awne offences are pesolder/ and because of your transgression/ is your mother forsaken. For why wolde no man receaue me/ when I came/ and when I called/ no man gaue me answere. Was my hande cleene anye of/ & it might nothelp: or had I not power to deliuer/ lo/ at a word I dunke by the ice/ & of water flowe/ I make lande: so I shal wat of water/ & fish corruppe and die of thurst. As for heauen/ I clothe it with barchelle/ & put a sack vpon it.

The Lorde God hath geue me a wel lemed tunge/ so I can cosorte the which are troubled/ yet I am in due season. He washed myne eare by byrnes in the moynnyng/ as I co-lemastrs do/ that I might herke. The Lorde God hath opened myne eare/ therefore can I not saye naye/ nor with drawe my self/ but I offre my backe vnto the smyters/ & my chekes to the nyppers. I turne not my face fro shame or spittinge/ for the Lorde God helpeth me/therefore shall I not be confounded. I have hardened my face like a flint stone/ for I am sure/ & I shal not come to confusion. Myne aduocate speaketh for me/ who wyl then go with me to lawe: Let vs stande one agayne another: yet there be any that wyl reason with me/ let him come here forth to me. Beholde/the Lorde God standeth by me/ what is he can condempne me: lo/ they shalbe all lyke as an old cloth/ which I mothes shal eate by.

Therefore who so feareth the Lorde amonge you let him heare the voyce of his seruante.
Who so walketh in barchelle/ & no lyght syneth vpon him/ let him hope in the Lorde/
and

As who and holde hym by his God. But take hede / thou: ye your ^{as} ye have all kyndled a fyre / & gevede your selues have selues in a flame: Ye walke in a gyltynge of your stone fyre / and in the flame that ye of my wylde. Have kyndled. This cometh unto you fro my offences: I was hande, namely that ye shall lye in sorowe. no cause therof: ye must therfore suffer the punishment thereto belon-gynge. For it cometh of your owne deservynge that I lay my hand upon you and punish you.

The ii. Chapter.

Consolacion & comfort is promised unto a faithful

Unto me / ye that hoide of ryghtuousnes / ye that seke the Lorde. Take hede unto the stone / wherout ye are hewen / and to the grave wherout ye are dygged. Consyde Abraham your father / and Sara that bare you: how that I called hym alone / profered hym well / & encreased hym: how I Lorde comforted Syon / and repayed all her decay: makinge her deserte as a Paradyse / & her wyldernesse as the garden of the Lorde.
Wherwith and love was there / chancelgeuynge and the hope of prayse. Have respecte unto me then / O my people / & lyeve thine care to me: for a lame & an orphynance shall goo forth fro me / to lychten the Gentyles. It is hard by / I my health & my ryghtuousnes shall goo forth / and the people shall be orphyned with myne arme.

The Gyltes (that is the Gentyles) shall hope in me / & put their trust in myne arme.
Lest by your eyes toward heauen / & loke upon the earth beneath. For the heauens shall banish awaye lyke smoke / & the earth shall teare like a clothe / & they that dwell therein / shall perishe in lyke manner. But my health endureth for ever / & my ryghtuousnes shall not cease. Wherfore hearken unto me / ye have pleasure in ryghtuousnes / & your people that bearest my lawe in thine herte. Feare not the curse of men / be not afrayde of their blasphemies & revynges: for wormes and mothys shall eate the by lyke clothe & wooll. But my ryghtuousnes shall endure for ever / & my sayynge health fro generacion to generacion. I wake by / wake by / and be stronge: O thou ^{as} arme of the Lorde: wake by / lyke as in tymes past / ever & lence I woold begane.

Art not thou he / that hast wounded that proude lucifer / & hewe the dragon in peces: Art not thou even he / which hast dyed by I depe of the see / which hast made playne the see grounde / that the deluyered myght goo thow: What the redemr of I Lorde / which turned agayne / might come with love unto Syon / there to endure for ever. That myght and gladnes might be with the: that sorowe & wo might be from them: Yee I / I am even he / that in all thynges geueth you consolacion. What art thou then / I fearest a morcall ma / the childe of ma / which goeth awaye as doth I flour: And forgetteth the Lorde that made the / that spred out the hea-uens / and lyeve the foundacyon of the earth.

But thou art ever a strayde for the syght of thyne oppresseur / which is ready to do har-me: Where is the wyath of the oppresseur?
It cometh on fast / it maketh haste to appeare:
It shall not perishe / that it shoulde not be able to destroye / nether shall it sayle for saute of nawynge. I am the Lorde thy God / that make the see to be dryll / and to rage: whose name is the Lorde of Hostes. I shall put my wyde also in thy mouth / & defende the wyth the turnynge of my hande: that thou mayest plante the heauens / & lyeve the foundacions of the earth / and saye unto Syon: thou art my people.

Awake / awake / and stande by / O Jerusalem / thou that from the hand of I Lorde / hast dyoncked out the cuppe of his wyath: thou that hast sipped of / and sucked out the flombyng cuppe to the botome. For a moche all the somes whom thou hast begotten / there is not one that maye holde the by: and not one to leade the by the hande / of all the sonnes that thou hast noryshed. Both these thynges are happened unto the / but who is for I Lorde. Yee / deservynge / mayynge / burn-get and swerde: but who hath comforted the:
Wher sonnes lye comfortles at the heade of curry strete lyke a taken benyson / & are full of I terrible wyath of I Lorde / & punishment of thy God. And therfore thou miserable & dyoncked (howbeit not to wrye) Heare this: Thus sayeth the Lorde thy Lorde & God / the defender of his people: Beholde / I wil take I flom-byng cuppe out of thy hande / even I cuppe to the dygges of my wyath: I from hence forth thou shalt neuer drinke I moze / & wil put it in their hande I trouble I: which have spoken to thy soule: stoupe downe / that we maye go out the: make thy bodye rauen to the grounde / and as the strete to go upon.

A consolacion & comfort to the people of God.

The iii. Chapter.

Unto the: put on thyne honest ray-ment O Jerusalem / thou ctyte of the holy one. For from thys tyme forth / there shall no byncumpled net be cleane person come in the. Shake the from the dust / arysse and stande by / O Jerusalem.
Pluck out thy neck from the bonde / O thou captive daughter Syon. For thus sayeth I Lorde: ye are solde for naught / therfore shall ye be redeemed also without any mony.

For thus hath I Lorde sayde: O people wente downe afoze tyme in to egypte / there to be straungers. Afterwarde dyd the kynge of the

of the Assyrians oppresse them / for naught.
And now what profit is it to me (sayth the Lorde) I my people is frely caried awaye / & brought in to heuynes by their rulers / and my name ever a yll blasphemers: sayeth the Lorde. But I my people maye knowe my name / I my seife will speache in that daye.
Beholde / here am I. O how bewtiful are I lete of the embassadours / I byngeth I message fro the mostayne / & proclaimeth peace:

that byngeth the good tydings / & preacheth health / & sayeth unto Syon: Thy God is the king. Thy watchmen shall lye by their voyce / with loud voyce shall they preach of hym: for they shall se him present / when I Lorde shall come agayne to Syon.

Be glad / O thou desolate Jerusalem / & reioyce together: for the Lorde will comforte his people / he wil deliuer Jerusalem. The Lorde wil make bare his holy arme / & shew it forth in I syght of all the Gentiles / & all the endes of the earth shall se the sayynge health of our God. Awaye / awaye / get you out fro the lande thence / & touch no uncleane thynges. So oute make bare the fro amonge soch. And be cleane / ye I beare I arme of I Lorde. But ye shall not go out with sedycion / net make haste as they I de by the strength / & saye: for the Lorde shall go before you / & power / & the God of I Israel shall kepe the watch.

Beholde / my seruaut shall deale wylde / therfore shall he be magnyfyed / exalted and greatly honoured. Lyke as I multitude shall wonder by him / because his face shall be so deformed & not as a mans face / & his bewtie lyke no man: Even so shall the multitude of the Gentiles loke unto him / & the kynge shall herne. They shal put their mouthes before him / & they that haue not bene tolde of him / shall se hym / and they I herde nothig of him / shall beholde him.
The goodnes mercy of God. How I what harmes the Christen shuld beare (for unto be I I spoh as well as unto the Jewes) both I. I shal teache by me the pille to the Gentiles the. in Chapter. c.

Thys face shall be so deformed & not as a mans face & c. That is / I byngeth shall be more deformed then other men / and byngeth shall be then the bewtye of the sonnes of men. The whole sentence mea-neth / that many men shall be asayed when they shall se Christ once dynour (whych was crydng beuysfull be fore all the sonnes of men.
I Iohn. xij. a) so wychedly and byolently increased of the Jewes hyte byng / shourged / crownded with thorne / and all be blouded: yet with grenter humbled / contemned / and dyppled / then ever was any mayall man.

The iiii. Chapter.

The prophethy enydenly of the passion of our Saviour Jesus Christ.
* Who geueth credence unto our preachynge: O to who is the arme of the Lorde knowne? He shall growe before the Lorde like as a byauch / & as a rote in a drye ground / he shall haue nether bewtye nor fauoure. Where we loke upon him / there shall be no fayntesse: he shall haue no lust unto him. He shall be the most symple / and despyed of all / which yet hath good experience of sorowes & infirmy-ties. We shall rehen him so symple & so vile / that we shall hyde our faces fro him. How be it / of a treuth / he only taketh awaye our infirmite / and beareth our payne: Yet we shall iudge him / as though he were playged & cast downe of God / where as he (not with a byng) shall be wounded for our offences / & sympten for our wickednes. For the payne of our punishment shall be layde upon him / and with his stryppes shall we be healed.

As for us / we go all a strayde (lyke shepe) every one / turneth bys awyde waye. But thowme him / the Lorde pardoneth all our synnes. He shal be payned & troubled / & shal not open his mouth. He shall be led as a shepe to be slayne / yet shall he be as dryll as a labe before the shearer / and not open his mouth.
He shall be had awaye / his cause not herde / & without any iudgme: whose generacion yet nomd maye nombe / when he shall be cut of fro the grounde of the lychinge: I whych pummet shall go upon him / for the transgression of my people. His graue shall be geuen him with the condemned / & his cruce synges with the theues. Where as he dyeth uer violence net bynght / nether hath there bene any of searfulness in his mouth.

Yet hath it pleased I Lorde to symple him with infirmite / that when he had made bys soule an offering for synne / he might se lode lastynge lode. And thys deuice of the Lorde shall prosper in his hande. With trauayle & laboure of his soule / shall he obtayne great ryches. Wher ryghtuous seruaut shall with his myldome iustlye & deliuer the multitude / for he shall beare awaye their synnes.
Therfore wil I geue him the multitude for his parte / & he shall deuyde the struge spoye because he shal geue ouer his soule to death & shall be rehened amonge I trasgreous / which neuertheles shall take awaye I synne of the multitude / and make intercession for the mysdoers.

Of the greater dominion of Christ. The indignacyon of God endureth but a short space / but his mercy is everlastynge.

The v. Chapter.

Therfore be glad now / thou bare I beare it not. Reioyce / singe and be merry / thou I art not with chyldes for I desolate hath moo chylde / then the married wyfe / sayeth I Lorde. Make thy cente wyder / & spredde out the hangynge of thyne habytacyon: soare not / lase forth thy coardest / and make fast thy stakes: for thou uers / yet turne agayne to me / saith þ Lord.

 Lift vp thine eyes on euery syde / & loke / yf thou be not defyled. Thou hast wayted for them in the strettes / and as a murderere in þ

Juda & vnfaithfull cyter of hers also saw this: Namely/that after I had well sene the aduoutye of the wyrring harlot Iſrael
I put her awaye / and gaue her a bill of de

For all this, her vnfaithfull sister Iuda

Moreover/ when ye be increased and multi-

there shall no more boote be made of sharke of the Lorde. & I saie: Roman shall thinke

Then shall Ierusalem be called the Lordes

¶ Then those that be of the house of Iuda /

Wherefore gyde youre selues about wth sack cloth / & moune and wepe for the fearfull wrath of the Lorde / & shall not be withdrawen from you.

At the same tyme (sayeth the Lorde) the heert of the kynge and of the prynces shall be

¶ Nevertheless this shall come vpon them / because my people is become foolyshe / and hath utterly no vnderstandynge. They are the chyliden of foolynnes / and without eny dis-but to do wel / they haue no wysdome. I haue all the byrdes of the ayre were awaye. I marked well / and the plowed felde was become waste: yee all their cities were broke downe at the presence of the Lorde / and indigna-

For thus hath the Lorde sayde: The whole haue done. And therfore lett the earth mour-the thinge that I haue purposed and taken

In Jewrye is there no ryghtwys or saythfull man founde/ether amongst the people/ or the rulers: for whose sake the Lorde shulde spare the cytye: wherfore Jewrye is desroyed of the Assyrians.

The .v. Chapter.

In the thozote Jerusalem/ behold and se: Seke thozote her stretes also wpythin/ yf ye can fynde one mā/ that both equall and ryght/ or that laboureth to be saythfull: and I shall spare him/ sayeth the Lorde. For though they can saye: the Lorde is with us/ yet do they sweare to disceane: where as thou (O Lorde) lokest only upon sayth and treuth.

as the loke of God is by appoyning and alowynge/ as it is sayde in Jer. vi. 1.

Thou hast scourged them/ but they toke no repentance: thou hast corrected them for amendement/ but they refused thy correction. They made their faces harder then a stone/ and wolde not amende.

Therefore I thought in my selfe: peradventure they are so simple & foolish/ that they understande nothyng of the Lordes waye/ and iudgmentes of our God. Therefore will I go vnto their heades and rulers/ and talke with them: yf they knowe the waye of the Lorde/ and the iudgmentes of our God. But these (in lyke maner) haue broken the rock/ and burst the bandes in sonder.

as wherefore a lion. ec. An. der & name of these beastes is de. The cat of the mountaigne shall lye lurking by their cyties/ to teare in peces all the/ that come therout. For their offences are many/ and their departynge awaye is greete. Shuld I then for al this haue mercy vpon the? Thy chyldren haue forsaken me/ and sworne by them that are no goddes. And albeit they were bounde to me in marriage/ yet they sell to aduoutie/ and haunted harlottes houses.

In the despye of vnciently lust they are become lyke the stoned horse/ every mā neyeth at his neyghbours wyfe: Shulde I not correcte this/ sayeth the Lorde.

as that to make awaye the wicked people of their cytye.

Shulde I not be auenged of every people/ that is lyke vnto this? I ymme by vnto their walles/ beate them downe/ but destroye the not utterly: cut of their braches/ because they are not the Lordes. For vnfaithfully hath the house of Israel and Iuda forsaken me/ sayeth the Lorde. They haue denyed the Lorde/ & sayde: it is nothe. Cuth/ there shall no misfortune come vpon vs/ for we shall se neither swerde nor honger. As for the warning of the Prophetes/ they take it but for wynde/ yee there is none of these/ whych will tell the/ & soche thynges shall happen vnto them.

Wherefore thus sayeth the Lorde God of Hostes: because ye speake such wordes/ behold: the wordes & are in thy mouth will I turne to fyre/ and make the people to be wood/ that it maye consume them.

Lo/ I will byynge a people vpon you fro farre/ & house of Israel/ sayeth the Lorde/ a myghty people/ an olde people/ a people whose speech thou knowest not/ neither vnderstandest what they saye. Their arrows are sodane death/ yee they them selues be very giuantes. This people shall eat by thy frute & thy meate/ yee they shall deuoure thy sonne & thy daughters/ thy wyfe & thy bullockes.

They shall eat by thy graves & fyges. As for thy stronge and well fenced cytyes/ wherein thou dydest trust/ they shall destroye them with the swerde. Nevertheless I will not then haue done to you/ sayeth the Lorde. But yf they saye: wherfore doth the Lorde our God all this vnto vs?

Then answereth he: because/ that lyke as ye haue forsaken me/ & serued strange goddes in youre awne lande/ euen so shall ye serue other goddes also in a strange land. Preach this vnto the house of Jacob/ and crye it out in Iuda/ and saye thus: Heare this (thou foolish & vndiscrete people) ye haue eyes/ but ye se not: eares haue ye/ but ye heare not.

Fear ye not me/ sayeth the Lorde: I re ye not ashamed/ to loke me in the face/ which bynde the see with the lande/ so that it can not passe his boundes: for though it rage/ yet can it do nothyng/ and though the waues thereof do swell/ yet maye they not go our.

But this people hath a faile and an obdinate herte/ they are departed & gone awaye fro me. They thinke not in their hartes: O let vs feare the Lorde our God/ that geueth vs rayne/ early & late/ when ned is: which hepeyth euer still the harvest for vs yearly.

Nevertheless your myldekes haue turned these from you/ and youre synnes haue robbed you herof. For amonge my people are founde wicked personnes/ that priuely laye snares & wayte for mā/ to take the & destroye the. And lyke as a net is full of byrds/ so are their houses full of that wyrch they haue gotten with falshood and disceate. Herof cometh their greete substaunce and ryches/ herof are they fat and welthy/ and are runne awaye fro me with shamefull blasphemies.

They mynistre not the lawe/ they make no ende of the fatherles cause/ they iudge not the poore accordynge to equite.

Shulde I not punish these thynges/ sayeth the Lorde? Shulde I not be auenged of all such people/ as these be? Horrible and greuous thynges are done in the lande.

The Prophetes teach falsely/ and the preastes folowe them/ and my people hath pleasure therein. What will come therof at the last.

And besyde that/ they heale the hurt of my people with swete wordes/ sayeng: peace/ peace/ when there is no peace at all. Therefore they must be ashamed/ for they haue committed abhominacyon. But how shulde they be ashamed/ when they knowe nothing/ neither of shame nor good nurture? And therefore they shall fall amonge the sayne/ and in the houre when I shall vyset them/ they shall be brought downe/ sayeth the Lorde.

Thus sayeth the Lorde: go in to the stretes/ confyde & make inqurye vpon for the olde waye: and yf it be the good and right waye/ then go theryn/ that ye maye fynde rest for youre soules. But they saye: we will not walche theryn/ and I will lett watchmen ouer you/ and therefore take hede vnto the voyce of the trompett. But they saye: we will not take hede. Heare therefore ye Gentyles/ and thou congregacyon shalt knowe/ what I haue deuyled for them. Heare thou earth also: behold/ I will cause a plage come vpon this people/ eue the frute of their awne ymagynacyons.

For they haue not bene obedient vnto my wordes and to my lawe/ but abhoyred them. Wherefore bringe ye me incense fro Saba/ a sweete smelling/ Calamus fro farre coun- trees: Your burntofferynge displeaseth me/ and I reioyse not in youre sacrificies.

And therefore thus sayeth the Lorde: be holde/ I will make this people fall/ & there shall fall from amonge them the father with the chyldren/ one neyghbour shall perishe with another.

Moreover thus sayeth the Lorde: Behold/ there shall come a people from the North/ & a greete people shall aryse from the endes of the earth/ with bowes & with dartes/ that they be weapened: It is a rough & scarce people/ an vmercifull people: their voyce roareth lyke the see/ they ryde vpon horses well apoynted to the batell agaynst the/ & daughter Sion. When shall this crye be herde: Our armes are feble/ heuyenes & sozome is come vpon vs/ as vpon a woman traueling with childe. No man go forth in to the feld/ no mā come vpon the hye strete: for the swerde and feare of the enemye shall be on every syde.

Wherefore/ gyde a sack cloth aboute the/ & thou daughter of my people/ spynke thy selfe with ashes/ mourne & wepe bitterly/ as vpon thy only beloued sonne: for the destroyer shall sodenly fall vpon vs. The haue I set for a prouer of my hard people/ to lche out and to crye their wages. For they are all vnfaithfull and fallen awaye/ they hange vpon flythye lucre/ they are cleane brasse & pyon/ for they hurte and destroye eueryman. The bellous are byt in the fyre/ the lead is consumed/ the melter melteth in bayne/ for the euell is not takē awaye from the. Therefore shall they be called naughtye lyuer/ because the Lorde hath cast them out.

Thus sayeth the Lorde.

The synnes for which Jerusalem is assyct. Circumcised eares. Conscience. Disceate. The Lord reiecte the sacrificies of the Jewes. The chynge of the Babylonians is prophesied agayne.

The .vi. Chapter.

One out of Jerusalem/ ye stronge children of Ben Jamin: blowe by the trompettes ye Ecuytes/ lett by a token vnto Bethcarem/ for a plage and a great mylery ppeyth out from the North.

as some reader in his place: as in parte.

I will licken the daughter Sydo to a sayre and tendre woman/ and to her shall come the shepherders with their flockes. Their tentes shall they pitch rounde aboute her/ and every one shall fede the & are vnder his had. Make batell agaynst her/ shall they saye/ Arise/ lett vs go by/ while it is yet daye.

Alas/ the daye goeth awaye/ & the nyght shadowes fall downe: Arise/ lett vs go by nyght/ and destroye her stronge holdes/ for thus hath the Lorde of hostes commaunded.

Hew downe her trees/ and lett by bulwookes agaynst Jerusalem. This is the cite that must be punished/ for in her is all malicyousnes. Lyke as a condyte aboundeth in water/ euen to this cytye aboundeth in wickednes. Robbery and vnryghtuousnes ys herde in her/ sozow & woundes are euer there in my sight. Amende the (O Jerusalem) lest I withdraue my herte from the/ and make the desolate: & thy lande also/ & no man dwel in it. For thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: The residue of Israel shall be gathered/ as the remnaunt of grapes.

And therefore turne thyne hande agayne in to the basket/ like the grapegatherer. But vnto whō shall I speake/ whō shall I warne that he maye take hede? Their eares are so becircumcised/ that they maye not heare.

Beholde/ they take the word of God but for a scoone/ & haue no lust thereto. And therefore I am so full of thyne indignacyon O Lorde/ that I maye suffre no longer. Shede out thy wrath vpon the chyldren & are with- out/ and vpon all yonge men. Yee the man must be taken prisoner with the wyfe/ and the aged with the crepel. Their houses with their landes and wiues shall be turned vnto strangers/ when I stretch out myne hande vpon the inhabitatours of this lande/ sayeth the Lorde. For from the leest vnto the most/ they hange all vpon couetousnes: & from the prophet vnto the prest/ they go all aboute in falshood and lyes.

And besyde that/ they heale the hurt of my people with swete wordes/ sayeng: peace/ peace/ when there is no peace at all. Therefore they must be ashamed/ for they haue committed abhominacyon. But how shulde they be ashamed/ when they knowe nothing/ neither of shame nor good nurture? And therefore they shall fall amonge the sayne/ and in the houre when I shall vyset them/ they shall be brought downe/ sayeth the Lorde.

Thus sayeth the Lorde: go in to the stretes/ confyde & make inqurye vpon for the olde waye: and yf it be the good and right waye/ then go theryn/ that ye maye fynde rest for youre soules. But they saye: we will not walche theryn/ and I will lett watchmen ouer you/ and therefore take hede vnto the voyce of the trompett. But they saye: we will not take hede. Heare therefore ye Gentyles/ and thou congregacyon shalt knowe/ what I haue deuyled for them. Heare thou earth also: behold/ I will cause a plage come vpon this people/ eue the frute of their awne ymagynacyons.

For they haue not bene obedient vnto my wordes and to my lawe/ but abhoyred them. Wherefore bringe ye me incense fro Saba/ a sweete smelling/ Calamus fro farre coun- trees: Your burntofferynge displeaseth me/ and I reioyse not in youre sacrificies.

And therefore thus sayeth the Lorde: be holde/ I will make this people fall/ & there shall fall from amonge them the father with the chyldren/ one neyghbour shall perishe with another.

Moreover thus sayeth the Lorde: Behold/ there shall come a people from the North/ & a greete people shall aryse from the endes of the earth/ with bowes & with dartes/ that they be weapened: It is a rough & scarce people/ an vmercifull people: their voyce roareth lyke the see/ they ryde vpon horses well apoynted to the batell agaynst the/ & daughter Sion. When shall this crye be herde: Our armes are feble/ heuyenes & sozome is come vpon vs/ as vpon a woman traueling with childe. No man go forth in to the feld/ no mā come vpon the hye strete: for the swerde and feare of the enemye shall be on every syde.

Wherefore/ gyde a sack cloth aboute the/ & thou daughter of my people/ spynke thy selfe with ashes/ mourne & wepe bitterly/ as vpon thy only beloued sonne: for the destroyer shall sodenly fall vpon vs. The haue I set for a prouer of my hard people/ to lche out and to crye their wages. For they are all vnfaithfull and fallen awaye/ they hange vpon flythye lucre/ they are cleane brasse & pyon/ for they hurte and destroye eueryman. The bellous are byt in the fyre/ the lead is consumed/ the melter melteth in bayne/ for the euell is not takē awaye from the. Therefore shall they be called naughtye lyuer/ because the Lorde hath cast them out.

Thus sayeth the Lorde.

Ips: As for the truth, they maye nothinge awaye with all in the world. For they goe one wickednes to another: & holde nothinge of me, sayeth the Lorde.

Jeremy. 28. b.
Part. 2. c. and
Which. 28. a.
Yee one must kepe him selfe fro another/no man may safelye trust hys owne brother:
for one brother undermineth another: & one neighbour begyleth another. Yee one dyssembleth with another: & they deale wth no truth. They haue practised their tongues to lye: & taken greates paynes to do myschefe.
They haue let their stole in the middest of di-scete: and for verye dyssemblinge falschode they will not knowe me, sayeth the Lorde.

Jeremy. 28. b.
Part. 2. c. and
Which. 28. a.
Therefore thus sayeth the Lorde of Hoostes: beholde, I will melle them, & crie them/for what shalbe I els do to my people? Their tongues are lyke sharpe arrowes, to speake dyscete. With their mouth they speake peaceably to their neighbour, but pynely they laye wayte for hym. Shalbe I not pynish them for these thynges, sayeth the Lorde? Shalbe I not be auenged of any soche people as this? Upon the mountaynes will I take bp a lamentacion and sorrowfull crye, and a mourninge vpon the saye playnes of the wildernes: Namely, how they are so bent bp, that no man goeth there any moore: Yee a man shall not heare one beate crie there.

Jeremy. 28. b.
Part. 2. c. and
Which. 28. a.
Byddes and cattell are all gone fro thence.
I will make Jerusalem also an heape of stones, and a denne of benygious wormes.
And I will make the cities of Juda so waste/that no man shall dwell therein. What man is so wyse, as to vnderstande this? Or to whom shalt thou speake by mouth, that he may

Jeremy. 28. b.
Part. 2. c. and
Which. 28. a.
Weeme this, and saye: O thou lande, whye peryst thou so? Wherefore art thou so bent bp: & lyke a wyderne, that no man goeth thorow? Yee the Lorde hym selfe tolde the same vnto them, that forsoke hys lawe, and kepte not the thinge that he gaue the in co-mmandement, neither liued thereafter: but solowed the wyckednes of their owne hertes/and serued strange goddes, as their fathers taught them.

Jeremy. 28. b.
Part. 2. c. and
Which. 28. a.
Therefore, thus sayeth the Lorde of Hostes: the God of Israel: Beholde, I will fede thys people with wormewood, and geue them gall to drinke. I will scatthe the also amonge the Heathen, whom neither they nor their fathers haue knowen: & I will sende a swearde amonge them, to persecute them, bntyll I byngne them to naught. Moreover, thus sayeth the Lorde of Hostes: loke that ye call for mourninge wyues, & sende for wyfe we-men: that they come thortly, & singe a moun-tinge songe of you: that the teares maye fall out of oure eyes, and that oure eye lyddes maye gush out of water.

For there is a lamentable noyse heard of Syon: O how are we forsoze destroyed: O how are we so pteously confounded: We must forsake oure stone naturall countre/& we are shot out of oure owne lodgynges.
Yet heare the woide of the Lorde: O ye we-men, and let your eares regarde the wordes of hys mouth: & ye maye lette your daughters to mourne, & that euery one maye teach her neighbouresse, to make lamentacyon.
Namely thus: Death is clymmyng bp in at oure wyndowes, he is come in to oure houses, to destroye the chyldre before the doze, & the yonge man in the strete.

But tell thou planely, thus sayeth the Lorde: The dead bodies of men shall lye vpon the ground, as the donge vpon the felde, & as the heye after the mower, and ther shalbe no man to take them bp. Moreover, thus sayeth the Lorde: Let not the wyse man re-ioyse in hys wysdome, nor the stronge man in hys strength, neither the ryche man in hys ryches: But who so will reioyse, let him re-ioyse in this: & he vnderstandeth, & knoweth me: for I am the Lorde, which do mercy, equi-te and ryghtuousnes vpon the earth. Therefore haue I pleasure in such thynges, sayeth the Lorde. Beholde, the tyme cometh, sayeth the Lorde, that I will byset, & all the, whose fozetymne is vncircumcised. The Egypcy-ans, the Tewes, the Edomytes, the Ammo-nites, the Moabites, and the Chauen Ma-danites, that dwell in the wildernes. For all the Gentyles are vncircumcised in the flesh, but all the house of Israel are vncircumcy-sed in the herte.

The constellacions of the starres are not to be fearred. Of the weakenes of Idoles, and of the power of God. Of euill cures.

Chapter.

Jeremy. 28. b.
Part. 2. c. and
Which. 28. a.
Behold, the woide of the Lorde, that I the speake vnto you, O thou house of Israel: Thus sayeth the Lorde: Yee shall not lerne after the maner of the Heathen, & ye shall not be afrayed for the tokens of heauen: for the Heathen are afrayed of such: yee all & customes & lawes of the Gentyles are nothinge, but banter.
They hewe downe a tree in the wod with the bandes of the woiche man, and fasten on it the axe: they couer it ouer with golde or syluer, they fasten it with nayles and bismers/& it moue not. It standeth as a pynne tree, it can neither speake nor go, but must be howne. We not ye afrayed of such, for they can do neither good nor euil. But there is none lyke vnto the, O Lorde, & greates is the name of thy power. Who wolde not feare the? Or what King of the Earthes wolde not obeye the?
For amonge all the wyse men of the Gentilles, & in all their kingdomes, there is none that maye be likened vnto the. They are all together burned and burned. All their co-nynges is but banter, namely, wod / syluer / which is brought out of Charis, and beate to plates, and golde from Ophir, & woiche is made with the hande of the craftesman & the caster, clothed with yelow sylck & scat-let: euen so is the woiche of their wyse men alltogether. But the Lorde is a true God, & lyuynge God, and an euerslastynge kynge. If he be wroth, the earth shaketh: all the Gentyles maye not abyde his indignacion.

Jeremy. 28. b.
Part. 2. c. and
Which. 28. a.
As for their goddes, it maye well be sayde of the: they are goddes, & made nether heauen nor earth: therefore shall they perishe fro the earth, & fro all thynges vnder heauē.
But as for oure God, he made the earth with his power, and with his wysdome hath he sy-ned the whole copasse of the worlde, with his discrecion hath he syed out the heauens.

At his voyce the waters gather together in the abyss, he draweth bp the cloudes from the bittemost partes of the earth: he turneth lygh-tenynges to raine, & bringeth forth the wyndes out of their treasures: his wysdome maketh all men fooles. And confounded be all casters of ymagines, for that they cast, is but a bayne thyng, and hath no lyfe. The bayne craftes-men with their woiches, that they in their haunte haue made, shall perishe one by one in the tyme of visytacion. Nevertheless, Jacobs porcion is not such: but it is he, that hath made all thynges, & Israel is the rodd of his inheritaunce: The Lorde of Hostes is his name. But awaye thyne vncircumcised out of the land, thou that art in the stronge cities.
For thus sayeth the Lorde: Beholde, I will now thrust out the inhabitours of this land a greates waye of, and trouble them of such a fashion, that they shal no moze be founde.

Alas, how am I hurte? Alas, how payne-full are my scourges vnto me? For I confy-de this sorrow by my self, & I must suffer it.
My tabernacle is destroyed, & all my coardes are broken. My chyldre are gone from me, & can no where be founde. Now haue I none to spyde out my tente, or to sett bp my han-gynge. For the herdmen haue done solibly, that they haue not sought the Lorde. Therefore haue they dealt vnto my selfe wth their cattell, and all are scatred abrode. Beholde, the noyse is harde at hande, and greates sedycion out of the north: to make the cities of Juda a wylderne, and a dwellinge place for dragons.
Now I knowe, O Lorde, & it is not in mas power to orde hys owne wayes, or to rule hys owne steppes and goynges. Therefore chasten thou vs, O Lorde, but with sauoure and not in thy wroth, byngne vs not bitterly consaught. Poure out thyne indignacyon ther vpon the Gentiles, that knowe the not/and vpon the people, & call not on thy name:

And that because they haue consumed, & de-uoured and destroyed Jacob, and haue rote out hys glory.

A curse of the that obey not the woide of Goddes promesse. The people of Juda followinge the steppes of their fathers, woich theyperch strange Goddes. The Lorde sayeth that he will not heare the Tewes, & forgyfeth also Jeremy to praye for them.

Chapter.

Jeremy. 28. b.
Part. 2. c. and
Which. 28. a.
This is another Sermon, which the Lorde commaunded Jeremy for to preach, sayng: Heare the wordes of the couenaunt, and speake vnto all Juda, and to all them that dwell at Jerusale. And saye thou vnto the: Thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: Cursed be euery one that is not obedyent vnto the wordes of this couenaunt, which I commaunded vnto your fathers, what tyme as I brought them out of Egypte, from the Egypton forname, sayng: Ye obedyent vnto my voyce, & do accordyng to all that I commaunde you: so shal ye be my people, and I will be your God, and will kepe my promise, that I haue sowne vnto your fathers: Namely, that I wolde geue them a lande, whych floweth with mych and hony, as yee see, it is come to passe vnto this daye. Then answered I, and saye. Amen.
It is euen so, Lorde, as thou sayest.

Then the Lorde sayde vnto me agayne: pre-che this in the cities of Juda, & rounde aboute Jerusalem, & saye: Heare the wordes of this couenaunt, & ye maye kepe them. For I haue diligentlye exorted your fathers, euer sence the tyme that I brought them out of the Lande of Egypte, vnto this daye. I gaue them warnynges by tymes, sayng: Herken vnto my voyce: Nevertheless, they wolde not obeye me, nor encline their eares vnto me, but solowed the wycked ymagynacions of theyr owne hertes. And therefore haue I accused them as transgressours of all the wordes of this couenaunt, that I gaue them to kepe/whych they (not wth vnderstandyng) haue not kepte.

And the Lorde sayde vnto me: It is for-sode, that whole Israel and all these citisens of Jerusalem are gone backe. They haue turned them selues to the blasphemies of their fathers, whych had no lust to heare my woide. Euen lyke wyse haue they also sollowed strange goddes, and woich theyperch them. The house of Israel and Juda haue broken my couenaunt, whych I made wth their fathers.

Therefore thus sayeth the Lorde: Behold,
I will

I will send a plague amonge you / whyche shall not be able to escape: and though ye crye unto me / I will not heare you. Then shall the towncs of Iuda and the cytezynes of Ierusalem go / and call vpon their goddes vnto whom they made their oblations: but they are not able to helpe them in tyme of their trouble. For as many cyties as thou hast / O Iuda / so many Goddes hast thou also: And loke how many stretes there be in the (O Ierusalem) so many shamefull suters haue ye sett vp / to offere vpon them vnto Baal. But praye not thou for this people / byd nether praye nor prayer for them / for though they crye vnto me in their trouble / yet will I not heare them.

Chap. xiiij. Chapter.
 Thou beloued / why dost thou so shamefull greates blasphemies in my house? eue as though that holy fleth myght absolue the / specially when thou hast made thy booke of thy wyckednes. The Lorde callen the a grene olive tre / a laye one / a frutesfull one / a goodly one: but now that there is a contrary repoite of the abyde / he will burne the by / and destroye thy bzaunches. For the Lorde of hostes that planted the hath deuyed a plague for it (O thou house of Israel & Iuda) for it euell that ye haue done to prouoke him to wrath / in that ye dyd seruyce vnto Baal. This (O Lorde) haue I lerned of the / and vnderstande it / for thou hast shewed me their ymaginacions. But I (as a meke lambe) was caried awaye to be slayne: not knowinge / for they had deuised such a counceill agaynst me sayenge: We will destroye his meate with wydder / & dryue him out of the lande of Iuday: that his name shal neuer be thought vpon. Therefore I will beseeche the now (O Lorde of hostes) thou righteous iudge / thou that tryest the reynes and the hertes: lett me see the auenged of them / for vnto the haue I comitted my cause. The Lorde therfore spake thus of the cytezynes of Anathoth / that sought to slaye me / sayenge: Preach not vnto vs in the name of the Lorde / or els thou shalt dye of oure handes. Thus (I saye) spake the Lorde of hostes: Beholde / I will viset you. Your yonge men shall perishe with the swerde / your sonnes & your daughters shall utterlye dye of hunger / so that none shall remayne. For byd & cytezynes of Anathoth will bring a plague / the yere of their visitacion.

Chap. xiiij. Chapter.
 The prophete marmelet greatly at the prosperite of the wycked / although he confesse God to be righteous. The Jewes are forsaken of the Lorde. He speaketh agaynst Iudas and preaches that he deuce the people. The Lorde threatneth destruction vnto the nacyons that bordered vpon Jewye / whyche troubled and bered it.

Chap. xiiij. Chapter.

Lorde / thou art more righteous / then that I shoulde dispute with thee: Neuertheles / lett me talke with the in thynges resonable. * How happeneth it / that the waye of the bygodly is so prosperous? and that it goeth so well to them / which (with out eny shame) offende & lyue in wyckednesse? Thou plantest them / they take rote / they growe / and byngne forth frute. They boost moch of the / yet dost thou not punish them. But thou Lorde (to whom I am well knowne) thou that hast sene / and p'oued my herte / take them awaye / lyke as a flock is carped to the slaughter house / and apoynte them for the daye of slaughter.

How longe shall the lande mourne / and all the herbes of the felde perishe / for the wyckednes of them that dwell therein?

The catell and the byrdes are gone / yet saye they: tush / God will not destroye vs better.

Seing thou art weery in running with a sore nien / how wilt thou then runne with horses? In a peaccable sure lade thou mayest be safe / but how wilt thou do in the furpous pryde of Iordane? For thy byrthen and thy kynred haue all together despised the / & cried out vpon the in thine absence. Beluee them not / though they speake laye wordes to the. As for me (I saye) I haue forsaken myne a lone dwelling place / & left myne heretage. My life also I loue so well / haue I geuen in to the handes of myne enemies. Myne heretage is become vnto me / as a Lyon in the wod. It cried out vpon me / therfore haue I forsaken it. Myne heretage is vnto me / as a speckled byrde / a byrde of dyuerse coloures is vpon it. So hence / and gather all the beastes of the felde together / that they maye eat it by.

Dyuerse herdmen haue bynde downe my byrde / and troden vpon my porcyd. Of my pleasaunt porcyd / they haue made a wilderness & deserte. They haue layed it waste: and now that it is waste / it sygheth vnto me. Yee the whole lande lyeth waste / and no man regardeth it. The destroyers come ouer the heeth euery waye / for the swerde of the Lorde shall consume from the one ende of the lande to the other / and no fleth shal haue rest. They shall towe to heate / and reepe thornes. They shall take heretage in possession / but it shall do them no good. And ye shalbe confounded of poure a lone wympynges / because of the greates wozath of the Lorde.

Thus sayeth the Lorde vpon all myne euell neighbours / that laye hande on myne heretage / which I haue geuen my people of Israel: Beholde / I will plucke them (namely Israel) out of their lande / & put out the house of Iuda of Iuda fro amonge the. And when I haue roted them out / I will be at one with them agayne / and will haue mercy vpon them: & byngne the agayne / euery man to his stowe heretage / and in to his land. And ye they (namely that trouble my people) will lerne the wayes of them / to sweare by my name: The Lorde lyueth (lyke as they lerned my people to sweare by Baal) then shall they be rehered amonge my people. But ye they will not obeye / then will I rote out the same folke / and destroye them / sayeth the Lorde.

The destruction of the Jewes is prefigured: and their spaciuous shode. Why Israel was receyued to be the people of God / & why they were forsaken.

Chap. xiiij. Chapter.

Mourne / thus sayde the Lorde vnto me: go thy waye / & get the a linnen byrche / & gyde it aboute thy loynes / and let it not be wet. Then I got me a byrche / according to the comaundement of the Lorde / & put it about my loynes. After this / the Lorde spake vnto me agayne: Take the byrche that thou hast prepared & put about the / & gett the byrche / and go vnto Euphrates / & hyde it in a hole of the rock. So went I / and hyde it / as the Lorde commaunded me. And it happened longe after this / that the Lorde spake vnto me: Arise / & gett the byrche / & let the byrche from thence / which I commaunded the to hyde there. Then went I to Euphrates / & digged vp / & toke the byrche from the place where I had hyd it: & beholde / the byrche was corrupt / so that it was profitable for nothinge.

Then sayde the Lorde vnto me: Thus sayeth the Lorde: Euen so will I corrupte the pryde of Iuda / & the hye mynde of Ierusalem. This people is a wycked people / they will not heare my wordes / they folowe the wicked ymaginacions of their stowe herte / & hange vpon strange Goddes / them haue they serued & worshipped: & therefore they shalbe as this byrche / that serueth for nothinge. For as stratelye as a byrche lyeth vpon a mans loynes / so stratelye dyd I bynde the whole house of Israel / & the whole house of Iuda vnto me / sayeth the Lorde: that they myght be my people: that they myght haue a glorious name: & they myght be in honoure: but they wolde not obeye me. Therefore saye this ryole before them / & saye: Thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: Euery pot shalbe fylled with wyne. And they shal saye: thinkest thou we knowe not / that euery pot shalbe fylled with wyne? Then wale thou saye vnto the: Thus sayeth the Lorde: Beholde / I shall fyl all the inhabytours of this lande with drynckenes / the kynge that lyeth vpon Dauides stole / the prestes and prophetes / with all that dwell at Ierusalem. And I will smite them one agaynst another / yee the fathers agaynst the sonnes / sayeth the Lorde.

I will not pardon the / I will not spare the / ner haue ptye vpon them: but destroye the. Be obediēt / geue care / take no bysdayne at it / for it is the Lorde hym selfe that spea keth. Honour the Lorde your God heret / or he take his lyght from you / and or euer your face shalbe in darcknesse at the byll: lest when ye loke for the lyght / he turne it in to the shadowe & darcknesse of death. But ye ye will not heare me / that geue you secrete warnyng / I will mourne from my whole hert for your stubburnesse. Pteously will I wepe / & the teares shall gush out of myne eyes. For the Lordes floche shall be caried awaye captiue. Tell the kynge and the rulers: Humble your selues / lett youdome lowe / for the crowne of your glozy shal fall from your head. The cities towarde the south shalbe shut vp / and no man shal open them. All Iuda shal be caried awaye captiue / so that none shall remayne.

Let by your eyes / & beholde them / that come from the North: A fast floche shal they fall vpon the. To who wyll thou make thy mone / when they come vpon the? For thou hast taught them thy selfe / and made them masters ouer the. Shal not sorowe come vpon the / as on a woman trauayling with childe? And ye thou woldest saye the in thyn herte: wherfore come these thynges vpon me? Euen for the multitude of thy blasphemies / shal thy hinder partes and thy feete be discourred. For lyke as the man of Iude maye chaunge his kynne / & the cat of the mountayne her sportes: so maye ye that be exerceysed in euell / do good. Therefore will I scatere you / lyke as the stobbe is taken awaye with the south wynde. This shal be your porcyon / and the porcyon of your measure / wher with ye shal be rewarded of me / sayeth the Lorde: because ye haue forgotten me / and put your trust in disceatfull thynges. Therefore shal I turne thy clothes ouer thy head / and discouer thy thyghes / & thy p'reuittes maye be sene / thy aduouty / thy dedly malice / thy beastlynesse and thy shamefull whoredome. For vpon the felde and bylles I haue sene thy abominacions. Who be vnto the (O Ierusalem) when wilt thou euer be clenched eny more?

Of the death that shal come in Jewye. The prayer of the people asking mercy of the Lorde. The vnsaythfull people are not hearede. Of prayer for Iudges of false prophetes that seduce the people.

Chap. xiiij. Chapter.

In the wynde of the Lorde shewed vnto Ieremy / concernyng the death of the frutes. Iuda shal mourne / me shal not go moch more thozow his gates: the lande shall be nomozed had in reputation: & the cite of Ierusalem shall beake out. The lordes shall sende their seruantes to fetch water: & when they come to the welles, they shall fynde no water, but shall carpe their vessels home emptye. They shall be ashamed and confounded: & shall couer their heades. For the grounde shall be dyled by because there cometh no rayne vpon it. The plowmen also shall be ashamed: & shall couer their heades. The hynde shall forsake the yoke sawne: & he byngeth forth in the felde because there shall be no grasse. The wynde shall stande in the wynde: and shall be in their wynde lyke the dragons: their eyes shall sayle for want of grasse.

Woutles ourt a wiche dene were warde hs: But Lorde do thou accordinge to thy name: though ourt transgressions and synnes be many. For thou art the comforte & helpe of Ierusalem in the tyme of trouble. Why wilt thou be as a straunger in the Lande: and as one that goeth ouer the felde: & cometh in only to remayne for a night? Why wilt thou make thy self a coward: and as it were a gy-aunte that yet maye not helpe? For thou art ourt (O Lorde) and we heare thy name/therfore forsake vs not.

When spake the Lorde concerninge this people that haue pleasure to go so nymby in their fete: and leaue not of: and therfore displeaseth the Lorde: in so much: that he will not bringe agayne to remembrance all their myntes: and punyssh all their synnes. Yee euen thus sayde the Lorde vnto me: Thou wilt not praye to do this people good. For though they fast: I will not heare they prayers. And though they offere burnt offrys & sacrifices: yet will I not accepte the. For I will destroye them with the swerde: hunger and pestilence. Then answered I: O Lorde God: the prophetes saye vnto them: Cuth/ye Walle no swerde: and no hunger shall come vpon you: but the Lord shall geue you continuall rest in this place.

When spake the Lorde vnto me: The prophetes preach lyes vnto them in my name. I haue not spoken wth them: nether gaue I them any charge: nether dyd I sende the: yet they preach vnto you false blyss/charming banite: & disceatfullnes of their a wne herte.
Herfore thus saith the Lorde: As for those prophetes that preach in my name (whom I neuertheless haue not sent) and that saye: Cuth! there shall nether batel nether hunger be in this lande: wth swerde and wth honger shall those prophetes perishe: and the people to whom they haue preached shall be cast out of Ierusalem: bye of hunger: and be slayne wth the swerde (and there shall be no man to burye them) both they and their wyues/their sonnes and their daughters. For thus will I poure their wyckednes vpon them. This thalt thou saye also vnto them: Whyne eyes shall wepe without ceasinge daye and night. For my people shall be destroyed wth great harme: and shall perishe wth a great plage. For yf I go in to the felde: lo: it lyeth all full of slaynemen: yf I come in to the cytye: lo: they be all famished of hunger.

Yee their prophetes also and prestes shall be led in to an vnkowne lande.

Wilt thou then utterly forsake Iuda: (sayde I) Wilt thou so abhorre Syon: O: wilt thou so plaged be: that we can be healed nomozed? We looked for peace: and there cometh no good: for the tyme of heath: & lo: here is nothinge but trouble. We knowe lege (O Lorde) all our mysdoes: and the synnes of our fathers: that we haue offended the. Be not displeased (O Lorde) for thy names sake: forgett not thy louynge kyndnes: Remembre the trone of thyne ho-noure: bryake not the couenaunt: that thou hast made wth vs. Are there any amonge the goddes of the Gentiles: that sende rayne or geue the showres of heauen? Wilt thou it O Lorde our God: in whom we trust: Yee Lorde: thou dost all these thynges.

When the Lorde wyl not heare Moyses or Aaron: if they praye for the people: but wyl smyte them in many myntes. The cause of soche greute myntes.

The xij. Chapter.

When spake the Lorde vnto me: I and sayde: Though Moyses & Amuel stode before me: yet haue I no herte to this people. Whyne them awaye: that they maye go out of my syght. And yf they saye vnto the: Whyther shall we go? Then tell them: The Lorde geueth you this answer: Some vnto death/some to the swerde: some to hunger: some into captiuyte. For I wyl bringe foure plages vpon them: sayeth the Lorde. The swerde shall strangle them: the dogges shall deuoure them: the foules of the ayre: and beastes of the earth shall eate them by: and de-stroye them. I wyl scatter them aboute also in all kyngdomes & landes to be plaged/because of Manasse the sonne of Hezekiah kyng of Iuda: for the thynges that he dyd in Ierusalem.

Who shall then haue pyte vpon the: O Ierusalem: who shall be sorry for the? O: who shall make intercessio: to obtayne peace for the: saying thou goest from me: and turnest backwarde: sayeth the Lorde: Herfore I will stretch out myne hand agaynst the: to de-stroye the: & I wyl not be intreated. I wyl scatte the aboute wth the same on every side
of the

of the lande: I wyl waste my people and destroye them: for they haue had no lust to turne from their a wne wayes. I wyl make their wyddowes mo in nobye: then I landes of the see. vpon the mothers of their chyldren: I shall bynge a destroyer in the noone daye. Sodenly and vnawares: shall I sende a feare vpon their cyties. Shee I hath borne bly. chyldren: shall haue none: her herte shall be full of sorowe.

When the sunne shall sayle her in the cleare daye: when she shall be confounded and faynte for very heynesse. As for those I remayne/I wyl deliuer them vnto the swerde of their enemyes: sayeth the Lorde. O mother/alas that euer thou dydest beate me: an enemye and hated of the whole lande: Though I neuer lentre ner receaued vpon blury: yet all men speake euell vpon me. And the Lorde answered me: Lede not I then vnto good:
Come not I to the: why thou art in trouble:
I helpe the: when thyne enemye oppreseth the: Wilt thou hurt another: or one mettal that cometh from the North: another: As for your ryches & treasure: I wyl geue them out into a praye: not for any money: but because of all your synnes: & ye haue done in all your coastes. And I wyl bringe you wth your enemyes in to a lande: that ye knowe not: for the fyre that is kyndled in my indignacyon: shall burne you by.

When the Lorde (sayde I then) thou knowest all thynges: therfore remembre me: & byset me/deliuer me from my persecuters: Because not my cause in thy longe wyath: yet thou know-est: & for thy sake I suffre rebuke. When I had found thy wordes: I ate them by grede: they haue made my herte so full of glad-nes: for I call vpon thy name: O Lorde God of Hostes. I dwell not amonge the scoymers: nether is my deliue therin: but I dwell only in the feare of thy hand: for thou hast fylled me wth bytternes. Shall my heynesse endure for euer: Are my plagges then so greute: that they maye neuer be healed: Wilt thou be as a water: that falleth: and can not continue:
vpon these wordes: thus sayde the Lorde vnto me: If thou wilt turne agayne: I shall set the in my seruyce: and yf thou wilt take out the thyng that is precious from thy bile/thou shalt be euen as myne a wne mouth.
They shall conuerse vnto the: but turne not thou vnto the: so shall I make the a strage wall of stele agaynst this people. They shall fght agaynst the: but they shall not preuaile. For I my selfe will be in the: to helpe the: and deliuer the: sayeth the Lorde. And I wyl rydd the out of the handes of the wycked: and deliuer the out of the hande of seruantes.

The prophetes the myntes of the Jewes. He

For of the chyldren that are borne in this place: of their mothers I haue borne them: and of their fathers that haue begott them in this lande: thus sayeth the Lorde: They shall dye an horrible death: no man shall mourne for them: nether burye them: but they shall lye as donge vpon the earth. They shall perishe thowen the swerde and hunger: and their bodies shall be meate for the foules of the ayre: and bestes of the earth. Agayne/thus sayeth the Lorde: So not vnto the: that come together: for to mourne and wepe: for I haue take my peace fro this people (saith the Lorde) yet my fauoure & my mercy. And in this lande shall they dye: olde and yonge:
I shall not be buried: no man shall betwepe

Jerusalem. The Prophecy

he sayne / lett their yonge men be kyled in the swerde in the feide. Lett the noyle be herde out of their houses / when I murderer cometh sodenly upon them: for they haue digged a pit to take me / and layed snares for my fete. Yet Loyde / thou knowest all their counsell / & they haue deuyed / to slaye me. And therfore forgeue the not their wyckednes / and let not their synne be put out of thy syght: but lett them be iudged befoze the as the gyltye: & hya shalt thou do vnto them in the tyme of thy indignacion.

The prophecye of the destruction of Jerusalem for the contempt and despying of the worde of God.

The xix. Chapter.

Mozouer / thus sayde the Loyde vnto Jeremey: Go thy way / & bye the an erthen pytcher / and bryng forth the Senatours / and these prelates in to the balley of the chylde of Bennom / which lieth befoze the porte that is made of bysch / and shewe them there the wordes / that I shall tell the / and saye thus vnto them: Heare the worde of the Loyde / ye kynges of Iuda / and ye cytyens of Jerusalem: Thus sayeth the Loyde of Hostes the God of Israel: Behold / I will bryng such a plage vpon this place / that I eares of all that heare it / shall glome. And that because they haue forsaken me / & bntalowed this place / and haue offered in it vnto straunge goddes: whome nether they / their fathers / ner the kynges of Iuda haue knowne. They haue selled this place also to the bloude of innocentes / for they haue sett vp an auter vnto Baal / to burne their chyliden for a burnt offering vnto Baal / which I neither commaunded / ner charged them / ne- ther thought once there vpon.

Beholde therfore / the tyme cometh (saith the Loyde) & this place shall nomore be called. Copheth / ner the balley of the chylde of Bennom / but the balley of slaughter. For in this place will I slaye the Senatours of Iuda & Jerusalem / & kyll the downe in the swerde in the syght of their enemyes / & of them that seke their lyues. And they beed carcases wyl I geue to be meate for the foules of the ayre / & beestes of the feide. And I wyl make this cytie so desolate / and despyled: that who so goeth ther by / shall be abashed and least vpon her / because of all her plages.

I wyl fede the also with the flesh of their sonnes & their daughters. Yee euery one shall eate vp another in the besegynge and stryng- nesse / wherewith their enemyes (I seke their lyues) shall kepe them in. And the pytcher shalt thou bryng in the syght of the nyen / & shalbe with the / and saye vnto them: Thus sayeth the Loyde of Hostes: Euen so wyl I destroye this people and cytie: as a potter breaketh a vessel / I cannot be made whole agayne.

In Copheth shall they be buried / for they shall haue none other place. Thus wyl I do vnto this place also / saith the Loyde / and to them that dwell therein: yee I wyl do to this cytie as vnto Copheth (for I houses of Jerusalem & the houses of the kynges of Iuda are despyled / lyke as Copheth) because of all the houses / in whose parlours they dyd sacrifice vnto all the hostes of heauen / & poured out dryncke offerings vnto strange goddes. And so Jeremey cam fro Copheth / where the Loyde had sent him to prophete / and stode in the courte of the house of the Loyde / and spake to all the people: Thus sayeth the Loyde of Hostes the God of Israel: Beholde / I wyl bryng vpon this cytie & vpon euery towne aboute it / all the plages that I haue deuyed agaynst them: for they haue bene obstinate / and wolde not obeye my warnynges.

Jeremey is smytten and cast in to prison for pra- chynge of the worde of God. He prophete the capti- uytie of Babylon. He complayneth that he is a mo- chynge for the worde of God. He is compelled by the spyrte to preche the worde: wyl he wyl he not.

The xx. Chapter.

Ven Phasur & preast / & some of the of Emer / these in the house of the Loyde / herde Jeremey preache so stedfastly: he smote Jeremey / & put him in the stocks / that are by the yte gate of Beniamin / in the house of the Loyde. The nexte daye solowynge Phasur brought Je- remey out of the stocks agayne. Then sayde Jeremey vnto hym: The Loyde shall call the nomore Phasur (that is excellent & increa- syng) but Magog (I is fearful & afrayed) euery where. For thus sayeth the Loyde: Beholde / I wyl make the afrayed / the thy self / and all that saoure the: which shall perishe with the swerde of their enemyes / euen be- fore thy face.

And I wyl geue whole Iuda vnder the power of the kyng of Babylon / which shall carie some vnto Babylon prisoners / & slaye some with the swerde. Mozerouer / all the substance of this lande / all their precyous and gorgeous woorkes / all costelynesse / & all the treasure of the kynges of Iuda: wyl I geue in to the handes of their enemyes / which shall spoyle them / and carie them vnto Babylon. But as for I (Phasur) thou shalt be caried vnto Babylon with all thine hous- holde / & to Babylon shalt thou come / where thou shalt dye / and be buried: thou & all thy fauourers / to whom thou hast preached lyes. And Loyde / thou makest me to weake / but thou reherstest me / & makest me stronge agayne. All the daye longe am I despyled / & laughed to scozne of euery man: because I haue nomore preached soundaunce.

preached lyge agaynst malicious & synny / & shewed them of destruction. For the which cause they cast the worde of the Loyde in my teeth / and sake me euer to the worst.

Wherfore / I thought from hence forth / not to speake of him / ner to pleach eny more in his name. But the worde of the Loyde was a very burnynge fyre in my hert / and in my bones / which whyle I wolde haue stopped / I might not. For whyle I herde so many deris- yons and blasphemies / yee euen of myne awne companions / and of such as were con- uersaunte with me: which wrote aboute / to make me afrayed / sayng: vpon him / let vs go vpon him / to feare hym / and make hym holde his tongue: I wyl maye ouer come him / and be auenged of him.

But the Loyde stode by me / lyke a mygh- tie gaunte: therfore my persecuters fell / & coude do nothing. They shall be soze colou- ded / for they haue done vnwysely / they shall haue an euerydaye shame. And now / Loyde of Hostes / thou ryghtuous scther (which knowest & reynes & the very hertes:) let me se them punished / for vnto the I com- myte my cause.

Synge vnto the Loyde / and prayse hym / for he hath deliuered the soule of the oppres- sed / from the hande of the violent. Cursed be the daye / wherin I was borne: vnbappye be the daye / wherin my mother brought me forth. Cursed be the man / that brought my father & ydnges / to make him glad / sayng: thou shalt gotten a sonne. Let it happen vnto that man / as to the cyties which the Loyde turned vnto pye downe (whyle he had hearde log- the wicked rumoure of the) because he shewe me not / as sone as I cam out of my mothers wombe / & because my mother was not my graue her selfe / that I byrth might not haue come out / but remayned tyll in her. Wher- fore cam I forth of my mothers wombe: & to leade my lyfe with shame?

The prophecye that Zedekiah shall be taken / and the cytie burned.

The xxi. Chapter.

These are the wordes of the Loyde spake vnto Jeremey what tyme as the kyng Zedekiah sent vnto hym Phasur the sonne of Mithlah / & Sophoniah the sonne of Maasiah preaste / sayng: As the counsell at the Loyde (we praye the) of oure behalfe / for Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Babylon besegeth vs / of the Loyde (peraduenture) wyl deale with vs / accor- dyng to his maruelous power / & take hym from vs.

Then spake Jeremey. Thus Zedekiah this and more. Thus sayeth the Loyde God of Israell: Beholde / I wyl turne backe the wea- pens / that ye haue in youre handes / wher- with ye fyght agaynst the kyng of Baby- lon & the Caldees / which belege you rounde aboute & walles / & I wyl bryng the toge- ther into the myddest of this cytie / and I my selfe wyl fyght agaynst you / w an outstret- ched hande / & with a myghtie arme / in great displeasure and terrible wrath: & wyl I smyte them / that dwell in this cytie: yee both men & catell shall dye of the pestilence.

And after this (saith the Loyde) I shall be- deliuer Zedekiah the kyng of Iuda / & his seruautes / his people (soch as are escaped in the cytie / from the pestilence / swerde / & hunger) in to the power of Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Babylon: yee in to the handes of their enemyes / in to the handes of those that folowe vpon their lyues / which shall smyte the with the swerde: they shall not pytie the / they shall not spare them / they shall haue no mercy vpon them.

And vnto this people thou shalt saye: Thus sayeth the Loyde: Beholde / I laye befoze you wente. xxi. & the waye of lyfe and deeth. Who so abyrdeth in this cytie / shall perishe: ether by the swerde / with hunger / or with pestilence. But who so goeth out to holde on the Chaldees parte / & belege it / he shall saue his lyfe / and a wall wyne his soule for a pray. For I haue seet my face agaynst this cytie (saith the Loyde) to plage it / and to do it no good. I must be geuen in to the hande of the kyng of Baby- lon / and be byrnt with fyre.

And vnto the house of the kyng of Iuda / saye thus: Heare the worde of the Loyde (O thou house of Dauid) so: thus saith the Loyde: Whynste ryghtuousnes / and that sone / de- liuer the oppressed from vyolent power: & euer my terrible wrath bryake out lyke a fyre / because of the wickednes of youre gynacons. Beholde (saith the Loyde) I wyl come vnto you / & dwell in the balleges / & I wyl saye: Thus: who will make vs afrayed? or who will come into oure hou- ses? For I wyl byset you (saith the Loyde) because of the wickednes of your inuencions / and wyl I bynde such a fyre in youre wood / as shall consume all / that is aboute you.

Deherdoeth the kyng of Iuda to iudgement and ryghtuousnes. Why Jerusalem is brought into cap- tivitye. The death of Achum the sonne of Josiah is propheted.

The xxii. Chapter.

Thus sayde the Loyde also: God I dwone in to the house of the kyng of Iuda / and spake there these wordes / and saye: Heare & worde of the Loyde / thou kyng of Iuda that syttest in the

in the kingly seate of Dauid: thou and thy seruantes and thy people that go in & out at this gate. Thus the Lord commaundeth: kepe equite and rightousnesse / deliuer the oppressed from the power of the violent: do not greue ner oppresse the straunger / the fatherlesse ner the widow / and the innocent bloude in this place.

And ye kepe these thinges saythfully / then shall there come in at the doze of this house kynges / to syt by Dauid's seate: they shall be caried in Chariottes and ryde upon horses / both they & their seruantes / & their people. But ye will not be obedient vnto these commaundementes / I sweate by myne awne selfe (sayeth the Lord) this house shall be waste. For thus hath the Lord spoken by the kynges house of Juda: thou art a head / as Galaad is in Libanus: what wilt thou laye of it / ye I make the not so waste (& thy cyties also) that no man shall dwell therein: I will prepare a destroyer with his weapes for the / to hew downe thy specyall Cedre trees / and to cast them in the fyre.

And all the people that go by this cytie / shall speake one to another: Wherefore hath the Lord done thus vnto this noble cytye? When shall it be answered: because they haue broken the couenaunt of the Lord their God / & haue worshipped a serued strange goddes. Mourne not ouer the deed / & be not wo for them / but be wo for him that departed from the Lord: for he commeth not agayne / and sonnes of Joliseeth his natyue countre no more. For thus sayeth the Lord / as touchynge a. Selum the sonne of Josiah kyng of Juda / whych ragged after his father / and is caried oute agayne / for he shall dye in the place / wher he was led captiue / and shall see this lande of Juda no more. I do woorth him / that buyderhys house with house with vnrightousnesse / and his parlers oute the house with the good & he hath gotten by violence: which neuer recompenseth his neyghbours gres. For Josiah laboure / ner payeth him his hye. & ethynce heth in him selfe: I will buyde me a wybe to be specyally house / & gorge ous parlers: he causeth wifingnified by the dowes to be hewen therein / and the spynges lum) was wo- ught into Egy- pte / & there he teth them with Zenobee. Whiche thou to byd. Reg. raigne / now I thou prouokest me to wryth byd. g. And his with the Cedre trees?

Whyd not thy father eate and drinke / and prosper well / as long as he dealt w equite taken of Abu and rightousnesse: Yee when he helped the chodonozor / & oppressed and poore to their right then prospered he well.

For whence came this / but only because he had me before his eyes / sayeth the Lord. & succedente

Neuertheles / as for thine eyes & thine hett / they loke vpon couetousnesse / to thes immo- cent bloude / to do wronge and violence. And therfore / thus sayeth the Lord agaynst Je- hoahim / the sonne of Josiah kyng of Juda: they shall not mourne for him / as the pble to do / alas brother / alas syster: neither shall they saye vnto hym: Alas / alas for that noble pryce. But as an Aile shall be be buried / corrupte and be cast without the gates of Jerusalem.

Clymme by the hyll of Libanus (& thou daughter Sion) lyt by thy boyce vpon Ba- san / crye from all partes: for all thy louers are destroyed. I gaue the warnynge / whye thou wast yet in prosperite. But thou sayest: I will not heare. And thus maner hast thou bled from thy youth / that thou woldest neuer heare my boyce. All thy hermdes halbe dryuen with the wynde / and thy derlynges halbe caried awaye in to captiuite: Then shalt thou be brought to shame & confusyon / because of all thy wickednes: thou & dwellest vpon Libanus / & makest thy nest in the Cedre trees. How greete shall thy mourning be / when thy sorowes come vpon the / as a woman traueylng with chyldre?

As truly as I lyue (sayeth the Lord) though I Conantah / & sonne of Jehoahim kyng of Juda were the segnet of my ryght hande / yet will I plucke him of: And I will geue the in to the power of them that leke to slay the / and in to the power of them that thou fearest: in to the power of Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Babylon / and in to the power of the Caldees. Wherefore / I will sende the / and thy mother that bare the / in to a strange lād / where ye were not borne / and there shall pedye. But as for the lande that ye will desyre to retorne vnto / ye shall neuer come at it agayne. This man Conantah shall be lyke an ymage robbed & toyme in peces / which pleaseth no man / for all his apparell. Wherefore both he & his seide shall be sent awaye / and cast out in to a lād / that they knowe not.

O thou earth / earth / earth: heare I woode of the Lord: Whyte this man amonge the outlawes / for no prosperite shall this man haue all his lyfe lōge. Neither shall any of his seide be so happye / as to syt vpon the seate of Dauid / and to beate rule in Juda.

The speaketh agaynst euill Curates that make ha- nock of the flock of the Lord. Of the conuersion of the remnant of the Jewes to the sayth. The com- mynge of the true Shepherde Christ is prophesied. Agaynst false prophetes. What a prophete preache- the woide of God / God conuerteth the hertes of the hearers. Agaynst prophetes that perache the name of God. The myracles of false prophetes.

The xxiij. Chapter.

Be vnto the shepherdes / that de- stroye / & scatere my flocke / sayeth the Lord. Wherefore / thus is the commaundement of the Lord God of Israel / vnto the shepherdes that fede my people: Ye scatere and thrust out my flocke / & loke not vpon them. Wherefore now will I by- set the wickednes of poure ymaginacions / sayeth the Lord: And will gather together the remnant of my flocke / from all lādes that I had dryuen them vnto / & will bringe them agayne to their pastures / & they maye growe and increase. I will sett shepherdes also ouer them / which shall fede them. They shall no more feare and dreyde / for there shall none of them be lost / sayeth the Lord. Beholde / the tyme cometh / sayeth the Lord / & I will rayse by the rightous braynche of Dauid / which shall beate rule / and discusse matters in wisdom / & shall sett by equyte & rightousnesse agayne in the earth.

In his tyme shall Juda be saued and Is- rael shall dwell without feare. And thus is the name that they shall call hym: euen the Lord oure rightous maker. And therfore beholde / the tyme cometh / sayeth the Lord / that it shall no more be sayde: the Lord ly- ueth / which brought the chyldren of Israel out of the lande of Egypt: But the Lord ly- ueth / which brought forth / and led the seide of the boule of Israel / out of the North lande / and from all countrees where I had scatred them / & they shall dwell in their awne lande agayne.

My herte breaketh in my body because of the false prophetes / all my bones make: I am become lyke a broken man (that by reason of wyne can take no rest) for very feare of the Lord / and of his holy wordes: Because I lād is full of aduouters / where thow it is destroyed and mourneth / & the pleasaunt pastures of the deserte are dryed by. Yee the waye that men take / is wyched / & their gouernance is nothing lyke I holy woide of the Lord. For the prophetes & the prestes them selues are polluted pprocytes / and their wychednes haue I founde in my house / sayeth the Lord. Wherefore / their waye shall be slippy in the darcknesse / where in they maye stacher and fall. For I will bringe a plage vpon them / euen the feare of their dyspacyon / sayeth the Lord. I haue sene foly amonge the prophetes of Samaria / that they preached for Baal / & disfrauded my peo- ple of Israel.

I haue sene also amonge the prophetes of Jerusalem soule aduoutery / & presumptuous lyes. They take the most shamefull men by the hande / flatteryng them / so & they can not retorne from their wickednes. All these wyth their cytelings are vnto me / as Sodome / & as the inhabitours of Gomorre. Wherefore thus sayeth the Lord of Hostes concerninge the prophetes: Beholde / I will fede them with wormwood / and make them dryncke the water of gall. For from the pro- phetes of Jerusalem is the syknes of ppo- cryte come in to all the lande.

And therfore the Lord of Hostes geueth you this warnynge: Heare not the wordes of the prophetes / that preach vnto you / & dis- ceauce you: for they speake the meanyng of their awne herte / and not oute of the mouth of the Lord. They saye vnto them / that de- speile me: The Lord hath spoken it: & uith / ye shall prosper right well. And vnto all the / that walcke after the lust of their awne herte / they saye: & uith / there shall no misfor- tune happen you. For who hath syt in the counsell of the Lord / that he hath herde and bndet stande / what he is aboute to do? Who hath marched his deuys / and herde it? Beholde / the stormy weather of the Lord (that is / his indignation) shall go forth / and shall fall downe vpon the head of the vngodly. And I wryth of the Lord shall not turne agayne / vntill he persourme and fullfill I thoughte of his herte. And in the latter dayes ye shall knowe his meanyng.

I haue not sent these prophetes / sayeth the Lord / and yet they rame. I haue not spoken to them / and yet they preached. But yet they had contynued in my counsell and herde my wordes: they had turned my people from their euill wayes and wyched ymagi- nacjons. Am I then God that seyth but the thynge / which is nye at hande / and not that is farr off? sayeth the Lord. Maye any man hyde hym selfe so / that I shall not se him? sayeth the Lord. Do not I fulfill heauen and earth? sayeth the Lord. I haue herde well ynough / what the prophetes saye / that preach lyes in my name / sayinge: I haue dreamed / I haue dreamed. How longe will this continue in the prophetes hertes / to tell lyes / and to preach I craftyde soryte of their awne herte? Whole purpose is (wyth the dreames I every one tell) to make my peo- ple forget my name / as their soze fathers byd / when Baal came by. The prophet that hath a dreame / let him tell it: and he that bndet standeth my woide / lett hym shewe it saythfully.

For what hath chaffe and wheate to do to gether? sayeth the Lord. Is not my woide lyke a fyre / sayeth the Lord / and lyke an hammer / that breaketh the harde stone? ther bynge Wherefore thus sayeth the Lord: beholde / I which I haue will byd I prophetes / I shall steale my woide not comyn- pplye from euery man. Beholde / here am I saythfully.

I sayeth the Lorde agaynst the prophetes/that take vpon their tongues to speake: Th Lorde hath sayde it. Beholde / here am I (sayeth the Lorde) agaynst those prophetes/that darre prophesye / and disceane my people with their vanities / and myzacles / whom I neuer sent / ner commaunded the.
They shall do thys people greate harme / sayeth the Lorde.

c. That is the prophecy & heup worde of the Lord. Isa. xij. 2. Abac. 1. 2

¶ If this people / either eny prophet or prest askethe / and saye: what is the burthen of the Lorde? Thou shalt saye unto the: i what burthen? Therefore will I call you fro me (sayeth the Lorde) because ye your selues are a burthe. And þe prophet / prest or people that bleth this terme (the burthe of þe Lorde) him will I visite / and his house also.

But thus shall ye say/euery one to another: What answere hath the Lorde geuen? or / what is the Lordes commaundement? And as for the burthen of the Lorde/ye shall speake nomore of it: for euery mans stone worde is his burthen/because ye haue altered the wordes of the Iuyng God the Lorde of Hostes oure God.

Thus shall every man saye to the P^{ro}- phets: what answere hath the Lorde geuē? the? M²/ what sayeth h Lorde? And not once to name the burthen of the Lorde. Therefore thus sayeth h Lorde: for so moch as ye haue used thys terme (the burthen of the Lorde) where as I not withstanding sent vnto you/
I forbade you to speake of h Lorde burthe.

Beholde therfore / I will repute you as a burthen / & will cast you out of my presence: ye and the cytie also / that I gaue you and yours fathers: & will bynge you to an euer last ynge confusyon / and in to such a shame / as shall neuer be forgotten.

The Lord shewed me a vision: Beholde; there stood two maundes of fygges befoze the Temple of the Lord/after that Nabuchodonosor kyng of Babilon had led away captiue Jehoniah & sonne of Jehoaquin kyng of Iuda/the mightie men also of Iuda/ & the worch-masters/ & conynge men of Ierusalem/ into Babilon. In the one maunde were very good fygges/ euen lyke as those that be fyrt type. In & other maunde were very naughtie fygges/ whych might not be eaten/ they were so euell. Then sayde the Lord vnto me: what seyst thou Jeremy? I sayde: fygges / wherof some be very good/ and some so euell/ that no man maye eate them.

Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto me / after this maner: Thus sayeth Y Lorde the God of Iſtaell: lyke as thou knoweſt Y good ſpyes / ſo ſhall I knowe the men led away / whom I haue ſent out of thys place in to the lande of the Caldees / for their proſpſyte: and I will ſet myne eyes vpon them for the beſt / for I will brynge them agayne in to this lande: I will buylde them by / and not breahe them downe: I will plate them / and not rote them out. And I will geue them an herte / to knowe / howe that I am the Lorde.
They ſhalbe my people / and I will be their God / for they ſhall retorne vnto me in their whole herte.

And like as thou knowest the naughtye figes, whych maye not be eaten, they are so euell: Euen so will I (sayeth the Lorde) lette Zedekiah the kynge of Iuda / & all his princes / & the residue of Ierusalem that re-mayne ouer in this lande / & them also that dwelle in Egypte) to be beset & plagued in all kingdomes & landes. And will make them to be a reprove / & comen by worde / a laughinge stocke and shame / in all the places / where I shall scatte them. I will sende the sword, hunger & pestilence amonge them / untill I haue cleane consumed them oute of the lande / that I gaue vnto them and their fathers.

¶ Jeremie prophesyeth that they shall be in capti-uip. lxx. yeares / because they contemned and dyspyled the woide of God. he sheweth that after lxx. yeares the Babylonians shalbe destroyed. The destruction of all nacions is propheted. he moueth the Heares of the nacions to wayling.

The .rrb Chapter.

A Sermon that was geue[n] vnto Jeremy vpon all the people of Iuda:
In the fourth yere of Iehoshim the sonne of Iosiah kynge of Iuda/ & was/ in the fyrst yere of Nabuchodonosor kynge of Babilon. Whiche sermon / Jeremy the prophet made vnto all the people of Juda/ and to all the inhabitours of Ierusalem/on this maner.

From the .xiiij. yeare of Iosiah the sonne of of Amon kynge of Iuda / vnto this present daye (that is euen .xiiij. yeare) the worde of the Lorde hath bene cōmytted vnto me. And so I haue spoken to you / I haue rylen by eare / I haue geue you warning in season / but ye wolde not heare me. Though the Lorde hath sent his seruantes / all the prophetes vnto you in season: Yet wolde ye not obeye / ye wolde not enclene youre eares to heare.

He sayde: turne agayne every man from his euell waye/ & from your wicked ymaginacions/ and so shall ye dwell for euer in the lande/ that the Lorde promised you & your fore

forefathers: And go not after ftraidge goods/ferue them not/worſhipe them not/ a angre me not wth the worckes of your handes then will not I puniſh you. Neuertheles/pe wolde not heare me (ſayeth the Lorde) but haue deſp^d me with the worckes of your handes /to your awne greate harme.

Wherfore thus sayeth J Lord of Hostes: Because / ye haue not hearkened vnto my woorde/lo/ I will sende out/ & call fo: all the people/that dwell in the North / sayeth the Lorde/and will prepayze Sabuchodonosoz the kinge of Babylon my seruauent/ & will bringe them vpon this lande/ & bpō all that dwell therein/ & vpon all the people that are aboute them/ & will bitterly rote them oute.
I will make of them a wyldernesse / a motage/ & a continuall deserte.

E Mozeouer / I will take fro the the* hope of gladnesse and solace / the hope of the byr begome & þ byrde / the hope of þ anoynted

10 For thus hath the Lord God of Israel spoken vnto me: Take this * wyne cuppe of indignacion from my hande / that thou maye cause all the people / to whom I sende thee to drynke of it: & when they haue dronken therof, they maye be mad, & out of the wyttes / when the swearde cometh / that I will sende amonge them. When toke I the cuppe from the Lordes hande / and made a the people drynke therof / vnto whom the Lord had sent me.

The shepherdes shall haue no wage to feed and the rāmes of the flocke shall not escape When shall the shepherdes crye horribly / an the rāmes of the flocke shall mourne: for the Lorde shall consume their pasture / an their best feedes shall lye dead because of th horrible wrath of the Lorde. They shall fo take their foldes lyke as a lyon: for the landes shall be waste / because of the wra

Jeremie moueth the people to amendment. He is taken of the Priouettes and Preachers, & brought to iudgement. He brings accused before the Princes and swereth, that he had preached only the word of God. He rebuketh and the people delpurer Jeremie, against the temples of the Priouettes & Preachers; after the example of Hezekiah, whpch had delpurer Micah, that had preached the same things that Jeremie had preached. Micah the Prophet is typled of Jehonah, contrary to the will of God.

40th Chapter

In the beginning of the reygne of Iehoaſhim ſonne of Joſiah kyng of Iuda/ came this worde fro the Lorde/ ſayinge: Thus ſaſeth the Lorde: Stande in the court of the Lordes houſe/ and ſpake into all them which (oute of the ctyes of Iuda) come to do worſhypp in the Lordes houſe / all the wordes that I commaunde the to ſaye. Loke that thou hepe not one worde backe/ yf (peraduenture) they will hearken/ and turne every man from his wyched waye: that I maye alſo^{re} repent of the plage/ which I haue determined to bynge vpon them/ becauſe of their wyched inuentions.

And after this maner shalt thou speake vnto them: Thus saith the Lorde: If ye will not obey me/ to walche in my lawes/ which I haue geuen you/ and to heare the wordes of my seruantes the prophetes/ whō I sent vnto you/ retynging by tymely/ and byll sendyng: If ye will not folowe them (I saye) then will I do to this house/ as I byd vnto Babilon/ & will make this cite to be abhorred of all the people of the earth. And the preastes/ the prophetes & all the people herbe Ieremy preach these wordes/ in the house of the Lorde.

Now whē he had spokē out all þe wordes/that the Lorde commaunded hym to preach vnto all the people/then þe prestes / the prophetes and all the people toke holde vpon him/and sayde:thou shalt dye. Now darrest thou be so bolde/as to saye in the name of the Lorde:it shall happen to this house as it dyd vnto Sileoh: & this cytie shall be so waste/ & no man shall dwell therein:

And when all the people were gathered aboute Jeremy in the house of the Lord/ the prynces of Iuda herde of this rumoure/ and they came soone oute of the kynges Palace in to the house of the Loyde/ & sat the doore before a new doore of the Loyde. Then spake the prestes and the prophetes into a rulers & to all the people/ these wordes: & his man is worthy to dye/ for he hath preached agaynst this cite/ as ye your selves haue herde with your eares.

Then sayde Jeremy vnto the rulers and to all the people: The Lorde hath sent me to preach agaynst this house and agaynst this citty all þe wordes that ye haue herde. Therfore amende youre wayes; and youre adusermentes / and be obedient vnto the voyce of the Lorde youre God: so shall the Lorde re-pente of the plage / þe he had deuyed agaynst you. Now as for me: I am in youre handes / do with me / as ye thincke expedient & good.

But this shall ye knowe: yf ye put me to death / ye shall make youre selues / this citty and all the inhabitours therof / guilty of innocent bloude. For this is of a treuth: that þe Lorde hath sent me vnto you / to speake all these wordes in youre eares.

Then layde the rulers and the people bnto the prestes and prophetes: this mā maye not be condemned to death/ for he had preached vnto vs in the name of the Lorde oure God. The Elders also of the lande stode vp/ and sayd thus vnto all the people: Whicheas the Moyses whiche was a prophet vnder Ezechiah kyng of Iuda/ spake to all the people of Iuda: Thus saith the Lorde of Hostes: If Iolion shalbe plowed like a felde/ Ierusalem shalbe an heape of stones/ and the hyll of the Lordes house shalbe turned to an hye wod. Wyd Ezechiah the kyng of Iuda & the people of Iuda put him to death for this: No hereby/ but rather feared the Lorde/ & made their prayer vnto him. For the which cause also the Lorde repented of the plage/ & he had deuyled agaynst them. Shulde we then do such a shamefull dede agaynst oure soules: There was a prophete also/ that preached vnto vs in the name of the Lorde/ called Isayah the sonne of Amariah of Cariathiarim: this mā preached also agaynst this cite and agaynst this lande/ accordinge to all as Ieremy saith. Now when Iehoaхим the kyng took all the estate and prynces had herde his wordes/ the kyng went about to slaye him. Wher Isayah perceaued that/ he was a straped/ & fled/ & departed into Egypte.

Then Iehoshaphat the kyng sent seruantes in to the lande of Egypte: Namely: El Nathan a sonne of Achaboz: and certayne men with him in to Egypte: which fetched as paye oute of Egypte: a broughe him into kyng Iehoa-shaphat that deliuered him with the swerde: & cast his deede body in to the comen peoples graue But Abiham the sonne of Saphan helped Ieremy: that he came not in to the handes of the people to be slayne.

¶ Example of the commandment of the Lord, from which bondes to the Mynde of Jude, and to the other Myndes that were nye, whereby they are moved to become subjectes unto Catholicbondes. He warn-eth the people and the Kinges & rulers, that they believe not false Prophecie.

Chapter 11

গুরুত্ব

In the begynnyng of the reigne of Jehoahim þe sonne of Josiah kyng of Iuda/ came this wyrd vnto Jeremy from the Lorde/ which spake thus vnto me: Make the bondes & chaynes & put them about thy neck / & sende them to the kyng of Edom / the kyng of Moab / the kyng of Ammon / the kyng of Tyrus / and to the kyng of Sydon: and that by the messaugers / whych shall come to Ierusalem vnto Zedekiah the kyng of Iuda / and byd them saye vnto their masters: Thus sayeth the Lorde of Hostes the God of Israel / speake thus vnto your masters: I am he that made the earth / the men / & the catell that are vpon the grounde / wth my greate power and outstretched arme / & haue geuen it vnto whom it pleased me. And now wyl I deliuer all these landes into þe power of Na-buchodonosor the kyng of Babylon / my seruaunt. The beastes also of the felde shall I geue hym to do hym scrupce. And all people shall serue hym / and hys sonne / and hys chyldes chyldren / vntyll the tyme of the same tyme be come also: yet many people & greate kynges shall serue hym.

Wherouer / that people and Kingdome to theyc wpll not serue Nabuchodonosor / and that wpll not put their neckes vnder þe yoke of the Kinge of Babylon: the same people wpll I byset wpyth the sweate / wpyth honour / wpyth pestylence / vntyll I haue confirmed them in hys handes / sayeth the Lorde.
And therfore folowe not youre Prophetes / soothsayers / expounders of dreames / charmers and wytches / whych saye vnto you: ye shall not serue the Kinge of Babylon. For they pzeache you lyen: to byynge you farre from youre lande / and that I might cast you out / and destroye you. But the people that put their neckes vnder the yoke of the Kinge of Babylon / and serue hym / those I wpll let remayne still in their awne lande / sayeth the Lorde / and they shall occupie it / and dwell therin.

 All these thynges tolde I Ieremiah the kynge of Iuda/and sayde: Put your neckes vnder the yock of the kynge of Babylon / & serue hym & hys people / that ye may lyue.
 Why wilt thou and thy people perishe wyth the swerde/ wyth hunger/ wyth pestilence: lyke as the Lorde hath deuyded for all people/ that wyll not serue the kynge of Babylon: Wherefore geue no care vnto those Pro-how be it they are bolde/ falsely to prophesy in my name: that I myght the sooner dreyue you out/ and that ye might perishe wyth your preachers. I spake to the Priestes also/ and to to all the people: Thus sayeth the Lorde: Hearc not the wordes of those Prophetes/that preache vnto you/ a saye: Beholde / the vessels of the Lordes house shall shortly be brought hyther agayne from Babylon: for they prophesye vnto you. Hearc the not/ but serue the Kyng of Babylon / that ye maye lyue. Wherefore wyl ye make thys cyyte to be destroyed? But yf they be true Prophetes in very dede/ and yf the worde of the Lorde be committed vnto them/ then let the praye the Lord of hostes/ & the remnant of the ornamentez (whych are in the house of the Lorde/ & remayne yet in the house of the Kyng of Iuda and at Ierusalem) be not caried to Babylon also. for thus hath the Lord of hostes spoken concernynge the pylers/the lauer/ the seate and the residue of the ornamentez that yet remayne in thys cyyte / whych Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Ba-bilon toke not / when he caried awaye Je-choniah the sonne of Iehoaikim kyng of Iuda Iuda / with all the power of Iuda and Jerusalem / from Ierusalem vnto Babylon / captiue.

Yet thus hath the Lorde pshooles the God of Israel spoken / as touchynge the re-furdur of the ornamentez of the Lordes house of the kynge of Iudaes house / and of Jerusalem : They shalbe caried into Babylon / and there they shall remayne / untill I bylet them sayeth the Lorde. Then will I brynge them hyther agayne . And thys was done in the same yere : euen in the begynnyng of the reigne of Zedekiah kynge of Iuda.

¶ The false Prophecy of Hananiah the Prophet.
Jeremie sheweth that the prophecie of Hananiah is false, by the example of the other Prophets. He being inspired of the Lord reproveth Hananiah's prophecie (inge hys death.

Then the prophet Jeremie gave answer unto the prophete Hananiah, before the presents & before all the people that were present in the house of the Lorde. And the prophete Jeremie sayde: Amen, the Lorde so & graunte the thinge/ which thou hast prophesied: that he maye byngge agayne all the ornaments of the Lordes house/ and restore all the presents from Babilon in to the place. Neuer-theless/ hearken thou also/ what I will saye: & thou & all the people maye heare: the prophete s were before vs in tymes past / whych prophesied of warre/ of trouble/ of pestilence ether of peace/ upon many nations & greates kingdomes/ were proued by this: yf God had sende the in very dede/ when the thyng came to passe/ which that prophete tolde before.

Deute. xxiij. a.
Name. xvi. a.

And Hananiah the prophete toke a chayne from the prophete Jeremies neck/ & brake it and with that sayde Hananiah/ that all the people myght heare: Thus hath the Lorde spoken: Euen so will I brake the yoke of Nabuchodonosor kinge of Babilon/ fro the neck of all nations/ yee & I within this two yere. And so the prophete Jeremie wote hys waye. Now after that Hananiah the prophete had taken the chayne from the prophete Je-remies neck/ and broken it: the worde of the Lorde came vnto the prophete Jeremie sayenge: Go/ and tell Hananiah these wordes: Thus sayeth the Lorde: Thou hast broke the chaine of wood/ but in steade of wood thou shalt make chaynes of yron. For thus saith the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel: I will put a yoke of yron vpon the neck of all this people / & they maye serue Nabuchodonosor the kynge of Babilon/ yee & so shall they do. And I will geue him the beastes in the feilde. Then sayde the prophete Jeremie vnto the prophete Hananiah: Heare me (I praye the) Hananiah: the Lorde hath not sent the/ but thou byngest this people in to a false belefe. And therefore thus saith the Lorde: beholde/ I will sende the out of the lande/ & within a yere thou shalt dye because thou hast falsely spoken agaynst the Lorde. So Hananiah the prophete dyed the same yere in the seuenth Moneth.

Jer. xxx. c.

The yll of Jeremie sent vnto them that were in captiuitie in Babilon. He propheseth their returne from captiuitie after .lxx. yeres. He propheseth the destruction of the kynge and of the people that remayned in Ierusalem. He threatneth the prophets that seduced the people. The death of Jeremie the Nehelamite is prophesied.

The .xxix. Chapter.

This is the Copie of a lre / that Jeremie the prophete sent from Jerusalem vnto the prisoners: the Senatours/ prestes / prophetes/and all the people / whom Nabuchodonosor had led vnto Babilon: after that tyme that kinge Iechonah/ and his Quene/ his chamberlaynes the princes of Iuda & Ierusalem the workmaisters of Ierusalem were departed thither. Whych lre Eliaha the sonne of Saphan and Gamariah the sonne of Nehemiah dyd beare / whom Iedekiah the kinge of Iuda sent vnto Babilon to Nabu-chodonosor the kynge of Babilon: these were the wordes of Jeremies lre:

Thus hath the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel spoken vnto all the prisoners / that were led fro Ierusalem vnto Babilon: buyde you houses to dwell therein: plante you gardens/ that ye maye enioye the frutes thereof take you wyues / to beare you sonnes and daughters: prouyde wyues for your sonnes/and husbandes for your daughters / that they maye get sonnes and daughters/ & that ye maye multiplye there. Labour not to be sewe/ but seke after peace and prosperite of the cite/ wherein ye be prisoners/ & praye vnto God for it. For in the peace thereof/ shall your peace be. For thus saith the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel: Let not those prophetes and soothsayers that be amonge you disceane you: & beleue not your awne dreames. For whych they preach you lyes in my name/ and I haue not sent them/ sayeth the Lorde.

But thus saith the Lorde: when ye haue fulfilled .lxx. yeres at Babilon/ I will byng you home / & of myne awne goodnes I will calle you hither agayne vnto this place. For I knowe what I haue deuyd for you saith the Lorde. My thoughtes are to geue you peace / & not trouble/ whych I geue you all redie/ & ye might haue hope agayne. Ye shall crye vnto me/ ye shall go & call vpon me/ & I shall heare you. Ye shall seke me & fynde me/Yee/ yf so be ye seke me w your whole hert/
I will be foude of you (saith the Lorde) & will de-liuer you out of prison/ & gather you together agayne out of all places/ where in I haue scattered you (saith the Lorde): & will byngge you agayne to the same place/ from whence
I caused you to be caried awaye captiue.

But where as ye saye/ that * God hath rayled you by prophetes at Babilon: Thus hath the Lorde spoken (concerninge the kinge that sitteth in the stole of Babilon/ and all the people that dwell in this cite/ your bzethen that are not gone with you in to captiuitie) Thus (I saye) speaketh the Lorde of hostes: Beholde/ I will sende a swerde / hunger & pestilence vpon them/ and will make them like vnto mynely fyres/ that maye not be eaten for bitternes. And I will persecute them with the swerde/ with hunger & death.

I will

I will deliuer them by to be heres of all kingdomes/ to be cursed/ abhorred/ laughed to scorn / and put to confusyon of all the people/ amonge whom I haue scattered the: & that because they haue not bene obedynt vnto my commandementes (sayeth the Lorde) whych I sent vnto them by my seruantes & prophetes. I rode by early / and sent vnto them / but they wolde not heare/ sayeth the Lorde. Heare therefore the worde of the Lorde/all ye prisoners/ whom I sent from Ierusalem vnto Babilon: Thus hath the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel spoken/ of Iahab the sonne of Colaiab / and of Iedekiah the sonne of Maasiah / whych prophete I pes vnto you in my name: Beholde/ I will deli-uer them in to the hande of Nabuchodonosor the kynge of Babilon/ that he maye laye them before your eyes. And all the prisoners of Iuda that are in Babilon/ shall take by them this terme of cursynge/ and saye: Now God do vnto the / as he dyd vnto Iedekiah and Iahab / whom the kynge of Babilon rosted in the fyre/ because they synned wame-fully in Israel.

For they haue not onely defiled their neighbours wyues/ but also preached lieng wordes in my name / whych I haue not commaunded them. This I testifie/ & assure/ saith the Lorde. But as for Semeiah the Nehelamite thou shalt speake vnto hym: Thus saith the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel: Because thou hast sealed lres vnder thy name/ vnto all the people that is at Ierusalem / and to Sophoniah the sonne of Maasiah the prest ye and sent them to all the prestes: where in thou wyrttest thus vnto hym: The Lorde hath ordened the to be prest in steade of Iechonah the prest / that thou shouldest be the chiefe in the house of the Lorde aboue all prophetes/and preachers / and that thou myghtest put them in prison/ or in the stocks. How happeneth it then / that thou hast not reproued Jeremie of Anathoth / whych neuer leaueth of hys prophesying. And besyde all this/ he hath sent his worde vnto Babilon/ and tolde his planety / that our captiuitie shall longe endure: that we shoulde buyde vs houses to dwell therein/ and to plante vs gardens/ that we myght enioye the frutes thereof. Whych lre Sophoniah the prest dyd reade/ and let Jeremie the prophete heare it.

Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto Jeremie/ sayenge: Sende worde to all them that be in captiuitie/ on this maner: Thus hath the Lorde spoken concerninge Semeiah the Nehelamite: Because the Semeiah hath prophesied vnto you without my commauntyng/ & brought you in to a false hope/ therefore thus the Lorde both cursyth you: & holde/ I will bisset Semeiah the Nehelamite/and hys seed: so that none of hys shall re-maigne amonge this people/ and none of the shall see the good/ that I will do for this people/ saith the Lorde. For he hath preached falsely of the Lorde.

The returne of the people from Babilon. God by hys challynging the weth that the people is full.
The destruction of the enemies of Israel.

The .xxx. Chapter.

These are the wordes/ that the Lorde shewed vnto Jeremie / sayenge: Thus saith the Lorde God of Israel: wyte by diligently all the wordes / that I haue spoken vnto the / in a booke. For so / the tyme cometh (sayeth the Lorde) that I will byngge agayne the presents of my people of Israel and Iuda/ saith the Lorde: For I will restore them vnto the lande/ that I gaue to their fathers / and they shall haue it in possession.

Agayne/ these wordes spake the Lorde/concerninge Israel and Iuda: Thus saith the Lorde: We heare a terrible crye/ feare & dis-quietnesse. For what els doth this signifye/that I see? Namely/ & all strong men synne/euery man hys hande vpon hys loynes/ as a woman in the payne of her trauayle. Who euer same a man trauayle with chyldre? En-quere thereafter/ & se. Yee all their faces are maruelous pale.

Was for this daye/ whych is so dredefull/that none maye be lychened vnto it: and alas for the tyme of Iacobs trouble / from the whych he shall yet be deliuered. For in that daye/ saith the Lorde/ I will take his yoke from of the neck/ & brake the bondes. They shall nomore serue straunge Goddes vnder hym / but they shall do scrupce vnto God their Lorde/ & to Iuda their kynge/ whom I will callye by vnto them. And as for the my seruante Iacob/ feare not (saith the Lorde) and be not afrayed/ O Israel. For so I will helpe the also from farre / & the seed from the lande of their captiuitie.

And Iacob shall turne agayne/ he shall be in rest / and haue a prosperous lyte/ and no man shall make him afrayed. For I am with the / to helpe the / saith the Lorde. And though I shall destroye all the people/ amonge whom I haue scattered the/ yet will I not de-stroye you/ but correcte the/ and that with delictecyon. For I knowe/ that thou art in no wyte without faulte. Therefore thus saith the Lorde: I am soye for thy hurte and wof-that for the multitude of thy miſdoes / for thy ſynnes haue had the ouer hande. Why makeſt thou more for thy harme? I my ſelf haue pyte of thy ſorrowe / but for the multitude of thy miſdoes & ſynnes / I haue done this vnto the.

Jer. xij. d.

And therfore all they that deuoure the / ſhalbe deuoured / and all thine enemies ſhal be led in to captiuite. All they that make the waſte / ſhalbe waſted them ſelues: and all thoſe that robbe the / wyl I make alſo to be robbed. For I will geue þe thy health agayne and make thy woundes whole / ſayeth the Lorde: becauſe they reuoyled the / as one caſt

Jer. xij. d.

For thus ſayeth the Lorde: Beholde / I will ſette by Iacob tentes agayne / and occupe his dwellinge place. The cytye ſhalbe buylde in her olde ſtate / & the houſes ſhal haue their ryght foundacion. And out of the ſhal go thankſguyng / and the voyce of

Jer. xij. d.

I will multiplye them / and they ſhal not and no man ſhall ſubdue them. Their chyldren ſhalbe as a ſtrength / and their congregacion ſhall contynue in my ſight. And all thoſe that beate them / will I vnder.

Jer. xij. d.

A captayne alſo ſhall come of them / and a prince ſhall ſpyng out from the myddell of them: him will I chalenge to my ſelf / and he ſhall come vnto me. For what is he / that geueth ouer his hert to come vnto me? ſayeth the Lorde. Ye ſhalbe my people alſo / and I wyl be your God. Beholde / on the other ſyde ſhall the wrath of the Lorde beake out as a ſtormy water / as a myghty whyle vngodly.

Jer. xij. d.

The terrible diſpleaſure of the Lorde ſhall not leaue of / vntill he haue done / and performed the intent of his herte / whych in theſe latter dayes ye ſhall vnderſtande.
At the ſame tyme (ſayeth the Lorde) ſhal I be the God of all the generacions of Iſrael / & they ſhalbe my people.

Jer. xij. d.

The prophecie that the people of Iſrael ſhalbe reſtored agayne into their propretye. To be turned from ſynne is the gyft of God. The byrd of Chant is prophecyd. All the wyched ſhall dye in their wychednes. The new Teſtament and couenaunt is pro-phesyed. The Chyldren are taught and inſtruct of the Lorde. Wrethynnes ſhall ſo be remytted / that they ſhall not ones be thought on. God promiſeth that he wyl caſt of the Jewes. The buyldyng agayne of Jeruſalem.

The xxx. Chapter.

Thus ſaith the Lorde: The people of Iſrael which eſcapped in þe wyldernes from the ſwearde / ſounde grace to come in to their reſt. Eu-er ſo ſhall the Lorde now alſo apere vnto me from ſarre / & ſaye: I loue the wth an euer-laſtinge loue / therefore do I ſpyde my mercy before the. I wyl repayre the agayne (O thou daughter of Iſrael) that thou mayeſt be ſafe and ſure. Thou ſhalt take thy taber-cles agayne / and go ſorthe wth them / that lede the daunce.

Thou ſhalt plante bynes agayne vpon the hylls of Samaria / and the grape gatherers ſhall plante / and ſynge.

And when it is tyme / the watch men by the mount of Ephraim ſhall crye: Briſe / lett vs go by vnto Syon to oure Lorde God / for thus ſayeth the Lorde: A reioyce wth glad-nes becauſe of Iacob / crye vnto the head of the Gentiles: ſpeake out / ſynge / and ſaye: The Lorde ſhall deliuer his people / the remnant of Iſrael / and make them whole. Beholde / I wyl byngne them agayne from out of the north lande / and gather them from the endes of the world / wth the blinde and lame that are amonge them / wth the women that be greate wth chyld / and ſuch as be alſo deli-uered: & the company of them that come a-gayne / ſhall be greate.

They departed from hence in heynnes / but wth ioye wyl I byngne them byther a-gayne. I will lede them by the ryuers of water in a ſtraight waye / where they ſhall not ſlomb: For I wyl be Iſraels father / and Ephraim ſhalbe my fyrſt borne.

Heare the worde of the Lorde / O ye Gentiles / preach in the ſtreets / that I ſe ſarre of / & ſaye: he that hath ſcattered Iſrael / ſhal gather him together agayne / and ſhall hepe hym as a ſhepherde doth his ſheepe. For the Lorde ſhal redeme Iacob / & ryde him from the hande of the potent. And they ſhall come / and re-ioyce vpon the hyll of Syon / and ſhall haue plenteouſnes of goodes / whych the Lorde ſhall geue the: Wheete / wyne / oyle / pynge ſhepe & calves. And their conſcience ſhalbe as a well watered garden / for they ſhall no more be hongrye.

When ſhal the mayde reioyce in the daunce per both yonge and olde folkes. For I wyl turne their ſorrowe in to gladneſſe / and wyl comforte them and make them ioyfull / euen from their hertes. I wyl poure plenteouſnes vpon the hertes of the preſtes / and my people ſhalbe ſatysfied w good thynges / ſayeth the Lorde.

Thus ſayeth the Lorde: * The voyce of heynnes / wepyng and lamentacyon came by in to heauen: euen of Rachel mourninge for her

for her chyldren / and wylde not be comforted becauſe they were a waye.

But now ſayeth the Lorde: leaue of from wepyng and cryng / wthholde thine eyes from teares / for thy labour ſhalbe rewarded / ſayeth the Lorde. And they ſhall come agayne out of the lande of their enemyes: Yee euen thy poſterite ſhall haue conſolacion in thys (ſayeth the Lorde) that thy chyldren ſhall come agayne in to their awne lande.

Wherouer I herde Ephraim / that was led awaye captiue / complayne of thys maner: O Lorde / thou haſt corrected me / & thy chaſtengye haue I receaued / as an vn-tamed calfe. Conuerſe thou me / and I ſhalbe conuerſed / for thou art my Lorde God: Yee as ſoone as thou turneſt me / I ſhall reſtore me my ſelf: and when I vnderſtande / I ſhall ſmyte vpon my thighe. For hereby I haue commytted ſhamfull thynges: O lett my youth beare this reproofe and conſuſion.

Wherouer I herde Ephraim / that was

Beholde (ſayeth the Lorde) the dayes come / that I will ſewe the houſe of Iſrael and the houſe of Iuda / wth nyggs wth catell. Yee it ſhall come therto / that like as I haue gone about in tymes paſt to rote the out / to ſcatter them / to beake them downe / to deſtroye the and chaſten them: euen ſo wyl I alſo godlygently aboute / to buylde them by agayne & to plante them / ſayeth the Lorde.

When ſhall it no more be ſayde: the ſa-thers haue eat a ſower grape / & I chyldren teeth are ſette on egde: for euery one ſhall dye for his awne miſdoes / ſo that who ſo eateth a ſower grape / his teeth ſhalbe ſet on egde.

Beholde / the dayes come (ſayeth the Lorde) that I wyl make a new couenaunt wth the houſe of Iſrael & wth þe houſe of Iuda: not after the couenaunt that I made wth theyr fathers / when I toke them by the hande / and led them out of the lande of Egypte: whych couenaunt they brake / wherfore I puniſhed them ſore / ſayeth the Lorde: But thys ſhall be the couenaunt that I wyl make wth the houſe of Iſrael after thoſe dayes / ſayeth the Lorde: I wyl plante my lawe in þe inward partes of them / & wylte it in their hertes / & wylbe their God / and they ſhalbe my people.

And from thence ſorthe ſhall no man teach his neighboure of his brother / and ſaye: knowe the Lorde. But they ſhall all knowe me / from the loweſt vnto the heyeſt / ſayeth the Lorde. For I wyl ſorgue their miſdoes / and wyl neuer remembre their ſynnes any more. Thus ſayeth the Lorde: whych gaue ſunne to be a light for the daye / & the moone and ſtarres to ſhine in the nyght: which moueth the ſee / ſo that the floudes therof were ſearched: yee ſayeth the Lorde: of hoodles.

Like as thys ordynance ſhall neuer be taken out of my ſight / ſayeth the Lorde: So ſhall the ſede of Iſrael neuer ceaſe / but all waye be a people before me.

Wherouer / thus ſayeth the Lorde: I ſke as the heauen aboue can not be meafured / and as the foundations of the earth beneth maye not be ſought out: So wyl I alſo not caſt out the whole ſede of Iſrael / for that they haue committed / ſayeth the Lorde. Beholde the dayes come ſayeth the Lorde / that the cite of the Lorde ſhalbe enlarged fro the towre of Danaiel vnto þe gate of the corner wall.
From thence ſhall the ryght meafure be taken before her vnto the hyll toppes of Gate / and ſhall come aboute Gaath / and the whole valley of the deed carcasses / and of the aſhes / & all Ceremoth vnto the broke of Cedron: and from thence vnto the corner of the hoſtgate toward the eaſt / where as the Sanctuary of the Lorde alſo ſhall be ſet.
And when it is now buylde / & ſet by of this ſat upon it ſhall neuer be broken / ſo that downte any more.

Jeremye is caſt in to priſon / becauſe he prophesyed that the cytye ſhoulde be taken of the kynge of Babylon. Wp the ſeld that Jeremy bought at the ſumme ment of the Lorde / is ſyngeſſed: that the people ſhoulde come agayne to their awne poſſeſſion. The people of God are his ſeruantes / & he is their Lorde.
To ſeare God is God's gyft / to thynke that ſynners maye be eſcued.

The xxxi. Chapter.

CC.iii. Chre

In these wordes spake the Lorde vnto Jeremy in the tenth yeare of Zedekiah kynge of Iuda / whych was the xliij. yeare of Nabuchodonosor / what tyme as the kynge of Babilon layed seige vnto Ierusalem. But Jeremy the prophete laye bounde in the court of the p[re]son / whych was in the kynge of Iudaes house: where Zedekiah the kynge of Iuda caused hym to be layed / because he had propheted of this maner: Thus sayeth the Lorde: Beholde: I will deliuer this cytie in to the h[an]des of the kynge of Babilon / whych shall take it. As for Zedekiah the kynge of Iuda / he shall not be able to escape the Caldees / but surely he shall come in to the h[an]des of the kynge of Babilon: whych shall speake with hym mouth to mouth / and one of them shall loke another in the face. And Zedekiah shall be carted vnto Babilon / and there shall he be / vntill the tyme that I bisset him / saith the Lorde. But yf thou takest in h[an]de to fight agaynst the Caldees / thou shalt not prosper. And Jeremy sayde: Thus hath the Lorde spoken vnto me: Beholde / Hananeel sonne of Selum thine vncles sonne shall come vnto the / and requyre the to redeme the lande / that lyeth in Anathoth vnto thy selfe: for by reason of hymned it is thy parte to redeme it / and to bye it out. And so Hananeel myne vncles sonne came to me in the court of the p[re]son (acco[rd]yng to the wo[r]de of the Lorde) and sayde vnto me: Bye my lande / I praye the / that lyeth in Anathoth in the countre of Beniamin: for by heritage thou hast right to lowe it out for thy selfe / therfore redeme it. When I perceaued / that this was the commaundement of the Lorde / and so I loured the lande from Hananeel of Anathoth / myne vncles sonne / and weyed hym there the money: cum scum scum / & ten syluer pens. I caused hym also to make me a wytyng / and to seale it / and called recorde therby / & weyed hym there the money vnto the waightes. So I toke the eu[er]dence with the copie (when it was orderly sealed and red ouer) & I gaue the eu[er]dence vnto Baruch the sonne of Neriah sonne of Maasiah in the syght of Hananeel my cosen / & in the p[re]sence of the wytnesses / that be named in the eu[er]dence / & before all the Jewes that were therby in the court of the p[re]son. I charged Baruch also before the / sayng: The Lorde of Hostes the God of Israel commaundeth the / to take this sealed eu[er]dence with the copie / & to laye it in an erthen vessel / that it maye longe contynue. For the Lorde of Hostes the God of Israel hath determyed / that houses / felde and vineyardes shall be possessed agayne in this lande. Now when I had deliuered the eu[er]dence vnto Baruch sonne of Neriah / I belought the Lorde / sayng: O Lorde God / It is thou that hast made heauen and earth with thy greates power and thy arme / and there is no thyng to harde for the. Thou shewest mercy vpon thousandes / thou recourest the wickednes of the fathers / into the bowels of the chyldren that come after them. Thou art the greates and myghtie God / whose name is the Lorde of Hostes: greates in counsell / and insynge in thought: Thine eyes loke vpon all the wayes of mens chyldren / to rewarde euery one after his waye / and acco[rd]yng to the frutes of his inuencions: Thou hast done greates tokens and wonders in the lande of Egypt (as we se this daye) vpon the people of Israel and vpon those men: to make thy name greates / as it is come to passe this daye: Thou hast brought the people of Israel out of the land of Egypt / with tokens / with wonders / with a mighty h[an]de / with a stretcht oute arme and with greates terriblenes: and hast geuen them this lande / like as thou haddest promysed vnto their fathers: Namely / that thou woldest geue them a land / that floweth with myche and honey. Now when they came therin / and possessed it / they folowed not thy voyce / and walched not in thy lawe: but all that thou commaundest them to do / that haue they not done / and therfore come all these plagues vpon them. Beholde / there are built wyckes made now agaynst the cytie / to take it: and it shall be wonne of the Caldees that besage it / with swerde / with hunger and death / and loke what thou hast spoken / that same shall come vpon them. For lo / all thynges are p[re]sent vnto the: Yet sayest thou vnto me (O Lorde God) and commaundest me / that I shall lowe a pece of lande vnto my selfe / & take witnesses thereto: and yet in the meane season the cytie is deliuered into the power of the Caldees. When came the wo[r]de of the Lorde vnto me / sayng: Beholde / I am the Lorde God of all flesh / is there any thyng then to harde for me? therfore thus sayde the Lorde: beholde / I shall deliuer this cytie in to the power of the Caldees / and in to the power of Nabuchodonosor the kynge of Babilon / they shall take it in: For the Caldees shall come / and wyne this cytie / and lett fyre vpon it / and burne it: with the gorgeous houses / in whose parlours they haue made sacrifice vnto Baal / & poured drinck offerings vnto into straunge Goddes / to p[ro]uoke me vnto wrath. For I saynge the chyldren of Israel / and the chyldren of Iuda haue wrought wyckednes before me euery from their yowth vp / what haue they els done / but p[ro]uoked me with the wyckes of their awne h[an]des / sayeth the Lorde. What hath this cytie bene els / but a p[ro]uokinge of my wrath / euery sence the daye that I builded it / vnto this houre? wherin I cast it out of my syght / because of the greates blasphemys of the chyldren of Israel and Iuda / whych they haue done to p[ro]uoke me: yee they / their kynages / their p[re]ncys / their p[re]stes / their p[ro]phetes / whose Iuda / & all the cyties of Ierusalem. When I rode vpearly / and taught them and instructed the / they turned their backs to me / and not their faces. They wolde not heare / to be reformed and co[r]rected. They haue lett their Goddes in the house / that is hallowed vnto my name / to despyte. They haue builded bye places for Baal in the balley of the chyldren of Beniamin / to bowe their sonnes and daughters vnto Moloch: whych I neuer commaunded them / neither came it euery in my thought / to make Iuda synne with such abhominacyon. Wherefore thus hath the Lorde God of Israel spokē / concernyng this cytie / whych (as ye your felues cōfesse) shall be deliuered in to the h[an]de of the kynge of Babilon / wher it is wonne with the swerde / with hunger and with pestilence. Beholde / I will gather them together from all landes / wherin I haue scatted them in my wrath / in my fearfull and greates displeasure: and will bringe the agayne vnto this place / where they shall dwell safely. And they shall be my people / and I will be their God. And I will geue them one herte and one waye / that they maye leaue me all the dayes of their lyfe: that they and their chyldren after them maye p[ro]spere. And I will lett vp an euerylastyng couenaunt with them / Namely: that I will neuer craffe to do the good / & that I will put my feare in their hertes / so that they shall not runne awaye from me. Yee I will haue a lust and pleasure to do them good / and faithfully to plante them in this lande with my whole herte / and with all my soule. For thus sayeth the Lorde: like as I haue brought all this greates plage vpon this people: so will I also bringe vpon them all the good / that I haue promysed them. And men shall haue these possessions in this lande / wherof ye saye now / that it shall neyther be inhabited of people / neyther of cattell / but be deli-

For I will bringe their p[re]soners hither agayne / sayeth the Lorde. The prophete is moued of the Lorde / to praye for the deliuerance of the people / whych the Lorde p[ro]misseth. God forgiveth synnes and dothe graciously to the people: for his awne renowne. Of the birth of Christ. The kyngdome of Christ in the church shall neuer be ended. The xxxij. Chapter. Where the wo[r]de of the Lorde came vnto Jeremy on this maner / Jeremy. xxi. a. When he was yet bounde in the p[re]son. Thus sayeth the Lorde / whych fulfilleth the thyng that he speaketh / the Lorde whych p[er]formeth the thyng that he taketh in h[an]de: euery he / whose name is the Lorde: thou hast cryed vnto me / & I haue herd: & I haue shewed greates vnto the / whych were vnto you. Thus (I saye) spake the Lorde God of Israel / concernyng the houses of this cytie / & the houses of the kynages of Iuda: that they shall be broken downe the ordynance and the capens / when the Caldees come to besage them: and they shall be filled with the deede h[ar]shes of men / wher I will slaye in my wrath & displeasure: when I turne my face fro this cytie / because of all her wickednes. Beholde / (sayeth the Lorde) I will heale their woundes and make them whole: I will open them the treasure of peace and treuth. And I will retorne the captiuite of Iuda and Israel: and will lett them by agayne / as they were afore. fro all misdeeds (wher in they haue offended agaynst me) I will cleanse the: And all their blasphemys whych they haue done agaynst me / wher they regarded me not / I will forgive them. And this shall get me a name / & prayse & honoure / amonge all people of the earth / whych shall heare all the good / that I will shewe vnto them: yee they shall be afrayed and astonnyed at all the good dedes and benefytes / that I will do for them. Wherefore thus sayeth the Lorde: In this place / wherof ye saye that it shall be a wydernesse / wher in neyther people neyther cattell shall dwell: in like maner in the cyties of Iuda and without Ierusalem (whych also shall be so voyde / that neyther people neyther cattell shall dwell there) shall the voyce of gladnesse be herde agayne / the voyce of the bydegrome and of the byde / the voyce of them that shall synge: Prayse the Lorde of Hostes / for he is sayng: &c. b. and and his mercy endureth for ever) and the hope of them that shall offer by gyfte in the house of the Lorde. For I will restore & captiue of this lande/as it was afore / sayeth the Lorde. Thus sayeth the Lorde of Hostes. He shall come yet therto / that in this lande / which is boyde from men and castell / and in all the cyties of the lande / there shall be sett by shepherdes cotages: in the cyties vpon the mountaynes: and in the cyties that lye vpon the playne / and in the deserte.

In the lande of Benjamin / in the felles of Ierusalem / and in the cyties of Iuda shall there be nombred agayne / vnder þ hande of him / that telleth them / sayeth the Lorde.

Jerem. xlii. a. Beholde / the tyme cometh / sayeth the Lorde / that I will perforce & good thyng / which I haue promysed vnto the house of Israel & to the house of Iuda. In those dayes and at þ same tyme / I will bringe forth vnto Babilon / the brynche of ryghteousnes / and he shall do equyte & ryghteousnes in þ lande. In those dayes shall Iuda be helped / and Ierusalem shall dwell safe / and he that shall call her is euen God our ryghteous maker. For thus the Lorde promysed: Dauid shall neuer want one / to lye vpon the stole of the house of Israel: neither shall the prestes and Leuytes want one to offere allwayne before me burnt offerings / to kindle the meat of serpynges / and to prepare the sacrifices.

Gen. xlii. d. And the worde of the Lorde cam vnto Jerem. after this maner: Thus sayeth þ Lorde: Make the couenaunt which I haue made with dauid and nyght be broken / that there shulde not be dauid and nyght in due season: When make my couenaunt also be broken / which I made with Dauid my seruante / & so he not to haue a sonne to regne in his throne. So shall also the prestes & Leuytes neuer faile / but serue me. For I like as the starres of heauen maye not be nombred / neither the sande of the see measured: so will I multiplye the sede of Dauid my seruante / & of the Leuytes my mynisters.

Gen. xli. a. f. Ex. xli. c. Moreouer / the worde of the Lorde came to Jerem. saye: Consider thou not what this people speaketh: Two kynneddes / saye they / had the Lorde chosen / and those same two hath he cast awaye. For so farre is my people come / & they haue no hope to come to gether any more / & to be one people agayne. Wherefore thus saith the Lorde: If I haue made no couenaunt with dauid and nyght / & geuen no statute vnto heauē and earth: then wyl I also cast awaye the sede of Dauid my seruante: so that I wyl take no pynce out of his sede / to rule the posterite of Iuda / Isaac & Jacob. But yet I wil turne agayne their captiue / & be mercifull vnto them.

He threateneth that the cytye and kynge Zedekiah also shall be geuen into the hande of the kynge of Babilon. He rebuketh them that brought loche of their brethren into captiue / as were pardoned to go at their iusteste.

The xxxiiij. Chapter.

Ex. xli. c. These are the wordes which the Lorde spake vnto Jerem. / what tyme as Nabuchodonosor / king of Babilon / and all his hostes (out of all the kyngdomes that were vnder his power) & all his people / fought agaynst Ierusalem and all the cyties therof. Thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: Go / and speake to Zedekiah the kyng of Iuda / & tell him: The Lorde sendeth the this worde: Beholde / I will deliuer this cytie in to þ hande of the kynge of Babilon. he shall burne it / & thou shalt not escape his handes / but shalt be led awaye prisoner / & deliuered in to his power. Thou shalt loke the kynge of Babilon in the face / and he shall speake with the mouth to mouth / and then shalt thou goo to Babilon. Yet heare þ worde of the Lorde: Zedekiah thou kyng of Iuda: Thus sayeth the Lorde vnto the: Thou shalt not be slayne in the swearde / but shalt dye in peace. I like as thy fathers the kynges / thy progenitors / were bryte: so shalt thou be bryte also / & in the mourning they shall saye: Oh Lorde. For thus haue I determined / sayeth þ Lorde.

Then spake Jerem. the prophet all these wordes vnto Zedekiah kyng of Iuda in Ierusalem: what tyme as the kyng of Babilons hoste besieged Ierusalem / and the remnant of the cyties: Namely / Achis & Azekah / which yet remayned of the stronge defended cyties of Iuda.

These are the wordes that the Lorde spake vnto Jerem. the prophet / when Zedekiah was agreed with all the people at Ierusalem / that there shulde be proclaimed a lybertye: so that euery man shulde let his seruante & handmayde go fre / Hebrew & Hebrue / & no man to holde his brother as a bonde man. Now as they had consented / & so they were obedient / & let them go fre. But afterwarde they repented / & toke agayne the seruantes and hande maydens / whom they had lett go fre / and so made them bonde agayne.

For the which cause the worde of þ Lorde came vnto Jerem. from the Lorde him self / sayinge: Thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: I made a couenaunt with your fathers / when I brought them out of Egypte / (þ they shulde no more be bonde men) sayinge: When seven yeares are out / euery man shall let his bought seruante an Hebrue go fre / yf he haue serued him fyve yeares. But your fathers obeyed me not and hearkened not vnto me. As for you / ye were now byrged / and byrged before me / in that ye proclaimed euery man to let his neyghboure go fre / & in that ye made a couenaunt before me / in the temple that beareth my name: But yet ye haue turned your selues agayne / and blasphemed my name: In this / & euery man hath requyred his seruante & handmayde agayne / who ye had lett go quyte and fre / & compelled them to serue you agayne / & to be your bode me.

Gen. xli. b. And therfore thus sayeth the Lorde: ye haue not obeyed me / euery man to proclaim fre dome vnto his brother & neyghboure: wherefore / I wyl call you vnto a fre dome / sayeth the Lorde: euen vnto the swearde / to the pestilence / & to hunger / & wyl make you to be plagued in all the kyngdomes of the earth.

Yet those men þ haue broken my couenaunt / & not kept the wordes of the appoyntment / which they made before me: whē they heved the calfe in two / & when there wente thow the two halles therof: The Princes of Iuda / the Princes of Ierusalem / the gelded men / the prestes & all þ people of þ lande / which wente thow the two spres of the calfe. Those men wyl I geue in to the power of their enemyes / & in to the handes of the that folowe vpon their spres.

And their deede bodies shalbe meate for þ foules of the ayre / and beastes of the felde. As for Zedekiah the kyng of Iuda and his Princes / I wyl deliuer the in to the power of their enemyes / and of them that desyre to slaye them / and in to the hande of the kynge of Babilons hoste / which now is departed from you: But thow my commaundment / sayeth the Lorde / they shall come agayne before this cytye / they shall fyght agaynst it / wyne it / and burne it. Moreouer I wyl laye the cyties of Iuda so waste / & no man shall dwell therein.

Ex. xli. c. The prophet telleth the obedience of the Rechabites / wher by conuinceth the pryde of the Jewes. The commaundment of Ionadab / the father of the Rechabites. He threateneth punishment vnto the rebellious Jewes / he promyseth prosperite vnto the Rechabites / for their obedience vnto their fathers.

The xxxv. Chapter.

Ex. xli. c. The wordes which the Lorde spake vnto Jerem. in the raygne of Iehoiakim the sonne of Josiah kyng of Iuda / are these: Go vnto þ house of the Rechabites / & call them out / & bringe them to the house of the Lorde in to some commodious place / & geue the wyne to drinke. When toke I Iazaniah the sonne of Jerem. the sonne of Iabazaniah / & his brethren and all his sonnes / and the whole housholde of the Rechabites: and brought them to the house of the Lorde / in to the closet of the chylde of Hanan the sonne of Zedekiah & ma of God: which was by the closet of the Princes.

tes / that is aboute the closet of Iazaniah the sonne of Selum / wherch is the cheste of the treasury. And before the sonnes of the kynge of the Rechabites / I set pottes full of wyne / and clippes / and sayde vnto them: Drynche wyne. But they sayde: we drynche no wyne / for Ionadab the sonne of Rechab oure father commaunded vs / sayinge: ye shaldrinke no wyne / for ye shaldrinke no wyne / buyde no houses / sowe no fede / plante no bynes / ye shal haue no bynyardes: but for all your tyme ye shall dwell in tentes / that ye maye lye longe in the lande wher in ye be strangers.

Thus haue we obeyed the commaundment of Ionadab þ sonne of Rechab oure father / in all that he hath charged vs / & so we drynke no wyne all oure lye longe: we / nor oure wyues / oure sonnes and oure daughters. Neither buyde we any house to dwell therein / we haue also amōge vs neither bynyardes / ner coyne lande to sowe: but we dwell in tentes / we obeye / and do accordyng vnto all / that Ionadab oure father commaunded vs.

But now that Nabuchodonosor þ kynge of Babilon came by in to the lande / we saide come / lett vs go to Ierusalem / that we maye escape the hooft of the Caldees and the Assyrians: and so we dwell now at Ierusalem. When came þ worde of þ Lorde vnto Jerem. sayenge: Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel: Go and tell whole Iuda & all the inhabitours of Ierusalem: wyl ye not be resourmed / to obey my wordes: sayeth the Lorde. The wordes which Ionadab þ sonne of Rechab commaunded his sonnes / & they shulde drinke no wyne / are fast and surely kepte: for vnto this daye they drinke no wyne but obeye their fathers commaundment. But as for me / I haue sād vnto you / I haue sād vnto you / & geuen you earnest war-nyng: and ye haue ye not bene obedient vnto me. Ye haue sent my seruantes / all þ prophets vnto you: I rose by early / & sent you worde / sayenge: Turne you / euery man from his wicked waye: and orde your spres / and go not after straunge goddes / to worshyppe them: that ye maye continue in the lande / wherch I haue geuen vnto you & your fathers / but ye wolde neither heare me / ner folowe me.

The chylde of Ionadab Rechab's sonne haue stedfastly kepte their fathers commaundment / & he gaue them / but this people is not obedient vnto me. And therfore thus saith the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel: Beholde / I wyl bringe vpon Iuda & vpon euery one that dwelleth in Ierusalem / at þ trouble / & I haue deuyled agaynst them. For I haue spoken vnto the / but they wolde not folowe: I haue called vnto them / neither heare they / nor wolde.

wolde geue me no answer. Jeremey also spake vnto the householde of the Rechabites: Thus sayeth the Lorde of Hostes the God of Israel: For so much as ye haue obeyed the commaundment of Ionadab your father / & kept all his preceptes / & done accordinge vnto all that he hath bydden you: Therefore thus sayeth the Lorde of Hostes the God of Israel: Ionadab the sonne of Rechab shall not faile / but haue one out of his stocke / to stande alwaie before me.

Baruch the scribe (as Jeremey byteth) the booke of the curtesie agaynst Juda & Israel. he is sent with the booke vnto the people / & readeth it before them all. he is called before the rulers / & readeth it before the alia. The rulers thewe vnto the kynge the wordes of the booke. Jehudi taketh the booke / & readeth alittle of it / & after that it is in the eye. There is another writte / at the commaundment of the Lorde.

Chapter.

Jeremey. xxx. c.

In the fourth yere of Jehoaquin the sonne of Josiah kynge of Iuda / came the worde of the Lorde vnto Jeremey / sayinge: Take a booke / & wryte therein all the wordes / that I haue spoken to the / to Israel / to Iuda / and to all the people / from the tyme that I beganne to speake vnto the / in the daye of Josiah vnto this daye. That when the house of Iuda heareth of the plage / whych I haue deuyled for them / they may peradventure turne / euery man from his wycked waye / that I maye forgeue their offences and synnes.

Jeremey. xli. c.

Then byd Jeremey call Baruch the sonne of Neriah / & Baruch wrote in the booke at the mouth of Jeremey / all the wordes of the Lorde / which he had spoken vnto hym. And Jeremey commaunded Baruch / sayinge: I am in prison / so that I maye not come in to the house of the Lorde: therefore go thou thyself / and reade the booke / that thou hast wryten at my mouth: Namely the wordes of the Lorde / & rede them in the Lordes house vpon the fastyng daye: that the people / whole Iuda / & all they that come out of the cyties / maye heare. Peradventure they will praye meke-ly before the face of the Lorde / & turne euery one from his wycked waye. For greates is the wrath and dyspleasure / that the Lorde hath taken agaynst this people.

Jone. iij. c.

So Baruch the sonne of Neriah byd / accordinge vnto all that Jeremey the Prophete commaunded hym / reade the wordes of the Lorde out of the booke in the Lordes house. And this was done in the fyfth yere of Jehoaquin the sonne of Josiah kynge of Iuda / in the ix. moneth when it was commaunded / that all the people of Ierusalem shoulde fast before the Lorde / & they also that were come from the cyties of Iuda vnto Ierusalem.

Then byd Baruch the wordes of Jeremey out of the booke within the house of the Lorde / Jeremey. xxxiij. c. out of the treasury of Samaria the sonne of Saphan the Scribe / which is beside the hyer losse of the new doore of the Lordes house: that all the people myght heare. Now when Micheah the sonne of Samaria the sonne of Saphan had hearde all the wordes of the Lorde out of the booke / he wente downe to the kynges palace in to the Scribes chambze / for there all the Princes were set: Elisama the Scribe / Malaiab the sonne of Semel / Elnathan the sonne of Acaboz / Samaria the sonne of Saphan / Zedekiah the sonne of Hananiah / & all the Princes. And Micheah tolde the all the wordes / & he hearde Baruch rede out of the booke before the people.

Then all the Princes sent Jehudi the sonne of Nathaniah / the sonne of Selemiah / the sonne of Chusa / vnto Baruch / sayinge: Take in thine hande the booke / wherout thou hast red before all the people / and come. So Baruch the sonne of Neriah toke the booke in his hande / & came vnto the. And they sayde vnto hym: Syt downe / & rede the booke / & we may heare also. So Baruch red / that they myght heare. Now when they had hearde all the wordes / they were abashed one by another / & sayde vnto Baruch: We will certysse the kynge of all these wordes. And they examyned Baruch / sayinge: tell vs / how dydest thou wryte all these wordes out of his mouth? Then Baruch answered them: He spake all these wordes vnto me in his mouth / and I alone was w him / & wrote them in the booke.

Then sayde the Princes vnto Baruch: Go thy waye / & hide the with Jeremey / so that no man knowe where ye be. And they went in to the kynge to the court. But they kepte the booke in the chambze of Elisama the Scribe / & tolde the kynge all the wordes that he might heare. So the kynge sent Jehudi to fetch him the booke / which he brought out of Elisama the Scribes chambze. And Jehudi red it / & the kynge & all the Princes / which were about hym / myght heare. Now the kynge sat in the wynter house / for it was in the ix. moneth / & there was a good fyre before him. And whē Jehudi had red the oze leues therof / he cut the booke in peces with a pene knyfe / & cast it into the fyre by the herth / vntill the booke was all brite in the fyre by the herth.

Yet no man was abashed therof / & rente his clothes: neither the kynge hym selfe / ner his seruantes / though they hearde all these wordes. Neuerthelesse Elnathan / Malaiab / & Samaria besought the kynge / & he wolde not burne the booke: notwithstandinge the kynge wolde not heare them / but commaunded Jerahmeel the sonne of Amalech / Sataiah the sonne of Etziel / & Selemiah the sonne of Ab-of Abdiel / to laye handes vpon Baruch the Scribe / & vpon Jeremey the Prophete: but the Lorde kepte the out of syght. After now that the kynge had bynt the booke / & the sermons which Baruch wote at the mouth of Jeremey: The worde of the Lorde came vnto Jeremey / sayinge: Take another booke / and wryte in it all the forsayde sermons: that were wrytten in the fyrt booke / which Jehoaquin the kynge of Iuda hath bynt.

And tell Jehoaquin the kynge of Iuda: thus sayeth the Lorde: thou hast bynt the booke / & thou thoughtest within thy selfe: why hast thou wrytten therein / that the kynge of Babylon shall come / and make this lande waste / so that he shall make both people & cattell to be out of it: Therefore thus the Lorde sayeth of Jehoaquin the kynge of Iuda: There shall none of his generacyon syt vpon the throne of Dauid. His deede shall be cast out / that the heate of the daye / & the frost of the nyght may come vpon hym. And I will byset the wickednes of hym / of his seide / & of his seruantes. Moreover all the euill that I haue promysed them / (though they herde me not) I will bringe vpon them / vpon the inhabytours of Ierusalem / and vpon all Iuda. Then toke Jeremey another booke / and gaue it Baruch the Scribe the sonne of Neriah / which wote them out of the mouth of Jeremey: all the sermons that were in the fyrt booke / which Jehoaquin the kynge of Iuda byd burne. And there were added vnto them many mo sermons / then before.

Zedekiah surrendeth Cononiah. He sendeth vnto Jeremey to praye for him. Jeremey goynge into the lade of Beniamin / is taken. he is beaten / & put in prison. he is deliuered by the kynge Zedekiah.

Chapter.

Jer. xli. c.

Zedekiah the sonne of Josiah / which was made kynge thozow Nabuchodonosor kynge of Babylon / reigned in the lande of Iuda / in the steade of Cononiah the sonne of Jehoaquin. But neither he / ner his seruantes / ner the people in the land wold obeye the wordes of the Lorde / which he spake by the Prophete Jeremey. Neuerthelesse Zedekiah the kynge sent Jehucal the sonne of Selemiah & Sophonias the sonne of Maasiah the Priest to the Prophete Jeremey / sayinge: O praye thou vnto the Lorde our God for vs. Now Jeremey walked fre amonge the people at the tyme / & was not put in prison as yet. Pharaos hoste also was come out of Egypte: whych when the Caldees that beseged Ierusalem perceaued / they departed from thence.

Jer. xli. c.

Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto Jeremey the Prophete / sayinge: Thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel / thyss and were shall re geue to the kynge of Iuda / that sent you vnto me for counsell: Beholde / Pharaos hoste which is come forth to helpe you / shall returne to Egypte in to his awne lande: but the Caldees shall come agayne / and syght agaynst this cytye / wyne it / and sett fyre vpon it. For thus sayeth the Lorde: * byscane not your awne myndes / thynching on this manner: thus / the Caldees go now to their waye from vs: so they shall not go their waye.

For though ye had slayne the whole hoste of the Caldees / that besege you / and euery one of the slayne laye in his tente / yet shoulde they stande by / and set fyre vpon this cytye. Now when the hoste of the Caldees was broken by front Ierusalem / for feare of the Egypte / & spang armye / Jeremey went out of Ierusalem towards the lande of Beniamin / & to do certayne busynes there amonge the people. And when he came vnder Beniamyns porte / there was a porter / called Teriah / the sonne of Selemiah the sonne of Hananiah / which fell vpon him / & toke him. sayng: thy mynde is to runne to the Caldees. Then sayde Jeremey: It is not so / I go not to the Caldees. He cause he was in uertheles Teriah wolde not beleue hym / but brought Jeremey bounde before the Princes / wherfore the Princes were angrie with Jeremey / causyng him to be beat / & to be layed in prison in the house of Jonathan the scribe. For he was the ruler of the prison. This was Jeremey put in to the dongeon a prison / & so he laye there a longe tyme. Then Zedekiah the kynge sent for him / & called hym / & asked him quyetly in his awne house / sayng: thinkest thou this busynes (that now is in hande) cometh of the Lorde? Jeremey answered: yee it doth: & thou (sayde he) shalt be deliuered in to the kynge of Babylons power.

Moreover Jeremey sayde vnto kynge Zedekiah: what haue I offended agaynst the / agaynst the seruantes / or agaynst the people / & ye haue caused me to be put in prison: where are your prophetes which haue prophesied vnto you / & sayde / that the kynge of Babyls shoulde not come agaynst you & this lande: And therfore heare now / O my Lorde the kynge: let my prayer be accepte before the / & sende me nomore into the house of Jonathan the Scribe / & I dye not there. Then Zedekiah the kynge commaunded to put Jeremey in the fore entree of the prison / & dayly to be geue him a cake of bzed / & els no dryght meate / vntill all the bzed in the cytye was consumed. Thus Jeremey remayned in the fore entree of the prison.

By the morrow of the rulers Jeremey is put in to a dongeon. At the request of Abedmelech the Chamelelaine / the kynge commaunded Jeremey to be brought forth of the Dongeon. Jeremey sheweth the kynge how he myght escape death.

Jeremy. xlii. a. f. 1. b. a. Chapter. c.

Jer. xxxviii. c.

Saphatiah the sonne of Nathan / Godoliah the sonne of Phasur / Zucal the sonne of Selemiah / and Phasur the sonne of Melchiah perceived the wordes / that Jeremy had spoke unto all the people / namely on this maner: Thus sayeth the Lord: who so remaineth in this cite / shall perish / either with the sword / with hunger / or with the pestilence: But who so shall fall into the handes of the Caldees / shall escape his soule for a pray / & shall live. For thus sayeth the Lord: This cite (no doute) must be delivred in to the power of the kynge of Babilon / & he also shall win it. Then sayde the princes unto the kinge: We beseech you let this man be put to death / for thus he discourageth the handes of the Caldees that be in this cite / & the handes of all the people / while he speaketh such wordes unto the. Thus answered he / & he said: I am in your handes / for the kynge maye denye you no thinge. Then toke they Jeremy / and cast hym in to the dongeon of Melchiah the sonne of Phamelech / that dwelt in the fore entre of the prison. And they lett downe Jeremy to coardes in to a dongeon / where there was no water / but myze. So Jeremy lacke fast in the myze. Now when Abedmelech the Moorian beinge a chamberlayne in the kinge / court / understode / that they had cast Jeremy in to the dongeon: he went out of the kinges house / & spake to the kinge / (which the sat under the poorte of Ben Jamin) these wordes: My lord the kinge / where as these men medle with Jeremy the prophet / they do him wronge: Namely / in that they have put him in prison / there to dye of hunger / for there is no moze bred in the cite. Then the kinge commaunded Abedmelech the Moorian and sayde: Take from hence xxx. men whom thou wilt / & drame by Jeremy the prophet out of the dongeon / before he dye. So Abedmelech toke the men to him / & went to the house of Amalech / & there under an almyr he gatte olde ragges & woine cloutes / and lett them downe by a coarde / in to the dongeon to Jeremy. And Abedmelech the Moorian sayde unto the prophete Jeremy: Put these ragges and cloutes under thyne arme holes / betwixte them and the coardes: & Jeremy dyd so. So they drame by Jeremy with coardes & toke him out of the dongeon / & he remained in the fore entre of the prison. Then Zedekiah the kynge sent & caused Jeremy the prophet be called unto him / in to the thirde entre / & was by the house of the Lord. And the kinge sayde unto Jeremy: I will aske the some what but hyde nothinge from me. Then Jeremy answered

Zedekiah: Yea be playne unto the / thou wilt cause me sicker death: yet I geue thee counsell / thou wilt not folow me. So the kinge swore an oath secretly unto Jeremy / sayinge: As truly as the Lord lyueth / that made us these soules / I will not slay the / nor geue the in to the handes of them that seke after thy lyfe. Then sayde Jeremy unto Zedekiah: Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel: If case be / that thou wilt go forth unto the kinge of Babilons princes / thou shalt save thy lyfe / and this cite shall not be burnt: yet both thou and thy household shall escape with your iours. But if thou wilt not go forth to the kynge of Babilons princes / the shall this cite be delivred in to the handes of the Caldees which shall set fyre upon it / & thou shalt not be able to escape them. And Zedekiah sayde unto Jeremy: I am a strayde for the Jewes / that are fled unto the Caldees / lest I come in their handes / & so they to haue me in derision. But Jeremy answered: No / they shall not betraye the: Wherfore hearken unto the voyce of the Lord (I beseeche the) which I speake unto the / so shalt thou be well / and save thy lyfe. But if thou wilt not go forth / the Lord hath tolde me this plainly: Beholde / all the women that are left in the kynge of Judas house / shall go out to the kinge of Babilons princes. For they thinke / that thou art diseased: & that the men in whom thou dydest put thy trust / have gotten the vnder / & sett thy feet fast in the myze / and gone their waye from the. Wherfore all thy wyes with their chyldren shall fle unto the Caldees / & thou shalt not escape their handes / but shalt be the kynge of Babilons prisoner / & this cite shall be burnt. Then sayde Zedekiah unto Jeremy: Toke I no body knowe of these wordes / & thou shalt not dye. But if the princes perceave / that I have talked with the / & come unto the / sayge: What sayde the kinge to the: hyde it not from us / & we will not put the to death. Well us (we praye the) what sayde the kinge to the: So thou geue the thy answer: I have humbly sought the kinge / that he wold lett me lye no moze in Jehonathas house / & I dye not there: Then came all the princes unto Jeremy / and asked hym / And he tolde them / after the maner as the kinge had hym. Then they helde their peace / for they perceived nothinge. So Jeremy abode still in the fore entre of the prison / untill the daye that Jerusalem was wonne. Nabuchodonosor besegeth Jerusalem. Zedekiah dyeth. He is taken of the Caldees. His sonnes are slayne. His eyes are thrust out. Jeremy is prouided for. Abedmelech is delivred for captiue / because of the confidence that he hath in God.

Now when the cite of Jerusalem was take (for in the ix. yere of Zedekiah kynge of Juda in the tenth Moneth / came Nabuchodonosor the kynge of Babilon and all his hoste / and beseged Jerusalem. And in the xi. yere of Zedekiah in the fourth Moneth the ix. daye of the Moneth / he brake in to the cite). Then all the princes of the kynge of Babilon came in / & sat the downe under the poorte: Nerregel / Sarezzer / Samegarnabo / Sarlachim / Nabarsis / Nerregel / Sarezzer / Nabmag / with all the other princes of the kynge of Babilon. And when Zedekiah the kynge of Juda with his loudpers sawe them / they fled / and departed out of the cite by nyghte thorow the kynges garde / and thorow the poorte that is betwene the two walles / and so they wente toward the wyldernesse. But the Caldees hoste folowed faste after them / and toke Zedekiah in the felde of Jericho / and brought him prisoner to Nabuchodonosor the kynge of Babilon unto Riblah / that lyeth in the land of Hemath where he gaue iudgment upon him. So the kynge of Babilon caused the chyldren of Zedekiah & all the nobles of Juda be slayne / before his face at Riblah. And made Zedekiahs eyes to be put out / & bounde him with chaynes / & sent him to Babilon. Moreover / the Caldees byt by the kinges palace / with the other houses of the people / and brake downe the walles of Jerusalem. As for the remnant of the people that were in the cite / and such as were come to helpe them (whatsoever was left of the comers) Nabuzaradan the chefe captayne carped the to Babilon. But Nabuzaradan the chefe captayne let the rascall people (& those that had nothyng) dwell still in the lande of Juda / and gaue them vineyardes & corne felde at the same tyme. Nabuchodonosor also the kynge of Babilon gaue Nabuzaradan the chefe captayne a charge / concerninge Jeremy / sayinge: Take and cheris him / and make moch of him: for thou do hym no harme / but intreate him after his awne desyre. So Nabuzaradan the chefe captayne / Nabusathan the chefe chamberlayne / Ner-gallarezzer the treasurer and all the kynge of Babilons lordes / sent for Jeremy / & caused him be set out of the fore entre of the prison / and committed him unto Godoliah the sonne of Ahikah the sonne of Saphan: & he shuld carrie him home / & so he dwelt amonge the people. Now while Jeremy laye yet bounde in the fore entre of the prison / the word of the Lord came unto him / sayinge: God. And tell Abedmelech the Moorian: Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes the God of Israel: Beholde / the cruell and sharpe plage that I have deuised for this cite / will I bringe vpon them / that thou shalt see it: but I will deliuer the (sayeth the Lord) and thou shalt not come in the handes of those men / whom thou fearest. For doubtles I will saue the / so that thou shalt not perish with the sword: but thy lyfe shall be saved / & that because thou hast put thy trust in me / sayeth the Lord. Jeremy hath licence to go whether he wyl. He dwelleth with the people that remaineth at Jerusalem: once whom Godoliah susteyneth. Johanan prophete sayeth vnto Godoliah. The xli. Chapter. This is the maner how the Lord increased Jeremy / when Nabuzaradan the chefe Captayne had set him go fre from Babilon / whither he had led hym bounde amonge all the prisoners / that were carped from Jerusalem & Juda unto Babilon. The chefe Captayne called for Jeremy / and sayde vnto hym: The Lord thy God spake mightely before of the mystrye of this place: Now the Lord hath sent it / & performed it as he had promysed: for ye haue synned agaynst the Lord / and haue not bene obedynt vnto his voyce / therefore cometh this plage vpon you. Beholde / I loose the boundes from thy handes this daye: yet thou wilt now go with me vnto Babilon / by then: for I will se to the / & prouyde for the: But if thou wilt not go with me to Babilon / then remaine here. Beholde / all the lande is at thy wyl / loke wher thou thinkest conuenient & good for the to abyde / there dwell. If thou canst not be content to dwell alone / then remaine with Godoliah the sonne of Ahikah / the sonne of Saphan: whom the kynge of Babilon hath made gouernoure ouer the cyties of Juda / and dwell with him amonge the people / or remaine wher so ever it please the. So the chefe Captayne gaue him his expences with a rewarde / and let him go. Then wente Jeremy vnto Godoliah the sonne of Ahikah to Maspah / and dwelt there with him amonge the people that were left in the lande. Now when the captaynes of the hoste of Juda (which by their felowes were scatted abroad on every syde in the lande) understode / that the kynge of Babilon had made Godoliah / the sonne of Ahikah gouernoure in the land / & a man / wyse & chyde / & the poore men in the lande (that were not led captiue to Babilon) shuld be vnder his iurisdiction: they came to Godoliah vnto Maspah: Namely / Johaniel the sonne of Nathaniah / Johanan & Jonathab & sonnes of Careah / Sarrah & sonne of Chan-

of Chanboneth the sonnes of Ophai & Netophathite / Zesaniab & sonne of Maachari / with their companions. And Godoliah the sonne of Ahicam / the sonne of Saphan / twoe unto them and their felowes on this maner: We not afrayed to serue the Caldees / dwell in the lande / and do the kynge of Babylon seruyce / so shall ye prosper. Beholde / I dwell at Maspah to be an officer in the Caldees behalfe / & to satisfie such as come to vs. Therefore gather you wyne / come and oyle / and kepe them in your ware houses / & dwell in your cities & ye haue in helyng.

¶ Yee all the Jewes also & dwell in Moab under the Ammonites / in Iudaea and in all the countrees / when they herde / that the kynge of Babylon had made Godoliah the sonne of Ahicam the sonne of Saphan / gouernoure vpon the & were left in Iuda: All the Jewes (I saye) returned oute of all places wher they were fled vnto: and came in to the lande of Iuda to Godoliah vnto Maspah / & gathered wyne & other frutes / & & very much.

¶ Moreover Johanan the sonne of Kareah and all the captaynes of the hoste / that were scattered on every syde in the lande / came to Go-doliah in Maspah / & sayde vnto him: know-west thou not that Baalis kynge of the Am-monites hath sent Imael the sonne of Nathaniab / to slaye the? But Godoliah & sonne of Ahicam beleued them not. Then sayd Jo-hanan the sonne of Kareah vnto Godoliah in Maspah these wordes secretly: Let me go / I praye the / and I will slaye Imael the sonne of Nathaniab / so that no body shall knowe it. Wherfore will he kyll the / that all the Jewes which resorte vnto the / myght be scattered / and the remnaunt in Iuda perishe: Then sayde Godoliah & sonne of Ahicam to Johanan the sonne of Kareah: Thou shalt not do it / for they are but lies / that men saye of Imael.

¶ Imael killeth Godoliah secretly / & many other with hym. Johanan foloweth after Imael.

119. Reg. xxi. c.

¶ In the seuenth Moneth it happened / that Imael & sonne of Nathaniab the sonne of Elisama (one of the kynges bloude) came with them that were greates aboute the kynge / & ten men & were twoye with him: vnto Go-doliah the sonne of Ahicam to Maspah / & ate there together. And Imael the sonne of Nathaniab with those ten men that were twoye to him / starte vp / and smote Godo-liah the sonne of Ahicam the sonne of Saphan with the swerde / and slewe him / wher the kynge of Babylon had made gouernoure of the lande. Imael also slewe all the Jewes that were with Godoliah at Maspah / & all the Caldees that he founde there waytinge vpon him.

¶ The next daye after that he had slayne Godoliah (the matter was yet unknowen) there came certayne men from Sichem / fro Siloh & Samaria / to the nombre of .lxxx.
whych had shauen their beards / rent their clothes / & were all heuie / bringyng meat of strings / and incense in their handes / to offe it in the house of the Lorde. And Imael the sonne of Nathaniab wet forth of Maspah wepyng / to mete them. Now when he met them / he sayde: Go your waye to Godoliah the sonne of Ahicam. And wher they came in the myddell of the cite / Imael the sonne of Nathaniab (wher they were twoye vnto hym) slewe them / euen at the myddell of the ppe.
Amonge these .lxxx. men there were ten / that sayde vnto Imael: Wherfore do we not / for we haue yet a greates treasure in the felde / of wheate / barley / oyle & hony. So he spared them / and slewe them not with these brethren.
Now the ppe wherin Imael dyd cast & deen bodies of the men (whom he slewe because of Godoliah) had kynge Isa caused to be made / for feare of Baalis & kynge of Irael / and the same ppe dyd Imael fyll with slayne men. As for the remnaunt of the people / the kynge's daughters and all the people & were yet left at Maspah / vpon whom Nabusa-radan the chiefe Captayne had made Godo-liah & sonne of Ahicam gouernoure: Imael the sonne of Nathaniab caried them awaye pzeloners towarde the Ammonites. But wher Johanan the sonne of Kareah and all they which had bene captaynes ouer the kynge's hoste with hym / herde of all the wychednes & Imael the sonne of Nathaniab had done:
they toke their companions / & went out for to fyghe with Imael the sonne of Nathaniab / & founde him by the waters of Rabim in Gabaon. Now when all the people / wher Imael led captiue / sawe Johanan & sonne of Kareah & all the other Captaynes of the hoste / they were glad. So all the people & Imael had caried awaye from Maspah / were broughte agayne.

¶ And when they returned / they came to Jo-hanan the sonne of Kareah. But Imael the sonne of Nathaniab fled fro Johanan with euyght of his twoye companions / & wente to the Ammonites. Then Johanan & sonne of Kareah & all the captaynes of the hoste & were to him / toke the remnaunt of the people / whom Imael the sonne of Nathaniab had led awaye (when he had slayne Godoliah & sonne of Ahicam) wher they also had rescued fro hym: fygthing men / & cme & chyldren / & gelded men / whom they broughte agayne fro Gabaon: and wente from thence / & sat them gouernoure in the lande.

they ought to do. Jeremie monethly the remnaunt

Jer. xlii. a
Jer. xlii. b

¶ All the rulers / and Johanan the sonne of Kareah / Zesaniab & sonne of Maachari came with all the people from Ierusalem vnto the most / & sayde vnto Jeremie the pphet: O heare our pe-ticion / that thou mayest praye for vs vnto the Lorde thy God / and for the remnaunt / wher of there be very few left of many / as thou seest vs: that the Lorde / thy God may shew vs a waye to go in / & tell vs / what we shulde do. Then Jeremie the pphete sayde vnto them: I haue herde you. Beholde / I will praye vnto God your Lorde / as ye haue requyred me: and loke what answer the Lord geueth you / I shall certifie you therof / and kepe no thing back fro you. And they sayde vnto Jeremie: The Lorde of treuth and faithfulness be our recorde / that we will do all / that the Lorde thy God commaundeth vs / whether it be good or euell. We will hearken vnto the voyce of our Lord God to whom we sende the that we maye prosper / when we haue folowed the voyce of the Lorde our God.

¶ And after ten dayes came the worde of the Lorde vnto Jeremie. Then called he Johanan the sonne of Kareah / & all the captaynes of the people that were with him: yee and all the people from the leest to the most / and sayde vnto them: Thus saith the Lord God of Irael vnto wher ye sent me / to lape forth your prayers before him: If ye will dwell in this lande / I shall buyde you vp / and not breake you downe: I shall plante you / and not rote you out: for I am pacified / as concernyng the trouble that I haue done to you. Feare not the king of Babylon / of whom ye stande in awe: he be not afrayed of hym / sayeth the Lorde: for I will be with you / to helpe you / & deliuer you from his hande. I will pardon you / I will haue mercy vpon you / and bring you agayne in to your owne lande.

¶ Nevertheless / if ye purpose not to dwell in this lande / ner to folowe the voyce of the Lorde your God: but will saye thus / we will not dwell here / but go in to Egypte:
where we shall nether se warre / heare the noyse of batell / ner suffer honger / there will we dwell.
Wherfore heare now the worde of the Lorde / O ye remnaunt of Iuda. Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes the God of Irael: If ye be wholy purposed to go in to Egypte / and to be there as straungers: the swerde that ye feare / shall ouer take you in Egypte: and the honger wher of ye be here afrayed. That shal be vpon you in to Egypte / and there ye shall

dye. For all they / that of sett purpose vnder-take to go in to Egypte / there to ease them selues of their mytery / shall perishe with the swerde / with honger and pestilence: not one of them shall remayne / there shall none escape the plage / & I will bringe vpon the.

¶ For thus saith the Lorde of hostes the God of Irael: I like as my wrath and indygnacion is come vpon the inhabytatours of Ierusalem / so shall my displeasure go forth vpon you also / if ye go in to Egypte: for there ye shall be reuyled / abhorred / brought to shame and confusid: and as for this place / ye shall neuer se it moze. The Lorde forbyddeth you (O ye remnaunt of Iuda) & ye shall not go in to Egypte.

¶ And forget not & I haue warned you earnestly this daye eis that ye begile your selues.
For ye sent me vnto the Lorde your God / and sayde: O praye thou the Lord our God for vs: and loke what answer the Lorde our God geueth the / that bringe vs agayne / and we shall do thereafter. Now haue I thewed / and declared vnto you the voyce of the Lord your God / for the whych cause he hath sent me to you. If ye will not folowe it / be sure / & ye shall perishe with the swerde / with hon-ger & pestilence: eue in the same place / where your lust was to go / and dwell.

¶ Johanan carpieth the remnaunt of the people in to Egypte / contrary to the mynde of Jeremie. Jeremie prophecieth the destruction of Egypte.

¶ The xliii. Chapter.

¶ Now when Jeremie had ended all the wordes of the Lorde God vnto the people (for their sakes to whom God had sent him) Azariah & sonne of Maachari / Johanan the sonne of Kareah with all the proude persons / sayde vnto Jeremie: Thou lyest / the Lorde our God hath not sent the to speake vnto vs / that we shulde not go in to Egypte / and dwell there: But Baruch the sonne of Seriah prouoketh the agaynst vs / that he myght bringe vs in to the captiuite of the Caldees: that they myght slaye vs / and carie vs awaye pzeloners vnto Babylon.

¶ So Johanan the sonne of Kareah / and all the captaynes of the hoste / and all the people folowed not the commaundement of the Lorde: Namely / to dwell in the lande of Iuda: But Johanan the sonne of Kareah / and all

and all the captaynes of the hooft / carped awaye all the remnaunt in Iuda / that were come together agayne from the Sythen (amonge whom they had bene scattered) to dwel in the lande of Iuda: Men / women / childre / the kynges daughters: all those that Nabuzaradan the chefe captayne had left in Babilon the sonne of Nibhami. They carped awaye also the prophet Jeremy / Baruch the sonne of Neriah / & so came in to Egypte: for they were not obedynt unto the comaundement of God. Thus came they to Chapynis.

Jeremy. xlii. c.

And in Chapynis the worde of the Lorde happened unto Jeremy / saying: Take great stones in thyne hande / and hyde them in þe byrck wall / vnder the doze of Pharaos house in Chapynis / that all the men of Iuda maye se / and saye vnto them: Thus saith the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel: Beholde / I will sende and call for Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Babilon my seruauit / & he will sett his seate vpon these stones that I haue hyd / & he shall sprede his tente ouer them.

And when he commeth / he shall smyte the lande of Egypte with slaughter / & he shall personment / and with the swearde. He shall set fyre vpon the temples of the Egyptians goddes / and burne them vp / & take them selues prisoners. Moreover he shall araye himself in the lande of Egypte / like as a shepherde putteth on his cote / and shall departe hys waye from thence in peace. The pylers also of the temple of the Sunne that is in Egypte: shall be breake in peces / and burne the temples of the Egyptians goddes.

The reproche the people for their Idolatrye. They that set light by the threatenynge of the Lord / are chastened. The destruction of Egypte & the Jewes therein is prophesied.

The xliii. Chapter.

In this is the worde that was shewed to Jeremy concerninge all the Jewes / which dwelt in Egypte: at Magdal / at Chapynis / at Memphis / & in the lande of Patures. Thus saith the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel: ye haue sene all þe mytery that I haue brought vpon Ierusalem / and vpon all the cytyes of Iuda: so that this daye they are desolate / and no man dwelling therein: and that because of the great blasphemys / which they committed / to prouoke me vnto anger: In that they wente backe to do sacrifyce / and worshippe vnto straunge goddes: whom neither they / ner ye / ner your fathers haue knowne. Nowe he it / I sent vnto them my seruantes all the prophetes: I rose by early / I sent vnto them / & gaue them warnynge: do no such abhominable thinges / and thinges that I hate. But they wolde not folowe ner hearken / to turne from their wychednes / and to do nomore sacrifice vnto straunge goddes.

Wherfore myne indignacion and wrath was kindled / and it bzente by the cytyes of Iuda / the felde with the stretes of Ierusalem / so that they were made waste and desolate / as it is come to passe this daye. Nowe therfore thus saith the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel: Howe happeneth it / & ye do so greates euell vnto your awne soules / thus to destroye the men and women / childre and babes of Iuda: so that none of you is left / because ye prouoke me vnto wrath with the workes of your awne handes: when ye offre vnto straunge goddes in the lande of Egypte where as ye be gone to dwell: that ye mighte bitterly perishe / and that ye myghte be reuiled and shamefully increated of all nacpions. Howe haue ye now forgotten the wychednes of your fozefathers / the wychednes of the kynges of Iuda & their wyues / the wychednes that ye your selues and your wyues haue done in the lande of Iuda / in the cytye and in the lande of Ierusalem?

Yet are ye not sorry this daye / ye feare not neither walke ye in my lawe and in my comaundementes / that I haue geue vnto you and your fozefathers.

Wherfore thus saith the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel: I am stedfastly aduysed and determed / to punyssh you / and to rote out all Iuda. As for the remnaunt of Iuda that purposly wente in to Egypte / there to ease them of their mytery: I will take the and they shall all be destroyed. In the lande of Egypte shall they perishe beinge consumed with the swearde and with hunger. For from the least vnto the most / they shall perishe with the swearde & with hunger. Moreover they shall be reuiled / abhored / named / and confounded. For I will bytch them that dwell in Egypte / as I haue bytched Ierusalem: with the swearde / with hunger and with pestilence: so that none of the remnaunt of Iuda / which are gone to dwell in Egypte shall be left to come agayne in to the lande of Iuda all though they thynke to come thither agayne / & to dwell there. For none shall come agayne / but such as are fled awaye.

Then all the men which knewe that their wyues had offered vnto straunge goddes / and a greatesoite of wyues that stode there / & all the people that dwelt there in Egypte in the cytye of Patures / answered Jeremy / and sayde: As for the wordes that thou hast spoken vnto vs in the name of the Lord / we will in no wyse heare them: but whatsoeuer goeth out of our awne mouth / that will we do: we will do sacrifyce / and offre oblacions vnto the Quene of heauē: lyke as we & our fozefathers / our kynges and our heades haue haue done in the cytyes of Iuda / and in the stretes & felde of Ierusalem. For then had we plenteousnesse of bytales / then were we in prosperite / and no mysfortune cam vnto vs.

But sene we left / to offer / and to do sacrifyce vnto the Quene of heauen / we haue had scarcenes of all thinges / and perishe with the swearde & hunger. Last of all / when we were men vnto sacrifyce and offered vnto the Quene of heauen / byd we make her cakes and pour vnto her byrckhollynges / to do her seruyce / without our householde wylls.

Then sayde Jeremy vnto all the people / to the men / to the women & to all the folke / which had geuen him that answer: Did not the Lorde remembre the sacrifyces that ye / your fozefathers / your kynges and rulers / (with all the people) haue offered in the cytyes of Iuda / in the stretes & land of Ierusalem: and hath he not confydred this in his minde? In so moch / that the Lorde mighte no longer suffre the wychednes of your inuencpions / and the abhominable thinges which ye do: For not your lande desolate & voyde / & ye and abhored / so that no man dwelleth therein any more / as it is come to passe this daye.

And all the men of Iuda that be in the lande of Egypte / shall perishe with the swearde and with hunger / vntill they be utterly destroyed.

Jer. xli. c.

Nevertheless / those that fled awaye for the swearde / shall come agayne in to the lande of Iuda / but there shall be very fewe of them.

And all the remnaunt of Iuda / that are gone in to Egypte / there to dwell / shall knowe whose wordes shall be founde true: the wordes of myne. Take this for a token / that I will bytch you in this place / sayeth the Lorde / and that ye maye knowe / howe that I (without doute) will perfourme my purpose vnto you to punyssh you. Beholde / sayeth the Lorde / I will deliuer Pharaos Pophrea kyng of Egypte in to the handes of his enemyes / that seke after his lyfe: euen as I gaue Sederiah the kyng of Iuda in to the handes of Nabuchodonosor kyng of Babilon / which sought after his lyfe.

Thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel vnto the / O Baruch: In so moch as thou thoughtest thus / when thou wast wyrtynge I do is me / the Lorde hath geuen me payne for my trauayle: I haue wecried my selfe to syghynge / and shall I synnde no rest? Chere soze tell him / O Jeremy / that the Lorde sayeth thus: Beholde / the thyng that I haue buylde / will I breake downe agayne / and rote out the thyng / that I haue plantid / & this whole lande. And seke thou yet promociō? Loke not for it / and desyre it not. For I will bynne a miserable plage vnto all the lande sayeth the Lorde. But thy lyfe will I geue the for a pray / where soeuer thou goest.

Thus sayeth the Lorde of hoodes & God of Israel agaynst Moab: wo be to the cite of Rabbos/ for it shall be layed waste/ brought to confusion & taken. Yee thy strong cite of Mariatharim shall be brought to shame/ & a trayed: Moab shall nomore be had in honoure: wicked counsell shall be taken vpon Mesebon.
Come (shall they saye) let vs rote them oute/& they maye be nomore amonge & nombze of the Gentyles/ yee that they maye nomore be thought vpon: Thus the swearde shall persecute the: & boyce shall crye from Dozononu: with greates wa lynge & destruccyon/ in Moab made desolate.

And thus crye shall be herde in all her cytyes. At the going vnto Luth there shall of & Moabites. arse a lamentacion: & downe towarde Moab after the romahin / there shall be herde a cruell and a bitter howle crye. Get you awaye/ saue your lyues and be lyke vnto the heeth in the wyldernes.
For because thou hast trusted in thy stronge holdes & treasure/ thou shalt be take. Chamomos with his pyckes and pynces shall goo awaye in to captiuite.

The destroyer shall come vpon all citites/none shall escape. The halleys shall be destroyed/ & & seiders shall be layed waste: like as the Lorde hath determed.

Make a token vnto Moab/ that she get her awaye speedly: for her cytyes shall be made so desolate/ & no man shall dwell therin. Cursed be he that doth the worcke of & Lorde negligently/ and cursed be he that kepeth backe hys swearde from sheddynge of bloude.

Moab hath euer bene ryche and carlesse from her youth by/ she hath litten and take her ease with her treasure. She was neuer yet put out of one velle in to another/ that is/ she neuer wente awaye in to captiuite/therfore her taste remayneth/ & her sauoure is not yet chaunged.

But lo/ the tyme cometh/ sayeth & Lorde/that I shall sende her trusters to truste her by/ to prepare a season her vessels: yee her tancherdes rattell and shake to and fro. And Moab shall be ashamed of Chamos/ lyke as Israel was ashamed of Bethel/ wherein she put her trust.

Wherefore do ye thynke thus: we are migh-tye/ and stronge men of warre: Moab shall be destroyed/ & her cyties brente by/ her chosen yonge men shall be slayne/ sayeth & king/whose name is the Lorde of hoodes. The destruction of Moab cometh on a pace/ and her fall is at hande.

All her neyghbours shall mourne for her/and all they that know her name/ shall saye: How happeneth it/ that the stronge stat & the goodly rodd is thus broken? And thou daughter Sidon/ come downe fro thy gloze/and set in pouerte. For he that destroyeth Moab/ shall come by to the also/ and breake downe thy stronge holdes.

And thou that dwellest in Aroer / get the
to the strete/ & loke about the: alke the that are fled and escaped/ and saye: what thyng is happened? & Moab is confounded and ouercome.

Mourne and crye/ tell it out at Arnon/that Moab is destroyed. And mysery shall come vpon the playne lande: Namely / vpon Holon/ & Jahazab: vpon Memphis & Sidon vpon Rabbos and the house of Debiathaim/vpon Cariathiarim and Bethgamul/ vpon Bethmaon and Carioth/ vpon Dozarah/ & all the cytyes in the lande of Moab / whether they be farre or neare.

The hoyme of Moab shall be smytten downe/ & her arme broken/ sayeth the Lorde.
Make her broken / for she magnified her self aboute the Lorde/ that men maye clappe their handes at her vomyte/ and that she also maye be laughed to scoyne. & Israel/ shall thou not laugh him to scoyne/ whē he is take amonge theues: Yee because of thy wordes that thou hast spoken agaynst hym / thou shalt be byruen awaye. Yee Moabites shall leau the cytyes/ & dwell in rockes of stone/ & become like bowtes/ that make their nestes in holes.

As for Moabs pyde / we haue herde of it/ the is very hye mynden. I knowe her stoutnesse/ her boylinge/ her arrogancy & the pyde of her stomack/ sayeth the Lorde. For her furiousnes maye nether byholde her in strength ner dede. Wherefore shall ther mourninge be made for Moab/ and euery man shall crye for Moabs sake: a lamentacyon shall be made to the men that stande vpon the wall. So will I mourne for the also / & Pazer/ and for the/ & thou byne parde of Sabamah.

ff. iij. Thy

The wyne branches shall come over & see / & the branches of Jazer but unto & see the destroyer shall breake in to the harvest & grape gathering: Myrrh & cheate shall be taken awaye from the cymbre felde / and fro the whole lande of Moab.

There shall be no sweete wine in the presse / the treader shall have no stomache to cye / yee there shall be none to crie unto him: which a foze tyme were herde fro hefebon to Eleale and Jazar / which lifted by their voyce from Zoar unto Bozraim / that bullock of the yeare olde. The waters also of Memran shall be dried up.

Moreover I will make Moab cleave (saith the Lorde) from the offsprings & censure that she hath made unto her goddes in hye places. wherfore my hert mourneth for Moab / lyke a crowde playenge an heve songe: and for the mens sake of the byche wall my herte mourneth also / cut as a yppe that pipeth a dolefull songe: for they shall be verye fene / and destroyed.

All heades shall be shaven / and all bectes clipped of: all handes bounde / and all loynes gyrded aboute with sack cloth. upon all the house toppes and stretes of Moab / there shall be mourning: for I will breake Moab like an bnpzofitable vessel saith the Lorde. How fearfull is he? How mourneth he? How doth Moab hange downe her head / and is a shamed? Thus shall Moab be a laughing stocke / and had in derision of all them / that be rounde aboute her.

For thus saith the Lorde: Beholde / the enemye shall come aspenge as an Alege / and spede his wynges upon Moab. They shall clymme over the walles / & wyne the stronge holdes. Then I mighty mes hertes in Moab shall be lyke the herte of a woman travelyng with childe.

And Moab shall be made so desolate / that he shall nomoze be a people / because he hath sett by her self agaynst the Lorde. feare / pte / and snare shall come upon the (Moab) saith the Lorde. who so escape the leare / shall fall in the pte: and who so getteth out of the pte / shall be taken in the snare.

For I will bynge a yeare of byttacyon upon Moab / saith the Lorde. They that are able to fte / shall stande under & shadow of Helebon. For there shall go a fyre out of Helebon / and a flame from Sion / and shall burne by that proude people of Moab / both before and behynde.

Who be unto the (Moab) for thou people of Chamos shall peryth: yee thy sonnes and daughters shall be led awaye captiue. Yet at the last will I bynge Moab out of captiuite agayne / saith the Lorde. Thus saith the Lorde of the plague of Moab.

The wordes of the Lorde agaynst the Ammonites agaynst Jhumca / Damascus / Cedar and Elam.

The xlii. Chapter.

Concerninge the Ammonites / thus the Lorde saith: Hath Irael Exch. xlii. b. no chyldren / or is he without an sra. a. heye? whypch your hynges the Amos. i. taken Gad in wherfore doth his people dwell in his cyties? Beholde therfore / the tyme cometh (saith the Lorde) that I will bynge a noyse of warre in to Rabah of the Ammonites. Label shall be desolate / and her cyties bynt by: and the Israelites shall be loydes over those that had them in possession a foze / saith the Lorde. Helebon shall mourne / for it shall be roted out of the grounde / saith the Lorde. The cyties of Rabah shall crye out / and gyde them selues with sack cloth: they shall mourne / and turne aboute the walles: for their hynges shall be led awaye prersoner: yee his pteles & princes with him.

Wherfore trustest thou in & water stream that flowe to and fro / & thou fratte daughter: and thynkest thou art so safe (by reason of thy treasure) that no ma shall come to the?

Beholde / I will bynge a feare upon & / saith the Lorde God of hostes / fro all those that be aboute the: so that ye shall be scattered everyman from another / and no man shall gather them together agayne that be fled. But after that / I will bynge the Ammonites also out of captiuite agayne.

Upon the Edomites hath the Lorde of hostes spoken on this manner: Is there no moze wysdome in Chem? Is there nomoze good counsell amonge his people? Is there wysdome then turned cleue to naught? Gett you hence / turne your backs / cipe downe in to the depe / & ye cyties of Dedan.

For I will bynge destruccio upon Elau / ye and the daye of his byttacyon. If & grape gatherers came upon the / shuide they nott leaue some grapes? If the nyght robbers came upon the / shuide they nott take so moch as they thought were ynough?

But I will make Elau bare / and discover his secretes / so that he shall not be able to hyde them. His sede shall be wasted awaye yee his byrthzen and his neyghbours / and he himself shall not be left behynde.

Thou shalt leaue thy fatherlesse chyldren behynde the / and I will kepe them and thy wydwomen shall take their comfort in me.

For thus hath the Lorde spoken: Beholde / they that me thought were byniete to byniete of the cuppe / have dronken with the fyre: & thynkest thou then to be fre?

Do not thou wait neither be quyte noz tre but thou must bypiche also: for whyp / I have sworne by my self (saith the Lorde) that Bozrah shall become a wyldernesse / an open fame / a laughing stocke and curlyng: & her cyties shall be a continuall deserte.

Jer. l. a. Clare. xli. b. Jer. xli. b.

For I am perfectly infourmed of & Lorde / that he hath sent a message all ready unto & heathen. Gather you together / and go forth agaynst them: make you ready to the battayle / for lo: I will make the but small amonge the heathen / & lytle regarded amonge men.

Thy hie stomach & the pryde of thy herte have discreued the / because thou wilt dwell in the holes of stony rockes / & have the hie mountaynes in possession. Nevertheless though thy nest were as hye as the Eagles / yet will I cast the downe / saith the Lorde. Moreover Jhumca shall be a wyldernesse: who so goeth by it / shall be abashed / & wonder at all her miserable plags. Like as Sodome / Gomor / and the cyties that laye there aboute / were turned by fyre downe (saith the Lorde) so shall no body dwell in Jhumca / and no man shall have his habytacion there. Beholde / lyke as the Lyon cometh by from the pleasaunt medowes of Jozdane unto the grene pastures of Etham / so will I bypue him / and make him runne agaynst her. But who is the? yong man that I will ordeyne agaynst the? Who is lyke unto me? What is he? I will argue with me: what hepyrde maye stande in my handes?

Jer. l. a. Clare. xli. b. Jer. xli. b.

Therfore heare the counsell of the Lorde / that he hath taken upon Jhumca: & his purpose / that he hath deuyed upon the cyties of Cheman: the lest of & stocke shall teare them in peces / & loke what saye theyng they have / they shall make it waste / & them selues also. At the noyse of their fall the earth shall quake / & crye of their voyce shall be herde in to the redd see. Beholde / the enemye shall come a fle by pycher / lyke as it were an Alege / & spede his wynges upon Bozrah. Then shall the hertes of the wythpes in Edom be as the herte of a woman travelyng of childe. Upon Damascus / Demath & Arphad shall come confusion / for they shall heare euell tydynges: they shall be tolled to and fro lyke & fer that can not stide still. Damascus shall be soze afraide / & shall fe / trembynge shall come upon her. Sozome & payne shall ouer take her as a woman travelyng of childe. But how shuld so wythpfull and glorious a cille be sozaken? Heare therfore: her yoge men shall fall in the stretes / and all her men of warre shall be taken awaye in that tyme / & saith the Lorde of hostes. I will hynde a fyre in the walles of Damascus / which shall consume the palace of Benhadab. As for Cedar and the hyngdom of Hazor / whom Nabuchodonozor the hyng of Babylon snofe downe / the Lorde hath spoken thus upon them: Arple / and get you by unto Cedar / and destroye the people towarde the east. Their tentes & their flockes shall they take awaye / yee their hangynges and their vessel. Their Camels also shall they carye awaye with them. They shall come aboute them on every syde with a fearfull crye.

Clare. xli. a.

He / get you soone awaye / cipe in to caues / that ye may dwell there: & yee inhabitours of Hazor / saith the Lorde: for Nabuchodonozor the hyng of Babylon hath holden a counsell concernyng you / and concluded his deuyce agaynst you. Arple / and gett you by agaynst ponder ryche and carelesse people (saith the Lorde) whypch have nether gates. ner doze barres / & that dwell not together. Their Camels shall be stolen / & the dyoues of their catell bypue awaye.

Moreover / these that be shaued wll I scatre to warde al the wyndes / and bynge them to destruccyon: yee and that thozow theyz awne samplers / saith the Lorde. Hazor also shall be a dwellinge for Jozdane / and an euertlastyng wyldernesse: so that no body shall dwell there / and no man shall have there his habytacion.

Jer. l. a. Clare. xli. b. Jer. xli. b.

These are the wordes / that the Lorde spake to the prophet Jeremye concernyng Elam / in the begynnyng of the regyne of Zedekiah hyng of Juda. Thus saith the Lorde of hostes: Beholde / I will breake the bowe of Elam / & take awaye their strength: & upon Elam I will bynge the four wyndes from the four quarters of heauen / and wyl scatre them agaynst the same four wyndes. And there shall be no people / but some of Elam shall be unto them.

Jer. l. a. Clare. xli. b. Jer. xli. b.

For I will cause Elam to be afayed of their enemyes / and of them that seke their lyues: and will bynge upon them the indignacion of my wrath / saith the Lorde. And I will persecute them with the swearde so longe til I have brought them to naught. I will sett my stole in Elam / I will destroye both the king and the princes from thence / saith the Lorde. But in pte of tyme / I will bynge Elam out of captiuite agayne / saith the Lorde.

¶ Yet then goddes shall be brought to shame and their ymages shall stande in feare. For out of the north there shall come a people made them go astraye vpon the hilles. They haue gone fro the moystayne to þe litle hyl / & shall ye fle from Babilon / & departe out of þe lande of the Caldees / and ye shall be as the rammes that go befoze the flocke. For lo / I will wake vp an host of people from þe noz-thzen lande / & bynge them vpon Babilon: these shall laye sege to it / & winne it: Their arowes shall not myse / like as a connyng archer smyteth not wronge. And the Caldees shall be spoyled / & all they that spoyle them / shall be satisfied / saith the Lorde: because ye were so chearfull and glad / to treade downe myne heretage / & fulfilled your pleasures / as the calves in the grasse: & triumphed ouer them like the bulles / when ye had gotten the bictorye. Your mothers shall be foze confoun-

She shall be the leest sett by amōge the na-this Nabuchodonosor Kyng of Babylon hath broken all their bones.

Therfore thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel: Beholde, I will byset the kynge of Babylon and his kynngdome/as I haue bysetted the kynge of the Assyrians: and will bynge Israel agayne to his pleasaunt pasture/that he maye fede vpon Charnel & Basan/and be satsfied vpon the mount of Ephraim & Galaad. In those dayes & at the same tyme (sayeth the Lorde) yf the offence of Israel be sought for / there shall none be founde: Yf men enquire for the synne of Juda; there shall be none: for I will be mercifull vnto them / whom I suffer to remayne ouer.
 Goddowne! (thou auenger) in to the enemies lande / & byset them that dwell therein:
 downe with them / and smyte them vpon the backes / sayeth the Lorde: do accordynge to all / that I haue commaunded the. There is gone aboute the lande a crye of a slaughter & greate murthur / namely on this maner: How happeneth it / that the hammer of the whole worlde is thus broke & brysed in son-der: How chaunceth it / that Babylon is become a wyldernes amonge the heathen on this maner: I my selfe haue layed waste for the / and thou art taken: vnawares art thou trapped & snared: for why / thou hast prouoked the Lorde vnto anger: The Lorde hath opened his house of ordynaunce / & brought forth the weapens of his wrath. For the thing that is done in the lande of the Caldees / it is the Lorde of hostes worke.

¶ These thynges shall come vpon her at the last/ they shall breake into her preuy chamthat be layed together vpon heapes. They shall so destroye her/ & nothinge shalbe left.

They shall slaye all their mightie souldyers/& put the to death. Noo be vnto them/ for the daye & tyme of their visitacyon is at hande.

her poyne men fall downe in the stretes / and all her men of warre shalbe rooted out in the God of Hostes: for thy daye shal come / euen the tyme of thy visitacion. And thou proude shal

I will burne vp his cyties with fyre / and it shall consume all that is rounde aboute hym.

Thus sayeth the Lorde of Hostes: The children of Israel & Iuda suffice violence tokepe them fast / and will not let them go: but their auenger & redemer is myghtie / whose name is the Lorde of Hostes: he shall mantayne their cause / he shall make hilde shake / and iudge them that dwell therein / one wyth another. The swearde shall come vpon the Caldees / sayeth the Lorde / vpon them that dwell in Babylon / vpon their pynces / and vpon their wyle men: The swearde vpon their tothslayers / as for those (they shall become fooles.) The swearde vpon their worthyes / so that they shall stande in feare: The swearde vpon their hoymen and charettes / & vpon all shall all become like the womē: The swearde vpon their treasure / so that it shall be stollen they shall be dyed by: for the lande worshyppeth ymages / & delecteth in straunge wōde

Awes / and Estriches dwell therein: for there shall neuer man dwell there / nether shall eny mā haue his habitation there for euermore.
Like as God destroyed Sodom and Go-more / with the cities that laye there about sayeth the Lorde: So shall no mā dwell there also / nether shall eny man haue there his habitacon. Beholde / there shall come a peopl fro the North / with a greate bounde of men and many kyniges shall stande by from the endes of the earth: they beare bowes & buc-lers / quell are they & vnmerecyfull.

Their voyce roareth lyke the raging see/they ryde vpon hoxles / & come weapened to fyght agaynst the: O Babylon. As soone as the kynge of Babylon heareth tell of the, his handes shall waxe feable : Sozome and hetyres shall come vpon him, as a womā trauelinge wryth chyld. Beholde / lyke as the Lyon commeth bp from the pleasaunt medows of Iordane vnto the grene pastures of Ethan, so wyl I dyspue the forth / & make them runne agaynst her. But whom shall I chole out / & ordene to such a thyng? of who is like me / or who will strpue w me? or what shepherde maye sthde agaynst me? Therfore heare the counsell that the Lorde hath geuen vpon Babylon / and the deuyce that he hath taken vpon the lande of the Caldees. The least amonge the people shall leaue them in peeces/and take what pleasaunt thinge they haue:they shall laye it waste. The people at the wynnynge of Babylon shall moue the earth/and the crye shall be herbe amonge the Gentyles.

How Babylon should be overthrown. Jeremy de-

The.ii. Chapter.

Thus hath the Lord sayde: behold / I will rayse vp a perous wynde / agaynst Babylon / & her ctyzens / that beate euell will agaynst me. I will sende also in to Babylon sanners / to fanne her out / & to destrope her lande: for in the daye of her trouble they shalbe about her on euery syde: Mozeouer / the Lord hath sayde vnto the houle men / & to the clymme ouer the walles in byest plates: We shall not spare her yonge men / kill downe all her hood. Thus the flayne shall fall downe in the lade of the Caldees / & the wounded in the stretes. As for Israel and Iuda / they shal not be for saken of their God / of the Lord of Hostes / of the holpyne of Israel: no / though they haue killed all their lade full of clymme. Flye away from Babylon / euery man saue his lyfe. Let no man holde his tunge to her wyckednes / for the tyme of the Lordes vengeance is come / pee he shall rewarde her agayne. Babylon hath bene in the Lordes hande a golde cuppe / that maketh all landes droncken. Of her wyne haue all people droncken / therfore are they out of their wyttes. But sodenly is Babylon fallen / and destroyed. Mourne for her / byynge plasters for her woundes yf she maye peraduenture be healed agayne. We wolde haue made Babilon whole (saye they) but she is not recovered. Therfore will we let her alone / & go euery man in to his awne countre. For her iudgmēt is come in to heauen / and is gone vp to the cloudes. And therfore come on / we will weewe Sion the wozyche of the Lord oure God.

Make warpe the arrowes / and fyll the quyvers: for the Lorde shall rayle by the spyete of the kynge of the Heedes / whych hath already a desyre to destrope Babylon.
This shalbe the vengeance of the Lordes / and the vengeance of his temple.

Set by tokens vpon the walles of Babylon/ make youre watch stronge/ let youre watch men in araye / see holde preuye watches: a yet for al that shall the Lord go forth with the deuyce/ which he hath taken vpon them that dwell in Babylon.

 me out/ he hath taken my substance awaye & the thinge that was left me hath he carryed vnto Babylon / sayeth the daughter & dwelleth in Syon: yee and my bloude also vnto the Caldees / sayeth Ierusalem. Therfore thus sayeth the Lord: Beholde/ I will defende thy cause/ & auenge the: I will dynne by her see/ & drye by her water bynges.

 the Lorde. I shall carie them downe to be dayne was helach worne : O / how was the glory of the whole lande taken : how happeneth it / that Babylon is so wonderd at amonge the heathen : The see is risen ouer Babylon / and hath covered her with his greates waues.

Her cytyes are layed waste / the lande lyeth vnburied and boyde: it is a lande where no man dwelleth / and where no man traueleth bylon: and the thyng that he hath swallowed vp / that ſame ſhall I plucke out of his dest of Euphrates / and saye: Euen thus shall Babylon syncke / & be thrust downe with the burthen of erroure / that I will bringe vpon her: so that she shal neuer come bp agayne.

Thus farre are the preachings of Ieremy:

¶ He repeleth the takinge of Ierusalem. Ierusalem is takē of the Chaldees. Ieremiahs sonnes are kille before hys face: and hys eyes put out. The ctye is burned. The temple is spoiled and robbed. They that were left in Ierusalem are caried to Babylon. King Iehoonan is brought forth of prison: & fed like a hawke.

Of the III. Chapter.

Zedekiah was .xij. yeare olde / when he was made kynge / & he reigned
.xij. yeare in Ierusalem. His mothers name was Hamutal / Jeremies daughter of Lobnah. He liued wickedly before the Lorde euen as Jehoham dyd, wherefore the Lorde was angrie at Ierusalem & Iuda / so longe tyll he had cast the out of his presence. And Zedekiah fell from the kynge of Babylon. But in .x. yeare of his reigne. In the tenth Moneth / the tenth daye of the Moneth it happened / that Nabuchodozoz the kynge of Babylon wth all his hoste came before Ierusalem / & besegged it / & made them bulwarkes rounde aboute it. And this besegginge of the cite endured into the .x. yeare of kynge Zedekiah.

And in the fourth Moneth / the ix daye of þe Moneth / there was to greate honger in þe cite: that there were no moze bytayles for the people of the lande . So all the souldiers brake awaie / & fled out of the cite by night 3ere xxxvij. b thowto the waye of þe poze betwene the two 3ere . a thalles by the kynges garden. Now the Cal-bees had compassed the cite rounde aboute / yet wente these men their waye to warde þe mydernefle.

And so the Caldees folowed byon them/and toke Zedekiah the kynge in the seide of Jerycho / when hys hooft was runne from him. So they caried the kynge away pre-soner to Babel / vnto the kynge of Ba-bilon in the land of Hamath / where he gaue iudgment byon him.

The kyng of Babilon also caused Zedekiahs sonnes to be slayne before his face/ &e put all the princes of Iuda to death at Riblah. Moreover he put out the eyes of Zedekiah/ caused him to be boorde w cheynes/ to be caried into Babilon: and lett him lye in prison/ till he dyed.

Now the tenth daye of the fifth Moneth in the ix yeare of Nabuchodonosor kynge of Babilon / Nabusatanan the chefe captaine and the kynge of Babilons seruantes came vnto Ierusalem / & hent by the house of the Lorde. He hent by also 6 kynges palace / all the houses & all the gorgeous build-inges

dynes in Jerusalem. And the whole host of the Caldees that were with the chefe Captayne/broke downe all the walles of Jerusalem rounde aboute.

As for the poore people and such folke as yet was left in the cite/which also were fallen to the kynge of Babylon/ yee and what people as yet remained: Nabuzaradan the chefe Captayne caried them awaye prisoners. But the poore people of the countre/ dyd Nabuzaradan the chefe Captayne leue in the lande/to occupie the bynegardes and felde. The Caldees also brake the brasen pylers that were in the house of the Lorde/ yee the seate and the brasen lauer that was in the house of the Lorde: and caried all the metall of them vnto Babylon. They toke awaye also the Cauldrons/ shouels/ flesch hookes/ spynklers/ spones / and all the brasen bestell that was occupied in the seruyce: to the basens/ colepannes/ spynklers/ pottes/ candelltyches/ spones and cuppes: wherof some were of golde/ and some of syluer.

The chefe Captayne toke also the two pylers/ the lauer the. xij. brasen bullockes that stode vnder the seate/ whych kynge Salomon made in the house of the Lorde: and all the bestell conceyned so much metall/ that it myght not be weyed. So euery piler was xviij. cubytes hie / and the rope that wente aboute it/ was. xij. cubytes / and foure spynners thyeke and rounde: Now vpon the rope were brasen knoppes / & euery knoppe was fyue cubytes hie: & vpon the knoppes were whopes / and pomgranates rounde aboute of cleane brasse.

After this manner were both the pylers fastyned with the pomgranates / wherof there were an hundred and. xviij. which hangen vpon the whopes rounde aboute. The chefe Captayne also toke Saraiab the hie prest / and Sophoniah that was chefe next him / and the thye hepers of the treasury. He toke out of the cite a chamberlayne whych was a captayne of the souldyers / and seven men that were the kynge's seruantes / which were founde in the cite: and Sepher a captayne that used to murder the men of warre with. lx. men of the countre that were take in the cite. These Nabuzaradan the chefe captayne toke / and caried them to the kynge of Babylon vnto Reblath: and the kynge of Babylon caused them to be put to death at Reblath in the lande of Hemath. And thus Iuda was ledde awaye captiue / out of his owne lande. This is the summe of the people / whō Nabuchodonosor ledde awaye captiue.

In the seventh yere of his regne/ he caried awaye of the Jewes / the thousand & thye and twenty. In the xviij. yere Nabuchodonosor caried awaye from Jerusalem eight hundred and. xxij. persons. In the. xxij. yere of Nabuchodonosor Nabuzaradan the chefe Captayne / toke awaye seven hundred and. xij. Jewes prisoners. The whole summe of all the prisoners / is foure thousande & fyue hundred.

In the. xxviij. yere after that Jehoacin the kynge of Iuda was caried awaye in the. xvj. daye of the. xij. Moneth / Evilmerodach kynge of Babylon (the same yere that he was crowned) gaue Jehoacin the kynge of Iuda his parson / & let him out of prison / & spake ioyngly to hym. And set his throne aboute the thrones of the other kynges that were with him in Babylon. He chaunged also the clothes of his prison / yee and he ate with him all his lyfe longe. And he had a continuall ioyng geuen him of the kynge of Babylon / every daye a certayne thyng allowed him all the dayes of his lyfe / vntill he dyed.

The ende of the boke of the Prophecie Jeremy.

The lamentacyōs of Jeremie.

It happened after Israel was brought in to captiue / & Jerusalem destroyed / that Jeremie the Prophecie late wepyng / and sorrowfully bewayled Jerusalem: and syghyng & howlyng with an heuy & wooll herte / sayde:

The first Chapter.

Alph.

4. Reg. 14. 2. 4. Reg. 15. 2. 4. Reg. 16. 2.

Las / how syteth the cite so desolate / that some tyme was full of people: How is she become lyke a widowe / which was the lady of all nacyns: How is she brought vnder tribute / that ruled all landes.

Beth.

She wepeth sore in the nyght / so that her teares runne downe her chekes: for amonge all her louers / there is none that geueth her any comforte: yee her nexte frendes abhorre her / and are become her enemyes.

Gimel.

Iuda is taken prisoner / because she was defiled: and for seruyng so many straunge goddes / she dwelleth now amonge the hepten. She synneth no rest / all they that persecuted her / toke her / and so she dwelleth amonge her enemyes.

Daleth.

The streates of Sion mourne / because no man cometh moze to the solempne feastes. All her gates are desolate / her prestes make lamentacion / her maydens are carefull / and she herselfe is in greate heynesse.

He.

Her enemyes are fallen vpon her head / & haue put her to shame: because the Lord hath chastened her for her greate wickednes: her chyldre are ledde awaye captiue before their enemye.

Vau.

All the betwile of the daughter of Sion is awaye / her princes are become like withers that fynde no pasture. They are dryue awaye before their enemye / so that they haue no moze power.

Zain.

Now both Jerusalem remembre the tyme of her misery & dytobedience / yee the ioye and pleasure she hath had in tymes past: syng her people is brought downe thowm the power of their enemye / & there is no man for to helpe her: her enemyes stode looking at her & laugh her Sabbath dayes to come.

Beth.

Jerusalem synned euery moze & moze / therefore is she come in decaye. All they she had her in honoure / despyse her: for they haue seene her synne. Yee she synneth / and is a shamed of her selfe.

Ueth.

Her sayntes are defyled / she remembred not what wolde folowe: therefore is her fall so greate / and there is no man to comforte her. The Lord / comforte my trouble / for myne enemye hath the vpper hande.

Yod.

The enemye hath put his hande to all the precious thynges that she had / yee euery be-fore her eyes came the deathen in a out of the Sanctuary: whom thou (neuertheless) hast forbydden to come within thy congregacyō.

Caph.

All her people seke their byed to heynesse / and loke what precious thynges euery man hath / that geueth he for meate / to saue his lyfe. Comforte / O Lorde / and se / how vile I am become.

Lamed.

O ye all that go for by / beholde and se / yf there be any comforte like vnto myne / wherewith the Lorde hath troubled me / in the daye of his fearefull wrath.

Mem.

From aboute hath he sent downe a fyre in to my bones and chastened me: he hath layed a net for my fete / & thowen me wyde open: he hath made me desolate / so that I must euer be mourninge.

Nun.

The poche of my transgression is come at the last / with his hande hath he take it by / & put it aboute my neck. My strength is gone: the Lord hath deliuered me in to those handes / wherout I can not quyte myselfe.

Samech.

The Lorde hath destroyed all the mightie men / that were in me. He hath proclaimed a feast / to slaughter all my best me. The Lord hath trode downe the daughter of Iuda / like as it were in a wyne presse.

Alin.

Therefore do I wepe / & myne eyes geue oute of water: for the comforter that shoulde quicken me / is farre fro me. My chyldren are dryue awaye / for why: the enemye hath gotten the ouerhande.

Pe.

Sion casteth out her handes / and there is no man to comforte her. The Lord hath layed the enemyes rounde aboute Iacob / and Jerusalem is as it were a menstruous womā / in the myddell of them.

Sade.

The Lorde is vngodly / for I haue prouoked

Some reader woked his contenance into anger. & take heed all ye people/and confesse my heynesse: My maydens and my younge men are led away into captivitye.

Roph.

I called for my louers (but they beggled me) for my prestes and counsellors/but they perished: euen while they sought for meate/ to saue their lyues.

Uin.

Confesse (O Lorde) how I am troubled/ my wombe is disquieted/ my herte turneth about in me/ and I am full of heynesse. The swearde hurteth me without/ and within I am lyke vnto death.

Sin.

They heare my mourninge/ but there is none that will comforte me. All myne enemyes haue hearde of my trouble/ & are glad therof/ because thou hast done it. But thou shalt byngge forth the tyme/ when they also shalbe lyke vnto me.

Uin.

From the shall come all these aduersities: thou shalt plucke them awaye euen as thou hast plucked me/ because of all my wyckednes. For my sorow is very greate/ and my herte is heuy.

The ii. Chapter.

Aleph.

Alas/ how hath the Lorde darckened the daughter of Syon/ soze in hys wath? As for the honoure of Israel/ he hath casten it downe from heauen: how happeneth it/ that he remembred not hys awne soze/ when he was angere?

Beth.

The Lorde hath cast downe all the glorye of Jacob without any fauoure: all the stronge places of the daughter Juda hath he broken in hys wath/ and thowen the downe to the grounde: her kyngdome & her prestes hath he suspended.

Uin.

In the wath of his indignacion he hath broke all the home of Israel: he hath with drawen his ryght hande from the enemye: yee same of syze is hyndled in Jacob/ & hath consumed by all rounde aboute.

Waleth.

He hath bent hys bowe lyke an enemye/ he hath fastened his ryght hande as an aduersary: and every thyng that was pleasaunt to se/ he hath smytten it downe. He hath poured out hys wath lyke a fyre/ into the tabernacle of the daughter of Syon.

De.

The Lorde is become lyke as it were an enemye/ he hath cast downe Israel & all his places: yee all his stronge holdes hath he destroyed/ & fylled the daughter of Juda with moch sorow and heynesse.

Uin.

Her tabernacle (which was lyke a garden of pleasure) hath he destroyed: her hye solepne feastes hath he put downe. The Lorde hath brought it to passe/ that the hye solempne feastes and Sabbathes in Sion/ are cleane forgotte. In his heynesse hath he made the hyge & prestes to be despyled.

Sin.

The Lorde hath forsake his awne altar/ and is woth with his awne Sanctuary/ & hath geuen the walles of their towres in to the handes of the enemye. Their enemyes made a noyse in the house of the Lorde/ as it had bene in a solempne feast daye.

Beth.

The Lorde thought to bryake downe the walles of the daughter Sion/ he syzed out his lyne/ & drew not in his hand/ tyl he had destroyed them. Therefore mourne the turrets and the broken walles together.

Uin.

Her portes are cast downe to the grounde/ her barres are broken & smytten in sonder: her hyge & pynces are carryed awaye to the enemyes. They haue nether lame nor phetes/ ner yet any byson from the Lorde.

Uin.

The Senatours of the daughter Sion sate upon the grounde in sylence: they haue strowed ashes upon their heades/ and gyded them selues with sack cloth. The maydens of Jerusalem hange downe their heades to the grounde.

Caph.

Myne eyes begynne to sayle me thowen weeping/ my body is disquieted/ my leuer is poured upon the earth/ for the greate hurte of my people/ seynge the chyldren and babes dyd dworne in the stretes of the cyte.

Lamed.

Euen when they spake to their mothers: where is meate and dryncke? for while they so sayde/ they fell downe in the stretes of the cyte/ lyke as they had bene wounded/ and some dyed in their mothers bosome.

Mem.

What shall I saye of the/ O thou daughter Jerusalem/ to whom shall I lyken the? To whom shall I compare the/ O thou daughter Sion/ to comforte the withall? Thy hurte is like a mayne ser/ who maye heale the?

Sun.

Thy prophetes haue looked out bayne and folish thynges for the/ they haue not shewed the of thy wyckednesse/ to kepe the from captivitye: but haue overladen the/ and thowen salued scattered the abozde.

Samech.

All they that go by the/ clappe their handes at the byngge and waggyng their heades vpon the daughter Jerusalem/ and saye: is this the cyte that men call to saye/ wherein the whole lande reioysed?

Uin.

All thynne enemyes gaue by the/ whysperynge and bytynge their teth/ sayng: let vs deuoure/ for the tyme that we looked for/ is come: we haue founde and sene it.

Ph.

The Lorde hath fulfilled the thyng/ that he was purposed to do: and performed that he had deuyled longe ago: he hath destroyed/ and not spared. He hath caused thynne aduersary to triumphe over the/ & set by the home of thynne enemye.

Sade.

Let thynne herte crye vnto the Lorde/ O thou cyte of the daughter Sion: let thy turrets runne downe lyke a ryuer daye & night: rest not/ & let not hyle of thine eye leaue of.

Roph.

Stand up and make thy prayer in the first watch of the nyght/ poure out thynne herte lyke water before the Lorde: lyft up thynne handes/ for the lyues of thy yonge chyldren/ that dye of hunger in the stretes.

Res.

Behold O Lorde/ and confesse/ why hast thou gathered me by so cleane? Shall I weemen then eate their awne frute/ euen chyldren of a spanne longe? Shall the prestes & prophetes be layne thus in the Sanctuary of the Lorde?

Sin.

Yonge & olde lye behynde the stretes by the grounde/ my maydens & yonge men are layne with the swearde: whom thou in the daye of thy wathfull indignacion hast put to death: yee eue thou hast put the to death/ and not spared them.

Chau.

My neyghbours & are rounde about me/ hast thou called/ as it were to a feast daye: so in the daye of the Lordes wath none escaped/ nether was any left behynde. Those that I had brought by and noysed/ hath myne enemy destroyed.

The iii. Chapter.

Aleph.

Am the man/ that thowen the rodd of hys wath/ haue experyence of misery.

He drew me forth/ and led me: yet in to darcknesse/ but not in to lycht.

Agaynst me only he turneth his hande/ & layeth it euer vpon me.

Beth.

My flesh & my kynne hath he made olde/ and my bones hath he brused.

He hath buyden rounde aboute me/ & closed me in with gall and trauayle.

He hath set me in darcknesse/ as they that be deed for euer.

Gymel.

He hath so hedged me in/ & I can not get out/ and hath layed heuy lynchies vpon me. Though I crye and call pitously/ yet heareth he not my prayer.

He hath stopped by my wayes with squared stones/ & made my pathes crooked.

Waleth.

He layeth wayte for me lyke a Bere/ & as a Lyon in a hole.

He hath married my wayes/ & broken me in peces/ he hath layed me waste altogether.

He hath bent his bowe/ and made me as it were a march to shutte at.

De.

The arrowes of his quyer hath he shot/ euen into my reynes.

I am laughed to scozne of all my people/ they make songes vpon me all daye longe.

He hath fylled me with bytternesse/ & geuen me wormwood to dryncke.

Uin.

He hath smytten my teth in peces/ & rolled me in the dust.

He hath put my soule out of rest/ I forget all good thynges.

I thought in my selfe: I am bydone/ there is no hope for me in the Lorde.

Sin.

I remembre yet my myserys & my troubl the wormwood and the gall.

Yee thou wait remembre the/ for my soule melteth awaye in me.

While I confesse these thynges in my hert/ I get a hope agayne.

Beth.

Samely/ that the mercyes of the Lorde are not cleane gone/ and that his louyng kyndnesse ceaseth not.

His faythfulnes is greate/ and remeth it selfe as the mourninge.

The Lorde is my portyon/ sayeth my soule/ therefore will I hope in him.

Uin.

How good is the Lorde vnto them/ that put their trust in him/ and to the soule that seeketh after him?

How good is it with sylence to wate & tarpe/ for the health of the Lorde?

How good is it for a man/ to take the rock vpon him from his youth by.

Uin.

He lytteth alone/ he holdeth him still/ and dwelleth dwelleth quietly by him selfe.

He layeth his face upon the earth / per-case there happen to be any hope.

He offereth his cheek to the smiter / he will be content with reproches.

Caph.

For the Lorde will not forsake for ever.

But though he do cast of / yet accordinge to the multitude of his mercyes he receaureth to grace agayne.

For he doth not plague / & cast out the chyldren of men from his herte.

Lamed.

To treade all the prisoners of the earth under his fete.

To moue the iudgement of man before the most hyghest.

To condemne a man in his cause: The Lorde hath no pleasure in soche thynges.

Mem.

What is he then that sayeth: there shuld manysse that somethynge be done without the Lordes co-all aduersarye maundement:

Out of the mouth of the moost hyghest goeth not euell and good?

Wherfore then murmureth the lypunge euell (as we call man): let hym murmure at his awne synne.

Mem.

Let vs loke well vpon oure awne wayes / & remembre oure selues / & turne agayne wherout he shuld to the Lorde.

Let vs lye by oure hertes with oure han-des vnto the Lorde that is in heauen.

We haue bene dyssemblers / and haue offended / wylt thou therfore not be intreated perfect good.

Thou hast covered vs in thy wrath / & persecuted vs / thou hast slayne vs without any ther any plague fauoure.

Thou hast byd thy selfe in a cloude / that oure prayer shuld not go thow.

Thou hast made vs outcastes / and to be despyled amonge the heathen.

Mem.

All oure enemyes gape vpon vs.

Feare and shawe is come vpon vs / yet des-pyte and destruction.

Whole riuers of water gusse out of myne eyes / for the greates hurte of my people.

Mem.

Myne eyes runne / and can not cease / for there is no rest.

Lorde / when wilt thou loke downe from heauen / and consoyle?

Myne eye breaketh my herte / because of all the daughters of my cyle.

Mem.

Myne enemyes hunted me out sharply /
lyke a byrde / yet and that without a cause.

They haue put downe my life into a pitte / and layed a stone vpon me.

They poured water vpon my head / then thought I: now am I vndone.

Roph.

I called vpon thy name / O Lorde / out of the depe pitte.

Thou hast herde my voyce / and hast nott turned awaye thine eares from my syghinge & cryenge.

Thou hast enclined thy selfe vnto me / whē
I called vpon the / & haue sayde: feare not.

Mem.

Thou O Lorde hast maintened the cause of my soule / and hast redeemed my life.

Lorde / thou hast sene my blasphemers take thou my cause vpon the.

Thou hast well consydered how they go about to do me harme / and that all their coun-cels are agaynst me.

Mem.

Thou hast herde their despytefull wordes (O Lorde) yet and all their ymaginacions agaynst me.

The lippes of myne enemyes / and their deuyces that they take agaynst me / all the daye longe.

Thou seest also their syttinge downe and their restinge by / they make their songes of nothinge but of me.

Mem.

Reward them (O Lorde) accordinge to
the workes of their handes.

Geue them the thyng / that their awne
herte is afrayed of: euen thy curse.

Persecute them (O Lorde) with thine in-dygnacion / and rote them out from vnder the heauen.

Mem.

Reward them (O Lorde) accordinge to
the workes of their handes.

Geue them the thyng / that their awne
herte is afrayed of: euen thy curse.

Persecute them (O Lorde) with thine in-dygnacion / and rote them out from vnder
the heauen.

The. lxx. Chapter.

Mem.

How is the golde become so dymme? How is the goodly colour of it so soze chaunged: and the stones
of the Sanctuary thus scattered in
the corner of euery strete?

How is the golde become so dym-

it so soze chaunged: and the stones
of the Sanctuary thus scattered in
the corner of euery strete?

Mem.

The chyliden of Syon that were al waye in honoure / & clothed with the most precious golde: how are they now become lyke the erthen vessels whych be made with the potters hande.

Mem.

The Lammes geue their ponge ones suck with bare brestes: but the daughter of my people is cruell / and dwelleth in the wylder-

Mem.

They that were wonte to saye delicatly / perthe in the streates: they that a soze were brought by in purple / make now moch of donge.

Mem.

The synne of the daughter of my people is he come greater then the wychednesse of Sedome / that sodenly was destroyed / & not taken with handes.

Mem.

Herabsteyners (or Nazarenes) were whither then the snowe of mylke: their colour was freshe as the Corall / their beutie lyke the Saphyre.

Mem.

But now their faces are very black: In somoch / that thou shuldest not knowe them in the streates. Their synne cleueth to their bones / It is withered / and become lyke a dye stock.

Mem.

They that be slayne with the swerde / are happier then such as dye of hunger / and perishe awaye famishynge for the frutes of the felde.

Mem.

The women (whych of nature are pitiful) haue sodenly their awne chylde in their hādes that they might be their meate / in this miserable destruction of this daughter of my people.

Mem.

The Lorde hath perfortuned his heu-ry path: he hath poured out the foundations of his dyspleasure. He hath kyndled a fyre in

The ende of the Lamentacions of Jeremy.

The boke of the prophete Ezechiel.

The tyme wherein Ezechiel propheted / & in what place. His offspring & office. The vspoon of the foure beastes. The vspoon of the wheles. The vspoon of the throne. and of the Image above the throne.

The first Chapter.

Ichaunted in the xxxiijreate the fifth daye of the. iijij Moneth / that I was amonge the pzeloners by the ryuer of Cobat: * where the beastes opened / and I sawe a bypsoon of God. Now the fifth daye of the moneth made out the fifth yere of kyng Joachins captiuytye. At the same tyme came the word of the Loyde vnto Ezechiel the sonne of Buzi the Pzeste / in the lande of the Caldees by the water of Cobat / where the hande of the Loyde came vpon hym.

And I looked / & beholde a stormy wynde leue / that he came out of the North with a greate cloude / with God in full of fyre / whych with his glyste lyghtened all rounde aboute. And in the myddest of the fyre it was all cleare / & as it were a lychnesse of foure beastes / whych were fashioned lyke a man: sayng / that euery one had foure faces and foure wynges.

Their legges were streight / but their feete were lyke bullockes feete / and they glysted / as it had bene saye scoured metall. Vnder their wynges vpon all the foure corners they had mens handes. Their faces & their wynges were toward the foure corners: yet were the wynges so / that one euer touched another. When they wente / they turned them not aboute: but echone wente streight forwarde.

Vpon the ryght syde of these foure / their faces were lyke the face of a man / and the face of a Lyon: But vpon the left syde / they had the face of an oxe / and the face of an eagle. Their faces also and their wynges were lyghted out aboute: so that two wynges of one touched euer two wynges of another / & with the other they covered their body. Euerie one when it wente / it wente streight forwarde. Where as the sprete led them / thither they wnt / & turned not about in theyr going.

The fastyon and countenance of the beastes was lyke hoate coales of fyre / euen as though burnynge cressettes had bene amonge the beastes: and the fyre gaue a glyste / and out of the fyre there wente lyghtenynge. When the beastes wente forwarde and backwarde / one wolde haue thought it had lyghtened. Now when I had well considered the beastes / I sawe a wyche of wheles vpon the earth with foure faces also lyke the beastes.

The fastyon and wyche of the wheles was lyke the sc. The foure wheles were toged and made (to loke byp) as it had bene one whele in another. When one wente forwarde / they wente all foure / and turned the not about in theyr going. They were large / greate and horryble to loke vpon. Their bodies were full of eyes round about them all foure. When the beastes wente / the wheles wente also with them: And wher the beastes lyft them selues byp fro the earth / the wheles were lyft byp also. Whether soeuer the sprete wente / thither wente they also / and the wheles were lyft byp / and folowed them: for the sprete of lyfe was in the wheles. When the beastes went forth / stode styll / or lyft them selues byp from the earth: then the wheles also wente / stode styll / and were lyft byp / for the breath of lyfe was in the wheles.

Aboute ouer the heades of the beastes there was a firmament / whych was fastyned as it had bene of the most pure Chrystall / & that was lyghted out aboute vpon their heades: vnder the same firmament were their wynges layed abode / one toward another / and two wynges covered the body of euery beast. And when they wente forth / I hearde the noyse of their wynges / lyke the noyse of greates greates waters / as it had bene the voyce of the greates God / and a rushynge together as it were of an host of men. And wher they stode styll / they let downe their wynges. Now when they stode styll / and had letten downe their wynges / it thondred in the firmament that was about their heades. About the firmament that was ouer their heades / there was the fastyon of a seate / as it had bene made of Saphir. Vpon the seate there sat one lyke a man. I behelde hym / and he was lyke a cleare lyght / as it had bene all of fyre with in from his loynes vnto the toppe.

And beneath when I looked byp hym vnder the loynes / me thought he was lyke a rushynge fyre / that geuech lyght on euery syde. Yee the spynne & glyste of lyghtened rounde aboute / was lyke a raynbowe / whych in a raynye daye appeareth in the cloudes. Euen so was the firmament / wherin the glory of the Loyde appeared. When I sawe it / I fell vpon my face / and hearkened vnto the voyce of hym that spake.

The prophete is made to call agayne the people fro their errour.

The iiij. Chapter.

Id then sayde he vnto me: Sitte byp vpon thy fete (O thou sonne of man) & I will talke with the. And as he was conuynge with me / the sprete came in to me / and sett me byp vpon my fete: so that I marked the thinge / & he sayde vnto me. And he sayde: Beholde / thou sonne of man: I will sende the to the chyldren of Israel / to those runnagates and obstinate people: for they haue taken parte agaynst me / & are rane awaye from me: both they and their forefathers vnto this daye.

Yee I will sende the vnto a people that haue rough visages & styll stomakes: vnto whom thou shalt saye on this maner: This is the Loyde God hym self hath spokē / that whether they be obedyent or no / (for it is a frowarde household) they maye knowe yet that there hath bene a Prophet amonge them.

Therfore (thou sonne of man) feare them not / neither be afrayed of their wordes: for they shall rebell agaynst the / & despyle the. Yee thou shalt dwell amonge scorpions: but feare not their wordes / be not abashed at their lokes / for it is a frowarde household.

Se thou speake my wordes vnto the / whether they be obedyent or no / for they are obstinate. Therfore (thou sonne of man) obey thou all thynges that I saye vnto the / & be not thou styfnecked / lyke as they are a styfnecked household. Ope thy mouth and eate that I geue the.

So as I was lokynge byp / beholde / there was sent vnto me an hande / wherin was a closed boke: & the hande opened it before me / & it was wyrtten within & without / full of carefull mourninges / alas / and wo.

The prophete heynge sette with the voyde of God and with the constant boldnesse of the sprete / is sent vnto the people that were in captiuytye. The punishment of a curate that helmeth not the people their synnes.

The iij. Chapter.

Id then sayde he vnto me: Thou sonne of man / eate that / whatsoeuer it be: yee eate that closed boke / & go thy waye / and speake vnto the chyldren of Israel. So I opened my mouth / & he gaue me the boke for to eate / and sayde vnto me: Thou sonne of man / thy belly shall eate / and thy bowels shall be fylled with the boke / that I geue the. When byd I eate the boke / & it was in my mouth sweter then honey. And he sayde vnto me: Thou sonne of man / get the soone vnto the house of Israel / and shewe them the wordes / that I commaunde the: for I sende the not to the people that hath a strange / vnkowne / or harde speache / but vnto the house of Israel: not to many nacyns / which haue dyuerse speaches and harde languages / whose wordes thou vnderstandest not: Neuerthelesse / yf I sent the to those people / they wolde folow the: But the house of Israel will not folow the / for they wil saye / we wil not folow the: yee all the house of Israel haue styll foreheades and harde hertes. Beholde therfore / I will make thy face preuayle agaynst their faces / and harde thy foreheade agaynst their foreheades: so that thy foreheade shall be harder then an Adamant / or thynt. And thou mayest feare them the lesse / and be lesse afrayed of them / for they are a frowarde household.

He sayde moreouer vnto me: Thou sonne of man / take dylyget hede with thyne eares / to the wordes that I speake vnto the / fasten them in thyne herte: and go to the pzeloners of thy people / speake vnto them / and saye on this maner: Thus the Loyde God hath spoken: whether ye heare / or heare not. With that the sprete toke me byp. And I hearde the noyse of a greates rushynge and remouynge of the most blessed glory of the Loyde out of his place.

I hearde also the noyse of the wynges of the beastes / that rushed one agaynst another / yee and the ratynge of the wheles / that were by them / whych rushynge and noyse was very greates.

Now when the sprete toke me byp / and carried me awaye / I wente with an heuy and a sozowfull mynde / but the hande of the Loyde comforted me ryght soone.

And so in the begynnyng of the moneth /

CC. xl. Abbs

an. By this word / I came to the prisoners / that dwell by watchman are the water of Cobar / and remayned in that place / where they were: And so continually / amonge them seven dayes / beinge be- which must be / ry for.

And when the seven dayes were expired / the Lord sayde unto me: Thou sonne of man / I have made the a watchman unto the house of Israel: therefore take good heed to the wordes / and geue them warnynge at my commaundement.

If I saye unto the / concerninge the ungodly man / that (without doute) he must dye: thou shalt dye / & thou geuest hym not warnynge / ner heret / into the speakest unto hym / that he may turne from his euell waye / & so to lyue: Then shall the same ungodly man dye in his awne wickednes: but his bloude wyll I requyre of thyne hand. Nevertheless / if thou geue warnynge unto the wicked / and he yet forsake not his ungodlynes: then shall he dye in his awne wickednes: but thou hast discharged thy soule.

Now if a righteous man go fro his righteousness / and do the thyngs that is euell: I wyll laye a stonbyng blocke before hym / & he shall dye / because thou hast not geue him warnynge: yee dye shall be in his awne synne / so that the vertue / which he dyd before / shall not be thought vpon: but his bloude wyll I requyre of thyne hande.

Nevertheless / if thou exhortest the righteous / that he synne not / & so the righteous do not synne: then shall he lyue / because he hath receaved thy warnynge / and thou hast discharged thy soule. And there came a hand of the Lord vpon me / and he sayde unto me: Stande vp / and go into the felde / that I may there talke with the.

So when I had risen vp / and gone forth into the felde: Beholde / the glory of the Lord stode there / lyke as I sawe it also / by the water of Cobar.

When fell I downe vpon my face / and the sprete came in to me / which set me vp vpon my feete / & sayde thus unto me: Go thy waye / and sparre thy self in thyne house. Beholde / (thou sonne of man) there shall chaynes be brought for the / to bynde the withall / so that thou shalt not escape out of them. And I wyll make thy tunge cleue to the rofe of thy mouth / that thou shalt be domme / and not be as a chylder with them: for it is an obdurate householde.

But when I speake unto the / then open thy mouth / and saye: Thus sayeth the Lord God: who so heareth / let hym heare: who so wyll not / let hym leaue: for it is an obdurate householde.

And when I speake unto the / then open thy mouth / and saye: Thus sayeth the Lord God: who so heareth / let hym heare: who so wyll not / let hym leaue: for it is an obdurate householde.

But when I speake unto the / then open thy mouth / and saye: Thus sayeth the Lord God: who so heareth / let hym heare: who so wyll not / let hym leaue: for it is an obdurate householde.

But when I speake unto the / then open thy mouth / and saye: Thus sayeth the Lord God: who so heareth / let hym heare: who so wyll not / let hym leaue: for it is an obdurate householde.

The besyge of the cite of Jerusalem is synnys. The longe continuance of the captiuitie of Israel. An hunger is prophesied to come in the captiuitie.

Chapter.

In some of man: take a tyll stone / and laye it before the / and describe vpon it the cite of Jerusalem / how it is besyged / how bulwarkes and stronge dyches are grauen on every syde of it: describe also tentes / and an hood of men rounde aboute it.

Moreover / take an yron pane / and set it betwixt the and the cite / in steade of an yron wall. Then set thy face toward it / besyge it / and laye ordynance agaynst it / to wyne it. This shalbe a token vnto the house of Israel: But thou shalt slepe vpon thy left syde / and laye the arme of the house of Israel vpon the. Certayne dayes appoynted / thou shalt slepe vpon that syde / and beare their synnes. Nevertheless / I wyll appoynte the a tyme (to put of their synnes) & the nombre of the dayes: the hundredth and .xx. dayes must thou beare the wickednesse of the house of Israel. Why thou hast fulfilled these dayes / yee domme agayne / and slepe vpon thy right syde. .xl. dayes / and beare the synnes of the house of Iuda.

I daye for a yere / a daye (I saye) for a yere / wyll I euer laye vpon the. Therefore set now thy face agaynst that besyged Jerusalem / and discouer thyne arme / that thou mayest prophesye agaynst it.

Beholde / I wyll laye chaynes vpon the / that thou shalt not turne the fro me one syde to another / tyll thou hast ended the dayes of thy sege.

Wherefore / take vnto the wheate / barley beanes / growell seede / Millitum and fitches: and put these together in a basket / and make the loaves of bzed therof / accordynge to the nombre of the dayes that thou must lye vpon thy syde: that thou mayest haue bzed to eate / for the hundredth and .xx. dayes.

And the meate that thou eatest / shall haue a certayne wayght appoynted: namely two tyll scales euery daye. This appoynted meate shalt thou eate dayly / from the begynnyng to the ende.

Thou shalt dryncke also a certayne measure of water: namely the fyfte parte of an hin shalt thou dryncke dayly from the begynnyng vnto the ende. Barly cakes shalt thou eate / yet shalt thou fynd strawe them ouer with mansdoo / that they maye fete. And with that sayde the Lord: Euen thus shall the chyldren of Israel eate their defiled bzed in the myddest of the Gentyles / amonge whom I wyll scatere them.

Thou shalt dryncke also a certayne measure of water: namely the fyfte parte of an hin shalt thou dryncke dayly from the begynnyng vnto the ende. Barly cakes shalt thou eate / yet shalt thou fynd strawe them ouer with mansdoo / that they maye fete. And with that sayde the Lord: Euen thus shall the chyldren of Israel eate their defiled bzed in the myddest of the Gentyles / amonge whom I wyll scatere them.

Thou shalt dryncke also a certayne measure of water: namely the fyfte parte of an hin shalt thou dryncke dayly from the begynnyng vnto the ende. Barly cakes shalt thou eate / yet shalt thou fynd strawe them ouer with mansdoo / that they maye fete. And with that sayde the Lord: Euen thus shall the chyldren of Israel eate their defiled bzed in the myddest of the Gentyles / amonge whom I wyll scatere them.

Then sayde I: Oh Lord God. Beholde / my soule was yet neuer flayed: for fro my youth vnto this houre. I did neuer eate of a deere carcase / or of that which was slayne of wyde beastes / neither cam there euer any vncleane flesh in my mouth.

Where vnto he answered me / and sayde: Well than / I wyll graunte to take cowes donge / for the donge of a man / and to strake the bzed ouer with all / before them.

And he sayde vnto me: Beholde thou sonne of man / I wyll mynne the all the prouisyon of bzed in Jerusalem / so that they shall wepe their bzed / and eate it with scarcenesse. But as for water / they shall haue a very litle measure therof / to dryncke. And when they haue no more bzedner water / one shall be destroyed with another / and sampe awaye for their wickednesse.

The rebelle of the heares / by which is signified the destruction of the people. The causes of the anger of God toward the people. The Lord discouereth the rebelle of the heares.

Chapter.

Thou sonne of man / take the then a sharpe knyfe / namely / a rasure. Callye it / & haue the heare of thy head and beard: Then take a scales & the waighe / & drynde the heare a sinder. And burne the thirde parte therof in the fyre in the myddest of the cite / & cut the other thirde parte in peces with a knyfe. As for the thirde parte that remayneth / cast it in the wynde / & then shewe I bare knyfe.

Yet afterwarde take a tyll of the same / and drynde it in thy cote lappe. Then take a curtyse of it / and cast it in the myddest of the fyre: & burne it in the fyre. Out of the same fyre shall there goo a flame / vpon the whole house of Israel.

Moreover / thus sayde the Lord God: This same is Jerusalem. I sett her in the myddest of the heathen & nations: that are rounde aboute her / but she hath defyled my iudgements more then the Gentiles them selues / & broken my commaundementes more then I nacpons / that lye rounde aboute her: for they haue cast out myne ordynances / & not walched in my lawes. Therefore / thus sayeth the Lord God: for so much as ye with youre wickednesse faire excede the heathen / that dwell rounde aboute you / (for ye haue not walched in my lawes / neither haue ye kepte myne ordynances) therefore thus sayeth the Lord God.

I wyll also come vpon the / for in the myddest of the wyll I lye in iudgment / in the sight of the heathen / & wyll handle the of such a fashion / as I neuer dyd before / and as I neuer will do from that tyme forth / and that because of all thyne abominacions / for in the fathers shall be sayne to eate their awne Connes / & I shall their awne fathers. Soch a curte wyll I kepe in the / & the whole remnant wyll I scatere in to all the myndes.

Wherefore as truly as I lyue (sayeth the Lord God) seing thou hast despised my sanctuary / with all maner of abominacions / & id all thy shamefull offences: for this cause wyll I also destroye the. Myne eye shall not ouer se the / neither wyll I spare the.

One thirde parte within the / shall dye of the pestilence and of hunger: Another thirde parte shall be slayne downe rounde aboute the / with a sword: The other thirde parte I remayneth / wyll I scatere abroad towards all the myndes / and drawe out the sword after them. Thus I wyll perforce my indignacion / & set my wrath agaynst them / and ease my selfe. So that when I haue fulfilled myne anger agaynst the / they shall knowe that I am the Lord / which with a feruent getousy haue spoken it. Moreover I wyll make the waste and abhorred / before all the heathen that dwell aboute the / & in the sight of all them / that go by the: so that when I purrith the in my wrath / in myne anger / & with a plague of my whote displeasure: thou shalt be a very abominacion / & a gasping & wondrynge blocke / amonge the heathen that lye aboute the. Callye I the Lord haue spoken it / and it shall come to passe / when I shute amonge them the perious daries of hunger / which shalbe but death: Yee therefore shall I shute them / because I wyll destroye you. I will increase hunger / & mynne all the prouisyon of bzed amonge you.

Plagues and mytery wyll I sende you / yee & wyde beastes also to destroye you. Pestilence and bloudshedynge shall come vpon you / and the sword wyll I bringe ouer you. Euen I the Lord haue sayde it.

It sheweth that the people shalbe plagued for the synne of idolatrie. The prophesie of the repentance of the remnant of the people / and their deliuerance. The destruction of the freward is prophesied.

Chapter.

Beholde the wordes of the Lord came vnto me / sayynge: Thou sonne of man / turne thy face to the mountaynes of Israel: that thou mayest prophesye vnto them / & saye: Heare the wordes of the Lord God / O ye mountaynes of Israel: thus hath the Lord God spoken to the mountaynes / hills / valleys and dales.

Beholde / I wyll bringe a sword ouer you / & destroye youre hye places: I will cast downe youre altars / & breake downe youre temples. Your slayne men wyll I laye before youre goddes / and the deere carcasses of the chyldren of Israel wyll I cast before their images / your bones will I destroye rounde aboute your altars / and dwelling places.

28 The cyties shall be desolate / the hyllchappels layed waste: your altars destroyed / and broken: your goddes cast downe / and taken awaye / your temples layde rauē wth the ground / your awne wozches cleane scoted oute.

Baruch. 15. 2

Your slaynemen shall lye amonge you / that ye maye learne to knowe / how that I am the Lorde. Those that amonge you haue escaped the swearde / wyl I leaue amonge the Gentyles / for I wyl scattere you amonge the nacyōs. And they that escape from you / shall chynke vpon me amonge the Heathē / where they shall be in captiuite.

As for that whorish & vnfaithfull herte of thes / wherewith they runne awaye from me / I wyl bryake it: yee and put oute those eyes of thes / that committe fornicacyon wth their tooles.

Then shall they be ashamed / and displeased wth their selues / for the wyckednesses and abhominacyōs / which they haue done: and shall learne to knowe / how that it is not in bayne / that I the Lorde spake / to brynge soch misery vpon them.

The Lorde sayde mozeouer vnto me: Smyte thyne handes together / and stampe wth thy fete / and saye: woe worth all the abhominacions and wickednesses of the house of Israel / for because of them / they shall perish wth the swearde / wth hōger and wth pestilence. Who so is farre of / shall dye of the pestilence: he that is nye at hande / shall perish wth the swearde: and the other that are besieged / shall dye of hunger.

Thus wyl I satysfy my wrath wth displeasure vpon them. And so shall ye learne to knowe / that I am the Lorde / when your slaynemen lye amonge your goddes / and aboute your altars: vpon all hye hylls & toppes of mountaynes / amonge ali grene trees / amonge all thycke okes: euen in the places / where they dyd sacrifice to all their gods. I wyl stretch myne hande oute vpon them / and wyl make the lande waste: so that it shall lye desolate and boyde / from the wisdomme of Debilathah forth / thowto all their habitacyōs: to learne the for to knowe / that I am the Lorde.

The ende of all the lande of Israel shall sodenly come. The cause of the destruction thereof. The prophete is commaunded to shewe & summe of the euell that are at hande.

The. viij. Chapter.

The worde of the Lorde came vnto I me on this maner: The I call / O thou sonne of man. Thus sayeth the Lorde God vnto the lande of Israel: The ende cometh / yee herely the ende cometh vpon all the four corners of the earth.

But now shall the ende come vpon the: for I wyl sende my wrath vpon the / & wyl punish the: accordyng to thy wayes / and rewarde & after all thy abhominacyōs. Myne eye shall not ouersee the / neither will I spare the: but rewarde & accordyng to thy wayes / and declare thy abhominacyōs. When shall ye knowe / that I am the Lorde.

Thus sayeth the Lorde God: Beholde / one mysery and plage shall come after another: the ende is here. The ende (I saye) that wyrteth for the / is come all ready / the houre is come agaynst the / that dwellest in & lade. The tyme is at hande / the daye of ledecyō is hard by / and no glad tydynges vpon the mountaynes. Therfore / I wyl shortly poure out my foze displeasure ouer the / and fulfill my wrath vpon the. I wyl iudge the after thy wayes / and recompence the all thy abhominacyōs.

The tyme is at hande / the daye of ledecyō is hard by / and no glad tydynges vpon the mountaynes. Therfore / I wyl shortly poure out my foze displeasure ouer the / and fulfill my wrath vpon the. I wyl iudge the after thy wayes / and recompence the all thy abhominacyōs.

Myne eye shall not ouersee the / neither will I spare the: but rewarde the after thy wayes / and shewe thy abhominacions / to learne you for to knowe / how that I am the Lorde that smyteth. Beholde / the daye is here / & daye is come / the houre is runne out / the rodde flozeth / wylfulnesse wareth grene / malicious violence is growne by / & the vngodly warden to a staf. Yet shall there be no complaunte be made for them / ner for the trouble that shall come of these thynges.

The tyme cometh / the daye d / a weth nre: who so byeth / lett hym not reioyce: he that selleth / lett hym not be soyy: for why. Trouble shall come in the myddell of all rest: so that the seller shall not come agayne to the byer / for neither of them both shall lye. For the biston shall come so greatly ouer all / that it shall not be hyndered: no man also wth his wickednesse shall be able to saue his awne lyfe. The trompettes shall ye blowe / and make you all ready / but no man shall goo to the battel / for I am wth all the whole multitude.

The swearde shall be without / pestilence & hunger wthyn: so that who so is in the felde / shall be slayne wth the swearde: and he that is in the cytie / shall perish wth hunger and pestilence.

And soch as escape and fle from amonge them / shall be vpon the hylls / lyke as the boues in the felde: every one shall be afayed / because of his awne wickednesse.

An apperance of the similitude of God. Ezechiel is brought vnto Jerusalem in the spyre. The Lorde sheweth the Idolatryes of the house of Israel and cheafely of the Priestes.

The. iij. Chapter.

It happened / that in & sixte yere the fift daye of the sixte moneth I sat in my house / & the Lordes of the counsell of Iuda wth me: and the hande of the Lorde God fell euen there vpon me. And as I looked by / I saw as it were a lychnesse of fyre fro his loynes downe ward / and from his loynes bywarde it shyned maruelous cleare. This similitude stred out an hande / & toke me by the heare of my head / & the spyre lyft me by betwixte heauē & earth: & God brought me in a byson to Jerusalem / into the entre of the inner porte & lyeth toward & north: there stode an ymage / wth whom he & hath all thynges in his power / wth very wycked.

And beholde / the gloze of the God of Israel was in the same place: eue as I had sene it afore in the felde. And he sayde vnto me: Thou sonne of man / lyft up thyne eyes / & beholde: thou shalt see greater abhominacyōs. And with that brought he me to the court betwene the ingate: & when I looked / beholde / there was an hole in & wall. When sayde he vnto me: Thou sonne of man / begge thowto & wall. And when I begged thowto & wall / beholde / there was a doze. And he sayde vnto me: So thy waye in / & loke what wycked abhominacyōs they do there. So I wente in / & saw: & beholde / there were al maner ymages of wyckednes & bestes / all doles & abhominacyōs that place was holp / & therein of the house of Israel paynted euery one rounde aboute the wall. There stode also befoze the ymages. Ixx. lordes of the colicell of the house of Israel: & in the myddell of them stode Jaazaniab the sonne of Saphan: And euery one of the had a censoure in his hande / and out of the incense / there went a smoke / as it had bene a cloude. When sayde he vnto me: Thou sonne of man / ha thou sene what the Senatoures of the house of Israel do secretly / euery one in his chambze: for they haue sayde: Cusly / & Lorde scyth vs not / the Lorde is vengeful: regardeth not the woꝝde. And he sayde vnto me: Turne the yet agayne / and thou shalt see the grete abhominacyōs that they do. And he brought me to the doze of the porte of the Lordes house / toward & north: and beholde / there sat women mournynge for & Chamus. When sayde he vnto me: Hast thou sene this / thou sonne of man? Turne & thou shalt see yet greater abhominacyōs. And so he brought me into the ward court of the Lordes house: & beholde at the porte of the Lordes house / betwixte & foze entree & the aulter / there were fyue and twenty men / that turned their backs vpon the temple of the Lorde / & their faces toward the east / & these woꝝdapped the sonne. And he sayde vnto me: Hast thou sene this / thou sonne of man? Thynketh the house of Israel / that it is but a trylle / to do these abhominacyōs.

The byl ston was wal led rounde about that wall whych copat fro it was cald the outwarde wall: the temple was myne eyes toward the north / and beholde: there another besyde the porte northwarde / there was an wall / that was aulter made vnto the ymage of promocacyō called the in in the very entrynng in. And he sayde further whych althou moze vnto me: Thou sonne of mā / seist thou whiche it were out what these do? Seist thou the grete abhominacyōs that the house of Israel comyette / yet was in this place: which ought not to be done in it inwarde fro my Sanctuary: But turne the aboute / and thou shalt see yet greater abhominacyōs. Beholde the space betwene the ingate: & when I looked / beholde / there was an hole in & wall. When sayde he vnto me: Thou sonne of mā / begge thowto & wall. And when I begged thowto & wall / beholde / there was a doze. And he sayde vnto me: So thy waye in / & loke what wycked abhominacyōs they do there. So I wente in / & saw: & beholde / there were al maner ymages of wyckednes & bestes / all doles & abhominacyōs that place was holp / & therein of the house of Israel paynted euery one rounde aboute the wall. both in myrth & in weeping. Shoulde they fill the lande full of weeping? & undertake to prouoke me into anger? Yee & purpose to cast by their noles vpon me: Therefore will I also make to wepe some thinge in my wrothful displeasure/ by craft. For this I made to wepe when I sawe the women also bewailing their sepulture: I not heare them.

The destruction of Iherusalem: & the conuersion of the rhythmes. They that shall be saved are marred. They that are vnmarched are layne. A prophete of the destruction of the people.

The ix. Chapter.

I cryed also with a loude voyce in myne eares/ saying: Come hert ye rulers of the cyte/ every man with his weaponed hande to the slaughter. Then came there fyve men out of the strete of the upper porte toward the north/ & euerie man a weapon in his hande to the slaughter. There was one amongest them/ that had on hym a linnen rayment/ & a wyrters pynckhoine by his syde.

These wente in/ & stode besyde the brazen altare: for the glory of the Lorde was gone awaye from the Cherub/ & was come downe to the threholde of the house/ & he called the man that had the linnen rayment vpon him/ & the wyrters pynckhoine by his syde/ & the Lorde sayde vnto him: Go thy waye thow to the cyte of Iherusalem/ & set thys marche. Thou vpon the foreheades of the / & mourne & are sope for all the abhominacions/ that be done therein. And to the other/ he sayde that I myght heare: So ye after hym thow to the cyte/ & saye/ ouerle none/ spare none: kill & destroye both olde men & yonge/ maydes/ chyldezen/ and wyues.

But as for those / & haue this marche: Thou vpon them: that ye touch them not/ & begynne at my Sanctuary. Then they began at the elders/ which were in the temple/ for he had sayde vnto the: When ye haue destroyed the temple/ & fylled the court with the clayne/ then go your waye forth. So they wente out/ & stode downe thow to the cyte. Now when they had done the slaughter/ and I yet escaped: I fell downe vpon my face/ & cryed/ sayinge: O Lorde/ wilt thou then destroye all the residue of Israel/ in thys soze displeasure/ that thou hast poured vpon Iherusalem? Then sayde he vnto me: The wickednesse of the house of Israel & Iuda is very greate: so that the lande is full of bloude/ & the cyte full of iniquity: for they saye: With the Lord regardeth not the earth/ he seyth vs not. Therefore will I vpon myne eye shall not ouerle the/ neither will I spare the/ but will recompense their wickednesse vpon their heades. And beholde/ the man I had the linnen rayment vpon him/ & the wyrters pynckhoine by his syde: tolde all the matter how it happened/ & sayde: Lorde/ as thou hast commaunded me/ so haue I done.

Of the man that toke whote burning coles oute of the myde of the wheles & of the Cherubyns: to ben of the burning of Iherusalem. A reherfall of the wylde of the wheles/ of the beastes/ & of the Cherubyns.

The x. Chapter.

As I looked/ beholde in the fir: I sawe a man/ & he was aboute the Cherubyns: there appeared a similitude of a stole of Saphir vpon them. Then sayde he that sat therein/ to hym that had the linnen rayment vpon him: Crepe in betwene the wheles that are vnder the Cherubyns/ & take thynne hande full of boate coles out from betwene the Cherubyns/ & cast them ouer the cyte. And he crepte in/ that I myght see.

Now the Cherubyns stode vpon the right syde of the house/ when the man wente in/ & the cloude fylled the innermost court. But the glory of the Lorde remoued fro the Cherubyns/ and came vpon the threholde of the house: so that the temple was full of cloude/ and the court was full of the syne of the Lordes glory. Yee & the sounde of the Cherubyns wynges was heard into the fore court/ lyke as it had bene the voyce of the almyghty God/ when he speaketh. Now when he had bydden the man that was clothed in linnen/ to go and take the boate coles from the myddest of the wheles/ which were vnder the Cherubyns: he wente & stode besyde the wheles. Then he one Cherub reached forth his hande from vnder the Cherubyns/ vnto the fyre that was betwene the Cherubyns/ and toke therof/ & gaue it vnto hym that had on the linnen rayment in his hande: which toke it/ & went out. And vnder the wynges of the Cherubyns/ there appeared the lychnesse of a mans hande: I sawe also foure wheles besyde the Cherubyns/ so that by euery Cherub there stode a whele. And the wheles were (so loke vpon) after the fashion of the precious stone of Charis: yet (vnto the syght) were they ashyoned & lyke/ as if one whele had bene in another.

When they wente forth/ they wente all foure together/ not turning aboute in their goinge: But where the fyre wente/ theyther wente they after also/ so that they turned not aboute in their going. Their whole bodies/ their backs/ their handes & wynges/ yee and the wheles also/ were all full of eyes rounde aboute them all foure. And I hearde hym call the wheles/ & saye: (that is) a roude boule. Every one of them had foure faces/ so that that the one face was the face of a Cherub/ the seconde of a man/ the thyrde of a lyon/ the fourth of an Aegle/ & they were lyfted vp aboue. This is the beast/ that I sawe at the water of Cobar. Now when the Cherubyns wente/ the wheles wente with them/ & wher the Cherubyns stode their wynges to lyft them selues bywarde/ & wheles remayned not behynde/ but were with them also. Shortly/ wher they stode/ these stode also: And wher they were lyft vp/ the wheles were lyft vp also with them/ for the sprete of lyfe was in the wheles.

Then the glory of the Lorde was lyft vp from the threholde of the temple/ & remayned vpon the Cherubyns: And the Cherubyns flatched with their wynges/ & lyft the selues vp from the earth: so that I sawe when they went/ and the wheles with them. And they stode at the east syde of the porte that is in the house of the Lorde. So the glory of the Lorde was vpon them. This is the beast that I sawe vnder the God of Israel/ by the water of Cobar. And I perceyued/ & it was the Cherubyns. Every one had foure faces/ and euery one foure wynges/ & vnder their wynges/ as it were mens handes. Now the figure of their faces was/ euery as I had sene them/ by the water of Cobar/ and so was the countenance of them: euery one in his goinge wente straight forwarde.

Who they were that seduced the people of Israel. Agaynst the he prophete cleth/ the wynges the how they shal be dysparpled abroad. The remynge of the bert comyngh of God/ otherwys can we not walke in his commaundmentes. He threatheneth them that leane vnto their awne counceyles.

The xi. Chapter.

I dreuet/ the sprete of the Lorde lyft me vp/ & brought me vnto the east porte of the Lodes house. And beholde/ there were fyve men vnder the doze amonge whom I sawe Iasaniah the sonne of Azur/ and Pheltiah the sonne of Bananah/ & rulers of the people. Then sayde the Lorde vnto me: Thou sonne of man/ these men ymagyn my selfe/ and a wyched coucel take they in this cite/ saying: full/ there is no destruction at hande/ let vs buyde houses: this Ierusalem is the cauldron/ & we be the flesh. Therefore shalt thou prophete vnto the/ yee prophete shalt thou vnto them/ O sonne of man. And with that fell the sprete of the Lorde vpon me/ & sayde vnto me: Speake/ thus sayeth the Lorde: On this manner haue ye spoken/ O ye house of Israel/ and I knowe the ymaginacions of your hertes. Many one haue ye mischured in this cyte/ and filled the stretes full of the clayne. Therefore/ thus sayeth the Lorde

God: The dayne men that ye haue layed on the grounde in thys cyte/ are the flesh/ and this cyte is the cauldron: But I will brynge you out of it: ye haue drawe out the sword/ & euen so will I also brynge a swerde ouer you/ sayeth the Lorde God. I will brynge you out of thys cyte and deliuer you into your enemyes hande/ and will condempne you. Ye shall be slayne in all the coastes of Israel/ I will be auenged of you: to seme you for to knowe/ that I am the Lorde. This cyte shall not be your cauldron/ neither shall ye be the flesh therein: but in the coastes of Israel will I punyssh you/ that ye maye knowe/ that I am the Lorde: in whose commaundmentes ye haue not walched/ ney kepte his lawes: but haue done after the customes of the heathen/ that ye vounde aboute you.

Now wher I preached/ Pheltiah the sonne of Bananah dyed. Then fell I downe vpon my face/ and cryed with a loude voyce: O Lorde God/ wylt thou then utterly destroye all the remnant in Israel? And to the voyde of the Lorde came to me on this manner: thou sonne of man/ thy brethren/ thy kynnesfolke/ and the whole house of Iuda/ which dwell at Ierusalem/ saye: They be gone farre fro the Lord/ but the lande is geue vs in possession. Therefore tell them/ thus sayeth the Lorde God: I will sende you farre of amonge the Gentyles/ and scatere you amonge the nacys/ & I will halowe you but a litle/ in the landes where ye shall come. Tell them also/ thus sayeth the Lorde God: I will gather you agayne out of the nacys/ and brynge you from the countreys where ye be scatred/ and will geue you the lande of Israel agayne: & thither shall ye come. And as for all impietmentes/ and all your abhominacions/ I will take them awaye.

And I will geue you one hert/ and I will plante a newe sprete within your bowels. That stony herte will I take out of your body/ & geue you a fleshy herte: & ye maye walke in my commaundmentes/ & kepe myne ordynances/ & do them: that ye maye be my people/ and I your God. But loke whose hertes are dysposed to folowe their abhominacions & wyched lyuynge: those mens dedes will I brynge vpon their awne heades/ sayeth the Lorde God. After thys dyd the Cherubyns lyft vp their wynges/ & the wheles wente with them/ and the glory of the Lorde was vpon them. So the glory of the Lorde wente vpon the myddest of the cite/ & stode vpon the mount of the cite towarde the east. But the wynde toke me vp/ & in a blyss (which came by the sprete of God) it brought me agayne in to Caldea amonge the presoners. Then I wylson I had sene/

The .xiiij. Chapter.

The word of the Lord came unto me, saying: Thou sonne of man, thou dwellest in the myddest of a strowarde householde: whyche haue eyes to se / and yet se not: eares haue they to heare / & yet heare they not: for they are an obstinate householde. Therefore (thou sonne of man) make thy gerte redy to sit / and go forth by sayre dape lycht / that they may se. Yee euen in their lycht shalt thou go from thy place to another place: yf peradventure they will conside / that they be an vnoberdyent householde. Thy gerte that thou hast made redy to lye withall / shalt thou beare out by sayre dape lycht / that they may se: and thou thy self shalt go forth also at euen in their lycht / as a man doth when he sitteth. Wygge thou the wall / that they may se / & beare thou to it the same thing / & thou shalt go forth in the darcke. Wyde thy face & thou se not the earth / for I haue made the a strowarde householde. Now as the Lord commaunded me, so I dyd: the gerte & I had made redy / brought I out by dape. At euen I brake downe an hole thow the wall with my hande: & when it was darcke / I toke the gerte by my shoulders / and bare them out in their lycht.

And in the morning / came the word of the Lord unto me / saying: Thou sonne of man / yf Israel & strowarde householde as he the / and saye: what doest thou there? Then tell the: thus sayeth the Lord God: This punishment toucheth the these rulers at Jerusalem / & all the house of Israel / that dwell amonge them: Tell them: I am your stroward householde as I haue done / so shall it happen unto you: I shall also / and go into captivity. The word that is amonge you / shall lade his shoulders in the darcke / & get him away. He shall brake downe the wall / to carpe thus the thow: He shall couer his face / that he se not the ground / with his eyes. My lycht will I speide out upon him / & catch him in my net / & carry him to Babylon / in the lande of the Caldees: whyche he shall not se / & yet shall he dye there. As for all his helpers / & all his holtes / that be about him / I will leaue the towarde all the wyndes / & drawe out a swerde after them. So when I haue scattered them amonge the heathen / and strowed them in the landes / they shall knowe / that I am the Lord. But I will leaue a litle nombre of the fro the swerde / hunger / and pestilence: to tell all their abominacions amonge the Heathen / where they come: that they may know / how that I am the Lord.

The word of the Lord came unto me saying: Thou sonne of man: with a fearfull tremblinge shalt thou eate thy bread / with carefullnesse & sorrowe shalt thou drynke thy water. And unto the people of the lande / speake thou on this manner: Thus sayeth the Lord God / to them that dwell in Jerusalem / & to the lande of Israel: Ye shall eate your bread in sorrowe / & drynke your water with heynesse: Yee the lande with fulnesse therof shall be layde waste / for the wickednesse of the that dwell therein. And the cyties that now be well occupied / shall be voyde / and the lande desolate: that ye may know / how that I am the Lord.

Yet came the word of the Lord unto me / saying: Thou sonne of man / what manner of byword is that / which ye vse in the lande of Israel / saying: Cuth / syng that the dayes are so slacke in commynge / all the bysons are of none effecte: Tell them therefore / thus sayeth the Lord God: I will make the byword to cease / so that it shall nomore be comenly vsed in Israel.

But saye this unto them: The dayes are at hande / that every thyng which hath bene prophesied / shall be fulfilled. There shall no byson be in bayne / neither any prophesie laye amonge the chyldren of Israel: For it is I the Lord / that speake it: & what soeuer I the Lord speake / it shall be performed / and not be slacke in commynge.

Yee euen in your dayes / & ye strowarde householde / shall I dreple some thyng / and byng it to passe / sayeth the Lord God. And the word of the Lord came unto me saying: Beholde / thou sonne of man: The house of Israel saye in this manner: Cuth as for the vision that he hath sene / it will be many dayes / or it come to passe: Is it farr of yet / & thyng that he prophesied. Therefore saye unto them: Thus sayeth the Lord God: All my wordes shall nomore be slacke: Loke what I speake / & same shall come to passe / sayeth the Lord.

¶ The prophete intending to speake of the abhominacions of Ierusalem doth first shewe the benefices of God toward it. Ierusalem is tripossed of vnbindinges; for her fornication with Idoles he willifie the wickednes of other people in charyson of the synnes of Ierusalem. The cause of the abhominacions in to which the synners are like. After is promysed to the repentance.

thy bzodell houses: they shall strype the out of thy clothes / all thy saye & beutifull Jewels shall they take from the / so let the yet naked & bare: yee they shall bringe the come people upon the / which shall stonke & a flaye the downe wth their sweardes. They shall burne by thy houses / and punyssh the in the syght of many women. Thus will I make thy whoredome to cease / so that thou shalt geue out no mo rewarde.

Shulde I make my wraoth to be still / take my gelously from the / be content / & nomoze to be dyspleased: seing thou remembrest not the dayes of thy youth / but hast prouoked me to wraoth in all these thynges? Beholde therfore / I will bringe thyne awne wayes byd thyne heade / sayeth the Lorde God: how be it / I neuer dyd vnto the / accordyng to thy wyckednesse & all thy abhomyacions. Beholde / all they that vse comen prouerbes / shall vse this prouerbe also agaynst & : soch a mother / soch a daughter.

Ezech. xlii. a

Thou art euen thy mothers awne daughter / that hath cast of hir housband & hir children: Yee thou art the syster of thy sisters / which forsoke their husbands & their children. Your mother is a Cethye / and youre father an Amoyte. Thyne eldest syster is Samaria / she and her daughters that dwell upon thy left hande.

Gene. xlii. b

But thy ydgest sister that dwelleth on thy ryght hande / is Sodoma & her daughters. Yee hast thou not walked after their wayes / ner done after their abhomyacions: but in all thy wayes thou hast bene moze corrupte then they. As truly as I lyue / sayeth & Lorde God: Sodoma thy sister & her daughters / hath not done so euell / as thou & thy daughters. Beholde / the synnes of thy sister Sodoma were these: Pryde / fulnesse of meate / aboundaunce & Tollesse: these thynges had she & hir daughters. Besydes that / they reached not their hande to the poore & neddy / but were proude / and byd abhomynable thynges before me: therfore I toke them awaye / whē I had. sene it. Nether hath Samaria done half of thy synnes / yee thou hast exceded them in wyckednesse: In so much that in comparyson of all the abhomyacions whych thou hast done / thou hast made thy sisters good women.

Gene. xxi. c
Jere. li. c

As for their captiuite / namely the captiuite of Sodoma & her daughters: the captiuite of Samaria and her daughters: I will bringe them agayne / so will I also bringe agayne thy captiuite amonge the: that thou mayest take thyne awne confusion byd the / and be ashamed of all that thou hast done / & to comforte them. Thus thy sisters (namely) Sodoma & her daughters: Samaria and her daughters to thy self and thy daughters / shall be brought agayne to youre olde estate. When thou wast in thy pryde / & before thy wyckednesse came to lycht: thou woldest not heare speake of thy syster Sodoma / vntill the tyme that the Synas with all their townes / & the Phylipynes with all that ye round aboute them / brought the to shame & confusion: that thou myghtest heare thyne awne felthynes & abhominacyō / sayeth the Lorde.

For thus sayeth the Lorde God: I shulde (by ryght) deale wth the / as thou hast done. Thou hast despyled the ooth / & broken the couenaunte. Neuerthelesse / I will remembre the couenaunt that I made wth the in thy youth / in so much & it shall be an euertasting couenaunt: so that thou also remembre thy wayes / & be ashamed of the: then shalt thou receaue of me thy elder & yonger sisters / whō I will make thy daughters / and that besyde thy couenaunt. And so I will renew my couenaunt wth the / that thou mayest knowe that I am the Lorde: & thou mayest thinke upon it / be ashamed / and excuse thine awne confusion nomoze: when I haue forgiven the / all & thou hast done / sayeth & Lorde God.

Ezech. li. b

The parable of the two Eagles signifieth that Zedekiah / which contrarye to his othe had forsaken the frendshipp of Babuchodonosor / turned him self to the kynge of Egypt / and therfore perished. An expolitiō of the parable. A prophete of Chusa.

The xlii. Chapter.

The worde of the Lorde came vnto me / sayinge: Thou sonne of man: put forth a darcke speake / and a parable / vnto the house of Israel / & say: Thus sayeth the Lorde God: There came a great Eagle with greete wynges / yee wth myghty longe wynges / and full of fethers of dyuerse colours / bypon the mount of Libanus / & toke a bzaunch from a Cedre tree / & brake of the topp of his twygge / & carryed it into the lande of Canaan / & set it in a cytt of marchantes. He toke also a bzaunch of the lande / & platted it in a frutesfull ground / he brought it vnto greete waters / & set it as a wellpe tree therby. Then dyd it growe / & was a greete bynestocke / but lowe by the ground: thus there came of it a byne / and it brought forth blossomes / & spred out bzaunches. But there was another Eagle / a great one / whych had greete wynges & many fethers: & beholde / the rotes of this byne had an hunger after him / & spred out his bzaunches towardes him / to water his frutes: Neuerthelesse it was planted vpon a good ground besyde greete waters: so that (by reason) it shulde haue brought out bzaunches & frute / & haue bene a goodly byne. Speake thou therfore / thus sayeth the Lorde God: Shall this byne prosper? shall not his rotes be plucked out / oute his frute be bzokē of / his grene bzaunches withere & fade awaye: yee without ether strōg armē or many people / shall it be plucked by by pōtes. Beholde / it was planted: shall it prosper therfore. Shall it not be dyed by and withered / yee euen in the cuttinge out of his blossomes / as soone as the east wynde bloweth?

Wherefore / & worde of & Lorde came vnto me sayinge: Speake to that freward householder: knowe ye not / what these thynges do synnyfyr? Tell them: Beholde / the kynge of Babylon came to Jerusalem / and toke the kynge and his Prynces / and ledde them to Babylon.

He toke of the kynges seide / and made a couenaunt wth hym / and toke an othe of hym: & he Prynces of the lande toke he wth hym also / that the lande myghte be holden in subieccyō / and not to rebelle / but kepe the couenaunt / and fulfyll it. But he fell from hym / & sent his Embassytours in to Egypt / that he myght haue horses and moche people. Shulde that prosper? Shulde he be kepte safe / that doth such thynges? Or shuld he escape / that breaketh his couenaunt? As truly as I lyue / sayeth the Lorde God: He shall dye at Babylon / in the place where the kynge dwelleth / that made him King: whose othe he hath despyled / and whose couenaunt he hath broken. Nether shall Pharaō wth his greete host and multitude of people / maynteyne him in the warre: when they call by byches / and let by bulwozhes to destroye moche people. For seing he hath despyled the othe / and broken the couenaunt (where as he yet gaue his hande therupon) and done all these thynges / he shall not escape.

Wherefore thus sayeth the Lorde God: As truly as I lyue / I will bringe myne othe that he hath despyled / and my couenaunt that he hath broken / bypon his awne head. I will cast mynet about him / and catch hym in my payne. To Babylon will I carrye him / there will I punnysh hym / because of the greete offence that he made me. As for those that sle frō hym out of the host / they shall be slayne wth the swearde. The residue shall be scatred to wards all the wyndes: and ye shall knowe / that I the Lorde haue spoken it.

Thus sayeth the Lorde God: I will also take a bzaunch from an hye Cedre tree / & will set it / & take the bypermost twygge / that yet is but tendre / and plante it vpon an hye hyll: Namely / bypon the hye hyll of Sion / will I plante it: that it maye bringe forth twygges / and geue frute / and be a greete Cedre tree: so that all maner of foules maye byde in it / and make their nestes vnder the shadowe of his bzaunches.

And all the trees of the seide shall knowe that I the Lorde haue brought downe the hye tree / and lett the lowe tree by: that I haue dyed by the grene tree / and made the drye tree to flopp: Euen I the Lorde that spake it / haue also brought it to passe.

The sheweth that every man shall beare his awne spune. To hym that amendeth / is saluacyō promysed. Death is prophesied to the ryghtwysse / whych turneth backe from the ryght waye.

The xlii. Chapter.

The worde of the Lorde came vnto me / on this maner: what mane ye by this comen prouerbe / that ye vse in the lād of Israel / sayinge: The fathers haue eaten soure grapes / & the chyldrens teeth are set on edge: As truly as I lyue / sayeth the Lorde God / ye shall vse this byworde nomoze in Israel.

Beholde / all foules are myne. Lyke as & father is myne / so is the sonne myne also. The soule that synneth / shall dye. If a man be goodly / & do & thynges that is equal and ryght / he eateth not byd the hylls: he lyteth not his eyes by to the Idols of Israel: he despyeth not his neyghbours wyfe: he medleth wth no menstuous woman: he greueth no body: he geueth his better his pledge agayne he taketh none other mans good by byolence: he parteth his mete wth the hongrye: he clothyeth the naked: he lendeth nothyng byd blury: he taketh nothyng ouer: he wtythdraweth his hande from doinge wronge: he walketh faithfully betwixte man & man: he walkech in my commaundementes / and kepeth my lawes / & perfourmeth them faithfully: This is a righteous mā / he shall surely lyue / sayeth the Lorde God.

If he now gett a soune / that is a mutthritter / a wheder of bloude: yf he do one of these thynges (though he do not all) he eateth vpon the hylls: he despyeth his neyghbours wyfe: he geueth the poore & neddy: he robbeth & spoyleth: he geueth not & better his pledge agayne he listeth by his eyes vnto Idols / & medleth wth abhomynable thynges: he lendeth byd blury / & taketh moze ouer. Shall this man lyue? He shall not lyue. Seynge he hath done all these abhomyacions / he shall dye bys bloude shall be vpon him.

Now yf this man gett a soune also / that seith all his fathers synnes / whych he hath done: and seareth / nether doth soch lyde: Namely / he eateth not vpon the mostaynes: he lyteth not his eyes by to the Idols of Israel: he despyeth not his neyghbours wyfe: he bereth no man: he kepeth no mans pledges: he nether spoyleth / ner robbeth any man: he dealeth his meate wth the hungrye: he clothyeth the naked: he oppreseth not the poore: he receaueth no blury / ner any thyng ouer: he kepeth he keepeth my lawes / & walcheth in my commaundementes: This man shall not dye in his fathers synne / but shall lyue without fayle. As for his father: because he oppressed and spoyled his brother / and dyd wyckedly amonge his people: lo he is deed in his awne synne. And yet saye ye: wherfore shal he not this sonne heare his fathers synne?

Wherfore: because he sonne hath done equite & right: and hepte all my commaundementes / & done them: therfore shall he lyue in dede. The same soule that synneth / shal dye. The sonne shall not beare the fathers offence: neither shall the father beare the sonnes offence. The righteounes of the righteous shall be hpon him / & the wickednes of the wicked shal be hpon him self also. But if the bngodly will shall not turne away fro all his synnes that he hath be thought vpon. done: and kepe all my commaundementes / and do the thyng that is equall and right: doubtles he shal lyue / & not dye. As for all his synnes he dyd before / they shall not be soch like: which thought vpon: but in his righteounes that he hath done / he shal lyue. For haue I any pleasure in the death of a synner: sayeth the Lord God: but rather that he conuerte / and lyue. Agayne: if the righteounes turne awaye from his righteounes / and do iniquite / ac- cording to all the abhominacions / that the wycked man doth: shall he lyue? All the righteounes he hath done / shal not be thought vpon: but in the sawte that he hath offended withall: and in the synne that he hath done / he shal dye.

And yet ye saye: Cuth / the waye of the Lord is not indifferet. Heare therfore ye house of Israel: Is not my waye right? Or are not your wayes rather wicked? When a righteounes man turneth awaye from his righteounes: he must dye therein: yee for the bngodlynes that he hath done / must he dye. Agayne: when the wycked man turneth awaye from his wickednesse: that he hath done / and doth & do as they saye of the thyng which is equall and right: he shal lyue. I saue his soule alyue. For in so moch as he remembereth him selfe / & turneth him from all the bngodlynes that he hath bled / he shal so & he neither lyue / and not dye.

And yet sayeth the house of Israel: Cuth / the waye of the Lord is not equall. Are my wayes bngodly / & ye house of Israel: Are not your wayes rather bnequall? As for me / I will iudge every man / according to his wayes. & ye house of Israel: sayeth the Lord God. Wherfore be conuerted / & turne And if he will you cleane fro all your wyckednesse / so shall not synne be on there no synne do you harme. Cast awaye the text both fro you all your bngodlynesse: that ye haue done: make you new hertes & a new sprete.

Wherfore will ye dye / & ye house of Israel: For I have no pleasure in the death of him that dyeth: sayeth the Lord God. Turne you then / and ye shall lyue.

And after hange him up. For he might saye: If I forgave you your theft: but not your hangynge which is due vnto your theft. So the pardon woulde they be lothe to haue that theye ymagyned it. If the kyng which is but a man: be more saythfull than to deale so with his prisoner / who he forgiveth: how shalde God then which is our heuenly father / which is our goodnes it selfe / haue soche a sortly sayd: and vnperfect forgiveness: that shalde after punyssh. But he of will I now speake no more: lest ye shalde hope in vaine: that the solucyon were ymagyned to pyche menues purples / thow so theye penne: Dirge groites: Crenallers: peare myndes: moneth myndes. Because that although the God can & maye forgue the synne: yet must such thynges outpaye the forgiveness of the punishment due thereunto: & the prestes benefices were not sufficient for the to lyue on: with out such pylage: as yet that the poore people coulde by any other meane be myched from that thyng: wherwith theye their wpon: their household and chyldren shalde lyue.

The xix. Chapter.

The captiuitie of Ichoaz: & of Ichoaz in the captiuitie of the lyons whelpes: & by the lyon. He setteth out the prosperite of the cytye of Ierusalem that is past: & the myserie therof that is present.

Beat moune thou for the princes of Israel: & saye: Wherfore laye thy mother that lyoness amonge the lyons / & noyshed her yonge ones amonge the lyons whelpes? One of her whelpes she brought vp / and it became a lyon: it lerned to spoye / and to deuoure folke. The Heathen berde of hym / and toke him in their nettes / and brought him in chaynes vnto the land of Egypte.

Now when the damme sawe / that all her hope and confort was awaye / she toke another of her whelpes / and made a lyon of hym: which wente amonge the lyons / & became a scarce lyon: lerned to spoye and to deuoure folke: he destroyed their palaces / and made their cytyes waste. In so moch that the whole lande and every thyng therein / were utterly desolate / thow so & very voyce of his roaringe.

Then came the Heathen together on euery syde out of all countrees agaynst hym / layed their nettes for him / and toke hym in their pytte. So they bounde him with chaynes / and brought him to the kyng of Babilon: which put him in prison / that his voyce shalde nomore be herde vpon the mountaynes of Israel. As for thy mother / she is lyke a byne in the bloude / planted by the water syde: her frutes and bzaunches are growen out of many waters / her stalkes were so stronge / & me might haue made staves therof for officers: the grew so hie in her stalkes.

So when men sawe that she exceded & her gyth & multitude of her bzaunches / she was rooted out in displeasure / and cast downe to the grounde. The East wynde dyed by her frute: her stronge stalkes were broke of / withered withered and bent in the fyre. But now she is planted in the wyldernes / in a drye and thurstye grounde. And there is a fyre gone out of her stalkes / which hath bent by her bzaunches and her frute: so that she hath no more stronge stalkes / to be staves for officers. This is a pyteous & myserable thyng. The Lord denieth that he will answere the when they praye for the offence of unkindnes which he here obiecteth. The xx. Chapter.

In the xlii. yere the x. daye of the moneth / it happened / that certayne of the elders of Israel came vnto me / for to aske counsell at the Lord: & sat them downe by me. Then came the woide of the Lord vnto me on this maner: Thou sonne of man: speake vnto the elders of Israel: & saye vnto the: Thus sayeth the Lord God: Are ye come hyther to aske any thyng at me: As truly as I lyue (sayeth the Lord) I will geue you no answer. Wylt thou not reprove them (thou sonne of man) wilt thou not reprove the? Shew the & abhominacions of their forefathers: & tell the: Thus sayeth the Lord God: In the daye whiche I chose Israel / and I yst by myne hande vpon the sede of the house of Jacob / & shewed my selfe vnto them in the lande of Egypte: Yee when I yst by myne hande ouer them / and sayde: I am the Lord your God / euen in the daye that I yst by myne hande ouer them / to bringe them vnto the lande of Egypte / into a lande that I had prouyded for them / which floweth with mylicie & honny / & is a pleasant lande amonge all other: Then sayde I vnto them: Cuth / a waye euery man the abhominacions that he hath before hym / and despie not your idoles with the Idoles of Egypte / for I am the Lord your God.

But they rebelled agaynst me / and wold not folowe me: to cast awaye euery man the abhominacions of his eyes / and to forsake the Idoles of Egypte. Then I made me to poure my indignacion ouer them / and to satisfie my wrath vpon them: yee euen in the myddest of the lande of Egypte. But I wold not do it / for my names sake: that it shalde not be bngodly before the Heathen / amonge whom theye dwelt / & amonge whom I shewed my selfe vnto them: that I wold bringe the out of the lande of Egypte. Now when I had carryed them out of the lande of Egypte / and brought them into the wyldernes: I gaue them my commaundementes / & shewed the my lawes: which whoso kepe shal lyue in them. I gaue them also my holy dayes / to be a toke betwixt me & the / & thereby to knowe / that I am the Lord / which haloweth them.

And yet the house of Israel rebelled agaynst me in the wyldernes: they wold not walche in my commaundementes / they haue cast awaye my lawes (which whoso kepe shal lyue in them) and my Sabbath dayes haue they greatly bngodly.

Then I made me to poure out my indignacion vpon them / & to consume them in the wyldernes. Yet I wold not do it / for my names sake: lest it shalde be bngodly before the Heathen / from the which I had carryed them awaye. But I tooke vnto them in the wyldernes: that I wold not bringe the in to the lande / which I gaue them: a lande that floweth with mylicie and honny / and is a pleasure of all landes: and that because they refused my lawes / and walched not in my commaundementes / but had bngodly my Sabbathes / for their herte was gone after their ydoles. Neuerthelesse myne eye spared them / so that I wold not utterly slaye the / and consume them in the wyldernes. I yst ouer / I sayde vnto their sonnes in the wyldernes: walche not in the statutes of your forefathers / hepe not their ordynances / & despye not your selues with their ydoles / for I am the Lord your God. But walche in my statutes / hepe my lawes & do them / haue my Sabbathes: for they are a toke betwixt me & you / that ye maye knowe how I am the Lord. Notwithstandynge / their sonnes rebelled agaynst me also: they walched not in my statutes they kepte not my lawes to fulfyll the (which he & doth shal lyue in them) neither halowed they my Sabbath dayes. Then I made me agayne to poure out my indignacion ouer them / & to satisfie my wrath vpon them in the wyldernes. Ne-uerthelesse I witheld my hande for my names sake / lest it shalde be bngodly amonge the Heathen / before whome I had brought them forth. I yst by myne hande ouer them also in the wyldernes: that I wold scatere them amonge the Heathen / & strowe them amonge the nacjons: because they had not kepte my lawes / but cast aside my commaundementes / bngodly my Sabbathes / and yst by their eyes to their fathers Idoles. Wherfore I gaue them also commaundementes not good / & lawes thow so the which they shalde not lyue / & I bngodly them in their awne gytes (whiche I appoynted for my selfe all their fyndozne) to make them desolate: that they myght knowe / how that I am the Lord.

Wherfore (thou sonne of man) tell the house of Israel: thus sayeth the Lord God: Despyde all this / your forefathers haue yet blasphemed me more / and greatly offended agaynst me: for after I had brought them into the lande that I promysed to geue them / when they saue euery hyll & all the thicke trees: they made there their offryngs / & pzo-uoked me with their oblacpons / makinge sweete sauours there / and poured out their dymchoffrynges. When I asked them: what haue ye to do wthall / that ye go thither? And therfore is it called the hye place vnto this daye. wherfore / speake vnto the house of Israel: thus sayeth the Lorde God: ye are euē as vnclene as your forefathers / & corrupte whorhome also with their abhominacions. In all your pdoles / where vnto ye bypge your oblacpōs / & to whose honoure ye burne your chyldren: ye desyle your selues / euen vnto this daye: how darre ye then come / and aske any question at me? ye householde of Israel: as truly as I lyue (sayeth the Lorde God) ye get no answer of me: as for the thynge that ye go aboute / it shall not come to passe / where as ye saye: we will be as the Heathen / & do as other people in the lande / woth and stone wyl we wothyppe.

Is truly as I lyue / sayeth the Lorde God / I my selfe wyl rule you wth a myghtye hande / wth a stretched out arme / & wth indignacō poured out ouer you: & wyl bynge you out of the nacpōs and landes / wherū ye are scattered: and gather you together with a myghtye hande / with a stretched out arme / & wth indignacō poured out vpon you: & wyl bynge you into the wyldernesse of the people / & there I wyl reason wth you face to face. Like as I punished your forefathers in the wyldernesse / so wyl I punish you also / sayeth the Lorde God. I wyl bynge you vnder my furfuricō / & vnder the bonde of the couenānt. The forefathers also and the transgressours wyl I take frō amonge you / & bynge them out of the lande of your habytacpō: as for the lande of Israel / they shal not come in it: that they maye knowe / how that I am the Lorde.

Wchē shal ye call to remembraunce your adue wayes / & all your ymaginacōs / wherū ye haue bene defiled: & ye shalbe displeased wth your adue selues / so as your wpychednes / that ye haue done. And ye shal knowe / that I am the Lorde: when I entreate you after my name / not after your wpyched wayes / ney accordyng to your corrupte wozhs: O ye house of Israel / sayeth the Lorde.

Punyshe / punish / & punyshe them wyl I / &

In the haue they discovered their fathers name/in the haue they berid weme in their sickness. Every man hath desire shamefully with his neyghbours wyfe/a shomygnably defyled his daughter in lawe. In þ hat euery aia forced his atone syter/eue his fathers daughter: yee gyftes haue bene receaued in the/ to wede bloude. Thou hast taken blury and encrease/ thou hast opprested thy neyghbours by extorcio/ and forgoiten me/ sayeth the Lorde God. Beholde/ I haue mypten* my handes vpon thy couetousnesse / þ thou hast bled/ and vpon the bloude whych hath bene shed in the. Is thy herte able to endure it/ or may thy handes defende the selues/ in the tyme that I will byynge vpon the? Euen I the Lorde that speake it/ will byynge it also to passe. I will scatle the amonge the Heathen/ & throw the aboute in the landes/ & will cause thy sylthynesse to cease out of the: yee and I will haue the in possession in the syght of the Heathen/ that thou mayest knowe/ that I am the Lorde.

And the worde of þ Lorde came vnto me/ sayinge: Thou sonne of ma/ the house of Israel is turned to dross. All they that shulde be bzaile/ tynne/ yron/ & leade/ are in the fyre become dross. Therefore/ thus sayeth þ Lorde God: for so moche as ye all are turned in to dross/ beholde: I will byynge you together vnto Jerusalem/ lyke as syluer/ bzaile/ yron/ tynne and leade are put together in the furnace/ and the fyre blowe there vnder to melt them: Euen so will I gather you/ put you in together/ and melt you in my wrath & indignacion. I will byynge you together/ and kyndle þ fyre of my cruell dyspleasure vnder you/ that ye maye be melted therein.

Lyke as the syluer is melted in the fyre/ so shal ye also be melted therein: that ye may knowe/ how that I the Lorde haue poured my wrath vpon you.

And the worde of the Lorde came vnto me/ sayinge: Thou sonne of man/ tell her: Thou art an vnclene lande/ whych is not rayned vpon in the daye of the cruell wrath: the Prophetes that are in the/ are sworne together to deuoure soules/ lyke as a roarynge Lp/ þ lyueth by hys pray. They receaue ryches and good/ and make many widdowes in the. They prestes breake my lawe/ and defyle my Sanctuary. They put no difference betwene þ holye & vnholye/ neither discerne betwene the cleane & vnclene: they turne their eyes from my sabbath/ & I am vnhalowed amonge the. Thy rulers in the are lyke rauynynge wolues/ to shed bloude/ and to destroye soules/ for their atone couetous lucre. As for thy Prophetes/ they dawbe with vntempered claye/ they se bangetes/ and prophete yes vnto the/ sayeng: the Lorde God sayeth so/ where as the Lorde hath not spoken. The people in the lande bseth wycked extorcio/ & robbery. They bere þ pooze & nedge & oppresse the straunger agaynst ryght. And I sought in the lande for a man/ that wolde make by the hedge/ and sett hym self in the gappe before me in the landes behalfe/ that I shulde not utterly destroye it/ but I coulde fynde none. Therefore will I poure out my cruell dyspleasure vpon them/ and burne them in the fyre of my wrath: their atone wayes will I recompence vpon their heades sayeth the Lorde God.

¶ Of the synecopyon/ that is to saye/ of the Idolatry of Samaria in Jerusalem/ vnder the names of Obolah & Dholibah. In comparyson of Samaria he sheweth that the synecopyon of Jerusalem is the filthier. The destruction of Jerusalem is propheted. The aduocacye of both the wyces is founde out. Their destruction.

The xxij. Chapter.

In the worde of the Lorde came vnto me/ sayinge: Thou sonne of man/ there were two women/ that had one mother: these (whiche they were yonge) beganne to playe the harlottes in Egypte. There were their bzylls bzyled/ and the pappes of their maydenhead destroyed. The eldest of them was called* Obolah and her yongest syter* Dholibah. These two were myne/ and bare sonnes and daughters. Their names were/ Samaria/ & that was Obolah: & Jerusalem/ that was Dholibah: As for Obolah she beganne to go a whooring/ when I had taken her to me. She was set on fyre vpon her lours the Assyrians/ which had to do with her: eue the pynces & lordes/ that were deckte in costly raye: saye yonge men/ lusty ryders of horses.

Thus thorow her whozdomme/ she cleued vnto all the yonge men of Assyria: yee she was made vpon them/ and defyled herself with all their ydois. Whether ceased she from the fornicacion/ that she bled with the Egyptians: for in her poynt they laye to her/ they bzyled the bzylls of her maydenhead/ and poured their whozdomme vpon her. Therefore/ I deliuered her in to þ handes of her lours/ euen the Assyrians/ whom she so loued. These discovered her shame/ toke her sonnes and daughters/ and slewe her with the swerde: An euil name gat she of all people/ and they punished her.

Her syter Dholibah sawe this/ & destroyed her selfe to moze thane loue/ moze then she/ & exceded her syter in whozdomme she loued þ Assyrians/ (which also laye to her) namely/ the pynces & greute lordes/ that were clothed in all maner of gozgiuous apparell/ all lusty hoymen and saye yonge persones. Then

Samaria. Then I sawe/ that they both were defyled a lyke. But she increased styll in whozdomme: for when she sawe men paynted vpon the wall/ the ymages of the Chaldees set forth with fresh colours/ she saye gyddes about them/ and goodly bonettes vpon their heades/ loyng all lyke Pynces (after the maner of the Babylonys and Chaldees in their atone lande/ where they be borne) ymmedyately/ as soone as she sawe them/ she bent in loue vpon them/ & sent messengers for the in to the lande of the Chaldees.

Now when the Babylonys came to her/ they laye with her/ & defyled her with their whozdomme/ and so was she polluted with them. And when her lust was abated from them/ her whozdomme and shame was discovered & seene: then my herte so/loke her/ lyke as my herte was gone from her. Syter also/ I neuer forgotte the bled her whozdomme euer þ longer the more/ & remembred the dayes of her youth/ wherein she had playd the harlot in the lande of Egypte: she bent in lust vpon the/ whiche was lyke the flesh of Ides/ & their face lyke þ face of horses. Thus thou hast remembred the filthynesse of thy youth/ whiche thy lours bzyled thy pappes/ & married thy bzylls in Egypte.

¶ Therefore (Dholibah) thus sayeth þ Lorde God. I will caple by thy lours (with whiche thou hast lustyfyd thy lust) agaynst the/ and gather them together rounde about the: namely/ the Babylonys/ & all the Chaldees: Decod/ Sycha and Coa/ with all the Assyrians: all yonge and saye lours: pynces and lordes/ mayntes & gentlemen/ which be all good hoymen: these shall come vpon the to horses/ charrettes/ & a greute multitude of people: which shalbe barned about the on euery syde/ with bzyll plates/ weldes & helmettes. I will punysh the before them/ yee they them selues shal punysh þ/ according to their atone iudgement. I will put my ge loure vpon the/ so that they shall deale cruelly with the. They shall cut of thy nose and thyne eares/ and the remnant shall fall thorow the swerde. They shall cary awaye thy sonnes and daughters/ & the restour shalbe bent in the fyre. They shall strepe the out of thy clothes/ and cary the costly Jewels awaye with them.

Thus will I make an ende of thy filthynesse & whozdomme/ whiche thou hast brought out of the lande of Egypte: so that thou shalt turne thyne eyes nomoze after the/ & shalt thy mynde nomoze vpon Egypt. For thus sayeth the Lorde/ beholde/ I will deliuer þ into the handes of them/ whom thou hatest: yee eue into the handes of the/ with whom thou hast lustyfyd thy lust/ whych shall deale cruelly with þ: All thy labour shalt they take with them/ and leaue the naked & bare/ & thus the shame of thy sylthyn whozdomme shall come to lyght. All these thynges shall happen vnto the/ because of thy whozdomme/ whych thou hast bled amonge the Gentiles/ with whose ydoles thou hast defyled thy self. Thou hast walched in the waye of thy syter/ therefore will I geue the her cuppe in thy hande.

Thus sayeth the Lorde God: Thou shalt bzyne of thy syters cuppe/ how depe and large so euer it be to the botome. Thou shalt be laughed to scozne/ & had as greatly in derisyon/ as is possible. Thou shalt be full of bronchennes & sozowe/ for the cuppe of thy syter Samaria is a cuppe of destruction & wastinge: the same shalt thou bzyne/ and suppe it out euen to the dregges/ yee thou shalt eate by the broken peces of it/ and so trare thyne atone bzylls: for euen I haue spoken it/ sayeth the Lorde God.

Therefore thus sayeth the Lorde God: for so much as thou hast forgoite me/ & cast me asyde/ so beare now thyne atone sylthynesse & whozdomme. The Lorde saye mozeouer vnto me: Thou sonne of man wilt thou not re proue Obolah & Dholibah? Shewe them their abhomyncacions: namely/ y they haue bzyled their toedlocke/ & stayned their handes with bloude: yee eue with their ydoles haue they comyted adoutrye/ & offered them their atone chyldre (to be deuoured) whiche they had borne vnto me. Yee and this haue they done vnto me also: they haue defiled my Sanctuary in that same daye/ & haue vnhalowed my Sabbath. For when they had slayne their chyldre for their ydoles/ they came the same daye into my Sanctuary to defyle it. Lo/ this haue they done in my house. Wylde all this/ thou hast sent thy messengers for men out of farre countrees: & when they came/ thou hast bathed/ trymmed and set forth thy self of the best fashyon: thou lattet vpon a goodly bed/ & a table spred before the: wher vpon thou hast set myne incense & myne oyle.

When was there greute cheare with her/ & the men þ were sent fro farre countrees ouer the desert/ vnto these they gaue bzailettes vpon their handes/ & set glozpous crownes vpon their heades: then thought I: no doute/ these will bse their harlotry also with ponder olde whoze. And they wete into her/ as hnt o a comen harlot: Euen so wente they also to Obolah & Dholibah those sylthyn women.

O ye all that loue vertu & ryghtuousnesse/ Lent. 22. b. iudge the/ punysh them: as aduocates and Ezech. 24. b. murderers ought to be iudged & punyshed. For they are bzyllers of wedlocke/ and the bloude is in their handes. Therefore thus sayeth the Lorde God: byynge & greute mul.

tyrude of people upon them / & make them be scattered & spoyled: these shall stone them / and goze them with their sweardes. They shall slay their sonnes and daughters and burne by their houses with fyre.

Thus sayeth the Lord God: Beholde I will take away the pleasure of thyne eyes: yet shalt thou nether mourne / nether wepe / nether water thy cheekes: therefore thou mayest mourne by thy self alone / but hste no deadly lamentacion. The prophet the syng of Jerusalem by a parable of a lyching pott. The parable of Ezechiel wyse being dead / which he after expoundeth.

The .xxv. Chapter.

In the .x. yeare / in the .x. Moneth / the .x. daye of the Moneth / came the worde of the Lord vnto me / sayinge: Thou sonne of man / write by the name of this daye / yee eue the houre of this present daye: when the King of Babylon see hym self agaynst Jerusalem. Shew that obdurate houlde a parable / & speake vnto the: Thus sayeth the Lord God: Get thee a pott / set it on / & poure water in to it: put al the peces together in it / all the good peces: the lopne & the shoulder / & fill it with the best bones. Take one of the best wepe / & an heape of bones withall: let it boyle well / and let the bones seth well therein.

With that sayde the Lord God on this maner: Wo be vnto the bloudy ctyte of the pott / wher by the rustynesse hangeth / & is not yet scoured awaye. Take out the peces that are in it / one after another: there neade not lottes be cast therfore / for the bloude is yet in it. Upon a playne dyke stone hath the pottred it / and not vpon the ground / that it might be couered w dust. And therfore haue I letten her poure her bloude by a playne dyke stony roche / because it shoulde not be bydd / & I myght bynge my wrothfull indignacion and vengeance vpon her.

Wherfore / thus sayeth the Lord God: Wo be vnto that bloudy rustye ctyte / for whos I will prepare a heape of wodde: beare thou the bones together / kyndle thou the fyre / sceth the flesh / let all be well sodde / that the bones maye be suckte out. Moreover / let the pott emptye by the coales / & it maye be warme & the metall hote: that the fyth & rustynesse maye be consumed. But it wyll not go of there is so much of it: the rustynesse must be bzint out. Why spychynesse is abhominable / for I wolde haue clenched the / but thou woldest not be clenched. Thou canst not be pouged fro thyne uncleynesse / tyll I haue pouged my wrothfull indignacion vpon the. Eue the Lord haue so deuyled: yee it is come therto already / that I will do it. I wyll not go backe / I will not spare / I will not be intreated: but according to thy wayes & ymaginacions / thou shalt be punished / sayeth the Lord God. And the worde of the Lord came vnto me sayinge: Thou sonne of man / beholde I will take awaye the pleasure of thyne eyes: yet shalt thou nether mourne / nether wepe / nether water thy cheekes: therefore thou mayest mourne by thy self alone / but hste no deadly lamentacion. Holde on thy bonnet / and put on thy shoes. Upon thy fete / couer not thy face / & eat no mourning bzrd. Like as I haue done / so shall ye do also: Ye shall not hyde your faces / ye shall eat no mourning bzrd: your bonnettes shall ye haue vpon your heades / & shoes vpon your fete. Ye shall nether mourne nether wepe / but in your synnes ye shall be sozowfull / & one repete with another. Thus Ezechiel is your thewtoke. For loke as he hath done / so (whet this cometh) ye shall do also: that ye maye lerne to knowe / that I am the Lord God. But beholde / I thou sonne of man: In the daye when I take from them their power / their loye & honoure / the lust of their eyes / the burthen of their bodies: namely / their sonnes and daughters: then shall there one escape / & come vnto the / for to shew the. In that daye shall thy mouth be opened to him / which is escaped / that thou mayest speake / & be nomozed domine: yee and thou shalt be their thewtoke / that they maye knowe / how that I am the Lord.

trow it be now suspended: and ouer the lande of Israel / I trow it be now desolate: yee and ouer the house of Iuda / I trow they be now led awaye prisoners: Beholde / I wyll deliuer the to the people of the east / & they maye haue the in possession: these shall set their castles and houses in the. They shall eat thy fute / & bynche by thy mylche. As for Moab / I wyll make of it a stall for camels / & of Ammon a shepfold: and ye shall knowe / that I am the Lord.

For thus sayeth the Lord God: In so moche as thou hast lapped with thyn handes / and stamped with thy fete / yee reioyced in thynne herte ouer the lande of Israel with despyte: beholde / I wyll stretch out myne hande ouer the also / and deliuer the / to be spoyled of the heathen / and rote the out from amonge the people / & cause the to be destroyed out of all landes: yee I wyll make the be layed waste / that thou mayest knowe / that I am the Lord.

Thus sayeth the Lord God: For so moche as Moab said / Seir do saye: As for the house of Iuda / it is but lyke as all other Gentiles be: therefore beholde / I will make the ctytes of Moab weapenlesse / & taken awaye their strength: their ctytes & cheste coastes of their lande / which are the pleasures of the countrey: As namely / Bethelsimoth / Baalmeon and Carnaim: these will I open vnto the of the east / & they maye fall vpon the Ammonites: and will geue it them in possession: so that the Ammonites shall no more be had in remembrance amonge the heathen. Euen thus wyll I punish Moab also / that they maye knowe / how that I am the Lord.

Moreover / thus sayeth the Lord God: Because that Edom hath auenged & caled hym selfe vpon the house of Iuda / therefore thus sayeth the Lord: I will reach out myne hande vpon Edom / and take awaye man & beast out of it. From Chemain vnto Dedan wyll I make it desolate: they shall be layne with the swerde. Whowow my people of Israel will I auenge me agayne vpon Edom: they shall deliuer him / according to my wroth & indignacion / so that they shall knowe my vengeance / sayeth the Lord God.

Thus sayeth the Lord God: For so moche as the Philistines haue done this: namely / taken by violence with despytefull stomaches / and with olde euell wyll lett the selues to be destroyed: therefore thus sayeth the Lord God: Beholde / I wyll stretch out myne hande ouer the Philistines / & destroye & destroye / and cauill the remnaunt of the sea coast to perishe. I greate vengeance wyll I take vpon them / and punish them cruelly: that they maye knowe / how that I am the Lord / which haue auenged me of them.

The .xxvii. Chapter.

It happened / that in the .x. yeare / in the .x. daye of the Moneth / the worde of the Lord came vnto me / sayinge: Thou sonne of man / because that Ezechiel hath spoken vpon Jerusalem: I ha / now I trow the portes of the people be broken / & the turned into me / for I haue destroyed my bely full: yee therefore sayeth the Lord God: Beholde / I wyll bynge a greate multitude of people agaynst the / lyke as when the see aryleth with his waues: these shall breake the walles of Tyre / and cast downe her towres: I wyll scrape the grounde from her / and make her a bare stone: yee as the bynge place / where the fyuers hange by their nettes by the see syde. Eue I haue spoken it / sayeth the Lord God. The Gentyles shall spyle her: her daughters vpon the selde shall perishe with the swearde / that they maye knowe how that I am the Lord.

For thus sayeth the Lord God: Beholde / I wyll bynge hether Nabuchodonosor (which is the kynge of Babylon / & a kynge of kynges) from the North by the Tyre / with hoxes / charettes / hoxmen / & with a greate multitude of people. Thy daughters & are in the lande / shall he slay with the swearde: but agaynst the / he shall make bulwarkes & graue by dykes aboute the / & lyt by hys wynde agaynst the. The xxx. Chapter.

Mouer it happened. xl. year re & first daye of thirde Moneth that the word of the Lord came vnto me sayng: Thou sonne of mā speake vnto Pharaos the kynge of Egypte / & saye vnto all hys people: Whom art thou lyke in thy greateſſe? Beholde I haue was lyke a Cedar tre vpon the mount of Libanus with saye bzaunches: so thicke, that he gaue shadowes & shot out bery hye. His toppes reached vnto the cloudes. The waters made hym great / & the depe set hym by an hye. Rounde aboute the rotes of hym rane these cloudes of water / he sent out hys lytle rpuers vnto all the trees of the felde. Therefore was he hyer then all the trees of the felde / & thozow the multitude of waters that he sent from hym / he obtayned many longe bzaunches. All foules of the ayre made their nestes in his bzaunches / vnder his bowes gedzed all these beastes of the felde and vnder his shadow dwelt all people. Saye beutifull was he in hys greateſſe and in the length of hys bzaunches / for hys rote stode belyde grete waters / no Cedar tre myght hyde hym. In the pleasaunt garden of God / there was no fyre tre like his bzaū ches / the plasne trees were not like the bowes of hym. All the trees in the garden of God might not be cōpared vnto him in his beuty so saye and goodly had I made hym wyth the multitude of hys bzaunches. In so moch that at the trees in the pleasaunt garden of God / had enuy at him. Therefore thus sayeth the Lorde God: for so moch as he hath lyft vp himself so hye / & stretched hys toppes in to the cloudes / & fringe hys hert is proude in hys highnesse: I will deliuer him in to the handes of the mightiest amonge the Heathen / whiche shal rote him out. According to hys wicked nes will I cast him awaye / & his enemies shal deſtrope him / and the myghty men of the Heathen shal ſcatter hym / & his bzaūches shal lye vpon all moſtaynes & in all balleys: his bowes shal be broke downe to the grounde thozow out the lande. When all the people of the lāde shal go from his shadowe / & for ſake hym. When he is fallen / all the foules of the ayre shal ſet vpon him / & all wilde beastes
of the

of the seide shall go aboute amonge his brayches: so that from hence forth no tre in þe water shall attayne to þys hyghnesse / nor reach his toppes vnto the cloude / neither shall any tre of the water stode so hye / as he hath done.
For vnto death shall they all be deliuered vnder the earth / & go downe to the graue / lyke other men.

¶ Mournt / thus sayeth the Lord God: In the daye when he goeth downe to the graue /
I will cause a lamentacion to be made / I will couer the depe upon him / I will stanch his floudes / and the greates waters shall be restrained. I will cause Libanus to be so-roufull for his sake / and all the trees of the seide shall be smytten. I will make þe Bea-then make at the sounde of his fall / when I call hym downe to hell / with the trees of Eden / with all þe chosen and best trees of Libanus / yee all they that are planted vpon the waters / shall mourne with him also in þe lower ha-bitacions: for they shall go downe to hell vnder him / vnto the that he shal lye in the swearde / which dwelt afore vnder the shadowe of his arme amonge the Beathen. To whom shall thou be lyched / that art so gloypous and greate / amonge the trees of Eden: Yet art thou cast downe vnder the earth / amonge the trees of Eden / where thou must lye amonge vncircumcised / with them that be slayne in the swearde. Euen thus is it with Pharao & all his people / sayeth the Lord God.

¶ For thus sayeth the Lord God: the kyng of Babilons swearde shall come vpon the / with the sweardes of the worthyes will I smyte downe thy people. All they that be myghtye amonge the Gentyles / shall waste all that is therein / shall be layde waste: & wher I smyte all them which dwell in it / that they maye knowe / that I am the Lord. This is the mourninge / that the daughters of the Beathen shall make: Yee a sozow and lamentacion shall they take vpon Egypte and ¶ In the xij. yere / the xij. daye of the mo-saying: Thou sonne of man / take vp a la-

call them downe / yee a the myghtye people gone downe vncircumcised vnder the earth /

¶ Their burials is geuen them and all their seyth the swearde come vpon the lande) shall blow the trompet / & warne the people.

¶ If a man now heare the noyse of the tropet and will not be warned / and the swearde come and take him awaye: his bloude shall be vpon his awne head: for he herbe the soude of the trompet / & wolde not take hede / therfore his bloude be vpon hym. But yf he will receaue warninge / he shall saue his lye.
¶ Agayne / yf the watch man se the sweard come and thewe it not with the trompet / so that þe people is not warned: yf the swearde come then / and take eny man from amonge them:
the same shall be taken awaye in his awne synne / but his bloude will I requyre of the watchmans hande.

¶ And now (Thou sonne of man) I haue made the a watchman vnto the house of Israel: that where as thou hearest eny thyng out of my mouth / thou mayest warne them on my behalfe. ¶ If I saye vnto þe wicked thou wicked: thou shalt surely dye: & thou geuest hym not warninge / that he maye beware of his vngodly waye: then shall the wicked dye in his awne synne / but his bloude will I requyre of thy hande. Neuer theles yf thou warne the wicked of his waye / to turne fro it / where as he yet will not be turned from it then shall he dye because of his synne / but thou shalt be deliuered thy soule.

¶ Therfore (Thou sonne of man) speake vnto the house of Israel. Ye saye thus: Our offences and synnes lye vpon vs / and we be corrupte in them: how shulde we then be restoyred vnto lye? Tell them: As truly as I lye / sayeth the Lord God / I haue no pleasure in the death of the wicked / but moche rather that the wicked turne from his waye & lyue. Turne you / turne you from your vngodly wayes / O ye of the house of Israel.
Wherfore will ye dye?

¶ Thou sonne of man / tell the chyldren of the people: The ryghtwysnes of þe ryghtwys shall not saue hym / whan soeuer he turneth awaye vnfaithfully: Agayne / þe wickednesse of þe wicked shall not hurt him / whan soeuer he conuerteth from his vngodlyne.

¶ And the ryghtwysnes of the ryghtwys shall not saue his lye / whan soeuer he synneth. ¶ If I saye vnto the ryghtwys / that he shall surely lyue / and so he trust to his awne ryghtwysnesse / and do synne: then shall his ryghtwysnesse be nomoze thought vpon / but in the wyckednesse that he hath done he thou shalt surely dye: & so he turne from his synnes / & do the thinge that is lawfull and ryght: yn so much that the same wycked man geueth the pledge agayne / restoreth that he had taken awaye by robbery / watcheth yn þe

Then shall he surely lyue / & not dye. Yee the synners that he hath done /  shall neuer be thought vpon: for in so much as he doth not the thinge that is lawfull and ryght / he shall lyue. And yet the children of the people saye: Cursed be the waye of the Lorde is not ryght / where as their awne waye is rather bright.

Ye house of Israel / I wyll iudge every

En the .xij. yere/ the .v. daye of the .x. mo-neth of oure captiuitie/ it happened/ & one which was fled out of Iherusalem/ came vnto me/ and sayde: the cite is destroyed. Now the hande of the Lorde had bene vpon me the euenyng afore this mā (which was escaped) came vnto me/ & had opened my mouth/ vntill the morning that he came to me: yee he opened my mouth/ so that I was nomore dumme. Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto me/ & sayde: Thou sonne of man/ these þ dwell in the wasted lande of Israel/ saye: Abraham was but one man/ & he had the lande in possession: now are we many/ & the lande is geuen vs to possesse also. And therfore tell them: Thus saiyeth the Lorde: In the bloude haue ye eaten/ your eyes haue ye left vp to Idoles/ and haue shed bloude: shall ye then haue the lande in possession?

Ye leane vpon youre swerdes/ye woꝝke abomynacjōs/euery one defyleth his neghbourly wyfe:/a shall ye then possesse the lande?
Saye thou these woꝝdes vnto them:/Thus sayeth the Lorde God:⁴² As truly as I liue shall dye of the pestilence./For I wyll make the lande desolate and waste/a the pompe of her strength shall come to an ende. The mountaynes in Israel shalbe so waste that noman shall trauaile therby.

Then shall they come to knowe / that I am the Lorde / when I make the land waste and desolate / because of all their abomin-acions / that they haue wrought. And thou the Lorde: These come vnto the / after the

 but they do not thereafter: for in their mouthes they shewe them selues / as though they were feruent / but their herte goeth after their avarice covetous lucre. And as a baler þ hath a swete tune / and is pleasaunt to synge / so shalt thou be vnto the: thy wordes shal they heare / but they wil not do thereafter. When this cometh to passe (for so it cometh in de-dede) the shal they knowe / that there hath bene a prophet amonge them.

Against Whyppees and curates that despise the flock of Christ, I leave their atoms. The Lord saith that he will visite his disparpled flocke, gather them together, he reioiceth the malice of certain of the flocke. He promisseth the true shepherde Christ, and with hym peace.

 God: Beholde / I will loke to my shepe my shepe / & gather them together out of all pla-

 from all people / and gather them together out of al landes. I wil byng them in to there

I will fede my shepe my self / and byynge

 Such as be lost / will I seke: such as go a-

 I make strong: such as be fat & well lykynge / thinge that is lawfull. And as for you (O my shepe) sayeth the Lorde God: I will put a dis-ference amoung the shepe / amoung the wothers and the goates. Was it not ynough for you / to eate by the good pasture / but ye must treade downe the residue of youre pa-stur with your fete also: Was it not ynough for you to byncke cleare water / but ye must trouble the residue also with youre fete:

Thus my Shepe must be sayne to eate the thynges/that ye haue troden downe to youre fete/a to dyche it/that ye to youre fete haue desilled. Therfore, thus sayeth the Lord God vnto the m: Scholde / I wyl seuer the fatt shepe from the leane: for so moch as ye haue shot the weaker shepe vpon the sydes & shoulders / and runne vpon them with youre ho-rnes / so longe tyll ye haue bitterly scattered the abode. I wyl helpe my shepe / so that they shall nomore be spoyled: yet I wyl dyscerne them one only shepherde: euen my ser-be their shepherde. I the Lorde wyl be they God / and my seruaunt Dauid shall be their pryncer. Euen I the Lorde haue spoken it.

Properour / I will make a covenante of peace with them / & drive all cruel beastes out of the lande: so that they may dwell safely in the wyldernesse / and here in the wooddes.
Good fortune & prosperite will I geue them / and vnto all that be rounde aboute my hyll.

but safely shall they dwell / and no man shall fraye them. I will set by an excellent plante for them, so that they shall suffer no more hunger in the land, neither beare the reproche of the Heathen any more. Thus shall they inherit the land, the Lord their God is with them, and they shall dwell in the house of Israel, are my peo-

Disc 1b

Thus sayeth the Lord God: behold I will take away the children of Israel from among the heathen/into whom they be gone/ I will gather them together on every side/ I will bring them againe into their owne land: yee I will make one people of them in the land/ upon the mountaynes of Israel/ and they all shall have but one king. They shall no more be two peoples from henceforth/ neither be deuided in to two kingdomes: they shall also desile the selues nomore with their abhominacions/ & doles/ & all their wicked doings. I will helpe them out of all their dwelling places/ wher in they haue sinned: and will so cleanse them/ that they shall be my people/ & I their God.

Ezech. xxxiv. I will be their God/ & I will be their King/ & they all shall have one shepheard only. They shall walke in my lawes/ & my commaundmentes shall they both kepe and fulfil. They shall dwell in the land/ that I gaue vnto Jacob my seruant/ where as your fathers also haue dwelt. Yee eue in the same land shall they/ their children/ & their childrens children dwell for euermore: and my seruant Dauid shall be their euerlasting prince. Moreover/ I will make a bonde of peace with them/ which shall be vnto them an euerlasting co-uenant. I will sette the also/ and multiply them/ my Sanctuary will I set amonge the for euermore. My dwelling shall be with them/ yee I will be their God/ and they shall be my people. Thus the Heathen also shall knowe/ that I the Lord am the holy maker of Israel: wher my Sanctuary shall be amonge them for euermore.

The prophecie that Gog and Magog shall come to an appointed houre in to the lande of promise. Their entent is to reuerce that the comynge of Gog was before prophecied of by prophetes. The destruction of hym.

The xxxviii. Chapter.

Ezech. xxxviii. And the worde of the Lord came vnto me/ sayinge: Thou sonne of man/ turne thy face towardes Gog in the lande of Magog/ whych is the chefe prince at Mesech and Tubal: prophete agaynst him. & saye: Thus sayeth the Lord God: O Gog thou chefe prince Mesech & Tubal: behold I will vpon the/ and will turne the aboute/ and put a byt in thy chawes: I will bringe the forth a all thyne host/ both horse and horsemen/ which be all weapened of the best fashion: a great people/ that handle altogether speares/ mylles/ and swordes: the Peres/ & Moryans & with them the Lybians/ which all beare mylles & helmettes: Gomer and all his hostes: the house of Mogyma out of the north quarters/ and all his hostes/ yee a moche people with the.

Therefore prepare the/ set thy self in aray with all thy people/ that are come vnto the by heapes/ and be thou their defence. After many dayes thou shalt be visited/ and in the latter yeares thou shalt come in to the land/ that hath bene destroyed with the sword/ & now is replenished agayne with dyuerse people vpon the mountaynes of Israel/ which haue longe lpen waste. Yee they be brought out of the nacions/ & dwell all safe. Thou shalt come by like a storme/ to couer the lande/ and as it were a darcke cloude: thou with all thyne hostes/ & a greete multitude of people with the.

Moreover/ thus sayeth the Lord God: At the same tyme shall many thinges come in to thy mynde/ so that thou shalt imagine myschance/ & saye: I will by to ponder plague lande/ seeing they lyt at ease/ and dwell so safely/ for they dwell all without any walles/ they haue neither barres nor doores/ to spoyle them/ to robbe the/ to laye hande vpon their towrell inhabyted wydernesses: agaynst that people/ that is gathered together fro amonge the heathen/ whych haue gotten cattell and good/ and dwell in the myddell of the lande. When shall Saba/ and Dedan/ and the marchantes of Charis with all their worthies/ saye vnto the: Art thou come to robbe? What thou gathered thy people together/ because thou wilt spoyle/ to take syluer and golde: to carry away cattell and good: and to haue a greete praye?

Therefore/ O thou sonne of man/ thou shalt prophete/ and saye vnto Gog: Thus sayeth the Lord God: In that daye thou shalt knowe/ & my people of Israel dwelleth safe: and shalt come from thy place out of the north partes: thou a moche people with the/ whych ryde vpon horses/ wherof there is a greete multitude & an innumerable hoste. Yee thou shalt come vpon my people of Israel/ as a cloude to couer the lande. This shall come to passe in the latter dayes: I will bringe the by in to my lande/ that the heathen maye knowe me/ when I get me honoure vpon the/ O Gog/ before their eyes.

Thus sayeth the Lord God: Thou art he/ of whom I haue spoken afore tyme/ by my seruantes & prophetes of Israel/ which prophete in those dayes & yeares/ that I shoulde bringe the vpon them. At the same tyme/ when Gog cometh by in to the land of Israel/ sayeth the Lord God/ I will my indignacion go forth in my wrath. For in my gelousy and hote displeasure I haue deuyled/ that there shall be a greete trouble in the land of Israel at that tyme. The cry shal be in the see/ the soules of the ayre/ the bestes of the felde/ and all the men that are vpon the

The earth/ shall tremble for feare of me. The hills also shall be turned by syd downe/ the kayes of stone shall fall/ and all walles shall syncke to the grounde. I will call for a swerde vpon the/ in all my mountaynes/ sayeth the Lord God: so that euery mans swerde shall be vpon another. I wyll pestylence and bloude will I punyssh hym: I wyll rayne & hyle stones/ & I wyll burne/ & I will cause to rayne vpon him/ & all his heape yee & vpon al that greete people that is with him. Thus will I be magnified/ honoured/ and knowne amonge the heathen: & they maye be sure/ how that I am the Lord. The swerth the destruction of Gog & Magog. The grace of Gog & of his hostes. He prophete that Gog & his company shall be deuoured of bydes and bestes. Wherfore the house of Israel is warned. Their byng agayne from captiuitie is promysed.

The xxxix. Chapter.

Ezech. xxxix. Therefore thou sonne of man/ prophete agaynst Gog/ and speake: Thus sayeth the Lord God: Behold/ O Gog/ thou chefe prince at Mesech and Tubal/ I will vpon the/ & turne the aboute/ & carie the forth/ & leade the fro the north partes/ & bringe the by to the mountaynes of Israel. As for thy bowe/ I will smyte it out of thy left hande/ & cast thyne arrowes out of thy right hande. Thou with all thyne heape/ and all the people that is with the/ must fall vpon the mountaynes of Israel. When will I geue the vnto the foules & wyde bestes of the felde/ to be deuoured: there must thou lye vpon the felde: for euen I the Lord haue spoken it/ sayeth the Lord God.

In to Magog/ and amonge those that lye so careless in the fles: will I sende a fyre/ & they shall knowe/ that I am the Lord. I will make also the name of my holynesse to be knowne amonge my people of Israel: and I will not lett my holy name be euell spoken of enymore: but the very heathen also shall knowe/ that I am the Lord/ the holy one of Israel. Beholde/ it cometh/ & shall be fulfilled in dede/ sayeth the Lord God. This is the daye wherof I haue spoken: they that dwell in the crytes of Israel/ shall go forth a set fyre vpon the weapens/ & burne them: sheldes & speeres/ bowes and arrowes/ bylles & clubbes: seuen yeares shall they be burninge therof/ so that they shall els bringe no stiches from the felde/ neither haue neede to hew downe eny out of the wodde: for they shall haue weapens ynow to burne. They shall robbe those that robbed them/ and spoyle those that spoiled them/ sayeth the Lord God.

At the same tyme will I geue vnto Gog/ a place to be buried in/ in Israel: eue the valley/ wher the thowmen go from the east to the see warde. Those that traunple therby/ shall abhorre it. There shall Gog and all his people be buried: and it shall be called the valley of the people of Gog. Seuen monethes longe shall the house of Israel be buriege of them/ that they maye cleanse the lande. Yee al the people of the lande shall burye them. It shall be a glorious daye/ when I gett me that honoure/ sayeth the Lord God. They shall ordeyne men also to be deed buryers/ euer going thow the lande/ & appoynte them certayne places to burye those in/ whych remaine vpon the felde/ & the lande maye be cleansed. From ende to ende shall they seke/ and that vii. monethes longe. Now those that go thow the land/ wher they se a mans bone/ they shall set by a toke by it/ till the deed buryers haue buried it also/ in the valley of the people of Gog. And the name of the cite shall be called. What is that? mul monah: Thus shall they make the lande cleane.

And thou sonne of man: thus sayeth the Lord God: Speake vnto all the foules & euery byde/ yee and to all the wyde bestes of the felde: heape you together and come/ gather you rounde aboute vpon my slaughter/ that I haue layne for you: euen a greete slaughter vpon the mountaynes of Israel: eate fleshy and drinke bloude. Ye shall eate the fleshy of the worthies/ and drynke the bloude of the princes of the lande: of the wethers/ of the lamber/ of the goates/ and of the oxen that be al layne at Basan. Eate the fat your helphull/ and drynke bloud/ till ye be drunken of the slaughter/ whych I haue layne vnto you. Fill you at my table/ with horses & stronge horsemen: with capaynes and al men of warre/ sayeth the Lord God.

I will bringe my glozy also amonge the Gentyles/ that all the heathen maye se my iudgement/ that I haue kepte/ and my hand whych I haue layed vpon them: that the house of Israel maye knowe/ how that I am the Lord they God/ from that daye forth. And the heathen shall knowe/ that wher as the house of Israel were led in to captiuitie: it was for their wickednes sake/ because se they offended me.

For the whych cause I hyd my face from them/ and deliuered them in to the handes of their enemyes/ that they myght all be layne with the swerde. Accordyng to their wickednesse and vnfaithful dealinges/ so haue I entreated them/ and hyd my face from them. Therefore thus sayeth the Lord God: Now will I bringe agayne the captiues of Jacob and haue mercy vpon the whole house of Israel/ & be gelous for my holy names sake. All their confusid and offence that they haue done agaynst me/ shall be taken awaye: and so safely shall they dwell in their lande/ that no man shall make them a fraye. And when I haue

I haue brought them agayne from amonge the people/when I haue gathered the together out of their enemies sides/ & am pray- sed in them before many Heathen: then shall they knowe/that I am the Lord their God/ which suffered them to be led in to captiuitie amonge the Heathen/ but now haue brought them agayne in to their owne lande/ and not left one of them ponde.

Ezech. xxxv.

After that/ will I hyde my face nomore from them/ but will poure out my sperte vpon the house of Israel/ sayeth the Lord God.

The reuoluinge of the cyrpe & of the temple that was to come is shewed vnto the Prophecie.

The .xl. Chapter.

In the .xxv. yere of oure captiuitie/ in the beginning of the yere/ the .x. daye of the moneth: that is the .xv. yere/ after that the cite was layen downe: the same daye came the hand of the Lord vpon me/ & caried me forth: euē into the lande of Israel brought he me in the byssons of God: & set me downe vpon a mar- uelous hye mountayn/ wherupon there was a buyldynge (as it had bene of a cke) toward the north.

Whither he caried me/ and beholde/ there was a wall/ whose similitude was like brasse/ which had a chede of flax in his hande/ and a metterode also. He stode in the doze/ & sayde vnto me: marche well with thine eyes/ hearken to with thine eares/ & fallen is in thine hart/ whatsoeuer I shall shewe the/ for to the intent that they myght be shewed the/ ther- fore art thou brought hither. And whatsoe- ner thou seest/ thou shalt certifie the house of Israel therof.

Beholde/ there was a wall on the outside/ rounde aboute the house: the metterode that he had in his hande/ was six cubytes long & a spanne. So he measured the bredth of the buyldynge/ which was a metterode/ and the hegyth also a metterode. Then came he vnto the east doze/ & wente by the staves/ & mea- sured the postes of the doze: wherof every one was a metterode thicke. Every chābye was a metterode longe & brode: betwene the chā- bers were fyue cubytes. The poste of the doze within the porche/ was one metterode. He measured also the porche of the pinnermer doze/ whych conteyned a metterode. Then measured he the entre of the doze/ that con- teyned eight cubytes/ and his pylers two cu- bytes: and this entre stode inwarde.

The chambers of the doze eastwarde/ were thye on euery syde: a lyke brode and longe. The pylers also that stode of both the sydes/ were of one measure. After this/ he mea- sured the wydenesse of the doze/ which was .x.

cubytes/ & the hegyth of the doze .xv. cubytes. The edge before the chambers was one cu- byte brode vpon both the sydes/ & the cham- bers six cubytes wyde of either side. He mea- sured the doze from the rygge of one chābye to another/ whose wydenesse was .xxv. cubytes/ and one doze stode agaynst another. He made pylers also. .x. cubytes hye/ rounde about the court doze. Before the inward parte vnto the soze entre of the pinnermer doze/ were .x. cubytes. The chābers & their pylers within/ rounde about the doze/ had fyue wyndowes: So had the soze entres also/ whose wyndowes wente rounde about within. And vpon the pylers there stode date trees.

Then brought he me in to the soze court/ where as were chambers & pauerd wozeches/ made in the soze court rounde aboute. .xxv. chambers vpon one pauerd woche. Now the pauerd woche was a longe beside the dozes/ & it was the lower pauerd woche. After this/ he measured the bredth fro the lower doze/ vnto the pinnermer court of the outsyde/ which had an .C. cubytes vpon the east & the north parte. And the doze in the bitermost court toward the north/ measured he after the length & bredth: his thye chambers also on either side/ with his pylers & soze entres: which had euen the measure of the first doze. His hegyth was fyfty cubytes/ & bredth .xxv. cubytes: his wyndowes & porches with his date trees/ had euen lyke measure as the doze toward the east: there were .xv. steppes to go by the doze/ & their porche before them. Now the doze of the pinnermer court stode straight ouer agaynst the doze/ that was toward the north east. fro one doze to another/ he mea- sured. .C. cubytes.

After that/ he brought me to the southside/ where there stode a doze toward the south: whose pylers and porches he measured/ these had the fyft measure/ & with their porches they had wyndowes rounde aboute/ lyke the first wyndowes. The hegyth was .l. cubytes/ the bredth .xxv. & steppes to go by vpon his porche stode before him/ with his pylers and date trees on either side. And the doze of the pinnermer court stode toward the south/ & he measured from one doze to another an .C. cubytes. So he brought me in to the pinnermer court/ thozow the doze of the south syde: which he measured/ and it had the measure a soze sayde. In lyke maner/ his chambers/ pylers/ and soze entres/ had euē the soze sayde mea- sure also. And he had with his porches rounde aboute/ wyndowes of .x. cubytes hegyth/ & .xxv. cubytes brode. The porches round about were .xxv. cubytes longe/ and .v. cubytes brode: and his porch reached vnto the biter- most court: vpon his pylers there were date trees/trees/ and .xv. steppes to go by vpon.

He brought me also in to the pinnermost court vpon the east syde/ and measured the doze/ according to the measure a soze sayd. His chā- bers/ pylers/ and porches had euen the same measure/ as the fyft had: & with his porches he had wyndowes rounde aboute. The hegyth was .l. cubytes/ the bredth .xxv. cubytes: his porches reached vnto the bitermost court: his pylers also had date trees on either syde/ & .xv. steppes to go by vpon. And he brought me to the north doze/ and measured it/ which also had the soze sayd measure. His chābers/ pylers and porches had wyndowes rounde aboute: whose hegyth was .l. cubytes/ & the bredth .xxv. His pylers stode toward the bitermost court/ & vpon them both were date trees/ and .xv. steppes to go by vpon. There stode a chābye also/ whose intrance was at the doze pylers/ and there the burnt offe- rynges were washed.

In the doze porche/ there stode on either syde two tables for the slaught rynges: to slepe the burnt offerynges/ synn offerynges and trespass offerynges ther vpon. And on the out syde as men go forth to the north doze/ there stode two tables. Four tables stode on either syde of the doze/ & .xv. tables/ wher vpon they slaughtered. Four tables were of hewen stone for the burnt offerynges/ of a cubyte & a half longe and brode/ and one cubyte hye: wher vpon were layed the bestels and ozna- ments/ whych were used to the burnt and layne offerynges/ whē they were slaughtered. And within there were hokes four fingers brode/ fastened rounde aboute/ to hange flesh vpon/ and vpon the tables was layed the offerynges flesh. On the outsyde of the pinnermer doze were the syngers chambers in the inward courts belyde the north doze ouer agaynst the south. There stode one also/ be- syde the east doze northwarde.

L. xvi. 13. a. 14. a. 15. c.

And he sayde vnto me: This chābye on the South syde he longeth to the pylers/ & hepe the buyldynge: and thys toward the North/ & the pylers that wayte vpon the altar: which be the sonnes of Sadoch/ that do seruyce before the Lord in steade of the chyldren of Aui. So he measured the soze court/ whych had in length an .C. cubytes/ and as much in bredth by the four corners. Now the altar stode before the house: And he brought me to the soze entre of the house/ and measured the walles by the entre doze: which were fyue cubytes longe on either syde. The thiknesse also of the doze on either syde/ was thye cubytes. The length of the porche was .xx. cubytes/ the bredth .x. cubytes/ and vpon steppes went men by to it: by the walles also were pylers/ on either syde one.

The buyldynge and hepye of the buyldynge agayne the temple/ & of the other thynges thereto belongynge.

The .xli. Chapter.

After this he brought me to the temple/ & measured the postes: whych were of both the sydes. .xv. cubytes thicke/ according to the wydenesse of the tabernacle. The bredth of the doze was .x. cubytes and the walles of the doze on either syde fyue cubytes. He measured the length therof/ which conteyned .xl. cubytes/ and the bredth .xx. Then wente he in/ and measured the doze postes/ whych were two cubytes thicke: but the doze it selfe was fyue cubytes/ & the bredth of the doze was .xv. cubytes. He measured the length and bredth therof/ whych were euery one .xx. cubytes/ before the temple.

And he sayde vnto me: this is the holpest of all. He measured also the wall of the house/ whych was fyue cubytes. The chambers that stode rounde aboute the house/ were euery one four cubytes wyde/ & one stode harde vpon another/ wherof there were .xxv. And there stode postes beneath by the walles rounde aboute the house/ to beare the hye: but in the wall of the house they were not fastened: The syde chambers were the hyer the wyder/ and had steppes thozow them rounde aboute the house. Thus was it wyder aboute/ that from the lowest men might go to the hyest & mydd chambers. I sawe also that the house was very hye rounde aboute. The foundacyon of the syde chambers was a metterode (that is fyue cubytes) brode. The thiknesse of the syde wall without/ conteyned fyue cubytes/ & so byd the outwall of the chābers in the house.

Between the chambers/ was the wyde- nes .xx. cubytes rounde about the house. The chābye dozes stode ouer agaynst the out- wall/ the one doze was toward the north/ & other toward the South: & the thychnesse of the outwall was .v. cubytes rounde aboute. Now the buyldynge that was separated to- ward the west/ was .lxx. cubytes wyde: the wall of the buyldynge was .v. cubytes thicke rounde aboute/ & the length four score cu- bytes & ten. So he measured the house which was an .C. cubytes longe/ and the separated buyldynge with the wall were an .C. cubytes longe also. The wydenesse before the house & of it that was separated toward the East/ was an .C. cubytes.

And he measured the length of the buyl- dyng before and behynde with the chābers vpon both the sydes: and it conteyned an .C. cubytes. The pinnermer temple/ the porch of the soze court/ the side postes/ these thye had fyue wyndowes/ and pylers rounde aboute ouer agaynst the postes/ from the grounde up to the wyndowes: The wyndowes them selues were tyed ouer with boydes: and thus was it aboute the doze: vnto the ynnmost house: and without also: Yee the whole wall on euery syde both within and without was tyed ouer with greute boydes. There were Cherubins and date trees made also: so that one date tree stode ouer betwixte two Cherubins: One Cherub had two faces: & face of a man loyngye aspyde toward the date tre / and a lions face on & other syde. Thus was it made rounde aboute in at the house: Yee & Cherubins & date trees were made fro the ground vpon aboute the doze / & so stode they also vpon the wall of the temple.

The bypotes of the temple were four squared / and the fashion of the Sanctuary was euen as it appeared vnto me a foze in & bision. The table was of wodde / the cubytes hye and two cubytes longe: hye corners / the length and the walles were of wodde. And he sayde vnto me: This is the table: that shal stande before the Lozde. The temple & the holgest of al had ether of them two dozes: euery doze had two lytle wyckettes which were folden in one vpon another / on euery syde two. And vpon the dozes of the temple there were made Cherubins & date trees / lyke as vpon the walles: & a greute thicke balke of wodde was before on the out syde of & pozche. vpon both the sydes of the walles of the pozche: there were made hepe wyndowes & date trees / hauyngye beames and balles / lyke as the house had.

Of the chambers of the temple for the p:cares & the holy thynges.

The xliij. Chapter.

When caried he me out into & foze court toward & north / & brought me in to the chambze & stode ouer agaynst the backe buydyng north ward: which had the length of an. C. cubytes whose doze turned toward the north. & he wydenesse coteyned. L. cubites: ouer agaynst the. xx. cubites of the ynnmer court / and agaynst the paved woike that was in & foze court. Betwyde all these thze / there stode pylers / one ouer agaynst another: And before this chambze there was a walkyng place of x. cubites wyde / & within was a waye of one cubite wyde: & their dozes toward & north. Thus the hyest chambzes were allwaye narrower then the lowest and myddelmost of & building: for they bare chambze vpon chambze / and stode thze together one vpon another not hauyngye pilers lyke the foze court: therefoze were they smaller then those beneath and in the myddel / to rehen from the grounde vpwarde.

The wall without that stode by the chambzes toward the uttermost court vpon the foze syde of the chambzes / was L. cubytes longe: for the length of the uttermost chambzes in the foze court was L. cubites also: but & length thereof before the temple was an. C. cubites. These chambzes had vnder them an intrasse of the east syde / wherby a ma might go in to them out of the foze court / thozow the thicke wal of the foze court toward the east / right ouer agaynst the separated buydyng. Before the same buydyng vpon thys syde there were chambzes also whych had awaye vnto thys / lyke as the chambzes on & north syde of the same length & wydenesse.

Their intrance / saydon and dozes were also of the same maner. Yee euen lyke as the other chamber dozes were: so were those also of the south syde. And before the waye toward the fingers steyppes on the east syde: there stode a doze to go in at. Then sayde he vnto me: The chambzes toward the north & the south whych stande before the backe buydyng: those be holy habitacions / wheryn the prestes that do seruyce before the Lozde / must eate the most holy offeringes: and there must they laye the most holy offeringes: meatofferinges / synne offeringes & trespass offeringes / for it is an holy place. When the prestes come therein: they shal not go out in to & foze court: but (sepyngye they be holy) they shal leaue the clothes of their ministracion / and put on other garments / when they haue eny thyngye to do with the people.

Now when he had measured al the ynnmer house / he brought me forth thozow the east pozte / and measured the same rounde aboute. He measured the east syde in the metezodde / whych rounde aboute conteyned b. C. meteroddes. And the north syde measured he / which conteyned rounde aboute euen so much. The other two sydes also toward the south and the west (which he measured) conteyned ether of them b. C. meteroddes. So he measured all the four sydes where there wente a wall rounde aboute b. C. meteroddes longe / & as vnde also whych separated & holy from the vnholly.

The syth the glory of God goyng in to the Temple from whence it had before departed. He mentyoned the ybolatye of the children of Israel: for wher they were consumed & brought to nought. He was commaunded to call them agayne to repentance.

The xliij. Chapter.

When he brought me to & doze / & turneth toward the east. Beholde / then came the glory of the God of Israel from out of the east / whose bozce was like a greute noyse of waters / & the earth was lychtened with hye glory. His syght to loke vpon was lyke the fyr: that I sawe / when I wente in / what tyme as the cytye cytye shulde haue bene destroyed: and lyke & byson that I sawe by the water of Eobar. Then fell I vpon my face: but the glory of & Lozde came in to the house thozow the east doze. So a wynde toke me vp / and brought me in to the ynnmer court: & beholde / the house was full of the glory of the Lozde.

Ezechiel. l. c. lxviij. c. 1.

I herde one speakyng vnto me out of the house: and there stode one by me / that sayde vnto me: Thou sonne of man / this rowme is my seate / & the place of my fote steyppes: where as I wyll dwell amonge the chyldren of Israel for euermore: so that the house of Israel shal nomoze defile my holy name: neither they / ner their kyngs / thozow their whozdom / thozow their hye places / & thozow the deed bodys of their kynges: whych haue buylded their thze sholdes in maner harde vpon my thze sholdes / & their postres almost at my postres: so that there is but a bare wall betwixte me and them.

Thus haue they defyled my holy name with their abhominacions / that they haue comytted. Wherfoze I haue destroyed them in my wraoth: But now they shal put awaye their whozdom and the deed bodys of their kynges out of my syght / that I maye dwell amonge the for euermore. Wherfoze (Thou sonne of man) shewe thou the howsholde of Israel a temple: that they maye be a shamed of their wickednesse / and measure the selues an example therat.

Zach. 5. a.

And when they be a shamed of all their wozykes / then shewe them the fourme and fashion of the temple: the conuynge in / the goyngye out / all the maner and description thereof / yee all the bles and ordynances of it / & they maye kepe & fulfill all the lawis and customes thereof.

This is the descripcyon of the house: Aboute vpon the most rounde aboute all & corners / it shalbe & holgest of all. Beholde / that is the descripcyon and fashion of the house. This is the measure of the aulter (after the true cubyte: whych is a spanne longer then another cubyte) hye botome in the myddel was a cubyte longe and wyde / and the ledge that wente rounde aboute it / was a spanne hyde. This is the heygth of & aulter: from the grounde to the lower steyppes the length is two cubytes / and the bredth one cubyte: and from the lower steyppes to the higher are four cubytes / & the bredth but one cubyte.

The aulter was four cubytes hye / & fro the aulter vpwarde stode four hoynes / and it was. xij. cubytes longe and. xij. cubytes hyde / vpon & four corners: the conuynge of & aulter was. xiiij. cubytes longe and hyde vpon the four corners / and the ledge that wente rounde aboute / had half a cubite: and the botome thereof to side aboute one cubyte: hye steyppes stode toward the East. And he sayd vnto me: Thou sonne of man / thus saith the Lozde God: these are the ordynances & lawes of the aulter / in the daye when it is made to offere burnt offeringes / & to speckle the bloude ther vpon. To the prestes / to the Leuites that be of the sede of Sadoch / & treade before me to do me seruyce / sayeth the Lozde God: wanto these geue thou a ydge bulloche / for a synofferinge: & take the bloude of hym and sprenckle his four hoynes withall and the four corners of the aulter coueryngye / with & ledge that goeth rounde aboute: here with shalt thou clesse it / and reconcyte it. Thou shalt take the bullock also of the syn-offeringe / & burne hym in a seuerall place without the Sanctuary.

The nexte daye / take a goot buck with out blemish for a synofferynge. to reconcyte & aulter withall: lyke as it was reconcyed to the bulloche. Now when thou hast made it cleane / then offere a ponge bulloche without blemish / & a ramme out of the flocke with out blemish also: Offere the before the Lozde / and let the prest cast salt ther vpon / and geue them so vnto the Lozde for a burnt offering. Seuen dayes shalt thou bryngye / euery daye a goot buck. A yonge bulloche & a ramme of the flocke (both without blemish) shall they offere. Seuen dayes shall they reconcyte and clesse the aulter / & offere vpon it. When these dayes are expired / then vpon the. viij. daye and so forth / the prestes shal offere their burnt offeringes & health offeringes vpon the aulter: so wyll I be mercifull vnto you / sayeth the Lozde God.

The seuerth what doze of the temple is shutte. He is commaunded to vphayde the people with their offence. The vnconuynge in here & in the fleth. Who are to be admitted to the seruyce of the temple: and who to be refused. He sheweth what prestes he wold haue admytted in to the holy place: and also their offyce.

The xliij. Chapter.

After thys / he brought me agayne to the outwarde doze of the Sanctuary on the east syde / and that was shut. Then sayde the Lozde vnto me: This doze shall be styll shut / & not opened for eny man to go thozow it / but on ly for the Lozde God of Israel: yee he shall go thozow it / eis shall it be shut styll. The pynce hym selfe shall come thozow it / that he maye eate bread before the Lozde. At the pozche shall he come in. and there shall he go out agayne. Then brought he me to & doze / vpon the north syde of the house. And as I loked aboute me / beholde / & glory of & Lozde fylled the house: and I fell downe vpon my face. So the Lozde spake vnto me: Thou sonne of man / * fasten this to thyne herte / & saye vnto the / concerning all the ordynan-ces of the Lorde & all his lawes: ponde wel with thyn herte the comynge in of the house & the goynge forth of the Sanctuary: & tell that obdurate household of Israel: Thus sayeth the Lorde God: I haue now done ynough withall your abhominacions / seynge that ye haue brought in to my Sanctuary strangers / haunginge vn-circumcised hertes / and flesch / where thow my Sanctuary is defiled / when ye offre me bzeo / fat / and bloude.

Thus with all your abhominacions ye haue broken my couenawit / and not kepte the holp ordynances of my Sanctuary: but let keepers of my Sanctuary / eue after your awne mynde. Therfore thus sayeth þ Lorde God: Of all the strangers that dwell amonge the chyldren of Israel / no stranger (whose herte & flesch is not circumcised) shall come within my Sanctuary: No ner the Leuites that be gone backe to me / and haue dyceaued the people of Israel with all erroures / goynge after their ydoles. Therfore shall they beate their awne wyckednes. Shulde they be let & opened to mynpyre vnder the dozes of the house of my Sanctuary: And to do seruyce in the house: to slape burntofferings & sacrifices for the people: to stande before out myne hande ouer them (sayeth þ Lorde) so that now they must beate their awne ini-quyte / and not to come nye me / to serue me with their presthode / in my Sanctuary / & moost holpest of all: that they maye beate their awne shame & abhominacions / which they haue done. Shulde I vse the to be posters of the house / and to all the seruyce that is done therein: But the prestes the Leuites & sonnes of Sadoch / that kepte the holy or-dynances of my Sanctuary / when the chyldren of Israel were gone from me: shall come to me / to do me seruyce / to stande before me / and to offre me the fat and the bloude / sayeth the Lorde God.

They shall go in to my Sanctuary / and creade before my table / to do me seruyce / and to waite vpon myne ordynances. Now whē they go in at þ dozes of the pinnermer court:
they shall put on linnen clothes / to þ no wollyne come vpon them: whyle they do seruyce vnder the dozes of the pinnermer court / and within. They shall haue saye linnen bonet-tes vpon their heades / and lynn bzeches vpon their loynes / whyle in their labour they shall not put about them: And when they go forth to the people in to the outward court / they shall put of þ clothes / wherein they haue mynpyred / and lape them in the habytacron of the Sanctuary / and put on other apparel / lest they vnhalowe the people with their clothes.

They shall not haue their heades / ner no-ryth the busse of their hearre / but rounde their heades only. All the prestes that go in to the pinnermer court / shall dryncke no wyne.
They shall mary no wydow / nether one that is put from her husband: but a mayde of the sede of the house of Israel / or a wydow / þ hath had a prest before.

They shall wete my people the dyfference betwene the holy and unholy / betwixte the clete and vnclete. If any discorde arise / they shall dyscerne it / and geue sentence after my iudgements. My solempne seates / my lawes and ordynances shall they kepe / and halowe my Sabbathes. They shall come ac-cordinge to the lawe / to despyle the selues (excepte it be father or mother / sonne or daughter / brother or sister / þ hath had yet no husband) in loch they maye be despyled.

And when he is clement / there shall be re-hened vnto him. bñ. dayes: and yf he go in to þ Sanctuary agayne to do seruyce / he shall brynge a synoffrynge sayeth the Lorde God.
They shall haue an heretage / yee I my selfe will be their heretage: els shall ye geue the no possession in Israel / for I am their possession. The meatoffrynge / synoffryng & tres-paceoffryng shall they eate / and euery dedycate thing in Israel / shall be theirs. The firstlynges of all the first frutes / and all the first-offrynges shall be the prestes.

Ye shall geue vnto the prest also the firstlynges of your dowe / that God maye prospere the residue. But no deere carpon shall þ prest eate / ner loch as is deuoured of wyde beestes / foules or catell.

ly dayes / new Moones / Sabbathes / and in all the feastes of the house of Israel. The synoffrynge / meatoffrynge / burnt offering and healthoffrynge shall be geue / to recon-cyle þ house of Israel. Thus sayeth þ Lorde God: The first dayes of the first moneth thou shalt take a yonge bulloche without ble-myth / and clement the Sanctuary. So the preste shall take of the bloude of the synof-frynge / and sprenckle it vpon the postes of the house / and vpon the four corners of the altare / with the dozepestes of the pinnermer court. And thus shalt thou do also þ seuenth daye of the moneth (for loch as haue synned of ignoraunce / or beynge discaued) to recon-cyle the house withall. vpon the .xiii. daye of þ first moneth ye shall kepe Easter. Seuen dayes shall the feast contynue / wherin there shall no sower ne reuened bze be eatē.

vpon the same daye shall the prince geue for him selfe and all the people of the lande / a bulloche for a synoffrynge. And in þ feast of the seuen dayes he shall offre euery daye a bulloche & a ram / that are without blemish / for a burnt offering vnto the Lorde: and an he gaote daylye for a synoffrynge. For the meatoffrynges / he shall geue euery an Ephah to a bulloche / an Ephah to a ram / & an Ephah of oyle to an Ephah. vpon the .xv. daye of þ seuenth moneth / he shall kepe the seuen dayes holy one after another / eue as the other seuen dayes: with the synoffrynge / burnt offering / meatoffrynge / and with the oyle.

The sacrifices of the Sabbath & of the new mones. Wherof which dozes they must go in / & come out of the temple &c.

Chapter.
Thus sayeth the Lorde God: the doze of the pinnermer court toward þ East / shall be shut the .vi. woche dayes: but in the Sabbath and in daye of the newe Moone / it shall be opened.
When shall the prince come vnder the doze poche / and stande styll without by the doze cheke. So þ prestes shall offre vp his burnt and healthoffryngs. And he shall worshype at þ dozepestes / & go his waye forth agayne but the doze shall nomoze be shut tyll the euenyng.

On the same maner shall þ people of the lande also do their worshype before þ Lorde / without this doze vpon the Sabbathes & new Moones. This is now the burnt offe-rynge / that the prince shall brynge vnto þ Lorde vpon the Sabbath: .ix. lambes without blemish / and a ram without blemish / and an Ephah for a meatoffrynge / with the ram. As for the lambes / he maye geue as many meatofferings to them / as he will / & an Ephah of oyle to an Ephah. In the daye of the new moneth / it shall be a yonge bulloche without blemish / .ix. lambes & a ram also without blemish. With the bulloche he shall geue an Ephah / and with the ram an Ephah also for a meatoffryng: but to the lambes / what he maye come by: And euer an Ephah of oyle to an Ephah. When the prince cometh / he shall go vnder the doze porche/ and euen theredeparts forth agayne. But when the people of the lande come before the Lorde in the hye solempne feast / as many as come in by the North doze to do worshyppe / shall goo oute agayne at the South doze. And they shall come in at the South doze / shall go forth agayne at the North doze. There shall none go oute at the doze where he came in / but shall goo forth right ouer on the other syde / & p pince shall go in and out amonge them.

Upon the solempne and hye feaste dayes / this shall be the meatofferinge: An Ephra to a bullock and an Ephra to a ram / and to the lambe: as many as he will / but euer an Ephra of oyle to an Ephra. Now when the pynce bryngeth a burnt offeringe of an healthofferinge with a fre wyl into the Lorde / the east doze shall be opened vnto him / & he maye do with hys burnt and healthofferinges / as he doth vpon the Sabbath / and when he goeth forth / the doze shall be shutt after hym agayne. He shall baple brynge vnto the Lorde a lambe of a peare olde without blempe for a burnt offeringe: this shall he do euery moynge. And for a meatofferinge he shall geue the fyfte parte of an Ephra / & the thyrde parte of an Ephra of oyle (to myngle with the cakes) euery mourninge. Yee this shall be a dayly meatofferinge vnto the Lorde / for an euerlasting ordinance: & thus shall the lambe / the meatofferinge and oyle be geuen euery moynge / for a dayly burnt offeringe.

Doze ouer / thus sayeth the Lorde God: If the pynce geue a gylte vnto any of hys sonnes / then shall it be hys sonnes heretage perpetuall / & he maye possesse it. But if he will geue one of hys seruantes some of hys heretage / it shall be his to the fre peare / and the to retorne agayne vnto the pynce: for hys heretage shall be his sonnes only. The pynce also shall take none of the peoples enheritaunce / ner put the from their posseltyd: but to hys stone sonnes shall he geue his posseltyon / that my people be not scatred abrode / but that euery man maye haue his stone.

And he brought me thozow the intraunce at the syde of the doze to the habytacpon of the Sanctuary / that be longeth to the prestes and stode towarde the north / & beholde / there was a place vpon the West syde / then sayde he vnto me: This is the place / where the prestes shall light the trespase and synoffringes / & baple the meatofferinges: that they nede not beate them in to the outwarde court / and so to inhallowe the people. So he brought me in to the vttermost court / rounde aboute all the four corners. Beholde / in euery corner of the foze court / there was yet a lytle court. Yee in all the four corners of the court / there was made a lytle court of .xj. cubytes longe / and .xj. cubytes bryde: these four lytle courttes were of one lyke measure / & there wete a rygge wall rounde aboute them all four / vnder the wyche there were hartes made rounde aboute. Then sayd he vnto me: This is the hechin / where the mynisters of the house shall byght the sayne ofseruynges of the people.

The bysion of the waters that come out of the temple. The coastes of the lande of pynce / and the bysion thereof by the pynce.

The .xliij. Chapter.

After thys he brought me agayne before the doze of the house: and beholde / there gushed out waters fro vnder the postes of the house eastwarde (for the house stode towarde the east) that ranne downe vpon the ryght syde of the house / which lyeth to the aulter south ward. Then called he me out to the north doze / and brought me forth there rounde aboute by the vttermost doze that turneth east ward. Beholde / there came forth the water vpon the right syde. Now when the man had the meterodde in his hande wente vnto the east doze / he measured a .x. cubytes / & the he brought me thozow the water / euen to the angles: so he measured yet a thousand / & brought me thozow the water agayne vnto the knees: yet measured he a thousand / & brought me thozow the water vnto the loines. After this he measured a thousand agayne / then was it such a ryuer / that I myght not wade thozow it: & the water was so depe / that it was nedefull to haue swymmed / for it might not be waded ouer. And he sayde vnto me: Hast thou sene this / O thou sonne of man? and with that / he brought me to the ryuer banck agayne.

Now when I came there / there stode many trees vpon either syde of the ryuer banck. Then sayde he vnto me: This water that floweth oute towarde the east / and runneth downe in to the playne selde / cometh in to the see: and from the see it runneth out / & maketh the waters whole. Yee all that lyue and moue / where vnto this ryuer cometh / shall recouer. And where thys water cometh / there shall be moch fysh. For all that cometh to this water / shall be lusty and whole. By this ryuer shall the syluers stonde from Engadd vnto En Gaim / & there shalde oute these nettes: for there shall be greates heape of fysh / lyke as in the mayne see. As for hys clape & pyttes / they shall not be whole / for wyche shall be occupide for salt.

By this ryuer vpon both the sydes of the thozow / there shall growe al maner of frute full trees / whose leaues shall not fall of / nether shall their frute perishe: but euer be rypp at their their monethes / for their water runneth out of their Sanctuary. Hys frute is good to eat / and hys leafe profitable for medecyne. Thus sayeth the Lorde God: Let this be the border / wherein ye shall deuyde the lande vnto the .xij. tribes of Israel / with the lyne. Parte it indifferently vnto one as vnto another: of the which lande I swore vnto your fathers / that it shulde fall to your enheritaunce.

This is the border of the lande vpon the north syde / from the mayne see / as men go to Zabada: namely Demath / Berotha / Sabatim: from the borders of Damascus & Demath vnto Hazer Echon / & that lyeth vpon the coastes of Hauran. Thus the borders fro the see to the West / shall be Hazer Echon / the border of Damascus the North / and the borders of Demath: that is the North parte.

The east syde shall ye measure from Hauran and Damascus / from Salead and the lande of Israel by Tozane and so forth / fro the see coast / that lyeth eastwarde: and this is the east parte.

The south syde is / from Chamar forth to the waters of Dryfe vnto Cadca / the ryuer / to the mayne see: and that is the south part. The west parte: namely the greates see fro the borders thereof / tyll a mase come vnto Demath: this is the west parte.

This lande shall ye parte amonge you / according to the tribes of Israel / & deuide it to be an heretage for you / & for the straungers that dwell amonge you / & begette chyldren. For ye shall take the amonge the chyldren of Israel / lyke as though they were of your aunte householde & costre / & they shall haue heretage in you amonge the chyldren of Israel. Loke in what tribe the stranger dwelleth / in the same tribe shall ye geue hym his heretage / sayeth the Lorde God.

Loke in what tribe the stranger dwelleth / in the same tribe shall ye geue hym his heretage / sayeth the Lorde God.

The lottes of the .xij. tribes. The partes of the posseltyon of the pynce / & of the temple / of the Leuites / of the cyte / of the pynce / are rehearsed. The lottes of the other tribes. The gates of the cyte.

The .xliij. Chapter.

These are the names of the trybes / I saye vpon the north syde / by the waye of Betion / tyll thou comest vnto Demath & Hazer Echon / the borders of Damascus towarde the north beside Demath: Wan shall haue his porcion from the east quarter vnto the west. vpon the borders of Wan fro the east syde vnto the west / shall Aser haue his porcion. vpon the borders of Aser from the east parte vnto the west shall Nephthali haue his porcion.

Vpon the borders of Nephthali from the east quarter vnto the west / shall Manasses haue his porcion. vpon the borders of Manasses from the east syde vnto the west / shall

Ephraim haue his porcion. vpon the borders of Ephraim from the east parte vnto the west / shall Ruben haue his porcion. vpon the borders of Ruben from the east quarter vnto the west / shall Iuda haue his porcion: vpon the borders of Iuda fro the east parte vnto the west / ye shall set asyde one porcion of .xv. meteroddes longe and bryde (like as another porcion from the east syde vnto the west) wherein the Sanctuary shall stode.

As for the porcion / that ye shall separate out for the Lorde / it shall be .xv. meteroddes longe / and .x. meteroddes bryde. which separated holy porcion shall belonge vnto these: namely to the prestes / towarde the north .xv. meteroddes / towarde the west .x. meteroddes / towarde the east .x. meteroddes also / & towarde the south .xv. meteroddes / wherein the Sanctuary of the Lorde shall stode. Yee this same place shall be the pyntes / & are of the chyldren of Sadoch / & haue kepte my holy obdyaunce: which wete not astraye in the erroure of the chyldren of Israel / lyke as the Leuites are gone astraye: & this separated pece / they haue of the lande shall be the most holy / harde vpon the borders of the Leuites. And nexte vnto the prestes / shall the Leuites haue .xv. meteroddes longe / and .x. meteroddes bryde. Thus shall be on euery syde .xv. meteroddes longe / and .x. meteroddes bryde. Of this porcion they shall sell nothinge / ner make any permutacyon thereof / lest the cheefe of the lande fall vnto other / for it is halowed vnto the Lorde.

The other .x. meteroddes / after the bryde / lyeth by the .xv. meteroddes / shall be comen: it shall beloge to the cyte and to the suburbs for habytacyons / & the cite shall stode in the myddest thereof. Let this be the measure: towarde the north parte .v. meteroddes / & .x. meteroddes / towarde the south parte .v. meteroddes / & .x. meteroddes / towarde the east parte .v. meteroddes / & .x. meteroddes / towarde the west parte .v. meteroddes / & .x. meteroddes.

The suburbs harde vpon the cyte / shall haue towarde the north .x. meteroddes / & towarde the south .x. meteroddes / & towarde the east .x. meteroddes / & towarde the west .x. meteroddes also. As for the residue of the length / that lyeth harde vpon the separated holy ground: namely .x. thousande towarde the east / and .x. meteroddes towarde the west / nexte vnto the holy porcion: it and the increas thereof shall serue for their meate / that labour in the cyte. They that labour for the welth of the trybe / shall manteyne this also / out of what tribe soener they be in Israel.

All that is separated of the .xv. meteroddes longe and .x. meteroddes bryde on the four partes / that shall ye put asyde for the separated porcion of the Sanctuary / & for the posseltyon of the cite. The residue vpon both the sydes of the Sanctuary and posseltyon of the cyte / shall belonge

2 20

The Prophecie of the captiuitie of Iehonim kinge of Iuda. Of the sonnes that were in captiui-tye: the kynge commaundeth to chuse which of them shall be taught the lernyng & language of the Chaldees. They are alowed the kynge sedyn. Daniel absteyneth from the meate of the kynge of Babylon.
The science and instructioun of these chyliden.

The fyrst Chapter.

In the thyrde yere of a raygne of Iehonim kinge of Iuda / came Nabuchodo-nosor kinge of Babylon vnto Ierusalem / & beleged it: and the Lorde deliuered Iehonim the kynge of Iuda in to his hande / with certaine ornaments of his house of God / which he caried awaye vnto the lande of Sennar / to the house of his god: and there he broughte them into his goddes treasury. And the king spake vnto Asaphan: & chese chamerlayne / that he shulde bynne hym certayne of the chyliden of Ierusalem / that were come of the kynge seide & of princes / yonge springaldes without any blemyshe / but saye & well fauored / instructe in all wysdome / connyng and bnderstandynge: which were able to stande in the kynge's palace / to reade and to lerne so / to speake Caldeish.

vnto these & the kynge appoynted a certayne porcion of his aowne meate / & of the wyne / which he dranke himself / so to noypp them thre yere: & afterwarde they myght stande before the kynge. Amonge these now were certayne of the chyliden of Iuda: namely Daniel / Ananias / Misael and Azarias. vnto these & chese chamberlayne gaue other names / & called Daniel / Baltasar: Ananias / Sadrach: Misael / Misach: and Azarias / Abednago. But Daniel was at a poynt to himself / & he wolde not be defyled thowgh kynge's meate / nor & wyne which he dracke.
And thus he despyed of the chese Chamber-layne / lest he shulde defile hymself. So God gaue Daniel fauoure and grace before the chese chamberlayne / that he sayde vnto him: I am a strayed of my lord the kynge / whych hath appoynted you your meate & drinke:
lest he spee your faces to be worse lykynge then & other springaldes of your age / & so ye shall make me lose my head vnto & king.

Then Daniel answered Baltasar / whom the chese chamberlayne had set ouer Daniel / Ananias / Misael and Azarias / & sayde: & proue but ten dayes with thy seruantes / & let vs haue potage to eate / & water to drin-ke: then loke vpon our faces / & theys that eate of the kynge's meate. And as thou seist / so deale

to deale with thy seruantes. So he consented to them in this matter / & proued them. x. dayes. And after the ten dayes / their faces were better lykynge & fatter / then all the yong springaldes / which ate of the kynge's meate.

Thus Baltasar toke awaye their meate and wyne / and gaue them potage therfore.
God gaue now these four springaldes con-nyng and lernyng in all scripture and wy-sdom: but vnto Daniel specially / he gaue bnderstandynge of all bysones and dreames.
Now when the tyme was expyred / that the kynge had appoynted to bynne in these yong springaldes vnto hym: the chese chamber-layne brought them before Nabuchodonosor / and the kynge communed with the. But amonge them all were founde none soch as Daniel / Ananias / Misael / and Azarias.
Therfore stode they before the kynge / which in all wysdome & matters of bnderstanding / & he enquired of the / founde the ten tymes better / then all the sothsayers & charmers / that were in all his realme. And Daniel abode still vnto the fyrst yere of kynge Cirus.

Of the dreame of Nabuchodonosor. He caith vnto hym sothsayers / and requyeth of them both the dreame and the interpretacioun therof. They answer that they can not shewe it. The kynge commaundeth all the wyle men of Babylon to be slayne. Daniel re-quyeth tyme to solute the questyon. The Lorde openeth the mystry vnto Daniel. Daniel is brought vnto the kynge & sheweth him his dreame & the interpacioun therof. Of the eueryllynge kyngdomes of this world. The stone which Daniel is exalted & promoted of the kynge.

The ij. Chapter.

In the seconde yere of the raigne of Nabuchodonosor / had Nabu-chodonosor a dreame / where tho-row his spete was vexed / and his sleepe drake from him. When the kynge commaundeth to call to gether all the sothsayers / charmers / witches & Caldees / for to shewe the kynge his dreame. So they came / & stode before the kynge. And the kynge sayde vnto them: I haue dreamed a dreame / & my spete was so troubled therby / & I haue clene forgotten / what I dreamed. vpon this the Caldees answered the kynge in the Syrians tongue: & sayde: O king / God saue thy lyfe for ever.
Shewe thy seruantes the dreame / & we shall shewe the / what it meaneth. The kynge gaue the Caldees their answer / & sayde: It is gone from me: yet ye wyll not make me bnderstande the dreame with the interpretacioun therof / ye shall dye / & your houses shalbe pyld.
But if ye tell me the dreame & the meanynge therof / ye shall haue of me giftes / & rewardes of a grete honoure: only shewe me the dreame and the lernynge therof. They answered agayne / and sayde: the kynge must shewe his seruantes the dreame / and so shall we declare what it meaneth. When the kynge answered / sayinge: I perceaue of a trueth / that ye do but prolonge the tyme: for so much as ye se / & the thinge is gone from me. Therfore ye wyll not tell me & dreame / ye shall al haue one iudgement. But ye sayne & dyssemble to hauye wordes / which ye speake before me / to put off tyme. Therfore tell me & dreame / so that I knowe / & ye can shewe me / what it meaneth. vpon this / the Caldees gaue answer before the kynge / and sayde: there is no man vpon earth / & can tell the thynge / which the kynge speaketh of: for there is nether kynge / prince / nor Lorde / that euer asked soch thinges at a sothsayer / charmer / or Cal-deer: for it is a very harde matter / & the thing requyeth. Nether is there any / that can cer-tifie the kynge therof / excepte the goddes:

whose dwelling is not amonge the creatures.

For the which cause the kynge was wroth with grete indignacion / and commaunded to de stroye all the wyle men at Babylon: & the proclamacioun wente forth / that the wyle men shulde be slayne. They sought also to slaye Daniel with his companions. When Daniel enquired Arloch the kynge's steward / of the iudgement and sentence / that was gone forth alredy / & he soch as were wyle at Babylon.
He answered and sayde vnto Arloch beynge then the kynge's depute: why hath the kynge proclaimed so cruell a sentence? So Arloch tolde Daniel the matter. vpon this / wente Daniel by / and despyed the kynge / that he myght haue leysoure / to shewe the kynge the interpretacioun: & then came he home agayne & shewed the thinge vnto Ananias / Misael & Azarias his companions: & they shulde be-seche & God of heauē for grace in this secret / that Daniel & his felowes with other soch as were wyle in Babylon / perished not. When was the mystry shewed vnto Daniel in a byson by night. And Daniel prayled & God of heauē. Daniel also cried loude / & sayde:
O that the name of God myght be prayled for ever and ever / for wysdome & strength are his aowne: he chaungeth the tymes and ages: he putteth downe kynge / he setteth vp kynge: he geueth wysdome vnto the wyle / & bnderstandynge to those that bnderstande / he openeth the depe secretes: he knoweth the thinge that lyeth in darcknesse / for the light dwelleth with him. I thanke the / & prayse the / O thou God of my fathers / & thou hast kept me wysdome & strength / & hast shewed me the thinge / that we despyed of / for thou hast opened the kynge's matter vnto me.

vpon this went Daniel in vnto Arloch / whom the kynge had ordeined to de stroye the wyle at Babylon: he went vnto him / & sayde:
de stroye not soch us as are wyle in Babylon /

but byngeme in unto þe kyng / and I shall shewe the kyng the interpretacyon. Then Arioch brought Daniel in to the kyng in all the halles / and sayd unto him: I have founde a man amonge the prisoners of Iuda / that shall shewe the kyng the interpretacyon. Then answered the kyng / & sayde unto Daniel / whose name was Balthasar: Art thou he / that canst shewe me the dreame / which I have sene / & the interpretacyon therof? Daniel answered the kyng to his face / & sayde: As for this secreete / for the which the kyng maketh inquisicion: it is neither the wyse / the sozcerer / the charmer / nor þe dwell confu- rer / that can certifie the kyng of it: Only God in heauen can open secretes / & he it is / that sheweth the kyng Nabuchodonosor / what is for to come in the latter dayes.

The dreame / & that which thou hast sene in thine head upon thy bed / is this: O kyng / thou dydest cast in thy mynde / what shulde come hereafter: So he that is the opener of mysteries / telleth the / what is for to come. As for me / this secreete is not shewed me / for eny wyldome þe I have / more then eny other kyng: but only þe I myght shewe the kyng the interpretacyon / & that he myght knowe þe thoughtes of his a wne herte. Thou kyng sawest / and beholdest there stode before the a greate Image / whose fygure was mar- tulous greate / and his bylage grymme. The Image head was of fyne golde / his brest & armes of syluer / his body & loynes were of copper / his legges were of yron / his fete were parte of yron / and parte of earth.

This thou sawest / tyll the tyme that (with out eny handes) there was hewen of a stone which smote the Image upon the fete / that were both of yron and earth / and brake the to powder: then was the yron / the earth / the copper / the syluer and golde broken alto- gether in peces: and he came lyke the chaffe of come / that the wynde bloweth awaye from the corner floozes / that they can no more be founde. But þe stone that smote the Image / became a greate mountayne / which fulfyl- leth the whole earth: & this is þe dreame. And now wyll we shewe before the kyng / what it meaneth.

O kyng / thou art a kyng of kynges: & for the God of heave hath geue the a kyng- dome / ryches / strength and maiesty: & hath deliuered the all thynges / that are amonge þe chyldre of men: the beastes of the felde / & the foules vnder the heave / and geue the do- minyon ouer them all. Thou art that golden head. After þe there shall aryse another kyng- dome / which shall be lesse then thyne. The thyrde kyngdome shall be like copper / & haue domynacion in all lāues. The fourth kyngdome shall be as stronge as yron. For lyke as yron breaketh and breaketh all thynges: Yee euen as yron beatech euery thyng downe / so shall it beate downe and destruye.

Where as thou sawest the fete and tocs / parte of earth and parte of yron: that is a de- uyded kyngdome / which neuertheles shall haue some of the yron growde mixt with it / for so much as thou hast sene the yron mixt with the claye.

The tocs of the fete that were parte of yron and parte of claye / signifyeth: that it shalbe a kyngdome partly strong and part ely weakie. And where as thou sawest yron mixt with claye: they shall myngle them selues with the fete of synple people / & yet not contynue one with another / like as yron wyll not be souldered with a postherbe.

In the dayes of these kynges / shall the God of heauen set by an euertlastyng kyngdome which shall not perishe / & his kyngdome shal not be geuen ouer to another people: yee the same shall brake & destruye all these kyng- domes / but it shall endure for euer.

And where as thou sawest / that without eny handes there was cut out of the mounte a stone / which brake the yron / the copper / & earth / the syluer and golde in peces: by that hath the greate God shewed the kyng / what wyll come after this. This is a true dreame / and the interpretacyon of it is sure.

Then the kyng Nabuchodonosor fell downe upon his face / and bowed him self to Daniel / and commaunded that they shulde offre meat offrynges and swete odoures vnto hym. The kyng answered Daniel / and sayde: yee of a treuth your God is a God aboue all goddes / a Lord aboue all kynges / and an opener of secretes: for byng thou canst discouer this myserie. So the kyng made Daniel a greate man / and gaue hym many and greate gyftes.

He made hym ruler of all the countreys of Babylon / and lord of all the nobles / that were at Babylon. Now Daniel intreated the kyng for Sydrach / Misach and Abedna- go / so that he made them rulers ouer all the offyces in the lande of Babylon: But Daniel hym selfe remayned vyl in the court by the kyng.

The kyng set by a golden Image / which he commaunded to be worshipped. Sydrach / Misach and Abednago are accused because they dyspyd þe kyngs commaundement. They are brought vnto the kyng & commaunded to worshyp the Image. They refuse to do it and are put in to a burnyng ouen. By the helpe of God they are deliuered from the fyre. Nabucho- donosor confelleth the power of God after sight of the myracle.

The .iiij. Chapter.

Nabu-

Nabuchodonosor the kyng caused a golde Image to be made / which was .lx. cubytes hye / and lyke ci- brites thicke. This he made to be set by in the felde of * Bura in the lande of Babylon & sent oute to gather together the dukes / lordes and nobles / the iudges and of- ficers / & debytes & myctues / with all the ru- lers of the lande: that they might come to the dedication of the Image which Nabuchodo- nosor the kyng had set by: So the dukes / lordes and nobles / the iudges and officers / debytes and myctues with all the rulers of the lande gathered them together / and came vnto the dedication of the Image / that Na- buchodonosor the kyng had set by.

Now when they stode before the Image / which Nabuchodonosor set by / & debelcried out with al his might: O ye people / kynges / lordes and tinges / to you be it sayde: that when ye heare the noyse of the trompettes / which shalbe blowne / with the harpes / shawmes / psalteries / symphonies and all maner of Musick: ye fall downe and worshype þe gol- den Image / that Nabuchodonosor the kyng hath set by. Whoso then falleth not downe & boweth hym selfe / shall euen þe same houre be cast in to an hote burnyng ouen. Ther- fore / when all the folke herde the noyse of þe trompettes that were blowne / with the har- pes / shawmes / psalteries / symphonies & all kynde of melody: then all þe people / kyng- redes and nacpons fell downe / and bowed them selues vnto the golden Image / & Na- buchodonosor the kyng had set by.

Now were there certayne men of the Cal- dees / that wente euen then and accused the yewes / and sayde vnto the kyng Nabucho- donosor: This kyng / God saue thy lyfe for euer. Thou beynge kyng hast geuen a commaun- dement / that all men when they heare noyse of the trompettes / harpes / shawmes / psal- teries / symphonies and all the other melo- dies: shal fall downe and bowe them selues towarde the golden Image: who so then fell not downe / nor worshipped not / that he shul- de be cast in to an hote burnyng ouen. Now are there .iiii. iewes / whom thou hast set ouer the wyces of the lande of Babylon: namely / Sydrach / Misach & Abednago. These men (O kyng) regarde not thy com- maundement: yee they wyll not serue thy god- des / nor bowe them selues to the golde Im- age / that thou hast set by.

Then Nabuchodonosor in a cruell wrath and dyspleure / commaunded / that Sydrach / Misach and Abednago shulde be brought vnto hym. For these men were brought be- fore þe kyng / when Nabuchodonosor spake vnto them / and sayd: what? O Sydrach Mi-sach and Abednago / wyll not ye serue my goddes: nor bowe your selues to the golden Image / that I haue set by: well / be rephers- after / when ye heare the noyse of the trom- pettes blome with the harpes / shawmes / psalteries / symphonies and all þe other me- lodges: that ye fall downe / & worshype the Image which I haue made. But ye ye wor- shype it not / ye shall be cast immediately in to an hote burnyng ouen. Let se / what God is there / that maye deliuer you oute of my handes: Sydrach / Misach and Abednago answered the kyng / & sayde: O Nabucho- donosor / we ought not to consente vnto þe in this matter / for why: our God whome we ser- ue / is able to kepe vs fro the hote burnyng ouen (O kyng) and can right well deliuer vs out of thy handes. And though he wyll not / yet shalt thou knowe (O kyng) that we wyll not serue thy goddes / nor do reuerence to the Image / which thou hast set by. Then was Nabuchodonosor full of indignacyon / so þe countenance of his face charged vnto Sy- drach / Misach and Abednago. Therefore he charged and commaunded / that the ouen shulde be made seven tymes hote / then it was wonte to be: & spake vnto the strongest worthies that were in his hoste / for to binde Sydrach / Misach and Abednago / & to cast them in to the hote burnyng ouen.

So these men were bounde in their cotes hosen / shues with their other garmentes / & cast in to the hote burnyng ouen: for þe kynges commaundement was so strate / and the ouen was exceeding hote. As for the men þe put in Sydrach / Misach & Abednago / the flame of þe fyre destroyed the. And these the me Sydrach / Misach & Abednago fell downe in the hote burnyng ouen / beinge faste beside. Then Nabuchodonosor þe kyng mar- ueled / and stode by in all hast: he spake vnto his counsell and sayde: dyd not ye cast these thre men bounde in to the fyre? They answer- ed / and sayde vnto the kyng: Yee O kyng. He answered and sayde: lo for all that / yet do ye se four men goynge lowe in the myddest of the fyre / and nothinge corrupte: and the fourth is lyke an angell to loke vpon. Upon act. ix. a. this went Nabuchodonosor vnto the mouth of the hote burnyng ouen: he spake also / & sayde: O Sydrach / Misach & Abednago / ye seruantes of the hye God go forth / and come hither. And so Sydrach / Misach / & Abednago were out of þe fyre. When þe dukes lordes and nobles / and the kynges counsell came together to se these men / vpon whome the fyre had no maner of power in their bodies: In somoch that the berghearre of their head was not burnt / & their clothes unchaged: Yee there was no smel of fyre felt vnto them. Then

Then spake Nabuchodonosor / and sayde: Blessed be the God of Shadrach / Meshach & Abednago: which hath sent hys angell / & defended his seruantes / that put their trust in him: that haue altered þe kynges comaundement: and leoperde their bodies therpon: rather then they wolde serue oʒ moʒshype eny other God / excepte their awne God only. Therfore I wyll and commaunde / that all people / kynredes and tunges / which speake any blasphemyp agaynst þe God of Shadrach / Meshach / and Abednago / shall dye / and their houses shall be pyld: Because there is no God that maye saue / as this. So the kyng promoted Shadrach / Meshach / and Abednago / in the lande of Babylon.

Nabuchodonosor dreameth agayne. Daniel interpreteth it. Nabuchodonosor is put out of his realme / and eateth with bestes. He receiveth the power of God / and is restored into his kyngdome.

The .iiij. Chapter.

Nabuchodonosor kyng bnto all people / kynredes and tunges þe dwell vpon þe hole earth: peace be multiplied amōge you: thought it good to shewe the tokens and maruelous woʒkes / that the hie God hath woʒght vpon me. How greates are his tokens / and how mightie are hys wonders? His kyngdome is an euerslastyng kyngdome / and his power lasteth for ever and euer.

I Nabuchodonosor beyng at rest in myne house / and slozthynge in my palace / sawe a dreame / whych made me afayrd: and the thoughtes that I had vpon my bed / with the byspons of myne head / troubled me. When I sent out a comission / þe all they which were of wyldome at Babylon wolde be brought before me / to tell me the interpretacyon of the dreame. So there came the soothsayers / charmers / Caldees and conlurers of deuils: to whom I tolde the dreame / but what it be tokened / they coude not shewe me: till at þe last / there came one Daniel (otherwise called Balthasar / accordyng to the name of my God) which hath þe spyete of the holy goddys / in him: to whom I tolde the dreame / sayng: O Balthasar / thou pryce of Soothsayers: soz to moch as I knowe / that thou hast the spyete of the holy Goddes and no secrete is hyd from the: tell me therfore / what the byspon of my dreame (that I haue sente) maye signifye. I sawe a byspon in my head vpon my bed: and beholde / there stode a tre vpon the grounde / whych was very hye / greates and myghtye: the heygth reached vnto the heauen / and the bredth extended to all the endes of the earth: his leues were saye / he had very moch fruite / so that euery man had ynough to eate therin.

The bestes of the feild had shadowes vnder it / and the foules of the ayre dwelt in the bowes therof. So shortly / all creatures fed of it. I sawe in my head a byspon vpon my bed: a beholde / a watcher came downe fro heauen / & cryed myghtely / sayng. Hew downe þe tre / bryake of his bryanches / shake of his leaves / and scatere his fruite abrode: that all the bestes maye get them awaye fro vnder him / and the foules from his bryanches. Hewertherles leaue the grounde of his rote styll in the earth / and hynde him vpon the playne felde / with cheynes of yron and stele. With the dew of heauen shall he be wet / & he shall haue his parte in the herbes of the grounde with other wyld bestes.

That mans herte of his shall be take fro him / and a bestes herte shall be geue him / till seuen yeres be come and gone vpon him.

This erande of þe watcher is a comaundment grounded and fought out in the counsell of him / that is most holy: to learne men soz to vnderstande / that þe hie hath power ouer the kyngdomes of men / & geueth the / to whom it lyeth hym / & byngeth the very oute castes of men ouer them. & hys is the dreame / that I kyng Nabuchodonosor haue sente. Therfore O Balthasar / tell thou me what it signifyeth: soz to moch as all þe wyse men of my kyngdome are not able to shewe me / what it meaneth. But thou canst do it / soz þe spyete of the holy Goddes is in the.

Then Daniel (whose name was Balthasar) helde his peace by the space of an houre and hys thoughtes troubled hym. So the kyng spake / & sayde: O Balthasar / lett neether the dreame ner the interpretacyon thereof feare the. Balthasar answered / sayng: O my Lord / this dreame happento thyne enemyes / & the interpretacyon to thyne aduersaries. As soz þe tre that thou sawest which was so greates myghtye / whose heygth reached vnto the heauen / and hys bredth vnto all the world: whose leues were saye / & whose moch: vnder the which the bestes of þe feild had their habitacyon / and vpon whose bryanches the foules of the ayre byd byt.

Even thou (O kyng) art the tre / greates & stronge. & thy greatnesse increaseth / & reacheth vnto the heauen / so doth thy power to þe endes of the earth. But wher as the kyng sawe a watcher euen an holy angell / þe came downe from heauen / and sayde: Hew downe the tre / and destroye it: yet leaue the ground of the rote in the earth: and hynde hym vpon the playne felde with cheynes of yron & stele: he shall be wet with the dew of heauen / and his parte shall be with þe bestes of the feild: till seuen yeres be come and gone vpon him: & this (O kyng) is the interpretacyon / yee fe

Daniel. v. c.

Thou shalt be cast oute fro men / and thy dwelling shall be with the bestes of þe feild: with grasse shall thou be fed lyke an oxe. Thou must be wet with the dew of the heauen: yee seuen yeres shall come / & go vpon the / till thou knowe / þe hieft hath power vpon the kyngdomes of men / & geueth them to whom he lyst. Moztouer / wher as it was sayde / that the rote of the tre shulde be left styll in the grounde: it betokeneth / that thy kyngdome shall remayne whole vnto the / after thou hast lerned to knowe / that the power cometh from heauen. I wherfore / O kyng / be content with my counsell / that thou mayest loose thy synnes with ryghtuousnesse / and thyne offences with mercy to poore people: soz soch thynges shall prolonge thy peace. All these thynges touche the kyng Nabuchodonosor.

Daniel. v. c.

So after .xiiij. monethes / the kyng walked by a downe in the palace of the kyngdome of Babylon / and sayde: This is the greates cye of Babylon / which I my self / with my power & strength / haue made a kynges court / for þe honour of my mageste. Whyle these woʒkes were yet in the kynges mouth / there fell a bopee from heauen / sayng: O kyng Nabuchodonosor / to þe be it spokē: thy kyngdome shall departe from the / thou shalt be cast out of mens company: thy dwelling shall be with the bestes of þe feild / so that thou shalt eate grasse lyke an oxe / till seuen yeres be come & gone ouer the: euen vntill thou knowest / þe hieft hath power vpon the kyngdomes of men / and that he may geue them / vnto whd it pleaseth hym. & the very same houre was this matter fulfilled vpon Nabuchodonosor: so that he was cast oute of mens company / and ate grasse lyke an oxe. His body was wet with the dew of heauen / till his heertes were as greates as Eagles fethers / & his nailes like bydes clawes.

When thystyme was past / I Nabuchodonosor lute by myne eyes vnto heauen / and myne vnderstandynge was restored vnto me agayne. When I gaue I thanches vnto the hyghet / I magnified and prayled hym that lyueth for evermore / whose power endureth alwaye / and his kyngdome from one generation to another: in comparison of whom / all they that dwell vpon the earth / are to be reputed as nothyng.

He hanleth accordyng to his will / amōge the powers of heauen & amōge the inhabytours of the earth: and there is none þe maye resyste hys hande / oʒ saye: what doest thou? At the same tyme was myne vnderstandynge greden me agayne / and I was restored to the honoure of my kyngdome / to mydynite / & to myne awne shappe agayne. A ygreates estates and Princes fought vnto me / and I was set in my kyngdome agayne / so that I had yet greates woʒshype.

Then dyd I Nabuchodonosor / loue / magnifye and prayle the kyng of heauen: soz all his woʒkes are true / and hys wayes right. As soz those that go on proudly / he is able to bynge them downe.

O Balthazar kyng of Babylon / abusynge the beile of the temple / with an hande wytyng in the wall. The sothe saye is calle d of the kyng / can not erposide the wytyng. Daniel is calle d / which readeth it / and interpreteth it also. Balthazar bringe agayne / Darus succedeth in his rowme.

The .v. Chapter.

Kyng Balthazar made a greates bancket to his thousande Lordes: with all these thousande he made greates chere / & wher he was dyonced with wyne / he comaunded to bynge him the golden & syluer beileis / which his father Nabuchodonosor had taken out of the temple at Jerusalem: that the kyng and hys lordes with his quene & concubynes might dynche therout.

So they brought the golden beile / that was taken out of the temple of the Lordes house at Jerusalem. When the kyng and hys lordes with his quene & concubynes dydche out of them. They dyonched wyne / and prayled their Idoles of golde / syluer / copper / yd / wodde and stone.

In the very same houre there appeared 3 fingers / as it had bene of a mans hande wytyng / right ouer agaynst the candlepyche vpon the playne wall in the kynges palace: & the kyng sawe the palme of the hande that wrote. When chaunged the kyng his countenance / and his thoughtes troubled hym / so that the soyntes of hys body shoke / and hys knees smote one agaynst þe other. I wherfore the kyng cryed myghtely / that they shulde bringe hym the charmers / Caldees and conlurers of deuils. & the kyng spake also to the wyse men of Babylon / and sayde: Who so cā rede this wytyng / and shewe me the playne meanyng therof: shall be clothed with purple / haue a cheyne of golde aboute his necke / and rule the thyrd part of my kyngdome.

Upon this / came all the kynges wyse men: but they coude neether rede the wytyng / ner shewe the kyng what it signified. When was the kyng soz afayrd in so moch / þe his coloure chaunged / and hys lordes were soz be- red. So by reason of thys matter / that had happened to the kyng & his lordes / þe quene went by herself into the bancket house / and spake vnto the kyng / sayng: O kyng / God saue thy lyfe for ever: Let not þe thoughtes tes trouble the / and let not thy countenance be chaunged. For why? there is a man in the kyngdome / that hath the spere of the holy goddess within him / as it was sene in thy fathers dayes. He hath vnderstandyng & wyldome lyke & goddes. Yet the kyng Nabuchodonosor thy father made this man chiefe of & sothsayers / charmers / Caldees and deueld-surers: because that soche an aboundaunt spere / knowledge and wylidome (to expounde dreames / to open secretes / & to declare harde doutes) was founde in him: yee euen in Daniel / whom the kyng named Balthazar. Let this same Daniel be sente for / and he shall tell / what it meaneth.

Then was Daniel brought before the kyng. So the kyng spake vnto Daniel / & sayde: Art thou that Daniel / one of the pr-soners of Iuda / whom my father the kyng brought out of Iewry? I haue hearde speake of the / that thou hast the spere of the holy goddess / experience and vnderstandyng / and that there hath bene greates wylidome founde in the. Now haue there bene brought me / wyle & conyng charmers / to reade this wytyng / and to shewe me the meanyng therof: But they coude not tell me / what this matter signified. When hearde I saye / that thou canst expounde darke thynges / and declare harde doutes. Well than / yet thou canst reade this wytyng / and shewe me the meanyng ther-of: thou shalt be clothed with purple / haue a cheyne of golde aboute thy necke / & rule the thyde parte of my kyngdome.

Daniel answered / & sayde before the kyng:
As for thy rewardes / kepe the to thy self: or geue thy ryght gyftes to another: yet not the-lesse / I will reade the wytyng vnto the kyng / and shewe him the interpretacion therof. O kyng / God the hest gaue vnto Nabuchodonosor thy father / the dignyte of a kyng / to woorthippe & honour: so that all people / kyn-redes & tinges stode in awe & feare of him / by reason of the hie estate / that he had lent hym. For why / he shewe whom he wolde: he smote / whom he pleased hym. Agayne: whom he wolde / he set vp: and whom he lyst / he put downe. But because his hert was so proude / and his stomack set to fast vnto wylfulnesse:
he was depose from his kyngly trone / & his magesty was taken from hym. He was shoot out from amonge men / his herte was lyke a beastes herte / and his dwellyng was with the wyld asses: he was layne to eate grasse lyke an oxe / and his body was wet with the dew of the heauen: till he knew / that & hest had power vpon the kyngdomes of men / and setteth ouer them / whom he lyst.

And thou his sonne (O Balthazar) for all this / hast not submytted thyne herte / though thou knewest all these thynges: but hast ma-gnified thy selfe aboute the Loyde of heauē / so that the vessels of his house were brought before the: that thou / & thy loydes / with thy quene and concubynes / might drincke wyne therout: And hast played the foolles of syluer and golde / copper and yron / of wodd and stone: As for the God in whose hande con-fyteth thy bryth and all thy wayes: thou hast not loued hym.

Therefore is the palme of thy hande sent hyther from hym / to token by this wytyng.
And this is the scripture / that is written by:
Dane / Chetel / Phares. Now the interpre-tacion of the thyng is this: Dane / God hath nombred the kyngdome / and brought it to an ende: Chetel / thou art weyed in the balaunce / and art founde to lyght: Phares / thy kyngdome is delt in partes / and geuen to the Medes and Perses.

Then commaunded Balthazar / to clothe Daniel with purple / to hange a cheyne of golde aboute his necke / and to make a proclamacion concernyng hym: that he shoulde be the ruler of the thyde parte of his kyngdome. The very same nyght was Balthazar the kyng of the Caldees slayne / and Darius out of Medes toke in the kyngdome / beinge ixij. yere of age.

Daniel is made ruler ouer the lordes. The Image harpon of an acte agaynst Daniel. The proclamacion of the acte / wherof Daniel is accused vnto the kyng as a transgressour. He is put into a denne of Lyons by the commaundement of the kyng. He is deliuered by sayth in God. Daniels accusers are put vnto the lyons to be toren in sondre. Darius by the proclamacion of a decree / magnifyeth the God of Daniel.

The vij. Chapter.

In pleased Darius to set ouer his kyngdome an. C. and. xx. Loydes / which shoulde be in all his kyngdome aboute. About these he set thre prynces (of whom Daniel was one) that the loydes myght geue accomptes vnto them / & the kyng to be blessed.

But Daniel excreaded all these prynces & loydes / for the spere of God was plenteous in hym: so that the kyng was mynded to set hym ouer the whole realme. Wherfore the prynces and Loydes sought / to pycke out in Daniel some quarell agaynst the kyngdome: yet coude they fynde none occasiō ner faute vpon hym. For why? he was so sayth-full / that there was no blame ner dishonour founde in him.

Then sayde these men: we will get no quarell agaynst this Daniel / excepte it be in the lawe of his God. Upon this / wente the princes and loydes together vnto the kyng / and sayde

sayde thus vnto him: King Darius God saue thy selfe for ever. All the greates estates of the realme: as & prynces / Dukes / Senatours and Judges / are determed to put out a commaundement of the kyng / & to make a sure statute: namely / & who so despyeth any peti-ciō / ether of any god or mā (within this. xxx. dayes) excepte it be only of the / & kyng: the same person may be cast into the lyons denne.
Wherfore / O kyng / confyrme thou this statute / and make a wytyng: that the thyng whych the Medes and Perses haue ordeined be not altered ner broken.

So Darius made the wytyng / and co-firmid it. Now when Daniel vnderstode that the wytyng was made / he wente in to his house: and the wyndowes of his hal towarde Jerusalem stode open. There knelyd he downe vpon his knees / thre tymes a daye: there he made his peticion / and prayed his God / like as his maner was to do a fore tyme.

Then these men made searche / & founde Daniel makinge his peticion / & prayyng vnto his God. So they came to the kyng / & spake before him concernyng his commaun-dement / sayyng: O kyng / hast thou not subscribed the statute / & within. xxx. dayes / who so requyrez his peticion of any good or mā but only of thy self / O kyng: he shalbe cast in to the denne of the lyons? The kyng answered / & sayde: yee / it is true. It must be as a lawe of the Medes and Perses / that maye not be broken.

Then answered they / and sayde vnto the kyng: Daniel one of the pryncers of Iuda O kyng / regardeth neither & ner thy statute / that thou hast made / but maketh his peticiō thre tymes a daye. When the kyng hearde these wordes / he was sore grieved / and wolde haue excused Daniel / to deliuer hym / & put of the matter vnto the Sunne wēt downe / to the intent that he myght saue hym.

These men perceauyng the kyngs mynde / sayde vnto him: knowe this (O kyng) that the lawe of the Medes and Perses is / that & commaundement & statute which the kyng maketh / maye not be altered. When the kyng had them bynged Daniel / and they cast hym in to the Lyons denne.

The kyng also spake vnto Daniel / and sayde: thy God / whom thou alwaye seruest / Euen he shall defende the. And there was brought a stone / and layed vpon the hole of the denne: this the kyng sealed with his awne rpyng / & with the rpyng of his prynces: that the kynges commaundement concernyng Daniel / shoulde not be broken.

So the kyng wente into his palace / & kepte hym sober all nyght / so that there was no table spred before hym / neith coude he take any slepe. But by tymes in the morning at the bryake of the daye / the kyng arole / and wente in all haste vnto the denne of the Lyons.

Now as he came nye vnto the denne / he cried with a piteous voyce vnto Daniel: yee the kyng spake / and sayde vnto Daniel: O Daniel / thou seruant of the Ipyngge God / is not thy God / whom thou alwaye seruest / able to deliuer the from the lyons? Daniel sayde vnto the kyng: O kyng / God saue thy life for ever. My God hath sent his angell / which hath shut the lyons mouthes / so that they might not hurte me. For why? mine byggyngelle is founde out before hym. And as for the / O kyng / I neuer offended the.

Then was the kyng exceeding glad / and commaunded to take Daniel out of the denne.
So Daniel was brought out of the denne / & no manner of hurte was founde vpon hym for he put his trust in his God. And as for those men whych had accused Daniel / the kyng commaunded to bynged the / & to cast the in the Lyons denne: them / their chyldren and their wyues. So the Lyons had the mastery of them / and brake all their bones a sonder / or euer they came at the grounde.

After this / wrote kyng Darius vnto all Daniel. 19. f people kynredes / and tinges / that dwelt in all lād: peace be multiplied to you: My comaundement is / in all my dominyon & kyngdome / that men leaue & stande in awe of Daniels God.

For he is the Ipyngge God / whych aby-deth euer: his kyngdome shall not faile / and his power is euerylastyng: It is he that de-liuereth / and saureth: he doth wonders and maruelous woorkes / in heauē and in earth:
he hath preserued Daniel from the power of the Lyons. This Daniel prospered in the regne of Darius and Cyrus of Persia.

A vision of. iij. bestes is shewed vnto Daniel. The visyon is interpreted of. iij. kyngdomes of the world.
Of the power & increase of Antichrist. Of the euer-lastyng kyngdome of Christ.

The viij. Chapter.

In the first yere of Balthazar king of Babilō / saw Daniel a dreame / and a visyon was in his head vpon his bedde. Which dreame he wrote / and the summe of the matter is this: Daniel spake / and sayde: I sawe in my visyon by nyght / and beholde: the four wyndes of the heauen stode vpon the see / and four great beestes came by from the see one whiche another.

The first was as a lyon / and yet had he eagles wynges. I sawe / that his wynges were plucked from hym / and he taken awaye from the earth: that he stode vpon his fete like a man.

as a man/and that there was geuen him a mans herte.

Beholde/ & seconde beast was like a beere/ and stode vpon the one side. Amonge his teeth in his mouth he had. iij. greates longe teeth; & it was sayde vnto him: arise/ eate vp/ moche floure. When I looked/ and beholde/ there was another lyke vnto a leopard: thys had vnges as a foule/ euen foure vpon the backe. Thys beast had foure heades/ and there was power geuen him. After this I sawe in a visyon by nyght/ and beholde/ the fourth beast was grymme and horrible/ and maruelous stronge. It had great pson teeth/ it deuoured and destroyed/ & stamped the resydue vnder his fete. It was farre bryghter the other beasts that were before it: for it had ten hornes/ wherof I toke good hede.

And beholde/ there came by amonge them/ another lyke horne/ before whom there were thre of the fyrst hornes plucked awaye. Beholde/ this horne had eyes lyke a man/ and a mouth speakynge presumptuous thynges. I looked vntill the seates were prepared/ and vntill the olde aged sat hym downe. His clothing was as whyte as snowe/ and the heares of his head like the pure woll. Hys throne was lyke the fyre flame/ and hys wheles as the burnynge fyre. There dreyne forth a fyre streame/ & went out from hym. A thousande tymes a thousande serued him. Ten thousande stode before him. The iudgement was set/ and the bookes opened. Then toke I hede there vnto/ because of the voyce of the proude wordes/ which the horne spake.

I beholde/ vntill the beaste was slayne/ and hys body destroyed/ & geuen ouer to be burnt in the fyre.

As for the power of the other beasts also it was taken awaye/ but their lyues were prolonged for a tyme and season. I sawe in a visyon by nyght/ and beholde/ there came one in the cloudes of heauen lyke the sonne of a man/ which wente vnto the olde aged/ before whom they brought him: when gaue he hym power & dignite regall/ that all people/ trybes and tynge shulde serue him. His power is an euerlastynge power/ which shal neuer be put downe: & his kyngdome endureth vncorrupte. Hys herte was beryd/ & I Daniel had a troubled spete within me/ & the visions of my head made me a frayed: vntill I gat me vnto one of them that stode by/ to knowe the trueth/ concerning all these thynges. So he tolde me/ & made me vnderstande the interpretacyon of these thynges.

These foure greates beasts/ are foure kynges whych shal aryse out of the earth. These shal take in the kyngdome of the sayntes of the most hycht/ and possesse it still more & more for a longe season. After this I requyred diligently to knowe the trueth/ concerning the fourth beast/ which was so farre bryghter the other beasts/ & so horrible: whose teeth were of pson/ and hys nayles of brasse: which deuoured and destroyed/ & stamped the resydue vnder his fete. I desyred also to knowe the trueth/ as touching the ten hornes that he had vpon his head/ & this other whych came by afterwarde/ before whose face there fell downe thre: whych horne had eyes and a mouth that spake presumptuous thynges/ and looked with a grymme visage then his felowes. I beholde/ & I sawe horne made battayll agaynst the sayntes/ yee and gat the byctory of them: vntill the tyme that the olde aged came/ that the iudgement was geuen to the chiefe sayntes: and till the tyme/ that the sayntes had the kyngdome in possession. He gaue me this answer: That fourth beast shalbe the fourth kyngdome vpon earth: it shalbe more then all other kyngdomes/ it shal deuoure/ treade downe/ and destroye all other landes.

The ten hornes/ are ten kynges/ that shal aryse out of the fourth kyngdome/ after whom there shal stonde by another/ whych shalbe greater then the fyrst. He shal subdue thre kynges/ & shal speake wordes agaynst the hycht of all: he shal destroye the sayntes of the most hycht/ and thyncke/ that he maye chaunge tymes and lawes. They shal be geuen vnder hys power/ vntill a tyme/ two tymes/ & half a tyme.

But the iudgement shalbe kepte/ so that hys power shalbe taken from him/ for he shal be destroyed/ and perishe at the last. As for the fourth kyngdome/ power and all myght that is vnder the heauen: it shalbe geuen to the holy people of the most hycht/ whose kyngdome is euerlastynge/ yee all powers shal serue & obeye hym. Thus farre extende the wordes. Neuertheles/ I Daniel was so beryd in my thoughtes/ that my countenance chaunged/ but the wordes I kepte still in my herte.

A visyon of a ryme betwene a rāme & a goate. The vnderstandynge of the visyon is of the batell betwene the kyng of persia and the kyng of the Medes. Of the spanische kyng Antichrist.

The. viij. Chapter.
In the thyrde yere of the raigne of the kyng Balthazar/ there appeared a visyon vnto me Daniel/ after that I had sene the fyrst. I sawe in a visyon (as when I sawe it/ I was at Susa in the chiefe cysse/ whych lyeth in the lande of elam) and in the visyon/ me thought I was by the ryuer of walat.

When I looked by/ and sawe: and beholde there there stode before the ryuer/ a rāme/ which had hornes: and these hornes were byr/ but one was byr then another/ & the hycht came by last. I sawe that this rāme pushed with hys hornes/ agaynst the west/ agaynst the north/ and agaynst the south: so that no beasts myght stande before hym/ ner defende them from hys power: but he dyd as hym lyf/ & waxed greatly. I toke hede vnto this/ & then came there an he goate from the west ouer the whole earth/ and touched not the grounde.

This goate had a maruelous goodly horne betwixte his eyes/ and came vnto the rāme/ that had the two hornes (whom I had sene afore by the ryuer syde) and ranne scarcely vnto hym with his myght. I sawe hym dreyne vnto the rāme/ beinge very feareful vnto hym: yee he gaue him such a stroke/ that he brake his two hornes: Nether had the rāme so much strength as to stande before hym: but he cast him downe/ trode him vnder his fete: & no man was able to deliuer the rāme out of his power.

The goate waxed exceedinge grete/ and whē he was at the strōgest/ his grete horne was broken also. Then grewe there other foure such like in the steade/ toward the west/ wherof the heauen. Yee out of one of the leet of these hornes/ there came by yet another horne/ which waxed maruelous grete: toward the south/ toward the east/ and toward the sayre pleasant lande. It grewe vnto the hooft of heauen/ wherof it dyd cast somedowne to the grounde/ & of the starrs also/ and trode them vnder fete.

Yee it grewe by vnto the pynte of the hooft/ from whom the dayly offeringe was taken/ & the place of his Sanctuary casten downe. And a certayne season was geuen vnto it/ agaynst the dayly offeringe (because of wyckednesse) that it myght cast downe the berpte to the grounde/ and so to prosper in all thynges/ that is wryte aboute.

Vpon this I herde one of the sayntes speake/ which saynte sayde vnto one that asked this questyon: How longe shal this visyon of the dayly sacrifice & of the wastynge abhominacyon endure: that the Sanctuary and the power shal be troden vnder fete: And he answered hym: Vnto the euynynge & the moonyng/ euen two thousande and thre hundred dayes: then shal the Sanctuary be clenched agayne.

Now when I Daniel had sene this visyon/ and sought for the vnderstandynge of it: beholde/ there stode before me a thyng lyke vnto a man. And I herde a mans voyce in the ryuer of walat/ which cryed/ & sayde: O Balthazar/ make this man vnderstande the visyon.

So he came/ and stode by me. But I was afrayed at hys commynge/ and fell downe vpon my face.

Then sayde he vnto me: Thou sonne of man/ marche well/ for in the last tyme shal this visyon be fulfilled. Now as he was speakinge vnto me/ I waxed saynte/ so that I rancke downe to the grounde. But he toke holde vpon me/ & set me by agayne/ saying: Beholde/ I wyl shewe the/ what shal happen in the last wyth: for in the tyme appoynted it shalbe fulfilled.

The rāme whych thou sawest with the two hornes/ is the kyng of the Medes and Perses: but the goate is the kyng of Greke lande: the grete horne that stode betwixte his eyes/ that is the princypall kyng. But where as it brake/ and foure other rose by in the steade: it signifieth/ that out of this people shal stande by foure kyngdomes/ but not so myghty as it.

After these kyngdomes (whyle vngodly/ & nelle is a growynge) there shal aryse a kyng of an vnwares face/ which shalbe wyle in darke speakynge.

He shalbe myghty and stronge/ but not in his owne strength. He shal destroye aboute measure/ and all that he goeth aboute shal prosper: he shal slaye the stronge and holy people. And thow his craftyness/ falshe shal prosper in his hande/ his herte shalbe proude/ and many one shal be put to death in his welthyngnesse. He shal stonde by agaynst the Prynce of Prynces/ but he shalbe destroyed without hande. And this visyon that is shewed vnto the/ is as sure as the euening & the moonyng. Therefore wate thou by this light/ for it wylbe longe or it come to passe.

Vpon this was I Daniel very saynte/ so that I laye sicke certayne dayes: but when I rose by/ I wryte aboute the kynges bypynde/ and maruelled at the visyon/ neuerthelesse no man knewe of it.

I Daniel desyred to haue that performed of God whych he had promysed concerninge the returne of the people from their banishment in Babylon. A true confession. Daniels prayer to hearde. Gabriel the Angel expoundeth vnto hym the visyon of the. lxx. weekes. The anoyntynge of Christ. The buydynge of a yare of Jerusalem vnder Iheremiah. The death of Christ. The callynge out of the wycked Jewes.

The. ix. Chapter.
In the fyrst yere of Ierusalem the sonne of Balthazar/ which was of the seide of the Medes/ & was made kyng ouer the reynard of Caldees: yee eue in the first yere of his raigne/ I Daniel desyred to knowe the prayse nombe out of the booke/ wherof the Lord spake vnto Ieremy the prophete: that yee

there stode before the ryuer/ a rāme/ which had hornes: and these hornes were byr/ but one was byr then another/ & the hycht came by last. The. ix. Chapter.
In the fyrst yere of Ierusalem the sonne of Balthazar/ which was of the seide of the Medes/ & was made kyng ouer the reynard of Caldees: yee eue in the first yere of his raigne/ I Daniel desyred to knowe the prayse nombe out of the booke/ wherof the Lord spake vnto Ieremy the prophete: that yee

Jerusalem shalbe lye waste. lxx. yeres: and I turned me vnto God & Lozde: for to praye & make myne intercession/with fastyng/sack cloth & ashes/I prayed before the Lozde my God/and knowledg/sayinge:

Mat. 23.

O Lozde/thou greates and fearfull God/thou that kepest couenaunt and mercy with them/which loue the/and do thy commaundementes: we haue synned/we haue offended/we haue bene dysoberdyent & gone back: yee we haue departed from all thy preceptes and iudgements.

Mat. 23.

We wolde neuer folowe thy seruantes the Prophetes/ & spake in thy name to oure kynges and prynces/to oure forefathers/ & to all the people of the lande. O Lozde/ rightuousnesse belongeth vnto the/ vnto vs pertayneth nothyng but open shame: as it is come to passe this daye vnto euery man of Iuda/and to them that dwell at Jerusalem: yee vnto all Israel/whether they be farre or nygh: how out all landes: wherein thou hast strowed them/because of the offences & they had done agaynst the.

Mat. 23.

Yee O Lozde/vnto vs/to oure kynges & prynces/to oure forefathers: euen to vs all/that haue offended the/belougeth open shame. But vnto the/O Lozde oure God/pertayneth mercy and forgiveness. As for vs/we are gone backe fro hym/and haue not obeyed the voyce of the Lozde oure God/to walke in his lawes/whych he layed before vs by his seruantes the Prophetes: yee all Israel haue transgressed/and gone backe from thy lawe/so that they haue not hearkened vnto thy voyce.

Deute. 32.

Leut. 26.

Wherfore the curse & othe/that is written in the lawe of Moyses the seruant of God (agaynst whom we haue offended)is poured vpon vs And he hath persourmed his wordes/whych he spake agaynst vs/and agaynst oure iudges that iudged vs: so bynging vpon vs such a greates plague/as neuer was vnder heauen/lyke as it is now come to passe in Jerusalem. Yee all this plague/as it is written in the lawe of Moyses/is come vpon vs. Yet made we not oure prayer before & Lozde oure God/that we might turne agayne from oure wickednesse/and to be learned in thy be-ryte. Wherfore hath the Lozde made haste/to bynging this plague vpon vs: for the Lozde oure God is rightuous/in all his wordes which he doth: for why/we wolde not hearken vnto his voyce.

Mat. 23.

Mat. 23.

And now/O Lozde oure God/thou that with a myghtye hande hast brought thy people out of Egypte/to get thyselfe a name/whych remaineth this daye: we haue synned/O Lozde/a done wickedly agaynst all thy rightuousnesse: yet let thy wrathfull displeasure be turned awaye (I beseeche the) from thy cyte Jerusalem thy holy hill. And why? for oure synnes sake/and for the wickednesse of oure forefathers is Jerusalem & thy people abhorred/of all they that are aboute vs. Now therfore/O oure God/heare the prayer of thy seruant/and his intercession. O let not thy face shyne ouer thy Sanctuary/that lyeth waste.

O my God/encline thine eare/and hearken (at the least for thyne awne sake) open thine eyes: beholde how we be desolated/ yee and the cyte also/whych is called after thy name: for we do not call oure prayers before the in oure awne rightuousnesse: no: but only in thy greates mercyes. O Lozde/heare: O forgive Lozde: O Lozde conspyre/sterpe not ouer longe: but for thyne awne sake do it. O my God: for thy cyte and thy people is called after thy name.

As I was yet speakinge at my prayers/knowledgyng myne awne synnes/and the synnes of my people/makinge somyne intercession before the Lozde my God/for the holy hill sake of my God: yee whyle I was yet speakinge in my prayer/beholde. the m^a Gabriel (whom I had sene afore in the vision) came flyng to me/and touched me aboute the offeringe tyme in the eueninge. He in-fourned me/and spake vnto me: O Daniel sayde he/I am now come to make the vnderstande it: for as soone as thou begamest to make thy prayer/it was so dyspyled/and therfore am I come to shewe the. And why? for thou art a man greatly beloued.

Wherfore/ponder the matter well/that thou mayest lerne/to vnderstande the bys-son. Lxx. weekes are determined ouer thy people/and ouer the holy cyte: that the wickednesse maye be consumed/that the synne maye haue an ende/that the offence maye be recored/and to bynging in euerlastyng rightuousnesse/to fulfill the byssons and the Prophetes/and to anointe the moost holy one. Vnderstande this then/and marcke it well: that from the tyme it shalbe concluded/to go and repayre Jerusalem agayne/vnto Christ (or the anointed) pryncer: there shalbe seven weekes. Then shall the stretes and walles be buyled agayne. lxx. weekes/ but w^h hard troublous tyme. After these. lxx. weekes/ shall Christ be slayne/and they shal haue no pleasure in hym. Then shall there come a people with the pryncer/and destroye the cite and the Sanctuary: & his ende shall come as the water flood. But the desolacyon shall contynue tyll the ende of the battell.

He shall make a stronge bonde with many/for the space of a weke: & when the weke is half gone/he shall put downe the slayne and and meatoffryng. And in the temple there shalbe an abhominable desolacyon/ tyll it haue destroyed all. And it is concluded/that this wastynge shall contynue vnto the ende.

There appeareth vnto Daniel a m^a clothed in lynen/whych sheweth hym wherfore he is sent.

The x. Chapter.

In the thyrde yere of kyng Cyrus of Persia/there was shewed vnto Daniel (otherwise called Balthasar) a matter/ yee a true matter/ but it is yet a longe tyme vnto it. We bnder-stande the matter well/ & perceaued what the bysion was. At the same tyme/ I Daniel mourned for the space of thre weekes/so that I had no lust to eate byed: as for fleshe & wyne there came none within my mouth: No/ I dyd not onys anoynte my self/ tyll the whole thre weekes were out.

Vpon the xxiiij. daye of the first moneth/ I was by the greates founteyne/ called Tigris: I lyft vp myne eyes/and lohed: and beholde/ a man clothed in lynen/ whose loynes were girded by with syne golde of Araby: his body was lyke the Chysolite stone/ his face (to loke vpon) was lyke lychtenyng/ his eyes as the flame of fyre/ his armes & fete were lyke sayre gylstering metall/ but his voyce of his wordes was lyke the voyce of a multitude.

I Daniel alone sawe this vision/ the men that were with me/ sawe it not: but a greates fearfulness fell vpon them/so that they fled awaye/ & theyd them selues. I was left there my self alone/ & sawe this greates bysion/so longe tyll there remayned nomore strength within me: yee I lost my coloure clene/ I wasted awaye/ and my strength was gone. Yet herde I the voyce of his wordes: and as soone as I herde it/ sayntnesse came vnto me/ & I fell downe flat to the grounde vpon my face. And beholde/ an hande touched me/ whych set me vp vpon my knees & vpon the palmes of my handes/ sayinge vnto me: O Daniel/ thou well beloued man: take good hede of the wordes/ that I shall saye vnto & / & stode right by/ for vnto the am I now sent.

And when he had sayde these wordes/ I stode by trembling. Then sayde he vnto me: feare not Daniel: for why I sence I first daye that thou set thyne herte to vnderstande/and dydest chasten thy selfe before thy God: thy wordes haue bene herde. And I had come vnto the/ when thou beganest to speake had not I pryncer ouer the kyngdome of Persia withstande me. xx. dayes. But lo/ Michael one of the chefe prynces/ came to helpe me/ hym haue I left by the kyng of Persia/ & am come to shewe the/ what shall happen vnto thy people in the latter dayes: for it wyll be longe yet of the bysion be fulfilled.

Now when he had spoken these wordes vnto me/ I fast downe my head to the grounde and helde my tynge. Beholde/ there touched my lippes one very lyke vnto a man. Then opened I my mouth/ & sayde vnto him/ that stode before me: O my Lozde/ my synnes are loosed in the vision/ and there is no more strength within me: Now may my Lozdes seruant then talke with my Lozde: seinge there is no strength in me/ so I cannot take my breath: & this there touched me agayne/ one moche lyke a man/ and comforted me/ sayinge: O thou man so well beloued/ feare not: be content/ take a good herte vnto the/ & be stronge. So when he had spoken vnto me/ I recovered/ & sayde: Speake on my Lozde/ for thou hast refreshed me. Then sayde he: knowest thou wherfore I am come vnto &? now wil I go againe to fight w^h the pryncer of Persia. As soone as I go forth/ lo/ I pryncer of Persia shal come. Neuertheles/ I wyll shewe the the thinge/ that is fast noted in the scripture of twelfth. And as for all ponder matters/ there is none that helpeth me in them/ but Michael your prayner.

A prophesie of the kynges of Persia. Of the kyngdome of Grece. Of the kyngdome of Egypte/ & of the bonde therof/ and of the battell with the kyngdome of Persia. Of the Jewes that are vnto the kyng of Egypte/ whom Antiochus the kyng of Persia pers-secuteth/ whych figureth vnto vs Antichrist. The pryde of Antiochus.

The xi. Chapter.
In the fyrst yere of Darius of Persia/ I stode by hym/ to comforte hym/ & to strength him/ and now wil I shewe the the truely. Beholde/ there shall stande by yet thre kynges in Persia/ but the fourth shalbe sarte richer then they all. And when he is in the cheffest power of his riches/ he shall prouoke euery man agaynst & realm of Persia. Then shall there arys yet a myghtye kyng/ that shall rule with greates domynion/ & do what hym list. And as soone as his kyngdome cometh by/ it shalbe destroyed/ and decayed to warde the foure wyndes of the heauen. They that come after hym/ shall not haue such power & domynion as he: but his kyngdome shalbe scatted/ yee euen amonge other then those. And the kyng of Persia shalbe myghty/ then his other prynces. Agaynst hym there shall one make himself stronge/ & shal rule his domynion with greates power.

But after certayne yeres they shalbe forned together/ and the kynges daughter of the south shall come to the kyng of the North/ for to make frendshipp/ but she shall not open the power of that arme/ nether shall she be able to endure thowow his myght: but she/ and such as brought her (yee and he that begat begather / & comforted her for her tyme / that be deliuered by. Out of the branches of her roote / there shall one stande by in his leader which with power of armes shall go thow the kynges lande of the north / & handle hym according to his strength. As for their Idols & princes / with their costly Jewels of golde & syluer / he shall carry them awaye captiues into Egypte / & he shall pteuaple agaynst kyng of the north certayne yeares. And whē he is come into the kynges realme of the south / he shall sayne to turne agayne into his awne lande. Wherfore his sonnes shall be displeased / and shall gather together a myghty greate host of people: and one of them shall come / & go thow like a water flowe: then shall he returne / & go forth with despyng & boastyng into his awne lande.

Then the kyng of the south shall be angry / and shall come forth to fight agaynst the kyng of the north: yee he shall bringe a greate multitude of people together / & a greate heare shall be geue in to his hande: these shall he carry awaye with greate pryde / for so moche as he hath cast downe so many thousandes / ne-uertheless he shall not pteuaple. For the kyng of the north shall gather (of the new) a greate heape of people then afoze / & come forth (after a certayne tyme & yeares) with a myghty hoste & excedyng greate good.

At the same tyme there shall many stande by agaynst the kyng of the south / so that the wicked chyldren of thy people also shall exalte themselves (to fulfill the bysion) & then fall. So the kyng of the north shall come to laye sege / & to take the stronge fenced cities:
And the power of them of the south shall not be able to abyde hym / & the best men of the people shall not be so strōge / as to resist him.
Shortely / when he cometh / he shall haue him as he list / & no man shall be so hardy as to stande agaynst him. He shall ride in the pleasant countrey / which thow him shall be destroyed. He shall set his face to all his power to optayne his kyngdome / and to be lyke it.
Yee that shall he do / and geue hym unto the daughters amonge women / to destroye hym.
But he shall saye / nether shall he optayne his purpose. After this shall he see his face unto the Jles / & take many of the. A prince shall stoppe him / to do hym a shame / belyde the confusyon that els shall come unto him.

Thus shall he tourne agayne to his awne lande / & stumbe / & fall / & be nomore sounde:
so be that came by him & by hym byolde / shall stande in his place / & haue a pleasant kyngdome: and after fewe dayes he shall be destroyed / & that nether in ioynt / nor in battelle. In his steade there shall arysse a byle person / not holden worthy of a kynges deg-nyte: this shall come in craftely / and op-tayne the kyngdome with saye wordes: he shall fight agaynst the armes of the myghty (and destroye them) yee and agaynst the prince of the couenaunt.

So after that he hath taken truce with him / he shall handle dyscreetfully: that he may get by / & overcome him with a small floche: & so with craftynesse to get him to the fatter place of the lande / and to deale otherwyse / then ether his fathers or graundfathers dyd.
For he shall destroye the thing / that they had robbed & spoyled / yee & all their substance: ymagynyng thoughtes agaynst the strong holdes / & that for a tyme. His power & herie shall be sterred by in a greate armye agaynst the kyng of the south: where thow the kyng of the south shall be moued then unto battell / with a greate & myghty hoste also. Neuer-theless / he shall not be able to stāde / for they shall conspyre agaynst him. Yee they shall eate of his meate / shall hurte him: so the his hoste shall fall / & many be slayne downe.

These two kynges shall be mynded to do myselfe / and take of dyscreet at one table. &. Mar. 3. 1. but they shall not prosper: for why / the ende shall not come yet / unto the tyme apointed.
Then shall he go home agayne into his awne lande with great good / & let his herie agaynst the holy couenaunt / he shall be busy agaynst it / & then returne home. At the tyme appoynted he shall come agayne / & go towarde the south: so shall it happen otherwise then at the first / yet ones agayne. And why / the shippes of cythim shall come upon him / that he may be smitten & turne agayne: that he may take indignacyon agaynst the couenaunt of holynesse / to medle agaynst it. Yee he shall turne him / & drawe soch vnto him / as laue the holy couenaunt.

He shall set myghty men to inhabow the Sanctuary of strength / to put downe the dayly offeringe / & to set by the abhomy-nable desolacyon. And soch as bryake the cou-enaunt shall he flatter with saye wordes.
But the people shall knowe their God / shall haue the ouerhande and prosper. Those also that haue vnderstanding amonge the people shall enfourme the multitude: and for a longe season / they shall be persecuted with swearde / with fyre / with captiuitie and with takynge awaye of their goodes. Now whē they fall / they shall be sett by in a lytle helpe:
but many shall cleue vnto them saynedly.

Ye some of those which haue vnderstandyng shall be persecuted also: & they maye be tryed / purged and clenfed / till the tyme be out: for there is yet another tyme appoynted. The kyng shall do what him lyst / he shall exalte and magnifye himselfe agaynst all / that is that is God. Yee he shall speake marvelous thyngs agaynst the God of all goddes / wher-in he shall prosper / so longe till the wrath be fulfilled / for the conclusyon is deuysed alredy. He shall not regarde the God of his fathers / but his lust shall be vpon women: Yee he shall not care for any God / for he shall ma-gnifye him selfe aboue all. In his place shall be worshippe the myghty Idols: and the God whom his fathers knewe not / shall be ho-noure with golde and syluer / with pteuous stones and pleasant Jewels.

Thys shall he do / sekynge helpe and suc-coure at the myghty Idols & straunge Goddes.
Soch as will receaue him / and take him for God / he shall geue them greate worshippe & power: yee and make them lordes of the multitude / & geue the land with rewardes.
In the latter tyme shall the kyng of the south cryue with him: and the kyng of the north in lyke maner shall come agaynst him with charrettes / hoymen and with a greate nauy of shippes. He shall come in to the landes / destroye and go thow: he shall entre also in to the saye pleasaunt lande. Many cities and countrees shall decaye / excepte Edom / Moab & the best of the chyldren of Ammon / which shall escape from his hande. He shall stretch forth his handes vpon the countrees / & the lande of Egypte shall not escape hym.
For thow his goynge in / he shall haue dominion ouer the treasures of syluer & golde / & ouer all the pteuous Jewels of Egypt / Ly-bia and Ethiopia. Neuertheless the tyding out of the East & the north shall trouble him: for the whych cause he shall goo forth to de-stroye & curse a greate multitude. The tētes of his palace shall be ptech betwixte the two sees / vpon the byll of the noble Sanctuary / for he shall come to the ende of it / & then shall no man helpe him.

He prophesyeth the resurreccyon of the dead. The darchuncle of the prophecye of Daniel.

The .xij. Chapter.

In the tyme wyl come also / that the greate prince Michael / which sta-beth on thy people syde / shall arysse by / for there shall come a tyme of trouble / soch as neuer was / sens there bega-ne to be any people / vnto that same tyme.
Then shall thy people be deliuered / yee all those that be found written in the boke. Many of the that slepe in the dust of the earth / shall awake: some to the euerylastyng lyfe / some to perpetuall shame and reppose. The wyse (soch as haue taught other) shall glyste / as the thynnyng of heaue: and those that haue instructe the multitude vnto godlynesse / shall be as the starrs / wylde without ende.

And thou O Daniel / thou by these wordes / a scale the boke till that tyme. Many shall go aboute here and there / & then shall knowe ledge increase. So Daniel looked / and be-holde / there stode other two: one vpon the hoze of the water / the other vpon ponder syde.

And one of the sayde vnto him / whych was clothed in lynen / and stode aboue vpon the waters of the floude: How longe shall it be to the ende of these wonderous wordes? Apoc. 17. 2.

Then herde I the man with the lynen clothes / which stode aboue vpon the waters of the floude: when he helde by his ryght and left hande vnto heauen / and swaue by hym which lyueth for euer: that it shall tary for a tyme / two tymes & half a tyme: & when the power of the holy people is clene scattered abode / the shall all these thynges be fulfilled.

I herde it well / but I vnderstode it not:
Then sayde I: O my lord / what shall I saye?
Then answered he: So thy waye Daniel / for these wordes shall be closed by a sealed / till the last tyme: & many shall be purified / clenfed & tried. But the vngodly shall lyue wickedly / and those wicked / as many of the as they be / shall haue no vnderstandinge. Mat. 23. 35.
As for soch as haue vnderstandynge / they shall regarde it. And from the tyme forth that the dayly offeringe shall be put downe & the abhominable desolacion sett by / there shall be a thousand two hundredeth & thre dayes. O well is him / that waiteth / & cometh to the thousande .ij. C. & xxx. dayes. So thou thy waye now / till it be ended: take thy rest / and byde in thy lot / till the dayes haue an ende.

The boke of the Prophecye of Iseas.

The tyme wherin Iseas prophesied. Iseas by taking an hartol to his wyfe / signifieth the foollarye of the people. The best ruled of the offspring of Isehu and of the Israelites / is prophesied.

The .xix. Chapter.

His is the worde of the Lord / that came vnto Iseas the sonne of Beerin in the daye of Iseas / Iohanan / Iseas Iezeiah kynges of Iuda: & in the tyme of Ieroboam the sonne of Ioseph kyng of Israel.

For when the Lord spake vnto Iseas he sayde vnto him: So thy waye / take an hus-lott to thy wyfe / and get chyldren by her: for the lande hath committed greate whoredome.
Ise. 1. 2.

Wherefore will I be vnto Ephraim as a moth / to the house of Juda as a caterpyler.
When Ephraim sawe his synnes / and Juda his dysease: Ephraim wente vnto As-sur / and sent vnto kynge Tareb: yet coude not he helpe you: ne ease you of youre payne. I am vnto Ephraim as a Lyon / and as a Lyon whelp to the house of Juda. Euen I / I will spoyle them / and go my waye. I will take the with me / & no man shall rescue the.
I will go / and returne to my place / tyll they ware faynt / and seke me.

As the scorp caneth a man to retourne to God. The wychednes of the Preses.

The. vii. Chapter.

Job. v. b.

After two dayes shall he quyen vs / in the thirde daye shall he saye vs by &c.
What is / for a cruel space wil
be afflict & trouble vs / but he will heale vs
agayne and restore vs to foundnes. The thirde daye / that is / without idg
delay or longe
carpaunce.

In their aduersyte they shall seke me / and saye: come / let vs turne a-gayne to the Lorde: for he hath miten vs / & he shall heale vs: he hath wounded vs / & he shall bynde vs by agayne:
after two dayes shall he quyen vs / in the thirde daye he shall saye vs by / so that we shall lyue in his sight. Then shall we haue vnderstandynge / & endenoure our selues to know the Lorde. He shall go forth as the sprynge of the daye / & come vnto vs as the euenynge and morynge rayne vpon the earth.

Ephraim / what shall I do vnto the? / Juda / how shall I intreate the? seing youre loue is lyke a moynynge cloude / & lyke a dew that goeth early awaye. Wherefore haue I cut downe the Prophetes / & let them be slayne for my wordes sake: so that they punishment shall come to lyght. For I haue pleasure in buryng hyndnes / and not in offrynge: yee in the knowledge of God / more then in burnt-sacrifice. But eue like as Adam dyd. so haue they broken my couenaunt / and set me at naught. Galaad is a cite of wicked doers / of malycious people and bloudshedders. The multitude of the Preses is lyke an heape of thoues / murderers & bloutheuys: for they haue wrought abhominacyon. Horrible thinges haue I seene in the house of Israel / these playeth Ephraim the harlot / & Israel is despyled: but Juda shall haue an hartie for hys selfe / when I returne the captiuite of my people.

As the byces and wantonnes of the people.

The. viii. Chapter.

When I undertake to make Israel whole / then the vnglacousnesse of Ephraim and the wickednes of Samarita cometh to lyght: then go they aboute with lyes. At home / they be theues: and without they fall to robberyng.
They confesse not in their hertes that I remembere all their wickednes. They go about with their awne inuencions / but I se them well ynough. They make the hynde and the prynces / to haue pleasure in their wychednes & lyes. All these burne in aduoutry / as it were an ouen that the baker heateth / whē he hath leste kneadynge / tyll the dome be leuended. Euen so goeth it this daye with oure kynge and prynces / for they begynne to be woode bionchen thozow toyme: they ble sa-mpliarie with soch as dysplease them. They with the ymagynacyon of their hertes are lyke an ouen: their slepe is all the nyght lyke the slepe of a baker / in the morning is he as hote as the flame of fyre: they are all together as hote as an ouen.

They haue deuoured their awne iudges / all their kynge are fallen: yet is there none of them that calleth vpon me. Wherefore must Ephraim be mixte amonge the Heathen. Ephraim is become lyke a cake / that no man turneth: strangers haue deuoured his strenght / yet he regardeth it not: he wareth full of gray hearres / yet will he not knowe it: & the pyrde of Israel is cast downe before their face / yet will they not turne to the Lorde their God: ne seke him for all this.

Ephraim is lyke a dove / that is begyled / and hath no herte. Now call they vpon the Egyptians / now go they to the Assyrians:
but while they be goynge here and there / I shall spyde my net ouer them / & drawe the downe as the soules of the ayre: & according as they haue bene warned / so will I punish them. I do be vnto them / for they haue forsaken me. They must be destroyed / for they haue set me at naught. I am he that haue re-demed them / and yet they dissemble with me.
They call not vpon me with their hertes / but lye houlynge vpon their beddes. Where as they come together / it is but for mrate and drynche / and me will they not obeye. I haue taught them / and defended their arme / yet do they ymagin myschefe agaynst me. They turne them selues / but not a right / & are become as a byrde bowe. Their prynces shall be slayne with the swearde / for the malice of their tinges / soch blasphemyes haue they lerned in the land of Egypte.

The destruction of Juda and Israel / because of their ydolatrie.

The. ix. Chapter.

Set I home to thy mouth / & blowe:
get the wynd (as an eagle) vnto the house of the Lorde: for they haue broken my couenaunt / & transgressed my lawe. Israel can saye vnto me: thou art my God. we knowe the: but he hath refused the thinge that is good / therefore shall the enemy folowe vpon hym. They haue ordened kynge / but not thozow me: they haue made prynces / and I must not knowe of it.
Of their syluer and golde haue they made them

them Images / to bynge them selues to be-struccio. They call / Samarita / Walbetah awaye for my wothfull indignacyon is gone forth agaynst the. How longe will it be / or they can be clemented: for the cause came from Israel / the worke man made it / therefore can it be no God / but euen to a spyders webbe shall the cause of Samarita be turned. They haue comen wynde / therefore shall they reape a storme.

As that by the selues
they haue
great trouble
as much to be as to be in the mour.

Their sene shall beare no coze / there shall no meel be made of their increase: though they reape / yet shall strangers deuoure it by. Israel shall perishe / the Gentiles shall intreate hym as a foule best. Since they wete by to the Assyrians / they are become lyke a wyld beast / as to alle in the deserte.

Ephraim geueth rewardes to get louers / therefore are they scattered amonge the Heathen / there will I gather the by. They shall soone be weery of the burthen of kynge & prynces.
Ephraim hath made many alters to do wickednes / therefore shall the alters turne to hys synne. Though I sware them my lawe neuer so moch / they counte it but straunge doctryne. Where as they do sacrifice / offeryng the flesh and eatinge it: the Lorde will haue no pleasure therein: but will remembre their wychednes / and punish their synnes.
Israel turneth agayne into Egypt / they haue forgotten hym that made them / they buyde churches / & Juda maketh many stronge cy-ties: therefore will I sende a fyre into their cy-ties / and it shall consume their places.

Of the hunger & captiuite of Israel.

The. x. Chapter.

Not thou trumpe / Israel / make no boastyng more then the Heathen / for thou hast committed aduoutry agaynst thy God: I radi-ge rewardes hast thou loued / more then all coze dozes. Therefore shall they nomore enioye the come flowe & wyne preses / & their swe-te wyne shall sayle the. They will not dwell in the Lordes lande / but Ephraim turneth agayne into Egypte / & eateth vnclene thin-ges amonge the Assyrians. They poure out no wyne for a drinck offrynge vnto the Lord / neither geue they hym their slayne offrynge:

but they be vnto the as mourning meates / wherein all they that ate them / are despyled.
For the byrde that they haue soche hit vnto / shall not come into the house of the Lorde.
What will ye do then in the solenne dayes / and in the feast of the Lorde? Lo they shall get them awaye for the destruction: Egypte shall receaue them / & Noph shall bury them.
The nettles shall ouergrowe their pleasant goodes / and burrens shall be in their tabernacles. Be ye sile / Israel / the tyme of distacion is come / the dayes of recompen-singe are at hande. As for the Prophecie / ye holde hym for a foole: and him that is rygh in the spete / for a mad man: so greute is youre wickednes and malice. Ephraim hath made him selfe a watchman of my God / a Prophecie is become a snare to do hurte in euery stre-te / & abhominacyon in the house of his God.

They be gone to farre / & haue destroyed the selues / lyke as they dyd afore tyme at Sa-bad. Therefore their wychednes shall be remembered / and their synnes punished.

I sode Israel lyke grapes in the wyldernes / & sawe their fathers as the fyre fyges in the toppe of the fyge tre. But they are gone to Baal Peor / & vnto a vaine. awaye fro me to that vaine full ydol / & are become as abhominable as their louers. Ephraim is lyke a byrde / so shall their glory also: In so moch / they shall nether begette / conceaue ne beare chyliden. And though they bynge by eny / yet will I make the chylidie amonge me. Yet two shall come to them / when I depatte fro the.
Ephraim (as me thynke) is planted in wel-thyenesse / lyke as Cyprus / but now must she bynge her awne chylidie forth to the slaughter.

The Lorde thou shalt geue the: what shalt thou geue them? geue them an vnfruitfull woman and drye byesses. All their wyched-nesse is done at Baigail / there do I abhorre them. For the vnglacousnes of their awne inuencions / I will dyspue them oute of my house. I will loue them nomore / for all their prynces are vnfaithfull. Ephraim is hewen downe / their rote is dryed by / so that they shall bynge nomore frute: yee and though they bynge forth eny / yet will I slaye euen the best beloued frute of their body. My God shall cast the awaye / for they haue not bene obedient vnto hym / therefore shall they goo a straye amonge the Heathen.

Agayn Israel and his ydols.

The. xi. Chapter.

Irael was a goodly byne / but he hath brought forth vnprofytable frute: yee the more frute he had / the more alters he made: & more good I dyd to their lads / & more sedyng he sowed they to their images. Their herte is deuided / therefore will they be destroyed. The Lorde shall bryake downe their images / he shall destroye they alters. When shall they saye: we haue no kynge / for why? we haue not feared the Lorde. And what shall then the kynge do to vs? They comen together / and sweare bayne othes: they be confederate together / therefore groweth their punishment / as the we-des in the sowmes of the lande.

They that dwell in Samarita haue worshipped the calfe of Bethauren: therefore shall the pre-

the people mourne ouer them / yee and the prestes also / that in their welthyngs reioyced with them: and why? it shall passe awaye from them. It shall be brought to the Assyrians / for a present vnto king Sardanapallus. Ephraim shall receaue full punishment: Israel shall be con-founded for his awne ymaginacions / Samaria with his king shall banysh awaye / as the scumme in the water. The hye places of Auen where Israel do synne / shall be cast downe: thylles & thornes shall growe vpon their altars. Then shall they saye to the moste high: couer vs / & to the hylls: fall vpon vs.

Israel / thou hast synned as Gabaab did afore tyme / where they remayned: whilste not the bawles then come vpon the wycked chyl-dren / as well as vpon the Gabaonites: I will chasten them / euen after myne awne desyre / & people shall be gathered together ouer the / when I punish the for their greates wicked-nesse. Ephraim was vnto me / as a cow that is bled to go to plowe / therefore I loued him / & fell vpon his sayre neck. I dyed for Ephraim / Iuda plowed / & Jacob played the husbilde man: that they myght seme vnto rightuous-nes / and reape the frutes of welldoinge: that they myght plowe vpon their fresshe lande / and see the Lorde / till he came / & lemed them rightuousnes.

But now they haue plowed the wicked-nesse / therefore shall they reape synne / & eate the frute of lyes. Seing thou puttest thy con-fidence in thine awne wayes / and leaneest to the multitude of thy wyrtues: there shall growe a sedicion amogge thy people. All thy stronge cities shall be layed waste / euen as Salmanna was destroyed by his familiars / thow-rom hym that was awnged of Arbell / in the daye of batell / where the mother perished w her chyliden. Euen so shall it go with you (O Bethel) because of your malpicious wicked-nes. As he as the morninge goeth awaye / so shall the hyng of Israel passe.

Agaynst the unkyndnes of Israel.

The xi. Chapter.

When Israel was younge / I loued him: & called hym my sonne out of the lande of Egypt. But the more they were called / the more they wente backe / offring vnto Idols / and censuring Ima-ges. I lemed Ephraim to go / & bare them in myne armes / but they regarded not me / that wolde haue helped them. I led them by coar-des of frendshype / & with bandes of loue. I was euen he / that layed the rock vpon their neckes. I gaue them their fodder my self / that they shulde not go agayne into Egypt. And now is I dur their hyng: for they wolde not turne vnto me. Therefore shall I swearde be-gynne in their cyties / the scoare & they haue la yed by / shalbe destroyed and eaten: and that because of their awne ymaginacions. My people hath no lust to turne vnto me / their prophetes laye the yoke vpon the / but they ease them not of their burthen.

What greates thynges haue I geuen the / O Ephraim: how saythfully haue I defende-d the / O Israel: haue I dealt with the as with Adama: or haue I intreated the lyke Seboim? No / my herte is otherwise mynded. Yee my mercy is to feruent: therefore haue I not turned me to destroye Ephraim in my wyrtull displeasure. For I am God and no man / I am euen that holy one in the myddel of the / though I came not within the cyte.

The Lorde roareth like a Lyon / that they maye folowe hym: yet as a Lyon roareth he / & they maye be astrayed lyke the chyliden of the see: & they maye be scatted awaye fro Egypt / as men scatte bydes: & strayed awaye (as do-ues bte to be) from the Assyrians lande: and because I wolde haue them tary at home / sayeth the Lorde. But Ephraim goeth aboute me with lyes / and the house of Israel dissem-bleth. Only Iuda holdeth him with God / and with the true holy thynges.

Agaynst the wayne trust of the people.

The xii. Chapter.

Ephraim heareth the sayre / and folo-weth after heaill wynde: he is euer increasynge lyes and destruccyon. They be confederate with the As-syrians / their opie is caried into Egypt. The Lorde hat a courte to holde with Iuda / and will punish Jacob: After their awne wayes & accorpyng to their awne inuencions / shall he reedpente them. He toke his brother by the heile / when he was yet in his mothers wbe: and in his strength he wrestled with God. He stroue with the Iungell / & gat the byctore: so that he prayde and despyed hym. He sonde him at Bethel / & there he talked with vs.

Yee the Lorde God of hostes / euen the Lorde him selfe remembred hym: Then tur-ne to thy God / kepe mercy and equitye / and hope still in thy God. But the marchant hath a false weyght in his hande / he hath a pleasure to occupie extorcion. Ephraim thin-keth thus: Cuth / I am ryche / I haue good ynough: In al my wyrtues I haue not one faulte be founde / that I haue offended. Yet am I the Lorde thy God / euen as when I brought the out of the lande of Egypt / and set the in thy tentes / & as in the hye feast dayes.

I haue spoken thowom the prophetes / and theye dyuerse blyssions / and declared my self by the ministracion of the prophetes. But at Galaad is the abhominacion / they are fallen to banyte. At Gaigall they haue flane oxen: and as many heapes of stones as they had in their lande forowes / so many alters haue they made. Jacob fled in to the land of Syria / and Israel serued for a wyfe / and for a wyfe he kepte threpe.

By a prophet the Lorde brought them out of Egypt / and by a prophet he preserued them. But Ephraim hath prouoked him to displeasure thowom his abhominacions: there-fore shall his bloude be poured vpon him self / and the Lorde his God shall rewarde hym his blasphemies.

Of the abhominacions of Israel.

The xiii. Chapter.

The abhominacion of Ephraim is come also in to Israel. He is gone backe to Baal / therefore must he dye. And now they synne more and more: of their synner / they make them molte Images / lyke the Idols of the Heathen / and yet all is nothing but the worcke of the craft-man. Not withstanding they preach of the same: who so wyll hym the calues / offereyth to men. Therefore they shalbe as the morninge cloude / and as the dew that early passeth a-waye / & lyke as dust that the wynde taketh a-waye from the floze / and as smoke & goeth out of the chymney.

I am the Lorde thy God / which brought the out of the lande of Egypt: that thou shuldest knowe no God but me onely / & thou shuldest haue no Sauoure but only me. I toke diligent hede of the in the wyldernesse & dyed lande. But when they were well fedde & had ynough / they waxed proude / and forgot me. Therefore wyll I be vnto them as a Lyon / & as a Leopard in the waye to the Assyrians. I will come vpon them as a beere / that is robbed of her wyfely / & I wyll breake that stubburne herte of theirs. There wyll I deuoure them as a Lyon: yee the wyld beastes shall teare them.

Israel / thou doest but destroy thy self / In me only is thy helpe. Where are thy hynges now / that shulde helpe the in all thy cyties: yee and thy iudges / of whom thou saydest: geue me a hyng and prynces: well / I gaue the a hyng in my wyrt / and in my displeasure wyll I take him from the agayne. The wickednesse of Ephraim is bounde to-gether / & his synne lych hyd. Therefore shall forowes come vpon him / as vpon a woman & trauagyleth. An indiscrete sonne is he: for he confydreth not / that he shulde not haue bene able to haue endured in the tyme of his byrt / had not I defended him from the graue / and deliuered him from death.

Death / I wyll be thy death: O hell / I wyll be thy hyng. Yet can I geue no comfort / for when he is now the goodlyest amonge the chyliden / the East wynde (eue the wynde of the Lorde) shall come downe from the wylder-nesse / and dye by his condytes / and dync he by his welles: he shall spoyle the treasure of all pleasaunt vessels.

As for Samaria / they shalbe made waste / and why? they are disobediēt vnto their God. They shall perishe with the swearde / their chyl-dren shalbe slayne / and their women great with chylde shalbe ryppe by.

The destruction of Samaria.

The xiiii. Chapter.

Israel / turne the now / vnto the Lorde thy God / for thou hast take yere. ybid. a. a greates fall thowome thy wicked-nesse. Take these wordes with you / when ye turne to the Lorde / & saye vnto him: O forgeue vs all oure synnes / receaue vs graciously / and then wyll we offere the bul-locks of oure lypyes vnto the. But shalbe nomoze oure helpe / nether wyll we ryde vpon horses eny more. As for the wyrtues of oure handes / we wyll nomoze call vpon them: for it is thou that art oure God / thou shewest euer mercy vnto the fatherlesse.

O yf they wolde do this / I shulde heale their sores: yee with all my herte wolde I loue them: so that my wyrt shulde cleane be turned awaye from them. Yee I wolde be vnto Israel as the dew / and he shulde growe as the lyte / and his rote shulde breake oute as Libanus. His bryanches shulde sprede out abrode / and be as sayre as the olyue tre / and smell as Libanus. They that dwell vnder his shadowe / shulde come agayne / and growe vpon as the come / & flourish as the hyne: he shulde haue as good a name / as the wyne of Libanus.

O Ephraim what haue I to do w Idols eny more: I wyll graciously heare hym / and lede him forth. I wyll be vnto the as a grene fyre tre / vpon me shalt thou fynde thy frute who so is wyfe / shall vnderstande this: & he that is right enstrucke / wyll regarde it. For the wayes of the Lorde are rightuous / soch as be Godly wyll walcke in them: As for the wicked / they wyll stumble therein.

The Lorde hath sworne against the pride of Jacob: these wordes of theirs will I neuer forget. Shall not the lande tremble / and all they that dwell therein / mourne for this? Shall not their destruction come vpon them like a water streame / and flowe ouer them / as the floude of Egypte? At the same tyme (saith the Lorde God) I will cause the Sunne to go downe at none / & the land to be darcke in the cleare daye. Your hye seales will I turne to sorow / and poure songes to mourning: I will byringe sack cloth vpon al backes / & baldnes vpon euery head: yee loke a mourninge will I sende them / as is made vpon an only begotten sonne / and they shall haue a miserable ende.

Beholde the tyme cometh (saith the Lorde God) & I will sende an hunger in to the earth: not the hunger of bred / nor the thyrst of water: but an hunger to heare the woide of the Lorde: so that they shall go from the one see to the other / yee from the north vnto the east / runnyng aboute to seeke the woide of the Lorde: & shall not fynde it. In that tyme / shall the saye birgins and the ponge me perre for thyrst / yee euen they that sweare in the offence of Samaria / and saye: as truly as thy God lyueth at Dan / and as truly as thy God lyueth at Betsaba. These shall fall / and neuer ryse by agayne.

The. ix. Chapter.

Thus sayde the Lorde standing vpon the aulter / and he sayde: my people the doze cheke / that the postes maye make withall. For their couetousnesse shall fall vpon all their heades / & they possesse shall be daye wyth & swerde. They shall not be awaye / there shall not one of the escape / nor be deliuered. Though they were buried in the hell / my hande shall fetch them from thence: though they clymme by to heauen / yet shall I cast them downe: though they hyde them selues vpon the toppe of Carmel

Isa. xlviii. 18

yet shall I seeke them out / and byringe them from thence: though they clymme from my syght in to the depe of the see / I shall commaunde the serpente / euen there to bite the. If they goo awaye before their enemyes in to captiuite / then shall I commaunde my swerde / there to slaye them.

Thus will I sett myne eyes vpon the / for their harme is not for their wealth. For when the Lorde God of hostes toucheth a lande / it consumeth awaye / and all they that dwell therein / must nedes mourne: and why? they destruction shall aryse as euery streame and runne ouer them / as the floude in Egypte. He that hath his dwellinge in heauen / & groundeth his tabernacle in the earth: he that calleth the waters of the see / and poureth them out vpon the playne grounde: his name is the Lorde. O ye chyldren of Israel / are ye not vnto me / euen as the Mooryans / sayeth the Lorde: haue not I brought Israel out of the lande of Egypte / the Philistynes from Capthoz / and the Syrians from Assyria? Beholde / the eyes of the Lorde are vpon the realme / & synneth / to rote it cleane out of the earth: & uertheles / I will not utterly destroye the house of Jacob / sayeth the Lorde.

For lo / this I promise: though I sette the house of Israel amonge all nacyns (like as they be to sette in a spere) yet shall not the smallest grauell stone fall vpon the earth: But all the wicked doers of my people / that saye: & the plage is not to nye / to come so hastily vpon vs: those shall perishe with the swerde. At that tyme will I buyde agayne the tabernacle of Dauid / that is fallen downe / and hedge by his gappes: and loke what is broken / I shall repaie it: yee I shall buyde it agayne / as it was a foze tyme / & they maye possesse the remnaunt of Edom / yee & all such people as call vpon my name in the / sayeth the Lorde / whych doth these thynges.

Beholde / the tyme cometh (saith the Lorde) that the plowman shall ouer take & mow / and the treades of grappes / hym that sowe the seede. The mountaynes shall droppe swete wyne / and the hilles shall be frutefull / and I will turne the captiuite of my people of Israel: they shall repaie the waste cyties / and haue them in possession: they shall plante byn-yardes / and drynke the wyne therof: they shall make gardens / & enioye the frutes of them.

And I will plante the vpon their anie grounde / so that I will neuer rote them out agayne fro the lande which I haue geue the / saith the Lorde thy God.

The boke of the Prophete Abdy.

Agaynst Edom / & the trust that they had in riches.

This is the byspon that was shewed vnto Abdy: thus hath the Lorde God spoken vpon Edom: we haue herde of the Lorde that there is an embassage sent amonge the Heathen: wylt vs aryse / and fyght agaynst them. Beholde / I will make the small amonge the Heathen / so that thou shalt be utterly despyed. The pride of thyne herte hath lyft the by / thou that dwellest in the stronge holdes of stone / & hast made the an hye seate: thou sayest in thyne herte: who shall cast me downe to the grounde? But though thou wenter by as hye as the Eagle / & maydest thy nest aboue amonge the starres: yet wolde I plucke the downe from thence. Yf the theues and robbers came to the by nyght / thou takinge thy rest: woulde they not steale / tyl they had y-nough? Yf the grape gatherers came vpon the / wolde they not leaue the some grapes? But how shall they rype Esau / and seke out his treasures?

Yee the men that were sworne vnto the / wylt byrre & out of the borders of thyne awne lande. & they that be now at one to the / shall discreaue the / & ouercome the: euen they that eate thy bred / shall betraye the / & euer thou perceaue it. Shall not I at the same tyme destroye the wyse men of Edom / & those that haue vnderstanding / fro the mount of Esau? Thy gyauntes (O Cheman) shall be strayed / so / thozow & daughter they shall be all ouerthrowne vpon the mount of Esau. Shame shall come vpon the / for the malice & thou shewdest to thy brother Jacob: yee for euer more shalt thou perishe / & that because of the tyme / when thou dydest set thy selfe agaynst him / euen when the enemyes carped awaye his hood / and when the aleattes came in at his portes / and cast lottes vpon Jerusalem / and thou thy self wast as one of them.

Thou shalt nomoze se the daye of thy brother / thou shalt nomoze beholde the tyme of his captiuite: thou shalt nomoze reioyse ouer the chyldren of Iuda / in the daye of their destruction / thou shalt triumphe nomoze in the tyme of their trouble. Thou shalt no more come in at the gates of my people / in the tyme of their decaye: thou shalt not se their mylery in the daye of thier fall.

Thou shalt sende out no man agaynst their hood / in the daye of thier aduersyte: neither shalt thou stande wapyng any more at the corners of the stretes / to murther such as are fled: or to take them prisoners / that remayne in the daye of their trouble. For the daye of the Lorde is harde by vpon all & Heathen. Like as thou hast done / so shalt thou be dealt with: all / yee thou shalt be rewarded euen by thyne head. For lyke wyse as ye haue dyonched vpon myne holy byll / so shall all Heathen dynche continually: yee dynche shall they / & swallowe by / so that ye shall be / as though ye had neuer bene.

But vpon the mount Syon / there shall a remnaunt escape: these shall be holy / and the house of Jacob shall possesse euen those / that had the selues afoze in possession. Moreover / the house of Jacob shall be a fyre / the house of Joseph a flame / & the house of Esau shall be the strawe: which they shall kindle and consume / so that nothyng shall be left of the house of Esau / for the Lorde himselfe hath sayde it. They of the South shall haue the mount of Esau in possession: and loke what lyeth vpon the ground / that shall the Philistynes haue: the playne feldees shall Ephraim & Samaria possesse: and the mountaynes of Galaad shall Benjamin haue. And thys hood shall be the chyldren of Israel prisoners: now what loke they from Canaan vnto the Zarephath / in the Sepharad / that shall be vnder the subiection of Jerusalem: and the cyties of the South shall enheret it. Thus they that escape vpon the byll of Syon / shall go by to punysh the most of Esau / and the kyngdome shall be the Lordes.

The. i. Chapter.

The. ii. Chapter.

The woide of the Lorde came vnto Jonas the sonne of Amithai / saying: Arise / & get the to Ninue / & get the to Ninue / that grete cyte: & preache the vnto them / how that their wickednes is come by before me. And Jonas made hym ready to be vnto the. & charlyd the presence of the Lorde / and gat hym downe to longe: so the Joppa: where he founde a wyppre ready for saylers therin to go vnto Charlyd. So he payde his fare / & coude be no thynge: but he wente aborde / that he myght go wyth them vnto Charlyd / from the presence of the Lorde. Joppa is an wyppre: But the Lorde hurled a grete wynde in to the of Joppa.

where was so the see/and there was a myghty tempest in the see: so that the shippe was in teper of goinge in peces. When the margners were a frayde/ and cryed every man unto his god: & the goodes that were in the shippe/ they cast into the see / to lychten it of them. But Jonas gat hym under the hatches / where he layed him downe and slombzed.

So the master of the shippe came to him and sayde unto hym: why slomberest thou? wip/call upon thy God: for God(happely) will thynke upon us / that we perishe not. And they sayde one to another: come / lett us cast lottes: that we maye knowe/for whose cause we are thus troubled. And so they cast lottes/and the lot fell upon Jonas.

Then sayde they unto him: tel us, for whose cause are we thus troubled? what is thyne occupacon? whence comest thou? what countre man art thou/ and of what nacion? He answered them: I am an Ebzeue / and I feare the Lorde God of heauen/whych made both the see and drye lande. Then were the men exceedingly afrayed/ & sayde unto hym: why didest thou so? (for they knewe/ that he was fled from the ptesence of the Lorde / because he had tolde them) and sayde mozeouer unto hym: what shall we do unto the / that the see maye cease from troublinge us? (for the see wrought and was troublous) he answered them: Take me / and cast me in to the see / so shall it lett you be in rest: for I wote/it is for my sake/that this great tēpest is come upon you.

Nevertheless/ the men assayed with rowynge/ to bryng the shippe to lande: but it wolde not be / because the see wrought so/ & was so troublous agaynst them. Wherfore they cryed unto the Lorde/ & sayde: O Lorde let us not perishe for this mans death/ nether laye thou innocent bloude unto our charge: for thou/ O Lorde/ hast done / even as thy pleasure was.

So they toke Jonas / and cast hym in to the see/and the see lette ragynge. And the men feared the Lorde exceedingly/ doynge sacrifices & makinge bowes unto the Lorde.

Jonas is swallowed of a whale. The prayer of Jonas.

The .ii. Chapter.

But the Lorde prepared a greate fythe/ to swallowe up Jonas. So was Jonas in the belly of the fyth / thre dayes & thre nightes. And Jonas prayd unto the Lorde his God/ out of the belly of the fyth/ and sayde: In my trouble I called unto the Lorde/ & he herde me: out of the belly of the fyth/ & thou herdest my voyce. Thou haddest cast me downe depe in the myddell of the see / and the floude compassed me about: yee all the wayes and roules of wa-ter went ouer me/ I thought that I had bene cast awaye out of the syght: but I wyll yet agayne lōke towards thy holy temple.

The waters compassed me/ even to the very soule: the depe laye aboute me / & the wydes were wyapte aboute myne head. I went downe to the botome of the hylls / and was barred in wyth earth for ever. But thou / O Lorde my God / hast brought up my lyfe agayne out of corrupcion. When my soule fainted within me/ I thought by the Lorde: & my prayer came in unto the / even in to thy holy temple. They that holde of bayne ban-tyes/ will forsake his mercy. But I wyll do the sacrifice wyth the voyce of thankesge-uyng/ and will paye that I have bowed: for why? saluacion cometh of the Lorde. And the Lorde spake unto the fyth/ and it cast out Jonas agayne upon the drye lande.

Jonas is sent agayne to Ninive. The repentance of the kyng of Ninive.

The .iii. Chapter.

Then came the worde of the Lorde unto Jonas agayne/ sayenge: bp / & get the to Ninive that greate cytye/ & preach unto them the preachinge which I bade the. So Jonas arose/ & wente to Ninive at the Lordes commaundement. Ninive was a greate cytye unto God / name-ly/ of thre dayes journey.

And Jonas wente to / and entred in to the cytye: even a dayes journey / & cryed/ sayenge: There are yet xl. dayes and then shall Ninive be overthowen. And the people of Ninive beleved God/ and proclaimed fastynge / and arrayed them selues in sack cloth / as well the greate as the small of them. And the cy- dinges came unto the kyng of Ninive/ which arose out of his seate / & dyd his apparell of / and put on sack cloth / and late hym downe in ashes.

And it was cryed and commaunded in Ninive/ by the auctorite of the kyng and bys lordes/ sayenge: se that nether man or best / ore or shepe take ought at all: and that they nether fede ner drynke water: but put on sack cloth both man and best/ and crye mightely unto God: yee se that every man turne from his euill waye / and from the wychednesse/ that he hath in hande.

Who can tell? God maye turne / & repen- te/ and cease from his fierce wrath/ that we perishe not. And when God sawe their wo-ries/ how they turned from their wicked wa-yes/ he repented on the euill/ whych he sayde he wolde do unto them/ and dyd it not.

Jonas is reproved of God.

The .iiii. Chapter.

Wherfore

Wherfore Jonas was sore dyscon- cent & angrie. And he prayed unto the Lorde/ & sayde: O Lorde was not this my sayinge (I praye the) when I was yet in my countre? therfore I hastid rather to fle into Chathis / for I know well ynough / thou art a mercifull God/ full of compassion/ longe suffering / & of great kynd- nesses/ & repenest when thou shuldest take pri- nismēt. And now O Lorde/ take my lyfe fro me (I beseeche the) for I had rather dye then lyue. Then sayde the Lorde: art thou so angrie? And Jonas gat hym out of the cite/ and satt downe on the east side thereof: & there made him a boother/ & satt vnder it in the shadow/ till he might se/ what shulde chaunce vnto the cytye.

And the Lorde God prepared a wyde by- ne/ whych sprange by ouer Jonas / that he myght haue shadowe aboute his head/ to de- lyuer him out of his payne. And Jonas was exceeding glad of the wyde byne.

But bpō the nexte moztow agaynst the spring of the daye. The Lorde ordered a worme/ whych smote the wyde byne / so that it withered awaye. And when the Sunne was bp God prepared a treuent east wynde: and the Sunne bett ouer the head of Jonas/ that he fainted agayne/ and withed vnto his soule/ that he myght dye/ and sayde: It is better for me to dye/ then to lyue. And God sayde vnto Jonas: Art thou so angrie for the wyde byne? And he sayde: yee very angrie am I/ even vnto the death. And the Lorde sayde: thou hast compassion vpon a wyde byne/ wheron thou bestowdest no labour/ nether maydest it grow: whych sprange by in one nyght & perished in another: And shuldest thou then haue com- passion vpon Ninive that greate cytye/ wher- in there are aboute an. C. & xx. thousand per- sonnes/ that knowe not their ryght hand fro the left/ besydes much catell?

The ende of the Prophecy of Jonas.

The boke of the Prophete Micheas.

Of the destruction of Samaria because of their Idolatrye.

The .i. Chapter.

This is the worde of the Lorde/ & came vnto Micheas the Mozaistite / in the dayes of Iothan/ & Asas & Zechechiah kynges of Iuda: whych was dwelled hym bpō Samaria & Ierusalem. Heare all ye people / marche thys well O earth/ and all that therein is: Yee the Lorde God hym selfe be wytnesse amonge you/ euē the Lorde fro his holy temple. For why? beholde/ the Lorde shall go oute of his place/ & come downe/ & treade vpon the hye thynges of the earth. The mountaynes shall consume vnder him/ & the balleyes shall cleue asunder: lyke as waye consumeth at the fyre/ & as the waters runne downwarde. And all this shall be for the wychednesse of Iacob/ & the synnes of the house of Israel.

But what is the wychednesse of Iacob? Is not Samaria? which are the hye places of Iuda? Is not Ierusalem? Wherfore I shall make Samaria an heape of stones in the felde/ to laye aboute the vineyard: her stones shall I cast in to the balleye/ & discouer her foun- dacions. All her images shall be broke downe/ and all her wyngynge shall be bzent in the fyre: yee all her idols wyll I destroye: for why? they are gathered out of the byre of an whoze / & in to an whozes byre shall they be turned agayne. Wherfore I wyll mourne & make lamentaciō/ bare & naked wyll I go: I must mourne like the dragons/ & take sorow as the striches: for their woulde is past remedy: And why? it is come in to Iuda / & hath cou- ched the porte of my people at Ierusalem alyre.

Thou at Bethphaza/ welter thy self in the dust & ashes. Thou dwellest at Sephir/ get the hence with shame. The proude shall boost nomoze for very sorowe: and why? her neyghboure shall take fro her what she hath. The rebellious cytye hopeth / & it shall not be to euill: but for all the plage that shall come fro the Lorde/ euē in to the porte of Ierusa- lem. The greate noyse of the charittes shall feare the / that dwell at Lachis/ whych is an occasyon of the synne of the daughter of Sion/ for in the came bp the wychednesse of Israel.

Yee the sen her couriers in to the lād of Beth. The houses of Ives wyll dysceane the kyngs of Israel. And as for the / thou that dwel- lest at Mozaia/ I shall byng a possessione vpon the / & the plage of Israel shall reach vnto Mozaia. Make the balde/ & haue the/ be- cause of thy tender chyldre: Make the cleane balde as an Aegle / for they shall be carryed awaye captiue from the.

The crynges agaynst the synfull people.

The .ii. Chapter.

Do vnto the / that I maye to do harme/ & deuyse byng racounesse vpon their beddes / to perforce it in the cleare daye: for ther power is agaynst God. Why they couet to haue lād/ they take it by violence / they robbe men of their houses.

Thus they oppresse a mā for his house/ & every man for his heretage. Wherfore thus sayeth the Lorde: Beholde agaynst this house/ wolde haue I deuyled a plage / wherout ye shall not plucke your necke: y^e shall nomore go so proudly: for it will be a perious tyme. In that daye shall this terme be v^{se}d / and a mourninge shall be made ouer you on this manner: I shall be utterly desolate / the po^{re} of my people translated. When will he parte vnto vs the lande / he hath taken from vs?

Nevertheless there shall be nomore to deuide the thy^e po^{re} in the congregacon of the Lorde. Cuth holde your tunge (saye they.) It shall not fall vpon this people / we shall not come so to confusyon / sayeth the house of Jacob. Is the sp^{re}te of the Lorde so cleane awaye? or is he so mynde? C^{re}uth it is / my wordes are trewly vnto the that I speake right: but my people doth the contrary / therefore must I take parte agaynst them: for they take awaye both cote and cloke from the symple.

Ye haue turned your selues to fyght / the women of my people haue ye shot out from their good houses / and take awaye my excellent gyftes from their chyldren. W^h get you hence / for here shall ye haue no rest.

Because of their Idolatrye they are corrupte / & shall miserably perishe. If I were a fleshy felowe / & a preacher of lyes / & tolde the that they myght fyre bebbynge & boling / & be dyoncken: that were a prophete for this people. But I will gather the in dede / & Jacob / & dyne the remnant of Israel all together. I will cary them one with another / as a flocke in the folde / and as the cattell in their stalles / that they may be deliuered of other men. Who so breaketh the gawpe / he shall go before. They shall breake by the porte / & go in & out at it. Their hynges shall go before them / and the Lorde shall be vpon the head of them.

Agaynst the tyranny of p^{ri}nces / & false prophetes.

The .xiiij. Chapter.

Eate / & ye heades of the house of Jacob / & ye leaders of the house of Israel: Shulde not ye know what were lawfull & ryght? But ye hate the good / & loue the euil: ye plucke of mēnes synnes / & the flesh fro their bones: ye eate the flesh of my people / & flay of their synne: ye breake their bones / ye choppe them in peces as it were in to a cauld^{re} / & as flesh into a pot. Now the tyme shall come / that when they call vnto the Lorde / he shall not heare the / & but hyde his face from them / because that they haue deale so wyckedly.

And as concerninge the prophetes that disceare my people / thus the Lorde sayeth agaynst them: When they haue eny thyng to saye vpon / then they preach that all shall be well: but ye a man put not come thyng in to their mouthes / they preach of warre agaynst him.

Therefore your bysion shall be turned to night / & your prophete to darcknesse. The Sunne shall go downe ouer those prophetes / & the daye shall be darcke vnto them. When shall the bysion seers be ashamed / and the soothsayers confounded: yee they shall be layne / all the packe of them / to stoppe their mouthes / for they haue not Gods word. As for me / I am full of strength / & of the sp^{re}te of the Lorde / full of iudgment & boldnesse: to shewe the house of Jacob their wyckednesse / & the house of Israel their synne.

O heare this ye rulers of the house of Jacob / & ye iudges of the house of Israel: ye abhorre the thyng that is lawfull / & towarde asyde the thyng that is streight: ye buyde by Sion with bloude / & Jerusalem to doynge wynges. O ye iudges / ye geue sentence for gyftes: O ye prelates / ye teach for lucre: O ye prophetes / ye prophete for money. Yet will they be taken as those that holde vpon God / and saye: Is not the Lorde amonge vs? Cuth / there can no misfortune happen vs. Therefore shall Sion (for your sakes) be plowed lyke a felde: Jerusalem shall become an heape of stones / and the byll of the temple shall be turned to an hye wodde.

Of the callenge of the Gentiles / and conuersyon of the Jewes.

The .lviij. Chapter.

But in the latter dayes it will come / out in the latter dayes / & the byll of the Lorde house shall be lett by hyer then eny mountaynes or hylls: yee & people shall please vnto it / & the multitude of Gentiles shall haste the thither / sayeg: Come / let vs go by to the byll of the Lorde / & to the house of God of Jacob: that he maye teach vs his waye / & that we maye walcke in his pathes. For the lawe shall come out of Sion / & the worde of God from Jerusalem / & shall geue sentence amonge the multitude of the heathen & resourne the people of farre countries: so & of their sweates they shall make plowshares / & synthes of their speares.

One people shall not lyft by a sweate agaynst another / yee they shall nomore learne to fyght: but every man shall lyt vnder his vinegarde & vnder his sygetre / and no man to feare him awaye: for the mouth of the Lorde of hostes hath spoken it. Therefore / where as all the people haue walched every man in the name of his a^une God / we will walcke in the name of oure God for euer & euer. At the same tyme / sayeth the Lorde / will I gather by the lame & the outcastes / & such as I haue chastened: & will geue vnto the lame / & make of you castles & a great people / and

and the Lorde hym selfe shall be their kynge vpon the mount Sion / from this tyme forth for euer more. And vnto the (O thou tower of eder / thou stronge holde of the daughter Sion) vnto the shall it come: euen the lord wyse & a kyngdome of the daughter Jerusalem: why then art thou now so heuy? is there no kynge in the? are they counceilers awaye? thou art so payned / as a woman in her trauaile: And now (O thou daughter Sion) be soye / let it greue the as a wyfe laboring to chyld: for now must thou get the out of the cytie / and dwell vpon the playne felde: yee vnto Babilon shall thou go / there shalt thou be deliuered / and there the Lorde shall lowse the from the hande of thyne enemyes.

Now also are there many people gathered together agaynst / saying: what / Sion is cursed / we shall seure lust vpon her. But they knowe not the thoughtes of the Lorde / they vnderstande not his counsell / that shall gather them together as the sheues in the barn. Therefore get the by / O thou daughter Sion / and thou shalt see the com^{er}: for I will make thy hoire grow / and thy clawes braste / that thou maye grynde many people: their goodes shall thou appropriate vnto the Lorde / and their substaunce vnto the ruler of the whole worlde.

Of the destruction of Jerusalem.

The .lxx. Chapter.

After that shalt thou be robbed the selfe / O thou robbers daughter: they shall laye sege agaynst vs / and myte the iudge of Israel with a rodde vpon the cheke. And thou Bethleem Ephrata / art lytle amonge the thousandes of Iuda / Out of the shall come vnto me / which shall be the gouernour in Israel: whose out goynge hath bene from the begynnyng / and from euerlastynge. In the meane while he plageth them for a season / vntill the tyme that the (which shall beare) haue borne: then shall the remnant of hye byrthzen be conuerted vnto the chyldren of Israel. He shall stande fast / and geue lode in the strength of the Lorde / and in the victorie of the name of the Lorde his God: and when they be conuerted / he shall be magnified vnto the farthest partes of the worlde.

When shall there be peace / so that the Christian maye come in to oure lande / & trade in oure houses. We shall bynge by shepherdes and by p^{ri}nces vpon the shepe / and the lande of Syntod with their naked weapens. Thus shall he deliuer vs from the Assyrian / who he commeth within oure land / and setteth his tote within oure borders.

And the remnant of Jacob shall be amonge

the multitude of people / as the dewe of the Lorde / and as the droppe upon the gras / that tarieth for no man / and wayteth of no body. Yee & residue of Jacob shall be amonge the Gentiles / and the multitude of people / as the lye amonge the beestes of the wodde / and as the Lyons whelpes amonge a flocke of shepe: which (when he goeth thowow) treadeth downe / teareth in peces / & there is no man that can helpe. Thyne hand shall be lyft vpon thyne enemyes / and all thyne aduersaries shall perish.

The tyme shall come also / sayeth the Lorde / that I will take thyne hoires from the / and destroye thy charities. I will breake downe the cyties of thy lande / and ouerthrowe all thy stronge holdes. All witchcraftes will I rote oute of thyne hande / there shall no more saythaynges be within the. Thyne Images will I destroye oute of the / so that thou shalt nomore bome thy selfe vnto the woiches of thyne a^une handes. Thy groues will I plucke by the rotes / and breake downe & cyties. Thus will I be auge also / vnto all & heathen & I will not heare.

An exhortacion to heare the iudgment agaynst Israel / beyng vnto hynde. What manner of sacrifices do please God.

The .lxxi. Chapter.

Euen now what the Lorde sayeth: I say / reproue the mountaynes / & lett the hylls heare thy voyce. O heare the punysshment of the Lorde / ye mountaynes / & ye mightie foundacions of the earth: for the Lorde will reproue his people / & reason to Israel: O my people / what haue I done vnto you? where in haue I hurte the? geue me answer. Because I brought you from the lande of Egypte / and deliuered the out of the house of bondage: Because I made Moses / Aaron and Miriam to lede the: & I made you my people / what Balach & king of Moab had I imagined agaynst the / and I made you my people / what Balach & sonne of Beor gaue him / from Sethim vnto Balgal / & ye maye knowe the loutynge kynednes of the Lorde.

What acceptable ynge shall I offere vnto the Lorde? shall I bowe my knee to the hye God? Shall I come before hye with brene offerynges / and with calues of a yeare olde? Hath the Lorde a pleasure in many thousandes / or innumerable streames of oyle? O shall I geue my synne bozne for myne offences / & the frute of my body for the synne of my soule? I will heare the / O m^{an} / what is good / and what the Lorde requyeth of the: Namely / to do right / to haue pleasure in louynge hym / to be lowly / & to walcke with the God: that thou mayest be called a cite camest forth to helpe thy people / to helpe thyne anoynted. Thou smotest downe þe head the house of þe vngodly / & discoueredst his foundations / eue vnto þe necke of him. Selah.

Thou curst his septers / the Captayne of his men of warre: which come as a storme my wind to scatere me abrope / & are glad whē they maye eat vp þe poore secretly. Thou makest awaye for thyne horses in the see / euen in the mude of great waters. Whē I heare this / my body is vexed / my kyppes tremble at þe voyce therof / my bones corrupte / I am a frayd where I stande. & that I might rest in the daye of trouble / that I myght go vnto our people / which are already prepared.

For the fyge trees shal not be grene / & the bynes shal beare no frute. The labour of þe olyue shal be but lost / & the lande shal bring no come: the shepe shal be taken out of þe fold / and there shal be no catel in the stalles.

But as for me / I will be glad in the Lorde / and will reioyce in God my Sautour. The Lorde God is my strength / he shal make my fete as the fete of hertes: & he which geueth the bycote / shal bring me to my hye places synginge vpon my psalmes.

The ende of the prophesy of Abacuc.

The booke of the Prophete Sophony.

Threatninges agaynst Iuda & Ierusalem because of their Idolatrye.

The fyrst Chapter.

This is the worde of the Lorde / which cam vnto Sophony the sonne of Chusi / the sonne of Gedaliah / the sonne of Amariah / the sonne of Hezekiah in þe tyme of Iosiah the sonne of Amion kyng of Iuda. I will gather by all thynges in the lande (sayeth the Lorde) I will gather by man & beast: I will gather by the foules in the ayre and the fysh in the see (to the greate decaye of the wylched) and will utterly destroye the men out of the lande / sayeth the Lorde. I will stretch out myne hande vpon Iuda / and vpon all soch as dwell at Ierusalem. Thus will I rote oute the remnant of Baal from this place / & the names of the Remurings and prestes: yee & soch as vpon their house toppes worshype & bowe them selues vnto the hoste of heauen: which I meane by the Lorde / & by their Malchom also: which starte a backe fro þe Lorde / & nether seke after þe Lorde / ner regarde him.

Be still at the presence of the Lorde God / for the daye of the Lorde is at hande: yee the Lorde hath prepared a daye of slaughter / and called bys gettes thereto. And thus shall it happen in the daye of the Lorde a daye of slaughter: I will byset the princes / the kinges / the chyldren / and all soch as were straunge clothinge. In the same daye also will I byset all those / that treade ouer the thesholde so proudly / which fyll their Lodes house with trowber and la thede. At þe same tyme (sayeth the Lorde) there shal be herde a greate crye from the synnyposte and an howlyng fro the other poste / and a greate murthure from the bylles. Howe ye that dwell in the myll / for all the marchaunt people are gone / & all they that were laden with synner / are roted out.

At the same tyme will I seke thozow Ierusalem with lanternes / & byset them that continue in their dyegges / and saye in theyr hertes: Cusch / the Lorde will do nether good ner euell. Their goodes shal be spoyled / and their houses layed waste: they shal buyde houses / and not dwel in them: they shal plante bynyardes / but not drinke the wyne / therof. For the greate daye of the Lorde is at hande / it is herde by / & cometh on a pace. Horrible is the tydings of the Lodes daye then that the gyaunte crye out: for that daye is a daye of wrath / a daye of trouble & heynesse / a daye of utter destruction & mysery / a darcke & glomyng daye / a cloudy & stormyng daye / a daye of þe noyse of troppettes & of warres / against the stronge cities & hie towres. I will bringe the people in to soch vexacion / that they shal go aboute like blinde men / because they haue synned agaynst the Lorde. Their bloude shal be shed as the dust / & theyr bodies as the myre. Neither shall theyr synner ner their golde shal be able to deliuered them in þe wrothful daye of the Lorde / but the whole lande shal be consumed thozow the fyre of his gelousy: for he shall soone make clene riddance of all them that dwel in the lande.

The moueth to returne to God / prophesyinge vnto the one destruction / & to the other deliuerance.

The ii. Chapter.

Come together and gather you / O straunge people: oꝝ the thyng go forth that is concluded / and oꝝ the tyme be passed awaye as the dust: oꝝ the fearfull wrath of the Lorde come vpon you / yee oꝝ the daye of the Lodes sope bypleasure come vpon you. Seke the Lorde all yee meke harted vpon earth / ye that worche after his iudgment: seke ryghtynesse / seke toholynesse: þe ye maye be defended in the wrothful daye of the Lorde. For Gaza shal be destroyed / & Ascalon shal be layed waste / they shal cast out Amod at the noone daye / and and Accaron shal be plucked by by the rotes. And vnto you I dwell vpon the see coast / ye murtherous people: the worde of þe Lorde shal come vpon you. O Canaan thou lande of the Philistynes / I will destroye the / so that there shal no man dwell in the eny moze: and as for the see coast / it shal be bydmenes cottages & shepe folde: yee it shal be a porcyon for soch as remayne of the house of Iuda / to fede ther vpon. In the houses of Ascalon shal they rest towarde nyght: for the Lorde theyr God shal byset the / & turne awaye their captiuite. I haue herde the despyte of Moab / & the blasphemies of the chyldren of Ammon / how they haue shamefully intreated my people / & magnified them selues within the borders of their lande. Therfore as truly as I lyue (sayeth the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel) Moab shal be as Sodome / & Ammon as Gomorra: euen dye thozow hedges / salt pyttes and a perpetuall wyldernes. The residue of my folcke shal spoyle the remnant of my people shal haue them in possession. This shal happē vnto them for theyr pryde / because they haue deale so shamefully with the Lorde of hostes people: & magnified the selues aboute the. The Lorde shal be gryme vpon the / & destroye all þe goddes in the lande. And all þe flesch of þe Heathen shal worshype him / eury man in his place.

Ye Moab also shal perishe by my swerde: yee he shal stretch out his hande ouer the north / and destroye Astar. As for Rimmon / he shal make it desolate / drye and waste. The flockes & all þe beastes of the people shal lye in yd nuddes of it / pellicanes & storkes shal abyde in the upper postes of it / foules shal lye in the wyndowes / & rauens shal fyrt vpon the balches / for the borders of Cedze shal be ryuen downe. This is the proude and carelesse cytie / that sayde in her herte: I am / and there is els none. How is the made to waste / that the beestes lye therein? who goeth by / mocketh her / and popteth at her with his synger.

Agaynst the gouerners of Ierusalem. Of the calyng of all the Gentyles. A comfort to the residue of Israel.

The iii. Chapter.

O to the abhominable / synnyposte & cruell cytie: which will not heare / ner be reformed. Her trust is not in the Lorde / nether will she holde her to her God. Her rulers within her are as roaringe Lyons: her iudges are as wolues hynde them till the noone. Her prophetes are lyght personnes and vnfaithfull me: her prestes bnhaloue the Sanctuary / and do wroge vnder the pzetence of the lawe. But the Lorde that doth no bryght / was amonge the / eury morning shewing the his lawe clearly / & ceased not. But þe vngodly will not lerne to be ashamed. Therfore will I rote oute thys people / and destroye their towres: yee and make their stretes so wyde / that no man shal goo therein. Their cytyes shal be broken downe / so that no body shal be left / ner dwell there eny moze.

I saye vnto them: O feare me / and be content to be reformed. That their dwellinge shal be not be destroyed / and that there shal be happen vnto them none of these thynges / wherwith I shal byset the. But neuertheles they stande by early / to folowe the fleshynges of theyr awne ymaginacions. Therfore ye shal wayte vpon me (sayeth the Lorde) vntill the tyme that I shal come: for I am determined / to gather þe people & to bringe þe kynngdomes together / that I maye poure oute myne anger / yee all my wrothfull displeasure vpon the. For all the worlde shal be consumed with the fyre of my gelousy. And then will I cleanse the kyppes of the people / & they maye euerich one call vpon the name of the Lorde / & serue him with one bulder. Soch as I haue subdued / and my chyldren also whom I haue scattered abrode / shal bringe me presentes beyonde the waters of ethiopia.

In that tyme shall thou nomoze be confounded / because of all thy ymaginacions / wherthozow thou hadde offended me: for I will take awaye the proude booke of thine honoure from the / so þe thou shalt nomoze triumphe because of my holy hyll. In þe also will I leaue a smal poore symple people / which shal truill in the name of þe Lorde. The remnant of Israel shal do no wyckednes / ner speake lyes: nether shal there eny disceatfull tinge be founde in their mouthes. For they shal be fed / and take their rest / and no man shal make them afrayed. Beue thynges O daughter Syon / be ioyful O Israel: reioyce and be glad fro thy whole herte / O daughter Ierusalem / for the Lorde hath taken awaye thy punishment / and turned backe thine enemyes. The kyng of Israel / euen the Lorde himselfe is with the: so that thou ne dost nomoze to feare eny myffortune.

In that tyme it shal be sayed to Ierusalem: feare not / and to Syon: lett not thyne handes be slacke / for the Lorde thy God is with the / it is he that hath power to saue: he hath a speciall pleasure in þe / & a marvelous loue toward the: yee he reioyseth ouer the with gladnesse. Soch as haue bene in heynesse / will I gather together / & take oute of thy congregacion: as for the shame & reproche that hath bene layed vpon the / it shal be farre from the. And so / in that tyme will I destroye all

all those that be in the land: I will helpe the lame / and gather by the cast awayes: yee I will get them praye and honoure in all landes / where they haue bene put to shame. At the same tyme will I bringe you in / and at the same tyme will I gather you. I will get you a name & a good repoyte amonge all people of the earth / when I turne backe your captiuitie before your eyes / sayeth the Lorde.

The ende of the prophete of Sophony.

The booke of the prophete Aggeus.

The tyme of the prophete of Aggeus. An exhortacion to buyde the temple againe.

The first Chapter.

In the seconde yere of kynge Darius / in the .viij. moneth / the first daye of the moneth / came the worde of the Lorde (by the prophete Aggeus) vnto Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel the prince of Iuda / & to Iesus the sonne of Iosedech the hye p[re]st / saying: Thus speaketh the Lorde of hostes / & sayeth: This people both saye: The tyme is not yet come to buyde by the Lordes house. Then spake the Lorde by the prophete Aggeus / & sayde: Ye your selues can finde tyme to dwell in tyled houses / & shall this house lye wast? Conspyre now your awne wayes in your hertes (sayeth the Lorde of hostes) ye some moche / but ye bringe litle in: ye eate / but ye haue not ynough: ye drinke / but ye are not fylled: ye decke your selues / but ye are not warme: and he that earneth eny wage / putteth it in a broken p[re]se.

Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: Conspyre your awne wayes in your hertes / get you vp to the mountayne / fetch wood / & buyde by the house: that it maye be acceptable vnto me / and that I may thewe myne honoure / sayeth the Lorde. Ye looked for moche / & lo it is come to litle: & though ye bringe it home / yet do I blowe it awaye. And why so / sayeth the Lorde of hostes? Quen because that my house lye wast / & ye renne every man vnto his awne house. Wherefore the heauen is forbydden to geue you eny dew / and the earth is forbydden to geue you encrease. I haue called for a drouth / both vpon the lande / & vpon the mountaynes / vpon come / vpon wyne / & vpon oyle / vpon every thyng & the grounde bringeth forth / vpon men and vpon cattell / yee and vpon all handylaboure.

Now when Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel / & Iesus the sonne of Iosedech the hye p[re]st with the remnant of the people / herde the voyce of the Lorde their God / and the wordes of the prophete Aggeus (like as the Lorde their God had sent him) the people byd leaue the Lorde. Then Aggeus the Lordes angell sayde in the Lordes message vnto the people: I am with you / sayeth the Lorde. So by the sp[irit]e of the Lorde / was led by the sp[irit]e of Zorobabel the prince of Iuda / and the sp[irit]e of Iesus the sonne of Iosedech the hye p[re]st / & the sp[irit]e of the remnant of all the people: & they bet to come / came and laboured / in the house of the Lorde of hostes their God.

The sheweth that the goodlynesse of the second temple greater than the first / because of the coming of Christ. Iamner.

The .iiij. Chapter.

In the .xiiij. daye of the .viij. moneth / in the seconde yere of kynge Darius / the .xxi. daye of the .xiiij. moneth / came the worde of the Lorde by the prophete Aggeus / saying: speake to Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel prince of Iuda / & to Iesus the sonne of Iosedech the hye p[re]st / and to the residue of the people / & saye: I who is left amonge you / I sawe this house in her first beauty: But what thinke ye now by it? Is it not in your eyes / eu[e] as though it were nothyng?ouerthelste be of good chere. Zorobabel (sayeth the Lorde) be of good comfort / I Iesus thou sonne of Iosedech the hye p[re]st: take good hertes vnto you also / all ye people of the lande / sayeth the Lorde of hostes & do accordinge to the word (for I am with you / sayeth the Lorde of hostes) like as I agreed with you / when ye came out of the land of Egypt: & my sp[irit]e shall be amonge you / feare ye not.

For thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: yet once more will I make heauen and earth / the see & the drye lande yee I will moue all heathen / & the comforte of all heathen shall come / and so will I fyll this house with honoure / sayeth the Lorde of hostes. The silver is myne / & the golde is myne / sayeth the Lorde of hostes. Thus the glory of the last house shall be greater then the first / sayeth the Lorde of hostes: & in this place will I geue peace / sayeth the Lorde of hostes.

The .xv. daye of the .ix. moneth in the seconde yere of kynge Darius / came the worde of the Lorde vnto the prophete Aggeus / saying: Thus sayeth the Lorde God of hostes: I like the p[re]stres concerning the lawe / & saye: yf one beate holy flesh in his coate lapp / & with his lappe do touch the bread / po- tage / wyne / oyle / or eny other meate: shall he be holy also? The p[re]stres answered & sayde: No. Then sayde Aggeus: Now yf one bringe despyed despyed to a deere carcase / touch eny of these: shall it also be vnclene? The p[re]stres gaue answer & sayde: yee / it shall be vnclene. Then Aggeus answered and sayde: enen sois this people & this nacyon before me / sayeth the Lorde: & so are all the workes of their handes / yee and all that they offere / is vnclene.

And now (I praye you) conspyre from this daye forth / and how it hath gone with you aforthe: euer there was layed one stone by another in the temple of the Lorde: that whē yecame to a cozne heape of .xx. busshels / there were scarce ten: and that when ye came to the wyne p[re]st for to powze out .L. pottes of wyne / there were scarce .xx. ffloz / I smote you with heate / blasting & hayle stones in all the labours of your handes: yet was there none of you / that wolde turne vnto me / sayeth the Lorde. Conspyre then from this daye forth and aforthe / namely / from the .xv. daye of the .ix. moneth / vnto the daye that I foundacyd of the Lordes temple was layed: march it well / is not the sede yet in the barne? haue not the bynes / the figetrees / the p[og]ranates & olyue trees bene yet vnfrutefull: but from this daye forth / I shall make the to prospere.

Moreouer the .xv. daye of the moneth came the worde of the Lorde vnto Aggeus agayne / saying: Speake to Zorobabel the p[ri]nce of Iuda / and saye: I will make both heauen and earth / and ouerthrowe the seate of the kynngdomes / yee & destroye the mighty kynngdome of the Heathē. I will ouerthrowe the charettes / and those that syt vpon them / so that both horse and man shall fall downe / every man vnto his neyghbours swerde. And as for the / Zorobabel (sayeth the Lorde of hostes) thou sonne of Salathiel my seruauit: I will take the (sayeth the Lorde) at the same tyme / & make the as a scale / for I haue chosen the / sayeth the Lorde of hostes.

The booke of the prophete Zacharye.

The indueth the people to returne to the Lorde / and to eschue the wickednes of their fathers. He p[re]p[ar]eth the waye for Christ and the Apostles.

The first Chapter.

In the eyght moneth of the seconde yere of kynge Darius / came the worde of the Lorde vnto Zacharye the sonne of Barachias / the sonne of Addo / the prophete / saying: the Lorde hath bene sore displeased at your forefathers. And saye thou vnto the: thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes. Turne you vnto me (sayeth the Lorde of hostes) & I will turne me vnto you / sayeth the Lorde of hostes. Be not ye like your forefathers / vnto whom the prophete cried a forye tyme / saying: Thus sayeth the Lorde God of hostes: Turne you from your euell wayes / & from your wyched ymagynacions. But they wolde not heare / ner re- gaude me / sayeth the Lorde. What is now be- come of your forefathers and the prophete: are they yet still aliyue? But ydnot my wordes & statutes (which I commanded by my seruantes the prophetes) touch your forefathers: wpo this / they gaue answer & sayde: yue as the Lorde of hostes deuyld to do vnto vs / accordinge to our awne wayes & ymagynacions / eu[e] to hath he dealede w vs.

Upon the .xv. daye of the .ix. moneth / which is the moneth Sebat / in the seconde yere of Darius / came the worde of the Lorde vnto Zacharye the sonne of Barachias / the sonne of Addo the prophete / saying: I sawe bynyght / and lo / there sat one vpon a reade horse / & stode it yll amonge the myrte trees / that were beneth vpo the grounde: & behynde him were there reade / spechid / and whyte horses. Then sayde I: O my Lord / what are these? And the angell that talched with me / sayde vnto me: I will shewe the what these be. And I man that stode amonge the myrte trees / answered and sayde: These are they / whom the Lorde hath sent to go thorow the woilde. And they answered the angell of the Lorde / that stode amonge the myrte trees / & sayde: We haue gone thorow the woilde: and beholde all the woilde dwell at ease / and are carelesse.

Then the Lordes angell gaue answer / and sayde: O Lorde of hostes / how longe wilt thou be humer / vnto Ierusalem and to the cytyes of Iuda / with whom thou hast bene despyed now the .lxx. yeres. So the Lorde gaue a longye and a comfortable answer vnto the angell that talched with me. And the angell that comoned with me / sayde vnto me: Crye thou / and speake: Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: I am exceedinge gelous ouer Ierusalem and Syon / and sore displeased at the carelesse Heathē: for where as I was but a litle angyre / they dyd their best that I myght destroye them. Therefore thus sayeth the Lorde: I will turne me agayne in mercy towards Ierusalem / so that my house shall be buylded in it / sayeth the Lorde of hostes: yee and the plonmet shall be layed abrode in Ierusalem / sayeth the Lorde of hostes.

Crie also / & speake: thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: My cytyes shall be in good prosperite agayne / & the Lorde shall yet coforte Syon / and and chose Jerusalem. Then lift I up mine eyes and sawe and beholde / four hoines. And I sayde vnto the angel / that talketh to me: what be these? he answered me: these are the hoines / whych haue scatred Iuda / Israel and Jerusalem abrode. And the Lord shewed me iij. carpenters. Then sayde I: what wil these do? he answered / a sayde: these are the hoines / whych haue so tro- ued Iuda abrode / that no man durst lift up his head: But these are come to scape them awaye / and to call out the hoines of the Gen- tiles / whych lift up their home ouer the land of Iuda / to scatre it abrode.

The renewinge of Jerusalem and Iuda.

The. ii. Chapter.

I lift up mine eyes agayne / a loke / a beholde / a man / a measure line in his hande. Then sayde I: wher goest thou? And he sayde vnto me: to measure Ierusalem / & I maye se how longe & how brode it is. And beholde / the an- gell that talked to me / went his waye forth. When went there out another angel to mete him / a sayd vnto him: Runne / speake to this poge man / a saye: Ierusalem shall be inhabited without enuill / for the very multitude of people & catel / & that be therein. Yee I myselfe (sayeth the Lord) will be vnto her a wall of fyre rounde aboute / & will be honoured in her.

Get you forth / & flee from the lande of the north / sayeth the Lord / ye whom I haue scatred in to four windes vnder heauē / sayeth the Lord. Save thy selfe / & sayd: thou that dwellest with the daughter of Ba- bylon / for thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: With a glorious power hath he sent me out to the death / which spoiled you: for who so toucheth you / that touche a ple of his awne eye. Beholde / I will lift up mine hand ouer them: so that they shall be spoiled of those / which afore serued them: & ye shall knowe / that the Lord of hostes hath sent me.

Be glad / & reioyce / O daughter of Sion / for lo / I am come to dwell in the myddest of the / sayeth the Lord. At the same tyme there shall many deathen cleue to the Lord / and shall be my people. Thus will I dwell in the myddest of the / & thou shalt knowe / that the Lord of hostes hath sent me vnto the. The Lord shall haue Iuda in possession for his parte in the holy grounde / and shall Iuda be Ierusalem yet agayne. Let all flesh be styll be- fore the Lord / for he is rylen out of his ho- ly place.

The. iii. Chapter.

And he shewed me Iesua / & hys prest / standynge before the angel of the Lord. Satan stood at his right hande to resist him. And the Lord sayde vnto Satan: The Lord reioyce / (thou Satan) yee the Lord that hath chosen Jeru- salem / reioyce the. Is not this a bande taken out of the fyre? Now Iesua was clothed in a bncleue rayment / and stood before the angel: which answered a sayde vnto those. & stood before him: take awaye the soule clothes fro him. And vnto him he sayde: Beholde / I ha- ue take awaye the synne fro the / & wil deche the with chaunge of rayment. He sayde mo- reouer: set a saye myter vpon his head. So they set a saye myter vpon his head / & put on clothes vpon him / & the angel of the Lord stood there. Then the angel of the Lord te- stified vnto Iesua / a spake / thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: If thou wilt walke in my wayes / & kepe my watch: thou shalt rule my house / & kepe my courtes / & I will geue the place amonge these that stande here. Heare Iesua thou hys prest / thou and thy frides that dwell before the / for they are iudicious people. Beholde / I will byngge forth the bzaunch of my seruauit: for lo / the stone / I haue layed before Iesua: vpon one stone walbe. iij. eyes. Beholde / I will hewe hym out / sayeth the Lord of hostes / a take awaye the synne of that lade in one daye. Then shall euery man call for his neyghboure / vnder the byne & vnder the fyge tre / sayeth the Lord of hostes.

The. iiii. Chapter.

And the angel / that talked with me / ca- me agayne / & waked me by / as a man that is rapt out of his slepe / a sayde vnto me: what seyst thou? And I sayde: I haue loke / a beholde / a can- delsticke al of golde / w a boll vpon it / a hys bll. lampes thre / & vpon euery lampe bll. stalk / And iij. olyue trees therby / one vpon the right syde of the boll / & the other vpon the left syde. So I answered / a spake to the angel / that talked with me / sayenge: O my lord what are these? The angel that talked with me and we- red a sayde vnto me: knowest thou not what these be? And I sayde: No / my lord. He an- swered / a sayde vnto me: this is the word of the Lord vnto Zorobabel / sayenge: Neither thozow an host of men / ner thozow strength / but thozow my spete / sayeth the Lord of hostes. What art thou / thou greute moun- tayne / before Zorobabel / thou must be maye be euen. And he shall byngge by the fyre stone so that men shall crye vnto hym: good lucke / good lucke.

Moreo-

Moreouer the worde of the Lord came vnto me / sayenge: The handes of Zorobabel haue layed the foundacy of this house / hys handes shall also finish it: & ye maye knowe how that the Lord of hostes hath sent me vnto you. For he that hath bene despyed a lytle season / shall reioyce / when he seyth the tynne weight in Zorobabels hande. The. bii. eyes are the Lordes / whych go thozow the whole worlde. Then answered I / a sayde vnto him: what are these iij. olyue trees vpon the right & left syde of the candelsticke? I spake moze- ouer / a sayde vnto him: what be these iij. olyue bzaunches / whych thozow the twog olde pyres / emptye the selues in to the golde? He answered me / a sayd: knowest thou not / what these be? And I sayde no / my Lord. The sayde he: these are the two olyue bzaunches / & stande before the ruler of the whole earth.

The bysp of the flying boke / signifyinge the curse of theus / & loch as abuse the name of God. By the by- syon of the measure / is signified the byngynge of Iuda to Babylon.

The. v. Chapter.

I turned me / lyftynge by mine eyes / a loke / a beholde / a flying boke. And he sayde vnto me: what seist thou? I answered: I se a flynge boke of xx. cubytes lōge / & x. cubytes bzo- de. Then sayde he vnto me: this is the curse / & goeth forth ouer the whole earth: for all theuers shall be iudged after this boke / & all sweaters shall be iudged accordynge to the same / I wil byngge it forth / sayeth the Lord of hostes / so that it shall come to the house of the thefe / & to the house of him / that falsely sweareth by my name: & shall remayne in his house / & consume it / with the tymbre & stones ther- of. Then the angel that talked with me / wēt forth / a sayde vnto me: lift up thine eyes and se / what this is that goeth forth. And I sayde: what is it? He answered: this is a measure goynge out. He sayde mozeouer: Euen thus are they / that dwell vpon the whole earth / to loke vpon. And beholde / there was lyft by a talent of leade: a lo / a woman sat in the myd- dest of the measure. And he sayde: this is by- godlynde. So he call her in to the myddest of the measure / and threwe the lōpe of leade by in to an whole.

Then lyft I up mine eyes / a loke / a be- holde / there came out. iij. women / & the wynde was in their wynges / for they had wynges lyke the wynges of a stozke / a they lyft by the measure betwixte the earth & the heauē. Then spake I to the aungell / that talked to me: why- ther will these beate the measure? And he sayde vnto me: in to the lande of Synear / to buyde the an house: which when it is prepared / the measure shall be set there in his place.

The. vi. Chapter.

Moreouer I turned me / lyftynge by mine eyes / a loke / a beholde there came. iij. charcttes out from be- wyte two hylls / whych hylls were of bzaile: In the fyrst charct were reade Apoca. vi. a. hoyle / in the secōd charct were blacke hoyle / in the thyrde charct were whyte hoyle / in the fourth charct were hoyles of dyuerse colours & stronge. Then spake I / and sayde vnto the angel that talked with me: O Lord / what are these? The angel answered / a sayd vnto me: these are the. iij. windes of the heauē / which be come forth to stāde before the ruler of all the earth. That with the blacke hoyle wēt in to the lande of the north / & the whyte folowed them / and the speckled hoyles wente forth to ward the south. These hoyles were very strong / & wente out: and sought to go and take their journey ouer the whole earth. And he sayde: get you hence / & go thozow the worlde. So they wente thozow out the worlde. Then cryed he vpon me / and spake vnto me / sayenge: be- holde / these that go towarde the north / shall lyll my watch in the north countre.

And the worde of the Lord came vnto me / sayenge: Take of the pzeloners that are come from Babylon: namely / Helai / Tobiah and Jdaia: and come thou the same daye / and go in to the house of Josiah the sonne of So- phony. Then take golde and syluer / & make crownes therof / and set them vpon the head of Iesua the sonne of Josedech / the hys prest / and speake vnto hym: Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: Beholde the man whose name is the bzaunche: and he that shall sprynge by after hym / shall buyde by the temple of the Lord. yee eue he shall buyde by the temple of the Lord. He shall beate the pzaile / he shall lyt vpon the Lordes crone / and haue the do- mynacyon.

A Prest shall be dealso vpon hys crone / & a peaceable counsell shall be betwixte them both. And the crownes shall be in the temple of the Lord / for a remembraunce vnto He- lem / Tobiah / Jdaia and Heni the sonne of Sophony. And loch as be farre of / shall come and buyde the temple of the Lord / that ye maye knowe / how that the Lord of hostes hath sent me vnto you. And thus shall come to passe / yf ye will hearken diligently vnto the voyce of the Lord your God.

The esymacyon of fasting without merce. The byspynge of charite / and the obduracye of the people.

The. vii. Chapter.

DD. iii. Zachary.

In the fourth year of king Darius / that the word of the Lord came unto Zachary in the fourth day of the month / which is called / Caddu: what time as Sarafar & Bogomelech & the men that were with the sent unto Bethel for to pray before the Lord: & that they shulde say vnto the prestes / which were in the house of the Lord of hostes / & to the prophetes: Shuld we wepe in the fyfte moneth / and absterne / as I haue done now certayne yeares? Then came the word of the Lord of hostes vnto me / sayenge: Speake vnto all the people of the land / and to the prestes / and saye: when ye fasted and mourned in the v and vii. moneth (now thys. iij. yeares) vnto ye fast vnto me? When ye ate also and dronke / vnto ye not eate & drinke for youre amne selues? Are not these the wordes / whych the Lord spake by hys prophetes a foze tyme / when Jerusalem was yet inhabited and welthy / the and the cytyes rounde aboute her: when there dwelt me / both towarde the south and in the playne countrees?

And the word of the Lord came vnto Zachary / sayenge: Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: Execute true iudgement: shewe mercy and lounge kyndnesse / euery man to his brother. Do the wyddowe / the fatherlesse / the straunger / and pooze no wronge: and let no man ymagen euell agaynst his brother in his hert.ouerthelies they wolde not take hede / but turned their backs / and stopped their eares / that they shulde not heare: yet they made their hertes as an adamant stone / lest they shulde heare the laue and wordes / which the Lord of hostes sent in hys holy spete by the prophetes afoze tyme.

Wherefore the Lord of hostes was very wroth at them. And thus is it come to passe / that lyke as he spake and they wolde not heare: even so they cryed / and I wolde not heare (sayeth the Lord of hostes) but scattered them amonge all Gentiles / whom they knewe not. Thus the lande was made to be desolate / & there traualled no man in it nether to / ner for / for that pleasaunt lande was utterly layed waste.

Of there turne of the people vnto Jerusalem / & of the mercy of God towarde them. Of good wordes. The calling of the Gentiles.

The viij. Chapter.

In the word of the Lord came vnto me / sayenge: Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: I was in a great gelously ouer Syon / yet I haue bene very gelous ouer her in a great displeasure thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: I will turne me agayne vnto Syon / & will dwell in the myddell of Jerusalem: so I Jerusalem shal be called a faithful & true cite / the hill of the Lord of hostes / yet an holy hill.

Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: There shal yet olde men & women dwell agayne in the stretes of Jerusalem: yet a soch as go id staues in their handes for very age. The stretes of the cytye also shal be full of yonge boyes & damelles / playnge vpon the stretes.

Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: yf the residue of thys people thynke it to be impossible in these dayes / shulde it therfore be impossible in my syght / sayeth the Lord of hostes: Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: Beholde / I will deliuer my people from the lande of the east and west / and will bringe them agayne: that they maye dwell at Jerusalem. They shal be my people / and I will be their God / in treuth and ryghteousnesse.

Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: lett youre handes be stronge / ye that now heare these wordes by the mouth of the prophetes which be in these dayes that I foundacyon is layed vpon the Lord of hostes house / that the temple maye be buylded. For why? before these dayes / nether men ner catell coulde wyne eny thyng / nether myght eny man come in & out in rest / for trouble: but I lett euery man go agaynst his neyghboure.

ouerthelies I will now intreate the residue of this people nomore as a foze tyme / sayeth the Lord of hostes / but they shal be a sede of peace. The bynyarde shal geue her fruite / & grounde shal geue her increase / & the heauens shal geue their dew: & I shall cause the remnant of this people / to haue all these in possesyon. And it shal come to passe / that lyke as ye were a curse amonge the heathen (O ye house of Juda & ye house of Israel) eue so will I deliuer you / that ye shal be a blessing: feare not / but lett your handes be stronge.

For thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: lyke as I deuylded to punyssh you / what tyme as your fathers prouoked me vnto wrath / sayeth the Lord of hostes / and spared not. Euen so am I determed now in these dayes / for to do well vnto the house of Juda & Jerusalem / therfore feare ye not. Now the thynges that ye shall do / are these: Speake euery man the treuth vnto hys neyghboure / execute iudgement truly / and peaceably withyn your portes / none of you ymagyn / euell in his hert agaynst his neyghboure / and loue no false othes: for all these are theynges that I hate / sayeth the Lord. And the word of the Lord of hostes / came vnto me / sayenge: thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: The fast of the fourth moneth / the fast of the fyth / the fast of the seventh / and the fast of the tenth / shall be ioye and gladnesse / and and prosperous hys frastes vnto the house of Juda: Only loue the treuth & peace.

Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: There shal yet come people / and the inhabitants of many cities: and they that dwell in one cytye / shal go to another / sayenge: wy / let vs go / & praye before the Lord / let vs seke the Lord of hostes / I wil go with you: yet moche people & myghtie Prathen shal come & seke the Lord of hostes at Jerusalem / & to praye before the Lord. Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: In that tyme that ten men (out of al manner of languages of the Gentyles) take one Iewe by the hemme of his garment / & saye: we will go with you / for we haue herde / that God is amonge you.

The conuersion of the Gentyles. The comminge of Christ / syttinge on an asse.

The ix. Chapter.

In the word of the Lord shal be revealed at Bethach / & Damascus shal be his offeringe: for the eyes of all men & of the trybes of Israel shal lolie by vnto the Lord. The borders of Demath shal be harde therby / Cyprus also & Sidon / for they are very wise. Cyprus shal make herself stronge / heape by syluer as the sande / and golde as the clape of the stretes. Beholde / the Lord shal take her in / and haue her in possession: he shal smyte downe her power in to the see / and she shal be consumed by fyre. Thus shal Ascalon be / & be a strayed. Gaza shal be very soze / so shal Accaron also / because her hope is come to confucion. For the thinge of Gaza shal perishe / and at Ascalon shal no man dwell.

Strangers shal dwell at Asdod / & as for the pryde of Philistines / I shall rote it out. Their bloude will I take awaye fro their mouth / and their abhominacyons fro among their teeth. Thus they shal be left for our God / yet they shal be as a pynce in Juda / & Accaron like as Jebuly. And so will I compasse my house rounde about with my men of warre / goinge to and fro: that no oppresseure come vpon them eny more. For that haue I sene now with myne eyes.

Reioyce thou greatly / O daughter Sion be glad / O daughter Jerusalem. For lo / thy king commeth vnto the / euen the ryghteous & Sauoure: Lowly & symple is he / he rydeth vpon an asse / & vpon the foale of an asse I will rote out the charrettes from Ephraim / & the horse from Jerusalem / the bachel bowes shal be destroyed. He shal geue his doctrine of peace vnto the heathen / & his dominyon shal be fro the one see to the other / & fro the floudes to the endes of the world.

Thou also thouzow the bloude of thy counte: shalt let thy prisoners out of the pitte wherin is no water. Turne you now to the stronge holde / ye shal be in prison / & longe tyme to be deliuered: And this daye I bringe the word / & I will rewarde the double agayne / for Juda haue I bent out as a bowe for me / and Ephraim haue I fylled. Thy sonnes (O Sion) will I raise by agaynst the Ghebes / & make the as a giantes / I wearde the Lord God shal be sene aboute them / and his darteres shal go forth as the lightenyng. The Lord God shal blowe the trompet / & shal come forth as a flame out of the south.

The Lord of hostes shal defende them / they shal consume and deuoure / and subdue them with synge stones. They shal bynche & rage / as it were thozow wyne. They shal be fylled like the batens / & as the hornes of the bullocke. The Lord their God shal deliuer them in / & as a flock of his people: for the stones of his Sanctuary shal be set vp in his lande. How prosperous & goodly a thinge shal be / the cozne shal make the yonge men cheareful / & the new wyne the maydens.

The people is moued to requyre the doctrine of the Lord. The Lord promyseth to byter & comfort the house of Israel.

The x. Chapter.

I will geue you the latter rayne / so shal I geue you the former rayne / & geue you the latter rayne prouough for all the increace of the seide: for bayne is the answere of foolys. The souldiers se lyes / & tel but bayne dyes: & comfort that they geue / is nothinge worth. Therfore go they astraye like a flocke of shepe / & are troubled / because they haue no shepheard. My wythfull dyspleasure is moued at the shepherdes / & I will bytet the goates. For the Lord of hostes will graciously bytet his flocke / the house of Juda / and holde the as a goodly saye horse in the batell. Out of Juda shal come the helmet. the nase the bachel bowe / & all the princes together. They shal be as the giantes / which in the batell treade downe the myze vpon the stretes. They shal fyghe / for the Lord shal be with them / so the hozsmen shal be confounded.

I will comforte the house of Juda / and I will preserue the house of Joseph. I will turne them also / for I pittie the: & they shal be lyke as they were / when I had not cast them of. For the Lord am their God / and will heare them. Ephraim shal be as agaynt / and they herte shal be cheerefull as thozow wyne: yet their chyldren shal se it / and be glad / & their herte shal reioyce in the Lord. I will blowe for them & gather them together / for I will redeme them. They shal increace / as they increased afore. I will sowe the amonge the people / that they may thynke vpon me in farre countrees: they shall lyue with their chyldre / & turne agayne. I wyll byng them agayne also from the lande of Egypte / and gather the out of Assyria. I wyll carpe the in to the lande of Galaad & to Libanus & they shall wante nothyng. He shall goo upon the see of trouble / & smyte the see waues: so that all the depe foudes shall be dyled by. The proude boolding of Assur shall be cast downe / & the scepter of Egypte shall be take awaye. I wyll comforte them in the Lord / that they maye walche in his name / sayeth the Lord.

The destruction of the temple. The care of the sayth. Full is comitted to Christ by the father. A greuous byspon agaynst Jerusalem and Juda.

The xi. Chapter.

When thy dozes / O Libanus / that the fyre maye consume thy Cedre trees. Howle ye fyre trees / for the Cedre is falle / yee all that proude are wasted awaye. Howle ye oke trees of Baalan / for the myghtye stronge modis cut downe. When maye heare the shepherdes mourne / for their gloze is destroyed. When maye heare the Lyons whelpes reare / for the pyde of Jordan is wasted awaye.

Thus sayeth the Lord my God: fede the shepe of the slaughter / whych shall be sayne of those that possesse them: yet they take it for no synne / but they that sell them / saye: The Lord be thanked / I am rich: yee their awne shepherdes spare them not. Therefore wyll I nomore spare those that dwell in the lande (sayeth the Lord) but so / I wyll deliuer the people / euery man in to his neyghbours hand / and in to the hande of his kyng: & they maye smyte the lande / and out of their handes will not I deliuer them.

I myselfe fede the slaughter shepe (a poore flocke hereby) & toke vnto me two staves: the one I called louynge mekenesse / the other I called wo / & so I kepte the shepe. The shepherdes destroyed I in one moneth / for I mighte not awaye with the / nether had they eny delite in me. When sayde I: I wyll fede you nomore / the thyng that dyeth / let it dye: & that wyll perishe / let it perishe / & let the remnaite eate / euery one the flesh of his neyghbour. I toke also my louynge meke staffe / & brake it: & I myghte dissanull the couenaunt / which I made with all people. And so it was bydon in that daye.

When the poore symple shepe that had a respecte vnto me / knewe thereby that it was the woide of the Lord. And I sayde vnto the: yf ye thyncke it good / byng byther my pryce: yf no / then leaue. So they wayd downe xxx. syluer pens / & value that I was pyfied at. And the Lord sayde vnto me: cast it vnto the potter (a goodly pyper for me to be valued at of them) and toke the xxx. syluer pens / and cast them to the potter in the house of the Lord. Then brake I my other staffe also (namely wo) that I myghte toke the brotherhead betwixte Juda and Israel. And the Lord sayd vnto me: Take to the staffe of a foolish shepherde: for lo / I will rapte by a shepherde in the lande / which shall not take after the thynges that he loke / nor care for such as go astray: he shall not heale the wounded / he shall not noyze the thyng that is whole: but he shall eate the flesh of such as be fat / & teare their clawes in peces.

I toke the shepherde / & leaue the flocke. The sword shall come vnto his arme & vnto his ryght eye. His arme shall be cleane dyled by / and his ryght eye shall be soze blynded.

The destruction and buyldinge agayne of Jerusalem.

The xii. Chapter.

When I burchen which the Lord hath deuyled for Israel. Thus I sayeth the Lord / which spredde the heauens abode / layde the foundacion of the earth / and geueth me the breath of life: Beholde / I wyll make Jerusalem a cuppe of surfet / vnto all the people that are rounde aboute her: yee Juda hym selfe also shall be in the lege agaynst Jerusalem. At the same tyme wyll I make Jerusalem an heuy stone for all people / so that all such as lift it by / shall be toarne & rente / & all the people of the earth shall be gathered together agaynst it.

In the daye / sayeth the Lord / I will make all houses abashed / & those that ryde vpon them / to be out of their wyttes. I wyll open myne eyes vpon the house of Juda / & smyte all the houses of the people with blyndnesse. And the prynces of Juda shall saye in their hertes: The inhabytens of Jerusalem shall geue me consolacion in the Lord of hostes their God. In that tyme wyll I make the prynces of Juda lyke an hote burninge oven / & wodd / and lyke a cresset of fyre amonge the strawe: so that they shall consume all the people rounde aboute them / both vpon the right hande and the left. Jerusalem also shall be inhabyted agayne: namely / in the same place where Jerusalem standeth.

The Lord shall preserve the tentes of Juda like as a forte tyme: so that the gloze of the house of Dauid and the gloze of the cytezens of Jerusalem / shall be but lytle regarded / in comparison of the gloze of Juda. In that daye shall the Lord defende the cytezens of Jerusalem: so that the weakest then amonge them shall be as Dauid: and the house of Dauid shall be lyke as Gods house / and as the Angell of the Lord before them.

At the same tyme wyll I go aboute to destroye destroye all such people as come agaynst Jerusalem. Moreover / vpon the house of Dauid & vpon the cytezens of Jerusalem / wyll I poure out the sprete of grace and praye / so that they shall loke vpon me / who they haue pearced: and they shall bewep him / as men mourne for their only begotten sonne: yee & be soze for hym / as men are soze for their first chyld.

Then shall there be a greete mourninge at Jerusalem / lyke as the lamentacion at Berothaim in the feilde of Baggadon. And the lande shall be wagle euery kyndred by them selues: & he kyndred of the house of Dauid the selues alone / & their wyues by them selues: & the kyndred of the house of Nathan the selues alone / & their wyues by them selues: & the kyndred of the house of Leui the selues alone / & their wyues by them selues: & the kyndred of the house of Semei the selues alone / & their wyues by them selues: In the manner / all the other generacions / euerychone by the selues alone / and their wyues by them selues.

The well of grace and cresset Christ. Of the cleane redymption of Iobate / & of false prophetes.

The xiii. Chapter.

In that tyme shall the house of Dauid and the cytezens of Jerusalem haue an open well / to wash of synne and vncleynesse. And then (sayeth the Lord of hostes) I wyll destroye the names of ydolcs out of the lande: so that they shall nomore be put in remembraunce.

As for the false prophetes also & the vncleane sprete / I shall take the out of the lande: so that yf anye of the prophete anye more / his awne father and mother that begat hym / shall saye but n him: & thou shalt dye / for thou speakest lyss vnder the name of the Lord: yee hym awne father and mother that begat hym / shall wounde him / who he prophecieth. And then shall those prophetes be confounded / euery one of his bysion when he prophecieth: nether shall they weere sackclothes anye more / to dysceue men with all. But he shall be sayne to saye: I am no prophete: I am an husbanne man / for so am I taught by Adam from my youth by. And yf it be sayde vnto hym: how came these woundes then in thyne handes? He shall answer: Thus am I wounded in the house of myne awne frendes.

As for the shepherde / vpon my shepherde / and vpon the prynces of my people / sayeth the Lord of hostes: Smyte the shepherde / and the shepe shall be scattered abode / and so wyll I turne myne hande to the lytle ones. And it shall come to passe (sayeth the Lord) that in all the lande two partes shall be roted out / but the thyrde parte shall remayne chastyt. And the same thyrde parte wyll I byng thorow the fyre / and will cleanse them / as the syluer is clenched: yee & the fyre the lyke as golde is tryed. Then shall they call vnto my name / and I wyll heare them: I wyll saye: it is my people. And they shall saye: The Lord is my God. & the word of the church under the figure of Jerusalem. Of the kyngdome of the Lord.

The xiiii. Chapter.

Beholde / the daye of the Lord cometh / that thou shalt be spoiled & robbed: for I will gather together all the heathen / to fyght agaynst Jerusalem: so that the cite shall be wonne / the houses spoiled / and the women defyled. The half of the cyte shall go a waye in to captiuyte / & the residue of the people shall not be carped out of the cyte. After that shall the Lord go forth to fight agaynst those heathen / as men be to fyght in the daye of battell. When shall his fete stande vnto the most olyuete / that is vnto the east side of Jerusalem: And the most olyuete shall cleue in two / eastwarde & westwarde / so that there shall be a greete halley: & the half most shall remoue towards the north / & the other towards the south. And ye shall be vnto the halley of my hylls / for the halley of the hylls shall reach vnto Asai. Yee shall ye / lyke as ye fled for the earthquake in the dayes of Othah kyng of Juda. And the Lord my God shall come / & all sayntes with him: In that daye shall it not be lyght / but colde & frost. This shall be that specyall daye / which is knowen vnto the Lord: nether daye nor nyght / but aboute the euenynge tyme it shall be lyght. In that tyme shall there be waters of lyfe runne out from Jerusalem: the half parte of them towards the east see / & the other half towards the bittermost see / & shall contynue both so long as tyme. And the Lord hym selfe shall be kyng ouer all the earth.

At the tyme shall there be one Lord only / and his name shall be but one. When shall go aboute the whole earth / as vpon a seide: fro Othra to Remmon / & fro the south to Jerusalem. She shall be set by / & inhabyted in her place: fro Ben Iamys porte / vnto the place of the fyre porte / and vnto the corner porte: and from the tower of Hananeel / vnto the hynges wyne presses. Where shall men dwell / and there shall be no more cursinge / but Jerusalem shall be safely inhabyted. Whys shall be the plage / wherewith the Lord wyll smyte all people / that haue fought agaynst Jerusalem: namely / their flesh shall consume awaye / though they stande vpon their fete: their eyes shall be corupt in their holes / and their tynge shall consume in their mouth.

In that daye shall the Lord make a great sedecion amonge them / so that one man shall take take another by the hande / & laye his hande vpon the hande of his neyghboure. And shall fght also agaynst Jerusalem / & the goodes of all the heathen shalbe gathered together routde aboute: golde and syluer and a very great multitude of clothes. And so shall this plage go oute by horses / mules / camels / asses / & all the beastes that shal be in the host / lyke as pondeur plage was. Every one & remayneth then of all the people / which cam agaynst Jerusalem / shall go by yearly / to worshype the hyngel (even the Lorde of hostes) & to kepe the feast of tabernacles. And loke what ge-neracyon vpon earth goeth not by to Jerusalem / for to worshype the hyngel (even the Lorde of hostes) vpon the same shall come no rayne. If the hyngel of Egypte go not by / & come not / it shall not rayne vpon the nether.

D This shalbe the plage wherewith the Lorde will smyte all heathen / that come not by to kepe the feast of tabernacles: yee this shalbe the synne plage of Egypte and the synne plage of all people / that go not by to kepe the feast of tabernacles.

At that tyme shall the rydyng gery of the horses be holy vnto the Lorde / & the kettels in the Lordes house shall be lyke the basens before the altar: yee all the kettels in Jerusalem and Juda / shalbe holy vnto the Lorde of hostes: and all they that laye offerynges / shall come take of them / & dryght them there in. And at that tyme there shal be no mo Canankes in the house of the Lorde.

The ende of the Prophecy of Zachary.

The boke of the Prophet Malachy.

A complaynte agaynst Israels her prestes.

The first Chapter.

In the heuy burthe / which the Lorde sheweth agaynst Israel by Malachy. I haue loued you / sayeth the Lorde: & yet ye saye: wherin hast thou loued vs? Was not Elau Jacobs brother / sayeth the Lorde: yet haue I loued Jacob / and hated Elau: yee I haue made his hillis waste / & his heretages a wilderness for dragons. And though Edom saye: well / we are destroyed / we will goo buylde by a-gayne the places that be wasted: yet (sayeth the Lorde of hostes) what they buylde / that bryke I downe: so that it was called a curse lande / and a people / whom the Lorde hath cursed bene angry withall.

Yours eyes haue sent it / & ye your selues must confesse / that the Lorde hath brought the lande of Israel to great honoure. Shuld not a sonne honoure his father / & a seruante his master? If I be now a father / where is myne honoure? If I be the Lorde / where am I feared? sayeth the Lorde of hostes.

How to you prestes / & despyle my name.
And ye saye: wherin haue we despyled thy name? In this / that ye offere vncleane byrd vpon myne altar. And ye saye: wher in haue we offered any vncleane thinge vnto the? In this that ye saye: the altar of the Lorde is not to be regarded. If ye offere blind / is not that euell? And ye offere the lame and sick / is not that euell? Yee offere it vnto the prynces / shall he be content with the / or accepte thy personne / sayeth the Lorde of hostes?

And now make your prayer before God / that he maye haue mercy vpon vs: for soch thynges haue ye done. Shalbe regarde your personnes / thynke ye / sayeth the Lorde of hostes: Yee what is he amonge you / & will do so much as to shut the doores / or to handle the byrd vpon myne altar for naught? I haue no pleasure in you / sayeth the Lorde of hostes:
and as for the meatofferinge / I will not accepte it at your hande. For from the rydyng by of the sonne vnto the goinge downe of the same / my name is grete amonge the Gentiles: yee in euery place shall there sacrifice be done / & a cleane meatofferinge offered vnto my name: for my name is grete amonge the heathen / sayeth the Lorde of hostes. But ye haue vnhallowed it / in that ye saye / the altar of the Lorde is not to be regarded / & the thinge that is set there vpon / not worthy to be eaten.

Now saye ye: It is but laboure and tra-uayle / and thus haue ye thought to come at it (sayeth the Lorde of hostes) offeringe robbery / yee the lame and the sycke. Ye haue brought me in a meatofferinge / whiche I accepte it of your hande / sayeth the Lorde: Cursed be the dissembler / whiche hath in his flocke one that is male / and when he maketh a bowe / offereth a spotted one vnto the Lorde.
For I am a grete hyngel (sayeth the Lorde of hostes) and my name is fearefull amonge the heathen.

Threatenynges agaynst the prestes beinge sedu-cers of the people.

The second Chapter.

Now (saye ye prestes) this commaundement toucheth you: ye ye will not heare it / nor regarde it / to geue glory vnto my name / sayeth the Lorde of hostes / I will sende a curse vpon you / & will curse your blessings: yee curse them will I / ye do not take heed. Behold / I will corrupte your seede / and cast downe in your faces: even the donge of your somynne

scynne feastes and that shal cleue fast vpon you And ye shall knowe / that I haue sent this commaundement vnto you: that my couenant which I made with Leui / myght stande sayeth the Lorde of hostes.

I made a couenaut of life & peace with him: this I gaue hym / that he myght stande in awe of me: and so he byd feare me / and had my name in reuerence. The lawe of truth was in his mouth / and there was no wickednesse founde in his lippes. He walked with me in peace and equitye / and byd turne many one awaye from their synnes. For the prestes lippes shulde be sure knowledge / & men maye seke the lawe at his mouth / for he is a messenger of the Lorde of hostes. But as for you / ye are gone cleue out of the waye / and haue caused many multitude to be offended at the lawe: ye haue broken the couenaut of Leui / sayeth the Lorde of hostes. Therefore will I also make you to be despyled / and to be of no reputacyon amonge all the people: because ye haue not kepte my wayes / but bene partfall in the lawe.

Haue we not all one father? Hath not one God made vs: why doth euery one of vs then despyle his owne brother / and so breake the couenaut of our fathers? Now hath Juda offended: yee the abhominacyon is done in Israel & in Jerusalem / for Juda hath des-pyled the Sanctuary of the Lorde / which he loued / & hath kepte the daughter of a strange God. But the Lorde shall destroye the mass & both this (yee both the master and the scolar) out of the tabernacle of Jacob / with hym I offereth by meatofferinge vnto the Lorde of hostes. Now haue ye brought it to this pointe agayne / that the altar of the Lorde is couered with teares wepyng and mour-nyng: so that I will nomore regarde the meatofferinge / neither will I receaue or accepte any thyng at your handes. And yet ye saye: wherfore? Cuse because I wher as the Lorde made a couenaut betwixt the & I wife of thy youth / thou hast despyled her: yet is she thyne owne companyon & married wyfe.

So byd not the one / & yet had he an excellent spere. What byd then the one? He sought the lawe promysed of God. Therefore loke well to your spere / & lett no man des-pyle I wife of thy youth. If thou hatest her put her awaye / sayeth the Lorde God of Israel and geue her a clothinge for the soome / sayeth the Lorde of hostes. Loke well then to your spere / and despyle her not. Ye greue the Lorde with your wordes / and yet ye saye: wherewith all haue we greued hym?
In this / & ye saye: All that do euell are good in the sight of God / and soch please him. Wher is where is the God that punisheth?

Of the messenger of the Lorde John Baptiste.
Of the daye of the Lorde / of Eliah.

The third Chapter.

Behold / I will sende my messanger / which shall prepare the waye before me: & the Lorde whome ye wolte haue / shal soone come to his temple / yee euen the messenger of the couenaut whom ye longe for.

Behold / he cometh / sayeth the Lorde of hostes. But who maye abyde the daye of his commynge? Who shalbe able to endure / wher he appeareth? For he is lyke a goldfynthes fyre / & lyke wallthers sope. He shall syt hym downe to trye and to cleanse the syluer / he shall pouge the chyldren of Leui / & purifie them lyke as golde & syluer: that they maye bring meatofferynges vnto the Lorde in righteounes. Then shall the offeringe of Juda & Jerusalem be acceptable vnto the Lorde / lyke as from the begynnyng and in the prayes / a fore tyme. I will come & punish you / and I myself will be a wyf wytnes agaynst the wytches / agaynst the aduouterers / agaynst false sweaters: yee and agaynst those / that wrynged kepe backe the byrlynges deuety: whiche were the wyddowes & the socherles / & oppresse the stranger / and feare not me / sayeth the Lorde of hostes. For I am the Lorde & chaunge not / & ye (O chyldren of Jacob) will not leane of: ye are gone awaye from myne ordinaunces / & leng & tyme of your fathers haue ye not kepte them.

Turne you now vnto me / & I will turne me vnto you / sayeth the Lorde of hostes: ye saye: wher shal we turne? Shulde a man byle falshede and disceate with God as ye byle falshede and dysceate with me? Yet ye saye wherin byle we disceate with the? In vtellies and heauie offerynges. Therefore are ye cursed with penury / because ye dissemble with me / all the soyte of you.

Bynge euery vtelle in comyn barne / that there maye be meat in myne house: and pro-ue me withall (sayeth the Lorde of hostes) ye I will not open the wyndowes of heauen vnto you / and poure you out a blessing with plenteuousnesse. Yee I shal reprove the consumer for your sakes / so that he shal not eate by the frute of your ground / neither shal he brynarde be baren in the felde / sayeth the Lorde of hostes: In so much that all people shall saye / that ye be blessed / for ye shall be a pleasante lande / sayeth the Lorde of hostes.

Ye speake harde wordes agaynst me / sayeth the Lorde. And yet ye saye: what haue we spoken agaynst the? Ye haue sayed.
It is but lost labour / to serue God:
What profit haue we for keepynge bys com-

The thynde boke of Eldrag.

Joseph holdeth palleours. After his death in Jerchowas hys sonne made kyng in hys steade: whom the kyng of Egypt putteth oute letteth in his brother Joachim. Jerusalem is besyged / & beleching taken.

The first Chapter.

And Josias helde the feast of easter in Jerusalem vnto the Lorde/ and set the Paskeouer the. xiiij. daye of the fyrst moneth. He set the Pzeres also in ordze (accozdyng to their dayly courses) being arrayed in long garmentes in the temple of the Lorde. And he spake vnto the Leuytes the holy mynisters of Israel/ that they shulde halowe the selues vnto the Lorde / to set the holy arche of the Lorde/ in the house that King Salomon the sonne of Dauid had buyded/ and sayde: Ye shall no more beare the Arche vpon youre shoulders. Now serue youre Lorde/ & take charge of hys people of Israel / after youre byllages and youre trybes: accozdyng as King Dauid the King of Israel hath ordered/ & accozdyng as Salomon his sonne hath honozably prepared: yet loke that ye also serue in the temple / accozdyng to the ordzing & distribucyō of the principall men which are appoynted out of the tribes / to do service for the chyldre of Israel. Wyl the Paskeouer/ & prepare offeringes for your brethre / & do accozdyng to the commaundement of the Lorde / which he gaue vnto Moyses. And vnto the people that was founde Josias gaue. xxx. thousande of shepe / lambes / kyddes / & goates / & thze thousande oxē. These the Kinge (of his kynge lyberallite) gaue vnto the people / accozdyng as he had promysed: & to the Pzeres for the Paskeouer) he gaue two. M. shepe / & an hundredeth oren. Moreouer / Zechonias & Semeias / & Nathanael brethre / & Sababias / Zehiel / and Zolabad gaue them to the Paskeouer / fyue thousande shepe and fyue hundredeth bullockes.

And when these thynges were brought to passe/the Priests & the Leuytes stode goodly in their ordye/and had the vnleuened bred thorowout the trybes. And after the ordying of the pꝛyncipall men in the trybes/they offered vnto the Lorde in the syght of the people/accoꝛdyng as it is wꝛitten in the booke of Exodus/a so they roasted the Easter lambe as accoꝛdyng was. As for the thanke offerings and the other/they dight them in kettels and pottes/a set them before the people in good wyll/and afterwarde before them selues/a the Priests. For the Priests offered the fatt/

untill the tyme was expyred, but þe Lewites prepared for them selues & for their brethren the chyldre of Aaron. The syngers also & children of Asaph stode in their order/ accordyng as Dauid had deuised. So did Asaph Zachary & Buthum, which were appoynted by the kyng. Moreover the porters & doore keepers stode by þe doores & þe diligently, so þe none wēt out of his standyng & seruyce: for their brethren (the Lewites) prepared for them. & thus were all thyngs perfourmed / that belonged to the offeryng of the Lorde. In that daye they helde the Passeouer/ & offered thankoffe-rynges besyde the sacrifice of the Lorde/ ac-cordyng to þe comaundemēt of kyng Josias.

So þe chylde of Israel which were then present helde an honorable Pascheouer / & the feast of swete bread. þis dayes lōge. Yee souþ a Pascheouer was not kepte in Israel / fro the tyme of the Prophet Samucl. And all the kyngs of Israel helde not loch an Easter / as this which kyng Josias helde / & þe prestes / & Leuites / the Jewes & all Israel / of all the þe were at Jerusalem. And in þe xviij. yere of þe reigne of Josias was this Pascheouer kepte. And in a perfecte herte þe kyng Josias oꝛde all hys woꝛkes / befoꝛe þe Loꝛde / & þe thynges þe were wyrtē of him in times past / cōcerning those þe synned & were vngodly agaynst the Loꝛde befoꝛe all people / & þe sought not the woꝛde of þe Loꝛde þe Israel. ¶ After al these actes of kyng Josias / Pharaο þe kyng of Egypte went by & came towarde Carcass by Euphrates / & Josias wēt to mete him. & then sent the kyng of Egypte vnto Josias sayig:
What haue I to do w the / O kyng of Juda?
I am not sent of the Loꝛde to feght agaynst the / soꝛ my warre is by Euphrates / go thou thy waye home agayne in all the haste. And Josias wolde not turne agayne by his charer / but vndertoke to fight agaynst him / and berkened not vnto the woꝛde of the prophet / which he tolde him out of the mouth of God / but pitched a battayll agaynst him in þe felde of Megiddo. And þe pꝛinces pꝛeassed to kyng Josias. & then saydde the kyng vnto hys seruauntes: Carry me awaye out of the battayll / foꝛ I am soꝛe wounded. And immediatly his seruauntes toke him awaye out of the fronte of the battayll. & then sat he by þe seconde charett / came to Jerusalem / dyed / and was buried in his fathers sepulchre. And in all Israell they mourned foꝛ Josias / yee the rulers also wth theiꝛ wyues made lamentacyō foꝛ him vnto this daye: And this was done euer syll in Israel.

These thynges are wyrtten in the boke things which are not wyttē in the boke of kinge of Israel & Juda. And people toke Je-chonas the sonne of Josias and made hym kyng in steade of Josias his father / whē he was xxxij. yere olde. And he reigned ouer Israel thre monethes. And the kyng of Egyp-te put hym downe / that he shuld not reigne in Jerusalem / and rayled by a taxe of the people: namely / an. c. talents of syluer & one talent of golde. & he kyng of Egypto made Joachum his brother kyng of Juda & Jerusalem. As for the of the kynges counsell to the kyng him selfe and Zarcades his brother / he toke the / & caried the awaye pr-soners in to Egyp-¹ / yfue a twentie yere old was Joachum / when he was made kyng in lande of Juda and Jerusalem / & he byd euell before the Lorde. After this / Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Babilon came by / bounde him with bandes of yron / & caried him vnto Babylon. Nabuchodonosor also toke all the vessels that were halowed in the temple of the Lorde / and all the Jewels / and caried the vnto Babylon / & brought the in to his awne tēple at Babilon. Of his uncleannes & vngodlines / it is wyttē in the boke of the actes of the kynges.

And Joachum his sonne reigned in his stea-de: He was made kyng beyng xxij. yere olde / & reigned but thre monethes. & dayes in Jerusalem / & byd euell before the Lorde. So after a yere / Nabuchodonosor sente caused him be brought vnto Babilon to the holy vessels of the Lorde / & made Sordachias his brother kyng of Juda and Jerusalem / when he was xxi. yere olde: and he reigned x. yere.
And he byd euell also in the sight of the Lorde / & careh not for the wordes that were spokē vnto him by the prophet Jeremy at the mouth of the Lorde. And where as he had made an othe vnto kyng Nabuchodonosor / he manfowde him selfe / & sell to hym haunge & a spynck & a hert / & trasgreded all the statuts & ordinaces of the Lorde God of Israel. & he rulers also & heades of the people of the Lorde byd much euell / & became vngodly / more then the pethen / beyng despyed in all maner of ab-ominacions: yee & despyed the holy tēple of the Lorde at Jerusalem. And the God of the fathers sent his messangers vnto the / to turne them backe & to call the agayne fro the synnes: for he wolde sayne haue spared the for his holy tabernacles sake. Nevertheless / they had his messangers in deticion: & loke what God spake vnto the by his prophetes / they made but a spoote of it. & his byng on so longe / till the Lorde was wroth wth his people for their vngodlines / and till he caused the kynges of the Caldees to come by / which drew their yonge men to the swerde / yee euē in the compass of their holy tēple / & spared no body / neither yonge ner olde / neither mayden ner yonge man: but they were all deliuered in to the power of the kynges of the Caldees / & all the holy vessels of the Lorde and the kynges treasures toke they / & caried the vnto Babilon. As for the house of the Lorde / they bryt it / & brake downe the walles of Jerusalem / set fyr vpon her towres / destroyed all her noble buyldinges and brought them to naught / & the people that were not slayne to the swerde / they caried vnto Babilon.

Thus became they prisoners & bondme of the kyng of Babilon / till they were deli-uered & raygned for them selues / when the wordes of the Lorde were fulfilled / wherby he promysed them by the mouth of the prophet Jeremy / and till the lande had her rest: namely / all the tyme that it laye waste: had it rest and quyetnes. lxxvi. yeres.

Cirrus greeth spence to the Jewes to returne to Jerusalem: & redyeth them the vessels of the tēple.
After these letters sende to Artaxerxes / which accuse the Jewes for buyldinge of the tēple: and so in the buyldinge of the tēple. the .v. yere of Darius.

The.iiij. Chapter.

Now when kyng Cyrus reigned ouer the Persians / & when the Lorde wolde persourne the wordes that he had promysed by the mouth of the prophet Jeremy: the Lorde rayled by the spere of Cyrus / the kyng of Persians / so that he caused thes wyrtynge to be proclaimed theroto oute bys whole realme / sayinge: Thus sayeth the kyng of Persians: The Lorde of Israel that hye Lorde hath made me kyng of the lande / and commaunded me to buyde him an house at Jerusalem in Jewry. If there be eny now of youre people / the Lorde be wth him / & go by with him to Jerusalem. And all they that dwell rounde aboute the place / shall helpe them / whether it be wth golde / wth syluer / wth gyftes / wth hozis and necessary catell / & all other thynges that are brought with a fre wyll to the house of the Lorde at Jerusalem.

When the principall men out of the trybes and byllages of Juda and Beniamin stode by: so byd the pzetes also & the Leuites (whō the Lorde had moued) to go by / & to buyde the house of the Lorde at Jerusalem. And they that were aboute them / helped the wth all maner of golde / and syluer / and catell also & wth many lyberall gyftes / and this byd many one / whose mynde was stered by the-
to. Kyng Cyrus also brought forth the vessels and ornaments / that were halowed vnto the Lorde (wherby Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Babilon had caried awaye fro Jerusalem / and consecrated them to his godd
and

and ymage) and deliuered them to Mithri-datus his treasurer / & by hym they were de-liuered to Salmanasar the debyte in Jewry.
And this was the nombze of the: Two thousande .iiij. c. syluer boules. xxx. syluer ba-sens. xxx. balens of golde. ij. m. .c. .lxx. be-sels of syluer / and a thousande besyde. All the vessels of golde and syluer were. lxx. m. .c. .lxx.
and. lxx. These were nombzed vnto Salma-nasar / & them that were come agayne with hym to Jerusalem out of the captiuite of Babylon. Now in the tyme of kyng Artaxerses the kyng of Persia / these men: Valenus & Mithridatus / Sabellius / Rathim / Bal-themus / Semelius the Scribe / & other that dwelt in Samaria & in other places vnder the domynion therof / wrote a letter vnto kyng Artaxerxes / wherin they complained vnto the kyng of them in Jewry and Jerusalem.
The letter was made after this maner:

Syr / thy seruantes Rathimus the floz wyrt / Sabellius the Scribe / & other iudges of the counre in Celosyria & Phenyces.
Be it knowne & manifest to oure Lorde the kyng / & the Jewes which are come by from pou vnto vs into the rebellious & wicked ci-tie / begynne to buyde it agayne / & the walles aboute it / & to set by the temple of the new.
Now yf this cytye & the walles therof be set by agayne / they shall not only refuse to geue tributes and taxes / but also rebell bitterly agaynst the kyng. And for somoch as they take this in hande now aboute the tēple / we thought it reason / to thynke no scome of it / but to shewe it vnto oure Lorde the kyng / & to certifye him therof: to thynke that yf it please the kyng / he may cause it be sought in the booke of olde: & thou shalt fynde soche warynges wyttē / & shalt vnderstande / that this cytye hath all waye bene rebellious and disobedient / that it hath subdued kynges and cytyes / and that the Jewes which dwell ther in / haue euer bene a rebellious / obstynat / vnsaythfull / & fyghtyng people / for the which cause this cytye is wasted. Wherfore now we certifye oure Lorde the kyng / & yf this cytye be buyded & occupied agayne / and the walles therof set by a new / thou canst haue no passage into Celosyria and Phenices.

Then wrote the kyng to Rathimus the floz wyrt / to Balthemus / to Sabellius the Scribe / & to the other officers & dwellers in Syria and Phenyces / after thes maner:
I haue red the epistle which thou sente vnto me / & haue commaunded to make diligēt search / & haue founde / that the cytye hath euer refused kynges / that the same people are disobedient / and haue caused much warre / & that myghty kynges haue raygned in Jerusalem / which also haue rayled by taxes of Syria and Phenices. Wherfore I haue commaunded those people / that they shall not buyde the cytye / that they make no moze in it / and that they procede no farther wth the buyldinge: for so moche as it myght be the cause of warre / & dyspleasure vnto kynges.

Now when Rathimus and Sabellius the Scribe / & the rulers in the lande had red the wyrtynge of kyng Artaxerxes / they gatt them together / & came in all the haste to Jerusalem to an hoost of hozsmen / & to moche people of fote / & forbade the to buyde. And so they left of from buyldinge of the temple / vnto the second yere of kyng Darius.

Darius maketh a feast. The.iiij. Sentences of the.iiij. younge men of which the spyt is declared.

The.iiij. Chapter.

Kyng Darius made a great feast vnto his seruantes / vnto all his counre / & to all the officers of Medes & Persia / yee to all the debytes & rulers that were vnder him / from India vnto Ethiopia / an hundred & .xxviij. countres.
So when they had eaten & dyoncken being satysfied / and were gone home agayne. Darius the kyng wote into his chambze / layed hym downe to slepe / & so awaked.

Then the thre yonge men / that kepte the kynges personne / and watched his body / commoned amonge them selues / & spake one to another: let euery one of vs saye some thing / & a loke whose sentence is wyrt and moze excellent then the other / vnto hym shall kyng Darius geue greete gyftes / and clothe hym wth purple. He shall geue hym vessels of golde to dyyncke in / clothes of golde & couerynges: he shall make him a costly charret & a byddle of golde / he shall geue hym a bonet of whyte sylke / & a cheyne of golde aboute his neck: yee he shall be the seconde and principall nexte vnto kyng Darius / and that because of his wyldome / and shall be called the kynges kynman.

So euery one wrote his meaning / sealed it / & layed it vnder the kynges pelowe / and sayde: when the kyng aryseth / we wyll geue hym oure wyrtynge: and loke whose wyrt the kyng and his chiefe Lordes iudge to be the moost wysely spokē / the same shall haue the byctory. One wrote: I wyne is a stronge thyng. The second wrote: The kyng is stronge get. The thre wrote: Women haue yet moze strength / but aboute all thynges & truely beareth awaye & victory. Now when the kyng was rylen vp / they toke their wyrtynge and deliuered them vnto hym / and so he red the.
Then sent he forth to call al his chiefe lordes / all the debytes and rulers of the countres of Medes and Persia. And when they were set downe in the counsell / the wyrtynge were Red

red before them. And he commaunded to call for the younge men, that they myght declare their meanynges the felues by mouth. So when they were sent for, & came in, the King sayde vnto them: We be vs and make vs to vnderstande / what the thynges are that ye haue wyrtten.

Then beganne the fyrst (which had spokē of the strength of wyne) & sayde: O ye men / wyne is marvelous stronge / & ouercometh them & dryncketh it: it disceaueth the mynde / & byngeth both the poore man & the kynge to dotage and banite. Thus doth it also with the bondman and with the fre / with the poore & ryche: it taketh awaye their vnderstandyng / and maketh them carelesse and mery / so that none of them remembere any heuynes / dett or dewtie: It causeth a man to thynke also that the thinge which he doth / is honest and good: & remembreth not that he is a kynge / nor that he is in auctorite / & he ought not to do such thynges. Moreouer / when men are drynckynge / they forget all frendshyppe / all brotherly saythfulnes & loue: but as soone as they are drynke / they drawe out & swerde & wyl fight: & when they are layed downe fro the wyne / & so ryse by agayne / they can not tell what they dyd: Iudge ye now / is not wyne the ströge? For who wolde els take in hand to do such thynges? And when he had spokē this he helde his tonge.

The declaration of the.ii. last sentences of the poore men / propounded in the Chapter before: of which the last / that is / that hersey beareth the bycote in all thynges / is most comended & alowed. Marcus wyrteth letters to all the rulers vnder hym / that they shoulde wyte Zorobabel to the buydyng of Jerusalem.

The.iii. Chapter.

Then the seconde (which had sayde / that the kynge was stronger) beganne to speake / sayng: O ye men / are not they the strongest and most excellent / that conquere the lande & the see / & all that is in the see & in the earth? Now is the kynge lord of all these thynges / & hath domynion of them all: and loke what he commaundeth / it is done. If he sende his men forth a warfare / they go: & bryake downe bylles / walles & towres. They are slayne / and slaye (other men) them felues / & ouerpassen not the kynges wyrd. If they get the bycote they bringe & King all & spoyle. Like the wife & other that medle not with warres & fyghtynges / but tyll & grounde: when they reape / they bringe tribute vnto the kynge. And yf the kynge alone do but commaunde to kyll / they kyll: yf he commaunde to forgeue / they forgeue: yf he commaunde to smyte / they smyte: yf he byd bryue awaye / they bryue awaye: yf he commaunde to buyde / they buyde: yf he commaunde to bryake downe / they bryake downe:

yf he commaunde to plante / they plante. The comen people & the rulers are obediēt vnto hym. And the kynge in hys meane season sitteth hym downe / eateth / & dryncketh / & taketh his rest: then kepe they watch rounde about & King / & not one of the darre get him out of & waye / to do his awne busynes / but must be obediēt vnto the kynge as a wyrd. Judge ye now / O ye men / how shoulde not he go farre aboue / vnto whō men are thus obediēt? And when he had spokē this / he helde his tonge. The thirde whose name was Zorobabel / which had spoken of womens of truely / beganne to saye after this maner: O ye me / it is not & greete kynge / it is not the multitude of men / neither is it wyrt & excellency: who is it then & hath the lordshyppe ouer them? Haue not women bozne & kynge / & all the people & rule those thynges? Haue not women bozne the / & brought the by / & plante the bynes / wherout & wyne cometh? They make garmentes for all men / they geue honour vnto all men / & about women ca not men lyue. If they gather golde & siluer & all pcyous thynges / & se a saye well sauoured womā / they leane all to gether / & turne thei eyes only vnto & womā / & gaze vpon her / & haue more desyre vnto her / then vnto & syluer & golde / or any maner of pcyous thing. A mā leaueh his father & brought him by / he leaueh his awne natural coultre / & cleaueh vnto the womā: yee he leopardeh his lyf with the woman / & remembreth neither father / ner mother / ner coultre. By thys then ye must nedes knowe / & wemē haue & domynion ouer you. Doth it greue you? A mā taketh his swerde / & goeth his waye to slea / to kyll / to murder / to sayle vpon the see / & sech a lyf / & goeth in the darcknes: & when he hath stolen / disceaued & robbed / he bringeth it vnto his loue. Agayne / a man loyeth hys wyfe better then father & mother: yee many one there be / that rene out of thre wyrtes / & become bondmen for their wyues sake: many one also haue perished / & haue bene slayne / & haue lymed because of wemē. And now beleue me / I knowe a kynge which is greete in his power / and all landes stande in awe of hym / and no man darre laye hande vpon him: yett dyd I se / that Xpamē (the daughter of & greete kynge Babilus) the kynge's concubine / sat besyde & kynge vpon the ryght hande / & toke of his crowne fro his head / & set it vpon her awne head / & smote the kynge with her left hande. Moreouer / & kynge looked vpon her with open mouth: yf she laughed vpon him / he laughed also: but yf she toke any displeasure with hym / the kynge was sayne to flatter her / & to geue her good wordes / tyll he had gotte her saucur agayne. O ye men / are not women then ströger? Create

Great is the earth / & hys is the heauen that do these thynges: When the kynge & & Princes looked one vpon another. So he beganne to speake of & truely: O ye men are not we mē stronger? Great is the earth / hys is the heauen / wyrt is the course of the sunne / he compasseth the heauen rounde aboute / & fetcheth his course agayne to his awne place in one daye. & he not excellent that doth thys? Yee greete is & truely / & ströger then all thynges. All the earth calleth vpon the truely / the heauen prayeth it / all wo / kes wake and tremble at it / & wish it is no vnrighteous thyng. Wyne is vnrighteous: & King is vnrighteous: womē are vnrighteous: all & chyldre of men are vnrighteous / yee all their wo / kes are vnrighteous / & there is no truely in the / in their vnrighteousnes also: that they be destroyed & perished. As for the truely / it endureth / & is all waye stronge: it lyueth & conquereh for euermore wyrd without ende.

The truely accepteth no personnes / it putteth no difference betwixte riche or poore / betwixte the myghty or symple / but doth right vnto euery man / whether they be euill or good: & all men are louyngly dealt with all in the wo / kes of it. In the iudgement of it there is no vnrighteous thyng / but strögh / kynge & power & mayesty for euermore. Blessed be the God of truely.

And with that he helde his tonge / and all the people cried & sayde: Great is the truely / & aboue all. Then sayde the kynge vnto him: Alas what thou wylt / more then is appoynted in the wyrtynge / & I shall geue it the / for thou art founde wylf then thy companyons: thou shalt syt next me / and be my kynsman. Then sayde he vnto the kynge: Remembre the promyse & bowe / which thou hadst bowed & promised / in the daye when thou camest to the kynge dome / to buyde by Jerusalem / and to sende agayne all the beddes / & fowles / that were taken awaye out of Jerusalem: which Cynus separated / when he offred in Babilō / & wolde sende them agayne. And thy mynde was to buyde by the temple / which the Edomites byent / when Jerusalem was destroyed by the Chaldees. This only (O kynge) is & thyng that I requyre / thys is the mayesty / which I desyre & alke of the: that thou prouene the bowe / which thou id thys awne mouth hadt made vnto the kynge of heauen.

Then Marius the kynge stode by / & kyled him / & wrote a letter vnto all the debtyes and shryues / to all the lordes & nobles / that they shoulde conueye hym forth / & all the that wolde go by with hym. He wrote a letter also vnto all the Shyues that were in Celosyria & Phenices / & vnto Lpharus / that they shoulde bryake trees from Libanus vnto

Jerusalem / to buyde & cille withall. He wrote ouer he wrote vnto all the Jewes that were gone out of his realme into & wyrt because of the fredome / that no offyccer / no ruler / nor Shyue / shoulde come to their dozes: & that & their lande which they had conquered / shoulde be fre & not tributary: And that the Edomites shoulde geue ouer the cypres & byllages of & Jewes / which they had takē in: yee and that they shoulde yearly geue .xx. talentes to the buydyng of the temple. vntill the tyme & it were syned: & to the dayly halow yng & & byent thynges (as it is commaunded) ten talentes yearly also: And that all they which come fro Babilon to buyde the ctye / shoulde haue fre lybertye / they and their chyldren / & all the byrdes.

He wrote the greatesse also / & commaunded that the holy garment shoulde be geuen them / wherin they myght syt: & wrote that commaundement: & shoulde be geuen to the Leuites / vntill the daye / that the house were syned & Jerusalem buyded by: and commaunded that all they that watched the cite / shoulde haue their porcyons & wages.

He gaue ouer also all the beddes & Cynus had separated fro Babilon: & all that Cynus had geue in commaundment / & same chaig to be also / & it shoulde be done & sent vnto Jerusalem. Now when this yonge man was gone forth / he turned hys face toward Jerusalem / & prayed the kynge of heauen / & sayde: O & cometh the bycote / of the cometh wyrdome & cleame / & I am thy seruant. Blessed art thou / which hast geuen me wyrdome: & will I praye / O Lord / thou God of oure fathers.

And so he toke the letters / and wente vnto Babilon: And when he came thre / he tolde this vnto all his byrth / that were at Babilon / & they prayed the God of their fathers / that he had geue them rest & shryng & lybertie to go by / & to buyde Jerusalem & & temple (which is there called after the name of the Lord) and they reioyced with instrumentes and gladnesse seuen dayes longe.

They that retorne to Jerusalem are nombred. They beganne to laye the foundacyon of the temple / but are lett by the meane of enemyes: & so is the buydyng broken off by the space of two yeres.

The.ii. Chapter.

After thys were the principall men of all the byllages chosen in the trybes & hyndes / that they shoulde go by with their wyues & chyldre / with their seruantes & maydens / with all their catell and substance. And Marius the kynge sent with the a thousande bozme / to conueye them safely vnto Jerusalem: & their byrth were glad / playg by in strum / & & synge. And these are the names of the Aggeus and Zachary prophete. They buyde the temple with out let or hynderance by the commaundement of Darius.

The.iiij. Chapter.

NOW the .iiij. booke in the second yere of the raygne of Darius, Aggeus & Zachary the sonne of a doo propheted vnto them in Jewry & Jerusalem, in the name of the God of Israel. Then Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel & Jeshua the sonne of Josedec stode by, & began to buyde the house of the Lord at Jerusalem: when the prophetes of the Lord helped the. At the same tyme came Syennesis the vnder Shyrene in Syria & Phenices, to the land: whome the kynge & his companyons & sayde vnto the: who hath byddē & commaunded you to buyde the house, to make the rose & all other thinge agayne: And who are the woche men, that buyde them: Neuertheless the elders of the Jewes had soche grace of the Lord, & they wolde not be let, though they were prouoked therto, but buyded on still, vntyll the tyme that kynge Darius were certyfyed therof, & an answer receaued from hym. The letter that these men sent vnto kynge Darius, was after this maner.

Syennesis the vnder Shyrene in Syria & Phenices, & the landlozdes with their companyons, which are headrulers in Syria & Phenices, sende their salutation vnto Darius the kynge. We certyfy our Lord the kynge, that we came into the lande of Jewry, & went to Jerusalem: where we founde the buydyng of the greates house of God & the temple, with greates costely ston and with goodly tymber for the walles: yee they make greates halles with woche, & helpe one another, and it goeth forth prosperously in their handes, & with greates diligence & woche, yee it made. When asked we the elders, who had commaunded the to make by the house and the buydyng, and this we byd to the intent that we myght certyfy the perfectly, & write vnto the, the names of thole that were the rulers of the woche. So they gaue vs this answer: we are the seruantes of the Lord, which made heauē and earth: & as for this house, it hath bene buyded & set by afoze tyme by the greates & myghty kynge of Israel. But when our fathers prouoked God vnto wrath, & synned agaynst the God of Israel, he gaue the ouer into the power of Nabuchodonosor kynge of Babylon the kynge of the Caldees, which brake downe the house, & byt it, and caried awaye the people prynces vnto Babylon. Neuertheless, in the fyrst yere that kynge Cyrys raygned at Babylon, Cyrys the kynge wrote & commaunded to buyde by this house agayne: & all the ornamente that Nabuchodonosor caried awaye fro Jerusalem vnto Babylon, & appoynted vnto his awne temple: these brought Cyrys forth agayne, & deliuered the to Zorobabel & to Salathiel the vnder Shyrene, commaunding them that they shulde buyde those same ornamente agayne to Jerusalem in to the temple, and to begynne fro the tyme forth, to buyde the temple agayne in his awne place. Then Salathiel shewed the foundacyon of the Lordes house at Jerusalem, & euer sence haue they buyded, & yet it is not ended. And therfore, O kynge, yee thou thinkest it good, let it be sought in the Lybaryes & rolles of kynge Cyrys: yf it be founde then, that it is done in the counsell & consent of kynge Cyrys, and of our lord the kynge be so mynded, let him write vnto vs therof.

Then commaunded kynge Darius, to seke in the Lybaryes: and so at Egbatanis in a lytle cytye in Media there was founde soche a wyrtynge: In the fyrst yere of the raygne of Cyrys, the same kynge Cyrys commaunded that the house of the Lord at Jerusalem shulde be buyded agayne (and ordour to be made there continually vnto the Lord) whose height shalbe .x. cubytes, & the bredth .x. cubytes, & the square vith the heuē stones, with a loft of tymber of the same countre, yee to a new loft, & the expences therof to be geuen of the house of kynge Cyrys. And the ornamente of gold & syluer, & Nabuchodonosor toke out of the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, shalbe set agayne in the temple at Jerusalem, where they were afoze. Syennesis also the vnder Shyrene in Syria & Phenices, the Prynces & chieftain companyons, & the other that be headrulers in Syria and Phenices, shal not medle nor haue any thinge to do with that place.

Cyrys haue commaunded also, that they shal buyde the house of the Lord whole by, & haue ordeyned them, to helpe thole that be come out of captiuyte: yll the house of the Lord be finysshed: and out of the tribute and tarynge that is yearly raynt by in Syria & Phenices, bylygēt to geue them a certayne summe to the offerynge of the Lord: and the same to be deliuered vnto Zorobabel the oftycer: that he therewithall may ordeyne oren, rammes, lamber, & coyne, salt, wyne & oyle, and that continually euer yere: after the expences which the Pryests that be at Jerusalem, shew to be made dayly: this shalbe graunt vnto the without delaye, that they may offer sacrifices dayly to the best God, for the kynge and for his seruantes, and to praye for their lyues. Lett it be proclaimed also on euery tyme, that whosoever breaketh, or despyseth this commaundement of the kynge, shalbe hanged by a galow (made of his awne good) and all his goddes shalbe seased vnto the kynge. The Lord therfore (whose name is there called by) roke out and destroyed all the kynges and people, that undertake by violence to hynder the same, or to deale vn-courteously with the house of the Lord at Jerusalem. Darius the kynge haue ordeyned, that these thinges shalbe done with all diligence.

The temple is synghed and dedycat: and the feast of bakened brede is holden.

The.v. Chapter.

WHEN Syennesis the vnder Shyrene in Celosyria, and Phenices, & the other landlozdes with their companyons, obeyed the thinges that kynge Darius had ordeyned, were diligent in the holy woche, and were felow helpers with the olde rulers of the Jewes. And so the woche of the Sanctuary went forth and prospered, when Aggeus and Zachary propheted. And they perfourmed all thinges thowto the commaundement of the Lord God of Israel, & after the deuice of Cyrys, Darius, and Artaxerxes kynges of Persia. And thus was our house synghed vnto the .xiiij. daye of the moneth Adar in the .viij. yere of kynge Darius. And the chyldren of Israel the prestes and the Leuites, and the other that were come out of captiuyte, and soch as were ioyned vnto them, byd accorde as it is wyrtyn in the boke of Moyses. And in the dedycacion of the temple they offered an hundred oxen, an hundred rammes, iiii. hundred lamber, and .xiiij. goates for the synnes of all the people of Israel, after the nombre of the trybes of Israel. The prestes also & the Leuites stode arrayed in the prestly garmentes, after the trybes, ouer all the woche of the Lord God of Israel according to the boke of Moyses, and the porters by all the dozes.

And the chyldren of Israel with those that were come out of captiuyte helde the passage ouer the .xiiij. daye of the fyrst moneth, when the prestes and the Leuites were sanctified. They that came out of captiuyte, were not all sanctified together: but the Leuites were all sanctified together. And so all they that came out of captiuyte, kept the easter labe, for their brethren, for the prestes & for them selues. And the chyldren of Israel that came out of captiuyte, and escaped from all the abhominacions of the heathen, sought the Lord, & kepte the feast of bakened brede .viij. dayes longe, eatyng & drynkyng & were merry befoze the Lord: that the Lord had turned the deuice of the kynge of Assyria, & comforted their handes to the woche of the Lord God of Israel.

The Lord caused the people to assemble and come to gether, and then readeth them the lawe. They kepte the feast of Tabernacles.

The.vi. Chapter.

AFTER hym, when Artaxerxes the kynge of the Persians raygned, there went vnto hym Eldas the sonne of Saraias, the sonne of Azarias, the sonne of Melchiah, the sonne of Sallum, the sonne of Saboc, the sonne of Achitob, the sonne of Amarias, the sonne of Azarias, the sonne of Boccus, the sonne of Abihu, the sonne of Phimeas, the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron the fyrst prest. This Eldas went by from Babylon, for he had good vnderstandynge in the lawe of Moyses, that was geue of the Lord God of Israel, to be taught & done in dede. And the kynge sauoured him, & dyd hym greates woche & honoure, after all his desyres. There went by with him also certayne of the chyldren of Israel, of the prestes, of the Leuites, of the syngers, porters and mynisters of the temple at Jerusalem.

In the .viij. yere of the raygne of kynge Artaxerxes, in the .viij. moneth, that is in the .viij. yere of the raygne, they went from Babylon in the new moone of the .viij. moneth, & came the hye waye to Jerusalem after byd commaundement, lyke as the Lord had prospered their iourney. For in these Eldas gat greates instruccyon, that he shulde leaue none of the thinges behynde, which are in the lawe & commaundementes of God. And he taught whole Israel all rightuousnes & iudgment.

Then came the Secretaries of kynge Artaxerxes, and deliuered the wyrtynge (that were come from Artaxerxes the kynge) to Eldas the prest and reder of the lawe of the Lord: And this is the coppe of the letter. Kynge Artaxerxes sendeth his greetynge vnto Eldas the prest and reder of the lawe of the Lord: Of frendshipe & good wyll I haue ordeyned and charged, yf there be any of the Jewes, of the prestes and Leuites in my realme, which desyret and is content to go with the vnto Jerusalem, that he maye do it. Therfore yf eny be mynded to beare the company, let them come together, and goo with the (lyke as I am content & my .viij. frendes my counsellors) to se what they do at Jerusalem, & in Jewry, & hepe the thinges according as thou hast in the lawe of the Lord: and to bynne to brynge the gyftes vnto God the Lorde of Israel: that I & my frendes haue promysed to Jerusalem: & all the syluer & golde that is in the countre of Babylon vnto the Lorde to Jerusalem: with the thinge that is geuen for the people in the Lorde's temple at Jerusalem: yee that I same syluer & golde maye be gathered: and oren/rammes/shepe and goates & other that be longe to these thynges: & that they maye offer sacrifices vnto the Lorde/ vpon the aulter of their Lorde / whych is at Jerusalem.

And whatsoeuer thou & thy brethren will do wth the syluer & golde / that do after thy mynde / and after the comaundement of the Lorde thy God: & lyke wyse with all the holy beuelis / that are geue the for the seyrce of I house of the Lorde thy God: & other thynges whatsoeuer is necessary for the to the worke of the temple: that shalbe geue the of I thynges treasure: & loke what thou with thy brethren wilt do with the golde and syluer: that do after the wyll of the Lorde. And I kynge Artaxerxes haue commaunded the keyers of I treasures in Syria and Phenices / I whatsoeuer Elsdas the prest and reder of I lawe of the Lorde both wyte / it shalbe geue him: tyll an. C. talentes of syluer / and of golde in lyke maner: Of coyne also an. C. measures / and tyll an hundredth beuelis of wyne / & other plenteous thynges without nombre. Let all thynges be done after the lawe of I best God: that the wyrt of God arys not in the reaulme of the king and of his sonnes. I comaunde you also / that ye requyere no taxer tribute of I prestes / Leuytes / syngers / and mynistres of the temple / ner of the wyrters: and I no man haue auctorite to medle eny thyng agaynst them. As for the Elsdas let thou iudges & arbyters in I whole lande of Syria and Phenices / after the wyrt dome of God: & learne all soch as are ignorant in the Lawe of God thy Lorde / & lett all the that offende agaynst the lawe / be punished: whether it be wyth death / or payne / to be condemned in money / or to be banished.

* 1. Chr. viij. d.

Then sayde Elsdas I wyrt. * Blessed be the God of oure fathers / that hath geuen so good & mynde and wyll in to the herte of the kynge / to magnifye his house that is at Jerusalem / and hath made me to be accepted in the syght of the kynge / of his counsell / of his frendes & of his nobles. And so I was satisfied in my mynde / accordyng as the Lorde my God helped me / and I chose oute men of Israel to go by with me. * And these are the heades (after their kyntred) & houses of their fathers) that wente by with me from Babylon / out of the kyngdome of Artaxerxes. Of I sonnes of Phares / Gersonus. Of I sonnes of Siemarith / Amarus. Of the sonnes of David / Accus / the sonne of Cecilia.

Of the sonnes of Phares / Zachary: & with hym there turned agayne an hundred and tyttie men. Of the sonnes of the captayn of Moabylon / Saraci / and with hym. iij. C. and i. men. Of I sonnes of Zachary / Jeronias / Zechoy / and with hym. iij. C. and i. men. Of the sonnes of Salamaasias / Getholie / and iij. with hym. Of I sonnes of Zaphacia / Zarus / with hym. iij. C. and i. men. Of I sonnes of Job / Abdias / Zechi / and with hym. iij. C. and i. men. Of the sonnes of Eania / Salomo / the sonne of Josaphia / and with hym. an. C. and i. men. Of the sonnes of Beer / Zachari / Bebel / and with hym. iij. C. and i. men. Of the sonnes of Elsad / Iohannes / Ezechan / & with hym. C. & x. men. Of I sonnes of Adoniam / those that were the last / and these are their names: Eliphalam the sonne of Gebel and Semelas / and with hym. iij. C. and i. men. All these called I together by I wather Chis / where we pitched oure tentes thre dayes / and there I mustered them.

As for the sonnes of the prestes and Leuytes / I founde none there. Then sent I vnto Eleazar / and Ecceloni / and Mahan / & Malobam / and Enaathan / & Samas / and Josibimathan / Eunagan / Zachary / Mosollanum (these were the leders & men of experience) and I sent them word / that they shulde come vnto Loddeus / whych was by I place of the treasury / & commaunded them that they shuld speake vnto Loddeus and to his brethren & to those that were in the treasury / to sende vs soch men / as might execute the prestes offyce in the house of the Lorde oure God. And wth the myghtye hande of oure Lorde God / they brought vnto vs men of good experience / from amonge the sonnes of Moosius / the sonne of Leui / the sonne of Israel / Sebeiram & the sonnes & hys brethren A bin and A nin / of whom there were xviij. from amonge the chyldren of I sonnes of Cananeus / & their sonnes were. xx. men. And of them that serued in the temple / whos David had ordeyned / & the pryncypall men that mynistred for the worke vnto the Leuytes in the temple. iij. C. and. xx. men / whose names are all tohened by in wyrtynge.

Then commaunded I a saynge vnto I yonge men before the Lorde / that I myght desyre of him a prosperous journey & a good waye for vs / yee for vs / for oure chyldre and for I ratell / because of I layenges awayte / and I durst not requyre of the kynge men of hofe & of fote / to conuey vs safely agaynst oure enemyes / for we had sayde vnto I king / that the power of the Lorde oure God shuld be with them / that seke him with their whole herte.

herte. And therfore we besought God oure Lorde earnestly because of these thynges / & he was mercifull vnto vs / and hearde oure prayer. And I separated from amonge I rulers of the people / & from the Prestes of the temple. xij. men / & Sebeia & Asania / & ten men of their brethren with them. And I tolde them the golde & the syluer & all the prestly ornaments of the house of oure God / whych I king / & his counsell / & his Princes / & a whole Israel had geue. And when I had weped / I gaue the an. C. & i. talentes in syluer / & C. talentes of syluer beuell / an. C. talentes of golde / & of golde beuell seuē tymes twenty / & beuelis of other metall (yee of good metall) xij. gyfteringe as the golde / & sayde vnto the: yee also are holy vnto the Lorde / & the beuelis are holy / & the golde and the syluer is promysed vnto the Lorde I God of oure fathers. Be diligent now & hepe it / vntill the tyme that ye deliuer it to the rulers of the people / to the Prestes / to the Leuytes / & to the pryncypall men of the cities of Israel in Jerusalem / & in the chambze of the house of oure God.

So I Prestes & I Leuytes which receaued of me the golde / the syluer and the beuell / brought it to Jerusalem into the temple of the Lorde. And from Chis we brake by the. xij. daye of the fyrst moneth / tyll we came to Jerusalem. And when the thyrde daye was past / the xij. yed golde & syluer was deliuered in I house of the Lorde I fourth daye / vnto Marimoth the sonne of Ioz / the Preste / and with hym was Eleazar the sonne of Phineas / and with the were Josabab the sonne of Iether / Medias & I scime of Banus / & certayne of the Leuytes to the nombre & to the wayght: and the wayght of them was wrytten by the same tyme. As for those that were come out of captiuite / they offered sacrifice vnto the Lorde the God of Israel: cuē. xij. oren for all Israel. iij. xvi. rammes. iij. xij. shepe. xij. goates for synne. xij. kyne for a thankoffryng / all to the sacrifice of the Lorde. And I kynges comyd deliuered they vnto the scharwes and debytes of the kynge / and to the vnder wyrters in Egiptia and Phenices.

Now when these thynges were done / the rulers came vnto me / and sayd: The generation of Israel / the Princes / the Prestes and Leuytes / the straunge people & indwellers of the land / haue not put a waye their bnelness / from the Cananites / Hethites / Pherysses / fro the Moabites / Egiptys / & Edomites. For both they and their sonnes haue mengled them selues with the daughters of them / & the holy seide is mytte with the outlandish Heathen / & sens the begynnyng of their raygne haue the rulers & heades bene partetakers of their wyckednesse.

* As soone as I had hearde these thynges / I immediately I rente my holy garments / and pulled out the heare of my head & my beard / & sat me downe sorrowful & heuy. So all they that were moued thow the worde of I God of Israel / came vnto me: & I sat tyll full of heuyne vntill the euenyng sacrifice. Then stode I by fro fasting / hauryng rente clothes and the holy garmet / kneled downe vnto my knees / helde out my handes vnto the Lorde / & sayde: O Lorde / I am confounded & ashamed before thy face / for oure synnes are become many vpon oure heades / & oure wyckednesse are exalted vnto I heauē: for sens I tyme of oure fathers we are in greute synne vnto this daye. And for the synnes of vs and oure fathers / we id oure brethren & id oure Prestes haue bene deliuered vnto I kynges of the earth / in to I swerde / & in to captiuite / & became a people with confusion & shame vnto this daye. And now O Lorde God / how greute is the mercy that we haue gotte of I in I thou hast left vs a rote & a name in the place of thy Sanctuary / to dyscouer oure lyght in the house of the Lorde oure God / & geue vs meate at all tymes of our ministracion. And when we were in captiuite / we were not forsake of the Lorde oure God: but he made the kynges of Persia gracious and fauourable vnto vs / so that they gaue vs bstatyles & meate / yee & leaue to buyde by the temple of oure Lorde God agayne / to repayre the wasted places of Sion / and to dwell in Iewry and Jerusalem. And now O Lorde / what shall we saye / hauryng all these thynges in possedon: for we haue broken thy comaundementes / whych thou gauest vnto vs by the handes of thy seruantes I prophetes / sayinge: The lande that ye go vnto / & that is geuen you for an heritage / to haue in possedon / is defyled with the bnelness & synnes of the Heathen / & with their abhominacion haue they polluted it all together. Therfore shall ye not forne poure daughters vnto their sonnes / ner mary poure sonnes vnto their daughters: Forouer / ye shall neuer seke to make peace with the / I ye maye increase & eate I best in the lande / & I ye maye dyspde the inheritance of the lande vnto poure chyldre for euermore. As for the thinge that now happeneth vnto vs / it cometh all for oure wycked wyrt / & greute synnes / yett haue thou geuen vs soche a rote / that we are come gayne into our a wne lād: & we are so wycked I we haue broke thy statutes & comaundementes agayne / & mengled oure selues with the bnelness of I outlandish Heathen. O Lorde / art thou angrye with vs: wylt thou rote vs cleane out: I oure rote & name remayne nomore: O Lorde God of Israel thou art true / for oure rote endureth holde now are we before the in oure synnes/now can we not stande before the in them.

¶ And when Eldas with this prayer had knowledged the synne/weping/ & lyge stait vpon the grounde before the temple/there gathered vnto hym from Ierusalem a greete multitude of men & women/of yonge men & maydes/for there was a very greete weping & mourninge in the congregacyon. So whe Jechonias the sonne of Jehoiada one of the children of Irael cryed/he sayd vnto Eldas: we haue synned agaynst the Lorde/because we haue married outlandish women of the heathen. Now art thou ouer all Irael. We will swear an othe therfore vnto the Lorde/that we shall put awaye all oure wyues/ which we haue takē of the heathē/ & their chyldre:
like as it is appoynted by oure fore elders.
Stand by then/open thou it/and declare it playnly vnto vs/according to the lawe of the Lorde:for the matter belongeth vnto the / & we wyll helpe the/ quyte thy selfe maly. So Eldas arose/ and toke an othe of the rulers of the Priestes/ & of the Leuites/ & of Irael/to do after these thynges: and they sware.

¶ After Eldas had read the lawe/ the people put awaye their scallge wyues/ and then retourned eu-ery man mercly vnto his owne dwellinge.

ate no meate/ nor dronke drynke/for a mul-there was made a proclamacyō in all Iewry & at Ierusalem/for all such as were gathered at Ierusalem out of captiuite/ & whosoever came not to Ierusalem within two or.iiij. dayes (according to the iudgement of the olde lordes of counsell) his goodes shulde be taken from him/ & be excluded from the congregacyō of the captiuite. And in thre dayes were all they of the tribe of Iuda & Beniamin gathered together at Ierusalem/ the.iiij. daye of the.iiij. moneth. And the whole multitude sat treshing in the courte of the temple/ for it was winter.

So Eldas arose by/ & layde vnto them: ye haue done vnrightheously/ in that ye haue taken outlandish wyues/ & so to increase the synnes of Irael. And now knowledge the same/ & geue praye vnto the Lorde God of oure fathers/ & persourne his wyll/departynge fro the heathen of the lande/ & from the outlandish wyues. Then cryed the whole multitude with loud voyce/ & sayde: lyke as thou hast spoken/ so wyll we do: but for so much as the people are many/ and the wynter here/ we may not stande without the house: agayne/ this woiche is not a thyng/that can be synned in a daye or two/ for we be many & haue synned in these thynges: Dy-drene therfore/ & the rulers of the multitude & all they that dwell with vs/ as many as haue outlandish wyues/ the Priestes also & iudges of every place may stande in the tyme appoynted/ tyll they lowse by the wyll of the Lorde in his busynes.

¶ Then Jothanias & sonne of Erel/ & Dyas and Thecam receaued the charge of thys matter/ & Bozozanius/ & Leius/ & Sabatheus helped them therto. After this/ all they stode by & were come out of captiuite. And Eldas the Priest chole vnto him the princy-pall men fro amonge the fathers accordyng to their names/ & in the new moneth of the tenth moneth they sat together/ to examyn thys matter. And so the matter was a determyn-g (concerning the men that had outlandish wyues) vntill the new moneth of the fyrst moneth. And of the Priestes that had myte them selues with outlandish wyues/ there were founde: Of the sonnes of Iesu the sonne of Josede and hys brythre/ Hazeas/ Eleazar/ Jozibus & Joo-deus/ which offered them selues to put awaye their wyues/ & to offre a rāme for their igno-

The.iiij. boke of Eldas.

¶ The people is reprovēd for their vnchanchelnes.
God wyll sende another people yf they wyll not be reformed.

The fyrst Chapter.

¶ The seconde boke of the prophete Eldas (the sonne of Saraias/ & sonne of Azarias the sonne of Melchias/ & sonne of Sallum/ the sonne of Sadoc/ the sonne of Achi-tob/ & sonne of Amerias/ the sonne of Azarias/ & sonne of Maraiorch/ & sonne of Saabias/ & sonne of Azi/ the sonne of Boccus/& sonne of Abisu/ the sonne of Phineas/ the sonne of Eleazar/ the sonne of Aaron/ of the tribe of Levi) which was prisoner in the lande of Medes/ in the raygne of Artaxerxes kinge of Persia.

¶ And the worde of the Lorde came vnto me/saying: gothy waye/ & shew my people their synfull dedes/ & their chyldre their wychednes/ which they haue done agaynst me/ & they may tell their chylders chyldre the same:
for the synnes of their fathers are increased in them. And why? they haue forgotten me/ & haue offered vnto straunge goddes. Am not I euel he/ that brought them out of the lande of Egypte/ fro the house of bondage? But they haue prouoked me vnto wrath/ and despised my coscelis. Pull thou out then the heare of thy heade/ & cast all euel ouer them/ for they haue not bene obedient vnto my lawe.

¶ It is a people without lernynge & nour-ture. How longe shall I forbear the/ vnto whom I haue done so moche good? Many thynges haue I destroyed for their synnes: ¶ Pharaon with his seruantes & all his power haue I smytten downe & slayne: All the na-cions haue I destroyed and rote out before the/ & in the Calbaue I brought two landes & people to naught/ euen Tyre and Sydon/and haue slayne all their enemyes. Speake thou therfore vnto the/ saying: Thus sayeth the Lorde: I led you thowow the see/ & haue geuen you sure stretes sence the beginning.
¶ I gaue you Moyses to be youre captayne/ & Aaron to be the priest: I gaue you lyght in a pyler of fyre/ and greete wonders haue I done amonge you: yet haue ye forgottē me/sayth the Lorde.

¶ Thus sayth the almyghty Lorde: I gaue you quayles to eate/ & tentes for your succours: neuertheles ye murmured/ and ascribed not the victorie of youre enemyes vnto my name: yet thys same daye do ye yet murmour. Where are the benefytes that I haue done

¶ neas. All these had taken outlandish women to mariage/ & they put the awaye with their chyldre. The Priestes & Leuites/ & all they were of Irael/ dwelt at Ierusalem & thowowout all the lande/ in the new moneth of the.iiij. moneth/ & the chyldre of Irael were in their dwellinges. And the whole multitude came together by the floore at the east syde of the holys porte of the temple. And they spake vnto Eldas the hie Priest & reader/ that he wolde bryng the lawe of Moyses/ which was geue of the Lorde God of Irael. So Eldas the hie Priest brought the lawe vnto the whole multitude/ to ma & womā/ & to all Priestes/ & they myght heare the lawe/ in the new moneth of the.iiij. moneth. And he red in the floore & is before the holys porte of the temple/ fro the morning early vnto the euening/ before men & women. And they applyed their mynde all vnto the lawe.

¶ And Eldas the Priest & reader of the lawe stode by vnto a scallolde of wodd/ which was made therfore: & vpon his ryght hande there stode by him Mathathias/ Samus/ Ananias/Aarias/ Azarias/ Jzechias/ & Ballam: vpon his lefte hande stode Jaldus/ Misael/Malachias/ Abischas/ Sabus/ Habadias & Zachary. Then toke Eldas the boke before the whole multitude/ for he was the princy-pall/ & had in moost honour of them all. And when he had red out the lawe/ they stode all strayght vpon their fete. So Eldas prayed the Lorde the moost hie God/ the Almyghty God of Moyses. And all the people answered:
Amen: and helde by their handes/ fell downe flat vpon the earth/ & prayed the Lorde. And Jelus/ Bencas/ Sarebias/ Jaddimus/ Accubus/ Sabathus/ Calthes/ Azarias/Jozadus/ Ananias/ & Philius the Leuites lyft their handes vnto the Lorde/ & bowed their faces to the grounde/ & prayed the Lorde: whose were they which taught the lawe of the Lorde/ & red the lawe of the Lorde in the congregacyō: & eu-ery man set those before him vnderstode the lawe.

¶ Then spake Atharates vnto Eldas the hie Priest & reader/ & to the Leuites that taught the multitude/ saying: This daye is holy vnto the Lorde: & all they that had hearde the lawe/wepte. So Eldas sayde: Departe youre waye then/ & eate the best/ & drynke the swe-test/ & sende gyftes vnto the/ & haue nothing: for this daye is holy vnto the Lorde/ & be not ye loze. Then wente they their waye euerchone/ ate & dronke/ & were mery/ & sent rewardes vnto the that had nothing/ that they also myght ente in gladnesse: for they were exceedingly reioyced/ thowow the wordes that were red vnto them in the lawe. And so they were all gathered together at Ierusalem to holde the feast/ according to the covenante of the Lorde God of Irael.

done for you? when ye were hongry in the wilderness / yd. ye not crye vnto me: why hast thou brought vs into this wilderness / to kill vs? It had bene better for vs / to haue serued the Egypcijs / then to dye in this wilderness. Then had I ppye bpō your mourninges / and gaue you Manna to eate. * Ye ate angels foode. When ye were thyrstye / yd not I helpe hardstone / & caused water to flowe therout? for the heate I couered you with the leaues of trees. A good pleasure I had to gaue you: I cast out the Cananites / the Phereytes and Philistines before you. * What shall I do more for you / sayeth the Lorde?

Thus sayth the Almyghty Lorde: when ye were in the wilderness / in the water of the Amorytes / beinge a thyrst / & blasphemynge my name / I gaue you not fyre for your blasphemyes / but cast a tree into the water / and made the ryuer swete. What shall I do vnto the / O Jacob: Thou Iuda woldest not obeye me. I will turne me to another people / and vnto those wyl I geue my name / that they maye kepe my statutes. Seing ye haue forsaken me / I will forsake you also. When ye besyde me to be gracious vnto you / I shall haue no mercy vpon you. * When ye call bpō me / I will not heare you. for ye haue despised your handes with bloude / and your fete are swyft to comyt manslaughter. Ye haue not forsaken me (in a maner) but your awne felices / sayth the Lorde.

Thus sayth the almyghty Lorde: haue I not prayed you / as a father his sonnes / as a mother her daughters / & as a nozle her pōge babes / that ye wolde be my people / & I shoulde be your God: that ye wolde be my chyldren / and I shoulde be your awne father? * I gathered you together / as an henne gathereth her chikens vnder her wynges. But now what shall I do vnto you? I shall cast you out from my face: * when ye offere vnto me / I shall turne my face from you: for your solemne feasts dayes / your new moones / and your circumcysions haue I forsaken. I sent vnto you my seruantes the Prophetes / whō ye haue taken and slayne / and to me their bodies in peces / whose bloude I will requyre of your handes / sayeth the Lorde.

Thus sayeth the Almyghty Lorde: your house must be desolate. I will cast you out as the wynde doth the strawe: your chyldren shall not be frutefull / for they haue despised my commaundment / and done the thinge that is euell before me. Your houses wyl I geue vnto a people that shall come / & they that neuer herde me shal beleue in me: & they vnto whom I neuer shewed token / shall do the thinge that I comaunde the. They haue sene no Prophetes / yet shall they call these synnes to remembrance / and knowlege them. I repute me vnto the grace / & I wyl do for people which is to come / whose chyldren reioyse in gladnes: & though they haue not sene me with bodily eyes / yet in sperte they beleue the thinge that I saye. And now bzyther / beholde what grete wofullnes / & se the people that cometh from the east / vnto whom I wyl geue the dukedom of Abrahams / Isaac and Jacob / of Oseas / Amos / & Michas / of Joel / Abdy / Jonas / Naum / & Abacuc / of Sophony / Aggeus / Zachary / & Malachi / which is called also an angell (or messenger) of the Lorde.

The Synagoge syneth faule with her wone chyldren. The Genyres are called.

The. ii. Chapter.

Thus sayth the Lorde: I brought this people out of bondage / I gaue them my comaundmentes by my seruantes the Prophetes / whom thou woldest not heare / but despised my counsell. The mother that bare them / sayeth vnto them: So your waye ye chyldren / for I am a wyddowe and forsaken: I brought you bp with gladnesse / but with sorow and heynes haue I lost you: for ye haue synned before the Lorde your God / and done the thynges that is euell before him. But what shall I now do vnto you? I am a wyddow and forsaken: go your waye / O my chyldren / and ake mercy of the Lorde. As for me / O father / I call bpō the for a wytnesse ouer the mother of these chyldren / which wolde not kepe my couenaunt: that thou bzyngest them to confusyon / and their mother to a spoyle / that we heare no more. Let their names be scatered abroad amonge the Heathen / let them be put out of the earth / for they haue thought scoone of my couenaunt.

So be vnto the Almyghty Lorde: thou that hydest the brightynous bythe. Thou wycked people / remember what I byd vnto Sodome & Gomorre / whose lande is turned to pitch and ashes. Euen so also wyl I do vnto all them / that heare me not / sayeth the almyghty Lorde. Thus sayeth the Lorde vnto Eddas: Tell my people / that I wyl geue them the Kingdome of Ierusalem / which I wolde haue geue vnto Israel. Their gloze also wyl I take vnto me / & geue them the euertlasting tabernacles / which I had prepared for those.

The tree of lyfe shal be vnto them a swete smellyng oymment: they shall nether labour nor be weery. So ye your waye / and ye shall receaue it. Praye for your felices a fewe dayes / & they maye dwell therein. Now is the Kingdome prepared for you / therfore wathe. Take heauen and earth to witnesse / for I haue broken the euell in peces / & created the good / for I lyue sayth the Lorde. Mother embrace thy chyldren / and bzyngest them bp with gladnesse: make their fete as fast as a pylers / for I haue chosen the / sayeth the Lorde.

And those that be deed wyl I rayse bp agayne from their places / and bzyngest them out of the graues / for I haue knowne my name in Israel. Feare not thou mother of the chyldren / for I haue chosen the / sayeth the Lorde. And for thy helpe I shal sende the my seruantes Eday and Jeremy / after whose counsell I haue sanctified & prepared for the trees with dyuerse frutes / and as many welles / flowynge with mylk and hony / and seven mountaynes / wherupon there growe roses and lilies / wherin I wyl fyll my chyldren with soye. Execute iustyce for the wyddowe / be iudge for the fatherlesse: geue to the poore: defende the comfotelesse: clothe the naked: heale the wounded and syck: laughe not a lame man to scoone: defende the crepell / and let the bynde come into the sight of my cleannes. Kepe the olde & younge within thy walles: wherfore thou syndest the deed / take them / and burie them / and I shall geue the / the best place in my resurreccion. Holde thyll / O my people / and take thy rest / for thy quyetnes is come. Feede thy chyldren / O thou good nozle / & ablyth their fete: as for the seruantes whom I haue geuen the / there shall not one of them perishe / for I wyl seke them from thy nombze / bere not thy selfe.

for when the daye of trouble & heynes cometh / other shall wepe and be sorowfull / but thou shalt be merry and plenteous. The Heathen shal be gelous / but they shal be able to do nothinge agaynst the / sayth the Lorde. My handes shall couer the / so that thy chyldren shall not be the fyre euertlastyng. Be soylfull / O thou mother with thy chyldren / for I wyl deliuer the / sayth the Lorde. Remember thy deed chyldren / for I shall bzyngest the out of the earth / and shew mercy vnto them / for I am mercifull / sayth the Lorde almyghty.

Embrace thy chyldren / vntill I come / & shew mercy vnto them / for my welles runne ouer / and my grace shall not fayle.

I Eddas receaued a charge of the Lorde vpon the mount Oreb / that I shoulde go vnto Israel. When I came vnto Israel they let me at nought / and despised the comaundment of the Lorde. And therfore I saye vnto you / O ye Heathen that heare and vnderstande: Like for your shepherde / he shall geue you euertlastyng rest: for he is nye at hand / that shall come in the ende of the world. Be readye to the rewarde of the Kingdome / for the euertlastyng light shall shyne vpon you for euermore. Alle the shadowe of thy world / receaue the soylfines of your gloze. I testyfy my sauoure openly: & receaue the gyft that is geuen you / & be glad / geuynge thanckes vnto hym / that hath called you to the heauenly Kingdome.

Arise bp / & stande fast: beholde the nombze of those that be sealed in the sealt of the Lorde / which are departed from the shadow of the world / and haue receaued glorious garmentes of the Lorde. Take thy nombze O Syon / and shut vp thy purples / which haue fulfilled the name of the Lorde. The nombze of thy chyldren whom thou longedest for / is fulfilled: beseeche the power of the Lorde / that thy people which haue bene called from the begynnynge / maye be halowed.

I Eddas saue vpon the mount Sion a grete people / whom I coude not nombze / and they all prayed the Lorde with songes of thankesgeuynge. And in the myddest of them there was a yonge man of an hye stature / more excellent then all they / and vpon every one of their heades he set a crowne / & was euer higher and hygher / whych I marueled at greatly. So I asked the angell / and sayde: Sy / what are these? He answered & sayde vnto me: These be they that haue put of the mortall clothinge and put on the immortall / and haue testyfyed and knowledged the name of God. Now are they crowned / & receaue the rewarde.

Then sayde I vnto the angell: what yonge personne is it / that crowneth them / and geueth them the palmes in their handes? So he answered & sayde vnto me: It is the soune of God / whom they haue knowledged in the world. Then beganne I greatly to comende them / that stode so styly for the name of the Lorde. And so the angell sayde vnto me: Go thy waye / and tell my people / what maner of thynges and howe grete wonders of the Lorde thy God / thou hast sene.

The wonderous moches which God byd for the people are recyted. Eddas marueled that God shoulde geue the Babylonians to haue rule ouer his people / which yet are synners also.

The. iij. Chapter.

Of the thyrtye yere of the fall of the ctyte / I was at Babylon / and I laye troubled vpon my bed / and my thoughtes came bp ouer my hert: for I sawe the desolacyon of Sion / and the plenteous wealth of them that dwelt at Babylon: and my sperte was soze moued / so I beganne to speake fearfull wordes to the most hyest / and sayde: O Lorde Lorde / thou spakest at the begynnynge / when thou plasedst the earth (and that thy selfe alone) and

and gauest commaundement vnto the people / and a body vnto Adam / whych was a creature of thy handes / and hast bryghed in hym the bryght of lyfe: and so he lyued befoze the / & thou leddest hym into Paradise / which garden of pleasure thy ryght hande had pla- ced / & euer the earth was made. And vnto hym thou gauest commaundement to loue thy waye / which he transgressed / and imme- dyatly thou appoyntedest death in hym / and in hys generacions. Of hym came nacions / trybes / people and kynredes out of nombze. And euerie people walked after their awne will / and dyd nyce thynges befoze the: and as for thy commaundementes / they despy- sed them.

But in pzoesse of tyme thou broughtest the water floude / vpon those that dwelt in the world / and destroyedst them. And lyke as the deach was in Adam / so was the water floude also in these. Neuerthelesse one of the thou ledest: namelye Noe with his household / of whome came all ryghteous men. And it happened that when they that dwelt vpon the earth / beganne to multiplye / and had gotten many chyldze / and were a greaie peo- ple / they beganne to be moze bngodly then the fyrst.

Now when they all lyued so wyckedly be- foze the / thou dydest chose the a man from amonge them / whose name was Abraham. Hym thou louedest / and vnto hym only thou shewedest thy will / and madeest an euera- styng couenaunt wyth hym / pzoomyng hym / that thou woldest neuer forsake hys seide. And vnto hym thou gauest Isaac / vnto Isaac also thou gauest Jacob and Esau. As for Jacob thou dydest chose him / and put backe Esau. And so Jacob became a greaie multitude.

And it happened that when thou leddest this seide out of Egypte / thou broughtest the hy to the mounte Syon / bowynge downe the heauens / lettynge fall the earth / mo- uynge the grounde / makynge the depthes to shake / and troublynge the world: And thy gloze wente thowow foure portes of fyre / & earth quakes / and wyndes / and colde: that thou myghtest geue the lawe vnto the seide of Jacob / and dylygence vnto the generacy- on of Israel.

And yet tokest thou not awaye from the that wycked herte / & thy lawe myght byynge forth frute in them. For the fyrst Adam bare a wycked herte / transgressed / and was ouer- come / & to be all they that are borne of hym. Thus remayned weaknes with the lawe in the herte of the people / wyth the wyckednesse of the rote: so that the good departed awaye / and the euell abode still. So the tyme palsed awaye / & the peaces were brought to an ende. Then dydest thou saye & by a seruatic called Dauid / whom thou commaundedst to buyde a cite vnto thy name / and to offere by incense and sacryfyce vnto the therin. This was done now many peaces. Then the inha- byters of the cyte forsoke the / & in all thyngs dyd euen as Adam and all hys generacions had done: for they also had a wycked herte.

And so thou gauest thy cyte ouer into the handes of thyne enemyes. Are they of Babilon then better and moze ryghteous then thy people / that they shall therfoze haue the do- mynyon of Syon: for when I came there / & sawe their bngodlynes / and so greaie wyckednesse / that it coulde not be nombzed: yee when my soule sawe so many euell doers / in the xxx. yere / my herte sayde me / for I sawe / how thou suffrest them in soch bngodlynes / & sparest the wycked doers: but thyne awne people hast thou tosed out / & pzofered thyne enemyes / and thus hast thou not shewed me.

I can not perceaue how this happeneth. Do they of Babilon then better / then they of Syon: & is there any other people / that knoweth the / sayynge the people of Israel: & what generacion hath so beleued thy co- uenaunt / as Jacob: And yet their rewarde appeareth not / & their labour hath no frute. For I haue gone here and there thowow the heathen / & I se that they be ryche & wealthy / & thynke not vpon thy commaundementes. Wepe thou therfoze oure wyckednesse now in the balaunce / & theys also that dwell in the world / & so shall thy name be no where founde but in Israel. & where is there a people vpon earth / that hath not synned befoze the: & what people hath so kepte thy com- maundementes: Thou shalt fynde / that Is- rael by name hath kepte thy pzoceptes / but not the other people and heathen.

The Angell re pzoemeth Edas / because he semed to enter into the pzoounde iudgementes of God.

The.iii. Chapter.

And the angell that was sent vnto me (whose name was Azriel) gaue me an answer / & sayde: Thy herte hath taken to moch vpon it in this world / and thou thynkest to comprehend the waye of the Hyest. Then sayde I: Yee my Lorde. And he answered me / and sayde: I am sent to shewe the thre wayes / and to set forth thre synplytudes / befoze the: wherof yf thou canst declare me one / I will shewe the also the waye / that thou desyrest to se: and I will shewe the from whence the wycked herte cometh. And I sayde: Tell on my Lorde. Then sayde he vnto me: Go thy waye / wepe me the weyght of the fyre / & measure me the blast of the wynde / & call me agayne the daye that is past. Then answer- ed I and sayde: What man borne is able to do that: Why requestest thou soch of me: And he sayde vnto me: If I shulde aske the / how depe dwellynges are in the see: & how greaie water sprayngs are vnto the firmamēt: & how greaie water spraynges are in the be- gynnynge of the depe: & which are the out- goyngs of Paradise: Weraduere thou woldest saye vnto me: I neuer wente downe yet in to the depe no: hell / nether dyd I euer clymme vp in to heauen. Neuerthelesse now haue I asked the but only of fyre and wynde / and of the daye / where thowow thou hast tra- uayled / and from the which thou canst not be separated: and yet canst thou geue me no answer of them.

He sayde mozeouer vnto me: Thyne awne thynges / & soch as are growne by with the / canst thou not knowe: how shulde thy besell then be able to comprehend the waye of the Hyest / and now outwardly in the corrupte world / to vnderstande the corrupcyō that is caryed in my sight: Then sayde I vnto hym: It were better that we were not at all / then that we shulde lyue in wyckednesse / & to suf- fere / and not to knowe wherfoze. He answered me / and sayde: I wente in a wood / & the trees toke soch a deuoyce and sayd: Come let vs go / and fyght agaynst the see / that it maye de- parte awaye befoze vs / and that we maye make vs yet moze woddys.

The floudes of the see also in lyke maner toke this deuoyce / and sayde: Come / let vs go by / and fyght agaynst the trees of the wodd / that we maye make oure lande the wyder. The thought and deuoyce of the wodd was but bayne and nothyng worth / for the fyre came and consumed the wodd: The thought of the floudes of the see came lyke wyse to naught also / for the sande stode by and stop- ped them.

If thou were iudge now betwixte these two / whom woldest thou iustifye / & whom woldest thou condempne: I answered & sayd: Merely it is a folysh thought that they both haue deuyled. For the grounde is geuen vnto the wodd / and the see also hath his place to beate hys floudes. Then answered he me / & sayde: Thou hast geuen a right iudgement / why iudget thou not thy selfe also: For lyke as the grounde is geuen vnto the wodd / and the see to his floudes: euen so they that dwell vpon earth / may vnderstande nothyng / but that which is vpon earth: and he that dwel- leth aboute the heauens / may only vnderstande the thyngs / that are aboute the heauens. Then answered I / and sayd: I beseeche the / Lord / let me haue vnderstandynge: for it was not my mynde to be curyous of thy hye thynges /

but of soch as we dayly medle withall / and mely: wherfoze that Israel is blasphemid of the heathen / & for what cause the people (whō thou euer hast loued) is geue ouer / to be pun- nyshed of bngodly nacions: & why the lawe of oure fathers is brought to naught / & the writ- ten couenautes come to none effecte: & we passe awaye out of the world as the grethop- pers / & oure lyfe is a very feare / & we are not worthy to optayne mercy. What will he do then vnto his name / which is called by do ouer vs: Of these thynges haue I asked questyō.

Then answered he me / & sayde: The moze thou searchest / the moze thou shalt maruell / for the world hatheth fast to passe awaye / & can not comprehend the thynges / that are pzoemised for the rightuous in tyme to come / for this world is full of bngodlynes and weaknes.

But as concernynge the thynges wherof thou askest me / I will tell the. The euell is comen / but the destruccyon therof is not yet come. Yf the euell now that is comen / be not turned by syde downe / & yf the place where the euell is comen / passe not awaye / then can not the thinge come that is comen with good. For the coine of euell seide hath bene comen in the hert of man from the begynnynge / and how moch bngodlynes hath he brought by vnto this tyme: and how moch shall he yet bringe forth / vntill he come into the barne:

Wondze now by thy selfe / when the coine of euell seide is cutt downe / how greaie a barne shall it fyll: I answered and sayde: How and whye shall these thynges come to passe: Wher- foze are oure yeares few & euell: And he an- swered me / sayynge: Hast not thou to moch by the Hyest / for thy hastyness to be aboute him is but bayne / thou makest to moch a do. Wpnot the soules also of the ryghtuous as the questyō of these thynges in their holyness / sayynge: How longe shall I hope of this fa- & Apoc. vi. b. thyon: When cometh the frute of my barne / and my rewarde: And vpon this Jeremie & Archangell gaue them answer / and sayde: Euen when the nombze of the sedes is fylled in you: for he hath weped the world in a ba- launce: in measure & nombze hath he mea- sured the tyme / and moueth it not / vntill the same measure be fulfilled. Then answered I and sayde: O Lorde Lorde / now are we all full of synne / and for oure sake weradu- ture it is not / that the barne of the ryghtu- ous shall not be fylled / because of the synnes of them that dwell vpon the earth.

So he answered me / & sayde: Go thy waye to a womā with chyld / and aske of her / whye she hath fulfilled her. fr. monethes / yf her chyld be born maye kepe the by th any longer with in her. Then sayde I: O Lorde / that can the

not. And he sayde vnto me: In hell the secreete places of soules are lyke the pzeup chamber of a woman. For lyke as a woman that tra- uapleth/maketh haste/when the tyme is ne- cessyte of the byrth is at hande: Euen so both she haste to deliuer it that is comytted vnto her. Loke what thou desyrest to se/ it shalbe shewed the from the begynnyng. Then an- swered I. & sayde: If I haue founde sauoure in thy syght/and yf it be possible/ and yf I be mete therfore/ shewe me then/whether there be moze to come then is past/ or moze past then is for to come. What is past/ I knowe: but what is for to come/ I knowe not.

And he sayde vnto me: Stande by vpon the ryght syde/ & I shall expounde the sym- lytude vnto the. So I stode/and beholde/and whote burning ouer wente ouer before me: & it happened & when the flame was gone by/ the smoke had the upper hande. After this there went ouer before me a watery cloude/ & sent downe moche rayne to a strome: & whē the stromy rayne was past the droppes re- mained vpon. Then sayde he vnto me: lyke as the rayne is moze then the droppes/ and as the fyre exceedeth the smoke/ eue so the mea- sure of the thynges that are past/ hath the upper hande. Then wente the droppes & the smoke about: and I prayed and sayde: O ap- poynted (thyngest thou) vntill that tyme? & what shall happen in those dayes? He answered me/ and sayde: As for the tokens wherof thou askest me/ I maye tell the of them in a parte: but as touchyng the tyme/ I may not shewe the/ for I am no beth therfore.

The. v. Chapter.

Nethertheles/as concernyng the tokens/make this: Beholde/ the dayes shall come/ that they which dwell vpon earth/ shalbe takē in a greate nombre/ and the waye of the trouth shalbe hyd/ and the lande shalbe barren from sayth: but iniquyte shall haue the upper hand/ lyke as thou hast seene now/ & as thou hast heard longe agoo. And the lande that thou seest now to haue rule/ halt thou shortly to waste. But yf God graunte the to lyue/ thou shalt se after the thynges that the sunne shall sodenly hyne agayne in the nyght/ and the moone thre tymes in the daye/ and bloude shall droppe out of wodd/ & the stone shall geue his voyce/ & a people shalbe conquered: & euen he shall rule/ whom they hope not & dwell vpon earth/ & the soules shall flye/ and the Sodomytys shall cast out bys fish/ and make a noyse in the nyght/ which many shall not knowe/ but they shall all heare the voyce therof.

There shalbe a confusyon also in many places/ and the fyre shalbe off sent agayne/ and the wyde beastes shall go thur waye/ and menstruous women shall beare monsters/ & salt waters shalbe founde in the wyte: one frende shall fight agaynst another: then shall all wyte and vnderstandyng be hyd/ and put asyde into their secreete places/ and shalbe sought of many/ and yet not be founde: then shall bntyghtuousnes and voluptuousnes haue the upper hande vpon earth. One lande also shall aske another/ and saye: Is ryghte soules gone thowow the? And it shall saye: No. At the same tyme shall men hope/ but nothyng optayne: they shall labour/ but their wayes shall not prosper.

To shewe the soche tokens/ I haue leue/ and yf thou wilt praye agayne/ and wepe as now/ and fast such dayes/ thou shalt heare yet greater thynges. Then I awaked/ and a fearfulness wente thowow all my body/ and my mynde was seble and carefull/ so that I almost so wned withall. So the aungel that was come to talke with me/ helde me/ com- forted me/ and sette me vpon my feete.

And in the seconde nyght it happened/ & Salathiel the Captayne of the people came vnto me/ sayyng: Where hast thou bene? & why is thy countenance so heuy? Knowest thou not/ that Israel is comytted vnto I/ in the lande of their captiuyte? Wap then/ & eate/ and forlake vs not/ as the shepherde that leaueth his flocke in the handes of wy- ked wolues. Then sayde I vnto hym: So thy waye fro me/ and come not nyne me: and he heard it/ and as I sayde/ so wote he his waye frome. And so I fasted seuen dayes/ mourn- yng and wepyng/ lyke as asiel the aun- gell commaunded me. And after seuen dayes it happened/ that the thoughtes of my herte were herytuous vnto me agayne/ and my soule receaued the sperte of vnderstandyng/ and I beganne to talke with the moost hiest agayne/ and sayde: O Lorde Lorde/ of eue- ry wodd of the earth & of all the trees therof/ thou hast chosen the one onely byneparde: & of all landes of the whole worlde thou hast chosen the one pyt: and of all floures of the grounde thou hast chosen the one lyte: and of all the depthes of the see thou hast fylled the one ryuer: and of all buylded cytyes thou hast halowed. Upon vnto thy selfe: and of all the soules that are created/ thou hast named the one doue: & of all the catell that are made thou hast prouided the one shepe: and amonge all the mynystrys of folches thou hast got- ten the one people/ and vnto this people wold thou loudest/ thou gauest a lawe/ that is proued of all.

And now/ O Lorde/ why hast thou geue this one people ouer vnto many? & vpon the one rote thou hast prepared other/ and why hast thou scattered thy one only people amonge many? which treade them downe/ yee which haue ruer with stande thy promyses/ & neuer beleued thy couenauntes? And though thou werest enemy vnto thy people/ yet shuldest thou pumpe them with thyne awne handes. Now when I had spoke these wordes/ & an- gell I came to me the nyght afore/ was sent vnto me/ & sayde vnto me: Heare me/ & herke to the thynges I saye/ & I shall tell I moze. And I sayde: Speake on my Lorde. Then sayde he vnto me: Thou art soze bered & trou- bled for Israels sake. Louest thou I people better then hym I made the? And I sayde: No Lorde/ but of very grete & compassyon haue I spoken. For my reynes payne me euery houre/ because I wold haue experiece of the waye of the moost hiest/ & to seke out part of his iudgement. And he sayde vnto me: I thou mayest not. And I sayde: wherfore Lorde? wher vnto was I borne then? & why was not my mothers chyldbed then my graue? So had I not seene the mysery & trouble of Jacob/ & the trauayle of my people of Israel.

And he sayd vnto me: Shompe me I thing that are not yet come: gather me together I droppes/ & are scattered abrode: make me the floures grene agayne/ & are withered: open me the thynges that is closed: and bynge me forth the wyndes/ that are shut by: Shewe me the ymage of a voyce/ & then shall I de- clare the thyng/ & thou labourst to knowe. And I sayde: O Lorde/ Lorde/ who maye knowe these thynges/ but he that hath not his dwellynge with men? As for me/ I am bute wylde: how may I then speake of these thynges wherof thou askest me? Then sayde he vnto me: lyke as thou canst do none of these thynges that I haue spoken of/ eue so canst thou not synde out my iudgement/ or in the ende the loue that I haue promysed vnto my people. And I sayde: Beholde O Lorde/ yet art thou nye vnto them that haue no ende: and what shall they do I haue bene before me/ or we that be now/ or they that shall come after vs? And he sayde vnto me: I will lychen my iud- gement vnto a ryng. Lyke as there is no blacknesse of I last/ eue so is there no swyft- nesse of the fyrst. So I answered and sayde: couldst thou not make those (I haue bene made/ & that be now/ & that are for to come) in one/ that thou myghtest shewe thy iudge- ment the sooner? Then answered he me/ and sayde: The creature maye not haue a boue I maker/ neiter maye the worlde holde the at once/ that shalbe created.

And I sayd: How hast thou sayde then vnto thy seruante/ that thou lyuyng maker hast made the creature lyuyng at once/ & the creature bare it? euen so might it now also heare them that be present/ at once. And he sayde vnto me: Aske I chyldbed of a womā/ & laye vnto her: If thou byngest forth chyld- ren/ why dost thou se not to gether/ but one after another? Praye her therfore/ to bynge forth ten chyldren at once. And I sayde: We can not/ but must do it one after another.

Then sayde he vnto me: Euen so haue I geue a chyldbed vnto the earth/ for those I be sowne vpon it by pzoceffe of tyme. For lyke as a ponge chyld may not bynge forth the thynges that belonge to the age/ euen so haue I ordered the worlde which I made.

And I asked and sayde: Seyng thou hast now geue me a waye/ I will speake before the/ for oute mother of whom thou hast tolde me/ is yet ponge/ & now she draweth nye vnto age. He answered me/ & sayde: Aske a wo- man that beareth chyld/ & she shall tell I. Saye vnto her: wherfore are not they whō thou hast now brought forth/ lyke those that were before the/ but lesse of stature? And she shall answer the: They that be borne in the youth of strength/ are of one fastyon: and they that be borne in the tyme of age (when the chyldbed fayleth) are other wyse. Consydre now thy self/ how that ye are leue of stature/ then those that were before you/ & so are they that come after you/ lesse then ye/ as I crea- tures which now begynne to be olde/ & haue passed ouer the strength of youth. Then sayd I: Lorde I beseeche the/ yf I haue founde sa- uoure in thy syght/ shewe thy seruante/ by whom dost thou byset thy creature?

The aungell answered I Eldras/ and geueth hym answere to his questions.

The. vi. Chapter.

And he sayd vnto me: In the begin- nyng when the ground was made/ before the worlde stode/ or euer the wyndes blew/ before it thondred & lychened/ or euer the foundacions of Pa- radyse were layed/ before the saye floures were sene/ or euer I moueable powers were stablyshed/ before the innumerable multi- tude of angels were gathered together/ or euer the hyghnesses of the ayre were lyfted by/ afore I measures of the tymamēt were named/ or euer the hymnyes in Sion were hote/ and or the presente years were sought out/ & or euer the inuencions of the that now synue/ were put asyde/ before they were se- led that now gather sayth for a creature: then byd I confyde & ponde for all these thynges/ & they all were made thowow me/ & thowow no- ne other: by me also they be ended/ & by none other. Then answered I a sayde: which shall be the partynge asunder of the tymes? & when shalbe the ende of the fyrst/ and the be- gynnynge gynnyng of it that foloweth: And he sayde vnto me: From Abraham vnto Isaac/when Jacob and Esau were bozne of hym/Jacob's hande helde fyrst the heile of Esau: for Esau is the ende of this worlde/and Jacob is the begynnyng of it that foloweth. The hande of man betwixte the heile and the hand. Other questyon (Eldas) aske thou not.

I answered then/ and sayde: O Lorde Lorde/ if I haue soude fauoure in thy sight/ I beseeche the/ shewe thy seruauit the ende of thy tokens/ wherof thou shewdest me part the last nyght. So he answered and sayde vnto me: Stande by vpon thy fete/ and heare the perfecte voyce and sounde. There shall come a greete mocpon/ but the place wher thou standest shall not be moued. And therfore when thou hearest the wordes/ be not afrayed: for of the ende shall the worlde and foundacyon of the earth be vnderstande. And why: the worlde therof trembleth and quake/ for it knoweth/ that it must be chaunged at the ende. And it happened/ that when I had hearde it/ I stode by vpon my fete/ and herkened: & beholde there was a voyce that spake/ & the sounde of it was lyke the sounde of many waters/ and it sayde. Beholde/ the dayes come/ that I will begynne to drawe nye/ and to byset them that dwell vpon earth/ and will begynne to make inquisicijs of the/ what they be that haue hurte equyte w b n- rightheousnes/ and when the lowe estate of Syon shall be fulfilled: and when the worlde/ that shall banysch away/ shall be ouersealed/ then will I do these tokens.

The bookes shall be opened before the firmament/ and they shall be all together/ & the chyldre of a pere olde shall speake with their voyces: the women with chyldre shall byngge forth vnto my chyldren of thye or foure monethes olde/ and they shall lyue/ & be rayled by: & sodenly shall the towne places appeare as the vncowne/ & full house houses shall so- lenly be founde emptye/ and the troper shall geue a sounde/ which when euery man heareth/ they shall be hastily afrayed. At thyme shall frenches fight one agaynst another lyke enemyes/ and the earth shall stande in feare with them.

The spynges of the welles shall stande dryll/ and in thye houses they shall not renne. Whosoever remaineth fro all these thinges that I haue tolde the/ shall escape/ and se my saluacyon/ and the ende of poure worlde. And the men that are receaued/ shall se it/ they that haue not tasted death from their byrth: and the hert of the indwellers shall be chafged/ and turned into another meanyng: for euell shall be put out/ and dycreate shall be quashed. As for sayth/ it shall flourish/ corrup-cyon shall be overcome: and the treuth/ which hath bene so longe without frute/ shall be declared/ and it happened when he talked with me/ that I looked demurely vpon him/ he fore whom I stode/ and these wordes sayde he vnto me: I am come to shewe the/ the tyme of thy nyght for to come.

If thou wilt praye yet more/ & fast seuen dayes agayne/ I shall tell the more thinges/ & greater then before: for thy voyce is hearde before the hyst: for why: the righte hath sene the righteous dealynge/ he hath sene also thy chastyte/ whych thou hast had euer sence thy youth: and therfore hath he sent me to shewe all these thynges/ and to saye vnto the: Be of good comforte/ and feare not/ and haue not wyth the tymes that are past to chyncke bayne thynges/ and make not haile of the latter tymes.

And it happened after thys. that I wepte agayne/ and fasted seuen dayes in lyke maner/ & I myght fulfill the thye weekes/ which he tolde me. In the eyght nyght was my hert beted within me agayne/ and I beganne to speake before the hyst: for my spete was greatly set on fyre/ and my soule was in dy- stress/ and I sayde: O Lorde/ thou spakest vnto thy creature from the begynnyng/ eue the fyrst daye/ and saydest: Let heauen and earth be made/ & thy worlde was a perfecte worlde. And then was there the spete/ and the darknes were yet on euery syde/ & sy- lence: there was no mans voyce as yet from the. When commaundest thou a saye lyght to come forth out of thy treasures/ that thy worlde myght appeare and be sene.

Vpon the seconde daye thou maydest the spete of the firmament/ and commaundest it to parte asunder/ & to make a deuyson betwixte the waters/ & the one parte myght remaine aboue/ and the other beneth. Vpon the thyrde daye thou broughtest to passe/ & the waters were gathered in the leueth part of the earth: Sixe partes hast thou byged by/ and kepte them/ to thyntent that men myght some and occupye husbandrye therein. As soone as thy worlde wente forth/ the worlde was made. For immediatly there was great innumerable frute/ and many dyuerse pleasures and desyres of temptacon/ floures of changeable colour & smell/ and this was done the thyrde daye.

Vpon the fourth daye thou commaundest that the Sunne shulde geue thy hyne/ & the moone her lyght: the starres dydest thou sett in ordre/ and gauest them a charge to do seruyce eue vnto man/ & was for to be made. Vpon the fyfth daye thou saydest vnto the se- uenth parte (where the waters were gathe- red) & they shuld byngge forth dyuerse beastes/

foules and fyshes. And so it came to passe/ that the donne water and wythout soule/ brought forth lypynge beastes/ at the com- maundement of God/ that all people myght prayse thy wonderous wordes. Then dydest thou preserve two soules/ & one thou caldest Enoch and the other Lemathan/ and dydest separate the one fro the other: for the leueth parte (namely/ where the water was gathe- red together) myght not holde them bothe. Vnto Enoch thou gauest one parte/ which was dyged by the thyrde daye/ that he shulde dwell in the same parte/ wherin are a thou- sande hylls. But vnto Lemathan thou gauest the seuenth parte/ namely the moyst/ & hast kepte hym to deuoure what thou wilt/ & tohan. Vpon the sixte daye thou gauest co- maundement vnto the earth/ that before the it shulde byngge forth beastes/ catell/ & all & crepe/ & (besydes this) Adam also/ whō thou made a Lorde of all thy creatures: O hym come we all/ & the people also/ whom thou hast chosen specially vnto thy selfe. All thys haue I sayde now & spokē before the/ that I myght shewe/ how that the worlde is made for oure sakes. As for the other people which also come of Adam thou hast sayd that they are nothinge/ but be lyke a spete/ & hast spe- kened the abundaunce of them vnto a droppe (that falleth) from the rose of the house.

And now/ O Lorde/ the Heathen whych haue euer bene reputed as nothinge/ haue begonne to be lordes ouer vs/ & to deuoure vs: but we thy people (whom thou hast cal- led the fyrst bozne/ thy only begotten/ & thy seruent sonne) are geue into their handes and power. If the worlde now be made for oure sakes/ why haue we not the inheritaunce in possesyon with the worlde? How longe shall this endure?

The Angel sheweth Eldas many thinges to come. The.iiij. Chapter.

And it happened after I had spokē out these wordes/ there was sent vnto me an angell/ which had bene by me also the nyghtes afore/ & he sayde vnto me: Eldas/ & heare I wordes that I am come to tell the. And I sayd: speake on Lorde my God. When sayde he vnto me: The see is set in a wyde place/ that it myght be depe & greete: but the entraunce is narrow & small lyke a ryuer. For who wolde go in to the see/ to loke vpon it/ and to rule it? If he wente not thorow the narrow/ how myght he come into the bryde?

Item another: A cyte is buylded and set vpon a bryde felde/ and is full of all goodes: the entraunce is narrow and sodane/ lyke as yf there were a fyre at the ryght hande/ and a depe water at the left/ and as it were onely one strate path betwixte them both/ so small that there coulde but one man go there.

If this cyte now were geuen to an heyre/ & he neuer wete thorow the parelous waye/ how wold he receaue his inheritaunce? And I sayde: It is so Lorde. When sayde he: Euen so is Israel also a porcyon. And why: for there sakes haue I made the worlde: & when I dā transgressed my statutes/ then was I thinge iudged that was done. When were I entraun- ces of the worlde made narrow/ full of sorow and trauayle: they are but few & euell/ full of parels and labour. For the entraunces of the fore worlde were wyde and sure/ and brought immortall frute.

If they now whych are entered into thys worlde/ maye not comprehend these straye and bayne thynges/ moch lesse maye they cō- prehende and vnderstande the secrete thinges: why disquietest thou thy selfe then/ seynge thou art but a corruptible man? And what woldest thou knowe/ where as thou art but mortall? And why hast thou not receaued in to thyne herte the thynges that is for to come/ but that is present?

When sayde I: O Lorde Lorde/ thou hast ordered in thy lawe/ & the ryghteous shulde inheret these thynges/ but that the vnfaith- full and vngodly shulde perishe. Neuerthe- lesse the righteous shall suffer straye thynges/ and hope for wyde: for they that haue lured vngodly and suffered straye thynges/ shall not se the wyde.

And he sayde vnto me: There is no iudge aboue God/ and none that hath vnderstan- dyng aboue the hyst. For there be many that perishe/ because they despyse the lawe of God that is sett before them. For God hath geue straye commaundement to loche as come/ that they knowe what they do/ & how they shulde lyue: and yf they kepe this they shulde not be punyshed.

Neuerthelesse they were not obedient vnto hym/ but spake agaynst hym: ymagined bayne thynges/ & purposed to synne/ & sayde mozeouer that there was no God/ and that God regarded it not. His wayes haue they not knowne/ bys lawe haue they despyled/ & denyed his promyses: in his statutes & ordy- naunces haue they not bene saythfull & sted- fast/ and haue not persourmed his wordes.

And therfore Eldas vnto the full/ plen- ty/ and to the emptye/ emptye. Beholde/ the tyme shall come/ that these tokens which I haue tolde the/ shall come to passe/ and the bryde shall appeare: & the earth that now pat- leth awaye/ shall be shewed: and whosoever is deliuered from the forsayde euils/ shall se my wordes. For my sonne Iesus shall be opē- ly declared/ with those that be with hym: &

Whb.iii. they

they that remaine/ shall be mercie in foure hydred peares.

after these same peares shall my sonne Christ dye/ and all men that haue lyfe/ & the woylde shall be turned in to the olde lyfe. by dayes/ lyke as in the soze iudgmēt/ so that no mā shall remaine. And after leue dayes/the woylde that yet awaketh not/ shall be ray-sed up/ and shall dye corrupte. And the earth shall restore those that haue slepte in her/ and so shall the dust those that dwell in silence/ & the secrete places shall deliuer those that be comitted vnto them. And the most myghty shall be openly declared by the seate of iudgmēt/& all myfery shall banish away/ & longe suffrynge shall be gathered together. But the iudgment shall cōtinue/ the treuth shall re-maine/ & sayth shall wate strōge/ & woche shall folow/ & the rewarde shall be shewed/the ryghteousnes shall watch/ and the vnryghteousnes shall beare no rule.

Then sayde I: Abraham prayed fyrst for the Sodomites/ & Moses for the fathers & synned in the wyldernes/ & he & came after him for Israel/ in the tyme of Ahas and Samuel: & David for the destruction/ and Salomon for them that came in to the Sactuary/ and Helias for those that receaued rayne/and for the deed/ that he myght lyue: & Ezechias for the people in the tyme of Sema-cherib: & dyuerse other in lyke maner/ which haue prayed for many.

But so now synge & corrupte is growne by/ and wychednes increased/ and the rygh-tuous haue prayed for & vngodly/ wherefore shall it not be so now also?

He answered me/ and sayde: This present woylde is not & ende/ there remaineth moche honoure in it/ therefore haue they prayed for the weakes. But the daye of dome shall be the ende of this tyme/ and the begynnyng of the immortalite for to come/ wherein all corruption banisheth/ all voluptuousnes is lowed all myghte taken awaye/ ryghteousnes growne/ and the beryte spronge by. Then shall noman be able to saue him that is destroyed/ ne to oppresse him & hath gotte the bictory. I answered then/ & sayde: This is my fyrst & last saynge: & it had bene better/ not to haue geuen the earth vnto Adam: or els when it was geuen him/ to kepe him that he shulde not synne. For what profyt is it for me now in this present tyme to lyue in heuyns/ & after death to loke for punishment? O thou Ada/ what hast thou done? For though it was thou that synned/ thou art not fallen alone/ but we all that come of the. For what profyt is it vnto vs/ yf there be promysed an immortal tyme/ where as we medle with deedly wozeches: & yf there is promysed by an euertlastyng hope/ where as we oure selues are euell & bayne: & yf there are layed by for vs dwellinges of health & fredome/ where as we haue lyued euell: and that the wozeches of the wylde is kepte to defende them/ which haue led a payent lyfe/ where as we haue walched in & most wicked wayes of all: And that there shall be shewed a paradys/ whose frute endureth for euer/ wherein is fredome and medycyne/ where as we shall not go in:

for we haue walched in vnpleasur places:
And that the faces of them which haue ab-steyned/ shall shyne about the starres/ where as oure faces shall be black and darcke: For whyle we lyued and dyd vnyghtously/ we consydered not/ that we shuld suffre therfore after death?

Then answered he me/ and sayde: This is the consyderacyon & thought of the battayls which man hath vpon earth: & yf he be ouer-come/ he shall suffre as thou hast sayde. But yf he gett the victorie/ he shall receaue the thyng that I saye. For this is the lyfe/ where of Moses spake vnto the people/ whyle he lyued/ saying: O howe the lyfe/ & thou mayest lyue. Neuertheles they beleued him not/ nether the Prophetes after hym. So ner ne which haue spoken vnto them/ that they shuld shulde not reach vnto them to their destruccyon lyke as toye is for to come ouer those/that haue suffred them selues to be enformed in saluacion.

I answered then & sayde: I knowe Lorde/that the wylde is mercifull/ in that he hath mercy vpon them/ which are not yet in the woylde/ and vpon those also that walche in his lawe/ and that he is paciet and longe suffrynge toward those that haue synned in their wozeches: and that he is lyberall to geue where as it requyeth: and that he is of great mercy/ for he multiplieth his lowynge kynd-nes toward those that are present/ & that are past/ and to them which are for to come.
For yf he multiplie not his mercies/ & woylde shall not be made lyuynge/ with those that dwell therein: He geueth also/ for yf he gaue not of his goodnesse/ that they which haue done euill/ myght be casted/ the ten thousand parte of men shuld not be made lyuynge.
And yf the iudge forgaue not those that be healed with his wordes/ and yf he woulde de-stroye the multitude that synne/ there shulde be very fewe left in an vnumerable multytude.

¶ Euen prayeth God rather to loke vpon his owne mercy then on the synners of the people.

¶ The.iiij. Chapter.

And he answered me/ saying: The most myghty made thys woylde for many/ but the woylde to come for few. I wyl tell the a sympliteude/Eldras: As when thou askest & earth/ it shall saye vnto the/ that it geueth moche moulde/where of earthen vessels are made/ but lytle of it that golde cometh of. Euen so is it with the woche of thys woylde. There be many created/ but few shall be preserued. When an swered I and sayd: When shalowe by & witt (thou soule) and deuoure the vnderstanding/for thou art agreed to herke & to geue eare/and wyllyng to prophete: for thou hast no longer space geuen the/ but only to lyue. O Lorde/ wylt thou not geue thy seruaut leue/that we maye praye before the/ & that thou mayest geue leue vnto oure herte/ & buyde oure vnderstandinge/ that there maye come frute of it: and that euery one which is corrupte/ and beareth the state & place of a mā/maye lyue?

For thou art alone/ & we all are one woche/man myghte of thy handes/ lyke as thou hast sayde/ and lyke as the body is fashioned now in the chyldbed/ and thou geueth the menbers/ and thy creature is preserued in fyre & water: & x. monethes doth thy woche suffice thy creature/ which is fashioned in her: but the thyng that pte. enet/ and it that is pteserued/ shal both be kepte together: & when tyme is/ the chyld shal deliuereth the thyng/that is kepte and growne in her.

For thou hast commaunded the brydes to geue myght vnto the frute/ that the thyng which is created and fashioned/ maye be no-rished for a tyme: and then thou bypofest & ordrest it with thy mercy/ byngest it by with thy ryghteousnes/ nurturest it in thy law/ & refournest it with thy vnderstanding/ mozt-tyfist it as thy creature/ and makest it lyuynge as thy woche. Seynge then & thou destroyst him/ which with so great labours is created and fashioned/ thou woldst thou maundement/ thou coudest lyghtly ordene/also/ that the thyng which is made/ myght be preserued.

And this I speake now of all men in generall/ as thou knowest: but of thy people/ for whose sake I am sayng: and of thy inheritaunce: for whose cause I moutne: and of Israel/for whom I am wolfull: and for Jacob/ for whose sake I am greued: therefore begynne to praye before the/ for my selfe and for the/for I se the fall of vs. euen of vs/ that dwell vpon earth. But I haue herde the swyftnes of & iudge/ which is to come: therefore heare my boyce and vnderstande my wordes/ and I shall speake before the.

¶ This is the begynnyng of the wordes of & soz/ before he was receaued: O Lorde/thou & dwellest in euertlastyngnesse/ whose eyes are lyft by in the ayre/ whose stoke is exceedyng hye/ whose gloze & maiesty maye not be comprehended/ before whiche hostis of heauen stanse with tremblinge/ whose kepyng is turned in wynde and fyre/ whose woylde is true/ whose tatchpynge is strōge/whose commaundement is strōge/ whose ordynance is fearfull/ whose loke dretch by the depthes/ whose myght maketh the most taynes to melt awaye/ & whose treuth beareth wytnes: O heare the prayer of thy seruant/ and march with thyne eares the pe-ticion of thy creature.

For whyle I lyue/ I wyl speake/ and so longe as I haue vnderstandinge/ I wyl an-swere. O loke not vpon the synnes of thy people/ which seme in the tyneth. Haue no respekte vnto the wicked audies of the heathen/ but to the dellyze of those that kepe thy testimonies with sozowes. Chynke not vpon those that haue walched synnely before the/but vpon them/ which wyl haue knowne thy seare.

Let it not be thy wyl to destroye them/which haue had beastyly maners/ but to loke vpon them that haue clearly taught thy lawe Take thou no indignacyon at them/ which are woyle then beastes/ but loue them/ that allwaye put their trust in thy ryghteousnes and gloze: for we and oure fathers haue all the same synnes and displease/ but because of oure synnes thou shalt be called mercif-full.

For yf thou hast mercy vpon vs/ thou shalt be called mercifull/ where as we haue no wozeches of ryghteousnes: for & ryghteous which haue layed by many good wozeches together/ shall out of their dedes receaue re-warde. For what is man/ that thou shuldest take displeasure at him? O what is the cor-ruptible mortall generacion/ & thou shuldest be so rough towarde him?

For of a trueth there is no man amice them that be bozne/ but he hath dealt wyledly/ and amonge the saythfull there is none/ which hath not done anyfye. For in thys (O Lorde) thy ryghteousnes and thy goodnes shall be payled and declared/ yf thou be mercifull vnto them/ which are not ryght in good wozeches.

Then answered he me and sayde: Some thyngs hast thou spoken a right/ and accor-dyng vnto thy wordes it shall be. For I wyl not berely cōfynde the wozeches of the/ which haue synned before death/ before the iudge-ment before destruction/ but I wyl remyde ouer the woche & thought of & ryghteous.
I wyl remyde also the pylgrymage/ & holy
abb. h. making

makinge and thereward. Lyke as I haue spoken now/so shall it come to passe. For as the housbande man soweth moche seds upon the grounde / and planteth many trees / and yet allwaie the thyng that is sowne or plantyd is not all kepte safe / neither doth it all take rote: euen so is it of them that are sowne in the woilde/they shall not all be preserved.

I answered then & sayde: If I haue soude grace/then let me speake. Lyke as the housbande mans lede perissheth/ye it receaue not rayne in due season/oz yf there come to moch rayne vpon it: euen so perissheth man also/whiche is created with thynges/and is lyke vnto thyne awne ymage and to thy selfe/for whosle sake thou hast made all thynges/and lyckened hym vnto thy housbande mans lede. We not woth at vs/ O Loyde/but spare thy people / and haue mercy vpon thyne awne inheritaunce: O be mercifull vnto thy creature.

Then answered he me & sayde: Thynges present are for the present/a thyng to come for soch as be to come. For thou wantest yet moch/seyng thou mayest loue my creature aboue me: I haue oft times byawne nye vnto the/but neuer to the vnryghteous. In this also thou art maruelous before the Hye/In I thou hast humbled thy selfe / as it becometh the/and hast not regarded thyne awne selfe/I thou art had in soch honoure amonge the ryghteous. Therefore shall great wechidnes and mysery come vpon them/that in the latter tyme shall dwell in the woilde/for they haue walched in greates pyde.

But vnderstand thou for thy selfe / & seke out glozy for soch as be like the: for vnto you is paradyse opened/the tre of lyfe is plantyd/the tyme to come is prepared/plenteousnes made ready: a cytie is buylded for you/and a rest is prepared / yee perfecte goodnes and wysdome. The rote of euell is marched from you/the weakness and moche is byd fro you/ & in to hell speth corrupcion in forgetfulness. Shozowes are banysht awayd/ & in the ende is shewed the treasure of immortallite. And therefore aske thou nomoze questions/corruptyng the multitude of them that perishe. For they haue taken lybertie / despyled the Hye/ thought scozne of his lawe/ & forsaide his wayes.

Whozowr/they haue troden downe hys ryghteous/ & sayde in their herte/that there is no God / yee and that wyttynly/ for they dye. For lyke as the thyng that I haue spoken of/is made ready for you: euen so is thyrst and payne prepared for them. For it was not hys will that man shulde come to naught: but they which be created haue despyled the name of hym that made them/ and are vnto schall vnto hym/whiche prepared lyfe for them. And therefore is my iudgmet now at hand. These thynges haue I not shewed vnto all men/ but vnto fewe: namely vnto the / and to soch as be lyke the.

Then answered I and sayde: Beholde O Loyde/now hast thou shewed me the multitude of the tokens/whiche thou wilt begynne to do at the last but at what tyme and when thou hast not shewed me.

Edras hath bypore shewed vnto hym.

The.iiij. Chapter.

I answered me then & sayde: Treasure thou the tyme diligently in it selfe/whiche thou seyst that one parte of the tokens come to passe/whiche I haue tolde the before: so shalt thou vnderstande/that it is the very same tyme/wherin the Hye will begynne to vset the woilde/whiche he made. And when there shall be sene earthquake and vproare of the people in the woilde/then shalt thou well vnderstande/ & the most Hye spake of those thynges/ from the dayes that were before the/ euen fro the begynnyng.

For lyke as all that is made in the woilde/hath a begynnyng and end/ and the ende is manifest: euen so the tymes also of the Hye haue playne begynnynges in wounders and sygnes/and the ende in woichyng and in tokens. And euery one that shall be laud/and shall be able to escape by hys woiches and by sayth / wherin ye haue beleued / shall be preserved from the sayde perils/and shall see my sauoure in my lande and within my borders/for I haue halowed me from the woilde. Then shall they be in carefulnesse / whych now haue abused my wayes: and they I haue cast them oute despytfully / shall dwell in paynes.

For soch as in their lyfe haue receaued benefytes/and haue not knowen me/and they that haue abhoyred my lawe / whyle they had yett freedom/ and whiche they had yett open roome of amendement and conuersyon/ & vnderstode not/but despyled it: I same must knowe it after death in payne. And therefore be thou nomoze carefull / howe the bngodly shall be punished/ & howe the ryghteous shall be laud/and whose the woilde is/ & for I haue tolde the woilde/and when it is. Then answered I and sayde: I haue talched before and now I speake/ and wyll speake also hereafter / that there be many moos of them whych perissh/ then shall be laud/ lyke as I haue tolde is greater then the droppe.

And he answered me/sayinge: lyke as the felde is/so is also the seide: as the floures be/so are the colours also: soch as the woichman is/soch is also the woiche: and as the housband man is him selfe/so is his housband/ye also/for it was the tyme of the woilde. And when I prepared for the I are now / oz eler the woilde was made / where in they shulde dwell/then was there no man that wythstode me. Now when euery one was / and the flouer also in the woilde which is now prepared/ & the moneth that ceaseth not / and the lawe which is vnsearchable/their maners were corrupte. So I corruped the woilde/ and beholde/there was perill/ because of the thoughtes I were come in to it. And I saw/ and spared them greatly/and haue kepte me a wynebery of the grapes/and a plante fro amonge many generacions. Let the multitude perissh then / whych are growne by my wayne / and let my grape and wynebery be kepte: euen my plante/for with greates labour haue I made it by.

Nevertheless yf thou wilt take by the yett true dayes mo(but thou shalt not fast in the) goothy waye then in to the felde of floures/where no house is buylded / and eate onely of the floures of the felde/tafte not flesh/dryncke no wyne/ but eate floures onely. I praye vnto the Hye continually/so wyll I come/ and talke with the.

So I went my waye and came in to the felde which is called Ardath/like as he commaunded me/ & there I sat amonge the floures/and ate of the herbes of the felde/ & I meate of the same satisfied me. After seuen dayes I sat vpon the grasse / & my herte was berch within me lyke as afore: and I opened my mouth/ & began to talke before the Hye/ and sayde: O Loyd/thou I shewest thy selfe vnto vs / thou hast declared and opened thy selfe vnto oure fathers in the wyldernes/ in a place where no man dwelleth / in a barren place/when they came out of Egypt/ & thou spakest/sayinge: Heare me O Israel/ and marke my woiches thou seide of Jacob. Beholde / I sawe my lawe in you / and it shall bytunge frute in you/ & ye shall be honoured in it for ever. For oure fathers which receaued the lawe/kept it not/and obserued not the ordinaunces and statutes/and the frute of the lawe was not declared: for it myght not/for whyt it was thine. For they that receaued it/perisshed/because they kepte not the thyng that was sowne in them.

It is a custome when the grounde receaueth seide / oz I see a chipp/oz a besell meate and dryncke/that whiche it perissheth oz is broken wherin a thyng is sowne/oz wherin any thyng is put: the thynges also perissh & are broken/whiche are sowne oz put therein. But vnto vs it hath not happened so: for we that haue receaued the lawe/perissh in tyme/and oure herte which also receaued the lawe: not withstandyng the lawe perissheth not / but remayneth in his labour.

And when I corruped these thynges in my herte after this maner / I looked aboute me with myne eyes/ and vpon the ryght syde I sawe a woman/whiche mourned soze/made greates lamentacion / and wepte wyth loude boyccther clothes were rent in peces/and she had aspres vpon her heade.

Then let I my thoughtes go / & I was in / & turned me vnto her/ & sayde: wherfore wepest thou/why art thou so soze & discomfited? And she sayde vnto me: Sye/lett me bewaile my selfe & take yett moze sorowe: for I am soze bered in my nynde / & brought very lowe. And I sayde vnto her: what ayleth the? O I haue done any thyng to the? tell me. She sayde: I haue bene vnfrutefull and barren/and haue had an housband thirtie yeres. And these xxx yeres I do nothinge els daye & nyght and all houres/ but make my prayer to the Hye. After thirtie yeres God herde me thy handmayden / looked byd my mysery/ corruped my trouble/and gaue me a sonne/ and I was glad of hym/so was my housband also & all my neyghbours/ & we gaue greates honoure vnto the Hye. And I noyshed him with great trauagile. So whiche he grew vpon/and came to the tyme/that he shulde haue a wyfe/ I made a fealt.

Edras & the woman that appereth vnto him & men together.

The.v. Chapter.

As it happened I when my sonne wente in to hys chamber / he fell downe/and dyed: then ouerthrew we all the lightes/ & all my neyghbours rose by to comforte me. Then toke I my rest vnto the seconde daye at nyght: and when they had all rested/that they myght comforte me/ I rested also/and rose by by nyght/and fled/and am come hither in to this felde/ as thou seist: & am purposed not to come in the cytie/ but to remayne here/ and nether to eate ner dryncke/ but continually to mourne and to fast/ vntill I dye.

Then let I my meditacions & thoughtes fall/ that I was in / and spake to her in displeasure: Thou foolysh woman / seyst thou not oure heynnes and mourning/ and what happeneth vnto vs/ howe shon oure mother is all wofull and soze/ and howe she is cleane brought downe and in mysery: seyng we be all now in heynnes / and make oure mone (for we be all sorowfull.) As for the heynnes that thou takest/ it is but for one sonne. Demaunde the earth / and she shall tell the/ & it is she which ought (by reason) to mourne/for the fall of so many that growe vpon her.

Who shalbe then (by reason) make more mournynge / then he / that hath lost so great a multitude: and not thou / whych art soz by but for one. But if thou woldest saye unto me: My mournynge is not lyke the mournynge of the earth / for I haue lost the frute of my body / which I bare with heuynes: but the earth is accordynge to the manner of the earth / & the present multitude goeth agayne in to her / as it is come to passe: Then saye I unto the: lyke as thou hast bozned with traualle a sozowe / eue so the earth also fro the begynnyng geueth her frute vnto man / for him that made her. And therfore / (holde thy sozowe and heuynes by thy selfe / and loke what happeneth vnto the / be are it strongly. For if thou iudgest the march & ende of God to be ryghtuous and good / and receauest his counsell in tyme / thou shalt be commended therein. So thy waye then in to the cytye to thy housbande.

And the sayde vnto me: that wyl I not do / I wyl not go in to the cytye / but heare wyl I dre. So I commended more with her / and sayde: Do not so / but be counseled / & solow me: for how many fallies hath Sion? We of good comforte because of the sozowe of Jerusalem. For thou seest that our Sanctuary is layed waste / oure altier broken / oure temple destroyed / oure playnynge of instrumentes & syngynge layed downe / the thankesgeuynge put to silence / our myght is banished away / the lycht of oure candlestyk is quenched / the arche of the couenaunt is taken from vs / all oure holy thynges are defyled / and the name that is called vpon ouer vs / is dishonoured: oure chyldren are put to shame / oure prestes are bzene / oure Leuites are caried awaye in to captiuyte / oure virgins are defyled / and oure wyues rauyned / oure ryghtuous men spoyled / and oure chyldren destroyed / oure yonge men are brought in bondage / and oure stronge woorthies are become weake: and Sion (whyche seale is the greatest of all) is lowed by from her woorthippe: for she is deliuered in to the handes of them that hate vs.

And therfore shalke of thy great heuynes / and put awaye the multitude of sozowes: & the whyghtie maye be mercifull vnto the / and that the whyght maye geue the rest from thy labour and traualle. And it happened / that when I was talkynge with her / her face dyd myne and glyster / so that I was afrayed of her / and mused what it myght be. And immediately she cast out a grete voyce / very fearfull / so that the earth shok at the noyse of the woman: and I lohed / and beholde / the woman appeared vnto me nomoze: but there was a cytye buylded / & a place was shewed from the grounde and foundation.

Then was I afrayed / & cryed with loud voice / and sayde: where is azriel the angell / which came to me at the fyrst: for he hath caused me to come in many conspurations & by thoughts / and myne ende is turned to corrupcion / and my prayer to rebuke. And as I was speakynge these wordes / he came vnto me / & lohed vpon me / and I layd as one that had bene ded / and myne vnderstanding was altered / & he toke me by the ryght hede / and comforted me / & set me vpon my fete / and sayde vnto me: what ayleth the? and why is thyne vnderstanding bereft? & the vnderstandinge of thy herte / & wherfore art thou soz? And I sayd: Because thou hast forsaken me: and I haue done accordynge vnto thy wordes / I wente in to the felde / and there haue I sene thynges / & I am not able to expresse. He sayde vnto me: Stande vp and be manly / and I shall geue the explication.

Then sayd I: Speake on to me my Lord / forsake me not / lest I dye in bayne: for I haue sene that I knewe not / & herde that I do not knowe. O I shall my vnderstandinge be disceined / and my mynde: But now I be seche the / that thou wylt shewe the seruante of this woode. He answered me then & sayde: heare me / and I shall enforme the / & tell the wherfore thou art afrayed / for I wylt haue opened many secreete thynges vnto the.

He hath sene that thy waye is ryght / and that thou takest sozowe continually for thy people / and makest grete lamentacyon for Sion: and therfore vnderstande the byspon which thou sawest a lytle while agoe after this maner: Thou sawest a woman mournynge / and thou hast comforted her: neuertheless now seest thou the lykenes of the woman nomoze / but thou thoughtest there was a cytye buylded: and lyke as she tolde the of the fall of her sonne / so is this the answer: & he woman whiche thou sawest / is Sion: & where as she tolde the / that she hath bene thyrtye years vnfructfull and barren / those are the xxx. years / wherem there was no offerynge made in her.

But after xxx. years Salom buylded her / & offred / and then bare the bare a sonne. And where as she tolde the / that she nozzyed him with labour / that was the dwellynge of Jerusalem. But where as she sonne dyed in her chamber / & is the fall of Jerusalem. And thou sawest her lykenesse / how she mourned for her sonne: what els happened vnto her / I haue shewed the. And now God seyth / that thou art thou art soz in thy mynde / & suffrest fro thy herte for her / and so hath he shewed the her cleamelle / and the faynes of her bewtye.

And therfore I had the remayne in the felde / where no house is buylded. For I knew that the whyght wolde shewe this vnto the / therfore I commaunded the to goo in to the felde / where no foundacyon ner buyldynge is. For in the place where the whyght wylt shewe bys cytye / there shall be no mans buyldynge. And therfore feare not / and let not thyne herte be afrayed / but go thy waye in / and se the glorious and sayde buyldynge / and how grete it is / and how grete thou thynekest it after the measure of thyne eyes / & then shalt thou heare as moche as thine eares maye comprehend / for thou art blessed aboue many other / and art called with the whyght / as I few. But tomozow at nyght thou shalt remayne here / & so shall the whyght shewe the byspons of hye thynges / which he wylt do vnto them / that dwell vpon earth in the last dayes. So I slepte the same nyght lyke as he comaunded me.

In this Chapter and in the. 6. next ensynge / he encreaseth of certen byspons and of the interpretacons thereof.

The. xi. Chapter.

Then sawe I a dreame: and beholde / there cam by fro the see an Aegle / which had. xij. wynges / & thre heades: And I sawe / and beholde / he spred his wynges ouer all the earth / and all the wyndes of the ayre blew in them / and so they were put together agayne. And I behelde / & out of his fethers there grew other lytle contrary fethers: the heades rested / the head in the wyndes was greater then the other / yet rested it with the residue.

Wherfore I sawe / that the Aegle stode vpon his wynges / and rayned vpon earth / & ouer all the that dwell vpon the earth: and I sawe that all thynges vnder heauen were subiecte vnto him / & no man spake agaynst him / no not one creature vpon earth. I sawe also that the Aegle stode vpon his clawes / & gaue a sounde with his fethers / and a voyce sayynge after this maner: watch not all together / slepe every man in his awne place / & watch for a tyme / but let the heades be preserued at the last. Neuertheless I sawe / that the voyce wente not out of his heades / but from the myddest of his body. And I nombred his contrary fethers / & beholde / there were eight of them. And I lohed / & beholde vpon the ryght syde there arose one fether / & rayned ouer all the earth. And it happened / that when it rayned / the ende of it came / and the place thereof appeared no more. So I nexte folowynge stode vpon / & rayned / & had a grete tyme: and it happened / that when it rayned / the ende of it came also / lyke as the fyrst / so that it appeared nomoze.

Then came there a voyce vnto the / & sayde: Heare thou / & haue kepte in the earth so longe / this I saye vnto the / before thou begynne to appeare nomoze: where shall none after the attayne vnto thy tyme. Then arose the thrid / & rayned as the other afore / & appeared nomoze also. So went it vnto all the residue one after another / so that every one rayned / & then appeared nomoze. Then I lohed / & beholde / in processe of tyme the fethers that folowed were set vpon the ryght syde / & the myght rule also: & some of the ruled / but within a while they appeared nomoze: for some of the were set vpon / but ruled not. After this I lohed / and beholde the. xij. fethers appeared nomoze / & the two wynges: & there was nomoze vpon the Aegles body / but two heades rested / & a fyre fether. Then sawe I also / & the fyre fethers were parted in two / & remayned vnder the head / & was vpon the right syde / for the fyre continued in their place. So I lohed / & beholde / they were vnder the two wynges / thought to set vpon the selues / & to haue the rule. Then was there one set vpon / but shortly it appeared nomoze / & the seconde was sooner awaye then the first. And I behelde / & lo / the two thought also by them selues to rayne: & when they so thought / beholde / there waked one of the heades / & were at rest / namely / it that was in the myddest / for it was the greater of the two heades. And then I sawe / that the two heades were felled with him / & the head was turned with them that were by him / and ate by the two vnder wynges / that wolde haue rayned.

But this head put the whole earth in feare / & bare rule in it / ouer all those that dwell vpon earth / vpon moche labour / & he had the gouernance of the world / ouer all the foules that haue bene. After this I lohed / & beholde / the head that was in the myddest / suddenly appeared nomoze / lyke as the two wynges: then came the two heades / which ruled vpon earth / & ouer those that dwell therein. And I behelde / & lo / the head vpon the ryght syde / deuoured it that was vpon the left syde. And I herde a voyce / which sayde vnto me: loke before the / & conspyde the thyng that thou seest. Then I sawe / & beholde / as it were a lyon that roareth / remynge hastily out of the mod / & he sent out a myghty voyce vnto the Aegle / & sayde: Heare thou / I wylt talke with the / & I wylt shall saye vnto the: Is it not thou / that hast the victory of the foure beastes / whiche I made to rayne vpon earth and in myr woode / & that the ende of their tymes might come tomozow the?

And the fourth came / and overmanne all the beastes that were past / and had power ouer the world with grete fearfulness / and ouer ouer the whole cōpasse of the earth with the most wicked labour / & so longe tyme dwelt he upon the earth with disceate / & the earth had thou iudged not with tructh. For thou hast troubled the meke / thou hast hurte the peaceable & quete / thou hast lured lper / and destroyed the dwellinges of them that brought forth frute / and hast cast downe the walles of such as dyd the no harme. Therefore is thy wjongeous dealing and blasphemye come bp vnto the Hye / and thy pyde vnto the Wyghte. The Hye also hath looked bp the proude tymes / and beholde / they are ended / and therabhomynacions are fulfilled. And therfore appeare no more thou Regie / and thy horrible winges / and thy wyched feathers / and thy vngreacious heades / and thy synfull clawes / and all thy bayne body: that the earth maye be refreWed / & come agayne to her self / whan she is deliuered fro thy violence / and that we maye hope for the iudgement and mercy of hym that made her.

The.iii. Chapter.

And it happened when I spake these wordes vnto the Regie / I sawe / & beholde / the head that afore had the byperhand / appeared nomore: nether dyd the soure wynges appeare any more / & came to him / & were let bp to raighe: and their kyngdome was small & full of bproute. And I sawe / & beholde / they appeared nomore / and the whole body of the Regie was bzent / & the earth was in greate feare. Then awakes I out of the traunce of my mynde / & from greate feare / & sayde vnto my spete: Lo / this hast thou geuen me / in that thou searchest out the wayes of the Hye: lo / yet am I weery in my mynde / & very weake in my spete / & lytle strength is there in me / for the greate feare that receaued this night. Therefore will I now beseeche the Hye / that he wyl comferte me vnto the ende: & I sayd / Lo / de / Lo / de / ye / I haue founde grace before thy sight / & ye / I am iustified with the beseechinge of many other / & yf my prayer be come bp before thy face / comferte me then / & shewe me thy seruante the interpretacyon & playne difference of this horrible sight / & thou mayest perfectly cōferte my soule: for thou hast iudged me worthy / to shew me the last of tymes.

And he sayde vnto me: this is the interpretacyon of this syght. The Regie whome thou sawest come bp fro the see / is the kyngdome which was sene in the byspon of thy brother Daniel / but it was not expounded vnto him / for now I declare it vnto the. Beholde / the dayes come / that there shall ryle bp a kyngdome vpon earth / & it shall be feared aboue all the kyngdomes that were before it. In the same kyngdome shall. xij. kynges raigne /

one after another. For the seconde shall begynne to raigne / and shall haue moze tyme then the other / & this do the. xij. wynges signifye / which thou sawest. As for the wynges I spake / & thou sawest go out fro the heades but not fro the body / it betokeneth / that after the tyme of that kyngdome there shall aryse greate dryynges / & it shall stande in pavel of falling: neuertheles it shall not yet fall / but shall be set in to his beginninge. And the eight vnderwynges whych thou sawest hange vnto the wynges of him / betokene / that in hym there shall aryse eyght kynges / whose tyme shall be but small / & their yeares swete / & two of the shall beate. But when the myrdest tyme cometh / there shall be soute kepte in the tyme / when his tyme begynneth to come / that it maye be ended / but two shall be kepte vnto the ende.

And where as thou sawest the heades re-kyng / this is the interpretacyon: In his last shall the Hye ryle bp the kyngdomes / & call many agayne into the / & they shall haue the domynyon of the earth / and of those that dwell therein / & much labour aboue all those that were before the. Therefore are they called heades of the Regie: for it is they that shall byngne forth hys wychednes agayne / and that shall persourme & synnys hys last. And where as thou sawest / that the greate head appeared nomore / it signyfeth / that one of them shall dye vpon his bed / & yet with payne / for the two that remaine / shall be slayne with the swerde. For the swerde of the one shall deuoure the other / but at the last shall he fall thowto the swerde hym selfe.

And where as thou sawest two vnderwynges bp the head that is on the ryght syde / it signyfeth that it is they / whome the Hye hath kepte vnto their ende: this is a small kyngdome / & full of trouble. The I. yon whō thou sawest rylinge bp out of the wodde / and roarynge / & speakyng vnto the Regie / and rebukynge hym for his vnrighthousnesse / is the wynde / whych the Hye hath kepte for them / & for their wychednesse vnto the ende: he shall repone them / & rente them asunder before them. For he shall let them lpyng before the iudgement / & shall rebuke them for the respyde of my people shall be deliuered to trouble / those that be persured ouer myne endes: and he shall make them sorrowfull vntill the commynge of the daye of iudgement / where of I haue spoken vnto the fro the beginninge. This is the dreame that thou sawest / & this is the interpretacyon. Thou only hast bene mete to knowe the secretes of the Hye.

Therefore wylte all these thynges that thou hast sene in a boke / and hyde them / and teach the the wyse in the people / whose hertes thou knowest knowest maye cōprehende and kepe these secretes. But wylte thou here thy selfe yet seuen dayes moo / that it maye be shewed the / whatsoeuer it pleaseth the Hye to declare vnto the / and with that he went his waye.

And whē all the people perceaued / & the seuen dayes were past / & I not come agayne in to the cytie / they gathered them all together fro the least vnto the most / & came vnto me / and sayde: what haue we offended the? and what euell haue we done agaynst the? & thou forsahest vs / & lytest here in this place: for of all people thou only art left vs / as a grape of the vyne / and as a candell in a darcke place / and as an haire & wyppye perserued from the pest. Haue we not els aduersite ynough / but thou must forsake vs: where it not better for vs / that we had bene bzē with Sion? For we are no better / then they that dyed there: and they wepte with loude voyce. Then answered I the & sayde: Be of good cōferte O Israel / & be not heuy thou house of Jacob: for the Hye hath you in remembrance / & the Wyghte hath not forgotten you in temptation. As for me / I haue not forsake you / neither am I departed from you: but am come in to this place to praye / because of the mystery of Israel / that I myght seke mercy for the lowe estate of youre Sanctuary. And now go youre waye home euery mā / & after these dayes wyl I come vnto you. So the people went their waye in to the cytie / lyke as I cōmaunded them: but I remayned still in the selde seuen dayes / as the Angell bad me: and I ate onely of the floures of the selde / & had my meate of the herbes in those dayes.

The.iiii. Chapter.

And it happened after the seuen dayes / that I dreamed a dreame by night. And beholde / there arose a wynde from the see / that it moued all the floures therof. And I lohed / and beholde / the mā was strōge & increased with the cloudes of beaute: & when he turned his countenance to consyder / all the thynges trembled & were sene vnder him: and when the voyce went out of his mouth / all they bzēnt that herde hym / lyke as the earth when it feleth the syze.

After these I sawe / & beholde / there was gathered together a multitude of men out of nombze from the soute wyndes of the beaute / to syghte agaynst the man / that came oute from the see. And I lohed / and beholde / he graued hym selfe a greate mountayne / and flew bp vpon it. But I wolde haue sene the border of place / wherout the hyl was grauen / and I coude not.

I sawe after these / & all they which came to syghte agaynst hym / were soze astrayed / & yet durst they syght. Neuertheles when he sawe the fearfulness & violence of the people / he nether lyft bp his hande ner helde swerde / ner any weape: but onely (as I sawe) he sent out of his mouth as it had bene a blast of syze / and out of his lyppes the wynde of the flame: and out of his tonge he cast out sparkes and stozmes / and they were all myrte together: the blast of syze / the wynde of the flames / and the greate stozme / and fell with a myrthe vpon the people / which was prepared to fight and bzēnt them by euerychone: so that of the innumerable multitude there was nothinge sene / but onely dust and smoke. When I saw this / I was astrayed.

Afterwarde sawe I the same man come downe from the mountayne / and calling vnto him another peaceable people: and there came moche people vnto him: some were glad some were soze / some of them were bounde / so that they were caried & brought forth.

Then was I syck thowto greate feare / & I awaked / and sayde: thou hast shewed thy seruante all thy wordes fro the beginninge / & hast counted me worthy / & thou myghtest receaue my prayer: shewe me now yet the interpretation of this dreame. For thus I cōfyde in my vnderstandyng: wdo vnto them that shall be left in those dayes: & moche moze / wdo vnto the that are not left behynde: for they that were not left / were in heuynes.

Now vnderstande I the thynges that are layed bp in the latter dayes / which shall happen vnto them / and to those that are not left behynde. Therefore are they come in to great pavelles / and many necessities / lyke as these dreames declare. Yet is it easier / & he which suffreth hurte / come in these / then to passe awaye as a cloude out of the wynde / and now to se the thynges that shall happen in the last.

Then answered he me / and sayde: the interpretation of the syght shall I shewe the / and I wyl open vnto the / the thynges that thou hast requyred. For thou hast spoken of them that are left behynde / and this is the interpretation. He that taketh awaye the pavel in that tyme / hath kepte hym selfe. They that be fallen in to harme / are such as haue woznes & sayth vnto the Most myghtie. Knowe this therefore / that they which be left behynde / are moze blessed / then they that be deed. This is the meanynge of the byspon. Where as thou sawest a man commynge bp from the depe of the see / the same is he whome God the Hye hath kepte a greate season / which by his awne selfe shall deliuer his creature / & he shall ordeyne the that are left behynde. And where as thou sawest / & out of hys mouth there came a blast of wynde / syze & stozme / & how that he lyfthp nether fwerde nor wea-pen/ but the rufynge in of hym destroyed the whole multitude/ & came to fight agaynft him: it fignyfeth/ that the dayes come/ when God will deliuer the that are vpon earth/ & in a traide of mynde shall he come vnto the/dwelling in earth. And one shall undertake to fight agaynft another/ one cite agaynft another/ one place agaynft another/ one people agaynft another/ & one realme agaynft another. When this cometh to paffe/ then shall the tokens come/ that I thewed the before: & then shall my sonne be declared/ who thou sawest clymme vp as a man. And when all the people heare his voyce every man shall in their awne lande leaue the battayle & they haue one againft another/ & an innumerable multitude shall be gathered together/ as they that be willinge to come & fo ouercome him by fightinge. But he shall stande vpon the toppe of the mount Sion. Neuertheleffe Sion shall come/ & shall be fowed/ beinge prepared & buyden for all men/ lyke as thou sawest the hill graue forth without any han-des. But my sonne shall rebuke the people & are come for their wyckednes/ with the tempest/ and for their euill ymagynacions: and their paynes wherwith they shall be punished/ are lykened vnto the flammes: and with out any labour/ shall he destroye them/ euen by the lawe/ which is cōpared vnto the fyre.

And where as thou sawest/ that he gathered another peaceable people vnto hi: those are the ten tribes/ which were caried awaye prisoners out of their awne lande/ in the tyme of Oleeas the kynge/ whom Salmanaſar the kynge of Aſſyria toke prisoner/ & caried them ouer the water/ and so came they into another lande.

But they gaue them this counsell/ & they shulde leaue the multitude of the heathen/ & to go forth into a farther countrie/ where neuer man kynde dwelt: that they myght there hepe their statutes/ which they neuer kepte in their awne lande. And so they entred in at the narrow passages of the water of Euphrates/ and God shewed tokens for them/ & helde still the floude tyll they were passed ouer: for thorow the countrie there was a greate waye/namely of a yere and a halfe iourney/ for the same region is called Aſareth. And when they came forth vnto the latter tyme: & when they came forth agayne/ the Hyeſt shall holde ſtyl the ſpynges of the ſtreame/ agaynſt the people may go thorow/ therfore ſawest thou the multitude with peace. And they that be left behynde of thy people/ are those that be founde with in my bozde. Now when he destroyeth the multitude that is gathered together/ he shall defende his people that remaine/ and then shall he shew them greates wonders.

Then sayde I: O Lorde Lorde/ shewe me this/ therfore haue I ſene the man com-ming by fro the depe of the ſee: And he sayde vnto me: Like as thou canſt neither ſee out nor knowe these thinges that are in the depe of the ſee/ euē to mayeſt thou knowe my ſonne/or those that be with him/ but in the tyme of the daye. This is the interpretation of the dreame which thou sawest/ therfore thou only art here lyghened: for thou haſt ſo taken thyne awne lawe/ & applyed thy diligence vnto to myne/ & ſought it. Thy lyfe haſt thou o-bzed in wiſdome/ & haſt called vnderſtanding thy mother/ & therfore haue I thewed the treasure of the Hyeſt. After the dayes I will shew the moze/ & talke to the at moze large/pre heuy and wonderous thinges will I declare vnto the.

Then went I forth into the ſeide/ geuyng praye & thankes greatly vnto God/ because of his wonders which he dyd in tyme/ and because he gouerneth the ſame/ and ſoche as is in tyme/ and there I ſatt the dayes.

God appeareth vnto Eſdras in the buſh/ & he weith hym what he ſhall do.

The.iiij. Chapter.

Non the thyrdaye I ſat vnder an oake tree/ then came there a boyce vnto me out of the buſh/ & sayde: Eſdras/ Eſdras: And I sayde here am I Lorde/ & ſode by vpon my ſete. Then ſpake he vnto me: In the buſh dyd I appeare vnto Moſes/ and talked with him/ when my people ſerued in Egypte/ & I ſent hym/ & led my people out of Egypte/ & brought hym vnto the mount Sion/ where I helde hym by me a longe ſeaſon/ & ſolde hym my wonderous wozkes/ and ſhewed hym the ſecretes of the tymes & the ende/ & cōmaunded hym ſaying: Theſe woordes ſhalt thou declare/ & not hyde
the. And now I ſay vnto the/ & thou ſaye by in thyne heart/ that thou haſt ſene/ and the interpretacions which I haue ſhewed the: for thou ſhalt be receaued of all/ thou ſhalt be turned a remayne with my counſell/ & with ſoch as be lyke the/ vntill the tymes be ended.
For the woꝛlde hath loſt his yowth/ and the tymes begynne to wate olde. For the tyme is deuyded into twelue partes/ and ten partes of it are gone all ready/ and half of the tenth partte: yet remaineth there that/ which is after the half of the tenth partte.

Therfore prepare & orde thy houle/ and reſourne thy people/ cōſort ſoch of them as be in trouble: and tell now of the deſtruccion/ let go from the mortall thoughtes/ caſt awaye the burthen of man/ put of the weake nature/ laye by in ſonie places the thoughtes that are moſt heuy vnto the/ and haſte the to lye

lye fro theſe tymes: for ſoch euell & wycked-neſſe as thou haſt now ſene happē/ that they doe peremoch woꝛſe. For the weaker that the woꝛlde and the tyme is/ the moze ſhall ſynne & wyckedneſſe increaſe/ in the that dwell vpon earth. For the crueltie is ſed farre awaye/ & leſynge is hard at hande. For now haſteth the biſſon to come/ that thou haſt ſene.

Then answered I & ſayde: Beholde Lorde/I will go as thou haſt cōmaunded me/ and reſourne the people which are preſent. But they ſhall be bozne afterwarde/ who will exhorte or rebuke them: Thus the woꝛlde is ſet in darcknes/ & they that dwell therein/ are without lyght: for the lawe is kynbled/ because no man knoweth the thinges that are done of the/ or ſhall be done. If I haue ſoche grace befoze the/ ſende the holy goost in to me/and I ſhall wyte all that hath bene done in the woꝛlde ſens the begynnyng. Which was wyttē in the lawe/ that men maye ſynde the path/ and that they which will lyue in the latter dayes/ maye lyue.

And he answered me/ ſayig: Go thy waye/gather thy people together/ & ſaye vnto the/that they ſeke the not for .xl. dayes. But loke thou gather the many bore trees/ & take to the Sata/ Wabſia/ Seleſia/ Chanus & Aſſal/ theſe ſpue/ which are ready to wyte ſecretly/ and come hither/ and I ſhall lyght a candle of vnderſtanding in thine heart/ which ſhall not be put out/ tyll the thinges be perſourmed which thou ſhalt begynne to wyte.
And then ſhalt thou declare ſome thinges openly vnto the perfecte/ & ſome thinges ſhalt thou ſhew ſecretly vnto the wyſe. To moꝛow this houre ſhalt thou begynne to wyte.

Then wente I forth/ as he cōmaunded me/and gathered all the people together/ & ſayde: Heare theſe woordes O Iſrael: Oure fathers from the begynnyng were ſtraunges in Egypte/ from whence they were deliuered/ & receaued the lawe of Iſe/ which they kepte not/ which ye alſo haue tranſgreſſed after the.
Then was this lande and the lande of Sion parted amonge you by lot to poſſeſſe. But your fathers & ye your ſelues alſo haue done vnyghtiſounes/ & haue not kepte the wayes which the Hyeſt cōmaunded you. And ſo ſo moch as he is a righteous iudge/ he toke fro you in tyme the thinge that he had geuen you.
And now are ye here & poure byethē amonge you. Therfore ye ſo be ye ye will ſubdue your awne vnderſtanding/ and reſourne your herte/ ye ſhall be kepte alſo/ & after death ſhall ye opteyne mercy. For after death ſhall the iudgmet come/ where we ſhall lyue agayne: and then ſhall the names of the righteous be maniſt/ and the names of the vngodly with their woꝛkes ſhall be declared. Let no man therfore come now vnto me/ ner aſke any queſtion at me theſe .xl. dayes.

So I toke the ſpue men/ as he cōmaunded me/ and we wente in to the ſeide/ and remayned there. The next daye a boyce called me ſaying: Eſdras/ open thy mouth/ & ſynce he ſhall geue the. Then opened I my mouth/& behold/ he reached me a full cuppe/ which was full a water/ but the colour of it was lyke fyre. And I toke it/ & dranke. And when I had dronke it/ my hert had vnderſtanding/& wyſdome grewe in my bzeſt: for my ſpꝛete was kepte in remembraunce/ and my mouth was opened & ſut nomoze. The Hyeſt gaue vnderſtanding vnto the ſpue men/ that they wrote the hye thinges of the nyght/ which they vnderſtoode not. But in the nyght they abzed/ as for me/ I ſpake in the daye/ & hyde not my tonge by nyght. In .xl. dayes/ they wrote two hundred and ſoure booke.

And it happened when the .xl. dayes were fulfylled/ that the Hyeſt ſpake/ ſaying: The ſtꝛit that thou haſt wyttē/ ſpake openly/ & the woꝛthy and vnywoꝛthy maye rede it. But kepe the .lxx. laſt/ & thou mayeſt ſhew it one-ly to ſoch as be wyſe amonge thy people/ for in them is the ſpyng of vnderſtanding/ the fountayne of wyſdome/ and the ſtreame of knowledge. And I dyd ſo.

The punyſhment that euill people ſhall haue/ which God cōmaunded Eſdras to ſhew vnto the.

The.xv. Chapter.

Beholde/ ſpake thou in the eares of my people the woꝛdes of proube-cie/ which I will put in thy mouth/ſayeth the Lorde/ and cauſe the to be wyttē in a letter/ for it is the trueth. Feare not the ymaginacions agaynſt the/ lett not the vnſaythfulnes of them trouble the/ that ſpake agaynſt the. For all the vnſaythfull ſhall dye in their vnſaythfulnes. Beholde ſayeth the Lorde/ I will byynge plagis vnto the woꝛlde/ the ſwerde hunger/ death & de-ſtruccyon/ for wyckednes hath the byper had in all the earth/ and their ſhamefull woꝛkes are fulfylled.

Therfore ſayeth the Lorde/ I will holde my tonge nomoze vnto their wyckedneſſe/which they do ſo vngodly: nether will I ſuffer the in the thinges/ that they deale with all ſo wickedly. Beholde/ the innocent bloud of the righteous complayne cōtynually: & therfore ſayeth the Lorde/ I will ſurely auēge/and receaue vnto me all the innocent bloud from amonge them.

Beholde/ my people/ is led as a flock of ſhepe to be ſlayne/ I will not ſuffre the now to dwell in Egypte/ but will byynge the out with a mightie hand & a ſtretched out arme/Eccl. and

and smyte it with plagues as a foze / and will destrope all land of it. Egypt shall mourne / the foundations of it shalbe smytten with the plague and punishment / that God shall brynge vpon it.

Ether þe tell the grounde / shall mourne for their sedes shall be destroyed thow the blasting and hayle / a an horrible starre woe woorth the woide & them that dwell therein / for the swerde & their destruction draweth nye / a one people shall stande by to fyght a-gains another / a swerdes in their handes . for men shall be trusted fast / a some shall do vyolence vnto other they shall not regarde their kyng & prynces / the wayes of their doynges & handeluynges in their power . A man shall desyre to go in to þe cytie / a shall not be able .
for because of their pryde the cyties shalbe brought in feare / the houses shal make / and men shalbe astrayed . A man shall haue no pytie vnto his neyghbour / but one shall prouoke another vnto battayll to spoyle their goodes because of the honger of byrd / and because of the greate trouble .

Beholde / I gather's call together all the hynges of the earth which are from the byrg syng / from the South / fro the East & Lyba-nus to turne into the / & restore the thynges that they haue geuen them. Lyke as they do yet this daye vnto my chosen / so will I do also / & recompense the in their bosome. Thus sayeth the Lorde God: My ryght hand shall not spare the synners / & my swerde shall not ceasse ouer them / that shed the innocēt blood vpon earth. The feare is gone out from bys worlde / and hath consumed the foundacions of the earth / and the synners lyke the strawe that is kyndled. No worlde them that synne / & kepe not my comaundementes / sayeth the Lorde. I will not spare the. So your waye ye chyldezen do violence / despye not my Sanctuary: for the Lorde knoweth all them that synne agaynst him / & therfore delyuereth he them vnto death & destruccyon: for now are the plages come vpon the worlde / & ye shall remayne in them. for God shall not delyuer you / because ye haue synned agaynst him.

E Beholde/ an horrible bysson cometh fro the East/ where generacions of Targos ha come out/ and the people of þ Arabes wryth many charettes/ and the multitude of them shalbe as the wynde bpō earth/ that all they which heare them raggynge in their wraoth/maye feare and be astraied: and as the wynde bozes oute of the wod/ so shall they go out/ & with greate power shall they come/ & stande feghtynge with them/ and shall waste & porcyon of the lande of the Assyrians.

And then shall the Dragons haue the upper hande/ not remembre[n]ge their birth/ & shall turne aboute swearynge together in greate power/ to persecute them. But these shalbe afrayed / & kepe silence at their power/ & shall sle: one out of the lande, of the Egyptians: that beseye the/ & consume one of them/ & in their hood shall be feare & dyde/and crye amonge their kynges.

Beholde cloudes from the East / and from the North into the South / & they are very horrible to loke vpon / full of wrath & frowne.
They shall smyte one vpon another / and they shall smyte at the greates flarre vpon earth & their flarre / and the blowe shalbe from the Swerde into the heyl / and the smoke of man into the Camels lytter: And there shalbe great fearfulness and trembling vpon earth / & they that se the wrath / shal be afraied / and a trembling shall come vpon them.

And then shall there come greete raynes from the South & from the North / & parte from the West / and from the stormy wynde from the East / and shall shut the by agayne / and the cloude which he rayned by in wyath / and the starre to cause feare towarde þe East & West wynde / shalbe destroyed: & the great cloudes shalbe lyft vp / & the myghtie cloud full of wyath / and the starre / that they maye make all the earth afraied & the that dwell therin / and that they maye poure oute oute all places an horrible starre / fyre & haille & spenge swerdes / and many waters : that all feloes maye be full / and all ryuers / and they shall bryake downe þe citelles & walles / mounttaynes and hylles / all trees / wod / & the grade of þe meadowes / and all thes frute. And they shall goe westward into Babylon / & make her afraied / they shall come to her & beslege her the starre and all wyath shall they poure out vpon her.

Then shall the dust and smoke go by vnto the heauen / and all they that be aboute her / shall bewaile her: and they that remaine bruder her / shall do seturpe vnto the that haue put her in feare. And thou Asia & comfortest thy selfe also vpon the hope of Babilon / and art a worshyppe of her personne: as be vnto the thou wretch / because thou hast made thy selfe lyke vnto her / a hast deckte thy daughters in whozdone / that they might triumphe and please thy louers / which haue allwaye despyed to comitte whozdone with the: thou hast folowed & abhominable cytte in all her worches and inuencions.

Therefore sayeth God: I will sende plagues by the wyndes whiche / pouerte / hunger / war-res / and pestilence / to waste thy houses with destruccyon and death / and the glozre of thy power shall be dyed by as a floure / when I heate aryeth I is sent ouer the. Thou shalt be syck as a poore wyfe I is plagued & beaten of women:

of women: so that the myghtye & louer shall not be able, to receaue the. wolde I to hate the sayeth the Lorde: If thou hadde it not al-waye slayne my chosen/ exaltinge the stroke of thy handes/ & sayde ouer their death/ whe thou wast dyronchen: sett forth the bewtye of thy countenaunce.

The rewarde of thy whozdom shall be recompensed the in thy bosome/ therfoze shalt thou receaue* rewarde.

Lyke as thou hast done vnto my chosen (sayeth the Lorde) euen so shall God do vnto the/and shall deliuer the into the plage. The chyldren shall dye of hunger / and thou shalt fall thozow & sweerde. The cyties shalbe bro ken downe/and all thyne shall perishe with & sweerde in the feld. They that be in the moun tynes shall dye of hunger/ & eat their awne flesh/and dryncke their awne bloud for very honger of bred and thyrt of water. Thou un happye shalt come thozow the see/ & receaue plages agayne.

In the passage they shall cast downe the flayne cytie/ & shall rote out one parte of thy lande/ & consume the porcyon of thy glozpe.
They shall treade & downe like stubble/ and they shall be thy fyre and shall consume the:
thy cytyes and thy lande/ thy wood & thy fru-tefull trees shall they burne by with & fyre.
Thy chyldre shall they carry away captiue/& loke what thou hast/ they shall spoile it/ & marre the bewtye of thy face.

☛ The Heathen Shall be punished.

The 101st Chapter

We be vnto the Babilon & Assa/wo be vnto the Egypt & Syria: gyde your selu? wth cloth? of sack & hear-re/ & mourne for youre chyldren/be fory/ for your destruccion is at hand. A sweede is sent bp^o you/ & who will turne it back?
A fyre is kyndled amōge you/ and who will quench it: Plages are sent vnto you/ & what is he that will dyspue th^e awaye? Maye eny man dyspue awaye an hōgrie y^o in the wod?
Or maye eny man quench þ^e fyre in the stubble/ whan it hath begonne to burne? Maye one turne agayne the arrowe, that is shot of a stronge archer; & the mightie Lorde sendeth the plagis / & what is he that will dyspue th^e awaye? & the fyre is kyndled & gone forth in his wyath/ & what is he that will quench it?
He shall cast lightenynges / & who shall not fear? He shall thonder/ and who shall not be afrayed? & the Lorde shall threaten/ and who shall not biterly be beaten to powder at his p^resence? & the earth quaketh/ & the foundacions therof: the see aryseth bp wth maues fro the depe/ & the floudes of it are inquyete and the fishes therof also before the Lorde/and before the gloz of his power, & for strōge is his right hande that holdeth the boine/his arrowes that he shuteeth / are sharpe/ and shall not mysse / when they begonne to be shot in to the endes of the worlde.

Beholde / the plagēs are sent / & shall not turne agayne / tyll they come vpon earth. The fyr is kindled / & shall not be put oute / tyll it consume the foundations of the earth. Like as an arrowe which is shot of a myghty archer / returneth not backwarde : euen so the plages that shall be sent vpon earth / shall not turne agayne. Who is me / who is me / who will deliuer me in those dayes? The beginnyng of sorowes & greate mournyng : the begynnyng of darth & greate death : the begynnyng of warres / and the powers shall stande in feare : the begynnyng of euils / & they shall tremble euery one. What shall I do in these thynges / when the plagēs come?
Beholde / hunger / and plague / trouble & an-guysh are sent / as scourges for amendmēt.
But for all these thyng / they shall not turne from their wickednesses / ner be all waye myndefull of the scourges.

Beholde by p[ro]p[er]ties shalbe so good cheape vpon earth / & they shall thynke them selues to be in good case: & eu[er] then shall myschete growe vpon earth / warres / darth and great dysquyetes. foz many of the that dwell vpon earth shall perishe of hunger / & the other that escape the hunger / shall the swerde destroye & the deede shalbe cast oute as donge / & there shalbe no man to cōfōrte them. foz & earth shalbe wasted / and the cytyes shalbe cast downe: there shalbe no man left to tyll the earth & to so we it. The trees shall geue frute / & who shall plucke the of & gather them?
 The grapes shall be rype / & who shall treade them? foz all places shalbe desolate of men / so & one man shall despyre to se another / or to heare his voyce. foz of one whole cytye there shalbe ten left / & two in & selde / which shall hyde the selues in the thicke bushes / and in the clyffes of stones: lyke as when there re-mayne thre or foure olyues vpon the olyue tre / or as whē a vineyarde is gathered / there are left some grapes / of them that diligent ly sought the o[mn]y vineyarde.

¶ Then lo in thole dayes there shalbe thre or foure left, toz the that searce their houses with the swerde. And the earth shalbe leste waste, & the felde therof shall waxe olde: & her wayes & all her pathes shall growe full of thornes / because no man shall trauegle there thozow. The daughters shall mourne/hauling no brydegromes: for eme shall make lament acpon, haupnge no houshādes / their daughters shall mourne / haupnge no helpe of their brydegrome. In þ warres shall they be destroyed, & their houshandes that perish

offhonger. O ye seruantes of the Lorde/ heare these thynges/ & march the. Beholde/ the woide of a Lorde/ & receaue it: beholde/ the plagis dynt nre. and are not slack in ta- rieng. Lp he as a trauayling womā/ which after the .ix. moneth byngeth forth a sonne/ when the houre of a byrth is come/ an houre two or thre afore that the paynes come byd her body/ & when the chyld cometh to the byrth/ they cary not the twynchynge of an eye: Euen so shall not the plagis be slack to come vpon earth/ & the world shall mourne/ & sorowes shall come vpon it on euery syde.

O my people/ heare my woide/ make you redy to the battayll: & in all euell be euen as pylgryms vpon earth. He & selleth/ lett him be as he that flyeth bys waye: & he & byeth/ as one that will lete. I whoso occupieth mar- chaundies/ as he that wynneth not: & he that buyeth/ as he that shall not dwell therein: he that soweth/ as one that shall not reape: he & thowpeth the vyne yarde/ as he that shall not gather the grapes: they that mary/ as they that shall get no chyldren: and they that mary not/ as the wyddowes: & therfore they & laboure/ labour in bayne. So strangers shall reape their frutes/ & spoyle their good/ ouerthow their houses/ & take their chyldren captiue/ for in captiuite & hunger shall they get chyldren. And they that occupie their marchaundes in robbery/ how longe deke they their cytyes/ their houses/ their posses- syons/ & personnes: the more wyll I punyssh them for their synnes/ sayeth the Lorde. Like as an whoze enuyeth an honest woman/ so shall ryghteousnes hate iniquyte/ when she decheth her selfe/ and shall accuse her to her face/ when he cometh that defendeth/ whych shall make inquisiçon for all synne vpon earth. And therfore be not ye like the rymto- ner to the wozykes therof: for o euer it be longe/ iniquite shall be taken awaye out of the earth/ & rightuousnes shall raygne amonge you.

Let not the synner saye/ that he hath not synned: for coles of fyre shall burne vpon his head/ which sayeth before the Lorde God and his gloze: I haue not synned. Beholde/ the Lorde knoweth all & wozykes of men/ their ymaginacions/ their thoughtes & their herte. So he spake but the woide: lett the earth be made/ & it was made: lett the heauē be made/ & it was made. In his woide were & starres made/ & he knoweth the nombze of them. He searcheth the grounde of the depe/ & the trea- sures therof: he hath measured & fer/ & what it conteyneth. He hath shut the see in & myd- dle of the waters/ & with his woide hath he hangd the earth vpon & waters. He spredeth out the heauen lyke a tabote/ vpon & waters hath he founded it. In the belerte & drye wyl- dernes hath he made springes of water/ and poles vpon the toppe of the mountaynes/ & the floudes might poure downe fro the stony rockes to water the earth. He made mō/ and put his herte in the myddle of the body/ and gaue hym byrth/ lyfe and vnderstandyng/ & re- and the spere of the Almyghtie God/ whych make all thynges/ and hath searched & ground of all the secretes of the earth.

He knoweth youre ymaginacions & in- uencions/ & what ye thynke when ye synne/ & wolde hyde your synnes. Therfore hath & Lorde searched & sought out all your wozykes/ and he shall betraye you all. And whē your synns are brought forth/ ye shall be ashamed before men/ and your atone synnes shall be your accusers in that daye. What wyll ye do? O how wyll ye hyde your synnes before God & his Angells? Beholde/ God him selfe is the iudge/ feare hym/ leaue of from your synnes/ & forget your vnyghtuousnes/ and medle nomaize with them: so shall God leade you forth/ & deliuer you fro all trouble. So beholde/ the heate of a greete multitude is kyndled ouer you/ & they shall take awaye certayne of you/ & fede the yde with tools: and they that comen vnto them/ shall be had in derisyon/ laughed to scorne/ and trode vnder fote.

So vnto the places there shall be a place/ and in the next cyties a greete insurreccyon vpon those that feare the Lorde. They shall be lyke mad men/ they shall spare nomaize: they shall spoyle & waste such as feare the Lorde/ their goodes shall they take from them/ and shutte them out of their houses. Then shall it be knowne who are my chosen/ & they shall be tryed as the golde in the fyre. Heare O ye my beloued/ sayeth the Lorde: beholde/ the dayes of trouble are at hande/ but I wyll deliuer you from the same. Be not ye afrayed/ by- paye not/ for God is your captayne.

Who so kepeth my commaundementes and preceptes/ sayeth the Lorde God/ let not your synnes weye you downe/ and let not your vnyghtuousnes be lyft vp. Wo be vnto them that are subdured vnto their synnes/ and tangled in their wyckednes: lyke as a feld is hedged in with bushes/ & the path therof couered with thornes/ that no mā maye trauayle thowto: and so is he ta- ken/ and cast in the fyre/ and byrent.

The ende of the .liij. boke of Tobias.

The boke of Tobiah.

Tobiah beyng taken prisoner/ forsaketh not the lawe of trouth. The mercy and charite of Tobiah/ and the maners of him in his yowthe. He taketh an- neth to wyfe/ by whome he hath a sonne named To- biah. He succoureth Sabel for moneye. He and his are sayne to fyre/ but after the deeth of Sennaherib they retourne agayne.

The first Chapter.

Tobiah was of the trybe and cytie of Nephtali/ whych lyeth in the hye countrees of Galile about Naalon & waye to ward the West/ hauyng the cytie of Sephet vpon the left syde.

Though he was taken prisoner in the dayes of Salmanasar kynge of the Assyrians/ neuertheles beyng in captiuite/ he forsoke not the waye of trouth: In so much & what- soeuer he myght get/ he parted it daylie with his selowprisoners & byrthen/ that were of his kyned. And though he were yonger then all in the trybe of Nephtali/ yet dōd not he behaue him selfe chyldeishly in his wozykes. And when all the other wente to the golden calves/ which Jeroboam the kynge of Israel had made/ he him selfe alone fled all their co- panies/ & gat him to Jerusalem vnto & temple of the Lorde/ & there wozypped the Lorde God of Israel/ lawthfully offeryng of all his first frutes and tythes/ so that in the thyrde yere he mynystrd all the tythes vnto the strangers & conuerter. These and such lyke thynges dōd he accordyng to & lawe of God/ when he was yet but yonge.

But when he was a man/ he toke oute of his atone trybe a wyfe called Anna/ & of her he begat a sonne/ whome he called after his atone name/ and taught him from his youth bp/ to feare God/ & to refrayne fro all synne.

Now when he with his wyfe/ & his sonne & with all his kyned was come in captiuite vnto Babilue/ what tyme as they all ate of & meates of the Heathen/ he kept his soule/ & was neuer defyled in their meates. And so to much as he was myndfull of the Lorde in all his hert/ God gaue him sauoure in & pre- sence of Salmanasar & kynge/ whych gaue him power to go where he wolde/ and so had he lyberte to do what him lyst.

So wente Tobiah vnto all them & were in prison/ and comforted them/ & gaue them whollsome exortacions. And when he came vnto Rages a cytie of the Medes/ hauyng ten talentes of syluer/ of the thynges wherewith the kynge had honoured him/ & saye amōge a greete company of people of his kyned/ one Sabelus/ which was of his atone trybe/ beyng in necessity/ he gaue hym the sayde weight of syluer vnder an handwytyng.

After a longe season when Salmanasar the kynge was deed/ and Sennaherib his sonne reigned in his steade/ whych hated the chyldze of Israel. Tobiah wēt daylie thowto out all his kyned/ and comforted them/ and gaue of his goodes to euery one of them/ as moch as he might: he fed the hongrie/ clothed the naked/ and buried the deed and slayne/ & that diligently.

And when Sennaherib the kynge came agayne and fled out of Jewry/ what tyme as God punished him for his blasphemys/ and in his wrath slew many of the chyldze of Israel Tobiah buried their bodies. But whē it was tolde the kynge/ he commaunded to slay him/ and toke awaye all his goodes. Neuertheles Tobiah with his sonne & with his wyfe fled his waye/ & was hyd naked/ for there were many that loued him. But after .xib. dayes & kynge was slayne of his atone sonnes. Then came Tobiah agayne to his house/ & all his goodes retoyed vnto him.

Tobiah byddeth Sabe of his frynd as fere God/ to a bāquet or feast. He is reproued of his frynde as he feareth God more then the kynge. He becommeth bynde by the permyssion & suffraunce of God. His bypocrites moche hym.

The .ij. Chapter.

After these thynges byd a solemp- ne daye of the Lorde Tobiah made a good feast in his house/ & sayde vnto his sonne: Woo thy waye and lyng hither some of our trybe/ such as feare God/ that they maye make mery with vs. And when he was gone/ he came agayne/ & tolde his father/ that one of the chyldze of Israel laye slayne vpon the strete. And imme- diatly he leape from his table/ lett the feast/ came fastyng to the deed coarke/ toke him & bare him pruely in to his house/ that when & Sunne was downe/ he myght safely bu- rye him. And when he had byd the coarke/ he ate his meate with mourninge & feare/ re- membryng the wozydes/ that the Lorde sayeth by the prophet Amos: your hye feastes shall be turned to sorowe and heuyenes.

But whē & Sunne was downe/ he went his waye & buried hym. Then all his neygh- bours reproued him/ sayyng: It is not idge/ sens it was commaunded to slay the because of this matter/ & hast scarce escaped & daun- ger of deeth/ & buried thou the deed agayne? Neuertheles Tobiah fearyng God more then the kynge/ toke the bodies of & slayne/ hīd the in his house/ & buried the at midnight.

It happened vpon a daye/ that he had bu- ried & deed/ & was weery/ cam home/ & layd

ccc. liij. him

him downe by the wal & septe. And while he was a septe, there fell downe vpon his eyes warme dudge out of the smaltowes nest / so he was blynde. Whiche temptation did God suffer to happen vnto him / & they which came after, myght haue an example of his pacience / like as of holy Job. For in so much as he euer feared God for his youth by / & kept his commandmentes / he was not heuy agaynst God / & the plage of blyndnes chaunced vnto him, but remained stedfast in the feare of God / and thanked God all the dayes of his lyfe.

For lyke as blessed Job was had in derpyon of kynge / euen so was he laughed to scorne of his elders & kindfolkes / which sayd vnto hym: where is thy hope / for the which thou hast done allmes and buryed the deed? But Tobiah rebuked them / & spake: Saye not so / for we are the chyldren of holy men / & loke for the lyfe / which God shall geue vnto the / & neuer turne they beleue fro him. And as hym was comynge to the weyngge house / & loke what praynge he coude get with the labour of her handes / he brought it. And it happened that he toke a kynd and brought it home.

And when her housbande herde it crye / he sayde: loke hit be not stoll / restore it agayne to the owners: for it is not lawfull for vs / to eate or to touch any thyng of thest. Then was his wyfe angrie / and sayde: Now is thy hope be come bayne openly / & thy allmes dedes are manifest. With these and such lyke wordes byd she cast him in the tethe.

The piper of Tobiah. Sara the daughter of Raguel is claudered of her fathers seruante. The prayer and fastyng of Sara: And also the innocency & chastite of her. The prayers of Tobiah and of Sara are heare.

The.iii. Chapter

Then Tobiah toke it heuely / & with teares began to make his prayer sayenge: O Lord thou art ryghteous / & all thy iudgementes are true / yee all thy wayes are mercy / saythfulnes & iudgment. And now O Lord be mynde- full of me / & take no vengeance of my synne / nether remembre my mysdoes / nether the mys- dedes of my elders. For we haue not bene obedi- ent vnto thy commandmentes / therfore are we spoyled / brought in to captiuyte / in to death / in to desolacyon & shame vnto all nacions / amonge who thou hast scattered vs. And now O Lord / thy iudgementes are great / for we haue not done according to thy commandmentes / nether haue we walched innocently before the. And now O Lord / deale with me accordyng to thy will / & commande my spete to be receaued in peace / for moze expedit were it for me to dye / then to lyue.

At the same tyme it happened / that Sara the daughter of Raguel at Rages a cytie of the medes was claudered of one of her fathers handmaydes / namely / that she shulde haue had seuen housbandes / which as soone as they were gone in vnto her / were slayne of a deuill called Amodeus. Wherfore when she reproued the mayde for her faulte / she answered her / sayenge: God lett vs neuer se sonne ner daughter of the moze byd earth / thou kyller of thy housbandes. Whyt thou saye also / as thou hast slayne seuen men? At this voyce wente Sara in to an hye chamber of her house / and thre dayes & thre nyghtes she nether ate ner dranke / but continued in prayer / and besought God with teares / that he wolde deliuer her from this rebuke.

Upon the thryde daye it chaunced / & when she had made an end of her prayer / she pray- sed the Lord sayenge: Blessed be thy name O God of oure fathers / whych when thou art wroth / shewest mercy / & in the tyme of trouble thou forgiuest the synnes of them / that call vnto the. Vnto the O Lord turne I my face / vnto the I lyft I vp myne eyes. I beseeche the O Lord / loke me out of the bondes of this rebuke / or els take me betterly awaye from of the earth. Thou knowest Lord / & I neuer had desyre vnto man / and that I haue kepte my soule cleane fro all vncleyn lust. I haue not kepte company with those that passe their tyme in spote / nether haue I made my selfe partaker with them that walche in lyghte behauiour. Neuertheles an housband haue I consented to take / not for my pleasure / but in thy feare.

Now peradventure ether I haue bene blyssed / or els were they blyssed for me / for thou happily hast kepte me to another housband. For why? thy counsell is not in the power of man. But whosoeuer loueth the & serueth the a right / is sure / that yf his lyfe be tempted & proued / it standeth in the tryenge: & yf he endure in pacience / he shall haue a rewarde & be hye crowned: & yf he be in trouble / that God (no doute) shall deli- uer him: & yf his lyfe be in chastyng / that he shall haue leaue to come vnto thy mercy.

For thou hast no pleasure in oure damp- nacyon: & why? after a tyme thou makest the wether saye and kyll: after wepyng and heyrnes thou geuest grete loye. Whiche name O God of Israel / be prayd for euer. At the same tyme were both their prayers heare in the sight of the mayesty of the hyst God. And Raphael the holy Angell of the Lord was sent to helpe the both / whose prayers came together before God.

Tobiah chynching to dye geueth a godly exhortacyon and monypon to his sonne.

The.iiii. Chapter.

When Tobiah thought his prayer to be herde / that he myght dye / he called vnto him his sonne Tobiah / & sayde vnto him: My sonne / heare the wordes of my mouth / and laye them in thynne herte as a foundation. When God taketh awaye my soule / burye thou my body / and holde thy mother in honoure all the dayes of her lyfe. For thou oughtest to remembre / what and how grete payres she suffered for the in her wombe. And when she also hath fulfilled the tyme of her lyfe / burye her besyde me. Haue God in thy thought all the dayes of thy lyfe / & beware / lest at any tyme thou consent vnto synne / and lest thou lett slippe the commandmentes of the Lord oure God.

Geue allmes of thy goodes / and turne neuer thy face from the poore: & so shall it come to passe / that the face of the Lord shall not be turned awaye from the. Be mercifull after thy power. If thou hast moch / geue plenty- tously: yf thou hast lytle / do thy diligence / gladly to geue of that lytle. For to gatherest thou thy selfe a good rewarde in the daye of necessity. For allmes deliuereth fro death / & fasteth not the soule to come in darchnes. A grete comferte is allmes before the hys God / vnto all them that do it.

My sonne / kepe the well from all who- dome / and (besyde thy wyfe) se that no laute be knowen of the. Let neuer pryde haue rule in thy mynde ner in thy woide / for in pryde beganne all destruction.

Whosoeuer toucheth any thyng for the / immediately geue him his paye / and loke that thy hyred seruante wagnes remayne not by the ouer nyght. Loke that thou neuer do bnto another man / the thyng that thou woldest not another man shulde do vnto the. Eate thy byrd with the dogge and poore / & couer the naked with thy clothes. Set thy byrd and wyne vpon the burpall of the ryghtuous / & do not thou eate and drinke therof with the symers. Aske euer counsell at the wyse.

Be allwaye thanckfull vnto God / and be- seche him / that he will ordeyne thy wayes / and that whatsoeuer thou desyrest or takest in hande / it maye remayne in him. I certifie I also my sonne / that (when thou wast yet but a babe) I deliuered ten talentes of syluer vnto Gabelus / at Rages a cytie of the Medes / & his handwrytynge haue I by me. And ther- fore se he some meanes / how thou mayest co- me by hym / & receaue of him the sayde weight of syluer / and geue hym his handwrytynge agayne.

My sonne / be not afrayed: truste it is / we leade here a poore lyfe: but grete good shall we haue / yf we seare God / and be parte from all synne / and do well.

The obedyence of younge Tobiah to his father / which is sent in to Rages. An Angell accompanieth with him in his iourney.

The.v. Chapter.

Then answered Tobiah his father / and sayd: father / all that thou hast com- manded me / will I do / and I diligently. But how I shall requi- re this money / I can not tell. Whether both he knowe me / ner I hym. What token shall I geue him? And as for the waye thither / I neuer knew it. When his father answered him / and sayde: I haue his handwrytynge by me / which when thou shewest hym / imme- diately he shall paye the. But goo thy waye now / and get the some saythfull man to goo with the for an hye / that thou mayest recea- ue the money / while I am yet lyuynge. Then went Tobiah out / and vpon the strete he founde a sayre yonge man standing / gryn- ded by / and as it were one ready to take his iourney. And he knew not that it was an an- gell of God / but saluted hym / and sayde: How hence art thou / thou good yonge man? He answered: Of the chyldren of Israel.

And Tobiah sayd vnto him: knowest thou the waye / that ledeth vnto the countre of the Medes? He answered: I knowe it well / and all those stretes haue I gone oft tymes / and haue lodged with oure brother Gabelus / & dwelleth in Rages a cytie of the Medes / which lyeth vpon the mounte Agabthanis. Tobiah sayd vnto him: I praye the / tary for me / tyll I haue tolde my father these thyngs. Then wente Tobiah in / and tolde his father all. At the which his father marueled / & prayed that he wolde come in vnto him.

Now when the angell came in / he salu- ted hym / and sayde: Joye be with the for euer- moze. And olde Tobiah sayde: what ioye can I haue that lyt here in darchnes / & se not the lyght of heauen? The younge man sayde vnto hym: Be of good cheare / God shall helpe the shortly. And Tobiah sayd vnto hym: As thou byrge my sonne to Gabelus / vnto the cytie of Rages in Medea? And when thou comest agayne / I shall paye the thy paye. And the Angell sayde vnto hym: I shall leade thy sonne / & byrge him to the agayne. When Tobiah answered hym: tell me I praye the / of what hour / or of what tyme art thou? The Angell Raphael sayde vnto hym: Askest thou after the hynde of an hye / lyng / or sekest thou a gyde for thy sonne to go with hym? But that I make the not carefull / I am Azarias the sonne of grete Hananias. And Tobiah answered: thou art come of a grete hynde: but I praye the / be not dys- pleased / that I desyred to knowe thy hynde. The Angell sayde vnto hym: thy sonne shall

Acc.iii. I leade

He leade forth safely / and bynge hym whole to the agayne.

Then answered Tobiah / and sayde: well / go on youre waye / & God be in youre journey / and his Angell beare you company. So when they had prepared all thynges / & they wolde take with them in their journey: Tobiah bad his father & his mother fare well / and they went on their waye both together. Now when they were gone / his mother beganne to wepe / and sayde: The staffe of our age hath thou taken awaye / and sent hym from vs.

Wolde God that money had neuer bene / for the which thou hast sent hym awaye. If we had bene content with oure pouerte / this had bene greater riches vnto vs / & we sawe oure sonne here. Then sayde Tobiah vnto her: wepe not / oure sonne shall come to vs agayne safe and sounde / & thine eyes shall see him. For I trust / that & good Angell of God shall beare him company / and orde well all & thynges that he doth: so that he shall come to vs agayne wth hope. At these wordes his mother left of fro weeping / & helde her tongue.

Young Tobiah is deliuered from the fythe / by the Angell. The Angell sheweth Tobiah to take Sara to his wyfe.

The .viij. Chapter.

Tobiah wente on his waye / & a dogg folowed him / and the fyth myght they abode by the water of Atriss. Then wote he out to wash his fete / & beholde / there came forth an horrible fyth to deuoure hym. Of whome Tobiah was affrayed / & cried wth a loude voyce / sayenge: Lorde / he cometh vpon me. And the Angell sayde vnto hym: Take him by the cheke blade / and draw hym to the. And he dyd so / and drew hym vnto the lande. And the fyth beganne to leape at his fete.

Then sayde the Angell vnto hym: Take out the bowels of this fyth / & as for the herte / the gall and the leuer / kepe them by the. For these thynges are necessarye and good for medicine. Tobiah dyd so / and rolled the fyth / and they toke hym with the in their journey: the residue they salted / as moch as was sufficient for them / tyll they came to Rages. Then Tobiah asked the Angell / & sayd vnto him: I praye the brother Azariah / tell me / wher to are these thynges good of the fyth / that thou hast bydden me kepe?

The Angell answered him and sayde: If thou layest a peece of the herte vpon & coales / the smoke therof byrnyeth awaye all manner of euell sprytes / whether they be from man or fro woman / so & fro thence forth & same shall come nomore vnto the. The gall is good to anoynte oze to streke & eyes withall / where as there is any blemish in them / so shall they be whole.

And Tobiah sayde vnto hym: where wyle thou & we remayne? The Angell answered and sayd: There is a nye kynsmā of thine / one Raguel by name / whych hath a daughter called Sara / & hath nether sonne nether daughter but her. All his good belongeth vnto the / and thou must marrye his daughter: and therefore desyre her of her father / & he shall geue her the to wyle. Then answered Tobiah and sayde: As I vnderstande / she hath bene married vnto seuen housholders / and they all are deed: and I haue herde saye / that the deuell actue them. I am affrayed therefore / lest such thynges happē vnto me also: whych if it came to passe (seynge I am the onely sonne of my father & my mother) I shulde bynge the in their age with sorrow to their graues.

Then sayde & Angell Raphael vnto him: Deare me / & I wyl tell the what they be of whom the deuell hath power. Namely / they that receaue mariage of such a fashion / that they shut God out from the & fro their herte / & geue the selues to their awne lust / euē as it were an houle & wyle / whych haue no vnderstanding: whō such hath the deuell power. But when thou takest her / & art come in to the chamber / withholde thy selfe from her thre dayes / & geue thy diligence vnto nothyng but vnto prayer with her.

And in the fyrst nyght roste the leuer of the fyth / & the deuell shal be dreyue awaye. The seconde night shalt thou be receaued in to & company of the holy patriarches. The thirde night shalt thou opteyne the blessinge of God / so & whole chyldre shal be borne of you. After the thirde night take & mayde in & feare of God / & more for the desyre of chyldre / then for thy fleshy lust: that in the seide of Abraham thou mayest optayne the blessinge in chyldren.

Young Tobiah and the Angell come to the house of Raguel. He requyret Raguels daughter to wyfe / and outbrageth her.

The .ix. Chapter.

When wente they in to Raguel / which receaued the ioyfully. And when Raguel looked vnto Tobiah / he sayde vnto Anna his wyfe: How lyke is this yodge mā vnto my lytters sonne. And whē he had spokē this / he sayde: whence be ye good byethen? They sayde: Of & cythe of Nephtali / out of & captiuite of Babilie. Then sayde Raguel vnto them: know ye my brother Tobiah? They sayde: yee / we knowe hym well. And when he had spoken moch good of him / the Angell sayd vnto Raguel: Tobiah of whom thou hast / is this thyng young mans father. Then Raguel bowed hym selfe downe / and wepte / toke him aboute & neck and and kysed hym / & sayde: Gods blessinge haue thou my sonne / for thou arte the sonne of a good vertuous man. And Anna his wife and Sara his daughter wepte also.

Now when they had talked together / Raguel had kyll a wether / and to make a feast. And when he prayed them to syt downe to dynner / Tobiah sayd: I wyl nether eate nether drynke here this daye / except thou syt graunte me my petitiō / & promyse me to geue me thy daughter Sara. Whē Raguel herde this / he was astonnyed / for he knewe / what had hapened vnto the other. Wh. men / & wete in vnto her: & he beganne to feare that it shuld chaunce vnto hym also in lyke maner.

And whyle he stode so in doute / & gaue the yonge man no answer / the aungell sayde vnto hym: feare not to geue him thy daughter / for vnto this man that feareth God / belongeth thy daughter to wyfe / therefore myght none other haue her.

Then sayd Raguel: I doute not / but God hath accepted my prayers and teares in his sight: & I trust he caused you to come vnto me for the same intent / that this daughter of myne myght be married in her awne kynred / accordynge to the lawe of Moses. And now dowte thou not / but I wyl geue her vnto &: So he toke the right hande of his daughter / and gaue her into the right hand of Tobiah / & sayde: The God of Abraham / the God of Isaac / and the God of Jacob be wth you / I praye you together / & I fulfill his blessing in you. And they toke a letter & made a wytyng of the mariage. And then made they mery / & prayed God. And Raguel called Anna his wyfe vnto hym / and bad her prepare another chamber / and thither he brought Sara his daughter / and she wepte. Then sayde he vnto her: Be of good cheare my daughter / the Lorde of heauen geue the soye / for the heuynesse that thou hast suffered.

The aungell byndeth the deuell. Tobiah exhorteth his wyfe to praye / and they praye thre dayes before they lye together.

The .x. Chapter.

Now after & they had supped / they brought the yonge man in to her. The thought Tobiah vnto the wordes of the aungell / and toke out of his bagge a peece of the leuer of the fyth / and layed it vnto the hote coales. So the aungell Raphael toke holde of the deuill / & sent him awaye / and bounde him in the wyldernes of the hyper Egypte. The spake Tobiah vnto the virgin / & sayde: wyf Sara / let vs make oure prayer vnto God to daye / to morrow / & ouer-morrow: for these thre nightes wyl we recon-cyle oure selues with God: & whan the thirde holy night is past / we shall soye together in the deute of mariage. For we are the chyldren of holy men / & we maye not come together as the heathen / that knowe not God.

Then stode they by both together / and besought God earnestly / that he wold preserue them. And Tobiah sayde: O Lorde God of oure fathers / prayse be thou of heauen and earth / of the see / welles / & founteyns / and of all the creatures that be therein. Thou madest Adā of the mould of the earth / & gauest him Eua for an helper. And now Lorde thou knowest & it is not because of voluptuousnes / that I take this syster of myne to wyfe / but only for the loue of chyldren / in whō thy name be blessed for ever. And Sara sayde: haue mercy vpon vs (O Lorde) haue mercy vpon vs / let vs both come whole & sounde to a good age.

And aboute the cock crowe / it happened / that Raguel called his seruantes / and they wente with hym / to make a graue. For he sayde: it is chaunced vnto hym peradventure / as it dyd vnto the other seuen men / that wente in vnto her. Now when they had made the graue / Raguel came agayne to his wyfe / & sayde vnto her: sende one of thy maydes / to loke if he be deed / that I maye burye hym afore it be lycht daye. So she sent a mayden to se / whych whē she came into the chamber / she founde them whole & sounde / slepyng together. And so she came agayne / & brought good tydings. Then Raguel and Anna his wyfe prayed the Lorde / and sayde: Prayed be thou O Lorde God of Israel / for it is not happened vnto vs / as we thought. For thou hast deale mercifully with vs / & put awaye from vs the enemye that persecuted vs / and hast shewed mercy vnto yonder two beloued. O Lorde / cause the to magnifye & more perfectly / & to offere & the sacrifice of thy praye / & of their health: that all people may knowe / that thou only art God in all the earth.

And immediately Raguel commaunded his seruantes / to fyl the graue / that they had made / with earth / afore it was lycht: & bad his wyfe prepare a feast / & to make readye all thynges that were necessarye for meate / to such as wete by the waye. He caused two fat kyne also / and foure wethers to be slayne / and meates to be prepared for all his neygh-bours & frendes. And Raguel charged Tobiah / to remayne with hym two weekes. As for all the good that he had / he gaue Tobiah the one half of it / & made this wytyng / that the halfe which remayned / shulde fall vnto Tobiah after their death.

The Angell goeth to Babelus / at the desyre of Tobiah / whych deliuereth the letter / and receaueth the money.

The .xi. Chapter.

Ecc. b. Then

When Tobiah called vnto hym the Aungell/whō he thought to haue bene a man/and sayde vnto hym. Brother Aartas/I praye the herken vnto my wordes: Yf I shulde geue my selfe to be thy seruauit/I shall not deserue thy prouidence. Neuerthelesse I beseeche the that thou wilt take the beastes & the seruantes/a go vnto Gabelus in Rages the cite of Medes/a deliuer him his handwrytynge/a receaue the money of hym/and praye hym to come to my marriage. For thou knowest thy selfe that my father telleth the dayes: and yf I tary one daye to long/he wylbe soz in his mynde. Now seist thou how earnestly Raguel hath requyred me / so that I cannot saye him nay.

Then toke Raphael foure of Raguels seruantes/a two Camels/and wete vnto Rages the cite of the Medes: and when he had founde Gabelus/he gaue him hys handwrytynge/a receaued all the money. He tolde hym all of Tobiah the sonne of Tobī / how all thinges had happened/a caused him to come with hym to the marriage. Now whē he came in to the house of Raguel/ he founde Tobiah sytynge at the table/a he leape vp/and they kyssed one another/a Gabelus wepte/a prayesed God/a sayde: the blessinge of the God of Israel haue thou/for thou art the sonne of a right vertuous & iust man/a of one that feareth God/a geueth grete almes. And blessinge haue thy wyfe/a yowre elders/that ye maye be yowre chyldren & yowre chylders chyldren/vnto the thyrde & fourth generacyon/a that yowre seede may be blessed of the God of Israel/which reigneth world without ende. And when they all had sayd Amen/ they wete to the feast/ but with the feare of the Lorde helde they the feast of the maryage.

Tobiah and hys wyfe are sadde for the taryuance of their sonne. Raguel sendeth agayne Tobiah with his wyfe.

The .x. Chapter.

Now whyle yonge Tobiah made longe taryenge/by reason of the maryage/ hys father was full of care & heuines/and thought: what shulde be the cause/that my sonne taryeth so longe? Why shulde he be kepte so longe there? Peradventure Gabelus is deed/ and no man wyl geue hym the money. Thus beganne he to be very sorrowfull/ he & Anna his wyfe with hym/and beganne to wepe both together/ because their sonne was not come agayne vnto the at the daye appoynted. As for his mother/ she wepte with discomfortable teares/a sayde: Who is me/my sonne. What ayled ys to sende a praye into a straunge countre/ thou light of oure eyes/ thou stafe of oure age/ thou comforte of oure life/ thou hope of oure generacyon? Serenge all the thinges that we haue are ony in the / we shuld not haue sent the awaye from vs.

Then Tobiah comforted her/ and sayde: holde thy tounge/a be not dyscomforted/ oure sonne is whole and sounde: the man that we sent hym withall/ is faithfull ynough. Neuerthelesse he myght in no wyse be comforted: but dayly went out/ loched aboute/a wente about all the stretes/ wherby he thought he shulde come agayne: that (yf it were possible) he myght se hym commynge a farre of.

But Raguel sayde vnto his sonne in lawe: Tary here/and I shall sende a messenger vnto thy father Tobiah/to tell him that thou art in good health. Tobiah sayde vnto hym: I am sure/that my father & my mother counte euery daye/and that their hertes are soz.

So when Raguel prayed Tobiah with many wordes/a wold in no wyse heare hym/ he deliuered Sara vnto hym/a & halfe part of all his good: in seruantes & handmaydes/ in shepe/ in Camels/a in kyne/a moche money/a so sent hym awaye from hym with peace and ioye/ and sayde: The holy Aungell of the Lorde be with you in yowre yorney/ and bynge you forth safe & sounde/that ye maye fynde all thinges in good case with yowre elders/a that myne eyes may se yowre chyldre afore I dye. So the elders embraced their daughter/kyssed her/a let her go/ exhortinge her to honoure her father & mother in lawe/ to loue her husbende / to rule well her house/ to kepe her house in good orde/ and to shewe her selfe faulelesse.

Younge Tobiah kepynge hys wyfe & householde as the mynde wape/commeth before with the Aungell. The dreame of his mother lokynge after her sonne. He is ioyfully receaued of his father & mother. Sara cometh. .viij. dayes after.

The .xi. Chapter.

So they now were goynge home warde agayne / vpon the .xj. daye they came to Charra/ which lyeth in the half waye towarde Minue. And the Aungell sayde: Brother Tobiah/ thou knowest how thou hast left thy father: therfore yf it please the/ we two wyl go before/a let the householde with thy wyfe & the catell come soft & sayly after vs. And when Tobiah was content that they shulde go before/Raphael sayde vnto hym: Take of the gall of the fish with the/for it shalbe necessary. So Tobiah toke of the gall/a they went their waye. But Anna the mother of Tobiah sat dayly by the waye syde vpon the toppe of an hyl/ fro whence she myght se farre about her. And whyle she was waytynge there for his comynge/ she loched a farre of/ and anone she perceaued her sonne comynge/a ranne & tolde tolde her husbende/saying: Behold/ thy sonne cometh. And Raphael sayde vnto Tobiah: As soone as thou comest in to the house / immediately wrytynge the Lorde thy God/and geue thankes vnto hym: then go to thy father/a kyss hym/a stryke his eyes ouer with the gall of the fish/that thou hast brought with the. For he sure/ that his eyes shall straght waye be opened/a thy father shall se the light of heauen/a shall reioyse at the sight of the. Then the dogge that had bene with them in their iourney/ ranne before/ and came as a messenger/ and wagged with hys tale for gladnesse.

So the blynde father arose/ and beganne to rene/and stombled with his feate/a gaue a seruante his hande/rane to mete his sonne/ receaued hym/and kyssed hym/ he and hys wyfe/and beganne to wepe for ioye.

Now when they had wrytynge & thanked God/they sat downe. Then toke Tobiah of the fyshes gall/ and anoynted hys fathers eyes: and taryed half an houre/and then beganne the blemish to go out of his eyes/like as it had bene the whyte skynne of an egge: which Tobiah toke/and drew fro his eyes/and immediately he receaued his sight.

Then they prayed God/ he and his wyfe/ and all they that knew hym. And Tobiah sayde: O Lorde God of Israel/I geue the praye and thankes/for thou hast chaunced me/a made me whole. And lo/now do I se my sonne Tobiah. After seven dayes came Sara his sonnes wyfe also whole and sounde with all the householde and catell/with camels and moche moneye of hys wyues/a with the money that he had receaued of Gabelus:and he tolde his father and his mother all the benefytes/ which God had done for hym/ by the man that led hym. Achior also and Nabath Tobiah sytynge came/and were glad/a reioysed with hym/by reason of all the good that God had shewed vnto him. And so for the space of seven dayes they made mery/ and were right ioyfull euerychone.

Younge Tobiah recheueth by vnto hys father the pleasures that the Aungell had hym. He offereth vnto the Aungell halfe the goodes that he brought hym.

The .xii. Chapter.

When Tobiah called his sonne vnto hym/a sayde: What may we geue this holy man/ that wente to the? Tobiah answered his father/and sayde: Father/ what rewarde shall we geue hym? What thinge can deserue his benefytes? He hath bene my gyde/ and brought me safe agayne: he receaued the money from Gabelus/ he caused me to get my wyfe/ he dyuē & euell sprete fro her/ he hath bene an occasion of gladnesse to her father and mother: he deliuered me/that I was not deuoured of the fish/ he hath made the to se the light of heauen/ yee we all haue receaued grete good of hym. Now shuld we worthily deserue these thinges vnto hym? But I praye the my father/that thou wilt deliuer hym/ yf happily he wyl bountaile/ to take with hym the halfe of all that we haue brought.

So the father and the sonne called hym/ toke hym asyde/a beganne to praye hym/a he wold be content to take in good worth/ the half parte of all that he had brought. Then sayde he secretly vnto them: Prayle the God of heauen/a geue thankes vnto hym before all men lyuynge/for he hath shewed his mercy vnto vs. It is good to hyde the kynges secretes/ but to shewe & to prayle the wozyches of God/ it is an honozable thyng. Prayer is good with fastynge/ and to geue almes is better/ then to hoorde by treasures of golde. For almes deliuereth from death/ clenseth synne/a causeth to fynde euerylastynge lyfe. But they that do synne & vnrightheousnes/ are the enemyes of their owne soules.

Wherfore I tell you the trueth/ and wyl hyde nothyng from you. When thou prayest with teares/ and buryest the deed/ and ledest thy byner/ and hydest the deed in thy house vpon the daye tyme/ that thou myghtest burye them in the nyght/ I offerd thy prayer before the Lorde. And because thou wast accept and beloued of God/ it was necessary/ that tentacyon shulde trye the. And now hath the Lorde sent me to heale the/ and to deliuer Sara thy sonnes wyfe from the euell sprete. For I am Raphael an Aungell/ one of the seven that stande before God.

When they heard these/ they were sozr astayed/and trembled/ and fell downe vpon their faces vnto the grounde. Then sayde the Aungell: Peace be to you/ feare not. Where as I haue bene with you/ it is the wyl of God/ geue prayle and thankes vnto hym.

You thought that I dyed/ and drynke with you/ but I ple meate that is inuisible/ and drynke that can not be leue of men.

Now therfore is the tyme that I must turne agayne/ vnto hym that sent me: but be ye thanckfull vnto God/a tell out all his wonderful wozyches.

And when he had spoken these wordes/ he was taken awaye out of their sight/ so that they saw hym nomore. Then fell they downe flat vpon their faces by the space of thre houre/ and prayled God: and whē they rose vp/ they tolde all his wonderous wozyches.

Tobiah the elder geueth thankes vnto God.

The .xiii. Chapter.

Then

Ihen old Tobias opened his mouth a prayd & Lozde / a sayde: Great art thou. O Lozde for euermore / a thy kyngdome worlde without ende: for thou scourgest & healest / thou ledest vnto hell / a byngest out agayne / and ther is none that may escape thyne hande. O geue thankes vnto the Lozde / ye chyldre of Israel / a prayse hym in the sight of the heathen. For amonge the heathen whych knowe hym not hath he scattered you / to thynke that ye shuld knowe forth his maruelous woordes: a cause them for to knowe / that there is none other God almyghty but he. He hath chastened vs for oure mynnes / and for his awne mercy take shall he saue vs.

Consyde then / how he hath dealth w you / a prayse him with feare & drede / and magni-fy the euerglasyng kyng in youre woordes.
A wyl prayse him eu in the lande of my cap-tyvte / for he hath shewed his mercie vnto a synfull people. Turne you therfore O ye synners / and do rightuousnes befoze God / a be ye sure / that he wyl shew his mercy vnto
you. As for me a my soule / we wyl reioyse in God. O prayse the Lozde all ye his chosen / holde the dayes of gladnesse / a be thankfull vnto him. O Ierusalem thou cite of God / the Lozde hath punished the for the woordes of thyne awne handes. O prayse the Lozde in thy good thynges / a geue thakes to the euerglasyng God / that he may buyde vphys tabernacle agayne in the / that he maye call a-gayne vnto the / all soch as he in captiuite / a that thou mayest haue toye for euermore.
With a saye lyght shalt thou thyne / and all the endes of the world shal honour the. The people shal come vnto Ierusalem / they shal byngge gystes / a worshyp the Lozde in the / a thy lande shal they haue for a Sanctuary / for they shal call vnto the grete name in I.

Cursed shall they be that despyse the / and all that blasphem the / shalbe condemned:
but blessed shall they be that buyde the bp.
As for the thou shalt reioyse in thy chyldre / for they all shalbe blessed / a gathered together vnto the Lozde. Blessed are they all that loue the / a be glad of thy peace. Prayse thou the Lozde / O my soule / for the Lozde oure God hath deliuered his cite Ierusalem fro all her troubles. I wyl counte my selfe hap-pye / yf my fede remayne to se the clarynes of Ierusalem.

The gates of Ierusalem shalbe buyden with Sapphyre a Smaragde / a all the compasse of her walles with petyous stones. All her stetes shalbe paved with whyte marble stone / and in all her stetes shal Allehuya be sung. Prayse be the Lozde / which hath exalted her / that his kyngdome maye be vpon her for euermore. Amen. And so Tobias made an ende of his talkyng.

Tobias prophesyeth the destruccyon of Ninue.
His sonne reioyseth to Raguel after the decease of his father and mother.

The xliij. Chapter.

After that Tobias had gotten his sight agayne / he liued. xliij. yea-res / a sawe his chylders chyldren.
Now whē he was an. c. xliij. yea-res / he dyed: a was buried honozably in Ni-nue. For when he was fyve & fyttye yea-res of age / he lost the sight of hys eyes / a when he was thye scoze yea- res olde / he gat his sight agayne. The residue of his life led he in toye / and increased well in the feare of God / a departed in peace.

But in the houre of his death he called vnto him his sonne Tobias / a seuz yoge spyngalles his sonnes chyldren / and sayde vnto them: The destruccyon of Ninue is at hand / for the woide of the Lozde cannot saye / and oure byethen that are scattered out of the lande of Israel / shal come thither agayne. And the whole lande of it that hath bene waste / shalbe filled: and the house of God that was byent in it / shalbe buyden agayne / a all soch as feare God shal retorne thither: the heathen also shal forsake their gods / a come to Ierusalem / a dwell there / and all the kyngs of the earth shalbe glad of her / and worshyp the Lozde God of Israel.

And therfore my chyldre / heare youre father: Serue the Lozde in saythfulness / seke after his wyl / and do the thing that pleaseth hym. Commaunde youre chyldre that they do right / geue almes / be myndeful of God / and euer to be thankfull vnto hym in trueth and with all their power. Heare me therfore my chyldren / a abyde not here: but in what daye soeuer ye haue buried youre mother betwene / get you fro hence. For I se / that the wykednesse of it shal byngge it to destruccyon and ende.

After the death of his mother / Tobias departed awaye from Ninue / with his wyfe a chyldren / a with his chylders chyldre / a came agayne to hys father and mother in lawe / a founde the whole a in a good age / a toke the care of them. And he closed their eyes / a was heye vnto all Raguels goodes / a sawe the fyth generacion a chylders chyldren. And when he was. xliij. yea- res of age / he died in the feare of the Lozde / a hys hymnfolkes buried him. And all his posterite continued in a good lyfe / a holy conuersacion: so that they were loued and accepted bothe of God and men / and of all the people of the lande.

The ende of the booke of Tobias.

The booke of Judith.

The buydynge of Egbathanis. The byctory of Nabuchodonosor agaynst Arphaxath. The messengers of Nabuchodonosor are bypplied.

The first Chapter.

Arphaxath the kyng of Medes subdued many people vnto hys domynyon / and buyden a noble stronge cite / whych he called Egbathanis.
The walles of it made he of fre stone / foure squared / seuentye cubytes hye / a. xxx. cubytes brode. He made towres therbypon of an hundred cubytes hye. But vnto the foure corners euery side was twetye fote brode. He made the portes in I. hegyth / lyke as the towres. Thys kyng trusted in his mighty host / a in his glorious charettes.

So in the twelfth yea- re of hys raygne it happened / that Nabuchodonosor the kyng of the Assyrians / whych raygned in the grete crite of Ninue / fought agaynst Arphaxath / a ouercame him in the grete felde called Wa-gau / beside Euphrates and Tigris a Jada-son in I. feld of Erith the kyng of I. elikes.

Then was the kyngdome of Nabuchodonosor exalted / a hys herite was lyft vp: a he sent vnto all them that dwell in Celicia / in Damascus / in Libanus / a vnto the heathen that dwell in Carmel and Cedar / and to soch as dwell in Galile in the grete felde of Ezraelon / to all the that were in Samaria / and beyond the water of Iordan vnto Jerusalem and the whole lande of Iesse vnto I. mountaynes of Ethiopia. Vnto all these byd Nabuchodonosor the kyng of the Assyrians sende messengers. But they all wyllyng consent wolde not agree vnto hym / and sent the messengers agayne emptye / and put them a waye wyllyng honoure. Then Na-buchodonosor the kyng toke indignacion at all those landes / and swore by hys trone a by hys kyngdome / that he wolde be auenged of all those countreys.

Holofernes is sent of Nabuchodonosor to subdue all the world. The preparacion and pursute of Holofernes.

The ij. Chapter.

In the. iij. yea- re of kyng Nabu-chodonosor / vpon the. xliij. daye of
the. xliij. moneth / it was deuptyd in the counte of Nabuchodonosor the kyng of the Assyrians / that he wolde defende hym selfe. So he called vnto hym all I. elders / al his Captaynes / a men of warre / a shewed them hys secreete counsell / a tolde them / that hys purpose was / to byngge the whole earth vnder his domynyon. Now whē they were all consēt wyllyng this sayinge / Na-buchodonosor the kyng called Holofernes the chefe Captayne of his warres / and sayde vnto hym: So thy waye forth agaynst all the kyngdomes of the west / a specially agaynst those that haue despyed my comaundment.

Thou shalt spare no realme / all stronge cy-ties shalt thou byngge in subiectiō vnto me.

Then Holofernes called together all the Captaynes a rulers of all the power in Assyria / and mustred the souldyers vnto the hoste lyke as the kyng commaunded hym / namely / an hundred and twetye thousand fightyng men vpon fote / and twelue thousand archers vpon horsebacke. All his ordynance sent he befoze with an innumerable multtude of camels / so that the host was well prouyded for with oren / a small catell / a that without nōbye. He caused come to be prepared out of all Syria for his host. Much gold a siluer also toke he out of I. kynges house.
So he toke his iourney / he a all his host / wylly charettes / horsemen / a archers: of whō there were so many / that they couered the grounde of the lande / lyke the grethoppers.

And when he was gone past the borders of the Assyrians / he came towarde the grete mountaynes of Ange / whych I. byd the left syde of Celicia: a so he went vp in to all their castels / a wanne euery stronge holde. As for the welthe cite of Melothus / he brake it downe / a spoyled all the chyldren of Charlis and the I. elikes / whych laye towarde the wildernes / and vpon the South syde of the lande of Chelon. He wente ouer Euphrates also / and came in to Mesopotamia / a brake downe all the hye crites that were there / fro the byke of Hambye tyll a man come to I. set: a he toke the borders in from Celicia vnto the coastes of Taphet toward the South.
He caried awaye all the I. elikes / and spoyled all their goodes: a whosoever wyllyngode hym / he slew them with the swerde. After this he went downe into the felde of Ma-mascus in the tyme of haruest / a byt bp all the corne a all the trees / a caused the bynes to be cut downe. And I. feare of hym fell vnto all them that dwell in the earth.

Kynges become wyllyngly subiect to Holofernes.
The tyrannic and crueltie of hym.

The iij. Chapter.

In the kynges and prynces of all crites a landes sent their embassytours: namely / they of Syria a Mesopotamia / Syria Sobal / a Lybia / a Celicia / whych came to Holofernes / a sayde: Let thy wrath cease towarde vs: It is better for vs to serue I. grete kyng Nabu-

Nabuchodonosor with our lyes/and to be subiecte vnto the/then that we shoulde dye / & be slayne / & receaue greater hurte. All our ctyes and possessions/all mountaynes and hilles/al felde/greate & smal cattell/sheep/goates/horses/and camels/all our goodes & household/ be in thy power/vnder thy subiection be it all together. We our selues also & our chyldren wybe thyn alone / come vnto vs a peaceable Lorde/and be our seryce at thy pleasure.

When came Holofernes downe from the mountaynes with hoymen & greate power/and conquered all stronge fenced ctyes/and all that dwelt in the lande. And out of all ctyes he toke strong men / & such as were mete for the warre/to helpe him. There came such a feare also vpon those countrees/that the indwellers of all the cities/the Princes & Rulers/and the people together/wente forth to mete hym as he came / & receaued him honorably with garlandes & tozches/with daunces/tabrettes and pyres.

Neuerttheless though they dyd thys / yet might they not swage his rgyorous Romane: but he destroyed their ctyes / & hewed downe their woddes. For Nabuchodonosor & kynge had commaunded hym/that he shoulde rote out all the Goddes of the lande: to the intent that he only myght be called and taken for God/ of the nacjons in which Holofernes with his power brought vnder hym. So went he thowto Syria Sobal/and thowto all Appamia/ & all Mesopotamia / came to the Tybumeans/ in the lande of Gabaa and Septopol/ & toke their ctyes / and remayned ther xxx. dayes/wherin he caused al the whole multitude of his host to be gathered together.

Israil requyeth help of God/ agaynst Holofernes. They fast and praye.

The.iii. Chapter.

When the chyldren of Israel that dwelt in Jemyphearde thys/ they were soze affrayed of hym. There came such tremblinge also a feare vpon the/ that they forsooke he shoulde do vnto the ctye of Jerusalem & the temple of the Lorde/as he had done to other ctyes & their temples. So they sent into all Samaria rounde aboute vnto Jericho/toke in & occupied all the toppes of the mountaynes/ made fast the towne with walles / and prepared corne for them agaynst the battayll.

Eliachim also & prest wrote vnto all the that dwelt towarde Bethel (whych lyeth ouer agaynst the greate felde by Bethaniam) & vnto all those by whom men myght haue passage vnto them/that they shoulde take in the wayes of the mountaynes/ wherby there myght be any waye and passage to Jerusalem/ & that they shoulde holde diligent watch where any strait waye was betwixt the mountaynes. And the chyldren of Israel dyd/as Eliachim the prest of the Lorde had commaunded them. And all the people cryed earnestly/ & humbled their soules with fasting & prayers/they & they wyues. The prestes put on heartye clothes/ and layed the ponge habes before the temple of the Lorde/ & covered the altar of the Lorde with an heartie cloth. And in one accord they cryed vnto the Lorde God of Israel/that their chyldren shoulde not be geuen into a pray/ & their wyues into a spoyle/that their cities shoulde not be layed waste/and that their Sanctuary shoulde not be inhallowed/and so they to be a shame and rebuke vnto the Heathen.

When Eliachim the prest of the Lorde wente rounde aboute all Israel / and spake vnto them/sayinge: We ye lute/ & the Lorde will heare your petycions/ yf ye contynue stedfast in fasting & prayer in the sight of the Lorde. Remembre Moses the seruante of the Lorde/ which ouerthrew the Amalechites (that trusted in their myght & power/ in their host/ in their wyldes/ in their charrettes & hoymen) not with weapes/ but with holy prayers. Euen so shall all the enemyes of Israel be / yf ye contynue in this worke/ that ye haue begonne. So vpon this exortacion they contynued in prayer before the Lorde yn so much that they which offered bzent sacrifices vnto the Lorde/offred the offerings vnto the Lorde/ beinge arayed in heartie clothes and had alwes vpon their heades. And they all besought God from their whole heart/that he wolde bylet his people of Israel.

Holofernes is discontent with the Jewes. Achior sheweth vnto Holofernes the merueilles of God done vnto the Jewes/ for whych thynge the rulers vnder Holofernes were very angry with him.

The.ii. Chapter.

When came to Holofernes the Prince of the warres of the Assyrians / that the chyldren of Israel prepared them selues to make resistance/ & how they had stopped the wayes betwixte the mountaynes. When was he readyng wyoth/ and called all the Princes of Moab/ & the Captaynes of Ammon/ & sayd vnto the: Tell me/ what people is this/ that kepeth in the mountaynes? What maner of ctyes are they? what is their power? What maner of host haue they? who is their Captayne? And why do they despise vs (more then al those that dwel in the East) and come not forth to mete vs / & they myght receaue vs with peace? When Achior the Captayne of all the Ammonites answered/ and sayde: Syr/ yf it please the to heare me/ I will tell the trueth before the concerning this people that dwell in the mountaynes/ and there shall no lye go out of my mouth.

Thys people is of the generacyon of the Chaldees/ they dwelt first in Mesopotamia/ for they wold not folowe the goddes of their fathers that were in the lande of the Chaldees/ & so forsoke they the customes of their fore fathers (whych had many goddes) and worshipped one God/ that made heauē and earth: which also commaunded them that they shoulde go from thence/ and dwell at Haran. Now whē there came a dearth in to the whole lande/ they wente downe to Egypte/ & there they dwelt foure hundred yeres/ in the which they multiplied so greatly/ that their goodd myght not be nombred. And when the kynge of Egypte oppressed them/ & subdued them in buydnyge of thys ctyes with makinge of claye and bryck/ they cryed vnto God their Lorde/ which punished the whole lande of Egypte with dyuerse plagues.

Now when the kynge of Egypte let them go their waye/ & the plage ceased/ & then followed after the/ to take the/ & to bypnyge the agayne into hys seruyce / whyle they were stynged awaye/ the God of heauē opened the see/ so the waters stode fast vpon both the sydes as a wall/ & these went thowto the bottom of the see by the God. In the which place when an innumerable people of the Egipcians followed vpon the/ they were so ouerwhelmed in the waters/ that there remayned not one/ to tell them that came after/ how it happened. So when this people was passed thowto the red see/ they came in to the wyldernes of the mount Synai/ where neuer man myght dwell afore/ & where the sonne of mā had neuer rested. There were the bytter waters made swete for them / that they myght drynke/ & xl. yeres had they meate fro heauen. Where soeuer they wete (without bowe & arrowe/ without bukkir or sword) their God fought for the/ & caused the to haue the victorie. Yet no man was able to hurte this people/ except it were so/ that they departed vnlawfully fro the worshipping of the Lorde their God. But as oft as they worshipped any other besyde their God/ he gaue the pur to be spoiled/ to be slayne / & to be put to confusion. Neuertheles as oft as they were soze for departinge from the worshipping of their God/ the same God of heauen gaue them power & strength to withstāde their enemyes.

Moreouer they slew the kynge of the Canaanites/ Jebusites/ Moabites/ Bethites/ Cutites & Amozites/ & all the mightye in Mesopotamia/ & toke their landes & cities in possession: & so long as they synned not in the sight of their God/ it wente well with them/ for their God hateth vnryghtuousnesse. For in tymes past when they went out of the waye/ which God had geuen the/ that they shoulde walke in it/ they were destroyed in dyuerse battayles of many nacjons: & many of them were carryed awaye prisoners vnto a straunge countre. But now lately they haue turned the selues agayne vnto the Lorde their God/ & are come together agayne out of the countrees where they were scattered abrode: and thus haue they conquered these mountaynes/ & dwell therein: and as for Jerusalem where their Sanctuary is / they haue it agayne in possession.

And therfore my lorde/ make diligent inquiry: yf this people haue done wyckednesse in the sight of their God/ then let vs go by agaynst the/ for doubtles their God shall deliuer the in to thy handes / & subdue them vnto thy power. But yf this people haue not displeased their God/ we shall not be able to withstāde them/ for their God shall defende the/ & so shall we be a shame to all the world.

Now when Achior had spoken out these wordes/ all the Princes of Holofernes were wyoth/ & thought to slaye him/ & sayde one to another: what is he this/ which darre say / & the chyldren of Israel are able to withstāde Nabuchodonosor the kynge and hys host: where as they are an vnwepened people / without strength or vnderstanding of the feates of warre: that Achior therfore may knowe that he hath displeased vs / we will go by in to the mountaynes: & when the myghty men of the are taken/ he also shall be styckte in the storde/ & all people may knowe/ that Nabuchodonosor is the God of the earth/ and that there is none other without hym.

Achior is committed into the handes of the Jewes by Holofernes. He is ctyed to a tree/ but is loosed of the Jewes. The prayer of the people. Achior is comforted of the Jewes.

The.ii. Chapter.

When they had lest of speaking/ Holofernes toke soze indignacion/ & sayde vnto Achior. For so much as thou hast prophesied vnto vs/ sayinge: that the people of Israel shall be defended of their God/ I will shewe the / that there is no God but Nabuchodonosor. Yet when we slaye them all as one man/ thou also shalt perishe with them thowto the swerde of the Assyrians / and all Israel shall be destroyed with the / and then shalt thou see/ that Nabuchodonosor is the Lorde of the whole earth. When shall the swerde of my knyghthode go thowto thy sydes/ and thou shalt fall downe styckte amonge the wounded of Israel/ & shalt not come to thy selfe agayne/ but be utterly destroyed with the. But yf thou thinkest thy prophete to be true / why dost doth thou then change thy colour: why art thou afrayed? Thinkest thou that my word is not able to be performed? But if thou mayest know / if thou shalt see these things with them / behold / for this hour forth will I sende the vnto yonder people / that when the punishment of my sword (which they haue wrought) falleth vpon them / thou mayest be punished with them.

So Holofernes commaunded his seruantes to take Achior / & to carry hym vnto Bethulia / and to deliuer hym into the handes of the chyldren of Israel. When Holofernes seruantes toke hym / & met hym / & playne felde. But whē they drew nye vnto the mountaynes / the syngers came out agaynst them: neuertheles they gat them away by the syde of the mountayne / & bounde Achior hande & fote to a tree / & so left hym bound wth wythes / & turned agayne vnto their Lorde.

Notwithstandynge the chyldren of Israel wente downe fro Bethulia / came vnto hym / tomed hym / brought hym into Bethulia / set hym in the myddest of the people / and asked hym what the matter was / that the Assyrians had left hym bounde.

Asias the sonne of Micha of the tribbe of Symeon / & Chammim (which is also called Gethomel) were the principall rulers at the same tyme. Now when Achior stode in the myddest of the Senatoures / & before the all he tolde them / what and where he gaue Holofernes / to the thinge that he asked him / and how Holofernes people wolde haue slayne him / & so sayinge / & how Holofernes hym selfe was wroth / & commaunded hym for the same cause to be deliuered vnto the Israelites: that when he ouercame the chyldren of Israel he myght commaunde Achior also to be put to death wth dyuerse tormētes / because he sayde: the God of heauē is their defender. And when Achior had playnely tolde out all these thinges / all the people fell downe vpon their faces / prayynge the Lorde / and poured out their prayers together vnto the Lorde / wth a generall complaynte and wepyng / & sayde: O Lorde God of heauen and of earth / beholde their pyde / & loke vpon our lowyness / and cōsyde how it standeth wth thy sayntes / & make it to be knowne / if thou forsake not those / which holde them fast by the / & how that thou bringest them lowe / & presume of them selues / & make their boast in their awne strength. So when the wepyng

& prayer of the people (which they had made the whole daye longe) was ended / they comforted Achior sayinge: The God of oure fathers / whose power & strength thou hast prayed / shall forewarde the / that thou shalt rather see their destruction. When the Lorde ouere God then shall geue his seruantes this liberte / God be also wth the amonge vs: so that yf it please the / thou wth thyne mayest dwell wth vs.

Now when Asias had ended the cosell / he toke hym into his house / and made a great supper / called the elders to it / and so they refreshed them selues after the fastynge. And afterwarde was all the people called together / which made their prayers all the nyght longe in the congregacion / and besought the God of Israel for helpe.

Bethulia is besieged of Holofernes. The people requyeth helpe of God. They of Bethulia wolde geue ouer the ctyte for wante of water. The prayer of the people wth teares and lamentacion.

The. liij. Chapter.

The next daye / Holofernes commaunded his host / to go by agaynst Bethulia. There were an. C. and xx. thousande fyghtynge men on fote / & two & twenty thousande horsmen / besyde the preparing of the that were wōnes: & came to them on euery syde out of the cōtrees and ctytes which he had takē. All these prepared the selues vnto the battayl agaynst the Israelites / & came on by the hylly syde / vnto the toppe & loketh ouer agaynst Bethulia / from the place which is called Belma / vnto Chelmon that lyeth towarde Edjalon.

Now when the chyldren of Israel sawe so greute a multitude of the Assyrians / they fell downe flat vpon the grounde / strowed ashen vpon their heades / & prayed wth one accord / that the God of Israel wolde shew his mercy vpon his people. And so they toke their weapons / & sat betwixte the mountaynes in the narrow place / & kepte the waye daye & night. But whyle Holofernes was goinge aboute / he founde the water springe / which fro the South syde was conueyed into the ctyte by a condyte: thys commaunded he to be dyrecte another waye / & to cut their condyte in sunder. There were welles also not farre from the walles / whych they used secretly / more for pleasure then for necessity.

Then wente the Ammonytes & the Arabites vnto Holofernes / & sayde: The chyldren of Israel trust nether in speare nor arrowe / but haue taken in / & kepte the mountaynes & hylles. That thou mayest ouercome the / for without the strykinge of any battayl / sett men to kepe the welles / that they drawe no water out of them: so shalt thou destroye the without swerde / or at the least they shall be so feble / that they must be sayne to geue ouer the ctyte / which they thinke not able to be wonne / for so moche as it lyeth in the mountaynes. These wordes pleased Holofernes well / and all his men of warre / and he set an hysorely me at euery well rounde aboute.

And when this watch had endured twen ty dayes / & Cisternes and all that had water / sayled them that dwell in the cite of Bethulia / so that in the whole cite they had not drinke enough for one daye / for the people had water geuen them daylye in a measure. Then came the men and women / yonge persons and chyldre all vnto Asias / and sayd all wth one voyce: God be iudge betwixte vs and the / for thou hast dealt euell wth vs: thou woldest not speake peaceably wth the kynge of the Assyrians / therefore hath God solde vs in their handes / and there is noman to helpe vs where as we are brought downe before their eyes in thirt & greute destruction. Therefore gather now together all the people that be in the cite / that we maye all yelde oure selues willingly vnto the people of Holofernes: for better it is if we be captiue and prayse the Lorde wth oure lyues / then to be slayne and perishe / and to be laughed to scorne and shamed of eueryman whyle we se oure wyues and chyldren dye before our eyes. We take heauen & earth this daye to recorde / and the God of oure fathers (which punisheth vs accordynge to the desertynge of oure synnes) and geue you warning / that ye geue by the ctyte now in to the power of Holofernes host / that oure ende maye be shorte in the swerde / which els shal endure longe for wante of water & for thirst.

When they had spoken out these wordes / there was a greute wepyng and howlyng in the whole congregacion / and that of eueryman / and they cryed an whole houre lōge vnto God wth one voyce / sayng: we haue synned wth oure fathers / we haue done amysse / we haue dealt wyckedly. Thou that art gracious / haue mercy vpon vs / punish oure vnghtynesse / & thynke a wne scourge / & geue not those ouer that knowledg the / vnto a people whych knoweth the not / lest they saye amonge the heathen: where is their God?

And when they were so weery wth this cryng and wepyng / that they helde their tūges / Asias stode by wth watrye eyes / and sayde: Take good hartes vnto you / (deare brythen) and be of good cheare / and let vs waite yet these fyue dayes for mercy of the Lord: peraduenture he shall cut awaye his indignaciō / & geue glory vnto his name. But yf he helpe vs not whē these fyue dayes are past / we shal do as ye haue sayde.

Of the woman Judith whych reposed the amonities because they tempted the Lorde. She also moueth them to encourage & her ten people / and bewyth her cosell agaynst the enemyes of the Jewes.

The. liij. Chapter.

And it happened when these wordes came to the eares of Judith a wyddowe / whych was the daughter of Merari / & sonne of Thor / & sonne of Joseph / the sonne of Asiab / the sonne of Elai / the sonne of Jammo / the sonne of Jeodon / the sonne of Raphoim / the sonne of Achitob / the sonne of Melchias / the sonne of Euan / the sonne of Melchias / the sonne of Salathiel / the sonne of Simeon / the sonne of Ruben. And her housband was called Hannas / which dyed in the dayes of the barthe barne. For whyle he was byndynge the shewes together in the felde / heate came vpon his head / and he dyed at Bethulia his ctyte / & there was he buried beside his fathers. Now was Judith his desolate wyddowe thre yeres and fyr monethes. And in the hyer partes of her house she made her selfe a pryncipall chābre / where she dwelt / beinge closed in wth her maydens. She wore a smock of heare / and fasted all the dayes of her lyfe / excepte the Sabbathes / & newe mones & the solempne dayes that the people of Israel kepte. She was a very saye & beautifull personne. Her housbande also had left her greute ryches / & plenteous household / greute vnmoueable possessions & many catell. This Judith was a woman of a very good repoyte wth euery one / for she feared the Lorde greatly / and there was no body that spake an euell word of her.

When this Judith herde / how Asias had prompted the people / that after the fyfte daye he wolde geue by the ctyte vnto the Assyrians / she sent for the elders Chammim and Chammim / and when they came to her / she sayde: what thynge is this / wheryn Asias hath consented / that yf God helpe not wythyn fyue dayes / he wyl geue ouer the cite to the Assyrians? What are ye / ye tēpte the Lorde? This deuice optayneth no mercy of God / but prouoketh hym vnto wrath and displeasure. Wyl ye set the mercy of the Lorde a tyme & appointe hym a daye after youre wil?

Neuertheles for so moche as the Lorde is pacient / lett vs rather amende oure selues / pourynge out teares / and besechynge hym of grace. For God threateneth not as a man / neither wyl he be prouoked vnto wrath as the chyldren of men. And therefore let vs hartely fall downe before hym / and serue hym wth a meke spete / and wth wepyng eyes saye vnto the Lorde / that he deale wth vs accordynge to his awne wyl and mercy: that lyke as oure hert is now bereyde / & brought lowe thow the pyde of them / it maye so be comforted thow his grace: in so moche as we forsowe not the synnes of oure fathers / which forsoke their God / & worshipped other gods.

And des.

des: for the which synne they perished with the swerde / were spoyled & brought to shame of all theyr enemyes. As for vs / we knowe none other God but onely him / for whose cosforte lett vs tary with mekenesse. He shall requyre & make inquisition for oure bloude / from þe heracions of oure enemyes: he shall bynge downe all the Wythen / that ryle by agaynst vs / and put them to dishonoure / euen the Lord oure God.

Therefore deare brethren / I praye ye are þe honorable and elders in the people of God / vnto whom all the people haue respecte / & vpon whom the lyfe of the people standeth / I praye by their hertes with poure exortacion / þe they may call to remembrance / how oure fathers also in tymes past were tempted / & they myght be proued / yf they wold shew theyr God a ryght. They ought to remembre / how oure father Abraham bynge tempted / and tryed thowow many tribulacions / was founde a louer and frende of God. So was Isaac / so was Jacob / so was Moses / & all they that pleased God / bynge tryed thowow many troubles / were founde stedfast in faith. Agayne / they that receaued not their tentacions with the feare of God / but put the felues forth with vnpatience and murmuring agaynst God / perished of the destroyer / and were slayne of serpentes. And therefore shulde not we undertake to be auenged / for þe thing that is done vnto vs: but to consyde / that all these punishmentes are farre lesse then oure synnes & myddes. Beleuynge also / þe theys correccon cometh vnto vs (as to the seruantes of God) for amendment / and not for oure destruction.

Then sayde Othas & the elders vnto Judith: All that thou speakest / is true / and no man can reproue thy wordes. Praye thou for vs now therefore vnto God / for thou art an holy woman / & fearest God. And Judith sayde vnto them: Serue ye knowe / þe my wordes are of God / then proue my coscell & deuyce / yf it be of God: & beseeche God / þe he will bynge my counsell to good ende.

Thus haue I deuyced: ye shall stande this nyght before the porte / and I will go forth with Abia my mayde: Praye ye therefore vnto God / that he will graciously remembre his people of Israel withyn fyue dayes / as ye haue sayde. As for the thyng that I go in haue with all / as he ye no questyons of it / tyll I open it vnto you myself: do ye nothing els but praye vnto the Lord poure God for me. When Othas the pryncce of the people of Iuda sayde vnto her: Go thy waye in peace the Lord be with the / that we maye be auenged of oure enemyes. And so they wente to her agayne.

The prayer of Judith for the victorie

The ix. Chapter.

Now when they were gone theyr way / Judith wete in to hir oratory / put on an hearme smock / strowed ather vpon hir head / fel downe before the Lord / & cryed vnto him / sayenge O Lord God of my father Symeon / which gauest him a swerde for a defence agaynst þe enemyes / that bled violence & wyllfulnes and that rauyned þe byrgyn & put her to dishonour. Thou þe gauest theyr wyues in to a praye / and their daughters in to captiuite / and all their praye for a spoyle vnto thy seruantes / which haue a yeie vnto the / helpe me wyddow. O Lord my God / I beseeche the for thou hast done all thynges from the begynnyng / and loke what thou hast taken in hande and deuyced / it came euer to passe. For all thy wayes are prepared / & thy iudgements are done in thy euerlastyng for knowlege. O loke now vpon the armys of þe Assyrians / lyke as it was thy pleasure somtyme to loke vpon the host of the Egypciens / wher they bynge weakened / persecuted the seruantes / & put their trust in their charrettes / hoysmen / and in the multitude of theyr men of warre. But thou lokest vnto their host castyng a thyck darcknes before them: and when they came in to the depe / the waters ouerwhelmed them.

Euen so Lord lett it go with these / that trust in þe power and multitude of their men of warre / in theyr charrettes / arrowes & speares / and knowe not / that thou onely art oure God / which destroyest warres from the begynnyng / and that thou art the Lord. I praye by thyne arme now lyke as euer from þe begynnyng / and in thy power bynge their power to naught / cause theyr myght to fall in thy wyath. They make theyr boast / & theyr wyll in halowe and desyle thy Sanctuary / and to wayte the tabernacle of thy name and to cast downe þe hoys of thyne aulter with theyr swerde. Bynge to passe (O Lord) that the pryde of the enemye maye be cut downe with his awne swerde that he maye be take with the snare of his eyes in me and þe thou mayest smyte hym with þe lippes of my loue. O geue me a stedfast mynde / that I maye desyle him and his strength / & that I maye destroye hym.

Thus shall bynge thy name an euerlastyng remembrance / yf þe hande of a woman ouerthrowe him. For thy power (O Lord) standeth not in þe power of men / neither hast thou eny pleasure in þe strength of hoysles. Where was neuer proude personne that pleased the / but in the prayer of the humble and meke hath thy pleasure bene euenmore. O thou

O thou God of the heauens / thou maker of þe waters / & Lord of all creatures / heare me poore woman / calling vpon the / and puttyng my trust in thy mercy. Remembre thy couenaunt O Lord / and mynister wordes in my mouth / & stablysh this deuyce in my hert / that thy house maye cōtinue still in honours / and that all the Wythen maye knowe and vnderstande / þe thou art God / and that there is none other but thou.

Judith decked her selfe to go to Holofernes. The blessing that the elders gaue Judith. Holofernes was in loue with Judith.

The x. Chapter.

Now when she had left of cryenge vnto the Lord / she rose vp from the place / wher she had lye flat before the Lord / and called her mayde / went downe in to her house / layed þe hearme cloth from her / put of the garments of hir wyddowhede / washed her body / anoynted hir selfe wth precious thinges of swete sauoure / dyed and platted her hearme / set an hooie vpon hir heade / and put on soche apparell as belongeth vnto gladnesse / clippys vpon hir fetes / armelettes / spages / earynges / synger rynges / and decked herselfe with all hir best aray.

The Lord gaue her also a speciall beautye and sayneste (for all this decking of hir selfe was not done for eny voluptuousnes and pleasure of the flesch / but of a right discrecion and vertue / therefore dyd the Lord increase hir beautye) so þe she was exceedinge amiable and wel sauoured in all mens eyes. She gaue hir mayde also a bottell of wyne / a pot with oyle / pottage / cake bryd & cheese / and wente hir waye.

Now when she came to the porte of the cite / she founde Othas and the elders of the cite waitinge there. Which when they sawe her / they were astonnyed / & maruelled greatly at her beautye / neuertheles they asked no question at her / but let her go / sayenge: The God of oure fathers geue þe his grace / and with his power persourne all the deuyce of thy hert: that Ierusalem maye resioyce ouer the / and that thy name maye be in the nombr of the holy & righteous. And all they þe were there / sayde wth one voyce: so be it / so be it. Judith made hir prayer vnto the Lord / & wente out at the porte / the & hir mayde.

And as she was goinge downe the mountayne / it happened that aboute the springe of the dape / the lippes of þe Assyrians met wth her / and toke her sayenge: whence comest thou? Whither goest thou? She answered: I am a daughter of þe Hebriues / and am fled from them / for I knowe / that they shall be geue vnto you to be spoyled: because they thought to me to yelde the felues vnto you / that they myght fynde mercy in your sight. Therefore haue I deuyced by my self after this maner: I will go before the pryncce Holofernes / and tell him all their secretes / and will shew him / how he maye come by them / and byrme them / so that not one man of his host shall perishe.

And when these men had herde hir wordes / & considered hir saye face / they were astonnyed / for they wondred at hir excellent beautye / & sayd vnto her: Thou hast saved thy life by fynding out this deuyce / & thou woldest come downe to oure lord: & be thou sure / that when thou comest vnto him / he shall increase thy well / & thou shalt please him at þe hert. So they brought her in to Holofernes paupson / and tolde him of her. Now when she came in before him / immediately he was ouercome & take with hir beautye. He said vnto his seruantes: who wolde desyle the people of the Jewes / that haue so saye women? Shulde we not by reason fight agaynst the for these? So wher Judith sawe Holofernes sitting in a canopy / & was wrought of purple / spike / golde / smaragde and precious stones / she looked fast vnto him / & fell downe vnto þe earth. And Holofernes seruantes toke her by agayne / at their lordes comendement.

Holofernes requyred of Iuda the cause of her coming / which geueh hym a fustell answer.

The xi. Chapter.

Now when Holofernes vnto her: Be of good chere / & feare not in thyne hert / for I neuer hurt man / that wolde serue Nabuchodonosor the kyng. As for thy people / yf they had not desyled me / I shulde not haue liff by a speare agaynst the. But tell me now / what is þe cause þe thou art departed from the / and wherfore art thou come vnto vs.

And Judith sayde vnto hym: Serue / vnderstande the wordes of thy handmayden: for yf thou wilt do after þe wordes of thy handmayden / the Lord shall bynge thy matter to a prosperous effecte. As truly as Nabuchodonosor a lord of the lande lyueth / & as truly as his power lyueth / which is in the to the punishment of all men that go wydg / all men shall not onely be subdued vnto hym thorow the / but all the bestes also of þe feld. For all people speake of thy prudent actiuite / and it hath euer bene reported / how thou onely art good and myghty in all thy kyngdome / and thy discrecion is commended in all landes.

The thyng is manifest also / that Achioz is spake / and it is wel knowne / what thou comendest to do vnto him. For this is playne and of a suretye / that oure God is so myghty. Add. ii. with with vs (by the reason of our synnes) that he hath shewed by his Prophetes vnto the people / how that for their synnes he will be-lyue them ouer into the enemye. And for so much as the chyldren of Israel knowe that they haue so displeased their God / they are sore afraied of the.

They suffre greate hunger also / and for wante of water, they are deed now in a manner. Wherouer they are appoynted to slaye all their catell / that they maye dryncke the bloude of them: and are purposed to spende all the holy ornaments of their God (which he hath forbydden them to touch) for come / wyne and oyle. Seynge now that they do these thynges / it is a playne case / that they must nedes be destroyed: Whych when thy handmayden perceaued / fled from them / and the Lorde hath sent me vnto the / to shew the these thynges. For thy handmayden worshiue God euen here now besyde the / and thy handmayden shall goo forth / and I will make my prayer vnto God / & he shall tell me / when he will rewarde the thy synne: then shall I come & shew the & bringe the thow the myddest of Jerusalem / so that thou shalt haue all the people of Israel / as I shewe without a shepheard: there shall not so much as one dogg bark agaynst the / for these thynges are shewed me by the prouidence of God: and for so much as God is displeased with them / he hath sent me to tell the the same.

These wordes pleased Holofernes and all his seruantes / which marueled at the wysdome of her / and sayde one to another: there is not such a woman vpon earth / in betwixte and discrecion of wordes. And Holofernes sayde vnto her: God hath done well / that he hath sent the hyther before thy people / that thou mayest geue them in to oure handes. And for so much as thy promysse is good / yf thy God persoume it vnto me / he shall be my God also / and thou shalt be excellent & great in the court of Nabuchodonosor / and thy name shall be spoken of in all the lande.

Holofernes commaunded that Judith be well treated. And he desired licence to go out in the nyght season to praye / and obtayne it. Agao is sent vnto her / to moue her to come in to Holofernes to a banquet / and she commaeth. Holofernes is drunken.

The xij. Chapter.

When commaunded he her to go in / where his treasure laye / and charged that she shulde haue her dwellinge there / and appoynted what shuld be geue her from his table. Judith answered him / & sayde: As for the meate that thou hast commaunded to geue me / I maye not eate of it as now (lest I displease my God) but will eate of such as I haue brought with me. Then sayde Holofernes vnto her: If these thynges that thou hast brought with the sayde / what shall we do vnto the? And Judith sayde: As truly as thou lyest my lord / thy hande mayden shall not spende all this / tyll God haue brought to passe in my hande / the thynges that I haue desired.

So his seruantes brought her in to the tent / where as he had appoynted. And as she was goynge in / she desired that she myght haue leue to go forth by night & before daye / to her prayer and to make intercession vnto the Lorde. Then commaunded Holofernes his Chamberlaynes / that she shulde go out & in at her pleasure / so praye vnto God those thre dayes.

And so in the nyght season she wote forth in to the halley of Bethulia / and washed her selfe in the well water. Then wente she vp / and besought the Lorde God of Israel that he wolde prosper her waye / for the deliuerance of his people. And so she wente in / and remayned cleue in her tent / tyll she toke her meate in the euynge.

Upon the fourth daye it happened / that Holofernes made a costly supper vnto his seruantes / & sayde vnto Agao his Chamberlayne: Go thy waye / and counsell this Hebrue / that she maye be willing to consent to kepe company with me. For it were a shame vnto all the Assyrians / that a woman shulde so laugh a man to scorn / & she were come from hym brimmed with all.

Then wente Agao vnto Judith / & sayde: Let not the good daughter be afraied / to come in to my Lorde / that she maye be honoured before hym / & she maye eate & dryncke wyne / & be merry with hym. Vnto whom Judith answered: Who am I / that I shuld saye my Lorde naye: whatsoeuer is good before his eyes / I shall do it: and loke what is his pleasure / that shall I thinke well done / as long as I lyue.

So she stode vp / and deckte herselfe with her apparell / and wente in / and stode before hym. And Holofernes herte was whole moued / so that he dynt in desyre towarde her. And Holofernes sayde vnto her: Drynke now and lye downe / and be merry / for thou hast founde fauoure before me. Then sayde Judith: Sye / I will drynke / for my mynde is merrier to daye / then euer it was in all my lyfe. And she toke and ate and dranke before hym / the thynges that her mayden had prepared for her. And Holofernes was merry wth her / and drancke moze wyne / then euer he dyd afore in his lyfe.

Chap.

Holofernes keepeth for very drunkenness / and Judith cutteth off his heade / and goeth therewith to her same people: of whom she is receaued with ioye. They geue thanks vnto God / for their deliuerance. Judith speaketh vnto Achior / which marueled at her feat to Holofernes.

The xiii. Chapter.

When it was late in the nyght his seruantes made haste euery man to his lodgyng. And Agao / but the chamber dozes / and went his waye / for they were all ouerladen with wyne. So was Judith alone in the chamber. As for Holofernes he laye vpon the bed all drunken / & of very drunkenness fell a slepe. Then commaunded Judith her mayden / to stande without before the doze / & to waite. And Judith stode before the bed / makinge her prayer with teares / & moued her lippes secretly / & sayde: Strengthen me O Lorde God of Israel / & haue respecte vnto the woiches of my handes in this houre / that thou mayst set by thy eye of Jerusalem / like as thou hast promysed: & graunte that by the I may persoume the thyng / whych I haue desired thow the beleue that I haue in the.

And when she had spoken this / she wente to the bedsteade / and toke the swerde that hanged vpon it / & drew it out. Then toke she holde of the hearye lockes of his heade / and sayde: Strengthen me O Lorde God in this houre: & with that / she gaue hym two strokes vpon the neck / and smote of his heade. Then toke she the canopy awaye / and rolled the deed body alyde. Immediately she gas her forth / & deliuered the head of Holofernes vnto her mayden / & bad her put it in her wallet.

And so these two wente forth together after their custome / as though they wolde praye / and so passed by the Wood / and came thow the halley vnto the porte of the ctye. And Judith cryed a farre of vnto the watchmen vpon the walles: Open the gates / sayde she / for God is with vs / whych hath shewed his power in Israel. And when they heard her voyce / they called the elders of the ctye together. And they came all to meete her / little and greute / younge & olde / for they thought not that she shulde haue come so soone. So they lyghted candles / and gathered aboute her euerychone: but she wente vp into an hye place / and caused silence to be proclaimed.

When euery man now helde his tonge / Judith sayde: O prayse the Lorde oure God / for he hath not despyled / nor forsaken them / that put their trust in hym: & in me hym had mayde he hath persoumed his mercy / whych he promysed vnto the house of Israel: yee in my hande this same nyght hath he slayne the enemy of his people.

And with that she toke forth the heade of Holofernes out of the wallet / and she shewed them / sayinge: Beholde the head of Holofernes the Captayne of the Assyrians / & this is the canopy / wherein he laye in his drunkenness: where the Lorde oure God hath slayne hym by the hande of a woman.

But as truly as the Lorde lyueth / his Angell hath kepte me / goinge thither / & remaynyng there / & comynge hyther agayne from thence. And the Lorde hath not suffred me his handmayden to be despyled / but without any filchines of sinne hath he brought me agayne vnto you: & that with greute victory / so that I am escaped / & ye deliuered. & geue thanks vnto hym euerychone / for he is gracious / and his mercy endureth for euer.

So they prayled the Lorde altogether / & gaue thanks vnto him. And to her they sayde: The Lorde hath blessed the in his power / for thow the he hath brought oure enemyes to naught. And Drias the chiefe ruler of the people of Israel / sayde vnto her: Blessed art thou of the Lorde the hye God / aboue all women vpon earth.

Blessed be the Lorde / the maker of heauen and earth / whych hath gyded the a nyght to wounde and to smyte of the head of the Captayne of oure enemyes. For this daye he hath made thy name so honorable / that thy prayle shall neuer come out of the mouth of men / whych shall all waye remembre the power of the Lorde: seeing thou hast not spared thyne awne selfe / but put the in leoparde / considering the angur and trouble of thy people / and so hast helped them fall before God oure Lorde. And all the people sayde: Amen / Amen.

Achior also was called / & he came. Then sayde Judith vnto hym: The God of Israel vnto whome thou gauest witness / that he wolde be auyged of his enemyes / euen he hath this nyght thow my hande smytten of the head of all the vnfaithfull. And that thou mayest se that it is so / beholde this is the head of Holofernes / whych in his presumptuous pryde despyled the God of the people of Israel / & threatened the with destruction / sayinge: wher the people of Israel is taken / I will cause the also to be slayne with the swerde. When Achior saw Holofernes head he fell downe vpon his face to the ground / for very angur & feare / so he swowned with all. But after that he was come agayne to hym selfe / he fell downe before her / and prayled her / sayinge: Blessed art thou of thy God in all the tabernacles of Jacob: for all the people that heare of thy name / shall prayse the God of Israel because of the.

The counsell of Judith. Achior being an heathen man / turneth to God. The Assyrians are escaped of the Jewes.

Chap.

The xliij. Chapter.

Now with sayd unto all the people: We the heare me. Stech by this heade upon our walles / and when the sunne aryseth / take euery man his weapen / and fall out boldly: not as though ye wolde go besyde the / but to renne byd them / wth violence. When the spyres in the tentes se this / they shall of necessity be compelled to fle backward / and to rayse by the captayne to the battayll. So when they capteynes come in to Holofernes panyon / and synde the body wapped in the bloud / fearfulness shall fall upon the: and when ye perceave that they fle / folowe them without all care / for God shall deliuer them unto you / to be destroyed.

When Achyoz seynge the power of God which he had geword unto the people of Israel / fell of from his heathen belefe / and put his trust in God / and let hym self be circumcised: and so was he nombred among the people of Israel / he and all his posterite unto this daye.

Now as soone as it was daye / they stiche by Holofernes head upon the walles / and euery man toke his weapen / and so they wete out wth an horrible crye. When the spyres sawe that / they ranne unto Holofernes tent. And they that were within the tente / came before his chamber / and made a grete rushing to wake him by / because they thought wth the noise to haue rayled him. For there durst not one of the Assyrians knocke / go in or open.

But when the captaynes and prynces and all the chiefe in the hynde of the Assyrians hood came together / they sayde unto the chamberlaynes: Go youre waye in / and wake him by / for he myle are crepte out of their holes / and darre prouoke us unto battayll.

Then wente Magao in to his chamber / stode before the bed / and clapped wth his handes / for he thought he had bene slepyng wth Judith.

But when he had hekened perfectly wth his eyes / and coude perceave no sterynge / he wente hyer to the bed / and lift it by / and then sawe he the dead body of Holofernes lyenge there wth oute a head / murthered in his bloude upon the earth. When cried he wth loude voyce / and wth wepyng rent his clothes / and wente in to Judiths tent / and found her not. And so he leapt out unto the people and sayde: one woman of the Jewes / hath brought all Babilonians people to shame. For lo / Holofernes lyeth upon the ground and hath no head.

When the chiefe of the Assyrians hood herd that / they rente their clothes / and there fell an intolerable feare and trembyng upon them / for they myndes were soze a frayd. And there was an exceedyng grete crye in the whole hood.

The hynde of the Assyrians. The parolite of Israel after them. Israel is cometh ryche / by the spoyle of the Assyrians. Judith is prayd of Joachin and of the people.

The xlv. Chapter.

Now when all the hood herd that Holofernes was headed / they mynde and counsell fell from the: and soch a feare came upon the / that they undertoke to defende the selues by theyg a waye: one spake not to another / but hanged downe their heades / lest all behynd the / made haste to escape from the Hebrewes: for they herde / that they were hallyng to come after wth their weapens / and so they fled by the wayes of the felde / and thow all the fote pathes of the dales.

And when the children of Israel sawe that they fled / they folowed byd them / and wente downe wth troppes / blowyng and making a grete crye after the. As for the Assyrians / they had no ordre / and kept not their selues together / but fled their waye. Neuertheless the children of Israel fell upon them with one company and ordre / and discoloured as many as they might get. And Joachin sent messengers unto all the cities and countrees of Israel.

So all the regions and euery cite sent out their best men after the in harnesse / and smote them wth the swerde / tyll they came to the uttermost parte of their borders. And when they were in Bethulia came in to the tentes of the Assyrians / and toke all that they whych were fled had left behynd them / and so they founde great good. And they came agayne to Bethulia from the battayll / toke wth them soch thinges as had bene theirs: there was no nombre of the catell / and of all costly Jewels / so that from the lowest unto the highest / they were all made riche of the spoyle of them. And Joachin the hye prest at Jerusalem / came to Bethulia wth all the elders / that they might se Judith.

Now when

Now when she came out unto them / they beganne all to prayse her wth one voyce / sayinge: thou wost the type of the cyte of Jerusalem / thou loye of Israel / thou honoure of our people / thou hast done manly / and thy herte is comforted / because thou hast loved clenyng & chastyete / & hast knowen no man but thyne awne husbunde: therefore hath the hande of the Lord comforted the / and blessed shall thou be for ever. And all people sayde: so be it / so be it.

In thretye dayes coude the people of Israel scarce gather by the spoyle of the Assyrians. But all that belonged unto Holofernes / & had bene bys specially (whether it were of gold / of silver / pcyous stones / clotheinge and all ornamentes) they gaue it unto Judith. And all the people reioysed / both women / maydes / and yonge people / wth pipes and harpes.

The songe of Judith by the victorie. After the victorie obtained / the people cometh to Jerusalem / to worshippe and prayse God.

The xlvj. Chapter.

When songe Judith this songe unto the Lord: Begynne unto the Lord upon the tabrettes / singe unto the Lord upon the cymbales. Singe unto hym a new songe of thankesgeyng / be to full & call upon his name. It is the Lord that destroyeth warres / eu the Lord is his name. Which hath pitched his tentes in the myddest of his people / that he myght deliuer us fro the hande of all our enemies. A mur came out of the mountaynes in the multitude of his strength. His people stopped the water brokes / & their horses couered the baileys. He purposed to haue bynt by my lande / and to slaye my yonge men wth the swerde.

He wolde haue carryed awaye my chyldre and byrgyns in to captiuyte / but the almyghty Lord hurte hym / and deliuered hym in to the handes of a woman / whych brought hym to confusyon. For their myghte was not destroyed of the yonge men. It was not the sonnes of Canaan that slew hym / neither haue the grete gauntes set them selues agaynst him: but Judith the daughter of Merari / by her saye betwixt hath discomfyted him / and brought him to naught. For she layde awaye her wyddowes garment / & put on the apparell of gladnesse in the reioysinge of the children of Israel. She anoynted her face / and bounde by her heare in an hooie / to begyle him. Her slippers rauished his eyes / her betwixt captiuated his mynde / wth the swerde smote she of his neck. The Perlyas were ascompyed at her steadfastnesse / and the Medes at her boldnes. When howled the armyes of the Assyrians / when my temple appeared / dyd of the Lord. The sonnes of the daughters haue feared them thowom / & slayne the as fugitive chyldren: they perished in the battayll / for the very feare of the Lord my God. Let us synge a songe of thankesgeyng unto the Lord / a new songe of prayse wth we synge unto our God. Lord / Lord / thou arte a great God / myghty in power / whom nomap ouercome. All thy creatures shalbe seruue the: for thou spakest but the word / & they were made: thou sentest thy spyte / and they were created / & no man can withstande thy voyce. The mountaynes shall moue fro the foundacyon wth the waters / the stony rockes shall melt before the lyke waye. But they feare the: shalbe grete in the in all thinges. Who vnto the people that ryse by agaynst my generacion / for the almyghty Lord wyl auenge hym selfe of them / and in the daye of iudgement wyl be byset them. For he shall geue eye & woymes in to their fleshe / & they may burne and sele it for euermore.

After this it happened / that after the victorie / for all the people came to Jerusalem / to geue prayse & thankes unto the Lord. And when they were purposed / they offered all their byet sacrifices and their promysed offringes. And Judith offered all Holofernes weapens / and all the Jewels / that the people had geuz her / & the canopy that she toke fro his bed / & hanged them by unto the Lord. The people was to full / as the blys is: and this toye by reason of the victorie / wth Judith / endured thre monethes.

So after these dayes euery man wente home agayne / & Judith was in grete reputacyon at Bethulia / a right honorably tak in all the lade of Israel. Vnto her vertue also was chastite toynd / so that after her husbunde Manasses dyed / she neuer knewe man all the dayes of her lyfe. Upon the xlvij. dayes she wente out wth grete worshippe. She dwelt in her housbandes house an hundred & foure yere / & left her handmayde fre / & dyed / & was buryed besyde her husbunde in Bethulia. And all the people mourned for her seuen dayes. So long as she lyued / there was none that troubled Israel / & many yeres also after her death.

The daye wherein this victorie was gotten / was solemply holden / & rehered of the Jewes in the nombre of the holy dayes / & it is yet greatly holden of the Jewes euery sence / unto this daye.

The frame of Harbocheus.

The .xj. Chapter after the Latyne.

MArbocheus the sonne of Jair, the sonne of Semel/the sonne of Cisel of the tribe of Benjamin, a Jew: which had his dwelling in Susis/a man of great reputacion/excellent amonge all them that were in the Kynge's court: Nevertheless he was one of the psoners / whom Nabuchodonosor the Kynge of Babylon had caried a waye fro Jerusalem unto Babylon with Zechonias the Kynge of Juda. In the seconde yere of the raigne of great Artaxerxes in the fyrst daye of the moneth Nisan / had this Harbocheus such a dreame: He thought he herde a greates tapest / horrible thonderclappes / erthqua-kes / a great byproure in the land: a he sawe ss. greates dragons / ready to fyght one agaynst another. Their crye was great. At the which roaring & crye all Heathen were by / to fight agaynst the righteous people. And the same daye was full of darknes & verye bncleare/full of trouble & anguys / yee a greates fear-fulness was there in all the lande. The rightuous were amased / for they feared & plage a euill that was deuysed ouer the / a were at a poynte with them selues to dye. So they cryed vnto God: a while they were cryenge/the lytle well grew into a great ryuer & in to many waters. And with that it was daye / a the sunne rose by agayne. And & lowly were exalted / a deuoured the glorious & proude.

Now when Harbocheus had sene this dreame / he awoke / a mused stedfastly in his bedde / what God wolde do: and so he desyred to knowe all the matter / and his mynde was therupon vntill the nyght.

Harbocheus uttereth the treason deuysed agaynst the kynge / and is therfore rewarded of hym.

The .xij. Chapter.

At the same tyme dwelt Harbo-cheus with Bagatha & Cares the Kynge's Chamberlaynes & porters of the palace. But when he hearde their deuysce / and had bylygently considered their ymagynacyon / he perceaued that they were about / to laye their cruell handes vpon the Kynge Artaxerxes: and so he certyfyed the Kynge thereof. Then caused the Kynge to examine the two gelybes with toymes. And when they had graunted it / they were put to death.

This the Kynge caused to be put in & Cro-nycles for an euillast ynge remembraunce / and Harbocheus wrote by the same matter. So the Kynge commaunded that Har-bocheus shulde do seruyce in the court / and for this saythfulness of his / he gaue hym a reward. But Aman the sonne of Amadathia the Agagite / which was holden in greates honoure & reputacion in the Kynge's court undertoke to hurte Harbocheus & his people / because of the two chamberlaynes that were put to death.

The coppe of the letters of Artaxerxes agaynst the Jewes. The prayer of Harbocheus.

The .xiii. Chapter.

The great Kynge Artaxerxes which raigned from Indis vnto Ethiopia / ouer an hundred and seuen & twentye landes / sendeth his frendly salutation vnto all the Prynces and deb-tyes of the countreys / which he subiecte vnto his domynyon. When I was made Lorde ouer many people / a had subdued the whole earth vnto my domynyon / my mynde was not with crueltie & wronge to exalte my self by the reason of my power: but purposed to equyte alwaye and gentynesse / to gouerne those that be vnder my iurisdiction / a who-ly to set them in a peaceable lyfe / and thereby to bypunge my kyngdome vnto tranquillite / that men myght safely go thorow on euery syde / and to reue peace agayne / which all men desyre. Now when I asked my Councel-lers how these thynges myght be brought to a good ende / there was one by by excellent in wysdome / whose good wyll / trueth / and saythfulness hath oft bene shewed and proued (which was also the pryncypall and next vnto the Kynge) Aman by name: which certyfyed by how that in all landes there was crepte in a rebellious folke / that made statutes and lawes agaynst all other people / a haue allwaye despyed the proclaimed commaundementes of Kynge: and how that for this cause it were not to be suffred / that such rule shulde contynue by you a not to be put downe. Seeyng now we perceaued the same / a this people alone are contrary vnto euery man / bypunge straunge and other maner of lawes / a withstode oure statutes & doynge / and go aboute to stablysh theyr doynge / that oure kyngdome shulde neuer come to good estate / and stedfastnes: Therefore haue we commaunded / that all they that are ap-poynted in wytyng and shewen vnto you by Aman (which is ordeined & sett ouer all oure busynes) and the most pryncypall next vnto the Kynge / and in maner as a father / shall with their wyues and chyldren be destroyed
and

and voted oute with the swerde of their ene-myes and aduersaries: and that there shal-be no mercy shewed / and no man spared. And this shalbe done the .xiii. daye of the moneth (called Adar) of this yere / that they which of olde (a now also) haue euer bene rebellious / maye in one daye with byolence be thrust downe in to the hell / to the intent that after this maner / oure empyre maye haue peace and tranquillite.

But Harbocheus thought vpon all the woythes and noble actes of the Lorde / and made his prayer vnto hym / saying: O Lorde Lorde / thou baleant and almyghty kynge (for all thynges are in thy power / a yf thou wilt helpe and helpuer Israel / there is no man that can withstode ner lett the: for thou hast made heauen and earth / and what won-derous thynges to euer is vnder the heauen:
thou art Lorde of all thynges / a there is no ma / a can resist the O Lorde) Thou knowest all thynges / thou wotest Lorde / a it was nether of malice / ner presumption / ner for eny desyre of glory / a I wolde not bowe downe my selfe ner worshippe proude presumptuous Aman (for I wolde haue bene content / a that with good wyll / yf it myght haue done Israel eny good / to haue hylt eu-er his foeteppes) but that I dyd it / because I wolde not lye the honour of a man in the steade of the glorye of God / and because I wolde worshippe none but onely the my Lorde. And this haue I done in no pryde ner presumption.

And therefore O Lorde thou God a King / haue mercy vpon thy people for they yma-gyn how they maye bringe by to naught / yee their mynde and desyre is to destroye and to ouerthrowe the people / that hath euer bene thyne inheritaunce of olde. O despyse not thy poor / which thou hast deliuered & brought oute of Egypte for thyne awne selfe. Heare my prayer / a be mercifull vnto thy people / whom thou hast chosen for an heretage vnto thy selfe. Turne oure cōplaynte a sorowe in to ioye / that we maye lyeue O Lorde / and praise thy name. O Lorde / suffice not the mouthes of the & praise the / to be destroyed.

All the people of Israel in lyke maner cried as earnestly as they coude vnto the Lorde / for their death and destructione stode before their eyes.

The prayer of Esther for the deliuerance of her and her people.

The .xiiii. Chapter.

Esther also beyng in & battayll of death / resorted vnto the Lorde / layd a waye her glorious apparell / a put on the garmentes that serued for syghyng & mournyng. In & steade of pteuous oymment / she scattered ashes & donge vpon her head: and as for her body / she humbled it / and brought it very lowe. All the places where she was wonte to haue ioye afore / those filled she wth & heare / a she plucked out her selfe. She prayed also vnto & Lorde God of Israel wth these wordes.

O my Lorde / thou onely art oure kynge / helpe me desolate woman / which haue no helper but the / for my mysery & destructione is harde at my hande. For to my yowth by I haue herde oute of the hymnes of my father / that thou tokest Israel fro amonge all people (a so haue oure fathers of their fore elders) that they shulde be thy perpetuall inheritaunce / and loke what thou dydest promysed them / thou hast made it good vnto them.

Now well Lorde / we haue synned before & the / therefore hast thou geuen by in to the handes of oure enemyes / because we worshipped their goddes. Lorde thou art rygh-tuous. Nevertheless it satisfieth them not / a we are in bytter and heuy captiuitie and oppressed a myghte the / but thou hast layed their handes vpon the handes of their goddes: so that they begyne to take awaye / the thing that thou with thy mouth hast ordeined & op-poynted: to destroye thyne inheritaunce / to dye and to stoppe the mouthes of them that praise the / to quench the glorye and worshippe of thy house and thyne altier / and to open & mouthes of & Heathen / a they maye praise the power and vertue of the goddes / and to magnifye the fleshy kynge for euer.

O Lorde / geue not thy scepter vnto them that be nothyng / lest they laugh by to scoyne in oure mysery and fall: but turne their de-uysce vpon them selues / and punish him / that hath begonne the same ouer by / and sett him to an example. Thynke vpon by O Lorde / and shewe thy selfe in the time of oure distres and of oure trouble. Strengthen me O thou Kynge of Goddes / thou Lorde of all power / geue me an eloquent and pleasaunt speech in my mouth before the Lyon. Turne by hert in to & hate of oure enemye / to destroye him / and all such as consent vnto hym. But deliuer by with thy hande / and helpe me desolate woman / which haue no defence ner helper but onely the. Lorde thou knowest all thynges / thou wotest & I loue not the glorye and worshippe of the bntygthuous / a that I hate and abhorre the bed of the bncircum-cysed and of all Heathen.

Thou knowest and wotest my necessitye / that I hate the token of my premyence & & worshipp / which I beare vpon my head / what tyme as I must shewe my selfe and be sene / a that I abhorre it is an bncleane cloth / and that I weare it not when I am quyet and alone by my self. Thou knowest also that I thy handmayden haue not eaten at Amans table / and that I haue had no pleasure nor delyste in the kynges feaste / that I haue not dronke the drinckostinges / and that I thy hande mayden haue had no loye sence I daye that I was brought byther / vnto this daye / but onely in the Lorde. O thou God of Abraham / O thou myghty God aboue all / heare the voyce of the / that haue none other hope / & deliuer us out of the had of the wycked / & deliuer me out of my feare.

¶ Harbocheus mouth better to go in to the kynges and make intercession for her people / and the people meth his request.

The xv. Chapter.

And upon the thyrde daye it happened / that Hester layd away the mourninge garmentes / & put on her glorious apparell / and deckt her selfe goodly / after she had called vpon God / which is the beholder and Sauoure of all thynges / toke two maydes w her: vpon the one she leane her selfe / as one that was tender: the other folowed her / and bare the tragie of her be sure. The thyrde of her bewtye made her face rose coloured. The symilitude of her face was chearfull and amiable / but her herte was sorowfull for great feare. She wente in thowow all the dozes / & stode before the kyng. The kyng sat vpon the trone of his kyngdome / and was clothed in his goodly arape / all of gold / & set with precious stones / and he was very terrible. He lft by his face / that shone in the clearenes / and loked grimly vpon her. When fell the Quene downe / was pale and saynt / leane her selfe vpon the heade of the mayde that wente with her.

¶ Nevertheless God turned the kyngs mynde / that he was gentle / that he leape out of his seate for feare / and gat her in his armes / and held her by the came to her selfe agayne. He gaue her iournege wordes also / and sayde vnto her: Hester / what is the matter? I am thy brother / be of good cheare / thou shalt not dye: for oure commaundement toucheth the comons not the. Come nye. And with that he helde by his golden wande / and layde it vpon her neck / and embraced her frendly / & sayde: talke with me. When sayd she: I talke the (Lorde) as an Angell of God / & my hert was troubled for feare of thy maiesty & clearenes / for excellent and wonderfull art thou (Lorde) and thy face is full of ampte. But as she was thus speakeinge vnto him / she fell downe agayne for sayntnes: for the whych cause the kyng was afrayed / and all his seruantes comforted her.

¶ The Coppe of the letters of Aetharces / whereby he requereth those which he fynd send forth.

The xvi. Chapter.

The grete King Artaxerxes / which raygneth fro India vnto Ethiopia / ouer an hundred & xxiij. landes / sendeth vnto the Princes & rulers of the same landes / toche as loue hym / hys frendly salutacyon. There be many that for the lordys frendshippes & benefytes which are dyuerly done vnto them for their woorthynesse / be euer the more proude & hie mynbed / & vnder take not only to hurte oure subiectes / for piteous benefytes maye they not suffice / and begynne to ymagyn some thinge agaynst those that do them good / & take not only all vnthankfulness awaye from men / but in pryde & presumpcyon / as they that be bmynde full & vnthankfull for the good dedes / they go about to escape the iudgement of God / that seyth all thynges / which iudgement hateth & punyssheth all wyckednes. It happeneth oft also / that they which be set in offyce by the hyer power / & vnto whom the busynesse & causes of the subiectes are comitted to be handled / ware proude / & despye the selues wth the bydyng of innocent bloude / which byngeth them to intolerable hurte. Which also with false & dyscreetfull wordes and with speng tales / disceane and betraye the innocent goodnes of Princes.

¶ Now is it profitable and good / that we take hede / make search therafter / and consider / not only what hath happened vnto vs of olde: but the shamefull / vnboneft / and noy some thynges / that the debites haue now taken in hande before oure eyes / and thereby to be warre in tyme to come / & we maye make the kyngdome quyet and peaceable for all men / and that we myght some tyme drawe it to a chafge: and as for the thyng that now is present before oure eyes / to withstande it / and to put it downe / after the moost frendly maner.

¶ What tyme now as I man the sonne of Amadathu the Macedonyn (a straunger berely of the Persians bloude / & farre from oure goodnes) was come in amonge vs as an aleaunt / and had optayned the frendshyppe that we beare towards all people / so that he was called oure father / and had in hys honoure of euery man / as the next and pryncipall vnto the kyng / he coude not forbeare hym selfe from hys pryde / hath vnder taken not onely to robbe vs of the kyngdome / but of oure lyfe.

¶ With many folde disceate also hath he despyed to destroye Harbocheus oure helper and preseruer / which hath done vs good in all thynges: and innoct Hester the lyke partaker

The boke of wysdome.

xxx.

The boke of wysdome.

¶ How we ought to searche and enquire after God / and who be those that fynde hym. Of the holy goost. We ought to fpe from backbiting & murmuring &c.

The first chapter.

Sett youre affection vpon wysdome / ye that be iudges of the earth. Haue a good opinion of the Lorde / and selie hym in the singlenesse of herte. For he will be founde of them that tempte him not / and appeareth vnto such as put their trust in him. As for fromwarde thoughtes / they separate fro God / but vertue (if it be allowed) resourmeth the vnwyse. And why? wysdome shall not entre in to a fromwarde soule / nor dwell in the body that is subdued vnto synne. For the holy goost abhorreth fayne nurtoure / and withdraweth hym selfe fro thoughtes that are without vnderstandyng: and where wyckednes hath the hyper hande / he fperth from thence. For the spete of wysdome is louyng / gentle and gractous / and will haue no pleasure in him that speaketh euill wth hys lypes. For God is a wytnesse of hys regnes / a true searcher out of his herte / and an hearer of his tonge. For the spete of the Lorde fylleth the rounde copage of the world / and the same that vpholdeth all thynges / hath knowledge also of the voyce.

¶ Therefore he that speaketh vnrighteous thynges / can not be hydd / nether maye he escape the iudgment of repole. And why? inquisition shalbe made for the thoughtes of the vngodly / and the repote of hys wordes shall come vnto God / so that his wyckednes shalbe punished. For feare of gelously heareth all thynges / and the noyse of the grudginges / shall not be hydd. Therefore beware of murmuring / which is nothyng more / & trefayne youre tonge from sclaunder. For here is no worde so darck and secrete / that it shall goo for naught: and the mouth that speaketh lyes / slayeth the soule.

taker of oure kyngdome / with all her people. For his mynde was (when he had taken the oute of the waye / and robbed vs of them) by this meanes to translate the kyngdome of the Persians vnto them of Macedonia. But we fynde / that the Jewes (which were accused of the wycked / that they myght be destroyed) are no euill doers / but his reasonable & right lawes: and that they be the chyldren of the most hye luyng God / by whom the kyngdome of vs and oure progenitours hath bene well ordred hitherto. Wherefore / as for the letters and commaundementes / that were put forth by Aman the sonne of Amadathu / ye shall do well / if ye holde them of none effect: for he that sett them by and inuented them / hangeth at Sufis before the porte / with all his kynred / and God (which hath all thynges in his power) hath rewarded hym after hys deservynge.

¶ And vpon this ye shall publish and set by the coppe of this letter in all places / that the Jewes maye frely and without hinderance holde them selues after their awne statutes / and that they maye be helped / and that vpon the xxiij. daye of the xxiij. moneth Adar / they maye be auenged of them / which in the tyme of their anguysh and trouble / wolde haue oppressed them. For the God that governeth all thynges / hath turned to loye the daye / where in the cholen people shulde haue perished.

¶ Moreover / amonge the hye solempne dayes that ye haue / ye shall holde this daye also with all gladnesse: that now and in tyme to come / this daye maye be a remembraunce to good / for all such as loue the prosperite of the Persians: but a remembraunce of destruction to those that be sedycions vnto vs.

¶ All cyties and landes that do not this / shall horribly perishe / and be destroyed wth the swerde and fyre / and shall not onely be nomore inhabited of men / but be abhorred also of the wyde beastes & foules.

The ende of the reast of the boke of Ather.

Confer not your awne death in the trou-re of your lyfe/deluyge not your selues tho-row the woꝝches of your awne handes. For God hath not made death / nether hath he pleasure in the destruccyon of the lyfynge.
For he created all thynges / that they myght haue their byng: yett all the people of the earth hath he made & they shuld haue health/that there shulde be no destruccyon in them/and that the kyngdome of hell shulde not be bpd earth: for ryghtuousnesse is euerlasting and immortall / but vnryghtuousnesse byn-geth death. Neuerthelesse / the vngodly call her vnto them both with woꝝdes & woꝝkes/and whyle they thynke to haue a frende of her / they come to naught: for & vngodly that are confederate with her and take her parte/are woꝝthy of death.

Confirmacions and despyes of the wyched and their counsell agaynst the faythfull.

Che. ij. Chapter.

In the vngodly talke and ymaging thus amonge them selues (but not right): & he tyme of our lyfe is but short & trespous / & when a man is once gone / he hath no more lope ner pleasure / nether knowe we any mē that turneth a-gayne fro death: for we are borne of naught and we shall be hereafter as though we had never bene. For our byeth is as a smoke in our noses: and & woꝝdes as a sparck to moue our herte. As for our body / it shalbe bery asfloues that are quenched / and our soule shall vanysh as the lost ayre. Dure lyfe shall pass awaye as the trace of a cloude / & come to naught as the myst that is dryuen awaye with the beames of & Sonne / & put downe in the heate therof. Dure name also shalbe forgotten by lytle and lytle / and no mā shall haue our woꝝches in remembraunce.

B For our tyme is a very shadow & passeth awaye / & after our ende there is no retur-nyng / for it is fast sealed / so & no mā cometh agayne. Come on therfore / let vs enioye the pleasures & ther are / & lett vs soone ble the creature lyke as in yowth. We will fylle our selues with good wyne and oymment / there shall no shoure of the tyme go by vs. We will croune our selues with roses afore they be withered. There shall be no sayre meadowe / but our lust shall goo thowto it. Lett euery one of you be partaker of our voluptuousnes. Let vs leaue some tokē of our pleasure in euery place / for that is our porcyon / els get we nothyng. Lett vs oppresse the poore ryghtuous / lett vs not spare the wyddow ner olde man / lett vs not regarde the heades & are gray for age. Lett the lawe of vnryghtuous-nesse be our auctorite / for the thyng that is seble is nothyng woꝝth. & herfore lett vs be.

fraude the ryghtuous / & why he is not for oure profet / for he is cleane contrary to our domyng. He cheketh vs for offending agaynst the law / & schaundereth vs as transgressours of all nuryour. He maketh his booke to haue knowledge of God / yett he calleth him selfe Gods sonne. He is the bewyaper of our thoughtes: It greueth vs also to loke vpon him / for his lyfe is not lyke other mens / his wayes are of another fashyon. He counteth vs but vayne personnes / he rebueth hym selfe from our wayes as from flythynes: he commendeth greatly the latter ende of & lust / & maketh his booke that God is his father.
Let vs se then if his woꝝdes be true / lett vs proue what shal come vpon him: so shall we knowe what ende he shall haue. For if he be the true sonne of God / he will recrease him & despyet him from the handes of his enemies.
Let vs examen him with despyetfull rebuke and toymenyng / that we maye knowe his dignite and poynt his pacience. Lett vs condemne hym with the most shamefull death: for lyke as he hath spoken / so shall he be rewarded.

Such thynges do the vngodly ymagin / & go astraye / for their awne wychednes hath blynded them. As for the mystices of God / they vnderstande them not: they nether hope for reward of ryghtuousnesse / ner regarde & woꝝthpe that holy soules shall haue. For God created man to be vnderstoyd / yett after the ymage of his awne lykenesse made he him. Neuerthelesse thowto enuy of & deuill came death in to the woꝝld / and they & holde of his lyde / do as he doth.

Che conseruacion and assurance of the ryghtuous.
The rewardes of the faythfull.

Che. iij. Chapter.

In the soules of the rightuous are in the hande of God / & the payne of death shall not touch them. In & lyght of & vnylyte they appeare to dye / & their ende is taken for very destruccyon. & the waye of the ryghtuous is iudged to be bitter destruccyon / but they are in rest.
And though they suffre payne before men / yett is their hope full of immortallite. They are punished but in few thynges / neuerthelesse in many thynges shall they be well rewarded. For God proueth them / and synneth them mete for him selfe: yett as the golde in & foymace doth he trye the / & receaueth the as a bzent offeryng / and when the tyme commeth they shall be lohed vpon.

Che ryghtuous shall thynke as & sparkes that renne thowto the rede bushe. & they shall iudge the nacjons / & haue dominion ouer & people / & their Loꝝde shall raryne for euer.
They & put their trust in hym / shall vnderstande

stande the trueth / & soch as be faithfull / will agre vnto him in loue: for his chosen shall haue giffes apeace. But the vngodly shalbe punished according to their awne ymagina-cions / for they haue despyed the rightous / & forsaken the Loꝝde.

Who so despyeth wyldome & nuryour / he is vnhappie / and as for the hope of soch / it is but vayne / their labours vnfrutefull / and their woꝝkes vnprofitable. Their wy-ues are vndiscrete / and their chyldren most vngodly. Their creature is curst / & blessed is rather & barren & vnderfyled / which hath not knowen the synfull bedde: she shal haue frute in & reward of the holy soules. And blessed is & golde / which in his handes hath wrought no vnryghteousnesse / ner ymagined wicked thynges agaynst God. For vnto him shall begeuen & speciall gift of faith / and the most acceptable porcyon in & temple of God. For glorious is the frute of goodlaboure / & the rote of wyldome shall neuer fade awaye.
As for & chyldre of aduourers / they shall come to an ende / & the sede of an vnryghtous bedde shall be roted out. And though they ly-ue longe / yett shall they benothing regarded / & their last age shalbe without honoure. Yett they dye hastily / they haue no hope / nether shall they bespoken in & daye of knowledg for horrible is the death and ende of the vnryghtous.

Che chaste generacion of the faythfull / and of their sepynte. Of the death of the ryghtuous / and of the condegnacyon of the vnfaithfull.

Che. iij. Chapter.

How sayre is a chaste generacion in vertue: & the memorie therof is immortall / for it is knowen in good men. When it is present / me-take exaple there at: and if it go a waye / yett they desyre it. It is all waye crowned & holden in honour / & wynteth & reward of the vnderfyled battayll. But & multitude of vngodly chyldre is vnprofitable / and & thynges & are plased in whoydome / shal take no depe rote / net laye any last foundation. Though they be grene in & byasthes for a tyme / yett shall they be shakē in the wynde / for they shalbe not fast / & thowto the behemce of & wynde they shalbe roted out. For & vnperfecte byaunches shalbe broke / their frute shalbe vn-profitable & slower to eate / yett mete for nothyng. And why? all & chyldren & are borne of the wicked / must beare recorde of & wychednesse agaynst their fathers & mothers / when they be asked. But though the righteous be ouertaken in death / yett shall he be in rest.

Age is an honozable thyng: neuerthelesse it standeth not only in the legth of tyme / ner in the multitude of yeares: but a mans wyld-ome is the graye heare / and an vnderfyled lyfe is the blyde age. He pleased God / & was beloued of him: so that whereas he lyued amonge synners / he translated him yett so-denly was he take awaye / to the intent that wickednesse shulde not alter his vnderstandyng / & that ypocryt shulde not begyle his soule. For & craftye bewitchyng of lyes make good thynges darck / the vnderstand-nesse also & wickednesse of voluptuous desyre turne asyde the vnderstandyng of the synple. Though he was soone deed / yett fulfilled he much tyme. For his soule pleased God therfore halted he to take him awaye from amonge the wyched. This the people se / & vnderstande it not: they laye not by soche thynges in their hertes / how that the lotyng fauoure & mercy of God is vpon his fayntes / & that he hath respecte vnto his chylde.

Chus the rightous that is deed / condem-neth the vngodly which are lyfynge: & the youth that is soone brought to an ende / the longe lyfe of the vnryghtous. For they se & ende of the wyse / but they vnderstande not what God hath deuysed for him / & wherfore the Loꝝde hath taken him a waye. And why? they se him & despye him / therfore shall God also laugh them to scoꝝne: So that they them selues shall dye here after (but without honoure) yett in shame among & deed for euermore. For without any boyce shall he burst those & be put by / & remoue the fro & foundacions / so & they shalbe layed waste vnto the byest. They shall mourne / and their memorie shall perishe. So they beyng afrayed shall remembre their synnes / & their awne wychednesse shall bewaie the.

Che constancye of & ryghtuous before their persecutors. The hope of the vnfaithfull is vnderfyll & vayne. The blessednes and fortunatenes of & fayntes & godly.

Che. v. Chapter.

When shall the rightous stande in greate stedfastnesse agaynst soch as haue dealt extremely with them / & taken a waye their labours. When they se it / they shalbe vexed with horrible feare / and shall wonder at the hastynesse of the sodane healeth: grownyng for very distresse of mynde / & shal saye within them selues / haunyng inwarde for towe / and mournyng for very angush of mynde):

These are they / whom we sountyme had in derisyon / & tested vpon. We foolles thought their lyfe very madnesse / & therfore to be out honoure. But lo / how they are counted amonge the chyldren of God / & their porcyon is amonge

is amonge the sayntes. Therefore we haue created from the waye of truth / & light of righteousnesse hath not shyned vnto vs / and the summe of vnderstandinge not vpon vs. We haue merited our selues in the waye of wickednesse & destruction. Colours wayes haue we gone: but as for the waye of & Lord we haue not knowne it.

What good hath oure pynde done vnto vs? What profit hath the pompe of riches brought vs? All those thynges are passed awaye like a shadow / as a messenger / & a messenger before: as a shippe & passeth ouer the waues of the water / which when it is gone by / the trace thereof can not be founde / neither the path of it in the floudes. As a hynde that flyeth thowow & aye / & no man can be entoken where she is flowne / but onely heareth the noyse of her wynges / beatinge the light wynde / partinge the aye thowow the behemence of her goinge / & flyeth on shakynge her wynges / where as afterwarde no token of her waye can be founde. As lyke as when an arrowe is shot at a march / it parteth the aye / which immediatly cometh together agayne / so that a man cannot knowe where it wente thowow. Euen so we in lyke maner as soone as we were borne / begonne immediately to dye to oure ende / & haue the word no token of vertue / but are consumed in oure a woe wickednesse.

Soch wordes shall they that haue synned speake in the hell: for the hope of the vngodly is lyke a hye thpyll floure (or dust) that is blowne awaye in the wynde: lyke as thynne floume & is scattede abode with & floume: lyke as the smoke which is disperced here & there with the wynde / & as the remembraunce of a straunger that tarrieth for a daye / & then departeth. But the ryghtuous shall lyue for euermore: their reward also is in the Lord: & their remembraunce in the hysse. Therefore shall they receaue a glorious kyngdome and a bewtyfull crowne of the Lordes hande: for with his right hande shall he couer the / and with his awne arme shall he defende the. His gelyouly also shall take awaye the harnesse / & he shall wrappe the creature to be auge of the enemyes. He shall put vnto ryghtuousnesse for a brest plate / and take sure iudgement in steade of an helmet. The vnpryncible spyde of equite shall he take / his cruell toatch shall be sharpe for a speare / & the whole compasse of the worlde shall fyght with hym agaynst the vntwyle.

Then shall the thunder boltes go out of & lightenynges / & come out of the rayne bowe of the cloudes to the place apoynted: out of the harde stony indignacion there shall fall thich haples / & & water of & see shall be moyst agaynst the / & the floudes shall retne roughly together. Yet a myghty wynde shall stande by agaynst them / & a storme shall water the abode. Thus the vntwylous destroyng of them shall bynne all the lande to a wyldernes / and wychednes shall ouerthow the dwellynge of the myghty.

The callinge of kynges / & iudges / which are also exhorted to seche wysdome.

The .viij. Chapter.

Wysdome is better then strength / & a man of vnderstandinge is more worthy then one that is strong. Heare therefore (O ye kynges) & vnderstande: & let me be that be iudges of the endes of the earth. Geue eare ye that rule & multitudes / & delyte in moch people. For & power is geuen you of the Lord / & the strength from the hysse: which shall trye your wynges and seach out your ymagynacions: how that ye beinge offycers of hys kyngdome / haue not executed true iudgement / haue not kepte the lawe of rightuousnes / nor walked after hys wyll. Horribly and that right soone shall he appeare vnto you: for an harde iudgement shall they haue that beare rule. Wherefore is graunted vnto the symple / but they that be in auctoryte shall be sore punished. For God which is Lord ouer all / shall excepte no mans personne / neither shall he stande in awe of any mans greatnesse: for he hath made the small & great / & earth for all a lyke. But & myghty shall haue the sozer punishment.

Vnto you therefore (O ye kynges) do I speake / that ye maye lerne wysdome & not go amysse: for they that kepe ryghtuousnes shall be ryghtuously iudged: and they that are lerned in rightuous thynges / shall fynde to make answer. Wherefore set youre lust vpon my wordes / & loue the / so shall ye come by nourtour. Wysdome is a noble thyng / & neuer saydeth awaye: yee she is easely sene of the & loue her / & founde of soche as seke her. She preuenteeth the that delyte her / that she maye fynd the we her selfe vnto the. Who so awaketh vnto her by tymes / shall haue no great trauayle / for he shall fynde her sittinge readye at his doores. & so thynke vpon her / is perfecte vnderstandinge: & who so watcheth for her / shall be safe / and that soone. For she goeth aboute / sekyng such as are mete for her / & dwelleth herselfe there fully vnto them in their goynges / & meteth the with al diligence. For the vnlayned delyte of refourmacion is her begynnynge: to cate for nourtour is loue / & loue is the keepynge of her lawes. Now the keepynge of the lawes is perfeccion & an incorrupte lyfe / & an incorrupte lyfe maketh a man samplier with God. And so the delyte of wysdome ledeth to the kyngdome euerlastyng.

lastynge. If youre delyte be then in royall seates & cepters (O ye kynges of the people) set youre lust vpon wysdome / that ye maye raygne for euer more. & loue & light of wysdome / all ye that be rulers of the people. As for wysdome what she is / & how she came by I wyll tell you / and wyll not hyde the mysteries of God from you: but wyll seke her out for the begynnynge of the natyuite / & bynne the knowledge of her in to lyght / & wyll not kepe back the truth: neither wyll I haue to do with consumynge enuye / for soch a man shall not be partaker of wysdome. But the multitude of & wyle is & wellfare of & worlde / and a wyle kyng is the vpholdynge of the people. & receaue nourtour then thowow my wordes / and it shall do you good.

Wysdome ought to be preferred before all thynges.

The .viij. Chapter.

I my selfe also am a mortall man / lyke as all other / and am come of the earthy generation of hym that was fyrst made / & in my mothers wombe was I fashioned to be flesch: In the tyme of ten monethes was I brought together in bloude thowow the seide of man / & the commodious appetyte of slepe. Whē I was borne / I receaued lyke aye as other men / & fell vpon & earth (which is my nature) cryng and wepyng at the fyrst / as all other do. I was wrapped in swadynge clothes / and brought vpon my great cares. For there is no kyng & hath had any other begynnynge of byrth. All men then haue one entaunce vnto lyfe / and one goynge out in lyke maner.

Wherefore I delyted / and vnderstandinge was geuen me: I called / & the spete of wysdome came in to me. I lett more by her then by kyngdomes & royall seates / and counted ryches nothyng in comparison of her. As for precyous stone I compared it not vnto her: for all golde is but grauell vnto her / & siluer shall be counted but claye before her lyght. I loued her aboute wellfare and beuetye / & purposed to take her for my lyght / for her sygne can not be quenched. All good thynges came to me in her / & innumerable ryches thowow her handes. I was glad in them all / for thys wysdome wente before me / & I knew not & she is & mother of all good thynges. Now as I my selfe learned vnlaynedly / so do I make other men partakers of her / & hyde her ryches from no man: for she is an infynite treasure vnto men / which who so vse / he come partakers of the loue and frendshipe of God / and are accepted vnto hym for the gyftes of wysdome.

God hath graunted me to talke myselfe / & conueniently to handle the thynges that he hath graciously sent me. For it is he / & ledeth vnto wysdome / & teacheth to vse wysdome a ryght. In his hand are we and oure wordes: yee all oure wysdome / oure vnderstandinge & knowledge of all oure wynges. For he hath geuen me the true science of these thynges: so that I knowe how the worlde was made / & the powers of & elemētes: the begynnynge / endynge and myddell of the tymes: how the tymes alter / how one goeth after another / and how they are fulfilled: the course of the years: the ordynances of the starres: the natures & kyndes of beastes: the surpousnesse of beastes: the power of & wyndes: the ymagynacions of men: the deuetyes of ponge plates: the vertues of rotes / & all soch thynges as are secreete and not looked for / haue I learned. For the wozechmaster of all thynges hath taught me wysdome. In her is the spete of vnderstandinge / which is holy / manyfolde / one onely / cōpall / courteous / discrete / quych / vnderfyled / playne / swete / louyng the thyng & is good / sharpe / which for byddeth not to do well / gentle / kynde / stedfast / sure / fre: haupng all vertues / circumspecte in all thynges: receauynge all spetes of vnderstandinge beynge cleane and sharpe. For wysdome is nembler then all nembler thynges: she goeth thowow and attayneth to all thynges / because of her clemmes. For she is the byeth of the power of God / and a pure cleane exprelyng of the cleatnes of Almyghty God. Therefore can no vnderfyled thyng come vnto her: for she is & byeghnes of & euerlastynge lyght / & vnderfyled myrroure of the maiesty of God / and the ymage of his goodnesse. And so / so moch as she is one / she maye do all thynges: and beynge stedfast her selfe she remueth all / and amonge the people cometh she her selfe in to the holy soules. She maketh Gods frēdes and prophetes: for God loueth no man / but hym in whō wysdome dwelleth. For she is more beutyfull then the Sunne / and geueth more lyght then the starres / and the daye is not to be compared vnto her: for vpon & daye cometh ryght. But wychednesse can not ouer come wysdome / and foolysynes maye not be with her.

The effectes of wysdome.

The .viij. Chapter.

Wysdome reacheth from one ende to another mightely / & louyngly both the ogye all thynges. I haue loued her and laboured for her euen from my youth vpon: I byd my diligence to mary my selfe to her / & she loue had I vnto her beuetye. Who so hath the company of God / comendeth her noblyte / yee the Lord of all thynges him selfe loueth her. For she is the scolemastresse of the of the nurtour of God / & he cholet out of his wozkes. Yf a man wolde desyre riches in this lyfe / what is ryther then wysdome / & wozketh all thynges? Thou wilt saye: vnderstandynge wozketh. What is it amonge all thynges / that wozketh moze then wysdome?

Yf a man loue vertue & ryghtuousnes / let him labour for wysdome / for he hath great vertues. And why? he teacheth sobernes & prudence / ryghtuousnes & strenght / whych are such thynges as men can haue nothinge moze profitable in their life. Yf a man desyre moch knowledge / he can tell the thynges he are past / & dyscerne thynges for to come: he knoweth the secrettes of wozdes / & can expounde darcke sentences. He can tell of tokens & wonderous thynges / or euer they come to passe / and the endes of al tymes and ages. So I purposed after this maner: I wilt take her vnto my company / and comen louingly with her: no doute she shal geue me good counsell / & speake comfortably vnto me in my carefulesse & greife. For her sake shall I be well and honestly taken amoge the comyns & Lordes of the counsell. Though I be yonge / yet shall I haue sharpe vnderstandynge / so that I shalbe maruelous in sight of greute men / & the faces of Prynces shall wonder at me. When I holde my tonge / they shall hyde my leasure: when I speake / they shall loke vpon me: & yf I talke moch / they shall lape their handes vpon their mouth.
Whoreouer / by the means of her I shall ob-tayne immortallite / & leaue behynde me an euerlastynge memorie / amonge them that come after me. I shal set the people in order / & the nacyns shalbe subdued vnto me. Wozryble tyrantes shalbe astroyed / when they do but heare of me: amonge the multitude I shalbe counted good / & myghty in batayll.
When I come home / I shal fynde rest to her:
for her company hath no bitternes / & her sele-ctyng hath no tediousnes / but myght & lope.
Now when I considered these thynges by my selfe / and pondered the in my herte / how that to be ioyned vnto wysdome is immortalite / and greute pleasure to haue her friendshipp: how that in the wozkes of her handes are infinite riches: how that / who so keepeth company with her shalbe wyse: and that he which talketh to her / shal come to honoure:
I wente aboute sekyng / to get her vnto me.
For I was a ladd of a rypp wytt / and had a good vnderstandynge.
But when I grew to moze vnderstandynge /
I came to an vnderfyled body. Neuertheles when I perceaued that I coude not kepe my selfe chaste / excepte God gaue it me (and that was appoynte of wysdome also / to knowe wholfe gyfte it was) I slepte vnto the Lorde / and besought him / and with my whole herte

I sayde after this maner:

A prayer of Salomon to obteyne wysdome.

The ix. Chapter.

God of my fathers / and Lorde of mercyes (thou that hast made all thynges with thy woide / & ordeyned man thowow thy wysdome / & he shulde haue donynpon ouer the creature which thou hast made: that he shulde ordey woide accordyng to equyte & righteousnes / & execute iudgement with a true hert) geue me wysdome / which is euer about thy seate: & put me not out from amonge thy chyldre: for I thy seruant & some of thy handmay-den / am a feble persone / of a woite tyme / & to younge to the vnderstandynge of iudge-ment & the lawes. And though a man be neuer so perfecte amonge the chyldren of men / yet yf thy wysdome be not with hym / he shal-be nothyng regarded. But thou hast chosen me to be a kynge vnto thy people / & the iudge of thy sonnes and daughters.

Thou hast commaunded me to buyde a teple vnto thy holy mount / & an altar in the cite wherin thou dwellest: a lykenesse of thy holy tabernacle whych thou hast prepared for the begynnynge / & thy wysdome with the / which knoweth thy wozkes: which also was to be / when thou maydest thy woide / & knewe what was acceptable in thy sight / and ryght in thy commaundementes. Wende her out of thy holy heuens and from the trone of thy maiesty: that she maye be with me / & laboure with me: that I maye knowe / what is acceptable in thy sight. For she knoweth & vnderstandeth all thynges: & she shal lede me soberly in my wozkes / and preserve me in her power. So shall my wozkes be acceptable / and then shall I gouerne thy people righteously / & be woithy to set in my fathers seate. For what man is he / that maye knowe the counsell of God? Or / who can thynke what the will of God is? For the thoughtes of moztall men are miserable / & vaine forraies are but vncertaine. And why? a moztall & corruptible body is heuy vnto a soule and the earthy manysd kepeth downe a vnder-standing & muleth vpon many thynges.
Very hardly can we dyscerne a thynges that are vpon earth / and greute labour haue we / or we can fynde the thynges whych are be-foze our eyes: who wilt then seke oute the grounde of the thynges that are done in heauens?
Oh Lorde / who can haue knowledge of thy vnderstandynge and meanyng / excepte thou geue wysdome and sende thy holy good frid about: that the wayes of them whych are vpon earth maye be resourued: & men maye leane

leane the thynges that are pleasaunt vnto the /
and be preserved thowow wysdome.

The bestiall of the ryghtwys edmeth thowow wysdome.

The x. Chapter.

Wysdome preserved the first man / whom God made a father of the woide / whē he was created alone / brought him out of his offence / to ke him out of the moude of a earth / & gaue him power to rule all thynges. When a vniryghtuous wente awaye in hys wozath from chys wysdome / the brotherhead perished thowow the wozath of murthur. Agayne / whē the water destroyed the whole woide / wysdome preserved a rightuous thowow a poore tre / wherof she was gouernour her selfe. Whoreouer when wychednes had gotten the vpper hande / so that the nacyns were put by with pryde / she knewe the ryghtuous / preserved him saulely vnto God / and layed by sure mercy for his chyldren. She preserved the ryghtuous / when he fled frid the vngod-ly that perished / what tyme as the fyre fell downe vpon the b. crytes: Lyke as yet chys daye the vnfaulth / walke / and smokyn land geueth testimony of their wychednes:
yet the vntype and vntimely frutes growe vpon the trees.

And for a toke of a remembraunce of the vnfaulth soule / there standeth a pyler of salt. For all such as regarded not wysdome / gat not only this hurte / that they knewe not the thynges whych were good / but also left behynde the vnto men / a memorie of their foolishnes: so that in a thynges wherin they synned / they coude not be hydd. But as for such as take hede vnto wysdome / she shal de-lyuer them from sorowe.

When the ryghtuous fled because of his brothers wozath / wysdome led him the ryght waye / & wend hym the kynngdome of God / gaue him knowledge of holy thynges / made him ryche in his labour / & brought to passe the thynges that he wente aboute. In the dis-ceitfulnes of such as defrauded him / she stode by him / and made him ryche. She saued him from the enemyes / & defended him from the disceauers. She made hym stronge in battaye / & gaue him the victorie / that he myght knowe / how that wysdome is stronger then all thynges. When the ryghtuous was sold / she losoke him not / but deliuered him from synners. She wente downe with him into the dongeon / and layed him not in the bads: till she had brought hym the scepter of the realme / & power agaynst those that oppressed hym. As for them that had accused hym / she declared the to be lyars / & brought hym to perpetuall woithshipp.

She deliuered the rightuous people and saulely seide / frid the nacyns that oppressed them. She entred in to the soule of a seruant of God / & stode by him in wonders & tokens agaynst the horrible kynge. She gaue the rightuous the rewarde of their labours / and led them forth a maruelous waye: on a daye tyme she was a shadowe vnto the / & a lyght of starres in the nyght season. She brought the thowow the reed see / & carped the thowow a greute water. She drowned their enemyes in the see / & brought them out of a depe. So the rightuous toke the spoyles of the vngod-ly / & prayled thy holy name / O Lorde / and magnified thy victorious hand with one accorde. For wysdome openeth the mouth of a dome / & maketh a cyges of habes to speake.
The myracles done for Israel. The vengeance of synners. The greute power and mercy of God.

The xi. Chapter.

She ordey the wozkes in a hād of a holy prophet: so they wente thowow the wyldernes & was not inhabited / & pitched their tentes in the waste deserte. They stode agaynst their enemyes / & were auenged of their aduersaries. When they were thynst / they called vnto the / and water was geuen the out of a rock / & their thirst slakened out of a harde stone.
For by the thynges / where thowow their ene-myes were purged / were they helped in their nede. For vnto the enemyes thou gauest mans bloude in steade of luyng water. And where as they had scarcenesse in the rebuke when the chyldren were slayne / thou gauest vnto thynne a plenteous water vnto the / & by the thynges / that was at that tyme / how thou woldest byngne thynne avnto honoure / & slaye their aduersaries.

For when they were tryed & noxtured to fatherly mercy / they knowledged how a vnigodly were iudged / and punished thowow the wozath of God. These hast thou exhorted as a father / & proued the: but vnto the other thou hast bene a boytous kynge / layed hard to their charge / & condemned the. Whether they were absent or present / their punishment was alwey. For their greife was double: namely / mourning / & the remembraunce of thynges past. But whē they perceaued a their punishmentes vnto them good / they thought vpon the Lorde / & wondered at the ende. For at the last they helde moch of hym / of whid in a out ca-stynge they thought scoyne / as of an abiect.
Neuertheles the rightuous vnto not so when they were thynst: but eue lyke as a thoughttes of a foolish were / so was also their wickednes. Where as certayne men now (thowow beastes/ thou sendest a multitude of some beastes vpon them for a vengeance: that they might know/ that toke where withall a man synneth, by þe same also shall he be punished.

For vnto thy almighty hande/ that made þe worlde of naught/ it was not vnpossible / to sende amonge them an heape of Beeres/ or woode Lyons/ or cruell beastes of a strange kynde/ such as are unknowne/ or spoute fyre or cast out a smokyng breath/ or shotte horrible sparkes out of their eyes: whych myght not only destroye them with hurtyng / but also kyl them with their horrible syght. Yet without these beastes might they haue bene slayne with one winde/ beinge persecuted of their awne workes / and scattered a boade showing the breath of thy power.

Neuertheles thou hast vjoyed all thynges in measure / nombze & weight. For thou hast euer had great strength & myght / & who maye withstande thy power of thyne arme? And why? lyke as the small thinge is the baliaunce weyeth so is thy myght befoze thy yet as a droppe of thy mornyng dew / that falleth downe vpon the earth. Thou hast mercy vpon all / for thou hast power of all thynges: and makest the as though thou sawest not the synnes of men / because they wylde amende. For thou louest all thynges that are / & hatest none of them whom thou hast made: nether didest thou o-beyne or make any thinge / of euell will.

How myght eny thynges endure / yf it were not thy will: O how coulede eny thyng be preserued / excepte it were called of þe: But thou sparest all / for all are thyne / O Lorde / thou louer of soules.

The. xij. Chapter.

Lorde, how gracious and sweete is thy spere in all thinges: Therefore chastenest thou the meaurablye go wynges / & warnest the concerning þe thinges wherein they offende: thou speakest vnto the (O Lord) & exortest the to leaue their wychednes / & to put their trust in the. As for those olde inhabitants of thy holy lande / thou myghtest not awaye w the / for they committed abhominable workes agaynst the: as wythcraft / sozery and Idolatry: they lie w their stone chyldre without mercy: they ate up mens bowels / adeuoured the bloude: yee because of such abhomy nacys / mybleues & offerynges / thou strest the fathers of the desolate soules by þe handes of oure fathers 26: þe lād whiche thou louest above all other / might be a dwellinge for þe children of God.

Neuertheles thou sparedst them also (as men) a sendest the forerunners of Ihuys hood euen homettes to destroye them out by lytle

& tytle. Not that thou wast unable to subdue the vngodly into the ryghteous in battaile oꝝ wꝝth cruell beastes / oꝝ wꝝth one rough woꝝde to destroye them together: But thy mynde was to dyꝛue them out by tytle & litle geuyng them tyme & place to amende: knowyng well, that it was an vnbrighteous nacyon & wicked of nature & that theiꝝ thought myght neuer be altered. foz it was a cursed seede from the begynninge; & feared no man.
 Yet hast thou pardoned theiꝝ synnes. foz who wyl saye vnto the: why hast thou done that? Oꝝ who wyl stande agaynst thy iudgment? Oꝝ who wyl come befoꝛe thy face an auenger of vnbrighteous men? Oꝝ who will blame the, yf the people perissh / whom thou hast made; foz there is noile other God but thou; that carest foz al thynges: & thou mayest declare how that thy iudgmet is not bryght. & here darre nether kynge / ner ty-rante in thy sight requyre acceptaunce of them whom thou hast destroyed.

For to much then as thou art righteous they seest thou ojdrest all things & righteously & punishest even him that hath not deserved to be punished / & takest him for a stranger & an aleaut in the lande of thy power. For thy power is the beginning of righteousness: & because thou art Lord of all things therfore art thou gracious vnto all. When men thinke & not to be of a full strength / thou declarest thy power: & boldly deluereest thou them ouer & knowe & not. But thou Lord of power iudget quietly / & ojdrest be to great woorthye / for thou mayest do as thou wilt.

By such woordes now hast thou taught thy people / that a man also shulde be full & louynge; and hast made thy children to be of a good hope: for euen when thou iudget / thou geuest some to amende from synnes.
For in so much as thou hast punished; and id such diligence deliuered the enemyes of thy seruauntes; which were worthy to die (where tho; now thou gauest them tyme & place of a amendement? they myght haue had their wishednes (id how great diligence then punishest thou thyne awne children / vnto whose fathers thou hast swoyne & made couenaunt of good promises? So where as thou deest but chaste vs; thou punishest our enemyes diuerse wayes to? in that? whē we punish we shuld remēbre thy goodnesse: & whē we our selues are punished; to put oure trust in thy mercy wherefore where as men haue lyued ignorauntly & unrighteously thou hast punished the same & thou hast done the same thinges that they were worthy of. For they wente astraye very longe in the waye of errorre / a helpe of beasts (which euē their enemies despised) for goddys lyuynge as chyliden of no handerstandenge.

Of wyfdom.

Therefore hast thou sent a sorefull punishment among them/as among the chyldren of ignorance. As for such as wolde not be reformed by those lcomes and rebukes/ they felt the mozt; the punishment of God. foz the thynges that they suffered/they bare them unpaciently/being not content in them but unwilling. And whē they perished by the same thynges & they toke so; goddes/they knowledged then/ & there was but one true God/whom afore they wolde not knowe: therefore came the ende of their damnyacyō byd them.

¶ All things be vaine / except the knowledge of God. Thelaters and Jooles are mothed.

The xiii. Chapter.
Xyne are all men, which haue not the knowledge of God: as were they & out of & good things which are sene/ knowe not hym / & of him selfe. is euerlastynge. Neither toke they so much regarde of the workes that are made/as to knowe who was the crafterman of thē: but some toke the fyre / some the wynde or ayre / some the courtie of the starres / some & water / some toke Sonne and Moone / or & lyghtes of heauen which rule the earth / for goddess. But though they had soche pleasure in their beuty / that they thought the to haue bene goddesses: yet shulde they haue knowne/howe much moze saynt he is & made the. for the maker of beuty hath ordered all these thynges. Or yf they marueled at the power and workes of them / they shulde haue per ceaued thereby / & he which made these thyngs is myghtyer then they.

For by the greatnes & beauty of the creature / the maker thereof may plainly be knowne. Nocht withstandynge they are the lesse to be blamed, that sought God, & wolde haue founde him, & yet mysed. And why: for so much as they wente about in his woordes & sought after them / it is a token, that they regarded & helde much of hys woordes that are sente: whiche they are not wholly to be excused. For yf they understoode a knowledge was to greates / & they coulde perceiue the woordes & the creatures, why dyd they not rather fynde out the Lorde therof?

But unhappie are they / and amonge the deed is their hope / that call the Godd / which are but the workes of mens handes / golde / silver / & the thinge that is fourde out by conyng / & similitude of beastes / or any bayne stone that hath bene made by hande of olde.
Or as when a carpenter cutteth downe a tree out of the wodd / & pareth of the bark of it conyngly / and so with the one parte maketh a bevell to be used / & aighteth meate with & respoure. As for the other parte that is left / which is profitable for nothinge (for it is a crooked pece of woodd and full of knobbes) he carueth it diligently thorow his bancke / and (according to the knowledge of his conyng) he geueth it some proportion / forthermore it is after the symplectude of a man / or maketh it li he some beaust / streaketh it ouer with redde / & paynteth it / and lo he what foule spot is in it he casteth some coloure vpon it.

Then maie he be a comendable tabernacle for it, & sooth it in the world, & maie he it fast with pson, & pson pinge to for it, lest it happen to fall: for it is well knowne, that it can not helpe it selfe: And why it is but an yma-ge, and must of necessitye be helpe.

Then gorthy he & offreth of his goodes vnto it, for his chyldren and for his wife: he sekerh helpe at it, he asketh quyncell at it: he is not ashamed to speake vnto it that hath no soule: for health/ he maketh his pet pcyd vnto hym that is speke: for lyfe/ he prayeth vnto him that is deed: he calleth vpon hym for helpe/that is not able to helpe hym selfe: & to sende hym a good iourneye/ he prayeth hym & may not go. And in all the thynges that he taketh in hande/ (whether it be to obtayne any thing or to mooue) he prayeth vnto hym & can do no maner of good.

declarynge thereby / that thou hast power to nes are both lyke abhominable unto God.

Euen so the woꝝke and he that made it also there a plage come vpon the ymages of the

as a lawe/a tyrantys compelled men by violence to honour ymages. As for those & were so farre of/ that men myght not woꝝhypp them presently/ their pꝛecture was brought fro farre (lyke the ymage of a kynge whom they wolde honour) to the intent that with greate dylygence they myght woꝝhypp him which was farre of/ as though he had bene present. Agayne/the singular connyng of the craftesmaꝝe the ignoraunt also a great occasion to woꝝhypp ymages. For & woꝝh-man willinge to do hym a pleasure that lett him a woꝝke/laboured with all his connyng to make the ymage of the best sayson. And so (thozow the beuty of the woꝝke) the comen people was dysceaued/in so much that they toke hym now for a God/which a lytle afore was but honored as a man. And this was the erroure of man lyfe/ when men (ether for to serue thei awne affectio/ or to do some pleasure vnto kynges) ascribed vnto stones and stockes the name of God/whych ought to be geuen vnto no man.

Moreouer/thys was not ynough for the
that they erred in the knowledge of God: but where as they lyued in the greate warres of ignoraunce/those many and greate plagis called they peace. For ether they due their awne chyldre/a offred them/ or byd sacrifice in the nyght season/ or els helde bntreasonable watches. so & they kepte nether lyfe ner marriage cleane: but ether one due another to death maliciously/ or elagrued his neighbour with aduoutye. And thus were all thynges mixte together: bloude/mandaugh-ter/these/dissimulacio/corruptio/bnlaythfulnes/ledepyon/perjury/dysquetyng of good men/bntreasonfulnes/destylling of soules/chaunging of byth/bntreasonfulnes of ma-riage/nygtyng of aduoutye & vnclennesse.

And why the honouringe of abhominable ymages is of cause/the begynnyng & ende of all euell. For they & woꝝhypp Idols/ ether they are mad when they be merry/ or pꝛophecie lyse/ or lyue bngodly/ or els lyghtly for seware them selues. For in so much as their trust is in & Idols (which haue nether soule ner vnderstandyng) though they sweare falsely/ yet they thinke it shal not hurte them.

Therefore cometh a greate plage vpon them/a that woꝝthely: for they haue an euill oppyon of God/geuyng hede vnto Idols/swearyng vntruly to dysceauce/a dyspylling ryghtuousnes. For their swearyng is no bertue/but a plage of them that synne/and goeth euer with the offence of the bngodly.

The voyce of the saythfull prayyng the mercy of God for whose graces like they serue not Idols.

The. x. Chapter.

But thou (O our God) art swete/a long sufferyn and true/a in mercy ordyest thou all thyngs. Though we synne / yet are we thyne/ for we knowe thy strenght. & we synne not/then are we sure/ that thou regardest vs. For to knowe the/is perfecte rightuousnes: yet to knowe thy rightuousnes and power / is the rote of immortallite. As for the thyng that men haue founde out thozow their euell science/it hath not dysceaued vs: as the payntyng of the pꝛecture (an vnprofftable laboure) & carued ymage/whycher colours/whose sight entyseth the ignoraunt: so that he honoureth and loueth the pꝛecture of a deed ymage that hath no soule.

Nevertheless / they that loue such euell thynges/are woꝝthy of death: they that trust in them/they that make them/they that loue them/and they that honoure them. The potter also taketh & tēpereth soft earth/laboureth it/and geueth it the sayson of a vessel/whatsoeuer serueth for oure ble: & so of one peece of claye he maketh some cleane vessel for seruyce/and some contrary. But where to euery vessel serueth/that knoweth & potter him selfe. So with his hayne labour he maketh a God of the same claye: thys both euen he / whych a lytle afore was made of earth him selfe/and with in a lytle while after (when he dyeth) turneth to earth agayne.

Not withstandyng/ he careth not the moze because he shall labour/ner because his lyfe is short: but stryuethe to excell goldmythes/the syluermythes & copertmythes/a taketh it for an honour to make hayne thyngs. For his herte is a wyse/his hope is but hayne earth/& his life is moze blye then claye: for so much as he knoweth not his awne maker / that gaue

gaue hym his soule to woꝝke/ & byethed in hym the byeth of lyfe. They counte oure lyfe but a pastyme and oure conuersacion to be but a market/ & & men shulde euer be get-tyng/ & & by euell means. Now he that of earth maketh fraple vessels & ymages/ knoweth hym selfe to offende about all other.

All the enemyes of thy people & that holde the in subleccyon/are bngodly/ bngodly/a exceadynge pꝛoude vnto their awne soules:
for they iudge all the Idols of the heathen to be goddes/which nether haue eyen/lyght to se/ner noles to smell/ner eares to heare/ner fingers of handes for to grope: & as for their sette/they are to slowe to goo. For man made them/and he that hath but a borrowed sprete/fashioned them. But no mā can make a God lyke vnto hym: for serpyge he is but mortall hym selfe/ it is but mortall that he maketh with bngodly handes. He him selfe is better then they whom he woꝝhyppeth / for he lyued though he was mortall / but so byd neuer they. Yet they woꝝhypp beastes also/which are most miserable: for cōpare thyngs that can not fele vnto them/ & they are worse then those. Yet is there not one of these beastes/that with his lyght can behold any good thyng / nether haue they geuen prayse ner thankes vnto God.

The punishment of Idols/ and the benefy-tes done vnto the saythfull.

The. xj. Chapte.

In these and such other thynges haue they suffered woꝝthy punyssh-ment / and thozow the multitude of beastes are they rote oute. In steade of the which punysshmentes thou hast graciously ordyed thyne awne people / and geuen them their desyre that they longed for:
a new & straige taill/ pꝛeparing the quayles to be their meate: to the intent that (by the thynges which were shewed & sent vnto the) they that were so greedy of meate / myght be withdrawen euen from the desyre that was necessary. But these within woꝝte time were brought vnto pouerte / and casted a newe meate. For it was requysyte & (without eny excuse) destruccyon shulde come vpon those which bled tyranie/ & to shewe onely vnto & other / howe their enemyes were destroyed.
For when the cruell woodnesse of the beastes came vpon them / they myght thozow the synges of the cruell serpentes.

Not withstandyng thy woꝝth endured not perpetually/ but they were put in leaue for a lytle season/ & they myght be reformed/ha-uyng a token of saluacion/to remembre & comandement of thy lawe. For he & cōuer-ted/was not healed by the thyng & he lawe/but by the/ Ocloutour of all. So in this thou shewest thyne enemyes/ & it is thou/which deliuerest fro all euell. As for then whē they were bytten in greshopers and lyes / they bied/ for they were woꝝthy to perishe by such:

But nether the teeth of dragons ner of veny-mous wormes ouer cam thy chyldre/ for thy mercy was euer by them & helped the. Therefore were they punysshed to remembre thy woꝝth/ but hastily were they healed agayne:
lett they shulde fall in to so depe forgetful-nesse/that they myght not use thy helpe.

It was nether herbe ner playster that restoyed the to health/ but thy woꝝde (O Lord) which healeth all thyngs. It is thou (O Lord) that hast the power of lyfe and death: thou ledest vnto deathe doze / and byngest bp agayne. But mā thozow wyckednes sayeth his awne soule/ and when bys sprete goeth looth/it turneth not agayne/nether maye he call agayne the soule that is taken awaye:
It is not possible to eschape thy pꝛyd. For the bngodly that wolde not knowe the/were punysshed by the strenght of thyne arme: with strange waters/ hailes & raynes were they persecuted/ & thozow fyre were they consumed. For it was a wonderous thyng & fyre myght do moze then water which quenchech all thynges: but the woꝝde is the auenger of the ryghtuous. Some tyme was the fyre so fame/that the beastes which were sent to pu-nyshe the bngodly/bzent not: & & because they shulde se & knowe/ & they were persecuted to the punysshment of God. And some tyme byd the fyre in the water on euery syde / that it might destroye & bngodly nacio of the earth. Agayne/ thou hast sed thine awne people in Jungels fode/ & sent the byd ready fro heauen (without their labour) be pyng be py pleasunt and well gusted. And to shewe thy ryches & swetnesse vnto thy chyldre/ thou gauest euery one their desyre/ so that euery mā myght take what lyke hym best. But the knowe & ple abode the violence of the fyre/ & melted not: that they myght knowe/ that the fyre burnyng in the hale & rayne/destroyed the frute of the enemyes: the fyre also forgat his strenght agayne/ & the rightuous myght be nourished. For the creature that serueth the (which art the maker) is fearle in punysshing the bngodly/ but is easy & gentle to do good/ vnto such as put their trust in &. Therefore byd all thynges alter at the same tyme/and were all obedient vnto thy grace/ which is the nozle of all thynges/ accoꝝdyng to the desyre of them that had nede therof: that thy chyldren/ O Lord/ whō thou louest/ myght knowe/that it is not nature & the growyng of stutes & fedeth me/ but & it is thy woꝝde/which preserueth them that put their trust in the. For loke what myght not be destroyed Ecc. iij. with

with the fyre/as soone as it was warmed in a lytle sunne beame/it melted:that al men might knowe/ & thankes ought to be geuen vnto the befoze & sunneryle/and that thou oughtest to be worshypped befoze the daye springe. For the hope of the brynnyng full shall melt awaye as the wynter yse / and perthe as water/that is not necessary.

The iudgements of God vpon the Egyptians.

The. xviij. Chapter.

Where are thy iudgements (O Lord) & thy counceils can not be exprested: therfoze men do erre / & will not be reformed wth thy wysdome. For when the brynnyng thought to haue the holy people in subieccion / they were bode with the handes of darchnes & longe nyght / wth vnder the roke / thynkinge to escape the euertlastyng wysdome. And whyle they thought to be hyn in the darchnesse of their synnes / they were scatered abrode in & very myddest of the darch couerynge of forgetfulnes / put to horrible feare & wonderously beked for the comer where they myght not kepe them fro feare: because the sounde came downe & beked them: yee many terrible and straunge visions made them afayed.

No power of the fyre myght geue them lyght / nether myght the cleare flammes of & flares lighten & horrible night. For there appeared vnto the a sodane fyre / very dydefull: At & which (when they sawe nothinge) they were so afayed / that they thought & thynge which they sawe / to be the moze fearfull. As for the sozcery & enchauntemēt & they bled / it came to derision / & the proude wysdome was brought to shame. For they & promysed to bypue awaye the fearfulness & dyde from & wake soules / were lyck for feare them selues / & that is soome. And though none of & wonders feared the / yet were they a straied at & beestes which came vnto the / & at & dyspyng of the serpentes. In so moch that wth trembling they smownd / & sayde they sawe not & ayre / which no man yet maye escape.

For it is an heuy thynge / when a mans awne conscience beareth recozde of his wprkednes & condepneth him. And why? a beked and wounded conscience / taketh euertuell thynges in hāde / fearfulness is nothyng els / but a declaryng that a man sekeith helpe & defence / to answere for hym self. And loke how moche leste & hope is within / & moze is the vncertētye of the matter / for the wypph he is punysshed. But they that came in the myghty nyght: slepte & slepte & fell vpon the sūd vnder & from aboute: somtyme were they afayed thozow the feare of the wonders / &

comtyme they were so weakē & they smownd wthall: for an hasty & sodane fearfulness came vpon them. Afterwarde / yf eny of the had fallen / he was kepte and shutt in pteson but without charynes. But yf eny dwelt in a byllage / yf he had bene an herd or husbandman / he suffred intollerable necessity: for they were all bode in one chayne of darchnesse.

Whether it were a blaspyng wynde / or a swete songe of & bydes amonge the thyecke bryanches of the trees / or the behemence of hasty rānyng water / or grete noyse of the fallynge downe of stones / or the playenge & rānyng of beastes whom they sawe not / or the mightie noyse of roaringe beastes / or the lownde & answereth agayne in the hys moūtaynes: it made the smowne for very feare. For all the earth thyned in cleare lyght / & no mā was hindered in his labour. Whely vnto them there fell a heuy nyght / an ymage of darchnesse that was to come vpon them. Yee they were vnto them selues the most heuy & horrible darchnesse.

The fyre lyght that they Israhelites had in Egypte the persynge of the saythfull. The Lord smote all the fyre hōnes of Egypte. The synne of the people in the wyldernes. Aaron kede betwixt the lyue & the dede / wth his consoure.

The. xxiij. Chapter.

Neuertheles thy sanctes had a very grete lyght (and & enemyes herde thei boyce / but they sawe not the figure of them.) And because they suffred not & same thynges / they magnyfyed the: and they that were beked afoze (because they were not hurte now) thanked the / and besought the (O God) that there myght be a difference. Therfoze had they a burnyng pyler of fyre to lede the in the vn knowne waye & thou gauest them & sunne for a fre gyft without eny hurt. Reason it was / that they shulde want lyght and be put in the pteson of darchnes / which kepte thy chyldren in captiuite / by whom the incorrupte lyght of & lawe of & woide was for to be geuē. When they thought to slaye & babes of & righteous (one being layed out / and preserued to be le-der vnto the other) thou broughtest out the whole multitude of the chyldren / and destropdest these in the myghty water. Of that nyght were our fathers certyfyed & foze / & they knowyng vnto what othe & they had geuē credēce / myght be of good cheare. Thus thy people receaued the health of the righteous / but & yngodly were destroyed. For lyke as thou hast hurte our enemyes / so hast thou promoted vs wth thou callest a foze. For & righteous chyld of the good mē offered secretly and ozyed the lawe of righteousness vnto brite: & the lust shulde receaue good & euell in lyke maner / singyng prayes vnto & father father of all men. Agayne / there was herde an vncouenient boyce of the enemyes / & a pyteous crye for chyldren & were bewayled. The master and the seruaūt were punysshed in lyke maner. For they all together had innumerable that dyed one death.

Nether were & lyunge sufficient to bury & dede / for in & twynchlyng of an eye / & no blest nacion of the was destroyed. As oft as God helped the afoze / yet wolde it not make them beleue: but in the destruccyon of & first bozne they knowledged / that it was the people of God. For whyle all thynges were still / & whē the nyght was in the myddest of her course / thy wylmyghty woide (O Lord) lea-pte downe from heauen out of thy royall trow / as a tough man of warre / in the myddest of the lande that was destroyed: and the swarpe shewde persourmed their strate commaundement / standyng & fellyng all thyngs wth death: yet it stode vpon the earth & reached vnto the heauen. Then the syght of the euell dychames beked them sodenly / and fearfulness came vpon them bwarres.

Then laye there one here / another there / half dede half quych / and shewde the cause of his death. For the visions that beked them / shewde them these thyngs afoze: so that they were not ignoraūt / wherfoze they perpyshed.

The tentacyon of death touched the ryghteous also / and amonge the multitude in the wyldernes there was insurreccion / but thy wath endured not longe. For the faultlesse man wente in all the hāst / and to ke the batayll vpon hym / brought forth the weapen of his mynistracyon: euen prayre and the censours of reconcyllyng: sett hym self agaynst the wath / and so brought the mistery to an ende: declaryng therby / that he was thy seruaut. For he overcame not the multitude wth bodily power / nether wth weapens of myght: but wth the woide he subdued hym that be-ke hym / puttyng the in remembraunce of the othe & couenaunt made vnto the fathers. For when the dede were fallen downe by heapes one vpon another / he stode in the myddest / pacified the wath / and parted & waye vnto the lyunge. And why? in hys longe garment was all the beauty / & in & four corners of the stoness was the gloze of the fathers grauen / and thy mayesty was wyrtten in the crowne of his head. Vnto these the destroyer gaue place / and was afayed of them: for it was only a tentacyon wothy of wath.

The death of the Egyptians / and the grete joye of the Hebrewes. The mrate that was geuen at the desyre of the people. The elemences serue not onely in the wyll of God / but also the wyll of man.

The. xxiij. Chapter.

So for the brygday / & wath came vnto them without mercy vnto & ende. For he knew befoze what shulde happen vnto them: how that (when they had consented to lett them go / & had sent them out wth grete dyspyce) they wolde repente / and folowe vpon them. For when they were yet mournyng & mayng lamentacion by the graues of the dede / they deuyfed another foolysynes: so that they persecuted them in their styng / whom they had cast out afoze wth prayre. Wherby necessity also brought them vnto this ende / for they had cleane forgotten the thynges that happened vnto them afoze. But the thynge that was wantyng of their punysshment / was requypte so to be fulfilled vpon them wth toymentes: & thy people might haue a marvelous passage thozow / & that these myght fynde a straunge death.

Then was euery creature fashyoned agayne of new accordyng to the wyll of & their maker / obeyng thy commaundementes that thy chyldren myght be kept without hurte / for the cloude ouer shadowed their tētes / & the drye earth appeared / where afoze was water: so that in the reed see there was a waye without impedymēt / and the great depe be came a grene felde: where thozow all the people wente & were defended wth thy hande / seinge thy wonderous & marueous moyses. For as the boyses / so were they feed / & leapte lyke lumbes / prayyng the (O Lord) which haddest deliuered them. And why? they were yet myndefull of the thyngs / that happened whyle they dwelt in the lande: how & grounde brought forth fress in steade of cattell / & how the ruer scawled wth & multitude of frogges in steade of fyshes.

But at the last they sawe a new creatyon of bydes / what tyme as they were discaued wth lust / and despyred delicate meates. For when they were speakinge of their appetite / the quaples came vnto the from the see / and purpymentes came vpon the synnetes not without the tokens whych came to passe afoze by the behemence of the streames: for they suffred wothely accordyng to thez wretchednes / they dealt so abhominably & churlyshly wth straungers. Some receaued no brynnyng gellyes / some brought & straggers in to bondage that dyd them good. Besyde all these thynges there were some / that not only receaued no straungers wth their wylls / but persecuted those also / and dyd them moche euell / that receaued them gladly. Therfoze were they punysshed wth blyndnesse / lyke as they that were couered wth sodane darchnesse at & dozes of the righteous so & euery one sought & entrance of his doze.

See. iij. Thus

Thus the elementes turned in to them selves / yke as when one tyme is chaunged upon an instrument of musyck / and yet all the resydue kepe their melody: whych maye easily be perceaved / by the syght of þe thyngs that are come to passe. The dyke lande was turned into a watery / and the thyng þe afoze swamme in the water / wente now upon the dyke grounde. The fyre hath power in þe water (contrary to his awne vertue) and the water forgat his awne kinde to quench. Agayne / the flammes of the noysome beastes hurte not the flesch of them that wente wyth them / nether melted they the yse / which els melteth lightly. In all thynges hast thou promoted the people (O Lord) and brought the to honour: thou hast not despyled the / but allwaye & in all places hast thou stande by them.

The ende of the boke of wysdome.

The boke of Jesus the sonne of Syrach / which is called in latyne Ecclesiasticus.

2

The Prologe of Jesus the sonne of Syrach into his boke.

Many and greate men haue declared wysdome vnto vs out of the lawe / out of the Prophetes and oute of other that folowed them. In the which thynges I tracl ought to be commended / by the reason of doctryne & wysdome: wherfore they that haue it and reade it / shuld not onely the selues be wyse there thorow / but serue other also wyth teachyng and wyrtunge.

After that my graund father Jesus had geuen diligent laboure to reade the lawe / the Prophetes and other bokes that were left vs of oure fathers / and had well excerpced hym selfe therein: he purposed also to wyrtie some thyng of wysdome & good maners / to the intent that they which were willenge to learne and to be wyse myght haue the moze vnderstandyng / and be the moze apte to leade a good conuersacyon.

Wherfore I exorte you to receaue it lounyngly / to reade it wyth dylligence / and to take it in good worth / though oure wordes be not so eloquent as the famous oratours: for þe thyng that is wyrtten in the hebreue tonge / soundeth not so well when it is translated in to another sprache. Not only this boke of myne / but also the lawe / the Prophetes & other bokes sounde farre other wyse / then they do / when they are spoken in their awne language.

Now in the xxxviij. yere when I came in to Egypte in the tyme of Ptolome Euergetes / and contynued there all my lyfe / I gat lybertie to reade & wyrtie many good thynges. Wherfore I thought it good and necessary / to bestowe my dylligence and traualle to inter-pretre this boke. And consyderinge that I had tyme / I laboured and bydmy best to perfourme this boke / and to byrnye it vnto lycht: that the straungers also which are disposed to learne / myght apperthe them selues vnto good maners / and lyue accoydyng to the lawe of the Lord.

2

The wysdome procedeth and cometh of God. A prayse of the feare of God. Rightwysnes is a degre to come by wysdome.

The fyrst Chapter.

Al wysdome cometh of God the Lord / & hath bene euertym with hym / and is before all tyme. Who hath nombred the sande of þe see / the dropes of the raim / and the dayes of tyme: who hath measured the heygth of heauen / the bredth of the earth / the depthe of the see: who hath sowght out the grounde of Goddes wysdome / which hath bene before all thynges: wysdome hath bene before all thynges / and the vnderstandyng of prudence from euertastynge. (Gods worde in þe heygth is the well of wysdome / and the euertastynge comaundementes are the entraunce of her.) vnto whom hath the rote of wysdome bene declared: or who hath knowne her wyrt: vnto who hath þe doctryne of wysdome bene discovered & reueled: & who hath vnderstande þe many folde entraunce of her?

There is one: euen the Hycht / the maker of all thynges / & Allmyghty / the kyng of power (of whom me ought to stande greatly in awe) which sytteth vpon his throne / beinge a God of domynys: he hath created her thorow þe holy gost: he hath sene her / nombred her / and measured her: he hath pouzed her out vpon all his wordes / and vpon all flesh / accoordinge to his gyft: he geueth her richely vnto them that loue hym. The feare of the Lord is wysdome and triumphe / gladnesse & a idyll crowne. The feare of the Lord maketh a mery hert / geueth gladnesse / ioye and longe lyfe. Who so feareth the Lord / it shall go well wyth hym at the last / & in the daye of hys death he shall be blessed.

The loue of God is honozable wysdome: loke vnto whom it appereth / they loue yt / for they se what wonderous thynges it doth. The feare of þe Lord ys the begynnyng of wysdome / and was made wyth the saythfull in the mothers wombe: yt shall go wyth the chosen women / and shalbe knowne of the ryghteous and saythfull. The feare of the Lord is the ryght Gods seruyce / that prerserueth and iustifieth the hert / and geueth myght and gladnesse. Who so feareth þe Lord shall be happy: and when he hath nede of comferte / he shall be blessed. To feare God is þe wysdome that maketh ryche / and byrnyeth all good in her. She fylleth the whole house wyth her gyftes / and the garners wyth her treasure. The feare of the Lord ys the crowne of wysdome / and geueth plenteous pence and health. He hath sene her and nombred her: knowlege and vnderstandyng of wysdome hath he pouzed out as rayne: a them þe helde her fast / hath he brought vnto honour.

The feare of the Lord ys the rote of wysdome / and her byaunches are longe lyfe. In the treasures of wysdome ys vnderstandyng and deuocyon of knowledge / but wysdome is abhoyred of synners. The feare of the Lord byrnyeth out synne / for he that is wythout feare / can not be made ryghteous / and his wyllfull boldnes is his awne destruccio. A pacient man wyll suffre vnto the tyme / & the shall be haue þe rewarde of ioye. A good vnderstandyng wyll hyde his wordes for a tyme / and many mens lippes shall speake of his wysdome. In the treasures of wysdome is the declaracyon of doctryne / but the synner abhoyreth the wyrt of God. Wysdome / yt thou desyre wysdome / kepe the comaundement / and God shall geue her vnto the: for the feare of the Lord is wysdome & nourtoure / he hath pleasure in sayth and lounyng mekenesse / and he shall fyl the treasures ther of. Be not obstinate and vnfaithfull to the feare of the Lord / and come not vnto him with a double hert. Be not an hypocryte in the sight of men / and take good hert what thou speakest. Marche well these thynges / lest thou happen to fall and byrnye thy soule to dishonoure / and so God discover thy secrettes / and cast the doone in the myddest of þe congregacyon: because thou woldest not receaue þe feare of God / & because thy hert is full of saynednes and discreete.

He exhorteth the seruantes of God to ryghtwysnes / loue / vnderstandyng / and patience / and exhorteth him that feareth God / to beleue / to hope / and to loue: because God neither confoundeth nee forsaketh them / that trust in hym. A curse vpon the fottell / craye / & impudent of herte.

The ij. Chapter.

Manne / yt thou wilt come into the seruyce of God / stande fast in thy ryghtwysnes and feare / and arme thy soule to tentacyon: sette thine hert / and be pacient: bowe downe thine eare receaue the wordes of vnderstandyng / and thynke not awaye / when thou art entyled. Holde the fast vpon God / for he thy selfe unto hym and suffice / that thy lyfe maye encrease at þe last. Whatsoeuer happeneth vnto the / receaue it: suffice in heuynesse / & be patient in thy trouble. For lyke as golde & syluer are tryed in the fyre / euen so are acceptable men in the fornace of aduersyte. Beleue in God / & he shall helpe the: & ordeyne thy waye aright / and put thy trust in him. Holde fast his feare / and growe therein. O ye that feare þe Lord / take sure holde of his mercy: synne he not awaye fro him / that ye fall not. O ye that feare the Lord / beleue hym / and poure rewarde shall not be emptye. O ye þe feare þe Lord / put poure trust in him / & mercy shall come vnto you for pleasure. O ye that feare the Lord / set poure loue vpon him / & poure hartes shall be lychtened.

See. b. vnto

25 Consydre the olde generacions of men (O ye chyldren) and marke them well: was there euer any one confounded / that put his trust in þe Lord? Who euer continued in his feare and was forsaken? O whom dyd he euer despyse / that called faithfully vpon him? For God is gracious and mercifull / he forgiveth synnes in the tyme of trouble / and is a defender for all them that seke hym in the trueth. Ido be vnto him þe hath a duble helpe / wycked lypyes and euell occupied handes / & to the synner þe goeth two maner of wayes. Ido be vnto them that are loofe of herte / which put not their trust in God / & therfore shall they not be defended of hym. Ido be vnto them that haue lost patience / forsaken þe ryght wayes / and are turned back in to forward wayes. What wyl they do / when the Lord shall begynne to byset them?

26 They that feare the Lord / wyl not mistrust his worde: and they that loue him / wyl kepe his commaundement. They that feare the Lord wyl seke out the thynges / that are pleasaunt vnto hym: & they that loue hym / shall fulfill his laue. They þe feare þe Lord wyl prepare their hartes / and humble their soules in his syght. They þe feare the Lord kepe his commaundement / & wyl be patient tyll they se hym self / sayinge: better it is for vs to fall into the handes of the Lord / then into the handes of men: for his mercy is as grete as hym selfe.

Our father and mother ought we to geve double honour. Of the blessing and curse of the father and mother. No man ought ouer curiously to searche out the secretes of God.

The. iij. Chapter.

27 The chyldren of wysdome are a congregacion of the ryghteous / and their exerceise is obedience & loue. Heare me poure father (O my deare chyldren) & do there after / that ye may be safe. For the Lord wyl haue the father honoured of the chyldren / and loke what a mother commaundeth her chyldren to do: he wyl haue it kepte. Who so honoureth his father / his synnes shall be forgiven him: and he that honoureth his mother is lyke one þe gathereth treasure together. Who so honoureth his father / shall haue hope of his awne chyldren: and when he maketh his prayer / he shall be herde. He that honoureth his father / shall haue a longe lyfe: and he that is obedient for the Lordes sake / his mother shall haue hope of him.

28 He that feareth the Lord / honoureth his father and mother / and doth them scrupce / as it were vnto the Lord himselfe. Honoure thy father in dede / in worde / and in all patience / that thou mayest haue his blessing: for the blessing of the father buydeth by the houses of the chyldren / but the mothers curse roteth out the foundacions. Reioyse not when thy father is reproued / for it is no honour vnto the / but a shame. For the worshippe of a mas father is his awne worshippe / and where the father is without honour / it is the dishonour of the sonne. My sonne / make moch of thy father in his age / & greue him not as longe as he liueth. And yf his vnderstanding faile / haue patience with him / and despyse hym not in thy strength. For the goodde that thou shewest vnto thy father / shall not be forgotten: & when thou thy selfe wanted / it shall be rewarded the (& for thy mothers offence thou shalt be recompensed with good / yee it shall be founded for the in ryghtuousnes) & in the daye of trouble thou shalt be remembred: thy synnes also shall melt awaye / lyke as þe yce in þe saye warme wether.

29 He that forsaketh his father / shall come to shame: and he that despyeth his mother / is cursed of God. My sonne / persourne thy woordes w louenge nikenesse / so shalt thou be loued aboue other men. The greater thou art / the more humble thy selfe (in all thynges) and thou shalt fynde fauour in the sight of God. For grete power belongeth onely vnto God / & he is honoured of the lowly.

30 Seke not out the thynges that are aboue thy capacite / and searce not the groundes of such thynges as are to myghte for the: but loke what God hath commaunded the / thynke vpon that all waye / and be not curyous in many of his woordes. For it is not nedefull for the to se in thine eyes the thynges þe are secrete. Make not thou to moch searce in superfluous thynges / & be not curyous in many of his woordes: for many thynges are weyed vnto the allready / which be aboue þe capacite of men. The nedynge w such hath beggled many a man / and tangled their wittes in in banyte. Now he that loueth parell / shall perishe therein.

31 An harde herte shall saye euell at þe last (an herte that goeth two wayes / that not prospereth: he that is forward of herte / wyl euer be the worse & worse.) A wycked herte shall be lade with sorowes / & þe vngodly synner wyl heape one synne vpon another. The counsell of the proude hath no healt / for the plante of synne shall be roted out in them. The herte of him þe hath vnderstanding shall perceaue þe thynges / & a good care wyl gladly herken vnto wysdome. An herte that is wyse and hath vnderstanding / wyl abstayne fro synne / and increaseth in þe woordes of rightuousnes. Water quenchech burnynge fyre / & mercy recanylech synnes. God hath respecte vnto him that is thankfull: he thynketh vpon him agaynst the tyme to come: so that when he shal be / he shall fynde a stronge holde.

Almes must be done with all mekenes. The synne of wysdome and her frute. A iudge ought to be mercifull. An exhortacion to eschue euell & to do good.

The. iij. Chapter.

32 My sonne / defraude not the pooze of his almes / and turne not awaye thine eyes fro him that hath nede. Despyse not an hongry soule / & despyse not the pooze in his necessite: greue not the herte of him that is helplese / and wretched: take not the gyfte from the nedefull. Refuse not the prayer of one that is in trouble / & turne not awaye thy face from þe nedy. Call not thine eyes asyde from the pooze / & thou geue him not occasyon to speake euell of þe. For yf he complayne of the in the bytternes of his soule / his prayer shall be herde: eue he that made him / shall heare him. Be curteous vnto the company of the pooze / humble thy soule vnto the elder / & bowe downe thy head to a man of wysdome. Lett it not greue the to bowe downe thine eare vnto þe pooze / but paye thy debt / and geue hym a frendly answer / and that with mekenesse.

33 Deluyre him þe suffreth w longe from the harte of the opprellur / & be not sayne harted when thou seest in iudgment. Be mercifull vnto the fatherles as a father / & be in steade of an housband vnto their mother: so shalt thou be as an obedient sonne of the Lord / & he shall loue the more then thy mother doth. Ido wysdome brydeth lyfe in to her chyldre / receaueth them that seke her / & wyl go before the in the waye of rightuousnes. He þe loueth her / loueth lyfe: & they þe seke her diligently / shall haue grete hope. They that kepe her / shall haue the heretage of lyfe: for where she entreteth in / there is the blessing of God. They that honoure her / shall be the seruantes of the holy one: and they that loue her / are beloved of God. Who so geureth eare vnto her / shall iudge the heathen: and he that hath respecte vnto her / shall dwell safely.

34 He þe beleueth her / shall haue her in possession / and his generacion shall endure: for when he falleth / she shall go with him / before all. Feare / drede & temptation shall she bring vpon him / and trye him in her doctrine: tyll she haue so proued hym in his thoughtes / & he commytte his soule vnto her. When shall she stablish hym / bynne the ryght waye vnto him / make him a glad man / shewe him her secretes / and heape vpon hym the treasures of knowledge / vnderstanding & ryghtuousnes. But yf he go w longe / she shall forsake hym / and geue hym ouer in to the handes of his enemye.

35 My sonne make moch of the tyme / eschue the thynge þe is euell / & for thy lyfe. Name not to saye þe truthe. For there is a shame þe byngeth synne / and there is a shame that byngeth worshippe and fauour. Accepte no perfon after thine awne wyl / that thou be not confounded to thine awne decaye. Be not a shamed of thy neyghbour in his aduersite / & kepe not back thy counsell when it maye do good / nether hyde thy wysdome in her beuty. For in the tonge is wysdome knowne / so is vnderstanding / knowledge & lemyng in þe talkynge of the wyse and stedfastnes in the woordes of ryghtuousnes. In no wyse speake agaynst þe worde of treuthe / but be a shamed of þe lyes of thine awne ignoraunce. Shame not to cōfesse thine errour / & submytte not thy selfe vnto euery man because of synne. Withstande not the face of the meghetic / and stryue not agaynst the streame. But for the treuthe stryue thou vnto death / and God shall fyght for the agaynst thine enemies. Be not harte in thy tonge / nether slack & negligent in thy woordes. Be not as a lyon in thine awne house / destroyng thy housholde folke / and oppressing them that are vnder the. Let not thine hande be stretched out to receaue / and shut when thou shouldest geue.

In ryches maye we not put any confidence. The vengeance of God ought to be feared: and to repenitance maye we not be slowe.

The. b. Chapter.

36 Rust not vnto thy ryches / & saye not: tush / I haue ynough for my lyfe. (For it shall not helpe in the tyme of vengeance & temptacion) folow not the lust of thine awne herte in thy strength / and saye not: tush / how haue I had strength / or who wyl bynne me vnder because of my woordes? For doutles God shall auge it. And saye not: I haue comytted no synnes /

Ecclesiasticus.

synnes / but what euell hath happened me? For the Almyghty is a patient rewarder. Because thy synne is forgiven / he not cherishe without feare / nether heape one synne vpon another. And saye not thus / the mercy of the Lord is great / he shal forgive me my synnes / he they neuer so many. For like as he is mercifull / so goeth wrath fro him also / this indignacion cometh downe vpon synners.

Make no taryenge to turne vnto the Lord / & put not of fro daye to daye: for sodenly shall his wrath come / & in the time of vengeance he shall be sore. Trust not in wicked riches / for they shall not helpe in the daye of punishment & wrath. Be not caryed about to euery wynde / and goe not into euery waye: for so doth the synner & hath a double tōge. So shal he fall in the waye of the Lord / be he cast in thy vnderstandynge / abyde by the word / and folowe the word of peace & rightuousnes. Be gentle to heare the word of God / & thou mayest vnderstande it / and make a true answer with wysdome. Be swift to heare / but slowe & patient in geuynge answer. If thou hast vnderstandynge / shapen thy neyghboure an answer: If no / laye thyne hand vpon thy mouth: lest thou be trapped in an vndiscrete word / & so confounded. Honour & worshippe is in a mans wyse talking / but the tōge of the vndiscrete is his awne destruction. Be not a pryncy accuser as longe as thou lyuest / & be no schalder with thy tōge. For shame and sorow goeth ouer the thete / and an euell name ouer him that is double tonged: but he that is a pryncy accuser of othermen / shal be hated enuyed and confounded. Be that thou iustifye the small and greates alyke.

It is the propertye of a synner to be euell tonged. The doctrine and good counsell of the wyse is to be embraced. Wysdome shal be searched for. The prynces thereof.

The .xij. Chapter.

Not thy neyghbours enemye for thy friendes sake: for who so is euell shal be the heye of rebuke & dys-honour / & whosoever beareth enuy & a double tōge offendeth. Be not proude in the deuce of thyne awne vnderstandynge / lest thy leaues wither / and thy frute be destroyed / & so thou be left as a drye tree. For a wycked soule destroyeth hym & hath it / maketh hym to be laughed to scoone of his enemyes / & byngeth hym to the porcyon of the vngodly. A swete word multiplieth frinds / and pacifyeth them that be at varyaunce / and a chanchfull tōge will be plenteous in a good man. Holde friendshippe with many / neuertheless haue but one coseler of a thou-sande.

Yf thou gettest a frende / proue him byt / & and be not hastie to geue him credence. For some man is a frende / but for a tyme / & will not a byde in the daye of trouble. And there is some frende that turneth to enemye / and taketh parte agaynst the: & yf he knowe eny hurt by the / he telleth it out. Agayne / some frende is but a companion at the table / and in the daye of nede he contyneth not. But a sure frende wil be vnto the euen as thyne awne self / & deale saythfully with thyne shoulde folke. If thou suffre trouble and aduersyte / he is with the / and bydeth not hym self from the. Departe from thyne enemyes prynces and beware of thy frendes.

A saythfull frende is a stronge defence: who so synneth soche one / synneth a noble treasure. A saythfull frende hath no peare / & might of golde & syluer is not to be compared to the goodnesse of his sayth. A saythfull frende is a medycine of lyfe / & they that feare the Lord / shal synde hym. Who so feareth the Lord / shal prosper with frendes: & as he is himself / so shal his frende be also. My sonne / receaue doctrine fro thy youth vnto / so shalt thou synde wysdome tyll thou be olde. Go to her as one that ploweth / and soweth / and wayte patiently for hir good frutes. For thou shalt haue but lytle labour in hir worke / but thou shalt eate of hir frutes right soone. How excedding warpe is wysdome to vnkerned men: an vnkerned body wil not remayne in her. Vnto soch she is as it were a touchstone / & she casteth her from hym in all the haste: for wysdome is with hym but in name / there be but fewe that haue knowledge of her. (But with them that know her / she abydeth euen vnto the apperynge of God.)

Geue eare (my sonne) receaue my doctrine / and refuse not my counsell. Put thy fote in to her synches / and take her yock vpon thy neck: bowe downe thy shoulde vnder her / beare her patiently / and be not weery of her bandes. Come vnto her with thy whole herte / & hepe her wayes with all thy power. Such a frende / and she shal be thyne: and whē thou hast her / forsaake her not. For at the last thou shalt synde rest in her / and that shal be turned to thy greatesoie. When shall her fetters be a stronge defence for the / & her yock a glorious rayment. For the bewyle of lyfe is in her / and her bandes are the couplynge together of saluacion. Yee a glorious rayment is it / thou shalt put it on / & the same crowne of soie shalt thou weere.

My sonne / yf thou wilt / take hede / thou shalt haue vnderstandynge: and yf thou wilt applye thy mynde / thou shalt be wyse. Yf thou wilt bowe downe thyne eare / thou shalt receaue doctrine: & yf thou desyre in hearyng / thou

Jesus the sonne

thou shalt be wyse. Stande with the multitude of soch elders as haue vnderstandynge / & consente vnto their wysdome with thyne herte: that thou mayest heare all godly lessons / and that the worthy sentences escape the not. And yf thou leyst a man of discreete vnderstandynge / get the soone vnto hym / & let thy fote treade vpon the steppes of his doctryne. Let thy mynde be vpon the commaundementes of God / & be earnestly occupied in his lawes: so shall he stablysh thy herte / and geue the wysdome at thyne awne desyre.

Do not contemne euell / yet not desyre one synne. Be not a companion of the wyse towards his wyse / his frende / his thylde / his seruantes / his father & mother / the prynces &c.

The .xij. Chapter.

No euell / so shal there no harme happen vnto the. Departe a waye from the thynges that is wycked / & no mysfortune shal medle wth the. My sonne / loke no euell thynges in the sorowes of vnkernednes / so shalt thou not reape them seuencoldes. Labour not vnto man for any lordshyppe / nether vnto the kynge for the seate of honoure. Justifye not thy self before God / for he knoweth the herte / & desyre not to be reputed wyse in the presence of the King. Make no labour to be made a iudge / excepte it so were / that thou couldest myghtely put downe wyckednes: for yf thou shuldest stande in awe of the presence of the myghty / thou shuldest sayle in geuynge sentence. Dwende not in the multitude of the crite / and put not thy self amonge the people. Wynde not two synnes together / for in one synne shalt thou not be unpunished. Saye not thus / God wyll loke vpon the multitude of my oblacions / and when I offere to the hyell God he wyll accepte it.

Be not saynt harted when thou makest thy prayer / nether slack in geuynge of almes. Laugh no man to scoone in the heugnesse of his soule / for God (which sayth all thynges) is he that can bynge downe / & set vp agayne. Accepte no letyng agaynst thy brother / nether do the same agaynst thy frende. Wile not to make any maner of lyt / for the custome thereof is not good. Make not many wordes / when thou art amonge the elders: and when thou prayest / make not much babylng. Let no laboryng worke be tedious vnto the / nether the housbandrye which the Almyghty hath created. Make not thy boaste in the multitude of thy wyckednes / but humble thy selfe euen from thyne herte: and remembre that the wrath shal not be longe in carryng / and that the vengeance of the flesch of the vngodly is a verye fyre & woyme. Geue not ouer thy frende for eny good / nether thy saythfull brother for the best golde.

Of Syrach. xxxix.

Depart not from a discreete & good wo-man / that is fallen vnto the for thy porcyon in the feare of the Lord / for the gyfte of her honesty is aboue golde. Where as thy seruante woicheth truly / intreate hym not euell / nether the byrelyng that is saythfull vnto the. Loue a discreete seruante as thyne awne soule / de fraude hym not of his lybertye / nether leaue him a pooze mā. If thou haue castell / loke well to them: and yf they be for thy profit / kepe the. If thou haue sonnes / bring the vp in nurture & leyrnyng / & holde them in awe from their youth vp. If thou haue daughters / kepe their body / & thewe not thy face cherefull toward the. Marle thy daughter / and so shalt thou persourne a weyghty matter: but geue her to a man of vnderstandynge. If thou haue a wyfe after thyne awne mynde / forsaake her not: (but comynge not thy selfe to the hateful.)

Honoure thy father from thy whole herte and forgett not the sozofull trauayle & thy mother had with the: remembre that thou wast borne thowow them / and how canst thou recompense them the thynges that they haue done for the: feare the Lord with all thy soule & honour his mynistres. Loue thy maker with all thy strength / & forsaake not his seruantes. Feare the Lord with all thy soule / & honour his prestes. Geue the their porcyon of the best frutes & increase of the earth / lyke as it is commaunded the: geue them the shoulde / and their appoynted offrynges & byrynges. Reache thyne hande vnto the pooze / that God maye blesse the with plentuousnes. Be lyphfull vnto all men lyuynge / yet let not but do good euen to them that are deed.

Let not them that wepe be without comforte / but moune to soch as moune. Let it not greue the to byset the sick / for that shal make the to be beloued. Whatsoeuer thou takest in hande / remembre the ende / & thou shalt neuer do amysse.

Agaynst thy better is no repyng. Of the deeth of thyne enemye mayest thou not reioyce / nether despyse the neyghbours / nether the wordes of the wyse.

The .xij. Chapter.

Not with a myghty man / lest thou chaunce to fall in to his handes. Make no barisaunce with a rych mā / lest he happē to bynge by an harde quarell agaynst the. For golde & syluer hath vndone many a man / yee eue the hertes of kynge / it made to fall. So true not with a man & is full of wordes / & laye no styckes vpon his fyre: kepe no company with the vnkerned / lest he geue thy hyndred an euell repoyte. Despyse not a man that turneth hym selfe awaye from synne / and cast hym not not in the teeth wythall: but remembre þe we are frayle everychone. Whyke some of us man in his olde age / for we were olde also. Be not glad of the death of thyne enemye / but remembre that we must dye all the soules of vs (and sayne wolde we come in to sope.) Despyse not the sermons of loch elders as haue understondyng / but aquaunte thy selfe with the wyse sentences of them: for of them thou shalt lerne wysdome and the doctrine of understondyng / and how to serue great men without complayne.

Do not from þe doctrine of the elders / for they haue lerned it of their fathers. For of the thou shalt lerne understondyng / so þe thou mayest make answer in the tyme of neede. Kynde not þe coales of synners / lest thou be brent in the fyre flames of their synnes. Resyst not the face of the blasphemers / þe he lase not wayte for thy mouth. Lende not unto him that is myghtier then thy selfe: For thou lendest him / counte it but lost. Be not swerter aboue thy power: for thou be / then thinke surety to paye it. Sonot to laue wyth þe iudge / for he wyll iudge accordyng to his awne honoure. Trauaple not by the waye wyth him that is byaynelesse / lest he do the euill: for he foloweth his awne wyllfulnes / and so shalt thou perissh thowow his foly.

Stryue not wyth hym that is angrie and cruell / and go not wyth him in to the wyldernes: for bloude is nothyng in hys syght / and where there is no helpe / he shall murder þe. Take no counsell at soles / for they loue no thyng but the thynges þe please the selues. Make no counsell before a straiger / for thou canst not tell what wyll come of it. Ope not thyne herte unto every man / lest he be brenthackfull to the / and put the to reprose.

The scarpnes of chaunces are to be reschued. An olde frende is to be preferred before a newe. The glory and rychelesse of synners. Ryghtwys men shoulde be hydden to gett labour in the chese thyng in a worche man / and wysdome in a pynce.

The ix. Chapter.

Not gelous ouer the wyse of thy bofome / that she betwe not some wysew poynthe of wyched doctryne upon the. Seue not the power of thy lyfe unto a woman / lest she come in thy strength / so thou be confounded. Loke not upon a woman that is despyous of many men / lest thou fall in to her snares. Use not the company of a woman that is a player & daunser / and heare her not / lest thou perissh thowow her entysyng. Beholde not a mayde / that thou be not hurt in her betwille. Cast not thy mynde upon harlottes in any maner of thyng / lest thou destrye both thy selfe and thyne heritage. Go not aboute galyng in every lane of the cyte / nether wandre thou abode in þe stretes therof. Cume alwaye thy face from a beutyfull woman / and loke not upon the saymette of other.

Many a man hath perished thowow the bryte of women / for thowow it the desyre is kyndled as it were a fyre. In aduoutous woman shalbe trodden order: soe as myre / of every one that goeth by the waye. Many a man wonderinge at the bewtye of a straige woman / hath bene cast out / for her wordes kynde as a fyre. For yett not to another mans wyse by any meanes / lye not wyth her upon the bedd / make no wordes with her at the wyne: lest thine hert consent unto her / and to thowow thy bloude fall in to destruccyn. For take not an olde frende / for the new shall not be lyke him.

A new frende is new wyne: let him be olde & thou shalt drinke him with pleasure. Despyse not þe honoure and ryches of a synner / for thou knowest not what destruccyn is for to come upon him. Despyse not thou in þe thyng that the yngodly haue pleasure in / beinge sure that the yngodly shall not be accepted untill their graue.

Kepe the from the man that hath power to slaye / so nedest thou not to be affrayd of death. And if thou comest unto him / make no fauour / lest he happen to take awaye thy lyfe. Remembre þe thou goest in the myddell of snares / & upon the bul wothes of the cyte. Beware of thy neyghboure as nye as thou canst / and medle with loch as be wyse and haue understondyng. Lett iust men be thy gesses / lest thy myght be in the feare of God / let the remembrance of God be in thy mynde and let all thy talkyng be in the commaundementes of the Byest. In the hādes of craftmen shall the wothes be commended / so shall the pynces of the people in the wysdome of their talkyng. A man full of wysdom is perous in his cyte: and he that is temerarious and pake shame in his talkyng / is to be abhorred.

Of rynges and iudges. Pryde & countynesse are to be abhorred. Labour is payed.

The x. Chapter.

A man shalbe wyllyng to people with discrecion / and where a man is of understondyng beareth rule / there goeth it well. As the iudge of the people is him self / even so are his officers: and loke what maner of man the ruler of the cyte is / loch are they that dwell therein also. An yngodly kyng destruyeth his people / but where they that be in auctorite are men of understondyng / there the cyte prospereth.

The power of the earth is in the hande of God.

God / and when his time is / he shall see a profitable ruler upon it. In the hande of God is the power of man / & upon the scribes shall be laye his honoure. Remembre no wyng of thy neyghboure / & medle thou with no bryghtuous wothes. Pryde is hatefull before God and man / and all wickednes of the Hea then is to be abhorred. Because of bryghtuous dealyng / wyng / blasphemies and dyuerse disceat / a realme shall be translated from one people to another.

There is nothyng worse then a courtous man. Why art thou proude / & thou earth & all thyng: There is not a more wyched thyng / then to loue moneye. And why: loch one hath hys soule to sell: yet is he but fylthye donge whyle he lyueth.

And though the phyliscan shewe his helpe neuer so longe / yet in conclusion it goeth after this maner / to daye a kyng / to morowe dead. For when a man dyeth / he is the byrde of serpentes / beastes & wormes. The begynnyng of mans pryde / is to fall awaye from God: and why: his hert is gone from his maker / for pryde is the ogyenail of all synne. Who so taketh holde therof shalbe fylled with curynges / and at the last it shall ouerthow him. Wherefore hath the Lord brought the congregacions of the wyched to dishonoure / & destroyed them unto the ende.

God hath destroyed the seates of proude pynces / and sett by the meke in their seade. God hath withered the rotes of the proude Hea then / & planted the lowly amonge them. God hath ouerthowne the iddes of the Hea then / and destroyed them out of the grounde. He hath caused them to wyther awaye / he hath brought them to naught / and made the memorail of them to cease from oute of the earth. (God hath destroyed þe name of þe proude / and left the name of the humble of mynde.) Pryde was not made for man / nether wythfulnes for mens chyldre. The seide of me that feareth God / shalbe brought to honoure: but the seide which transgresseth the commaundmentes of the Loyde shalbe shamed. He that is þe ruler amonge bryght / is holden in honoure amonge the / & he regardeth loch as feare the Loyd. The gloze of the ryche / of þe honozable and of the poore is the feare of God.

Despyse not thou the iust poore man / and magnifie not þe ryche yngodly. Grete is the iudge & myghtie in honoure / yet is there none greater / then he þe feareth God. Unto the seruaut that is discrete / shall the fre do senyce. He that is wyse & well nuroured / wyll not grudge when he is reformed / & an ignozant body shall not come to honoure. Be not proude to do thy wothe / & dyspare not in þe tyme of aduersyte. Better is he that laboureth / & hath plenteuousnes of all thyng / then he that is gorgeous & wanteth byed.

Why sonne / hepe thy soule in mekenes / & geue þe her due honoure. Who shall iustifie him / that sinneth agaynst him self: who will honoure him / þe dishonoureth his awne lyfe? The poore is honoured for his saythfulnes & truely / but the ryche is had in reputacion because of his goodes. He that ordyeth him self honestly in pouerte / how moch more shall he behaue him self honestly in ryches: And who so ordyeth him self dishonestly in ryche / how moch more shall he be haue hym self dishonestly in pouerte.

The prayse of humylyte. After the outward appearance ought we not to iudge. Of ready and raie iudgement. The ryche is not without offence. All thynges come of God. All men are not to be wought in to thyne house.

The xi. Chapter.

He wysdome of hym þe is brought lowe / shall lyft by his head / & shall make hym to sett amonge grete men. Commende not a man in hys bewtye / nether despyse a man in hys bitter apperaunce. The Bee is but a small beast amonge the foules / yet is her frute exceeding swete. Be not proude of thy raymet / & exalte not thy selfe in the daye of thy raymet: for þe wothes of the Byest onely are wonderfull: yet glorious / secrete and unknowne are hys wothes. Many tyauntes haue bene layne to lyt downe upon the earth / & the bynglyp hath wyne the crowne. Many myghtie men haue bene brought lowe / and the honozable haue bene deliuered in to other mens hādes. Condemne no man / before thou haue tryed out the matter: and when thou hast made enquiry / then refoirme rightwously. Seue no sentence before thou hast herde the cause / but fyrst let men tell out their sayles.

Stryue not for a matter that toucheth not thy selfe / and stande not in the iudgment of synners. Why sonne / medle not with many matters: & if thou wilt be ryche / thou shalt not get it: and though thou renest thy waye aloze / yet shalt thou not escape. There is some man that laboureth / & the more he wretheth him selfe / þe lesse he hath. Agayne / some man is slouthfull / hath neede of helpe / wāreth strength / and hath grete pouerte / and Gods eye loketh upon him to good / setteth him by from his lowe estate / and lifteth up his head: so that many men maruell at him / and geue honoure unto God.

Þe spryte and aduersyte / lyfe and death / pouerte and ryches come all of the Loyde. Of wysdome / mirtoure and knowledge of the lawe are with God: loue & the wayes of good are with him. Erroure & darknes are made for synners: and they that exalte them selues in euill /

in euell / waxe ome in euell.) The gift of God remaineth for the righteous / and his good will shall geue prosperite for euer. Some man is rich by lyuynge niggardly / & that is the porcyon of his reward / in that he sayeth: now haue I gotten rest / and now will I eate and drinke of my goodes my self alone. And yet he consydreth not / that the tyme dyaweth nye / & he must leaue al these thyngs into other men / and to his self. Stande thou fast in thy couenaunt / and exerce the self therein / and remayne in the worke into thy age. Conspire not in the workes of synners / but put thy trust in God / and hyde in thyne estate: for it is but an easy thinge in the sight of God / to make a poore man riche / & that suddenly. The blessing of God hasteth to the rewarde of the righteous / and maketh his frutes soone to floure & prosper. Saye not: what helpeth it me? & what shall I haue? & why? Agayne / saye not: I haue ynough / how can I waite? When thou art in welfare / forget not aduersite: and when it goeth not well with the / haue a good hope / that it shall be better. For it is but a small thyng into God / in the daye of death to rewarde every man accordyng to his wayes. The aduersite of an houre maketh one to forgett all pleasure: and when a man dyeth / his workes are discovered. Praise no body before his death for a man shall be knowe in his chyldren.

Bringe not every man in to thine house / for the disceitfull layeth waye dyuety. Like as a partych in a maunde / so ys the hert of the proude: and lyke as a spyre / that loketh upon the fall of his neighbour. For he turneth good into euell / and is claudyeth the choler. Of one sparck ys made a grete fyre / & an yngodly man layeth waye for bloude. Bewarre of the disceitfull / for he ymagineth wicked thynges / to bringe the in to a perpetuall shame. If thou takest an aleast into the / he shall destroye the iniquitnes / & dygne the from thine atone wayes.

¶ Into whiche we ought to do good. Enemies ought to be eschued.

The .xli. Chapter.

When thou wilt do good / knowe to whom thou doest it / & so shalt thou be greatly thanked for thy benefites. Do good unto the righteous / and thou shalt fynde great rewarde: though not of him / yet (no doute) the Lorde him self shall rewarde the. He standeth not in a good case / & is allwaye occupied in euell / & geueth no almes: for the Byest hateth the synners / and hath mercy upon them that shewe the workes of repentance. Geue thou unto such as feare God / and receaue not a synner. As for the yngodly and synners / he shall recompense vengeance vnto them / and kepe them to the daye of wrath. Geue thou vnto the good / and receaue not the synner: do well vnto him that is lowly / but geue not to the yngodly. Let not the byed be geuen him / that he benot myghter then thy self therein. For so shalt thou receaue thy self as much euell / in all the good that thou doest vnto hym: And why? the Byest hateth synners / and shall rewarde vengeance to the yngodly.

In prosperite / a synner shall not be knowe / and in aduersite an enemy shall not be hyde. For when a man is in wealth / it greueth his enemies: but in heynes and trouble a man shall knowe his frynde. Trust neuer thyne enemy / for lyke as an yron rusteth / so doth his wyckednes. And though he make much crouching and knelyng / yet hepe well thy minde / and beware of him. Set him not by the / nether let him sit at thy right hand: lest he turne him / gett in to thy place / take thy trowne and seke thy seate / and so thou at the last remembre my wordes / and be pyched at my saynges.

Wynde not two synners together / for there shall not one be unpunished. Who will haue pryde of the charmer / that is stynged of the serpent / or of all such as come nye the brast? Euell so is it with him / & kepeth company with a wycked man / and lappeth him self in his synnes. For a season will he hyde with the / but yet thou stamble / he tartereth not. An enemy is swete in his lippes / he can make many wordes & speake many good thynges: yet he can wepe with his eyes / but in his herte he ymagineth / how to throwe the in to the pyre: & yet he maye fynde oportunitie / he will not be satisfied with bloude. If aduersite come vnto the / thou shalt fynde him there first / & though he pretende to do the helpe / yet shall he undermyne the. He shall shake his head / and clape his handes over the for very gladnes / & while he maketh many wordes / he shall dysguyse his countenance.

¶ The companies of the proude and of the ryche are to be eschued. The loue of God & the do company with their lyke.

The .xlii. Chapter.

Who so toucheth pitch / shall be soiled with it: he that is familiar with the proude / shall clothe hym self with pryde. He taketh a burthen upon him / that accompanieth a moze honorable man then hym self. Therefore kepe no familiarite with one that is ryche then thy self. How agree the ketell and the pot together: for yet the one be smytted agaynst the other / it shall be broken. The ryche dealeth brynghtrously / and threatheneth with all: but the poore bringe bringe oppressed & wrongeously dealt with: all / suffreth scarcenelle / and geueth saye wordes. If thou be for his pryde / he blyeth: but yet thou haue nothing he shall forsake the. As longe as thou hast any thyng of thyne atone / he shall be a good fellow with the: yet he shall make the a bare mys / & not be for thy sake. If he haue nede of the / he shall defraude the: & (with a pryde moche) shall he put the in an hope / & geue the all good wordes / and saye: what wantest thou? Thus shall he shame the in his meate / vntill he haue suppe the cleane by thy self / & at the last shall he laugh the to scorne. Afterwarde / when he seyth that thou hast nothing / he shall forsake the / & shake his head at the.

Beware / that thou be not disceaved and brought downe in thy symplenesse. Be not to humble in thy wysdome / lest when thou art brought lowe / thou be disceaved thou to foolynesse. If thou be called of a myghty man / absent thy self / so shall he call the to him & moze oft. Preasse not thou vnto hym / that thou be not thott out: but goo not thou farre of / lest he forget the. Withdraw not thy self fro his speech / but beleue not his many wordes. For with much communicacion shall he tempte the / & (with a pryde moche) shall he question the of thy secretes. The binnerfull mynde of his shall march thy wordes / he shall not spare to do the hurte & to put the in prison. Bewarre / & take good hede to thy self / for thou walkest in parell of thy ouerthrowing.

Now when thou hearest his wordes / make the as though thou werest in a dreame / and wake vp. Loue God all thy lyfe longe / and call vnto him in thy nede. Every beaust loueth his like / euell so let every man loue his neighbour. All flesh will reioyce to their like / and every man will kepe company with such as he is hym self. But as the wolfe agreeth with the lambe / so doth the yngodly with the ryghteous. What shall shippe shuide an holy man haue with a dogge? How can the ryche & the poore agree together? The wybe Alie is the lyde pray in the wyldernesse / euell so are poore men the meate of the ryche. Like as the proude maye not atone with lowlynes / euell so doth the ryche abhorre the poore. If a ryche man fall / his frendes set hym vp agayne: but when the poore falleth / his frendes forsake hym. If a ryche man fall in to an errour / he hath many helpers: he speaketh proude wordes / and yet men susteyne him.

But yet a poore man go wronge / he is punished: yet though he speake wylfely / yet can he haue no place. When the ryche man speaketh / every body holdeth his tonge: and loke what he sayeth / they prayse it vnto the cloudes. But yet the poore man speaketh / they saye what fellowe is this? and yet he do anyght / they shall destroye him. Ryches are good vnto him that hath no synne in his conscience / and pouerte is a wycked thing in the mouth of the yngodly. The hert of man chaungeth his countenance / whether it be in good or euell. A chearfull countenance is a token of a good herte / for els is it an harde thyng to knowe the thought.

¶ The offence of the ryche. Man is but a vayne thing. Happy is he that continueth in wysdome.

The .xliii. Chapter.

Blessed is the man / that hath not fallen with the wordes of his mouth / and is not pyched with the conscience of synne. Happy is he that had no heynes in his mynde / and is not fallen from his hope. Let be cometh not a covetous man and a niggard / to be ryche: and what shulde a niggard do with golde? He that with al his carefulness heapeth together vngodly / gathereth for other folkes / & another man shall make good chere with his goodes. He that is wicked vnto hym self / how shulde he be good vnto other men? How can such one haue any pleasure of his good? There is no thyng worse / then when one disfauoureth him self / and this is a rewarde of his wickednes. If he do any good / he doth it not knowynge therof / and agaynst his will / & at the last he declareth his ingraciousnes. A niggard hath a wycked eye / he turneth awaye his face / and despyseth his awne soule. A covetous mans eye hath neuer ynough in the porcyon of wyckednes / vntill the tyme that he wyther awaye / & haue lost his awne soule.

A wycked eye spareth byed / & there is scarcenelle vpon his table. My sonne / do good to thy self of that thou hast / & geue the Lorde his due offernges. Remembre that death tartereth not / and how that the couenaunt of the graue is the wed vnto the: for the couenaunt of this worlde shall dye & death. Do good vnto thy frynde before thou dye / and accordyng to thy abylite reach out thyne hande / & geue vnto the poore. Be not dyspoynted of the good daye / & lett not the porcyon of the good daye ouerpass the. Shalt thou not leaue thy trauayles and labours vnto other men? In the deuydinge of the heretage geue and take / & sanctifye thy soule. Woe the thou rightuousnes before thy death / for in the hell there is no meate to fynde. All flesh shall labe awaye lyke grasse / and lyke a floure of the grene tre. Some growe / some are cast downe: euen so is the generacyon of flesh and bloude: one cometh to an ende / another is bozne.

Ecclesiasticus.

E All transitory thynges shall faile at the last / and the worker thereof shall go withall. Every chosen worke shall be justified / and he that medleth withall / shall have honoure therein. Blessed is the man that heareth him in wisdom / and exerciseth hym self in understanding / with discrecyon shall he thinke upon the knowledge of God / which confideth in his wayes of wisdom in his heart / hath understanding in his secretes / goeth after her / as one that seeketh her out / and continueth in her wayes. He looketh in at her windowes / and hearkeneth at her doores: He taketh hym rest beside her house / and fasteneth his stake in her walles: He shall pitch his tente upon her hande / and in his tent shall good thynges rest for evermore: He shall see his chyldren under her covering / and shall dwell under her bounties. Under her covering shall he be defended from the heat / and in her glory shall he rest.

C The goodnes that followeth hym which feareth God. God relecteth and causeth of the synner. God is not the auctour of evil.

The .xv. Chapter.

E That feareth God / will do good: and who so heareth the lawe / shall optayne wisdom. As an honorable mother shall she mete hym / and as a virgin shall she receive hym. With the bryd of life and understanding shall she fede him / and geue him the water of wholesome wisdom to drinke. If he be constant in her / he shall not be moved: and if he holde hym fast by her / he shall not come to confusyon. She shall brynge hym to honoure amonge his neyghbours / and in the myddest of the congregacyon shall she open his mouth. With the spere of wisdom and understanding shall she fyll him / and clothe him with the garment of glory. She shall heape the treasure of myght and love upon hym / and geue hym an everlastyng name to heretage. For as men will not take holde upon her / but such as have understanding / will mete her / for she is farre from pryde and dyscreete. When that go aboute in lyces / will not remembre her: but men of truth shall be founde in her / even unto the beholdinge of God. Praise is not seemely in the mouth of the ungodly / for he is not sent of the Lord. For of God cometh wisdom / and the praise shall stande by the wisdom of God / and shall be plenteous in a faithfull mouth / and the Lord shall geue her unto him.

Saye not thou: It is the Lordes faulte that I am gone by / for thou shalt not do the thinge that God hateth. Saye not thou: he hath caused me to go wronge / for he hath no meede of the ungodly. God hateth all abhominations.

The booke of

Eryon of erreure / and they that feare God will love none such. God made man from the beginning / and left him in the hande of his counsell. He gaue him his commandementes and preceptes: yet thou wilt observe the commandementes / and hepe acceptable faithfulness for ever / they that preserve the. He hath set water and fyre before the / reach out thine hande unto which thou wilt. Be soze man is life and breath / good and euill / loke what him lieth / shall be geuen him. For the wisdom of God is grete and mightie in power / and beholdeth all men continually. The eyes of the Lord are upon them that feare him / and he knoweth all the wayes of man. He hath commanded no man to do ungodly / neither hath he geuen any man leue to synne.

C Of unchastite and wicked chyldren. No man can hyde hym self from God. A neyghbour to the re- ceauynge of instruction.

The .xvi. Chapter.

Elyte not thou in the multitude of ungodly chyldren / and have no pleasure in the / yet they feare not God. Trust not thou to their life / and regard not their labours: for one sonne that feareth God is better / than a thousande ungodly. And better it is for a man to be without chyldren / then to leaue behynde him such chyldren as are ungodly. For by one that hath understanding / maye a whole cite be upholden / but though the ungodly be many / yet shall it be wasted thorow them. Many such thynges hath myne eye sene / and greater thynges then these haue I herde with myne eares. In the congregacyon of the ungodly shall a fyre burne / and amonge unfaithfull people shall the wrath be kindled.

The olde glaunces optayned no grace for their synnes / which were destroyed / trusting to their owne strength. Neither spared he the amonge whos loth was straunger but smote them and abhorred them because of the pryde of their wordes. He had no pitye upon them / but destroyed all the people / that were so stoute in synne. And so / so much as he overcame not the sixe hundred thousande / that gathered them selues together in the hardnesse of their herte: it were maruell if one beyng hardnecked / shulde be free. For mercy and wrath is with hym: he is both myghty to forgene / and to poure out displeasure. Like as his mercy is great / euil so is his punishment also / he subgeth a man accordyng to his wayes. The ungodly shall not escape in his spoye / and the longe patience of him that sheweth mercy / shall not hyde behynde. All mercy shall make place unto every man accordyng to the deservynge of his wayes / and after the understanding of his pilgrimage.

Saye

Jesus / the sonne

Saye not thou: I will hyde my selfe from God / for who will chynke upon me from above? I shall not be knowne in so grete a heape of people / for what is my soule amonge so many creature? Beholde / the heauen / yee the heauen of heauens / the depe / the earth / and all that therein is / shall be moved at his presence: the mountaynes / the hylls / and the foundacions of the earth shall shake for feare / when God wyllyeth the. These thynges doth no man understande / but he understandeth every herte / and who understandeth his wayes? No man seeth his forme / and the most part of his wayes are secret. Who wyllyeth declare the wayes of his rightuousnes? Who shall be able abyde them? For the countaunt is farre from some / and the tryenge out of men is in the fulfilling. He that is humble of herte / thinketh upon solche thynges: but an vnwysse and erroneous man casteth hym mynde unto folysh thynges.

My sonne / herken thou unto me / and let me understande / and marche my wayes with thyme herte: I wyllye geue the a sure doctrine / and plainly shall I instructe the. God hath set his wayes in good order from the begynnyng / and parte of them hath he furnished from the other. He hath garnished his wayes from euerylastyng / and their begynnynge / accordyng to their generacions. None of them hyndered another / neither was any of them dysobedient unto his worde. After this / God looked upon the earth / and fylled it with his goodes. With all maner of lypynge beastes hath he covered the ground / and they all shall be turned unto earth agayne.

C The creation of man / and the goodnes that God hath done unto hym. Of aulmous and repentance.

The .xvii. Chapter.

Ed hope man of the earth / and turned hym unto earth agayne. He gaue hym the nombre of dayes / and certayne tyme / yee and gaue hym power of the thynges that are upon earth. He clothed hym with strength / and made hym after his owne lykenes. He made all flesh to stande in awe of hym / so that he had the domynyon of all beastes and foules. He made out of hym an helper lyke unto hym selfe / and gaue them discrecyon and tonge / eyes and eares / and a herte to understande / and fylled them with instruction and understandinge. He created for them also the knowledge of the spere / fylled their hertes with understanding / and shewed them good and euill. He set his eye upon their hertes / declaringe unto them his grete and noble wayes: that they shulde prayse his holy name co-

Gether / reioyce of his wonders / and be tellinge of his noble actes. Besyde this / he gaue them instruction / and the lawe of life for an heretage.

He made hym an everlastyng couenaunt with them / and shewed them his rightuousnes and iudgements. They sawe his glory with their eyes / and their eares heard the maiesty of his voyce. And he sayde unto thei bewarre of all vnrightuous thynges. He gaue every man also a commandement / to crynge his neyghboure.

Their wayes are euer before hym / and are not hyde from his eyes. He hath set a tular upon every people / but Israel is the Lordes porcyon. All their wayes are as the sunne / in the sight of God / and his eyes are alwaye lookinge upon their wayes. All their vnrightuousnes are manifeste unto hym / and all their wickednes are open in his synne.

The mercy that a man sheweth is as it were a purse with hym / and a man good dede prayse. Serueth hym as the apple of an eye. At the last shall he awake / and rewarde every man upon his deed as he hath deserved / and shall turne the together into the nethermost partes of the earth. But unto the that wyllye repent / he hath geuen the waye of rightuousnes. As for soche as be weake / he comforteth them / sustreth the / and sendeth them the porcyon of the beryte. Turne then unto the Lord / forsake thy synnes / make thy prayer before the Lord / do the lesse offence / turne agayne unto the Lord / forsake thyne vnrightuousnes / be an better enemye to abhominacyon / lerne to knowe the rightuousnes and iudgements of God / stande in the porcyon that is set forth for the / and in the prayer of the most hye God. Go in to the porcyon of the holy worlde / with soch as be lypynge and geue thankes unto God.

Who wyllye prayse the Lord in the hell? Ahyde not thou in the erreure of the ungodly / but geue hym thankes before death. As for the deede / thankfulness prayeth from hym as nothinge. Geue thou thankes in thy lyfe / yet while thou art liuinge a whole waile thou geue thankes / and prayse God / and reioyce in his mercy. How grete is the louynge hyndnesse of the Lord / and his mercifull goodnes unto soche as turne unto hym: for all thynges maye not be in man / and why the sonne of man is not immortall / and he hath pleasure in the banyte of wickednes. What is more cleare then the sunne? yet shall it faile. What is more wicked then the thyng that is in the deede? and that same shall be repented. The Lord seeth the power of the hye heauens / and all are but earth and ashes.

The mercurious wordes of God: the mystry and wytchednes of man. Agaynst God might we not be complayne. To saye must we continually.

The xliij. Chapter.

Gene. l. h.

Hat thynges for euer more / made all thynges together. God onely is righteous / & remayneth a victorious kynge for euer. Who shall be able to expresse the wordes of him: who hath sought out the grounde of his noble actes?
Who shall declare the power of his great-nesse? Or who will take by the hand to tell out his mercy? As for the wonderful wordes of the Lorde / there maye nothyng be taken from them / nothyng maye be put into them / nether maye the grounde of the be founde out.
But when a man hath done his best / he must begynne agayne: and when he thynketh to become to an ende / he must go agayne to his laboure. What is man? Where to is he worthy?
What good or euell can he do? If he nombere of a mans dayes be almost an hundred year / it is moch.

5. Det. 19. 4.

Lyke as the dropes of rayne are into the see / and as a grauell stone is in comparison of the sande: so are these few yeares to the dayes of euery man. Therefore is the Lorde patient with them / and poureth out his mercy vpon them. He sawe and perceaued the thoughtes and ymaginacions of their herte / that they were euell: therfore heaped he by his mercy full goodnes vpon them / & shewed them the waye of righteuousnes. The mercy of a man hath reacheth to his neyghboure: but the mercy of God is vpon all flesh. He chasteneth / he teacheth & nourtoureth: yee euen as a shep-herde turneth agayne his flock / so doth he all them that receaue chastenynge / nourtoure and docerine. Mercifull is he vnto the / that stande in awe of his iudgements.

My sonne / when thou doest good / make no grudgyng at it: & whatsoeuer thou ge-uest / speake no discomfitable wordes. Shall not the dew coule the heate? Euell so is a worde better then a gyfte. It is not a frendly worde a good honest gyfte: but a gracious man geueth them both. A foole shall cast a man in the teeth / & that roughly / & a gyfte of the rightepitteth out the eyes. Set the righteuousnes before thou come to iudgment. Lerne before thou speake / and goo to phylishe or euer thou be sick: examen and iudge thy selfe: before the iudgment come / and so shalt thou fynde grace in the syght of God. Humble thy selfe afore thou be ryche / and in tyme of thy distresse thewe thy conuersacion. Let not to praye alwaye / and stande not in feare to be reformed vnto death: for the reward of God endureth for euer. Before thou prayest prepare thy soule / & be not as one that temp-teth God. Thinke vpon the wrathfull indygnacion that shall be at the ende / & the houre of pengedace / when he shall turne awaye his face. When thou hast enough / remembre the tyme of honger: & when thou art ryche / thinke vpon the tyme of pouerte and scame.

From the mornynge vntill the euynge the tyme is chaunged / and all such thynges are soone done in the syght of God. A wyle man feareth God in all thynges / & in the dayes of transgression he kepeth hymself from synne.
A discrete man hath pleasure in wysdome / and he that fyndeth her / maketh moch of her.
They that haue had vnderstandynge / haue dealt wylfully in wordes / haue vnderstande the truely and righteously / & haue sought out wyle sentences and iudgements. Followe not thy lustes / but turne the fro thyne awne wyl. For yf thou geuest thy soule her desires / it shall make thine enemyes to laugh the to scoyne. Take not thy pleasure in great holuptuousnes / and meble not to moch with all. Make not to greete chere of the thyng that thou hast wonne by absauntage / lest thou fall in to pouerte / and haue nothyng in thy purse.

Wylne and whoredome bynne men to pouerte. In thy wordes must thou be discrete. The difference of the wysdome of God & man. Wherby thou mayest knowe what is in a man. Correction must be by without anger.

The xli. Chapter.

Labourynge man that is geuen vnto dyonchēnes / shall not be ryche:
he that maketh not moch of smal thynges / shall fall by litle and litle.
Wylne and wemen make wyle men remna-gates / & put men of vnderstandynge to reproche: & he that accompanieth aduocaters shall become a wiche man. Wothes & womens shall haue him to heretage: yee he shall be set by to a greater example / & his soule shall be rooted out of the nombere. He that is hasty to geue credence is light minded / & doth agaynst himself. Who so reioyseth in wickednes / shall be punished: he that hateth to be reformed / his life shall be shortened: and he that abhorreth habynge of wordes / quetheth wylched-nes. He that offendeth agaynst his awne soule / shall repent it: and he that reioyseth in wickednes / shall be punished.

Rehearse not a wicked and churly word twile and thou shalt not be hindered. Shew thy secretes neither to frende nor foe / and yf thou hast offended / tell it not out. For he shall hearken vnto the and march the / and when he fyndeth oportynite / he shall hate
the

the. If thou hast herde a worde agaynst the neyghboure / let it be deed within the: and be sure / thou shalt haue no harme therby. A sole trauayleth with a worde / lyke as a woman that is payned with bearing of chyld. A phe as an arrowe shot in a dogges thyghe / so is a worde in a soles herte. Tell thy frende thy saute / lest he be ignorant / and saye: I haue not done it / or yf he haue done it / that he do it nomore. Reproue thy neyghboure / that he kepe his tonge: & yf he haue spoken / that he saye it nomore.

Tell thy neyghboure his saute / for oft tymes an offence is made / & geue not credence to euery worde. A man sailleth somtyme with his tonge / but not with his wyl. For what is he / & hath not offended in his tonge? Geue thy neyghbour warning / before thou threaten him / and geue place vnto the lawe of the Lorde. The feare of God is all wysdome / & he that is a ryght wyle man kepeth the lawe.
As for the doctrine of wylchednesse / it is no wysdome / and the prudence of synners is no good vnderstandynge: it is but wylchednesse & abhomynacion & a blasphemynge of wysdome.
A symple man of small vnderstandynge that feareth God / is better then one that hath moch wysdome / and transgresseth the lawe of the Lorde. A crafty sottell man can be wyle / but he is vnrighteous / and with gyftes he wylleth the open & manifest lawe. A wylched man can behaue hym selfe humbly / and can doubte with his heare / and yet is he but a dyceauer wylhin. He hydeh his face / and dy-guyseth it: & because he shalbe not be know-ne / he prouenteth the.

And though he be so weake that he can do the no harme / yet when he may fynde opor-tynite / he shall do some euell. A man maye be knowne by his face / & one that hath vnderstandynge / may be perceaued by the loke of his countenance. A mans garment / laughter / and goynge / declare what he is.

Of correction and repentance. Of the gyfte of the wyle man and of the sole. Of syngynge.

The xli. Chapter.

Some man reproveth his neygh-boure oft tymes / but not in due season: Agayne / some man holdeth his tonge / & he is wyle & discrete.
It is moch better to geue warninge / & to re-proue / then to beare euell wyl: for he that knowledgeth hym selfe openly / shall be preserued from hurt & destruction. Like as when a gelded man thowto dehyze & lust depleth a mayde / euell so is it with him that blyeth violence & vnrighteousnes in the lawe. How good a thinge is it / a man that is rejoyced to shew openly his repentance: for so shall thou escape wylfull synne.

Some man kepeth silence / and is founde wyle: but he that is not ashamed what he sayeth / is hateful. Some man holdeth his tonge / because he hath not the vnderstanding of the language: and some man kepeth sy-lence / mayfyng a conuenient tyme. A wyle man wyl holde his tonge tyll he be oportu-nite / but a wylton and vndiscrete body shall regarde no tyme. He that blyeth many wordes / shall hurte his awne soule: & he that taketh auctorite vpon hym vnrighteously / shall be hated. Some man hath oft tymes prosperi-te in wicked thynges: Agayne / some man getteth moch / and hath harme and losse. There is some gyfte that is nothyng worth: Agayne there is some gyfte / whose reward is double.
Some man getteth a fal for byng to proude and some cometh to wylchyppe from lowe estate. Some man blyeth moch for a litle pryce and must paye for it seuen folde.

A wyle man wylth his wordes maketh him selfe to be loued / but the fauours of foolys shall be poured out. The gyfte of the vnwyle shall do the no good / for his eyes are seuen folde. He shall geue sylle / and saye he gaue moch: he openeth his mouth & cryeth out / as it were one that crieth out wyne. To daye he lendeth / to morrow he asketh it agayne / and such a man is to be hated. The foole sayeth:
I haue no frende / I haue no thanke for all my good dedes: yee euen they that eat my byed / speake no good of me. How oft / and of how many shall he be laughed to scoyne?
He taketh a more perlon fall by such wordes when yf he fell vpon the grounde / euen so shall the falles of wicked men come hastily. In the mouth of hym that is vntaught / are many vconuenient and vnmete wordes. A wyle sentence shall not be allowed at the mouth of the sole / for he speaketh it not in due season.

Some man synneth not / because he hath not wherewithall / and in his rest he shall be synged. Some man there is that destroyeth his awne soule with shame / and for an vnwyle bodyes sake he destroyeth he it / and wylth acceptynge of persones shall he vndoo hym selfe. Some man promyseth his frende a gyfte for very shame / and getteth an enemye of hym for naught. A lye is a wylched name in a man / yet shall it be euer in the mouth of the vnwyle. A lye is better / then a man that is accustomed to lye / but they bothe shall haue destruction to heretage. The con-dycions of lyers are vn honest / & their name is euer with them.

A wyle man shall bynne hym selfe to ho-noure with his wordes / and he that hath vnderstandynge shall be set by amonge greate men. He that tilleth his lande / shall encrease his heape of coyne: he that wylcheth / regh-he that kepech hys igno'auce secrete/ then a man that hydech hys wyldome.

Of the repentance of synne. We may not heape synne upon synne. The boldnesse of an heretike. The ende of synners. Of the foole and of the wyse man.
Of hym that curseth the deuill.

The xxi. Chapter.

Ecclesiasticus. b. a. v. g. a.
xj. c.

M come p' thou hast synned/ do it now: but praye for thy syn-nes/ that they maye be forgiven the. He from synne/ euen as from a serpent: for yf thou comest to nye her/he wyll bite the. The teeth therof are as the teeth of a yd/ to slepe & soules of men. The wychednes of manys as a sharpe two edged swerde/ whych maketh such woundes that they can not be healed.

Stryfe and wrongeous dealinge shall waste awaye a mans goodes/ & thowm pryde a ryche house shalbe brought to naught: so the ryches of the proude shalbe roted oute.
The prayer of the poore goeth oute of the mouth/ and cometh vnto the eares/ and hys vengeance (or defence) shall come/ and that hastily. Who so hateth to be reformed it is a token of an vngodly personne: but he that feareth God/ wyll remembre hym selfe.
A myghty man is knowne a farr of by his tonge/ but he that hath vnderstanding/ perceaueth that he shall haue a fall.

Who so buydeth hys house wth other mens cast/ is lyke one that gathereth stones in wynter. The congregacyō of the vngodly is lyke stubble gathered together/ thei ende is a flamme of fyre. The waye of the vngod-ly is sett wth stones/ but in thei ende is hell/ darcknes/ and paynes. He that kepech the law/ wyll holde fast & vnderstandynge ther-of/ and the ende of the feare of God is wyld-ome. He that is not wyse/ wil not be caught in good: but the vnyse man aboundeth in wychednesse: and where byctemes is/ there is no vnderstanding. The knowledge of the wyse shall flowe lyke water & renneth ouer/and his counsell is lyke a fountayne of lyfe.

The hert of a foole is lyke a broken vessel/he can kepe no wyldome. When a man of vnderstandinge heareth a wyse woide/ he shall comende it/ and make moche of it. But yf a voluptuous man heate it/ he shall haue no pleasure therein/ but cast it behynde hys back. The catchynge of a foole is lyke an heuy burthen by the waye: but to heare a wyse man speake/ it is a pleasure. Where a bouce is in the congregacyō/ it is asked at & mouth of the wyse/ & they shal ponde his woyses in their hertes. Lyke as a house & is destroyed/euen so is wyldome vnto a foole: As for the knowledge of the vnyse/ it is but darck woydes. Doctryne is vnto hym that hath no vnderstandinge/ euen as fetters aboute hys feete/ & lyke mannycles vpon his ryght hand.

A foole yfseth by his voyce with laughter/but a wyse man shall scarce laugh secretly.

Learninge is vnto a wyse man a Jewell of golde/ & lyke an armylet vpon his ryght arme.
A foolish mans sore is soone in hys neygh-bourhouse/ but one that hath experience/shal be a shamed at the persone of the myghtie. A foole wyll pepe in at the wyndow in to a house/ but he that is well nourtured/ wyll stande without. A foolish man standeth herkenyng at the doze/ but he that is wyse/ will be a shamed.

The lypes of the vnyse wyll teyllenge foolish thynges/ but the woyses of such as haue vnderstandinge/ shalbe weyed in & balaunce. The hert of foolis is in their mouth/but the mouth of the wyse is in their herte.
When the vngodly curseth the blasphemr/he curseth his awne soule. A pryuy accuser of other men shal despye his awne soule/ & be hated of every man: (but he that kepech hys tonge & is discrete/ shall come to honoure.)

The purgacyō of the southfull. Of the folp sonnes daughters/ we must haue discrecyō how and to whom we ought to preache/ of sowynge vpon the deed. A foole is not to be moche talked with all. Fumryes & wronges do breake frendship & amitie.

The xxij. Chapter.

A southfull body is moulded of a stone of clare: he that toucheth him must wash hys handes agayne. A mystroued sonne is & dishonoure of the father. A foolish daughter shalbe lytle regarded. A wyse daughter is an heretage vnto her husbande: but she that cometh to dishonour/ byngeth her father in heynnes.
A daughter & is past shame/ byshonoureth both her father & her husbande: & vngodly shal regarde her/ but they both shal despye her/ & playge of Musick is not mete where heynnes is/ euen so is & correccyō & doctryne of wyldome euer vnpleasaut vnto foolis.

Who so teacheth a foole/ is euen as one that gleweth a pottherde together: as one that telleth a tale to hym that heareth hym not/ and as one that rayseth a mō out of an heuy slepe. Who so telleth a foole of wyldo-me/ is eue as a man/ whych speaketh to one & is a slepe. When he hath tolde his tale/ he saith: what is the matter? When one bryeth/lamentacyō is made for hym/ because the lyght

lyght sayeth hym: euen so let men moune ouer a foole: for he wanteth vnderstanding.
Make but lytle wepyng because of & deede:
for he is come to rest/ but the lyfe of the foole is woyle then & deeth. Seuen dayes do men mourne for hym that is deede/ but the lamen-tacyō ouer the vnyse & vngodly shuld endure all the dayes of their lyfe.

Take not moche with a foole/ and go not with hym that hath no vnderstandinge. Bewarre of hym/ lest it turne the to trauayle/ & thou shalt not be desilled with his synne. We-parte from him/ and thou shalt fynde rest/ & shalt not be drawe back into his folyshnes.
What is heuier then leade? And what shuld a foole be called els but leade? Sande/ salt/& a lype of yd is easier to beate/ then an vn-wyse/ folysh/ and vngodly man. Like as the band of wodd bounde together in the foundacion of the house can not be lowsed/ eue so is it in the hert & is stablyshed in & thought of counsell. The thought of the wyse/ shall neither feare nor be offended at any tyme.

Like as a sayre playfard wall in a wynter house/ & an hys buyding/ may not abyde the wynde and stome: eue so is a folis herte astrayed in hys ymaginacyō: he feareth at euery thyng/ & can not endure. He & nippeth a mans eye/ byngeth forth teares: & he that prycheth & hert/ byngeth forth & meanyng and thought. Who so casteth a stone at the bydes/ trayeth them awaye: & he & blasphemeth his frende/ breaketh the frendshyppe/though thou dyest a swerde at thy frende/yet despayre not/ for thou mayest come a-gayne to thy frende. If he speake sowetly/feare not/ for ye maye be agreed together agayne: excepte it be that thou blasphem hym/ bysdayne hym/ open hys secretes and wounde hym tratorously: for all such thynges shall dyspue awaye a frende.

We saythfull vnto thy neyghbour in hys pouerte/ & thou mayest reioyse in hym also in his prosperite. Abide steadfast vnto hym in the tyme of his trouble/ that thou mayest be hepye with hym in his heretage. Lyke as the vapour & smoke goeth out at the oue before the fyre/ euen so euell woyses/ rebukes and threatenynges go before bloudshedynge.
Be not a shamed to defende thy frende: as for me/ I wyll not hyde my face fro him/ though he shulde do me harme. Whosoener heareth it/ shall beware of hym. Who shall see a watch before my mouth/ & a sure scale vpon my lippes/ that I fall not with them/ & that my tonge destroye me not?

A prayer agayn & pryde/ lechery and glotony.
Of the blasphemr/ & of wyse communicacyō. Of the ende of synners. Of any synners proceede of ad-uertyse. Of the feare of God.

The xxij. Chapter.

Lorde/ father & gouernoure of al my lyfe/ leaue me not in their yma-ginacyō & coscell. Wh let me not fall in such reprofe. Who will he pe-ny thought with the scourge/ & the doctryne of wyldome in myne herte: that he spare not myne igno'auce/ that I fall not with them/lest myne igno'auces increafe/ that myne offences be not many in nombre/ & that my synnes excede not: lest I fall before myne enemyes/ & to my aduersary reioyse. Lorde thou father & God of my lyfe/ leaue me not in their ymaginacyō. Let me not haue a proude loke/ but turne awaye all voluptuousnes from me. Take from me the lustre of the body/ let not the despyes of vncleennes take holde vpon me/ & geue me not ouer into an vnshamefull and obdurate mynde.

Hear me (O ye chyldren) I will geue you a doctryne/ how ye shall ordeyre your mouth:
who so kepech it/ shal not perishe thowm his lippes/ ner be hurt thowm wyched woyses.
As for the synner/ he shall be taken in hys awne banys: he that is proude & cursed/ shal fall therein. Let not thy mouth be accustomed with swearyng/ for in it there are many falles. Let not & namyng of God be continually in thy mouth: for lyke as a seruant whych is oft punyshed can not be without some soze/euen so whatsoeuer he be that sweareth and nameth God/ shal not be cleane purged fro synne. A man that vseth moche swearyng/shalbe fylled wth wickednes/ and the plage shal neuer go from hys house. If he begyle his brother/ hys faute shalbe vpon him: yf he knowledg not hys synne/ he maketh a public offence/ & yf he sweare in bayne/ he shall not be founde ryghteous/ for his house shal be full of plagis.

The woyses of & sweater byngeth deeth (God graunte that it be not founde in & house of Jacob.) But they & feare God/ & shue all such and lyte not weltyng in synne. Wile not thy mouth to vnhonour and filthy talkyng/for in it is & woide of synne. Remembre thy father and thy mother/ when thou art set amonge grete men: lest God forget the in-their sight/ & lest thou dotyng in thy custome suffre rebuke/ & wyld not to haue bene boz-ne/ and so curle the daye of thy natyuite. The man that is accustomed with the woyses of blasphemy/ wyll neuer be reformed all the dayes of his lyfe. To synne twise is to much/but the thyde byngeth wath a destruccyō.
An hote stomack can not be quenched (euen lyke a burnyng fyre) tyll it haue swallowed by somthyng: eue so an vnhonour man hath no rest in hys deeth/ tyll he haue bynded a fyre.

Will bynd is swete to an vhozemonger/ he wyll not leaue of/ tyll he haue hys purpose:

A man that bfeareth wedlock / & regardeth not his soule / but sayeth : Cuth / who seyth me? I am compassed aboute with darchnes / the walles aboute me / no body seyth me : who nedeth I to feare? The ppeit wyl not remembre my synnes. He bnderstandeth not that hys eyes se all thynges / for all soch feare of men bypeth awaye the feare of God from hym : for he feareth onely the eyes of men / and consydreth not that the eyes of the Lorde are clearer then the Sunne / beholpyng all the wayes of men and the grounde of the depe / and lohyng euen to mens hertes in secreete places. The Lorde God knowe all thynges or euer they were made / and after they be brought to passe also he lokech vpon the all. The same man shalbe openly punysshed in the strettes of the cytie / & shalbe chased abrode lyke a ponge horse foale : & whē he thynketh leest vpon it / he shalbe takē. Thus shalbe he put to shame of every mā / because he wolde not bnderstande the feare of the Lorde. And thus shal it go also with every wyfe that leauech her husband / and getteth enheretance by a straunge marriage. First / she hath bene vnfaithfull vnto the lawe of the Wyfe : Secondly / she hath forsake her awne husband : Thirdly / she hath played & whoze in adoutry / & gotte her chyld by another mā. She shalbe brought out of the congregacyō / & her chyldren shalbe lohed vpon. Her chyld shal not take rote : & as for herte / her byaunches shal bylyng forye more. A shamefull repute shal she leaue behynde her / & her dishonour shal not be put out. And they & remayne / shal knowe / & there is nothing better / then the feare of God : & there is nothing sweeter then to take hede vnto the commaundmentes of the Lorde. A greete wotheppye is it to folowe the Lorde / for longe tyme shalbe receyued of him.

A people of wisdom proceeding forth of the mouth of God. Of her woyses a place where she teacheth.

Wisdom shall prayse her selfe / and be honoured in God / & reioyse in the myddest of his people : In the congregacyōs of the Wyfe shal she open her mouth / & triumphe in the beholpyng of his power. In the myddest of her people shal she be exalted / & wondred at in the holy fulnesse : In the multitude of the chosen she shalbe commended / and amonge soch as be blessed she shalbe praysed / & shal saye : I am come out of the mouth of the Wyfe / & byz bozne befoze all creatures. I caused the lyght that shal lech not to aryle in the heauen / & covered all the earth as a cloude. My dwellinge is aboute in the beyth / & my seate is in the pyler of the cloude. I myselfe alone haue gone rounde aboute the compass of heauen / & peared grounde of the depe : I haue walched in the houses of the see / & haue stande in all lades : my dominion is in every people and in every nacyn / & with my power haue I trode downe the hertes of all / both hye and lowe.

In all these thynges also I sought rest / & a dwellinge in some enheritaunce. So the creator of all thynges gaue me a commaunde-ment : he that made me / appoynted me a tabernacle / and sayde vnto me : Let thy dwellinge be in Jacob / & thyne inheritaunce in Israel / & rote thy selfe amonge my chosen. I was created from the begynnyng and befoze the world / & shal not leaue of vnto the world to come. In the holy habytacyon haue I seuered befoze him / and so was I tabyshed in Zion. In the holy cite rested I in like maner : & in Jerusalem was my power / I toke rote in an honozable people / euen in the pozepon of the Lorde & in his heretage / & kepte me in the fulnes of the synctes. I am set vpon hye like a Cedar vpon Libanus / & as a Cypress tre vpon the mount Hermon : I am exalted lyke a palme tre in Cadex / & as a rose plante in Jericho : As a fayre olyue tre in the felde / & am exalted lyke as a plantyne tre by the water syde. I haue geuen a smell in the strettes / as the Cynamom and Balme / that hath so good a sauoure : yee a swete odoure haue I geuen as it were Myrrour of the best.

I haue made my dwellinges to smell as it were of rosyn / Galbanum / of Cloves / & Incense / & as Libanus when it is not hewe downe / & myne odoure is as pure Balme. As the Cerebynte haue I dreched out my byaunches / and my byaunches are the byaunches of honoure and louynge sauoure. As the hyne haue I brought forth frute of a swete sauoure / & my flowers are the frute of honoure & ryches. I am the mother of bewte / of loue / of feare / of knowledge & of holy hope. In me is all grace of lyfe & trouth : In me is all hope of lyfe & vertue. Come vnto me / all ye that be despyous of me / & I will poure selues with my frute : for my spete is sweeter then hony / & so is my inheritaunce more then the hony combe : the remembraunce of me endureth for euermore. They that eate me / shal haue the more hōger : & they that drinke me / shal thirde more. Who so hekeneth vnto me / shal not come to confusyon : and they that woche in me / shal not offende. They that make me to be knowne / shal haue euerlastyng lyfe.

All these thynges are the boke of lyfe / the couenaunt of the Wyfe / & the knowledge of the trouth. Moses commaunded the lawe in the preceptes of ryghtuousnes for an heretage vnto the house of Jacob / and commytted the promyses vnto Israel (Out of Dauid hys seruante ye shal be ordeined to ralse by a most myghty the kinge / sittinge in the seate of honoure for euermore / & hys fylleth with wysdome lyke as the floude of Physon / & as the floude of Egipt / when the new frutes are a growyng.

Thus bringeth a plentiful vnderstandinge like the Euphrates / & fylleth it by / as Jordan in the time of haruest. Thus maketh hōutour to byake forth as the light / and as the water shon in the haruest. The spete hath not knowne her perfectly / no more shal the last seke out the grounde of her. For her thought is fuller then the see / & her counsell is ppyfounder then the greete depe.

Wysdome haue cast out floudes / & am as a great waterboke out of the riuers / I am as the ryuer Dox / and as a water condyte am I come out of the garden of pleasure. I sayde : I will water the garden of my ponge planters / and fyll the frute of my byzth. So my waterboke became excreasynge greete / and my ryuer appoynted vnto the see. For I make doctrine to be vnto al men as light as the fayre moonyng / and I will make it to be euer the clearer. I will prayse the howe all the lower partes of the earth / I will loke vpon al soch as be a depe / and lychen all the that put their trust in the Lorde. I will yet poure out doctrine / lyke as prophete / & leaue it vnto soch as seke after wysdome / and their generacions shal I neuer laye / vnto the holy euerlastyng world. Beholde / how that I haue not laboured for my selfe onely / but for all the that seke after the trouth.

Of the thynges which please God / & of the which he hateth. Of the thynges that be not to be suspect / and of the trouth which is the malice of a woman.

The xxxiij. Chapter.

The thynges there are / & my spete sauoureth / which be also allowed befoze God and men : the bynne of byethen / the loue of neyghbours / and man and wyfe that agree wel together.

These thynges there be which my soule hateth / and I bitterly abhorre the lyfe of them : A poze man that is proude. A ryche man that is a lyar / and an olde body that doteth / and is vnchaste.

If thou hast gathered nothyng in thy youth / what wyl thou fynde then in thyne age? How pleasaunt a thyng is it / when gray headed men are dyscrete / & whē they geue good cosell : How comely a thyng is wysdome vnto aged men : yee vnderstandyng and counsell is a glozpyous thyng. The crowne of olde men is to haue moch experyence / & the feare of God is their wotheppye.

There be ix. thynges / which I haue iudged in my herte to be happye / & the xth wyl I tell forth vnto men with my tonge. A man that wyle he lyueth / hath foze of hys chyld byzth / & with the fall of hys tynnyes. Well is hym that dwelleth with an honest wyfe of vnderstandyng / & hath not fallen with hys tonge / & hath not bene fayne to serue soch as are vnmete for hym. Well is hym / & fyndeth a saythfull sernde : & well is hym / which talketh of wysdome to an eare that heareth hym. Whom great is he / & fyndeth wysdome and knowledge? Yet is he not aboute hym / that feareth the Lorde. The feare of God hath set it selfe aboute all thynges. Blessed is the man / vnto whom it is graunted to haue the feare of God. Vnto whō shal he be lychened / & he peth it fast? The feare of God is the begynnyng of his loue / & the begynnyng of sayth is to cleue fast vnto it. The heynnes of the herte is all the punysshment / & the wickednes of a woman goeth aboute all. All punysshment and plage is nothyng in comparison of the plage of the herte / euen so all wychednes is nothyng to the wychednesse of a woman.

Whateuer happeneth vnto a man / is nothyng in comparysyn of it / that his euill wyllers do vnto him : and all vengeance is nothyng to the vengeance of the enemye.

There is not a more wicked heade then the head of the serpent / & there is no wyath aboute the wyath of a woman. I will rather dwell in a lyde & dyag / then to kepe house with a wicked wyfe. The wychednesse of a woman chaggeth her face / she shal mofell her countenance as it were a Berry / & as a sack shal she weie it amonge the neyghbours. Her husbande is brought to shame amonge his neyghbours / and whē he heareth it / it maketh hym to syghe. All wychednes is but lytle to the wychednes of a woman / the pozepon of the bygodly shal fall vpon her.

Lyke as to clymme by a sandy waye is to the fete of the aged / euen so is a wyfe full of woyses to a styll quyet man. Loke not to narrowly vpon the bewte of a woman / lest thou be prouoked in desyre toward her. The wyath of a woman is dishonoure and greete confusyon. If a woman get the mastre / then is she contrary to her husbande. A wyched wyfe maketh a soyy herte / an heuy countenance & a deede wounde. Of the woman came the begynnyng of synne / and thow her we all are deede. Geue thy water no passage / no not a lytle / neither geue a wicked woman her wyl. If she walche not after thy hande / she shal confounde the in the syght of thy enemies. Cuth her of then from thy flesch / that she do not alwaye abuse the.

Of the people of a good woman. Of the feare of the thynges & of the fourth. Of the zelouze & dysonchert woman. Of the thynges that cause tozwe / & of the thyde which moueth tozath. It is harde to fynde a marchant without dysceite / & a tauerne without synne in his tonge.

Ippie is the man that hath a bertuous wyfe / for the nombze of his yeates shalbe dubble. An honest woman maketh her housbande a joyfull man / and she shall fyll the yeates of his lyfe in peace. A bertuous womā is a noble gyst / which shalbe geuen for a good portyon vnto soch as feare God. Whether a man be ryche or poore / he maye haue euer a mery herte / and a chearfull countenance / there be thye thynges that my herte seareth / & my face is asrayed of the fourth. Treason in a cytle / a suspitious people / & noysome edges / all these are heuier then the death. But whē one is gelous ouer his wyfe / it byngeth payne and sorowe vnto the herte : and a woman that telleth out all thynges / is a scourge of the tonge. When one hath an euell wyfe / it is euen as when an vnlyke pare of oxen must draue together / he that getteth her / getteth a scourge. A dyche womā is a great plague / for she can not couer her awne shame.

Judith. xvi.

Eccl. x. b.

The whoredome of a woman maye be knownen in the pryde of her eyes and eyeliddes. If thy daughter be not shamed / holde her straitly / lest she abuse her selfe thowow ouermuch lyberte. Bewarre of all the dishonesty of her eyes / & maruell not if she do agaynst the. Lyke as one that goeth by a wyge is thirde / so shal she ope her mouth / & dysynche of euery nexte water & she maye get. By euery hedge shal she lye her downe / & open her quiput agaynst euery arrowe. A lounge wyfe reioyseth her housbande & feedeth his bones with her wysdome. A woman of few wordes is a gyfte of God / & to al well nurtured mynde maye nothyng be copared.

Genes. v. b.

An honest and manerly woman is a gyfte aboute other gyftes / & there is no weight to be compared vnto a mynde that can rule it selfe. Lyke as the Sunne when it ariseth / is an ornament in the hye heauen of the Lozde / so is a bertuous wyfe the bewtye of all her house. Lyke as the cleare lycht is vnto the holy candell / so is the bewtye of the face vnto an honest body. Lyke as the golden pylers are vpon the sockettes of syluer / so are the sayre legges vpon a woman that hath a constant mynde. Perpetuall are the foundacyons that be layed vpon a whole stoupe roche / so are the commaundementes of God vpon an holy woman.

There be two thynges that greue my herte / and in the thirde is a displeasure come vpon me. When an experie man of warre suffreth fearfenes and pouerte. When men of vnderstandynge and wysdome are not felt by. And when one departeth from rightuousnes vnto synne. Who so doth soch / the Lozde hath prepared him vnto the swerde. Where be two maner of thynges / whych me thynke to be herde and perylous. A marchant can not lightly kepe him from wounge / nether a tauerne him selfe from synne.

Of the poe that walde be ryche. The probacy of the man that feareth God. The vncertaine of a sole. The secretes of a frende are not to be betrayed. The wyche pyngeth euell / whych reioyseth vnto hym selfe.

The xxv. Chapter.

Because of pouerte haue many one offended : and he that seeth to be riche / turneth his eyes asyde. Lyke as a maye in the wall richeth fall betwixte two stones / euen so doth synne stricke betwixte the byer & the seller. If he hold him not dysgently in the feare of the Lozde / his house shal soone be ouerthrowen. Lyke as when one sytteth / the sylthynes remayneth in the syue : so remayneth there some vncleane thyng in the thought of man. The ouen proueth the poeters bewill / so doth the taryd of trouble trye ryghtuous men. The tre of the felde is knowe by his frute / so is the thought of mas hert knowe by his wordes. Paye no mē excepte thou haue herde him / for a man is knowe by his wordes. If thou folowest ryghtuousnes / thou shalt get her / & put her vpon the as a sayre garment. And thou shalt dwell with her / & she shal defende the for euer / & in the daye of knowledge thou shalt fynde redressment. The bydes reioyce vnto their lyke / so doth the truech turne vnto them that be occupied withall. The sport wayteth for the praye : so doth the synner lurke vnto the woekers of wickenes. The talking of him that feareth God / is nothyng but wysdome : as for a soole / he chaunge as the wynde. If thou be amonge the vndiscrete / kepe thy wordes to a conuenient tyme / but amonge soch as be wyse / speake on hardely. The talking of sooles is abhominacion / & their spoyle is voluptuousnes and mistour. Much swearing maketh the herte to stande by / and to dyspue wyth soch / stoppeth the eares.

The cryte of the proude is bloudshedding / & their blasphemynge is heuy to heare. Who so discourereth secretes / leseth his credence / & fyndeth no frende after his wyll. A due thyng fynde / & bynde thy selfe in faithfulness with him : but if thou betrayest his secretes / thou shalt not get him agayne. For lyke as the man is that betrayeth his enemye / so is he also that dealeth falsly in the frendshipe of his neyghbour.

Lyke as one that letteth a byde go oute of his hande / can not take her agayne. Euen so thou / if thou geue ouer thy frende / thou canst not get him agayne. Yee thou shalt not come by him / for he is to farr of. He is vnto the to the as a Roo escaped out of the snare / for his soule is wounde. As for woundes / they maye be bounde by agayne / and an euell wyde maye be reconcyled : but who so betrayeth the secretes of a frende / there is no more hope to be had vnto him.

Eccl. x. b.

He that winneth with the eyes / ymagyneth some euell / and no man shal take hym from it. When thou art present / he shal bylie comende and prayse thy wordes : but at the last he shal turne his tayle / & sclander thy sayenge. Many thynges haue I hated / but no thyng so euell / for the Lozde himselfe also abhorreth soch one.

Eccl. x. b.

Who so casteth a stone on hye / it shal fall vpon his awne head : and he that smyteth with gyle / woundeth himselfe. Who so bygeth a pyt / shal fall therein : and he that layeth a snare / shal be taken in it himselfe. Who so geueth a wyched noysome counsell / it shal come vpon himselfe / and he shal not knowe from whence. The proude blasphemie are come full / but vengeance lurketh for them as a lyon. They that reioyce at the fall of the righteous / shal be taken in the snare / angush of herte shal consume them before they dye. Anger and rygousnes are two abhominable thynges / and the vngodly hath them both vpon hym.

We ought not to desyre vengeance / but to forgeue the offence. Of the byres of the tonge / and of the dylgers therof.

The xxvi. Chapter.

Eccl. x. b.

If that seeth vengeance / shal fynde vengeance of the Lozde / which shal surely kepe hym by synnes. Forgeue thy neyghbour the hurte that he hath done the / and so shal thy synnes be forgeuen the also / when thou prayest. A man that beareth hatred agaynst another / how darre he desyre forgeuenesse of God? He that sheweth no mercy to a man which is lyke him selfe / how darre he aske forgeuenesse of his synnes? If he that is but flesh / beareth hatred and kepeth it / who wyl intreate for his synnes? Remembre the ende / & let enmyte passe / which seeth death and destruction / & abyde thou in the commaundement. Remembre the commaundement / so shalt thou not be rygous ouer thy neyghbour. Whynke vnto the couenant of the byde / & forgeue thy neyghbours ignoraunce. Bewarre of strife / & thou shalt make thy synnes fewer. For an angrie mā kindleth baradice / and the vngodly dysquyeteth frendes / & putteth discorde amonge them that be at peace. The more wodd there is / the more belement is the fyre / and the mightier that men be / the greater is the wrath : and the longer the fyre endureth / the more it burneth.

An hasty byrdynge kindleth a fyre / & an hasty stylye sheddeth bloude. If thou blowe the sparke / it shal burne. If thou spyt vpon it / it shal go forth / & both these go out of thy mouth. The sclanderer & dubble tonged is cursed / for many one that he frendes setteth he at bargaunce. The wyde tonge hath dysquyeted many one / and byuen them from one lande to another. Stronge cytes hath it broken downe / and ouerthrowne the houses of greute men. The wyde tonge hath cast out many an honest woman / and robbed them of their labours. Who so herkeneth vnto soch / shal neuer fynde rest / & neuer dwell safely. The stroke of the rod maketh yedders / but the stroke of the tonge smyteth the bones in sunder. There be many that haue perished by the swerde / but many mo the to the tonge.

Eccl. x. b.

Well is him that kepe the an euell tonge / & cometh not in the anger therof / whych dwelleth not the porch of soch / & is not boode in the bandes of it. For the porch therof is of yron / and the bande of it is of stele. The death therof is a very euell death / hell were better for one / then soch a tonge. But the fyre of it maye not oppresse them that feare God / and the flamme therof maye not burne the. Soch as forsake the Lozde / shal fall therein : and it shal burne them / and no mā shal be able to quench it. It shal fall vnto them as a Lyon / and deuoure the as a leoparde. Thou hedgest thy goodes with thornes : why dost thou not rather make dozes & barres for thy mouth? Thou wepest thy golde and syluer : why dost thou not wepe thy wordes also vpon the balance? Bewarre / that thou lye not in thy tonge / and so fall before thyne enemyes / & laye wayte for the.

How we ought to lende oure monye / and do almes. Of a saythfull man and wyse for his frende. Of lybertye and holpynge.

The xxvii. Chapter.

If so wyl thewe metty / lett hym lende vnto his neyghbour : and he that is able / lett him kepe the commaundement. Lende vnto thy neyghbour in tyme of his nede / and paye thou thy neyghbour agayne in due season. Kepe thy wordes and deale saythfully with him and thou shalt allwaye fynde the thyng that is necessary for the. There haue bene many / that when a thyng was lent them / rehedned it to be founde / and made them strauayle and labour / that had helped them. Whyle they retrace any thyng / they fynde the bandes of soch as geue them / and for their neyghbours good they humble their boyce. But when they shuld paye agayne they lyepe it back / & geue euell wordes / & make many excuses by season.

reason of the tyme: a though he be able / yett geueth he scarce the halfe agayne / and reke- neth the other to be founde. And yf he wyth- olde not his moneye / yett hath he an enemye of him / and that vnderfured.

Whe payeth him with curtyng and rebuke / a geueth him euell wordes for his good dede. There be many one which are not glad for to lende / not because of euell / but they feare to lese the thinge that they lende. Yett haue thou patience with the symple / and withhold not mercy from him. Helpe the poore for the com- maundementes sake / and lett hym not goo emptye fro the because of his necessity. Lese thy money for thy brother and neyghbours sake / a burde it not vnder a stone / where it rusteth and corruppeth. Gather thy treasu- re after the commaundement of the best / and so shall it byng the more profit then golde. Laye by the almes in the hand of the poore / and it shall kepe thee from all euell. A mans almes is as a purse with him / a shall kepe a mans sauoure as the apple of an eye: and afterwarde shall it arys / a paye every ma his rewarde by his head. It shall fyght for the agaynst thine enemies / better then a chylde of a gaunte / or spere of a myghtye.

A good honest ma is suertye for his neygh- boure / but a wyched personne letteth hym come to shame. Forget not the frendshype of of thy suertye / for he hath geue his soule for the. The vngodly despyeth the good dede of his suertye / a the vnythanchfull a ignoraunt leaueth his suertye in daunger. Some man promyseth for his neyghboure: and when he hath lost his honesty / he shall forsake him. Suerthyspype hath destroyed many a ryche man / a remoued them as the waues in a see. Myghtie people hath it byguen awaye / and caused the to wandre in straunge countrees. An vngodly ma transgredyng the commaund- ment of the Loyde / shall fall in to an euell suertye: a though he force hym self to get out / yett shall he fall into iudgme. Helpe thy neyghbour out after thy power / a be warre / that thou thy selfe fall not in such dede. The chere thyng that kepeth in a lyfe / is water and byrd / clothynge and lodgyng / to couer a name.

Better is it to haue a poore spynge in a mans alone house / then despyate late amoge the straunge. Be it lyfe or moch / thou hast / holde the content withall / a thou shalt not be blamed as a bagabowde: for a myserable lyfe is it / to go from house to house: a where a ma is fremde / he darre not open his mouth. Though one be lodged / and haue meate and drynke / yett shall he be taken as inwozthy / a heate many bytter rough wordes / namely thus: So thy waye thou straunger / and prepare a table for thy selfe / and fede me also of that thou hast. A waye thou straunge / so / a he regardeth his honoure no more / my brother cometh in to my house / a so he telleth of the necessity of his house. These thynges are heuy to a man that hath vnderstandyng: namely / the forbyddynge of the house / and that the lender casteth him in the teth.

Of the correccion of chyldren. Of the commody- ty of healty. Death is better then a sorrowfull lyfe. Of hyde wysdome. Of the voye a sorow of the hert.

The xxx. Chapter.

Who so loueth his chylde / holdeth a him still vnder correccion / that he maye haue loye of him afterwarde. A chylde a he grepe not after his neygh- bours doyes. He teacheth his sonne / shall haue loye in him / a nede not to be ashamed of him amonge his aquauntance. Who so entourmeth a teacheth his sonne / greueth a enemye: a before his frendes he maye haue loye of him. Though the father dye / yett is he as though he were not ded: for he hath let one behynde him that is lyke him. In his lyfe he sawe him / a had loye in him / and was not for in his death / nether was he a charged be- fore the enemyes. For he left behynde hym an auenger agaynst his enemyes / a a good doer vnto the frendes. For the lyfe of chylde he shall bynde the woundes together / and his herte is greued at every crye. An vntamed hoyle wilbe harde / and a wanton chylde wilbe wyllfull. If thou byng by thy sonne deli- catly / he shall make the afayed: and yf thou playe with him / he shall byng the to heuy- nes. Laugh not with him / lest thou wepe w hym also / and lest thy teth be sett on edge at the last.

Gue him no lyberte in his youth / a excu- se not his foly. How downe his necke whyle he is yonge / by hym vpon the spores whyle he is yett but a chylde / lest he ware. Rubburne / a geue no more loye of the / a so shall thou haue heuyenes of soule. Teach thy chylde / a be diliget therin / lest it be to thy shame. Bet- ter is the poore beyng whole a stryde / then a man to be ryche / a not to haue his healty. Healty and wellfare is aboue all golde / and a whole body aboue all treasure. There is no ryches aboue a sounde body / and no loye aboue the loye of the herte. Death is better then a wyched lyfe / or cōtynual synnes. The good thynges that are put in a cloce mouth / are lyke as when meate is layed by the graue.

What good doth the offerynge vnto an y. A doll: for he can nether eate / taste / ner smell. Euen so is he that is chased of the Loyde / a heareth the rewardes of iniquyte. He seith wth his eyes / a groweth lyke a gelbed man / that that lyeth with a byrgin and sygeth. Gue not ouer thy mynde in to heuyenes / and bere not thy self in thine atone counsell. The loye a cheartfulness of the hert is the life of man / and a mans gladnes is the prolongyng of his dayes. Loue thine atone soule / and comforte thine hert: as for sorow and heuyenes / byrue it farre from the / for heuyenes hath dayne many a man / and byngeth no profit. Zele a anger shorten the dayes of a life carefullnes and sorow byng age before the tyme. Vnto a mery hert every thyng hath a good tast / that he eateth.

We ought to geue diligent hede to heryng. Of them that take payne to gather ryches. The playe of a ryche man without a fault. We ought to be dyce- heuene and folowe sobernesse.

The xxxi. Chapter.

Manaye a carefullnes for ryches taketh awaye the slepe / a maketh the flesch to consume. When one lyeth and taketh care / he waketh euer by / like as greate sicknes byrakeneth the slepe. The ryche hath greate labour in gathe- ring his riches together / a then to the plea- sure of his riches he taketh his rest and is re- crewed. But who so labourerth a prospererth not / he is poore: a though he leaue of / yett is he a begger. He so loueth ryches / shall not be sufficed: a who so foloweth corrupcion / shall haue proude therof. Many one are come in greate myfortune by the reason of golde / a haue founde their destruction be fore them. It is a tre of fallynge vnto them that offe- se by / and all such as be foolys fall therin. Blessed is the rich / which is founde without blemph / and hath not gone after golde / ner hoped in money a treasures. Where is there such one / and we shall commend hym / and call hym blessed / for greate thynges doth he amonge his people. Who so is tryed / a soude perfecte in such thynges / shall be commended and prayed. Who myght offende / and hath not offended: who coude do euell / and hath not done it: a chertye shall his good be fla- byshed / and the whole congregacion shall de- clare his allmeses. Yf thou lytt at a greate mans table / open not thy mouth wyde vpon it / and make not many wordes. Remember / that an euell eye is a byre.

What thinge created is worse then a wy- ched eye: therfore wepeth it before every mas face. Laye not thine hand vpon every thing that thine eye seyth / and stryue not wth hym in the byrde. Ponder by thy self what thy neyghbour wolde sayne haue / and be de- scerte in every poynte. Eate a thinge that is sett before the manerly / as it becommeth a man: a eate not to moch / lest thou be abho-

red. Leaueth thou of first of al because of nury- toure / lest thou be he whom no man maye satisfye / whych maye turne to thy decaye. When thou lyttst amoge many men / reach not thine hande out first of all. How well content is a wise ma wth a lytle wyne: so a in slepe thou shalt not beseeke therof / ner sele eny payne. A swete whollome slepe shall soch one haue / a sele no inward greife. He ryseth by by tymes in the moynynge / and is well at ease in him self. But an vnfacible eater fle- peth vnquety / and hath ache and payne of the body. If thou selest that thou hast eaten to moch / aryle / go thy waye / tast it of thy stomach / and take thy rest.

Whysonne / heare me / and despyse me not: a at the last thou shalt fynde as I haue tolde the. In all thy workes be diliget and quyet / so shall there no synnes happen vnto the. Who so is liberrall in dealyng out his meate / many men shall blesse hym and praye hym wth their lypes: and the same is a sure toke of his loue and saythfulness. But he that is vnfaithfull in meate / the whole cyrce shall complayne of hym: and that is a sure expe- rience of his insidelyte a wychednes. Be not thou a wine bybber / for wyne hath destroyed many a man. The lyte proueth the hard yd / euen so both wyne proue the hertes of the proude / when they be dronchen.

Wyne so hely dronchen / quyeteth the lyfe of man. If thou bynche it measurably / thou shalt be temperate. What lyfe is it / a maye contynue without wyne? Wyne was made from the begynnyng to make men glad / a not for dronkenes. Wyne mensura- bly dronken is a reioysynge of the soule and body. But yf it be dronken to excelle / it ma- keth bytternes and sozo we vnto the mynde. Dronkenes fylleth the mynde of a foolys wth shame a ryne / mynnyeth the strength / a maketh woordes. Rebuke not thy neygh- boure at the wyne / and despyse hym not in his myght. Gue him no despytefull wordes and preasse not vpon hym wth contrary sayenges.

Of the discrecyon of the praye of the preacher / and of the hearer. Of the seare / sayth / confydence of God.

bnderstanding despyseth no good counsell: but not thy self into a laborious syperry waye / and beware of thine a wne chyldren. In all thy woikes put thy trust in God from thy mmandementes. Who so bnderstandeth the woike encreaseth hys to the commandementes: and claymed them to hymself. But some of the hath he cursed / brought the lowe / & put the out of the estate. * Lyke as þe claye is in the potters hande / and all the ordynge therof at his pleasure: so are men also in the hande of hym þe made the / so that he maye geue them as it liketh hym best. Agaynst euell is good / and agaynst death is lyfe: so is the vngodly agaynst such as feare God. Beholde thus all the woikes of the Heryt / and there are euer

* two agaynst two / & one sett agaynst another. I am a waked by last of all / as one that gathereth after in hanuett. In the gyftes of God and in hys blessinge I am increased / & haue fylled my wyne pynde / lyke a grape gatherer. Beholde / how I haue not laboured only for my selfe / but for all soche as loue nurtoure and wysdome.

Heare me / O ye grete men of þe people / & hearken with poure eares. Ye rulers of the cōgregacyō. Geue not thy sonne a wyse / thy brother & frende power ouer the / while thou lyuest: & geue not awaye thy substance & good to another / lest it repent the / & thou be sayne to begge therfore thy self. As longe as thou lyuest & hast bzyeth / let no man chaunge the: for better it is thy chyldren to praye the / then that thou shouldest be sayne to loke in their handes. In all thy woikes be excellēt / that thy honoure be neuer sayned. At the tyme when thou shalt ende thy dayes / and fynysh thy lyfe / distribute thyne inheritaunce.
The fodder / the wypp / and the burden belongeth vnto the Ass: Meate / correctyon / & woyche vnto the seruant.

If thou set thy seruante to labour / thou shalt fynde rest. But if thou let hym go frel / he shall seke lybertye. The rocke & þe wypp bowe downe the neck / but tame thou thy euell seruant to bondes & correctyon. Sende hym to labour / þe he go not fole: for poyneste byngeth moche euell. Sett hys to woike / for

Jesus / the sonne

for that belongeth vnto hym and becometh hym well. If he be not obedient / byndeth fete: but do not to moche vnto him in any wyse / & without discrecion do nothing. If thou haue a (saythfull) seruant / let him be vnto þe as thyne a wne soule / for in bloude hast thou gotten him. If thou haue a seruante / holde him as thy selfe / for thou hast nede of him as of thy self. If thou intreate him euell / & kepest him harde / & makest hym to be proude / and to renne awaye from the / thou canst not tell what waye thou shalt seke him.

Of dreames / bypnyacions / and enchantermentes.
We ought to confute sayne hope and lynges. The people of them that feare God. Of dyuers woikes of men. God doth not slowe the woikes of an vnfaithfull man.

The xxxiij. Chapter.

Wyle people begile them selues with bayne & disceatfull hope / & foles trust in dreames. Who so regardeth dreames / is lyke hym that wyl take holde of a shadowe / & folowe after the wynde: Euen so is it with the appearing of dreames. Before the face is the lychnes of a face. Who can be clyensed of the vnclanez of what treuth can be spoken of a lyar.
Sothsayng / witchcraft / sozcery & dreamyng is but banysse: lyke as when a womā trauaglyeth with chyldre / & hath many fanta-syes in her herte. Where as soch blyss come not of God / set not thyne herte vpon the: for dreames haue disceard many a man / & they sayled / that put their trust therein.

The lawe shall be fulfilled without lyes / & wysdome is sufficient to a saythfull mouth.
A wyle mā þe is well instructe / bnderstandeth moche: & he þe hath good experyence / can talke of wysdome. He that hath no experyence / knoweth lytle: & he þe cerryeth moche wyldome.

When I was yet in erroure / I lerned moche also: yet I was so lerned / that I coulde not expresse it all / and came oft in parell of death therouer / tyll I was deliuered frō it.
Now I se / that they which feare God / haue þe right spyrte: for their hope stādeth in hym / than helpe the. Who so feareth the Lorde / standeth in awe of no man / & is not afrayed / for the Lorde is his hope and comforte.

Blessed is the soule of hym þe feareth the Lorde: In whō putteth he hys trust: whō is his strength: for the eyes of the Lorde haue respekte vnto the / that loue hym. He is their myghtie protectyon / & a safe grounde: A defence for the heate / a refuge for þe hote none daye / a succore for sombyng / and an helpe for fallynge. He setteth by the soule / & lyghteneth the eyes: He geueth health lyfe & blyf-fyng. He that geueth an offering of bryghuous good / his offering is refused: and the scornfull dealynges of the bryghtuous please not God. God hath no deyle in the of-ferynges of the vngodly / nether maye synne be reconcyled in the multitude of oblacys.

Who so byngeth an offeringe oute of the goodes of the pooze / doth euen as one þe hylleth the sonne before the fathers eyes.

The byrd of the nedefull is the lyfe of the pooze: he that defraudeth him therof / is a mā of bloude. Who so robbereth hys neyghboure of his lyuig / doth as grete synne as though he slew him to death. He that defraudeth the labourer of his hye / is a bloude shedder. Who one buydeth and another bzeaketh downe / what profyt haue they then but labour? / When one prayeth & another curseth / whose voyce wyl the Lorde heare? He that wasteth him selfe because of a deede body / and then toucheth the deede agayne / what doth hys washynge? So is it with a man that fasteth for his synnes / and doth them agayne: who wyl heare his prayer? What doth his fastyng helpe him?

It is well done to praye / and to do sacrefyce. The prayer of the fatherlesse / and of the wyddowe: and of hym that humblyeth hym selfe.

The xxxv. Chapter.

Who so kepyeth the lawe / byngeth an offeringe ynough. He that holdeth fast the commaundement / offereth the ryght health offeringe. He that is thackfull and recompenseth / offereth syne floure. * Who so is mercifull & geueth almes / that is the ryght thack offeringe. God hath pleasure / when one departeth from synne: & to forsake bryghtuousnes reconcylyeth by
with hym.

Thou shalt not appeare emptye before the Lorde / for all soch is done because of the commaundement. The offeringe of the ryghtuous maketh the aulter fat / & a swete smell is it before the Heryt. The offeringe of the ryghtuous is acceptable vnto God / and shall neuer be forgotten. Geue God hys ho-noure with a chearfull eye / & kepe not backe the tytynges of thy handes. In all thy gyf-tes shew a mery countenance / and halowe thy tythes vnto God with gladnes. Geue vnto God / accordinge as he hath enryched & prospered the: and loke what thyne hande is able / that geue with a chearfull eye: for the Lorde recompenseth / and geueth the seuen tymes as moche agayne.

Geue no bryghtuous gyses / for soch wyl be not receaue. Bewarre of wongeous of-ferynges / for the Lorde is a ryghtuous iudge: & regardeth no mā's personne: He accepteth not the personne of the pooze / but he heareth

Thou shalt do hym no good / but hurte thy selfe. Remembre his iudgment / thynke also thalbe lyke wyse: bntome yester daye / bnto the to daye. Let the remembrance of þe deede cease in his rest / & comforte thy selfe agayne ouer hym / for þe spete is departed fro hym. The wysdome of the scribe is at conuergent tyme of rest: as he þe ceaseth from exercise & labour / thalbe wyse. He that holdeth the plough / & hath pleasure in poodynge & dorynge the oxen / & goeth aboute to such woorkes / he can speake of oxe. He setteth his herte to make for iowes / & is diligent to geue the hyne fodder. So is every carpenter also & woorkmaster / that laboureth styll nyght & daye: he carueth / graueth & cutteth oute / & his desyre is in sondrye connyng thynges / & his herte ymagyneth / how he maye connyngly cast an ymage / his diligence also & watchynge perfourmeth the woork. The yronsmith in lyke maner bydeth by his styche / & doth his diligence to labour the yron. The vapoure of the fyre brenneth his flesch / & he must fight with the heate of the fornaue. The noyse of the hammer soundeth euer in his eares / and his eyes loke styll vpon the thyng & he maketh. He hath set his mynde there vpon / that he wyll make out his woork / and therfore he watcheth / how he maye set it out / & bying it to an ende.

So doth the potter spt by his woork / he turneth & whele aboute with his fete / he is diligent & carefull in all doynges / & his labour & woork is without nombre. He fashioneth the claye with his arme / and with his fete he tpereth it. His herte ymagyneth how he maye make it pleasaunt / and his diligence is to cense the ouen. All these hope in their hades / & every one thynketh to be connyng in his woork. Without these maye not the cyties be manteyned / inhabited net occupied: yet come they not bye in the congregation: they vnderstande not the couenaunt of & lawe: they can not declare equyte & iudgment: they can not sende out & darch sentences. but thowow them shall þe creature of the woork be manteyned: their prayer concerneth the woork & labour of connyng.

The xxxij. Chapter.

That appereth his mynde to vnderstande the lawe of God / doth diligently seke out the wysdome of them of the olde tyme / & exerceyth hym selfe in the prophetes. He kepeth the saynges of famous men / and preachteth to þe vnderstandynge of darch sentences of wyl-

He goeth into a strasse coultre / & trauallyth thowow it: toke what good of euell is amonge men / he proueth it & sekerth it out. He purposeth in his herte / to refozte early vnto the Lorde & made hym / & to praye befoze the best God. He openeth his mouth in prayer / & prayeth for his synnes. When the grete Lorde will / he shalbe fylled with the spete of vnderstandynge / that he maye then poure out wyse sentences / and geue thankes vnto the Lorde in his prayer. He shall ope his deuyce / & lede his knowledge a ryght / & geue hym vnderstandynge of secrete thynges. He shall the forth the science of his lernynge / & reioyce in the couenaunt of the lawe of the Lorde. The whole congregation shall comende his wysdome / & it shall neuer be put out. The remembrance of hym shall neuer be forgotten / & his name shall contynue from one generation to another. His wysdome shalbe spokke of / & the whole congregation shall openly declare his prayse. While he lyueth / he hath a greater name then a thousand besyde: and after his death / & same name remayneth vnto hym. Yet wyll I speake of mo men of vnderstandynge / for I am full as the wyne.

Perke vnto me / ye holy vertuous chylde / bynge forth frute / as the rose that is plucked by the byokes of the felde / & geue ye a swete smell as Libanus. florish as the rosegard / synge a songe of prayse. O geue thacke vnto God ouer all his woorkes. Geue gloze & honoure vnto the Lorde / shew his prayse to your lippes. Yee eue with þe songe of your lippes / with harpes & playenge / and in geuynge thankes vnto hym / saye after this manner: All the woorkes of the Lorde are exceeding good / & all his commaundmentes are mete and conuenient in due season.

A man nede not to saye: what is þe? what is that? for at tyme conuenient they shall all be sought. At his commaundment & water was as a wall / & at the woode of his mouth & waters stode styll. In his commaundment is every thyng acceptable and reconcyled / & his health can not be mynyshed. The woork of all flesch are befoze him / & there is nothing hpd fro his eyes. He seyth fro euery thyng to euery thyng / and there is nothing to wonderfull of bye vnto hym. A man nede not to saye then / what is this / or that? for he hath made all thynges to do good vnto us. His blessing shall renne ouer as the streame / and moueure the earth lyke a floude of water. Lyke as he maketh the water for drowth / so shall his wyath fall vpon the heathen.

Jesus / the sonne

His wayes are playne and ryght vnto the full / but the bngodly stumple at them. For the good are good thynges created from the begynnynge / & euell thynges for the bngodly. All thynges necessary for the lyfe of man are created fro the begynnynge: water / fyre / yron and salt / meel / wheate and hony mylk & wyne / oyle & clothynge. All these thynges are created for the best to the saythfull: but to the bngodly shall all these thynges be turned to the hurte and harme. Where be sepetes that are created for vengeaunce / & in their rygozousnes haue they fastened their toymetres. In þe tyme of þe ende they shall poure out their strength / & pacyfe & wyath of him that made them. Fyre / bayle / honger & death: all these thynges are created for vengeaunce.

The teeth of wyde noysome beastes / the scorpions / serpentes / & the swerde are created also for vengeaunce / to the destruccyn of the bngodly. They shall be glad to do his commaundmentes: and when nede is / they shall be ready vpon earth: and when their houre is come / they shall not ouerpasse the commaundment of the Lorde.

Therfore haue I tolde in good roage vnto me from the begynnynge / and thought to put these thynges in wytyng / and to leaue the behynde me. All the woorkes of the Lorde are good / & he geueth every one in due season / & whan nede is / so that a man nede not to saye: this is wyse then that. For in due season they are all pleasaunt and good: And therfore prayse the Lorde with whole herte & mouth / & geue thankes vnto his name.

Many mysteres light in a manes lyfe. All thynges passe awaye / but a tyme & stable sayth remayneth. Of the blessing of the righteous / and prerogatyue of the feare of God.

The xl. Chapter.

Great traualle is created for all men & an heuy yoch vpon all mens chylde / fro the daye þe they go out of their mothers wombe / tyll they be buried in (þe earth) & mother of all thyngs: namely / their thoughtes and ymaginacions / feare of the herte / counsell / meditations / longynge and desyre / the daye of death: from the best that syteth vnto þe glorious seate / vnto the lowest & most synpale vpon the earth: from him that is gozgyously arrayed & wreatheth a crowne / vnto hym that is but homely and simply clothed. There is nothyng / but wyath / fele / fearfulness / bnguetnes / & feare of death / rygozous anger and styfe. And in the nyght when one shalbe rest and slepe vpon his bed / the slepe chaungeth his vnderstandynge and knowledge. A lyte as nothyng is his rest / in the slepe as well as in the daye of labour.

Of Syrach. I.

He feareth and is disquyted in the blyssynge of his herte / as one that renneth out of a battayll: and in the tyme of health he awaketh / and manureth that the feare was nothyng. Thynges happen vnto all flesch / both man and best: but seuen folde to the bngodly. Thowow death / bloudshedding / strife & swerde / oppresyon / hunger / destruccyon and punysshment: these thynges are all created agaynst the bngodly / & for their sake came the floude also. All that is of the earth / shall turne to earth agayne: & al waters shalbe in to the see. All byrbes and bnyghtousnes shalbe put awaye / but saythfulness & truely that endure for euer. The substance & good of the bngodly shalbe dyed by and synche awaye as a water floude / & they shall make a sounde like a grete thonder in the ragne.

As for the righteous reioyseth when he openeth his harte / so shall the trasgredours be saynte / when their goodes banly & consume awaye. The chylde of the bngodly shall not obtayne many byaunches: and the nucleane rotes vnto the herte rocks shalbe rooted out befoze the gras by the water syde & vpon the ryuer bankes.

Frendlynes & lyberalite in the increase and blessing of God / is lyke a paradyse and garden of pleasure: soch mercy also & kyndnes endureth for euer. To labour & to be content what a man hath / is a swete pleasaunt lyfe: & that is to sende a treasure aboue all treasures. To beget chylde and to repayre the cite / maketh a perpetuall name: but an honest woman is moze worthy then they both. Wyne & mynstrell reioyseth the herte / but þe loue of wysdome is aboue them both.

Pyppynge & harpyng make a swete noyse / but a frendly tonge goeth beyonde the both. Wyne eye desyret fauoure and bewtife but a grene lede tyme rather then they both. A frende and copanyon come together at opoztunyte / but aboue them both is a wyse that agreeth with her housbande. One brother helpeth another in the tyme of trouble / but allmes shall deliuer moze then they both. Golde and syluer fasten the fete / but a good counsell is moze pleasaunt then they both. Tempozall substance and strength lyft by the mynde: but the feare of the Lorde moze then they both. The feare of the Lorde wanteth nothyng / and nedeth no helpe. The feare of the Lorde is as a pleasaunt garden of blessing / and nothyng to be wythfull as it is. Wy some / lede not a beggers lyfe / for better it were to dye the to begg. Who so lokech to another mans table / taketh no thought for his owne lyuynge how to byholde his lyfe / for he sebeth himself with other mens meat. But a wyse and well nurtoured man wyll

¶ Of the remembrance of death. Death is not to be feared. A curse upon them that forsake the lawe of God. Good names same. A necessity to geue hede vnto wisdom. Of what thynges a man ought to be ashamed.

The xlii. Chapter.

Death/how bytter is the remembrance of the / to a mā that seketh rest and cōforte in hys substance and ryches / vnto the man that hath nothinge to bere him / and that hath prosperite / all thynges / yee vnto hym that yet is able to receaue meate. Death/how acceptable and good is thy iudgment vnto the needy / and vnto him whose strength faileth / that is now in hys last age / and that in all thynges is full of care and fearfulness: vnto him also that is in dyspayre / & hath no hope nor pacyence. Be not thou afrayed of death: remembre them that haue bene before the: that come after the: this is the iudgment of the Lord ouer all fleshy And why woldest thou be agaynst this pleasure of the Wyse? whether it be ten / an hundred / or a thousande yeares: death akeeth not how longe one hath liued.

¶ The chyldren of the vngodly are abhominable chyldren / and so are they that kepe company with the vngodly. The inheritance of vngodly chyldren shall come to naught / and their posterite shall haue perpetuall shame & confusion. The chyldre complayne of an vngodly father: and why? for hys sake they are rebuked and despyed. Who be vnto you? ye vngodly which haue forsaken the lawe of the Wyse God: yf ye be borne / ye shall be borne to cursing / yf ye dye / the curse shall be your portion.

¶ All that is of the earth / shall turne to earth agayne: so gothe vngodly also out of the curse in to destruction. The sorow of men is in the body: but the name of the vngodly shall be put out: for it is nothinge worth. Labour to get the a good name: for that shall continue sure by the: then a thousande greates treasures of golde. A good lyfe hath a nobye of dayes / but a good name endureth euer.

¶ My chyldren / kepe wysdome in peace: for wysdome that is hyd and a treasure that is not lene / what profite is in the both? A man that hydeh his sollicitudes / is better then a mā that hydeh his wysdome. Wherefore be ye turned at my wordes: for it is not good / in all thynges & alwaye to be ashamed. True faith must proue and measure it.

¶ Be ashamed of whoredome before father and mother: Be ashamed of lechynge before the prynces & men of auctorite: Of synne / be-foze the iudge & ruler: Of offence / before the cōgregation & people: Of vnrightheousnes / before a companion & frende: Of the self / before the neyghbours. As for the truth of God and his cōuenant / be not a shamed therof.

¶ Be ashamed to lye with thine elbowed vpon the byrd: Be ashamed to loke vpon harlotres: Be ashamed to turne away thy face fro thy frende: Be ashamed to take & not to geue: Be ashamed also to loke vpon anothers mans wyfe / and to make many trydnges wordes with her mayden / or to stande by her bedsyde. Be ashamed to vphayde thy frende: when thou geuest eny thyng / cast hym not in the teth withall.

¶ Secretes maye not be opened. The lawe of God must be taught. A daughter. A woman. God knoweth all thynges: yee euen the secretes of the herte.

The xlii. Chapter.

Reuerence not a thyng thyse / and disclose not the wordes / that thou hast hede in secretes. Be shamefast and well manered in dede / so shall euery mā sauoure the. Of these thynges be not thou a shamed / & accept no personne to offende. Namely / of these thynges be not a shamed: Of the lawe of God / of the cōuenant / of iudgment: to bringe the vngodly from his vngodlynes vnto rightheousnes / & to make him a good man: to deale faithfully wth thy neyghboure & cōpanion: to distribute the heretage vnto the frendes: to be diligent to kepe true measure and to right: to be content / whether thou gettest moch or litle: to deale truly with thy poore goodes in byng and sellynge: to bringe by chyldren with diligence: to correcte an euell seruante: to kepe that thyne is fro an euell wyfe: to sett a lock where many handes are: what thou bespuest and geuest out to be kepte / to tell it / and to weye it: to wyte by all the out geuyng & receayng: to enfourme the vniuersal & by wyse: Of the aged / & are iudged of the yonge / if thou be diligent in these thynges / truly thou shalt be lerned and wyse and accepted of all men.

¶ The daughter maketh the father to watch secretly: and the carefulness that he hath for her / taketh awaye his slepe: yee in the youth / lest she shulde ouergrowe hym: And when she hath an housband / lest she shulde be hated: lest she shulde be despyed or raupth in her birgynite / or gottē with chyld in her fathers house: Or (when she cometh to the man) lest she behaue her self not right / or cōtinue vnfructfull. If thy daughter be wanton / kepe her straitly / lest she cause thyne enemies to laugh & to scorne / & a whole cite to geue the an euell reporte: & so thou be sayne to heare thy shame of euery man / and be con-confounded before all the people. Beholde not euery bodyes bewte / & haue not moch dwellinge amonge women. For lyke as the wyome & moth cometh out of clothyng / so doth wylkednes come of women.

¶ It is better to be with an euell man / then to be with a frenly wyfe & putteth one to shame & rebuke. I will remembre the wordes of the Lord / and declare the thyng & I haue sene. In the wordes of the Lord are his wordes. The Sunne ouerlooketh all thynges with his wyne / & all his wordes are full of the clearnes therof. Hath not the Lord brought to passe / that his sayntes shuld tell out all his wonderful wordes / which the Almightye Lord hath stablyshed? All thynges endure in his glory. He seketh out the grounde of the depe & the hert / & he knoweth all thet ymaginacion & wysdome. For the Lord knoweth all science / & he loketh in to the token of the tyme. He declareth the thynges that are past & to come / & dyscloseth thynges & are secrete. No thought maye escape hym / nether maye eny worde be hyd from hym. He hath gathred the hye excellent wordes of hys wysdome / & he is from euerylastyng to euerylastyng. Vnto him maye nothinge be added / nether can he be mynished / he hath no nede also of eny counsell. How amiable are all his wordes / & as a sparke to loke vpon: they lyue all / and endure for euer: & when soeuer nede is / they are all obedient vnto him. They are all dubble / one agaynst another: he hath made nothinge that hath samte or blyss. He hath stablyshed the goodes of euery creature / and who maye be satysfied with his glory / when he seyth it?

¶ The summe of the creatyng of the wordes of God.

The xlii. Chapter.

The glory of the begeth / is the sayre and cleare firmament / the bewte of the heauē in his glorious clearnes. The sunne when it appeareth / declareth the daye in the goinge out of it / & maruelous worke of the Wyse. At noone it burneth the earth / & who maye abyde for the heate therof? Who so kepeth an ouen when it is hote / the tymes more both the Sunne burne vpon the mountaynes / when it becheeth oute the fyre beames & synneth with the brightnes of it / it blyndeth the eyes. Grate is the Lord that made it / & in his cōmandment he causeth it to renue hastily.

¶ The Moone also is in all / & at cōuenient season it sheweth the tymes / and is a token of the tyme. The token of the solempne feast is taken of the Moone / & lyght & mynished and increaseth agayne. The Moone is called after the Moone / it groweth wonderously in her chaungynges.

Of Syrach. li.

The arnye of heauē also is in the begeth / in the firmament of heauē it geueth a cleare and glorious wyne. This is the clearnes of the starres / the bewtiful apparell of heauē / the apparell that the Lord lyghteneth in the begeth. In his holy wordes they cōtinue in their ordre / and not one of the sayleth in hys watch. Look vpon the raigne howe / & prayse him & made it: very bewtiful is it in hys wyne. He compasseth the heauē aboute with his clearnes & glory / the handes of the Wyse haue benedict it. Whow his cōmandment he maketh the snowe to fall / & the thonder of his iudgment to smyte hastily. Whow he cōmandment the treasures are opened / and the cloudes fle as the foules. In hys power hath he strengthened the cloudes / and broken the hayle stones.

¶ The mountaynes melt at the sight of him / the wynde bloteth accordyng to hys wyll. The sounde of his thonder beareth the earth / and so doth the storme of the north: the whyrle wynde also lyghteth downe as a sethered soule / casteth oute and spredeth the snowe abrode: & as the grethoppers & destroye all / so falleth it downe. The eye marueleth at the bewte of the whytensse therof / and the herte is afrayed at the rayne of it. He poureth out the frost vpon earth / lyke salt / and when it is frosen / it is as sharpe as the pike of a thistle.

¶ When the coude forth wynde bloteth / harte chylle cometh of the water. He lyghteth downe vpon all the gatherynges together of water / and putteth on the waters as a byrd plate. He deuoureth the mountaynes / and burneth the wyldernes: & loke what is grene / he putteth it out like fyre. The mebycme of all these is / when a cloude cometh hastily: and when a delo cometh vpon the heate / it shalbe refreshed agayne.

¶ In his worde he stilleth the wynde. In his counsell he setteth the depe / and (the Lord) Jesus planted it. They that sayle ouer the see / tell of his patens and harmes: and when we heare it with our eares / we maruell thereat. For there be straunge wonderful wordes / & puerse maner of wyse beastes & whal-fishes. Whow hym are all thynges sett in good ordre and perfourmed / & in hys worde all thynges endure.

¶ I speake moch / but I can not sufficiently attayne vnto it / for he him selfe onely is the perfeccion of all wordes. We shulde prayse the Lord after al oure power / for he is grete in all his wordes. The Lord is to be feared yee very grete is he / and maruelous is hys power. Prayse the Lord / and magnifye him as moch as ye maye / yet both he farre farre excede all prayse. Magnifye him with all your power / and labour earnestly / yet are ye not able to saye.

he in no wise able sufficiently to prayse him. Who hath sene him / that he myght tell his / who can magnifye him so greatly as he is: for there are hydren greater thynges then these be: as for vs / we haue sene but fewe of his workes. For the Lorde hath made all thynges / and geue wysdome to such as seare God.

The prayse of certain holy men / Ezechiel / Daniel / Job / Isaac / and Jacob.

The xliii. Chapter.

Et he comende the noble famous men / and the generacion of oure forefathers & fathers. Many moze glorious actes hath the Lorde done / and shewed his grete power euer sence the beginning. The noble famous men raigned in their kyngdomes / and bare excellent rule. In their wysdome and vnderstandyng / they folowed the counsell shewed in the prophesies. They led the folke thow the counsell and wysdome of the Scribes of the people. Wyse sentences are founde in their instructioun. They sought the sweetenes and melody of musick / and brought forth the pleasant songes in scripture. They were ryche also / & coulde comforte & pacifye those that dwelt with them. All these were very noble and honorable men in their generacions / and were wel reposed of in their tymes. These haue left a name behinde them / so that their prayse shall alwaye be spokke of. Afterward there were come / whose remembraunce is gone. They came to naught & perished / as though they had neuer bene: and he came as though they had neuer bene bozne / yee & their chyldren also with them.

Nevertheless there are luyng men / whose ryghtuousnesse shall neuer be forgott: but cōtinue by their posterite. Their chyldren are an holy good heretage: their seide endured fast in the couenaunt. For their sakes shall their chyldren & seide cōtinue for euer / & their prayse shall neuer be put downe. Their bodies are buried in peace / but their name lyueth for euermore. The people can speake of their wysdome / and the congregacion can talke of their prayse. Enoch walked ryght & acceptably befoze the Lorde: therfore was he translated for an example of amendement to the generacions. Noe was a iust fast and ryghtuous man: & in the tyme of wrath he became a reconcyllyng. Therfore was he left a remnant vnto the earth / wher the floude came. An euerslastyng couenaunt was made with him / that all flesh shulde peryshe no more in the water. Abraham was a grete father of many people / in glory was there none lyke into him. He kepte the lawe of the best / & came into a couenaunt with him. He sett the couenaunt in his flesch / & when he was tempted / he was soude saythful. Therfore sware God vnto him in an othe / that he wolde blesse / all people in his seide / that he wolde multiplie & increase him as the dust of the earth / and to exalte his seide as the starres: yee and that his seide shulde haue the possession & inheritance of the lande from see to see / and from the ryuer vnto the borders of the lande.

With Isaac vnto he stablysh the same couenaunt / to Abraham his fathers sake. Yee that gracious blesynge and health of all men / & couenaunt vnto he stablysh with Isaac / and made it to rest vpon the head of Jacob. He knew hym / in that he prospered hym so well / and ryche / and gaue hym an heretage / and sūdered hym porcyon by it selfe / and parted it amonge the twelue tribes. Therofull men brought he out of him / which soude sauoure befoze all flesh.

The prayse of Moses / Aaron / and Miriam.

The xlv. Chapter.

Moses beloved of God & me / whose remembraunce is in the prayse: hym that the Lorde made lyke in the glory of the sayntes / and magnified hym so that the enemyes stode in awe of him / thow his wordes he dyd grete wonders. He made hym grete in the syghte of kynges / gaue hym commaundement befoze his people / & shewed hym his glorious power. He stablyshed hym with saythfulnes & mekenes / and chose hym out of all men. For he herde his voyce / and led him in the darcke cloude / and there he gaue hym the commaundment / yee the law of lyfe & wysdome that he myght teach Jacob the couenaunt / & Israel his lawes.

He chose Aaron his brother also oute of the trybe of Leui / exalted him / & made him such lyke. An euerslastyng couenaunt made he vnto him / and gaue hym the presthode in the people. He made hym glorious in betwixt full praye / and clothed hym with the garment of honoure. He put perfecte loye vpon hym / and gyrded hym with strength. He decked hym with syde clothes / and a tuncle / with an ouerbody cote also & a gyrdle. Round about made he hym belles of golde / & that many: that when he went in / the sounde myght be herde / that they myght make a noyse in the Sanctuary / and geue the people warninge. The holy garment was wrought & dyed with golde / ysajon lycke & purple. And in the bell-lappe there was a goodly woche / wherein was fastened lyght and perfectnesse.

Vpon the same also there was a woche fastened stened / & set with costly precious stones / all bounde with golde: and thus he brought in his mynistres. The stones were fastened for a remembraunce / after the twelue trybes of Israel. Vpon his mytre there was a plate of pure golde / & grauen ymage of holmes / & a famous & noble woche / garnished / & pleasant to loke vpon. Befoze hym were there sene no such sayre ornaments / & these it behoued hym alwaye to be: & there myght none other put them on / but onely his chyldren and his chylders / chyldren perpetually. Whyle perfozmed he his burntofferynges two tymes. Moses tyld his handes / and anoynted hym with holy oyle.

This was now confirmed hym with an euerslastyng couenaunt / & to his seide / as the dayes of heauen / namely: that his chyldren shulde alwaye mynstre befoze hym / & persourne the offyce of the presthode / & with the people good in his name. Befoze all men lyfing chose he hym / that he shulde offere befoze the Lorde / & make obours for a swete sauoure & remembraunce / that he shulde reconyle the people of the Lorde with hym agayne. He gaue hym auctorite also in his commaundementes / in the couenaunt / that he shulde teach Jacob the statutes and testimontes / & to enforme Israel in his lawe.

Therfore there stode by certayne agaynst hym / and had enuye at him in the wyldernes: namely / they that were of Iudas / and Abiram / and the surpous congregacion of Chore. This the Lorde sawe / & it displeased him / and in his wythfull indignacion were they consumed. A grete wonder dyd he vnto them / and consumed them with the fyre. Besydes this / he made Aaron yet moze honorable and glorious. He gaue hym an heretage / and parted the fyrst frutes vnto him. Vnto hym specially he appoynted the byrd for sacrifice / for the prestes ate of the offeryngs of the Lorde: this gaue he vnto hym and his seide. It had he no heretage ner porcyon in the lande / with the people. For the Lorde hym selfe is his porcyon and inheritance.

The thirde noble & excellent man is Daniel / sonne of Senezer / which pleased the God of Israel / because he had the zeale & feare of the Lorde. For when the people were turned back / he put hym selfe forth right soone / & with a good will / to pacifye the wrath of the Lorde towards Israel. Therfore was there a couenaunt of peace made with him / that he shulde be the principall amonge the ryghtuous and the people / that he and his posterite shulde haue the offyce of the presthode for euer. Lyke as there was made a couenaunt with David of the trybe of Iuda / that he amonge his sonnes onely shulde be

The prayse of Josue / Caleb / and Samuel.

The xlvj. Chapter.

Many a stryde in battayll was he / as the sonne of Naue / which in the ende of Moyses the prophet was geue to be captayne of the people / which accordyng vnto his name was a great sauoure vnto the electe of God / to punish the enemyes that rose by agaynst Israel / that Israel might optayne their inheritance. How grete / noble & excellent was he / when he lyt by his hand / and drew out his swerde agaynst the cyties: who stode so many before him: for the Lorde hym selfe brought in the enemyes. Stode not the Sunne still at Josue / & his commaundement / & one daye was as longe as two: He called vpon the best and most myghtie / wher the enemyes pressed vnto hym on euery syde: and the Lorde herde hym with the hayle stones. They smote the Hyethen people mightely / & in fallynge downe they slew all the aduersaries / so that the Heathen knewe his good / and all his defence / that the Lorde hym selfe fought agaynst them / so he loved vpon the myghtie men of them.

In the tyme of Moyses also he and Caleb the sonne of Iephune / dyd a good woche / which stode agaynst the enemyes / withelde the people from synne / & tyld the wicked murmuring. And of fyre he smote thousande people of fote / they two were preserued / when they were brought in to the heretage / namely / a lande that floweth with mylke & honny. The Lorde gaue strenght also vnto Caleb / which remayned with him vnto his age: so that he wente by in to the hye places of the lande / and his seide cōquered the same for an heretage: that all the chyldren of Israel might see / how good a thyng it is / to be obediēt vnto the Lorde. And the iudges & rulers / every one after his name / whose hert wente not a whoynge / ner departed from the Lorde / and forsaue not the Lorde vnto saythfully / whose remembraunce hath a good reposit: yee their bones shal lyke oute of their place / & their name shall neuer be chaunged.

Samuel the prophet beloved of the Lorde / ordeyned a kyng / and anoynted the prynces ouer the people. In the lawe of the Lorde ruled he / and iudged the congregacion / and the Lorde had respect vnto Jacob. The prophet was founde diligent in his saythfulnes: yee in his saythfulnes was the saythfulnes of his byson knowne. He called vpon the Lorde & Egge / mightie / at the last they were dreyen out of the lande and as the moone whā it is full. He shyneth as the sunne in the temple of God. He is as bright as the rayne bowe in the saye cloudes/ & flourisheth as the floures & roses in the springe of the yere/ and as sylves by the ryuers of water. Like as an whole ornament of pure golde/ set with all maner of pprecious stones: & as an olpue tree & is fructefull/ & as a Cypres tree which groweth vpon an hye.

When he put on the garment of honoure/ & was clothed with all bewtye: when he wet to the holy autler/ to garnish the coweringge of the Sanctuary: when he toke the pprecious out of the Priestes hand/ he hym self stode by the harty of the autler/ and hys brethren rounde aboute in ordre. As the bzaunches of Ceyre tree vpon the most Libanus/ so stode they rounde aboute hym. And as the bzaunches of the olpue tree/ so stode all the sonnes of Aaron in their gloze. And that he myght sufficiently persourne his seruyce vpon the autler/ and garnish the offering of the best God/ he stretched out hys hande and toke of the bynckoffrynges/ & pouted in of the wyne: so he poured vpon the botome of the autler a good smell vnto the best Prynce.

When begane the sonnes of Aard to synge/ and to blowe with trompettes/ & to make a greate noyse/ for a remembraunce & prayse vnto the Lord. When were the people afrayed/ & fell downe to the earth vpon their faces/ to worshippe the Lord their God/ and to geue thankes to the almyghty God. They sung goodly also with their voyces/ so there was a pleasant noyse in the greate house of the Lord. And the people in their prayer besought the Lord the best/ that he wolde be mercifull/ vntill the honoure of the Lord were persourmed. Thus ended they their mynistricall and synge. When went he downe/ and stretched out his handes ouer the whole multitude of the people of Israel/ that they shoulde geue prayse and thankes out of their lippes vnto the Lord/ & to reioyse in his name. He begane yet once also to praye/ that he might openly shewe the thankesguyng before the best/ namely thus: O geue prayse & thankes (ye all) vnto the Lord our God/ which hath ever done noble and greate thynges: whych hath increased oure dayes from our mothers wombe/ & dealt with vs accordyng to hys mercy: that he wyl geue vs the fullnes of hert/ & peace for oure tyme in Israel. Which saythfully kepeth his mercy for vs euermore/ & all waye deliuereth vs in due season.

There be two maner of people that I abhorre from my hert: as for the hynde/ whom I

The ii. Chapter.

Thank the Lord & Kyng/ & prayse the God my sauoure. I wyl geue prayse vnto thy name: for thou art my defender & helper/ & hast perserued my body from destruction/ from the snare of traytous tonges/ & from the lippes that are occupied wth lyes. Thou hast bene my helper/ from such as stode by agaynst me/ and hast deliuered me after the multitude of thy mercy/ & for thy holy names sake. Thou hast deliuered me from the roaring of them/ that prepared the felues to deuoure me/ out of the habes of such as sought after my lyfe: from the multitude of the that troubled me/ and went aboute to set fyre vnto me on every syde/ so that I am not byt in the myddest of the fyre: from the depe of hell/ fro an vnclane tonge/ from synge wordes/ fro the wyched synge/ and from an vnrighteous tonge. My soule shal prayse the Lord vnto death/ for my lyfe byt vnto nre vnto hell.

They compassed me round aboute on every syde/ and there was no man to helpe me. I looked about me/ yf there were any man that wolde socoure me: but there was none. When thought I vpon thy mercy O Lord/ & vpon thy actes that thou hast done euer of olde: namely/ that thou deliuerest such as put their trust in the/ & rydest them out of the handes of the Heathen. Thus lyft I vp my prayer fro the earth/ and prayed for deliuerance from death. I called vnto the Lord my father/ that he wolde not leaue me without helpe/ in the daye of my trouble & in the tyme of the proude. I prayled thy name continually/ priding honoure & thankes vnto it: & so my prayer was herde. Thou sauest me from destruction/ & deliueredest me fro the vnrighteous tyme. Therefore wyl I acknowledge & prayse the/ & magnifye the name of the Lord.

When I was yet but yonge/ or euer I wast astray/ I besyged wysdome openly in my prayer. I came therfore before the temple/ & sought her vnto the last. When flooyed she vnto me/ as a grape that is soone ripe. My hert reioyced in her/ then went my soule the ryght right waye/ yee frō youth by sought I after her: I bowed downe myne eare and receaued her. I toke me moch wysdome/ and prospered greatly in her. Therefore wyl I ascribe the gloze vnto hym/ that geueth me wysdome: for I am aduysed to do thereafter. I wyl be gelous to cleue vnto the thinge that is good/ so that I not be confounded. My soule hath wrestled with her/ and I haue bene diligent to be occupied in her. I lyft vp myne handes an hye/ then was my soule lychtened thow wysdome/ & I knowleged my foolishnes. I ordred my soule after her/ she & I were one hert fro the beginning/ & I soude her in cleanness. And therfore shal I not be forsaken.

When I longed after her/ & I gat a good treasure. Thow her the Lord hath geuen me a new tonge/ wherwith I wyl prayse hym. O come vnto me ye vnlearned/ & dwell in the house of wysdome: with drawe not your selues from her/ but take a comen of these thynges/ for your selues are very thyrstie. I opened my mouth/ and spake: O come and bye wysdome without money/ bowe downe your neck vnder her yoke/ and your soule shal receaue wysdome. She is harde at hand and is content to be founde. Beholde with your eyes/ how that I haue had but litle labour/ and yet haue founde moch rest. O receaue wysdome/ and ye shal haue plenteousnes of syluer and golde in possession. Let your mynde reioyse in his mercy/ and be not ashamed of his prayse. Wozke his worke by tymes/ and he shal geue you your rewarde in due tyme.

The boke of the Prophete Baruch.

Baruch wrote a boke/ during the captiuitie of Babylon/ which he readde before Jeconiah and all the people. The Jewes sent the boke with money/ vnto Jerusalem/ to their other brethren: so they sent that they shoulde praye for them.

The first Chapter.

When Baruch dyd rede the wordes of this boke/ that Jeconiah the sonne of Joacin kyng of Juda myght heare: and in the presence of all the people/ that were come to heare the boke: yee and before all the noble kynges sonnes/ before the lordes of the counsell and elders: and before the whole people/ from the lowest vnto the best: before all them that dwell at

Babylon/ by the water of Sedy. which whan they herde it/ wepte/ fasted/ & prayed before the Lord.

They made a colleeccion also of money/ according to every mans power/ and sent it to Jerusalem vnto Joacin the sonne of Belchiah the sonne of Salon prest/ with other prestes: and to all the people which were wth him at Jerusalem/ what tyme as they had gotten the ornaments of the temple of the Lord (that were taken awaye out of the temple) that they might byngne them agayne in to the lande of Juda/ the x. daye of the moneth Siban: namely/ silver vessels (which Sedechiah the sonne of Josiah kyng of Juda had made) After that Nabuchodonosor kyng of Babylon had take Jeconiah/ with all hys princes/ lordes/ and all the people/ and led them captiue from Jerusalem vnto Babylon.

And they sayde: Beholde/ we haue sent you money/ to bye you burnt offeringes and incense wythall: make you vnlearned byed/ & offre for synne vpon the autler of the Lord our God. And praye for the prosperite of Nabuchodonosor kyng of Babylon/ and of Balchahar his sonne: that their dayes maye be vpon earth/ as the dayes of heauen: that God also maye geue vs strength/ and lighte our eyes: that we maye lyue vnder the defence of Nabuchodonosor kyng of Babilō/ and vnder the proteccion of Balchahar hys sonne: that we maye longe do them seruyce/ and synde sauoure in their synge. Praye for vs also vnto the Lord our God/ for we haue synned agaynst the Lord our God/ and vnto this daye is not hys wrath turned yet awaye from vs. And se that ye rede this boke (which we haue sent vnto you to be rehearsed in the temple of the Lord) vpon the hye dayes/ & at tyme conuenient.

Thus shal ye saye: The Lord our God is righteous/ but we are worthy of confusion & shame: like as it is come to passe this daye/ vnto al Juda/ and to every one that dwelleth at Jerusalem: to our kynges/ princes/ prestes/ prophetes and to oure fathers. We haue synned before the Lord our God/ we haue not put oure trust in him/ ner given him credence we haue not obeyed him/ we haue not hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord our God/ to walke in the commandementes & he gaue vs. Sens the daye & he brought oure fathers out of the lande of Egypte vnto this present daye/ we haue bene euer a mytheleuyng and an vnfaithfull people vnto the Lord our God: deliuyng oure selues betwixt/ and synnyng backe/ that we shoulde not heare hys voyce.

Wherfore there are come vpon vs great plagues & diuerse curses/ lyke as the Lord dyctated by Daniel. ix.

In the which cause the Lorde oure God hath persoutined his deuyce/heades that ruled in Ierusalem: yee oure kynge/oure princes/whal Ierusalem vpon vs/as neuer came to passe vnder heauyn like as it is fulfilled in Ierusalem/ accordinge as it is wrytten in the lawe of Moses: that a man shulde eate the flesh of his awne sonne/ & the flesh of his awne daughter. Moreover/he hath deliuered them in to the handes of all the kynge/that are rounde aboute vs (to be co-founded & desolate) & scattered them abrode in all landes & nacjons. Thus are we brought be neth and not aboue / for we haue synned against the Lorde oure God/ & not bene obedient vnto his voyce. Wherfore the Lorde oure God is righteous/ & we his fathers (as reason is) are brought to open shame / as it is to se this daye. And as for these plagues that are come vpon vs already/ the Lorde had deuy-sed them for vs: yet wolde we not praye vnto the Lorde oure God/ that we myght euery man turne from his vngodly wayes. So the Lorde hath caused loch plags to come vpon vs for he is righteous in all his wayes/ which he hath commaunded vs: whych we also haue not done/ner hearkened vnto his voyce: for to walke in the commaundementes of the Lorde/that he had geuen vnto vs.

Exod. xxi.

And now O Lorde God of Ierusalem/ thou that hast brought thy people out of the lande of Egypte with a myghty hande/ with tokens & wonderes/ with thy greates power and out stretched arme: and hast gotten thyself a name / as it is come to passe this daye. O Lorde oure God/ we haue synned/ we haue done wychedly/ we haue behaued oure selues vngodly in all thy ryghteousnes. Turne thy wrath from vs (we beseeche the) for we are but a few left amonge the heathen / where thou hast scattered vs. Heare out prayes (O Lorde) and oure petitions / bringe vs out of captiuite / for thyne awne sake: get vs sauoure in the sight of them / which haue led vs awaye: that all landes maye knowe / that thou art the Lorde oure God/ & that Ierusalem & Iuda generacion calleth vpon thy name.

quyre mercy in thy sight / O Lorde oure God:
not for any godlynesse of oure forefathers/but because thou hast sent out thy wrath & indignacion vpon vs: accordinge as thou dydest threaten vs/ by thy seruantes & prophetes/ sayenge.

Thus sayeth the Lorde: Some downe Ierusalem poure shoulders and neckes / & serue the kynge of Babylon / so shall ye remayne xliiij. in the lande/ that I gaue vnto your fathers. Yee wyl not do this / ner heare the voyce of the Lorde your God/ to serue the kynge of Babylon: I whal bestoie you in the cities of Juda/ within Ierusalem and with out. I wyl also take from you the voyce of myght and the voyce of love/ the voyce of the hydegrome & the voyce of the byrde/ and there shal no man dwel more in the lande. But they wolde not hearken vnto his voyce/ to do the thing of Ba-ned the wordes/ that thou spakest by thy ser-uantes & prophetes: namely/ the bones of oure kynge/ and the bones of oure fathers shulde be translated out of their place.

And lo now are they layde out in the hea-of the Sonne/ and in the colde of the nyght/& deede in greates mystry: whager/ wherward with pestilence & are clene cast forth. As for the temple wherin thy name was called vpon thou hast layde it waste / as it is to se this daye: & that for the wychednes of the house of Ierusalem and the house of Iuda. O Lorde oure God/ thou hast intreated vs after all thy goodnes and accordinge to all that greates lo-thou dydest commaunde hym / to wryte thy lande of their captiuite / & thinke vpon my name. Then shal they turne them from their harde backes / and from their vngodlynes: Then shal they remembre the thynges/ that happened vnto their forefathers/ whych sinned agaynst me. So wyl I bringe them agayne in to the lande/ which I promysed vnto your fathers: Abraham/ Isaac and Jacob: and they shal be lordes of it/ yee

I wyl increace them / and not minishe them.
And I wyl make another couenaut with them: loch one as shal endure for euer: namely/ that I wyl be their God/ & they shal be my people: and I wyl nomore dye my prople the chyliden of Ierusalem/ out of the lande that I haue geuen them.

of the people being in captiuitie. A chylayne of Jerusalem and vnder the figure thereof / of the churche.
A consolacion & comfortinge of the same.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Ihis is the boke of the commaundementes of God / & the lawe that endureth for ever. All they that kepe it / shall come to lyfe: but such as forsake it / shall come to death. Turne the Jacob / & take holde of it: walke by this waye thow his brightnesse and thyne. Geue not thyne honoure to another / and thy worshippe to a straunge people. O Israel / how happye are we / saying that God hath shewed vs such thynges as are pleasaunt vnto hym? Be of good cheare / thou people of God / O thou ancient Israel. Now are ye solde amonge the Heathen / howbeit not for your better destruction: but because ye prouoked God the Lorde to wrath & displeaure / therefore were ye deliuered vnto your enemyes: for ye des-pleased the euerlasting God that made you / offeringe vnto deuils & not to God. Ye haue forgotten hym that brought you by / & your murder haue ye grieved / O Jerusalem.

When the lawe that I wroght of God was commynge vpon you: the sayde: Perken ye that dwell aboute Syon / for God hath brought me in to greates heuynesse: and why?
I se the captiuite of my people / of my sonnes and daughters / whych the euerlasting God will bringe vpon them. With loye byd I noyssh them / but now must I leaue the with weepinge and sorow.

Let no man reioyce ouer my wyddowe and forsaken: which for the synnes of my chyldre am desolate of every man. For why / they departed from the lawe of God: they wolde not knowe his ryghtuousnes / ner walke in the waye of his commaundementes: & as for the pathes of the treuth & godlinesse / they had no lust to go in them.

O ye dwellers aboute Syon: come / and let vs call to remembraunce the captiuite / the euerlasting God hath brought vpon my sonne & my daughters. He hath brought a people / vpon them from farre / an incur-teus people & of a straunge language: whych nether regarde the olde / ner ppyte the ponge.
These haue caried awaye the beare beloued of my wyddowes / leauynge me alone / both desolate and childlesse. But alas / what can I helpe you? Now he that hath brought these plagis vpon you / deliuer you also fro the handes of your enemyes.

O your waye (O my chyldren) go your waye: for I am desolate and forsaken / I haue put of the clothynge of peace & put vpon me the sack cloth of prayer / and for my tyme
I wil call vpon the most hiest. Be of good cheare O my chyldren: crye vnto the Lorde / and he shal deliuer you from the power of the princes / your enemyes.

For hereby / I haue euer a good hope of your prosperous health: yee a very gladnesse is come vpon me from the holy one / because of the mercy that ye shall haue of oure euerlastinge Saviour.

With mourninge and weepinge byd I let you go from me / but with loye and perpetuall gladnesse / shall I Lorde bringe you agayne vnto me. Lyke as the neyghbours of Sion saue your captiuite fro God. Euil shall they also se shortly your health in God / which shall come on you to greates honoure and euerlastinge worshippe.

O my chyldren / suffre patiently & waithat shall come vpon you. For the enemye hath persecuted the / but shortly thou shalt se his destruction / and shalt treade vpon his necke. My derlyng / haue gone rough harde wayes / for they are led awaye as a flocke & is scatted abrode with the enemyes. But be of good comforte (O my chyldren) and crye vnto the Lorde: for he that led you awaye / hath you yet in remembraunce: and lyke as ye haue bene mynded to swarte from your God: so wil ye now endeouore your selues
x. tymes moze / to turre agayne / and to seke hym. For he that hath brought these plagis vpon you / shall bringe you euerlastinge loye agayne with your health. Take a good hert vnto the / O Jerusalem: for he which gaue I na. l. a. a. that name / exhorteth the so to do.

The wycked doers that now put the to trouble / shall perishe: and such as haue reioy-ced at thy fall / shalbe punished. The cytyes whom thy chyldren serue / and that haue cared awaye thy sonne / shalbe correcte. For ly-ke as they be now glad of thy decaye / so shal they mourne in their awne destruction. The loye of their multitude shalbe taken awaye & their cheare shalbe turned to sorowe. For a fyre shall fall vpon them from the euerlastynge God / longe to endure: and it shalbe inhabited of deuils for a greates season.

O Jerusalem is moued vnto gladnes for the retorne of her people / vnder the figure thereof / the church.

The. v. Chapter.

O Je-

Of Baruch.

lvi

Jerusalem / loke aboute the to-warde the east / & beholde the loye that cometh vnto the from God.
For lo / the sonnes (whom thou hast forsaken / & that were scatted abrode) come gathered together fro the east and west / re-ioyng in the woide of the holy one / vnto the honoure of God.

Put of thy mourninge clothes (O Jerusalem) and thy sorow / and decke the with the woispe and honoure / that cometh vnto the from God / with euerlastinge gloze. God shall put the cloake of ryghtuousnes vpon the and sett a crowne of euerlastinge woispe vpon thyne head: for vpon the will God declare his brightnesse / that is vnder & beaute: Yee an euerlastinge name shalbe geuen the of God / with peace of ryghtuousnesse / and the honoure of Gods feare.

Arise O Jerusalem / stande vpon hye: loke aboute the towarde the east / and beholde thy chyldren gathered from the east / vnto the west: which reioyce in the holy woide / haung God in remembraunce. They departed from the on sote / and were led awaye of their enemyes: but now shall the Lorde bringe them carted with honoure / as chy-dren of the kyngdome. For God is purposed to bringe downe all stoute mountaynes / ye and all hie rockes / to fyll the ballers / & so to make them euen with the grounde: & Israel maye be diligent to lye vnto the ho-noure of God. The woddes & all pleasaunt trees shal ouerwadowe Israel / at the commaundement of God. For hyther shall God bringe Israel with joyfull mynth / and in the light of his mayesty: with the mercy & rightuosnesse / that cometh of himself.

A copie of the epistle that Jeremie sent vnto the Jewes / which were led awaye prisoners by the kyng of Babilon: wherein he certifieth them of the thyng that was commaunded hym of God.

The. vi. Chapter.

Because of the synnes that ye haue done agaynst God / ye shall be led awaye captiue vnto Babilon euil of Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Babilon. So when ye be come in to Babilon / ye shal remayne there many yeaeres / and for a luge season: namely. bii. generacyes: & after that I will bringe you a waye peaceably fro thence. Now shal ye se in Babilon / goddes of golde / of siluer / of wod and of stone: bozne vpon mens shoulters / to cast out a fearfulnes before the Heathen. But loke that ye do not as the other: be not ye astrayd / and lett not the feare of them auercome you.

Therefore whan ye se the multitude of people worshipping them behinde & before / saye ye in your hertes: O Lord / it is thou / that oughtest only to be worshipped: Whyne

Angel also shall be with you / and I my selfe will care for your soules. As for the rymbre of those goddes / the carpenter hath polystred them: yee gyted be they / & layed ouer with siluer / yet are they but bayne thynges / & can not speake. Lyke as a wench & loueth peramours is tremly dechte / euen so are these made & hanged with golde. Crownes of golde herely haue their goddes vpon their heades: for the prestes the selues take the golde and siluer from the / & put it to their awne bles:
yee they geue of the same vnto harlotres / & tremme their whores withall: agayne / they take it fro the whores / & decke their goddes therwith. Yet can not these goddes deliuer them selues from rust and mothes / when they haue couered them with clothynge of purple / they wepe their faces for the dust of the temple / wherof their is moche and ge the.
One hath a sceptre in his hande / as though he were iudge of the countre: yet can he not sape such as offende hym. Another hath a sward / & an are in his hande / for all that / is he nether able to defende hym selfe from battayll / ner from murderers.

By this ye maye vnderstande / that they be no goddes: therefore se that ye nether worshippe them / ner feare the. For lyke as a bel-fel that a nish blesch / is nothyng worth wher it is broken / euen so is it with their goddes.
When they be set vp in the temple / their eyes be full of dust / thow they se the face of those in. And lyke as the dozes are shut in rounde aboute vpon hym / that hath offended the kyng: O as it were a deed body kepte belyde the grau: Euen so the prestes kepe the dozes with barres and lockes / lest their Goddes be spoyled with robbers. They set vpon chadels before them (yee hereby & that many) wher all they can not se one / but euen as bloches / in stande they in the temple. It is sayd / that the serpentes & wynges / which come of the earth / gname out their hertes / eatynge them & their clothes also / and yet they fele it not.
The faces are blacke / thow the smoke is in the temple. The oules / swalows / and byrdes lie vpon them / yee & the catteres runne ouer their heades.

By this ye maye be sure / that they are not goddes / therefore feare them not. The golde that they haue / is to make them beutiful: for all that / excepte some body dyght of their rust / they will geue no shime: and when they were cast to a fourme / they felt it not. They are bought for money / and haue no bryeth of lyfe with in them. They must be bozne vpon mens shoulters / as those that haue no fete: wherby they declare vnto men / that they be nothyng worth. Confounded be they then / that worshipped them. For yf they fall to the grounde /

The Prophecie. &c.

grounde / they can not ryle by agayne of the selues. Yee though one helpe them by and set them right / yet are they not able to stande alone: but must haue ppropes sett vnder the lyke deed men. As for the thynges that is of-fred into them / their prestes sell it / & abuse it: yee the prestes wyles take therof / but into the seke and pooze they geue nothinge of it: the women with childe & the mēstruous laye handes of their offspringes. By this ye maye be sure / that they are no goddes / ther-fore be not ye astrayde of them. From whēce cometh it then / that they be called goddes? The women sit before the goddes of syluer / golde and wodde / and the prestes sit in their temples / hauyng open clothes / whose hea-des and breestes are shauen & haue nothinge vpon their heades: roaringe and cryeng vpon their goddes / as men do at the feast / when one is deed.

The prestes also take awaye & garnētes of the ymages / & decke their wyles & chyldren with hall. Whether it be good or euell & eny man do vnto them / they are not able to recompence it: they can nether set by a kyng ner put him downe. In like maner they maye nether geue ryches / ner rewarde euell. Though a man make a bowe vnto them and kepe it not: they will not requyre it. They can not restoze a blinde mā to his syght / ner helpe eny man at his nede. They can shewe no mercy to & widowe / ner do good to the fatherles. Their goddes of wodde / stone / golde & syluer / are but euen as other stones / that be hewen of & mountayne. They & wo:shipe the / that be cōfounded. How shulde they then be taken for goddes? yee how darre men call them goddes? And though the caldees wo:shiped them not / hearyng that they were but domme & coulde not speake. Yet they them selues offe vnto Bel / and wolde saye haue him to speake: as who saye / they coulde sele / that maye not moue. But when these men come to vnderstandyng / they shall forsa-ke the / for their goddes haue no seluyng. A great sozte of women gyde with coardes / sit in the stretes / & burne olyue beries. Now yf one of them be conueyed awaye / & lye with eny soch as come by: he casteth her neyghboure in & teth / because she was not so wo:thely repu-ted / ner her coorde broken. What so euer is done for them / it is but in bayne & lost: How maye it then be thought / or sayde / that they are goddes? Carpenters & goldsmithes make them / nether be they eny other thinge / but euen what the wo:ke men will make of the. Yee the goldsmithes them selues that make them / are of no longe contynuaunce: How shulde then the thinges that are made of the / be goddes? Wylne therfore are the thynges (yee very same is it) that they leaue behinde the for their posterite. For as soone as there cometh eny warre or plage vpon the / then & prestes ymagyn / where they maye hyde them selues with them. How can men thynke then that they be goddes / whych nether maye de-fende them selues from warre / ner deliuer them fro mysfortune? For sayng they be but of wod / of stone / of syluer & of golde: all peo-ple & kynges shall knowe her after / & they be but bayne thinges: yee it shall be openly de-clared / that they be no goddes: but euen the very wo:kes of mens handes / & & God hath nothinge to do with them. They can set no kyng in the lande ner geue rayne vnto men. They can geue no sentence of a matter / nether defende the lande from wynges: for they are not able to do so moch as a crowe / that flyeth betwixte heuen and earth.

When there happeneth a fyre in to & hou- se of those goddes of wodde / of syluer and of golde / the prestes will escape & saue the sel-ues / but the goddes burne as & bakes therein. They can not withstande eny kyng or ba-tell: how maye it then be thought or gra-ted / that they be goddes? Moreover / these goddes of wodde / of stone / of golde and syluer maye nether defende them selues from theues ner robbers: yee & very wiche are stronger then they. These styppeth them out of their appa-rell / that they be clothed with hall / these take their golde & syluer from them / and so get the awaye: yet can they not helpe them selues. Therfore it is moch better for a man / to be a kyng & to so shewe his power: or els a pro-fitable bestell in a house / wherein he & dweth it / might haue pleasure: yee or to be a doze in a house / to kepe such thinges safe as be therein then to be such a bayne god. The Summe / the gone and all the starres when they geue their myne and light / are obedient / and do me good: when the lightenyng glisteth / all is cleare: the wynde bloweth in euery countre and when God commaundeth the cloudes to go rounde aboute the whole worlde / they do as they are bidden: when & fyre is sent downe from aboue and commaunded / it burneth by hillies and woddes: but as for those goddes / they are not like one of these thinges / nether in beuty ner strength. Wherfore men shulde not thynke / ner saye & they be goddes / seing they can nether geue sentence in iudgment / ner do men good. For so moch now as ye are sure / that they be no goddes / then feare them not: for they can nether speake euell ner good of kynges. They can shewe no tokes in hea-uen for & sethen / nether myne as & some ner geue light as & mone: yee the vnraso-nable bea:st are better then they / for they can get them vnder the rose / & do the selues good. So ran

The songe of the. iij. chyliden.

How can ye be certified by no maner of mea-ns / that they be goddes: therfore feare them not. For lyke as a frayboggarde in a garden of Cucumbers heareth nothyng / eue so are their goddes of wod / of syluer & golde: & lyke as a wyrtethorne in an ozchard / that euer by the syteth vpon: yee lyke as a deen body that is cast in the darcke. Euen so is it with those goddes of wodde / syluer and golde. By the purple and scarlet which they haue vpon them / and soone saydeth awaye / ye maye vnderstande / that they be no goddes: yee they them selues shall be consumed at the last / which shall be a greates confusyon of & lade. Blessed is the godly man / that hath no yma-ges & wo:shippeth none / for he shalbe safe from reproche.

For we O Lorde are be come lesse then thy people / & be kepte vnder this daye in all & worlde / because of oure synnes: So that now we haue neither prynce / duke / prophet / burnt offering / sacryfyce / oblatiō / incense / ner Sanctuary before the.

The story of Su- lanna which is the. xlii. Chapter of Daniel after the Latyn.

Here dwelt a mā in Babilon / called Joachim / that toke a wyfe / whose name was Susanna / a daughter of Bel-chias / a very fayre woman / a soch one as feared God. Her father & her mother also were godly people / & taught their daughter accordynge to the lawe of Moyses. Now Joachim (her hous-bande) was a grete ryche mā / a had a fayre orcharde lonyng vnto his house. And to him reioyced the Jewes comenly / because he was a man of reputacyon amonge the. The same yeare were there made two iudges / soch as the Lord speake of: All the wyckednesse of Babilon / cometh from the elders (that is) from the iudges / which seme to rule the people. These came oft to Joachim's house / and all soch as had eny thyng to do in the lawe / came thither vnto them.

Now when the people came agayne at after noone / Susanna went in to her housbande's orcharde / to walke. The elders seynge this / that she wēt in daye / & walched: they burned

for her. When they were almyghty out of their wittes / & cast downe their eyes / that they shuld not se heauē / nor remembere / God is a ryghtuous iudge. For they were both wounded in the loue of her / nether durst one shewe another his grete. And for shame / they durst not tell her their inordynate lust / for they wolde saye haue had to do with her.
Yet they layde wayte for her earnestly from daye to daye / that they myght (at the last) haue a syght of her. And the one sayde to the other: Wyllett vs goo home / for it is dynere tyme. So they went their waye from her.

When they returned agayne / they came together / enqueryng out the matter betwixte them selues: yee the one tolde the other of hys wicked lust. When appoynted they a tyme / when they might take Susanna alone.

It happened also that they spyed out a conuenient tyme / when she went forth to walke (as her maner was) & no body with her / but two maydes / a thought to walke her selfe in the garden / for it was an hote season: And there was not one person there / excepte the two elders / that had spyed the selues / to beholde her. So she sayde to her maydens: go set me oyle and sope / a thus the orcharde doze / that I maye wash me. And they dyd as she had them / and thus the orcharde doze / a went out them selues at a backe doze / to set the thing that she had commaunded: but Susanna knewe not / that the elders laye there hyd within. Now when the maydens were gone forth / the two elders gat them vp: & ranne by her / sayynge now the orcharde dozes are thus / that no mā can se vs: we haue a lust vnto the / therfore consent vnto vs / and lye with vs.

Yf thou wylt not / we shall bynge a testimoniall agaynst the: that there was a yonge felowe with the / and that thou hast sent awaye thy maydes fro the for the same cause.

Susanna spyed / and sayde: Alas. I am in trouble on euery syde. Though I folow your mynde / it wyl be my death: and yet I consent not vnto you / I can not escape youre handes.
Well / it is better for me / to fall in to youre hande without I dede doynge / then to synne in the syght of the Lord: and with that / she cryed out with a loude voyce: the elders also cryed out agaynst her.

Then ranne there one to the orcharde doze / and smote it open. Now when the seruantes of the house herde the crye in the orcharde / they rushed in at the backe doze / to se what the matter was. So when the elders tolde them the seruantes were greatly ashamed / for why / there was neuer soch a repozte made of Susanna. On the morow after came

they rushed in at the backe doze / to se what

them the seruantes were greatly ashamed /
for why / there was neuer soch a repozte made of Susanna. On the morow after came the people to Joachim's house / & the two elders came also / full of myghteous ymaginacions agaynst Susanna / to bynge her vnto death: & spake thus befoze the people: Sende for Susanna the daughter of Belchias / Joachim's wyfe. And immediatly they sent for her. So she came to her father & mother / her chyldre / a all her kynrede. Now Susanna was a tender person / and maruelous fayre of face. Therfore she wyched mē commaunded to take of the clothes fro her face (for she was couered) at a plect / they might so be satisfied in her beutie. When her frendes / yee a all they that knewe her / began to wepe.

These two elders stode by in the myddest of the people / a layde their handes vpon the heade of Susanna: which wepte / and loked bp towarde heauen / for her herte had a sure trust in the Lord. And the elders sayde: As we were walchynge in the orcharde alone / this woman came in with her two maydes:
whom we sent awaye from her / and sparrowed the orcharde dozes. With that / a yonge felow (which there was hyd) came vnto her / a laye with her. As for vs / we stode in a corner of the orcharde. And when we sawe this wickednes / a we rāne to her: a perceaued / that they had medled together. But we coulde not holde hym / for he was stronger then we: thus he opened the doze / a gat him awaye. Now when we had take this womā / we asked her / what yonge felowe this was: but she wolde not tell vs.

This is the matter / a we be witnesses of the same. The comen folke beleued them / as those that were the elders & iudges of the people / a so they condemned her to death. Susanna cryed out with a loude voyce / a sayde: O euerylastyng God / thou sercher of secretes / thou that knowest all thynges afoze they come to passe: thou wote it / that they haue bozne false wytnes agaynst me: a beholde / I must dye / where as I neuer dyd eny soch thynges / as these men haue maliciously imputed agaynst me. And the Lord herde her voyce. For when she was led forth to death / the Lord rayled by the spere of a yonge chyld / whose name was Daniel / which cryed with a loude voyce: O I am cleane fro this bloude. When all the people turned them towarde him / a sayde: What meane these wordes / that thou hast spoken? Daniel stode in the myddest of the / a sayde: Ye soch foolles / O ye chyldren of Israel / that ye can not discern: Ye haue here condemned a daughter of Israel vnto death / and knowe not the trueth wherfore: So lye on iudgment agayne / for they haue spoken false wytnesse agaynst her.

Wherfore the people turned agayne in all the haste. And the elders (that is / the prynci-pall heades) sayde vnto him: come lye downe here amonge vs / and shewe vs this matter / seynge God hath geue the as grete honorable.

So when they were assembled / Daniel sat in the myddest of them / a tolde them all that was done to Susanna. When they heard that / they were greatly ashamed / for they had condemned an innocent woman / a they had put her to death. So they prayed to God / that he wold geue them wisdom / a they might not do so any more.

And from that tyme forth / Daniel was highly esteemed of all the people / a the Lord was glorified.

And the Lord was glorified.

The story of Bel.

The story of Bell

and of the Dragon/whych is the xth.
Chapter of Daniel after the Latyn.

Here was at Babylon an ymage / called Bel: and there were spent vpon hym euery daye .xii. cakes .xii. shepe/ and fyre greates pottes of wyne. Hym dyd the kynge woꝝshyp hym self/ & wente daye to honoꝝr hym: but Daniel woꝝshypped his awne God. And the kynge sayd vnto him: why dost not thou woꝝshypp Bel? He answered & sayde: Because I maye not woꝝshypp thynges þe he made with handes/ but the Iyunge God whych made heauen & earth/ and hath power vpon all feth. The kynge sayde vnto him: chynche thou not/ þe Bell is a Iyunge God: Dost thou not how much he eateth and dryncketh euery daye? Daniel smyled/ & sayde: Whych dryncke not thy self: this is but made of claye within/ & of metall without/ nether eateth he euer any thyng.

When the kynge was woꝝth/ & called for his prestes/ & sayde vnto them: If ye tell me not who is this/ & eateth by these expences/ ye shall dye: but if ye can certefye me / that Bel eateth them/ then Daniel shall dye / for he hath spokẽ blasphemie agaynst Bel. And Daniel sayde vnto the kynge: let it so be/ as coꝝpynge as thou hast sayde. The prestes of Bel were .ix. besyde their wyues & chyldꝝ. And the kynge wente with Daniel in to the temple of Bel. So Belis prestes sayde: Lo/ we wyl go out/ & let thou the meate there (the kynge) & poure in the wyne: then shutt þe doze fast/ and seale it with thyne awne signet: and to morow when thou comest in/ if thou fyndest not/ that Bel hath eaten by all/ we wyl suffre death: as is Daniel/ & hath clyped vpon vs. The prestes thought the felles sure ynough / for vnder the altare they had made a preynterance/ & there wente they in euer/ and ate by what there was.

So when they were gone forth/ the kynge set meates before Bel. Now Daniel had commaunded his seruauntes to bynge aduers and these he clyped thozow out all the tẽple/ that the kynge myght se. Then wente they out/ and sparred the doze/ sealyng it with þe kynges signet/ and so departed. In the night came the prestes with their wyues and chyldꝝ (as they were wonte to do) and ate and dryncke by all. In the moꝝnyng he tymes at the bꝛeake of the daye/ the kynge arose / and Daniel to him. And the kynge sayd: Daniel/ are are the scales whole yet? He answered: Yee. Whych they be whole. Now as soone as he had opened the doze/ the kynge looked vnto the altare/ & cryed with a loude voyce: Greate art thou O Bel/ and with the is no dyffere. Then laughed Daniel/ and helde the kynge that he shulde not go in/ and sayde: Beholde the pauement/ marche well/ whose fote stepes are these? The kynge sayde: I se the fote stepes of men/ women and chyldꝝ.

Wherfore the kynge was angrye / & toke the prestes/ with their wyues and chyldꝝ/ and they welmed him the preynter dozes/ where they came in/ & ate by such thynges as were by þe altare. For the whych cause the kynge felle the / and deliuered Bel in to Daniels power/ which destroyed him & his temple.

And in that same place there was a great dragon/ which they of Babylon woꝝshypped. And þe kynge sayde vnto Daniel: sayest thou/ that this is but a God of metall also? lo / he lyeth he eateth & dryncketh: so þe thou canst not saye/ that he is no Iyunge God/ therfore woꝝshype him. Daniel sayde vnto the kynge: I wyl woꝝshype the Lorde my God/ he is þe true Iyunge God: as for this/ he is not the God of lyfe. But geue me leaue (the kynge) & I shall destroye this dragon without swearde or flak. The kynge sayde: I geue the leaue. Then Daniel toke pitch / fatte and beartye wool/ & dyd seth them together / and made lompes therof: this he put in the Dragons mouth/ & so the dragon barst in sonder: and Daniel sayde: lo/ there is he whom ye woꝝshypped. When they of Babylon herde that/ they toke greate indignacion/ & gathered the together agaynst the kynge/ sayyng: The kynge is become a Jewe also/ he hath destroyed Bel/ he hath slayne the dragon / and put the prestes to death. So they came to þe kynge/ & sayde: let vs haue Daniel/ or els we wyl destroye the and thyne house.

Now when the kynge sawe/ that they rusted in so soze vpon him/ & that necessity constrained him/ he deliuered Daniel vnto thes which cast him in to the Lyons denne/ where he was fyre dayes. In the denne there were seven Lyons/ and they had geuen them euery daye two bodes and two shepe: which then were not geue them/ & they myght deuoure Daniel.

There was in Jewry a Prophete called Abacuch / which had made potage/ & bꝛoꝝed in a depe platter/ and was goynge in to the selde/ for to bynge it to þe mothers. But the Angell of the Lorde sayde vnto Abacuch: go hary the meate that thou hast in to Babylon/ vnto Daniel / whych is in the Lyons denne. And Abacuch sayde: Lorde / I neuer sawe Babylon: & as for the denne/ I knowe it not. Then the Angell of þe Lorde toke him by the coppe/ and bare him by þe heare of þe head/ & (thozow a myghte wynde) set him in Babylon by þe denne. And Abacuch cryed/ sayyng: O Daniel thou seruaut of God/ haue/ take þe bꝛeakfast/ that God hath sent the. And Daniel sayde: O God/ hast thou thought vpon me? well / thou neuer sayest them that loue the. So Daniel arose / and ate: and the Angell of the Lorde sett Abacuch in his awne place agayne immediately.

Vpon the seventh daye/ the kynge wente to betwepe Daniel: and when he came to the denne/ he looked in: and beholde / Daniel sat in the myddest of the Lyons. Then cryed the kynge with a loude voyce/ sayyng: Greate art thou O Lorde God of Daniel: & he dꝛewe hym out of the denne. As for those that were the cause of his destruction / he dyd cast the in to the denne/ and they were deuoured in a moment before his face.

After this/ wrote the kynge vnto all people / kynredes and tungen/ that dwelt in all countrees/ sayyng: peace be multiplyed to you. My comaundement is/ in all the domynion of my realme: that men feare and stonde in awe of Daniels God/ for he is the Iyunge God/ whych endureth euer: þys kynge dome abydeþ incorrupte/ and his power is euerlasting. It is he that can deliue and saue: he doth widders and maruelous woꝝkes in heauen & in earth/ for he hath saued Daniel from the power of the Lyons.

him: he fel sick. And when he perceaued that he must nedes dye / he called for his noble estates (which had bene brought vp with him of chyliden) & parted his kyngdome amonge them / whyle he was yet alue. So Alexander reigned xij. yere / & then dyed.

After his deeth fell the kyngdome vnto his princes / & they optayned it every one in his towne / & caused the selues to be crowned as kinges: and so dyd their chyliden after them many yeres / & moch wychednesse increased in the wozlde. Out of these came I vngacious rote / noble Antiochus the sonne of Antiochus I king (which had bene a pledg at Rome) & he reigned in the C. xxxviij. yere of the raigne of the Cykes.

In those dayes wente there out of Israel wyched men / whych moued moch people to theist counsell / sayenge: Let vs go & make a couenaunt with the Heathen / I are rounde aboute vs: for I lence we departed from them / we haue had moch sorow. So they besyge pleased them well / and certayne of I people toke vpon the for to go vnto I kynge / which gaue them licence to do after the ordinaunce of the Heathen. Then set they vp an op' scole (at Ierusalem) of the lawes of the Heathen / & were nomore circuncypled: but forsoke the holy Testamente / & fornyed them selues to I Heathen / & were cleane solde to do mychese.

So when Antiochus begarne to be myghtie in his kyngdome / he wente aboute to op-tayne I lande of Egypte also / that he myght haue the domynon of two realmes. vpon this entred he in to Egypte to a stronge hoost with charrettes / elephantes / hoysmen and a greate nomb' of shippes / and begarne to warre agaynst Ptolomy the kynge of Egi-pte. But Ptolomy was afrayed of hym / and fled: and many of his people were wounded to deeth. Thus Antiochus wanne many ströge cities / and toke awaye greate good out of the lande of Egypte.

And after that Antiochus had smitten
Egypt / he turned agayne in the C. lxxij. yere & wente towarde Israel / & came vp to Ieru-salem with a myghtie people: & entred proudy in to the Sanctuary / and toke awaye I golden altare / the candylsticke and all the ornamentes therof / the table of I shewb'ed the pouring beuel I chargers / I golden spout the bale / the crownes and golde apparrell of the temple / and brake downe all. He toke also the syluer & golde / the p'ecious Jewels and the secrete treasures that he founde.
And when he had taken awaye all together / caused a greate murthur of men / and so fulfilled his malicious pyde / he departed in to his hunte lanne.

Thus there arose greate heynesse and misyrie in all the lande of Israel. The princes & the elders of the people mourned / I yonge men and the maydens were desyled / and the sayre

the sayre beu'tye of women was chaunged:
the bydegrome and the byde toke them to mournyng: the lande and ydole that dwelt therin / was moued: for all the house of Ia-cob was brought to confusyon.

After two yeres the kynge sent his chiefe treasurer vnto I cyties of Iuda / which came to Ierusalem with a greate multitude of prople / speakeinge peaceable wordes vnto them but all was disceate: for wha they had geue hym credence / he fel sodenly vp on the cytye / & smote it soze / and destroyed moch people of Israel. And when he had spoyled the cytye / he set fyre on it / castynge downe houses and walles on every syde. The women and they chyliden toke they captiue / & led awaye their catel. Then buyded they the castel of Dauid with a greate and thicke wall / & with myghtie towres / and made it a stronge holde for the.
Besyde all this they sett wyched people and vngodly men to kepe it / & roared it with wea-pens and bytales: gathered the goodes of Ie-rusalem / and layed them vp there: thus became it a theuyth castell.

And thus was done to laye waite for the people that went in to the Sanctuary / and for the cruell destruccyon of Israel. Thus they shed innocent bloude on every syde of I Sanctuary / and desyled it: In so moch that the citelyns were sayne to departe / and the cytye became an habitacyon of straungers / beyng desolate of her awne seide / for her awne natyres were sayne to leaue her. Her Sanctuary was cleane wasted / her holy dayes were turned in to mournyng / her Sabbathes were had in derisyon / and her honoure brought to naught. Loke how greate her glory was a fore / so greate was her confusyon / and her tope turned in to sorow.

Antiochus also the kynge sent out a commission vnto all his kyngdome / that all the people shulde be one. When they lest curry man his lawe / and all the Heathen a greed to the commaundement of kynge Antiochus: Yee many of the Israelites consented there vnto / offeringe vnto ydols / and desylyng I Sabbath. So the kynge Antiochus sent his messangers with his commissyon vnto Ierusalem / & to all the cytyes of Iuda: that they shulde folowe the lawes of the Heathen / and forbad ether burnt offeringe meat offerringe or peace offeringe to be made in I temple of God / & that there shulde no Sabbath ner hye feast daye be kepte: but commaunded that the Sanctuary and the holy people of Israel shulde be desyled.

He commaunded also that there shulde be sett by other altares / temples & ydols: to offer by swynes flesh & other vncleane beastes:
that men shulde leaue their chyliden vncir-cuncypled / to desyle their soules with all maner of vncleannesse & abhominacions: I they myght so forget the lawe / & chaunge all the holy ordinaunces of God: & that whosoever wolde not do accordinge to the commaunde-ment of kynge Antiochus / shulde suffre deeth In lyke maner commaunded he thowto out all his realme / and sett rulers ouer the people / for to compell them to do these thynges / commaunding the cyties of Iuda to do sacrifice vnto ydols.

Then wente the people vnto the heathen by heapes / forsoke the lawe of the Lorde / & comitted moch euill in the lande: yee and cha-ced out the secrete Israelites / which had hyd them selues in corners and p'rey places. In the xv. daye of the moneth Casleu / in the C. xlv. yere / sett kynge Antiochus an abhominable ydol of desolacion vpon the altare of God / and they buyded altares thowto out all the cytyes of Iuda on every syde / before the doores of the houses / and in the streets: where they byent incense / and dyd sacrifice. And as for the bokes of the lawe of God / they byent them in the fyre / and rent them in peces. What so euer he was that had a boke of the testament of the Lorde sold by hym / yee whosoever endeuored hymself to kepe the lawe of the Lorde / the kynge commaundement was / that they shulde pue hym to deeth. And thowto his auctorite they executed these thynges every moneth / vpon the people of Israel that were founde in the cytyes.

The fyue and twente daye of the moneth what tyme as they dyd sacrifice vpon the altare (which stode in the steele of the altare of the Lorde) accordinge to the commaunde-ment of kynge Antiochus / they put cer-tayne women to deeth / whych had caused their chyliden to be circuncised: Not only that / but they hanged by the chyliden by the nec-kes thowto out all their houses / and slewe I circuncisers of them.

Yet were there many of the people of Israel / whych determined in them selues / that they wolde not eate vncleane thynges: but chose rather to suffre deeth / then to be desyled to vncleane meates. So because they wolde not breake the blessed lawe of God / they were cruelly slayne. And this great tyranny created very soze vpon the people of Israel.

The mournyng of Mathathiah and his sonnes for the destruccyon of the holy cytye. They refused to do sacrifice vnto ydols. The zeale of Mathathiah for the lawe of God. They are slayne & wyl not feight agayne because of the Sabbath daye. Mathathiah dy-nge commaundeth his sonnes to styche by the wordes of God after the example of the fathers.

1 Mach. 1. 1.

In those dayes there dyd stande by one Mathathyah & sonne of Symeon the prest (out of the kynred of Hoaris) from Jerusalem / & dwelt upon the mount of Modin / & had v. sonnes: The first called Gaddis: Symon / called Chas: Judas / other wise called Machabeus: Eleazer / other wise called Abaron: and Jonathan / whose surname was Apphus. These sawe the euell / that was done amonge the people of Juda & Jerusalem. And Mathathyah sayde: Wo is me / alas & euer I was bozne / to se this mysery of my people / & the pteous destruccion of & holy cite: & thus to lye to fill / being deliuered in to & hādes of & enemys. Her Sanctuary is come in to the power of strangers her temple is / as it were a man & hath lost his good name. Her pteous ornaments are carped awaye captyue / her olde men are slayne in the strettes / & her yōge mē are fallen thowm & swearde of the enemyes.

What people is it / that hath not come possessed in her kingdome? & who hath not gotten some of her spoyle? All her glorie is taken awaye. She was a Quene / & now she is become an handmayde. Beholde our Sanctuary / our betwylle & honoure is wasted awaye / & despoiled by the Gentiles. What helpeth it vs thē to lye? And Mathathyah rente his clothes / & his sonnes / & put sack cloth vpon them / & mourned very soze.

28 Then came the men thither whych were sent of kynge Antiochus / to compell such as were fled in to the cite of Modyn / for to do sacrifice & to burne incense vnto Idols / & to forsake the lawe of God. So / many of the people of Israel consented & enclined vnto thē / but Mathathyah & his sonnes remayned stedfast. Then spake the commissyoners of kynge Antiochus / and sayde vnto Mathathyah: Thou art a noble man / of hys reputacyon and greate in this cite / haupnge saye chyldren and brythzen. Come thou therfore first / and fulfill the kynges commaundement / lyke as all the Heathen haue done / yee & the men of Juda / and such as remayne at Jerusalem: so shalt thou and thy chyldren be in the kynges fauoure / and enryched wth golde / syluer & greate rewardes.

Mathathyah answered / and spake with a loude voyce: Though all nacjons obeye the kyng Antiochus / and sal awaye eury man fro hepyng the lawe of their fathers: though they consente to his commaundementes / yet wyl I & my sonnes and my brythzen / not fall fro the lawe of our fathers. God forbyd we shulde: that were not good for vs / that we shulde forsake the lawe and ordynaunces of God / and to agre vnto the commaundement of kynge Antiochus. Therfore we wyl do no such sacrifice / nether breake the statutes of our lawe / to go another waye. And when he had spoken these wordes / there came one of the Jewes / whych openly in the syght of all / dyd sacrifice vnto the Idols vpon the altier in the cite of Modyn / according to the kynges commaundement.

Why Mathathyah sawe thys / it greued hym at the herte / so that hys raynes boke withall / and hys wryth kindled for very zeale of the lawe. Wherby that he gaue a chyppe forth / and kyled the Jew helpe the altier: yee and slewe the kynges commissioner / that compelled him to do sacrifice / & destroyed the altier at the same tyme: soch a zeale had he vnto & lawe of God / like as Phynches dyd vnto & lamb / & sonne of Salome. And Mathathyah cried with a loude voyce thowm the cite / sayenge: Whoso is seruent in the lawe / & wyl kepe & couenaunt / let him folowe me. So he and hys sonnes fled in to the mountaynes & left all that euer they had in the cite. Many other godly men also departed in to & wilderness wth their chyldre / their wyues and their catel / & remayned there: for the tyrāng increased so soze vpon them.

Now when the kynges seruantes / and the hoost / whych was at Jerusalem in the cite of David herde / & certayne mē had broken the kynges commaundement and were gone their waye to the wilderness in to secrete places / and that there were many departed after them: they folowed vpon them to fyght agaynst them in the Sabbath daye & sayde: Wyl ye yet rebell? Get you hence & do the commaundement of kynge Antiochus and ye shal lye. They answered: We wyl not go forth / nether wyl we do the kynges commaundement / to despoyle the Sabbath daye. Then begane they to fyght agaynst thē neuertheless they gaue them none other answer / nether cast they one stone at them ne: made fast their prey places / but sayde. We wyl dye al in our innocency / heauē & earth shall testifie with vs / that ye put vs to death wrongeously. Thus they fought agaynst thē vpon the Sabbath / & slewe both men & catell / their wyues & their chyldre / to the number of a thousand people.

When Mathathyah and hys frendes herde this / they mourned for them right soze / and sayde one to another: It so be that we all do as our brythzen haue done / & fight not for our lyues & for our lawes agaynst & Heathen: then shall they the soner rote vs out of the earth. So they concluded amonge them selues at the same tyme / sayenge: Whatsoeuer he be that cometh to make battayll wth vs vpon the Sabbath daye / we wyl fyght agaynst him / & not dye al / as our brythzen & were were instructed to banouly. vpon thys came the Synagoge of the Jewes vnto thē: stronge men of Israel / all such as were seruent in the lawe. And all they that were fled for persecucion / came to helpe them / and to stande by them: In so much that they gathered an hoost of men / and slewe the wyched doers in their gelousy / and the vngodly men in their wryth. Some of the wyched fled vnto the Heathen / and escaped.

Thus Mathathyah & his frendes wente aboute / and destroyed the altiers / and circumcysed the chyldren / that had not yet receaued circumcisiō: as many as they founde within the costes of Israel: & folowed mightely vpon the chyldren of pryde / & this acte prospered in their handes: In so much / that they kepte the lawe agaynst the power of & Gentiles and the kynges / and gaue not ouer their domynyon vnto wyched doers.

After thys when the tyme dyeme on fast / that Mathathyah shulde dye / he sayde vnto his sonnes: Now is pryde and persecucion increased / now is the tyme of destruccion & wrythfull displeasure: wherfore (O my sonnes) be ye seruent in the lawe / and leoparde your lyues for the Testament of the fathers: call to remembrance what actes our fathers dyd in their tyme / so shal ye receaue greate honoure and an euerslastinge name.

Remember Abraham / was not he founde saythfull in tentacyon / and it was reckened vnto him for rightousnes? Joseph in tyme of hys trouble kepte the commaundement / and was made a Lorde of Egypt. Phynches our father was so seruent for the honoure of God / that he obtayned the couenaunt of an euerslastinge presthode. Josue for fulfilling the worde of God / was made the captayne of Israel. Caleb bare recorde before the congregaciō / and receaued an heretage. Dauid also in hys mercyfull kyndnes / obtayned the throne of an euerslastinge kyngdome. Eliah beinge gelous and seruent in & lawe / was taken vp in to heauē. Hananias / Azarias and Misael remayned stedfast in fayth / and were deliuered out of the fyre. In lyke maner Daniel beyng bngylt / was saued from the mouth of the Lyons.

And thus ye maye consydre thowm out all ages sence the worlde beganne / that who soeuer put their trust in God / were not ouercome. Feare not ye then the wordes of an vngodly man / for hys glorie is but donge and wrymes: to daye is he set vp / and to morow is he gone: for he is turned into earth / and hys memoypall is come to naught. Wherfore (O my sonnes) take good hertes vnto you / & quyte your selues lyke men in the lawe: for ye do the thynges that are commaunded you in the lawe of the Lorde your God / ye shal optayne greate honoure therein.

And beholde / I know that your brother Symon is a man of wysdome: se & ye geue care vnto hym alwaye / he shal be a father vnto you. As for Judas Machabeus / he hath euer bene myghty and stronge fro hys youth by: let him be your captayne / & ordeyne the battayll of & people: thus shal ye byinge vnto you all those that fauoure the lawe / & se that ye auenge the wronge of your people / and recompence the Heathen agayne / & applye your selues whole to the commaundement of the lawe. So he gaue them hys blessing / and was layed by hys fathers: & died in the .C. & xlii. yere at Modin / where hys sonnes buried him in hys fathers sepulchre / & all Israel made greate lamentacyon for hym.

Judas is made ruler ouer the Jewes. He kyled Apollonius & Heron the prynces of Syria. The confidence of Judas toward God. Judas determyne to fyght agaynst Lysias whom Antiochus had made captayne ouer his host. The prayer of & absterpners.

The .iiij. Chapter.

Ihen stode by Judas Machabeus in his fathers steade / & all his brythzen helpe him: and so dyd all they that helde in hys father / & fought Antioch. With cherefulness for Israel. So Judas gat his people greate honoure: he put on a bryll plate as a giante / & arrayed hym selfe with his harnesse / and defended the hoste with hys swearde. In his actes he was lyke a Lyon / and as a lyō whelpe roaringe at his praye. He was an enemye to the wyched / & hunted them out: and byent by those that hexed hys people: So that hys enemyes fled for feare of hym / and all the wrychers of vngodlynes were put to trouble: soch lucke and prosperite was in his hande. This greued byuerse kyngs / but Jacob was greatly reioyled thowm hys actes / and he gat hymself a greate name for euer.

He wente thowm the ctytes of Juda / destroyed the vngodly out of them / turning awaye the wryth from Israel / and receauynge such as were opprest: and the same of him wente vnto the vttemost parte of the earth. Then Appollonius (a pryncce of Syria) gathered a myghty greate hoost of the Heathen & out of Samaria / to fyght agaynst Israel. Whych when Judas perceaued / he wente forth to mete hym / fought wth hym: slewe hym / and a great multitude with him / the remnaunce fled / & he toke their substaunce. Judas also toke Appollonius awne swearde / and fought with it all his lyfe longe.

Now whē Seron (another pryncce of Syria) herde saye / that Judas had gathered vnto hym the congregacyon and church of the Jewes. saythfull saythfull he sayde: I wyll get me a name & a prayse thow out the realme: for I wyll go fight with Judas & them that are wyth hym/as many as haue despyed the kynges commaundement. So he made hym ready/ and there wente with him a grete myghty hoost of the vngodly/ to stande by hym/ and to be auenged of the chyldren of Israel. And when they came nye vnto Bethozon/ Judas wente forth agaynst the with a small company. And whē hys people sawe such a grete hoost before them/ they sayde vnto Judas: How are we able (beinge so fewe) to fyght agaynst so grete a multitude and so stronge? seinge we be so weery/ and haue fasted all thys daye:

1. Reg. xliij. a. But Judas sayde: It is a small matter for many to be overcome wth fewe: yee there is no dyfference to the God of heauen/ to de- lyuer by a grete multitude or by a small company: for the victorie of the battell standeth not in the multitude of the hoost/ but in the strength cometh from heauē. Beholde/ they come agaynst vs wyth a presumptuous and proude multitude/ to destroye vs/ oure wyues and oure chyldren/ and to robbe vs. But we wyll fight for oure lyues/ & for oure lawes/ and the Lorde hym selfe shall destroye them before oure face: therfore be not ye afrayed of them.

As soone as he had spoken these wordes/ he leapt suddenly vpon the. Thus was Se- ron smitten/ and his hoost put to flight/ and Judas folowed vpon them beyonde Betho- ron vnto the playne felde: where there were slayne eight hundred men of them/ and the residue fled in to the lande of the Philistynes. When all the Heathen on euery syde were afrayed for Judas and hys brethren: so that the rumoure of hym came vnto the kynges eares/ for all the Gentyles coude tell of the warres of Judas.

D So when kynge Antiochus hearde these tydynges/ he was angry in his minde: wher- fore he sente forth and gathered an hoost of hys whole realme very stronge armys: and opened hys treasury/ and gaue hys hoost a peares wages in hande/ commaundynge them to be ready at all tymes.

Neuerthelesse when he sawe/ that there was not money ynough in hys treasures/ and that thow the dyscorde and persecucy- on/ whych he made in hys lande (to put downe the lawes that had bene of olde tymes) hys customes & tributes of the lande were im- pyshed: he feared that he was not able for to beare the costes and charges any longer/ nor to haue such gyftes/ to geue so liberally as he dyd afore/ more then the kynges that were before hym.

Wherfore he was heuy in his minde/ and thought to go into Persides/ for to take tri- butes of the lande/ & so to gather moche mo- ney. So he left Lysias (a noble man of the kynges bloude) to ouerse the kynges busy- nesses/ from the water Euphrates vnto the borders of Egypte: & to kepe well his sonne Antiochus/ till he came agayne.

E Moreover/ he gaue him half of his hoost and Elephates/ commytted vnto hym euery thyng of hys mynde/ concernynge those whych dwelt in Iuda and Jerusalem: that he shulde sende out an armie agaynst the/ to destroye and to rote out the power of Is- rael and the remnant of Jerusalem: to put out their memoiall from that place/ to set straungers for to inhabyt all their quarters/ and to parte their lande amonge them. Thus the kynge toke the other parte of the hoost/ and departed from Antioch (a cite of hys re- alme) ouer the water of Euphrates/ in the hundreth and xlviij. yere/ and went thow the hys countrees.

And Lysias chose vnto hym Ptolomy the sonne of Borsimarus/ Dicanor and Gorgias myghty men/ and the kynges frendes. These he sent with xl. thousande sote men and xli. thousande horsmen/ for to go into the lande of Iuda/ and to destroye it/ as the kynge com- manded. So they wete forth with all their power/ & came to Emmaus into the playne felde. When the marchauntes hearde h^e ru- moure of them/ they & their seruantes toke very muche syluer & golde/ for to bye the chyldren of Israel to be their bodie men. There came vnto them also yet moche men of warre on euery syde/ out of Syria and from the Palestynes.

Now when Judas and hys brethren sawe that trouble increased/ & that the hoost drew nye vnto their borders: consyderynge the kyn- ges wordes which he commaunded vnto the people: namely/ h^e they shulde utterly waste and destroye the: they sayde one to another: Let vs reioyse the decaye of oure people/ let vs fyght for oure folke and for oure Sanctu- ary. When the congregacyon were soone ready gathered to fyght/ to praye & to make supplicacyon vnto God for mercy & grace.

As for Jerusalem/ it laye voyde/ and was as it had bene a wyldernesse. There wente no man in nor out at it/ and the Sanctuary was troden downe. The aleauntes kepte the castell/ there was the habytacyon of the Heathen. The myth of Jacob was taken awaye/ the pyper and the harpe was gone frō amonge them.

The Israelytes gathered them to gether/ and came to Bethphage before Jerusalem: for in Bethphage was the place where they prayed afore afore tyme. So they fasted that daye/ & put sackclothes vpon them/ cast adheys vpon their heades/ rente their clothes/ & layde forth the bookes of the lawe (wherout the Heathen sought the yckynesse of their ymagines) and broughte the prestes ornaments/ the firkin- ges and the tythes. They set there also the abekyners (which had fulfilled thys daye) before God/ and cryed wyth a loude voyce towarde heauen/ sayynge: What shall we do wyth these? and whither shall we cary them awaye? for the Sanctuary is trode downe and despyed/ the prestes are come to heuy- nesse and by honoure: and beholde/ the Hea- then are come together for to destroye vs. Thou knowest what thynges they ymagyn agaynst vs. How may we stande before the/ excepte thou (O God) be oure helpe?

They blew out the trompette also wyth a loude voyce. Then Judas ordered captay- nes ouer the people: ouer thousandes/ ouer hundredes/ ouer fiftye/ and ouer ten. But as for such as buyded them houses/ maried wyues/ planted them byneparces/ and those that were fearful: he commaunded the eue- ry man to go home/ accordynge to the lawe. So the hoost remoued/ and pyched vpon the south syde of Emmaus.

And Judas sayde: Tyme youre selues/ be stronge (O my chyldren) make you ready agaynst to morow in the mornyng/ that ye maye fyght wyth these people/ whych are agreed together to destroye vs & oure sanc- tuary. Better is it for vs to dye in battayll/ than to le oure people and oure sanctuary in such a myserable case. Neuerthelesse/ as the wyll is in heauen/ so be it.

¶ Judas goeth agaynst Gorgias which lieth in wayte. He putte Gorgias and his hoost to flight. Lysias sauedeth Jerusaleme/ but Judas dryeth him oute. Judas purpyseth the temple and dedycateth the altare.

The .iiij. Chapter.

I Then toke Gorgias fyue thousand men of sote/ & a thousande of the best horsmen: & remoued by night/ to come nye where the Jewes hoost laye/ & so to slaye them suddenly. Now h^e men that kepte the castell/ were the conueyers of them. Then arose Judas to smyte the chiefe & principall of the kynges hoost at Emmaus/ for the army was not yet come together. In the meane season came Gorgias by nyght in to Judas tentes: & when he founde no man there/ he sought them in the mountaynes/ & thought they had bene fled awaye because of him. But whē it was daye/ Judas thewed hym selfe in the felde wyth thye thousande men only/ whych had nether harnesse ney sweardes to their myndes.

But on the other syde/ they sawe that the Heathen were myghtie and well harnessed/ and their horsmen aboute them/ and all these well experie in fettes of warre. Then sayde Judas to h^e men that were wyth hym: feare not ye the multitude of them/ be not afrayed of their violence runnyng: remembre how oure fathers were deliuered in the reed see/ when Pharaos theathned them wyth a grete host.

Then so lett vs also crye now towarde heauen: and the Lorde shall haue mercy vpon vs/ and remembre the couenaunt of oure fa- thers/ yee and destroye thys host before oure face this daye: And all h^e Heathen shall know/ that it is God hym selfe/ which deliuereth & saueh Israel.

When the Heathen lyft by their eyes/ and when they sawe that they were commynge agaynst them/ they went out of their tentes in to the battayll: and they that were wyth Judas/ blew vpon the trompettes. So they buckled together/ and the Heathen were dis- comfited and fled ouer the playne felde: but the hymnost of them were slayne. For they folowed vpon them vnto Bitharamoth/ and in to the felde of Idumea towarde Azot and Jamnia: so that there were slayne of them vpon a thye thousande men. So Judas tur- ned agayne wyth his hoste/ & sayde vnto the people: Be not greedy of the spoyles/ we ha- ue yet a battayll to fyght: for Gorgias and his hoost are here by vs in the mountaynes/ but stande ye fast agaynst oure enemyes/ & ouer come the: then maye ye safely take the spoyles.

As Judas was speaking these wordes/ there appeared one parte of them vpon the mount. But when Gorgias sawe that they of his partye were fled/ and the tentes bene bp (for by the smoke they myght vnderstande what was done) they perceauynge thys/ were very sore afrayed: and when they sawe also that Judas and hys hoost were in the felde ready to stricke battayll/ they fled euerychone in to the lande of the Heathen.

So Judas turned agayne to spoylle the tentes/ where they gatt moche golde and syl- uer/ precious stones/ purple a great riches. Thus they went home and longe a Psalme of thankesgeuynge and prayed God in hea- uen: for he is gracious/ and hys mercy en- dureth for euer: And so Israel had a grete victory in that daye.

Now all the Heathen that escaped/ came and tolde Lysias euery thyng as it hap- pened. Wherfore Lysias was sore afrayed and greued in his mynde/ because Israel had not gotten such myfortune as he wolde they shulde Shulde / neither as the kynge commaunded. The nexte yere following gathered Lysias thre scoze thousande chosen men of Ioseph / & thre thousande hoymen / to fight agaynst the Jewes. So they came in to Jewry / and pitched their tentes at Bethozon / where Judas came agaynst them with ten thousande men. And when he sawe so greates mighte an host / he made hys prayer and sayde : Blessed be thou (O saviour of Israel) whych dydest destroye the violent power of the graunte / in the hande of thy seruant Dauid / and gauest the host of the Heathen in to the hande of Ionathas (the sonne of Saul) and of hys weapen bearer.

But this host now in to the hande of thy people of Israel / and let them be confounded in their multitude and hoymen. Make them afrayed / & dyscomfote the boldnes of their strenght / that they maye be moued thorow their destruction. Cast them downe thorow the swerde of thy louers / then shall all they that knowe thy name / praye the with thankesgeuyng.

So they stroke the batell / and there were slayne of Lysias host / thre thousande men. When Lysias sawe the dyscomfotinge of hys men / and the manlynesse of the Jewes / how they were ready / ether to fyght or to dye like men / he wente vnto Antioche and chose out men of warre : that wha they were gathered together / they myght come agayne in to Jewry. When sayde Judas and hys brethren : beholde / our enemyes are dyscomfited : Let vs now go by / to cleanse and to repayre the Sanctuary.

Upon this / all the host gathered them together / and wente by vnto mount Syon. Now when they sawe the Sanctuary layd waste / & the altare defyled / the doores byt by / & the bygges growinge in the court / like as in a wood / vpon mountaynes / yee & the prestes selles were broken downe : they rente their clothes / made great lamentacion / call alwes vpon their heades / fell downe flat to the grounde / made a greates noyse with the trompettes / & cryed towarde heauen.

Then Judas appointed certayne men to fyght agaynst those which were in the castell eill they had cleansed the Sanctuary. So he chose prestes & were vnderfled / such as had pleasure in the lawe of God : and they cleansed the Sanctuary / and bare out the defyled stones in to an vnclene place. And for so much as the altare of burntofferings was vnhalowed / he toke aduysment / what he mighte do : so he thought it was best to destroye it / lest it shoulde happen to do them any shame / for the Heathen had defyled it / & therefore they brake it downe. As for the stones they layed the by vnto the moynayn by the house in a conuenient place : till there came a prophet to shewe / what shoulde be done with them.

So they toke whole stones accordinge to the lawe / & buylded a new altare / such one as was before / & made by the Sanctuary within & without / & halowed the courtes. They made new ornaments / & brought the candlestick the altare of incense / & the table in to the temple. The incense layed they vpon the altare / & lighted the lampes which were vpon the candlestick / that they myght burne in the temple. They set the shewbread vpon the table / & hangd by the bale / and set by the temple / as it was afore. And vpon the xxv. daye of the first moneth / which is called the moneth of Casleu / in the C. xliiii. yere : they rose by by tymes in the moynynge / for to do sacrifice (accordinge to the lawe) vpon the new burnt offeringe altare. that they had made : after the tyme and season that the Heathen had defyled it. The same daye was it set by agayne / with longes pypes / harpes & cymbales.

And all the people fell vpon their faces / & tooke shippynge & thankyng of God of heauē which had geuen them the victory. So they kepte the dedicacion of the altare blis. dayes offeringe burnt sacrifices & thankofferings with gladnesse. They deckt the temple also with crowns & chylde of gold / & halowed the portes & selles / & hangd doore by the. Thus there was very great gladnesse amonge the people / because the blasphemie of the Heathen was put awaye. So Judas & his brethren in the whole congregacion of Israel / ordered / that the tyme of the dedycacyon of the altare shoulde be kepte in hys season from yere to yere / by the space of blis. dayes / from the xxv. daye of the moneth Casleu : yee and that with myght and gladnesse.

And at the same tyme buylded they by the mount Syon with hys walles and stronge towres rounde aboute : lest the Gentiles shoulde come and treade it downe / as they dyd afore. Therefore Judas sett men of warre in it / to kepe it : and made it stronge / for to defende Bethsura : that the people myght haue a refuge agaynst the enemyes.

¶ Judas had conquered the Heathen that go aboute to destroye Israel / and is holpen of his brethren Simon and Ionathas. He ouerthroweth the cytie of Sphon / because they denyed hym passage thither.

¶ The v. Chapter.

It happened also that when the Heathen rounde aboute betwixt / howe the altare & the Sanctuary were sett by in the olde estate : it displeased the very soze / wherefore they thought to destroye the generacion of Jacob that was amonge them : In so much that they began began to slaye and to persecute certayne of the people. When Judas fought agaynst the chyldre of Esau in Iudaea / & agaynst those which were at Arabathane / for they dwelt rounde aboute the Israelites / where he slew and spoyled a greates multitude of them. He thought also vpon the malice and vnlawfulnes of the chyldre of Esau / how they were a snare & stoppe vnto the people / & how they layed wayte for them in the hye wayes / wherefore he shut them by in to towres / and came vnto them / condemned them / and bent by their towres / with all that were in them.

Afterwarde wente he agaynst the chyldren of Ammon / wherof he founde a myghty power & a greates multitude of people / with Timothy their captayne. So he stroke many battails with them / which were destroyed before hym. And when he had slayne them / he wanne Bazer the cytie / with the towres belonginge therto / and so turned agayne in to Jewry. The Heathen also in Galaad gathered the together / agaynst the Israelites that were in their quarters to slaye them : but they fled to the castell of Bathanian. and sent letters vnto Judas and his brethren / sayinge : The Heathen are gathered agaynst vs on every syde / to destroye vs / & now they make them for to come / and laye sege to the castell / wherunto we are fled / and Timothy is the captayne of their host : come therfore / and deliuer vs out of their handes : for there is a greates multitude of vs slayne all ready. Yee and our brethren that were at Tabin / are slayne & destroyed (well nye a thousande men) and their wyues / their chyldren and their goodes haue the enemyes led awaye captiue.

Whyle these letters were yet a readyng / beholde / there came other messagers from Galilee / with rente clothes : which tolde euen the same tydings / and sayde / that they of Ptolomais / of Tyrys and of Sidon were gathered agaynst them / and that all Galilee was fylled with enemyes to destroye Israel. When Judas and the people herde this / they came together (a greates congregacion) to delibe / what they mighte do for their brethren / that were in trouble & beleaged of their enemyes. And Judas sayde vnto Simon his brother : chose the out certaynemen / and go deliuer thy brethren in Galilee : As for me and my brother Ionathas / we wyll go in to Galadithim. So he left Josephus & some of Zachary / and Aarias to be captaynes of the people and to kepe the remnant of the host in Jewry / and commaunded them / sayinge : Make the ouersyght of this people / and se to pe make no warre agaynst the Heathen / vntill the tyme that we come agayne. And when to Simon he gaue thre thousande men for to go in to Galilee / but Judas hym selfe had eght thousande in Galadithim.

Then wente Simon in to Galilee / and stroke shurely batell with the Heathen : wherof he dyscomfited / and folowed vpon them vnto the porte of Ptolomais. And there were slayne of the Heathen almost .iiij. thousande men. So he toke the cytyles of them / and carried awaye the Israelites / that were in Galilee and Arabath / with their wyues / their chyldren and all that they had / and brought them in to Jewry with greates gladnesse. Judas Machabeus also and his brother Ionathas / wente ouer Jordan / and traouayled .iiij. dayes iourney in the wyldernes : where the Hebrewes met them / and receaued them louyngly / and tolde the euery thyng that had happened vnto their brethren in Galadithim / and how that many of them were beleaged in Batafa / Bofoz / Alimis / Calphoz / Mageth and Carnaim (all these are stronge walled and myghtie greates cyties) and that they were kepte in other cytyes of Galaad also : so moche they are appointed to bytge their host vnto these cyties / to take them & to wyne them in one daye.

So Judas and his host turned in all the haste in the wyldernes towarde Bofoz / and wanne the cytie / & the we all the males with the swerde / toke all their goodes / and sett fyre vpon the cytie. And in the nyght they toke their iourney from thence / and came to the castell. And by tymes in the moynynge when they looked by / beholde / there was an innumerable people bearynge iadens and other instruments of warre / to take the castell and to ouercome them.

When Judas sawe that the battayll beganne / and that the noyse thereof wente by a range in to the heauen / and that there was so greates a crye in the cytie : he sayd vnto his host : fyght this daye for your brethren. And so came behynde their enemyes in thre companyes / and blew by the trompettes / and cryed in their prayer to God.

But as soone as Timothy's host perceaued Machabeus was there / they fled from him / and the other slew them downe eght thousande : so that there were killed of them the same daye / almost eght thousande men. When he parted Judas vnto Maspha / layd sege vnto it and wanne it / & the we all the males in it / spoyled it / and set fyre vpon it. From thence wente he and toke Calbon / Mageth / Bofoz / and the other cyties in Galaad.

After this gathered Timothy another host / which pitched their tentes before Raphon beyonde the water. Judas sent to spye the host / & they brought hym word agayne / sayinge / agayne / sayenge: All the Heathen þe be rounde aboute vs / are gathered vnto him / and the host is very greete: Yet they haue byed the Arabians to helpe them / & haue pitched their tentes beyonde the water / and are ready to come & fyghe agaynst the. So Judas wente on to mete them.

And Timothy sayde vnto the captaynes of hys host: when Judas & hys host come nye þe ryuer: þe go ouer first / we shal not be able to withstande him: for why he will be to stronge for vs. But þe darre not come ouer so that he pitch his tente beyonde the water: then will we go ouer / for we shal be stronge ynough agaynst him. Now as soone as Judas came to þe ryuer / he appoynted certayne scribes of the people / & commaunded them / sayenge: se þe ye leaue none behinde wþ this tyde of the ryuer / but let euery man come to the battayl. So he wente first ouer vnto the & his people after him.

And all the Heathen were dyscomfited befoze him / and lett their weapens fall / & ranne in to the temple that was at Camaim. Which cytye Judas wanne / and byent the temple wþ all that were in it: So was Camaim subdued / and myght not withstande Judas. Then Judas gathered all the Israelites that were in Galsadithym / from the leest vnto the most / wþ their wyues and their chyldren (a very greete host) for to come in to the lande of Israel.

So they came vnto Ephron / which was a myghtie greete and stronge cytye / and laye in their waye. For they coude not go by it / neither of the ryght hande ner of the left / but must goo thowow it. Neuertheles they that were in þe cytye / wolde not lett the go thowow / but walled by the portes wþ stones. And Judas sent vnto the / wþ peaceable wordes / sayenge: Let vs passe thowow your land / & we maye goo in to oure awne countre: there shall no body do you harme / we wyl but on- ly go thowow. But they wolde not lett the in.

Wherfoze Judas commaunded a procla- macyon to be made thowow oure the Hoste / that euery man shulde kepe his ordze: and so they dyd their best lyke balaunt men.

And Judas beseged the cytye all that daye and all that nyght / and so wanne it: where they slewe as many as were males / and de- stroyed the cytye / and spoyled it / and wente thowow all the cytye ouer the & were slayne. Then went they ouer Jordan in to þe playne felde befoze Bethsan. And Judas helped those forwarde that cam behynde / and gaue the people good exortacyon all the waye thowow / tyll they were come in to the lande of Juda. Thus they wente by vnto þe mounte Sion / where they offered to myght & thanchesguyng: because there were none of the slayne / but came home agayne peaceably.

Now what tyme as Judas and Jonathas were in the lande of Galaad / and Symon their brother in Galilee befoze Ptolomays: Then Josephus the sonne of Zachary and Alaryah the captaynes / hearynge of the ac- tes that were done and of the battels that were stoken / sayde: Let vs get vs a name also / and go fyghe agaynst the Heathen that are rounde aboute vs.

So they gaue their host a commande- ment / and wente towarde Tamyrah. Then came Gorygab & his men out of the cytye / to fyghe agaynst them: Josephus also and Alaryah were chaled vnto the borders of Jero- salem. Wher men: so there was a great mysery amonge þe people / & al because they were not obedient vnto Judas and hys brethren / but thought they shulde quyte them selues man fully. Neuertheles they came not of the fede of these men / by wch Israel was helped. But the me þe were wþ Judas / were grea- tly commaunded in the sight of all Israel and all Heathen / where so euer their name was herde vpon / & the people came vnto the byd- dyngge them welcome.

After this wente Judas forth wþ hys brethren / and fought agaynst the chyldre of Esau / in the lande þe lyeth towarde the south where he wanne the cytye of Hebzon and the townes that lye beynde it: & as for the walles and towres rounde aboute it / he byent them by. Then remoued he to go in to the lande of the Philistines / and wente thowow Samaria. At þe same tyme were there many prests slayne in the battayl / wþch wylfully and without aduylment wente out for to fyghe to get them honoure. And when Judas cam to Jot in the Philistines lande / he byake downe their altars / byent the ymages of their Idols / spoyled þe cyties / & came agayne in to the lande of Juda.

The .viij. Chapter.

Now when kynge Antiochus tra- uayled thowow the hys countrees / he byake þe Elymas in Persia was a noble & plenteous cite in spuer a gold / & that there was in it a very riche temple: where as were clothes / cote armoures & chyldes of golde / wþch Alexander the sonne of Philippe kynge of Macedonia had left be- hynde him. the cytye & to spoyl it / but he was not able: for the cytyens were warned of it / & fought wþ him. And so he fled & departed to great he- uynesse / & came agayne into Babylon. Wher- reouer there came one which brought hyni tydynges in Persye / that his hostles which were in the lande of Juda / were dysuen a- waye / and how that Antiochus went forth first to a greete power / & was dysuen awaye of the Jewes: how that they had wonne the bly- tope / & gotten greatt goodes out of the hoo- ses & perished: how they had byokt downe the abhomy nation / which he set by vpon the altare at Jerusalem / and fenced the Sanc- tuary wþ hys walles / like as it was afore: yee and Bethsura his cite also.

So it chaunced / that when the King had herde these wordes / he was astraigh and grea- ued very sore. Wherfoze he layed him downe vpon his bed / and fell sicke for very sorowe: and all because it had not happened as he had dreymed. And thre contynued he longe / for hys grete was euer moze and moze / so þe he saw he must nedes dye. Wherfoze he sent for his frendes / & sayde vnto the: the slepe is gone fro myne eyes / for the very sorow and heracyon of herte þe I haue. For when I co- lyde in my mynde þe greete aduersite þe I am come vnto / & the floudes of heuynesse which I am come in / wher as afore tyme I was so met / and so greatly set by / by reason of my power: Agayne / consyderyngge the euell þe I haue done at Jerusalem / fro whence I toke all the ryches of golde & syluer þe were in it / and sent to fetch awaye the inhabytours of Jemay without any reason why: I knowe / þe these troubles are come by me for the same cause. And beholde / I must dye with greete sorow in a straunge lande. Then called he for one Philippe a frende of his / whom he made ruler of al his realme / & gaue him þe crowne / his roabe & his rync: that he shulde take his sonne Antiochus vnto hyn / & byngge hyn by / tyll he myght raygne hymself. So the kynge Antiochus dyed there / in the .cxiij. yere. When Antiochus knewe that the kynge was deed / he ordered Antiochus hys sonne (whom he had brought by) to raygne in hys fathers steade / & called hyn Cupator. Now they that were in the castell (at Jerusalem) kepte in the Jewes round about the Sanc- tuary / & fought euer tyll to bothem harme / for the strengthenyngge of the Heathen.

Wherfoze Judas thought to destroye the / and called all the people together / that they myght laye sege vnto them. So they came together in the .cxiij. yere / & beseged them / layinge forth their ordynance and instru- mentes of warre. Then certayne of the that were beseged wente forth (vnto whom some hngodly men of Israel loyned them selues also) and went vnto the kynge sayenge: We wyl longe wyllyt be / or thou punysh and auenge oure brethren: We haue euer benemynded to bothy father & sonne / to walke in his sta- tilles / and to obeye his commaundementes: Wherfoze oure people fel from vs / & wher- soeuer they founde any of vs / they slewe the: and they haue not only medled wþ vs / but wþ all oure countrees: and beholde / this daye are they besegynge the castell at Je- rusalem / and haue made by the stronge holde in Bethsura: And yf thou dost not pzeuente them / they wyl do moze then these / and thou shalt not be able to ouer- come them.

When the kynge herde this / he was very angry / and called all hys frendes / the cap- tynes of hys sote men and of all hys hoze men together. He byed men of waire also out of other realmes and oute of the Isles of the see / which came vnto hyn. And the num- bze of hys host was an hundred thousande sote men / and twenty thousande hozmien / & .xxxij. elephantes well exercised to battayl. These came thowow Idumea vnto Bethsu- ra / and beseged it a longe season / and made dysuerse instrumentes of warre agaynst it. But the Jewes came out and byent them / and fought lyke men. Then departed Judas from the castell at Jerusalem / and remoued the host toward Bethsacaran ouer agaynst the hynge armye.

So the kynge arose befoze the daye / and brought the power of his host in to þe waye to Bethsacaran / where the hostes made the to the battayl / blowingge the trompettes. And to prouoke the elephantes for to fight / they slewed them the sappe of reed grapes and molbertes. And dyscyded the elephantes amonge the hoste: so þe by euery elephante there stode a .viij. men well harnessed / & hel- mettes of stele vpon their heades: yee vnto euery one of the elephantes also / were orde- ned .v. hozmien of the best / which wayted of the elephantes / goynge whete so euer he wente / and departed not from him. Euery elephante was couered wþ a stronge tower of wdd / where vpon were .xxxij. balaunte men wþ weapens to fyghe / & wþin it was a man of Jnde to rule the best.

As for the remynant of the hozmien / he sett them vpon both the sydes in two partes wþ trompettes / to prouoke the hoste / and to fere by such as were slowe in the armye. And when the sunne shone vþ their shildes of golde and stele / the mountaynes glistered agayne at them / and were as byght as the cresettes of fyre. The hynge host also was dyscyded / one parte vþ þe mountaynes / the

the other some beneth: so they went on / cahyng good hede / and keppege their ordie.
And all they that dwell in the lande / were af-fayed at the noyle of their host / when the multitude wente forth / & when the weapes smote together / for h host was both great & mighty. Judas also & his host entred in to the battayll / & flew. & men of the kynges armye. Now whē Eleazar the sonne of Sau-ra dyd le one of the Elephantes decke in the kynges badge / and was a more goodly beest then the other: he thought the kyng should be upon hym / & leoparde him self to deliuer his people / and to get him a perpetual name.

Wherfore he ranne with a corage vnto h Elephante in the myddest of the host / smytynge them downe of both the sydes / & slawe many aboute him. So wente he to the Elephantes sete / & gat hym vnder hym / & slewe him: then fell the Elephante downe vpon hym / & there he dyed. Judas also & his men seing h power of the kyng & the myghtye byolde of his host / departed fro them. And the kynges armye wente by agaynst the towarde Jerusalem / & pitched their ctes in Jewry besyde mount Sion. Mozeouer / the kyng toke truce with them that were in Bethsura.

But whē they came out of h ctye (because they had no bytales within / & the lande laye bntylled) the kyng toke Bethsura / & set men to kepe it / & turned hys host to the place of the Sanctuary / & layd siege to it a grete whyle. Wher he made al maner ordynace: handbowes / byzle dartes / rackets to cast stones / scowppes to shute arrows / & slinges.
The Jewes also made ordynance agaynst theirs / and fought a longe season.

But in the ctye there were no bytales / for it was the seventh yere of the warres / & those beache that remayned in Jewry had eaten by all their stoare. And in the Sanctuary were few men left / for h hunger came so vpon the / that they were scattered abroade euery man to his atone place.

So when Lysias hearde that Philippe (whom Antiochus the kyng whyle he was yet lyuynge / had ordered to byynge by An-tiochus his sonne / that he myght be kyng) was come agayne out of Persia & Medea with the kynges host / & thought to oplayne the kyngdome: He gat him to the kyng in all the haste / & to the captaynes of h host / and sayde: we decrease dayly / & oure bytales are but small. Agayne / the place h we laye siege vnto / is very strong / & it were oure parte to se for the realme. Let vs agre with these men and take truce with them / and with all their people / and graunte them to lyue after their lawe / as they dyd afore. For they be greued & do all these things agaynst vs / because we haue despyed their lawe. So the kyng and the pynces were content / & sent vnto the make peace / & they receyued it. Now when the kyng & the pynces had made an othe to them / they came out of the castell / and h kyng wente by to mount Syon. But whē he sawe that the place was well fenced / he broke the othe that he had made / & commaunded to destroye h wall rounde aboute. Then departed he in all the haste / & returned vnto Antioche / where he founde Philippe hauynge dominyon of h ctye. So he fought agaynst him / & toke h ctye agayne in to his handes.

Demetrius raygneth after he had kyled Antiochus & Lysias. He troubleth the chylde of Israel cho-sew the counsell of certen wyched persons. The prayer of the pynces agaynst Nicano: Judas kyleth Nicano: after he had made his prayer.

Now came Demetrius
the sonne of Seleucus from the ctye of Rome with a small cōpany of men / vnto a ctye of the see coast / & there he bare rule. And it chaunced / that when he came to Antioch the cite of his Progenitors / hys host toke Antiochus & Lysias / to byynge the vnto him. But whē he was tolde him / he sayde: lett me not se their faces. So the host put them to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of his kyngdome / there came vnto him wyched and vngodly men of Israel: whose captayne was Alcimus / that wolde haue bent made hys prest: These men accused the people of Israel vnto the kyng / sayynge: Judas & his brythren haue slayne thy frendes / and byru-ed vs out of oure atone lande. Wherfore sende now some man (to whom thou geuest credyce) that he maye go and se all the destruccyō / which he hath done vnto vs & to the kynges lande / and lett him be punished with all his remours and lauours.

Then the kyng chose Bachides a frende of his / which was a mī of grete power in the realme (beyonde the grete water) and saythfull vnto the kyng: and sent hym to se the destruccyon that Judas had done. And as for that wyched Alcimus / he made him hys prest / and commaunded hym to be auenged of the chylde of Israel. So they stode by / and came with a grete host in to the lande of Juda / sendynge messaungers to Judas & his brythren / & speakynge vnto the in peaceable wordes: but vnder disceate. Wherfore Judas & his people beleued not their sayng / for they sawe h they were come in a grete host.

After this came the scribes together vnto Alcimus & Bachides / trustynge the best vnto the. And Lysias & Alcimus requyred peace of them / sayynge: Alcimus the prest is come of the seide of Iard / how can he disceate vs?

So they gaue the tourynge wordes / & swoze vnto them / & sayde: we wil do you no harme / neither your frendes: & they beleued the. But the very same daye toke they h. men of them & slewe them according to h wordes that are wrytten: They haue cast the flesch of the sanctes / & shed their bloude rounde about Jerusalem / & there was noman that wolde bury them. So there came a grete feare & dyede amonge the people / sayynge: there is neither treuth nor ryghtousnesse in them / for they haue broken the appoyntement & othe that they made. And Bachides remoued his host from Jerusalem / and pyched hys tente at Bethzecha: where he sent forth / & toke many of them that had forsaken hym: He slewe many of the people also / and cast them in to a grete pytt. Then commytted he the lande vnto Alcimus / and left nū of warre wyth hym to helpe him / & Bachides hym self wen-te vnto the kyng. And thus Alcimus defended his hys presthode / and all such as byred Israel / reioyced vnto hym: In so much that they oplayned the lande of Juda / & dyd much ruell vnto the Israelites.

Now when Judas sawe all the myschefe that Alcimus and his company had done (yee moze then the beathen them selues) vnto the Israelites: He wente forth rounde about all the borders of Jewry / and punished those vntaythfull renegates / so that they came no moze out in to the countre. So when Alcimus sawe / that Judas and his people had gotten the vpperhande / and that he was not able to abyde them: he wente agayne to the kyng / and sayde all the worst of them that he coulde. Then the kyng sent Nicano: / one of his chiefe pynces (whych bare ruell wyl vnto Israel) and commaunded hym / that he shulde utterly destroye the people.

So Nicano: came to Jerusalem with a grete host / and sent vnto Judas and hys brythren with frendly wordes (but vnder di-sceate) sayynge: there shall be no warre be-twixte me and you: I will come wyth a few men / to se how ye do / with frendshipe. vpon this he came vnto Judas / and they saluted one another peaceably: but the enemyes were appoynted to take Judas by violence. Ne-uertheles it was tolde Judas / that he came vnto h but vnder disceate: wherfore he gat him awaye from him / & wolde se his face no moze. When Nicano: perceaued that hys counsell was betrayed / he went out to fight agaynst Judas / besyde Capharsalama:
where there were slayne of Nicano: hys host /
h. m. men: the resydue fled vnto the castell
of David.

After this came Nicano: by vnto mount Sion: and the prestes wyth the elders of the people wente forth to salute him peaceably & to shewe him the burnt sacrifices that were offered for the kyng. But he laughed them to scozne / mocked them / defiled their offerin-ges / & spake disdainfully / yee and swoze in his woth / sayynge: If Judas and hys host be not deliuered now in to my handes / as soone as I as euer I come agayne (& saye well) I shal burne vpon this house. With that / wente he out in a grete anger. Then the prestes came in / and stode before the auiter of the temple / wryngynge & sayynge: For so much as thou (O Lorde) hast chosen this house / that thy name might be called vpon therein / & that it shulde be an house of prayer and petycon vnto the people: We abenge of this man & his host / & let them be slayne with h sword: remembze the blasphemyes of them / & suffre them not to continue eny longer.

When Nicano: was gone from Jerusalem. he pitched his tente at Bethozon / & there an host met him out of Syria. And Judas came to Adarfa with hys m. m. / & made his prayer vnto God / sayynge: O Lorde / be cause the messaungers of kyng Senacherib blasphemed the / the angell wente forth / and slew an Cxxx. thousande of them: Euen so destroye thou this host before vs to daye / & other people maye knowe / how that he hath blasphemed thy Sanctuary: & punished him / accordinge to his malicousnesse.

And so the hostes stode the seide / the thirtiende daye of the moneth Adar: & Nica-no: h host was discomfited / and he hym self was fyt slayne in the battayll. When Nica-no: s men of warre sawe that he was kyl-led / they cast awaye their weapes and fled: but the Jewes folowed vpon them an whole dayes iourney / from Adazer vnto Gazara / blowynge with the trompettes / & makinge tokens after the. So the Jewes came forth of all the townes there aboute / & blewe out their byznes vpon them / and turned agaynst them: Thus were they al slayne / and not one of them left.

Then they toke their substauce for a pray and smote of Nicano: s heade and hys ryght hande (whych he helde by so prouidly) and brought it with them / and hanged it by a sc-re Jerusalem. Wherfore the people were exceedingly reioyced / and passed ouer that daie in great gladnesse. And Judas ordered / that the same daye (namely the .xiiij. daye of the moneth Adar) shulde be kepte in myzth eue-ry yere. Thus the lande of Juda was in rest a litle whyle.

¶ Judas

Judas hadde also the fame of the Romaynes / & they were myghty & balaad men / & agreeable to all thinges that are requyred of the / & make peace with all men / which come vnto them / and how they were doughty men of strength. Besydes that it was tolde hym of their battayls & noble actes whych they dyd in Galacia / how they had conquered them / & brought the vnder tribute: & what greates things they had done in Spayne / how that with their wysdome & sober behauiour they had wonne the Wynges off pluer and golde & are there / and obtayned all the lande / wryth other places farre from them: how they had dyscomfited & slayne downe the kynge that came vpon them / from the bittermost parte of the earth / and how other people gaue the tribute euery yere: How they had slayne & ouercome Whispepe & Perles kynge of Cethim / and other mo (in battayll) whych had brought their ordynance agaynst them: how they dyscomfited greates Antiochus kynge of Asia (that wolde nedes fygth with them) hauninge an hundreth and .xx. Elephantes / with hoysmen / charrettes / and a very greates hooft: how they toke hym selfe slayne / and ordered hym (with such as wolde raigne after him) to paye them a greates tribute / yee and to fynde them good luerres and pledge: besydes all this / how they had taken from him India / Media and Lydia (his best landes) & geuen them to kynge Demetrius. Agayne / how they perceauyng that the Grekes were comynge to bere them: sent agaynst them a captayne of an hooft / which gaue them battayll / slawe many of them / led awaye their wyues and chyldren captiue / spoiled them / toke possession of their lande / destroyed their stronge holdes / and subdued them to be their bonde men / vnto this daye: Mozeouer / how that as for other kynngdomes & fles / whych somtyme with stode them / they destroyed the / & brought them vnder their dominion: But helped euer their stonre frendes & those that were confederate with them / and conquered kynngdomes both farre & nye: & that who so euer herde of their renoune / was afrayed of them: for whō they wolde helpe to their kynngdomes / those raigned: & whō it lyked not the to raigne / they put him downe: And how they were come to greates preeminence: hauninge no kynge amonge them / neether any man clothed in purple / to be magnified there thorow but had ordered them selues a parliament / where in there sat iiii. C. and .xx. Senatours daylie vpon a counsell / to dispatch euer a busynesse of the people / & to kepe good order: And how that euery yere they chose a Mayre / to haue the gouernance of all their lande: to whō euery mā was obedient / & & there was neether euell will neer discencion amonge them. Then Judas chose Eupolemus the sonne of Thon the sonne of Jacob / & Jason the sonne of Eleazar / & sent them vnto Rome for to make frendshipe & a bonde of loue wth them: & they might take from them a bondage of Grekes / for & the Jewes sawe that the Grekes wolde subdue the kyngdome of Israel. So they went vnto Rome (a very greates iourney) & came in to the Parliament / & sayde: Judas Machabeus with his brethren & the people of the Jewes hath sent vs vnto you / to make a bonde of frendshipe & peace with you / & ye to note vs as your louers & frendes. And the matter pleased the Romaynes ryght well / wherfore it was wrytten vpon of which & Romaynes made a wrytting in tables of Latyn & sent it to Jerusalem: & they might haue by them a memorial of the same peace & bonde of frendshipe / after this maner: God saue the Romaynes & the people of the Jewes both by see & by lande / & hepe & swearde & enemy fro them for euermore. If there come fyrst eny warre vpon the Romaynes or eny of their frendes thorow out all their dominion & people of the Jewes shal helpe the (as the tyme requi- reth) & that wth all their herres. Also they shal neether geue nor sende vnto their enemies vi- tales / weapens / money ner shippes: but fulfill this charge at the Romaynes pleasure / & take nothing fro them therfore. Agayne yf the people of the Jewes happē first to haue warre / the Romaynes shal stande by them wth a good wil / according as the tyme wil suffice. Neether shal they geue vnto the Jewes enemies / vi- tales / weapens / money ner shippes. Thus are the Romaynes content to do / & shal fulfill their charge without eny discreete.

Accordinge to these articles / the Romaynes made the bonde wryth the Jewes. Now after these articles (sayde they) yf eny of the parties wil put to the / or take eny thyng fro them: they shal do it wryth the consente of both: & whatsoeuer they adde vnto them or take from them / it shal stande fast. And as touchyng the euell that Demetrius hath done vnto the Jewes / we haue wrytten vnto him / sayeng: wherfore layest thou thy heuy poeke vpon the Jewes oure frendes and louers? If they make eny complaynte of the agayne vnto vs / we shal defende them / and fygth with the by see and by lande.

The .x. Chapter.

In the meane season when Deme- trius herde that Dicanor & his hooft was slayne in the felde / he proceeded further to sende Bachides & Alcymus agayne in to Jewry / & those that were in the right wyng of his hooft / wryth the. So they wente forth by the waye that ledeth vnto Galgala / and pitched their tentes before Bethsaioth which is in Arbellis / & wanne a citie / & slawe moch people. In the first moneth of the .xlii. yere / they brought their hooft to Jerusalem / & rose vp & came to Berra / wryth .xx. fote men / & .ii. M. hoysmen.

Now Judas had pitched his tente at Las- sa / wryth thez thousande chosen men. And when they sawe the multitude of the other army that it was so greates / they were soze a- frayed / & many conuered them selues out of the hooft / In so moch that there abode no mo of them but .iiij. C. men. When Judas sawe that his hooft slayed him / and that he must ne- des fygth: it brake his hert / that he had no tyme to gather them together: wherfore the mā was in extreme trouble. Neuertheles he sayde vnto them / that remayned with hym: wryth let vs go agaynst oure enemies / perad- uenture we shal be able to fygth wryth them. But they wolde haue stopped him / sayeng: we shal not be able / therfore let vs now saue oure lyues / and turne agayne to our brethren / and then wryll we fygth agaynst them / for we are here but fewe. And Judas sayde: God wryth byd / that we shal be from them. Wher- fore yf oure tyme be come / lett vs byr man- fully for oure brethren / and lett vs not slayne our honoure. When the hooft remoued out of the tentes / & stode agaynst them. The hoysmen were deuyded in two partes: the lyngre ca- uers & the archeys wente before the hooft / & all the myghtye men were formed in the fel- de. Bachides himself was in the right wyng of the battell / and the hooft byr we nye in two partes / and blew the trompettes. They of Judas syde blew the trompettes also / & the earth shoke at the noyse of the hooftes / and they stoke a felde from the moztow til nyght. And when Judas sawe that Bachides hooft was strongest of the right syde / he toke wryth hym all the hardy men / and brake the ryght wyng of their ordre / and folowed vpon them vnto the mount Azot.

Now when they wryth were of the lefte wyng / sawe that the right syde was discom- fited / they persecuted Judas and them that were wryth hym. When was there a soze bat- tayll / for many were slayne and wounded of both the parties / Judas also hymself was hylled / and the remnant fled. So Jonathan and Symon toke Judas their brother / and buried him in his fathers sepulchre in the cy- tie of Modin. And all the people of Israel made greates lamentacion for him / and mour- ned longe / sayeng: Alas / that this worthy shulde be slayne / which deliuered the people of Israel. As for other thinges pertynyng to the battayls of Judas / the noble actes & he did & of his worthynesse: they are not wryt- ten / for they were very many.

And after the death of Judas / wryched m^r Joseph. cap. .18. came by in all the coastes of Israel / and therel^y .xij. Antig. arose all such as wryth the yngodlynesse. In those dayes was there a greates dearth in the lande / and all the countre gaue ouer the sel- ues & theirs vnto Bachides. So Bachides chose wryched men / and made them lordes in the lande. These fought out and made searce for Judas frendes / and brought them vnto Bachides: which auenged him self vpon them wryth greates despise. And there came so greates trouble in Israel / as was not sens the tyme that no prophet was sene there.

Then came all Judas frendes together / & sayde vnto Jonathan: for so moch as thy brother Judas is deed / there is none lyke him to go forth agaynst our enemy / agaynst Bachides / and such as are aduersaries vnto oure people. Wherfore this daye we chose the for him / to be oure pryncce and captayne to ordre oure battell. And Jonathan toke the gouernance vpon hym at the same tyme / and ruled in steade of his brother Judas. When Bachides gatt knowlege therof / he sought for to slep hym: But Jonathan and Symon his brother / perceauyng that / fled in to the wilderness of Checua wryth all their company / and pitched their tentes by the wa- ter pole of Asphar.

Which when Bachides vnderstode / he came ouer Jordan wryth all his hooft vpon the Sabbath daye. Now had Jonathan sent his brother Thon (a captayne of the people) to praye his frendes the Nabuthites / & they wolde sende them their ordynance / for they had moch. So the chyldren of Tamyze came out of Madaba / and toke Thon and all that he had / and wente their waye wrythal. Then came word vnto Jonathan and Symon his brother / that the chyldren of Tamyze made a greates maryage / and brought the byde from Madaba wryth greates pompe: for she was daughter to one of the noblest pryn- ces of Canaan. Wherfore they remembred the bloude of Thon their brother / and wente by / and hid them selues vnder the shadowe of the mountayne.

So they lift vp their eyes / and lohed: and beholde / there was moch a do / and greates re- payre: for the bydegrome came forth / & his frendes & his brethren met them wryth tym- 811. pany panyes/instrumentes of musich/ and many weapens. Then Jonathan and they that were with him/rose out of their louthyng places agaynst them/ and slew many of them. As for the remnant/they fled in the to most saynes/ and they toke all their substance. Thus the mariage was turned to mourning/ and the noyse of their melody in to lamentation. And so when they had auenged the bloude of they brother/ they turned agayne into Jordan.

Bachides hearinge this/ came vnto the very border of Jordan with a greates power vpon the Sabbath daye. And Jonathan sayde to his company: lett vs get vp/ & fight agaynst our enemies: for it standeth not with vs todaye/as in tymes past: Beholde/ our enemies are in our waye/ the water of Jordan vpon the one syde of vs/ with banners/ fennes & wooddes of the other syde/ so there is no place for vs to departe vnto. Wherfore crye now vnto heauen/ & ye maye be deliuered from the power of youre enemies. So they stroke the battell. And Jonathan stretched out his hande to smyte Bachides/ but he fled backward. Then Jonathan & they that were with him leaped in to Jordan/ & swymmed ouer Jordan vnto hym/ & there were slayne of Bachides syde that daye/ a thousande men.

Wherfore Bachides with his host turned agayne to Jerusalem/ & buyde by the castels & strong holdes that were in Jewry/ Jericho/ Emmaus/ Bethozon/ Bethell/ Chaminata/ Phara & Copo/ with hye walles/ with portes & dooers: & sett men to kepe them/ that they might blythe their malice vpon Israel. He walled by Bethsurah/ Gazarah & the castell at Jerusalem also/ & prouided them with men & vitayles: He toke also the chiefe men sonnes in the countre for pledges/ & put them in the castell at Jerusalem to be kepte.

After warde in the .C. liij. yere in the seconde moneth/ Alcimus commaunded/ that the walles of the ynnmost Sanctuary shoulde be destroyed/ & the buyldinges of the prophetes also. And when he beganne to destroye them the thinges that he wente about/ were hindered for he was smytten with a palsy/ & his mouth shut/ so that he coulde nomore speake ner commaunde any of his house concerning his buyldinge. Thus dyed Alcimus in great mystry at the same tyme. And whē Bachides sawe that Alcimus was deed/ he turned agayne to the kinge/ & so the lande was in rest .ij. yeres. When all the vngodly men helde a counsell/ sayenge: Beholde/ Jonathan & his company are at ease/ & dwell without care. Wherfore lett vs bringe Bachides hither/ & he shall take them all in one night.

So they wente and gaue Bachides theyr cosell/ which arose to come to a great host/ & sent letters pryncely to his adherentes which were in Jewry/ to take Jonathan & those that were with him: but they myght not/ for the other had gotten knowlege of theyr deuyce. And Jonathan toke .L. men of the countre/ (which were the ryng leaders of them) & slew them. Then Jonathan & Symon with their company departed vnto the cytye Bethbessen which lyeth in the wyldernes/ and repayed the decaye therof/ & made it stronge. When Bachides knewe this/ he gathered all his host/ & sent word to them that were of Jewry. The came he & layed siege to Bethbessen & fought agaynst it a longe season/ & made instrumentes of warre. Now Jonathan lette his brother Symon in the cytye/ and wente forth himself in to the countre/ & came with a certayne nombre/ and slew Odades & his brethren and the chyldre of Phateron in their tentes: so that he beganne to be stronge/ and to increase in power.

As for Symon & his company/ they were out of the cytye/ and byent by the instrumentes of warre/ and fought agaynst Bachides/ and byscompted hym. And Bachides was sore berred/ because his counsell and traualle was in bayne. Wherfore he was wroth at the wicked men (that gaue hym counsell to come in to their lande) and slew many of them. Then purposed he with his company to go awaye in to his awne countre: wherof when Jonathan had knowlege/ he sent embassours vnto hym/ for to make peace with him/ that he shoulde deliuer hym his prisoners agayne. To the whych Bachides consented gladly/ & dyd accordinge to his desyre: yee and made an othe/ that he shoulde neuer do hym harme all the dayes of his lyfe. So he restored vnto hym all the prisoners that he had taken out of the lande of Juda/ and then turned and wente bys waye in to his awne lande/ nether proceded he any further to come vnto the borders of Juda. Thus Israel had more warre. And Jonathan dwelt at Machmas/ and beganne there to gouerne the people/ and destroyed the vngodly men out of Israel.

¶ Demetrius desyeth to haue peace with Jonathan. Alexander moueth warre agaynst Demetrius. Demetrius is slayne. The frendshyppe of Ptolomeus & Alexander.

The .x. Chapter.

In the .C. liij. yere came Alexander the sonne of noble Antioch & toke Ptolomeus/ whose cytyens receaued him & there he reigned. Whē Demetrius herde therof/ he gathered an exceeding greates host/ and went forth agaynst

Of the Mithabees.

agaynst him to fight. Wherfore Demetrius sent letters vnto Jonathan to louynge wordes/ & prayde hym greatly. For he sayde: we will fyrst make peace with hym/ before he bynde hym self with Alexander agaynst vs: els he shall remembre the euill that we haue done agaynst hym/ his brother & his people. And so he gaue Jonathan leue together with his host/ to make weapens/ and to be confederate with him/ & commaunded the pledges that were in the castell/ to be deliuered vnto him.

Then came Jonathan to Jerusalem/ and red the letters in the audience of all the people/ and of them that were in the castell. And therfore were they sore afrayed/ because they herde/ that the kynge had geue him licence to gather an host. Thus were the pledges deliuered vnto Jonathan/ which restored the to their elders. Jonathan also dwelt at Jerusalem/ & beganne to buyde by and to repaye the cite: commaunding the woich men/ to wall it/ and the mount Sion round aboute with fre stone/ to be a stronge holde/ and so they dyd. As for the death that were in the castels which Bachides had made by/ they fled: so that euery man left the place/ & wente into his awne countre. Only at Bethsura remayned certayne of the Jewes/ which had forsake the lawe & commaundementes of God/ for Bethsura was their refuge.

Now when kynge Alexander herde of the promyses that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathan/ and when it was tolde hym of the battels & noble actes/ whych he and his brethren had done/ and of the greates traualles that they had taken: he sayde: where shall we fynde such a man? well/ we will make hym our frende/ & be confederate with him. And this he wrote a lettre vnto hym/ with these wordes: kynge Alexander saluteth his brother Jonathan. We haue herde of the/ that thou art a valiant man/ and mete to be our frende: wherfore this daye we ordeine the to be the hye priest of the people/ and to be called the kynges frende. (Upon this/ he sente hym a purple clothinge/ & a crowne of golde) that thou mayest confidre what is for our profyt/ & kepe frendshyppe toward vs.

So in the .liij. moneth of the .C. liij. yere vnto the solempne feast daye of the tabernacles/ Jonathan put the holy rayment vpon him. Then gathered he an host/ & made many weapens. Whych when Demetrius herde/ he was maruelous sore/ & sayde: alas/ what haue we done/ that Alexander hath preuented vs in gettinge the frendshyppe of the Jewes/ for his awne defence? Yet will I write louynge vnto hym also/ yee & promyse the bygnynges & rewardes/ that they maye be of my syde. Wherupon he wrote vnto the these wordes: kynge Demetrius sendeth greetynge vnto the people of the Jewes. Where as ye haue kepte your couenaunt toward vs/ & continued in our frendshyppe/ not enclinyng to our enemies we were glad/ when we herde therof. Wherfore remayne still & be saythfull to vs: & we shall well recompense you for the thinges/ that ye haue done on our partye: we shall release you of many charges/ and geue you rewardes. And now I discharge you & all the Jewes from tributes/ & for geue you the customes of salt/ & release you of the crowne taxes/ of the thirde parte of seide/ and half of the frute of trees/ which is myne about dwety. These I leaue for you/ from this daye forth: so that they shall not be taken of the lande of Juda ner of the thre cyties which are added therunto out of Samaria & Galilee/ from this daye forth for euermore. Jerusalem also with all thinges belonging thereto/ shall be holy & free/ yee the tythes & tributes shall pertaine vnto it. As for the power of the castell which is at Jerusalem/ I remytte & geue it vnto the hye priest/ & he maye set in it suche men/ as he shall chose to kepe it. I freely deliuer all the Jewes that are prisoners thorow out all my realme: so that euery one of them shalbe free from paying any tribute/ yee euery of their catell.

All the solempne feastes/ Sabbathes/ new mones/ the dayes appoynted/ the thre dayes before and after the feast shalbe free for all the Jewes in my realme: so that in them no man shal haue power to do any thing/ or to moue any buyldinge agaynst any of the in any manner of cause. Where shall. xxiij. Also of the Jewes he written by in the kinges host/ and haue their wages payed/ as all other men of warre of the kynges shoulde haue: and of them shalbe ordeined certayne/ to kepe the kynges strong holdes: yee and some of them shalbe set ouer the kynges buyldinge/ & they maye saythfully deale with the same. The Jewes also shal haue princes of their awne/ and walcke in their awne lawes/ as the king hath commaunded in the lande of Juda.

And the thre cyties that are fallen vnto Jewrye from the countre of Samaria and Galilee: shalbe taken as Jewrye/ and be under one: nether be subiecte to any straunge lord/ but to the hye priest. As for Ptolomeus and the lande pertainynge thereto/ I geue it vnto the Sanctuary at Jerusalem/ for the necessary expences of the holy thinges. More ouer/ I will geue euery yere. x. thousand .C. syckles of syluer out of the kynges cheker (whych pertaineth vnto me) to the woiche of the temple: yee and loke what remayneth (which they that had our matters in hande in tymes past/ haue not payed) & same shall they geue vnto them also. And besides all this / the .v. .ij. cycles whych they toke yearly of the rentes of the Sanctuary / shall belonge vnto the prestes that do seruice.

Item / whosoever they be that steale vnto the temple at Jerusalem or within the liberties thereof / where as they are fallen in to the kynges daunger for any manner of butynes / they shall be pardoned / and all the goodes that they haue in my realme / shall be fre. For the buydyng also & repayryng of the worke of the Sanctuary / expenses shall be geuen out of the kynges chequer: Yee and for the makinge of the walles rounde aboute Jerusalem / for the byldyng downe of the olde / and for the settinge vp of the stronge holdes in Jewry / that & charges be geuen out of the kynges chequer.

1. Par. 5. 1. 2.

But when Jonathan and the people heard these wordes / they gaue no credence vnto them / nether receaued them: for they remembred the greates wickednesse that he had done vnto Israel / and how soe he had vexed the. Wherfore they agreed vnto Alexander / for he was a prince that hadde ake frendly wyth them / and so they stode by him allwaye. The gathered kyng Alexander a greates host / & brought his armye agaynst Demetrius.

Josephus. cap. 5. lib. 11. 2.

So the two kynges stroke battayll together / but Demetrius host fled / and Alexander folowed after and fell vpon them. A myghty soe felde was it / continuinge till the Sonne wente downe / and Demetrius was slayne the same daye.

And Alexander sente embassours vnto Ptolomey the kyng of Egypte wth these wordes / sayenge: For so moch as I am come agayne to my realme / and am set in the trone of my progenytours / and haue gotten the dominyon ouer comed Demetrius / conquered the lande / and stryken a felde wyth hym / so that we haue discomfyted both hym and his host / and set in the trone of his kyngdome: Let vs now make frendshipe together / geue me thy daughter to wyfe: so shall I be thy sonne in lawe / and both geue the rewarde / and her greates dignyte. Ptolomey the kyng gaue answere / sayenge: Happy be the daye wherin thou art come agayne to the lande of thy progenytours / and sett in the trone of thy kyngdome. As now wyll I fulfill thy wyrtynge: but mete me at Ptolomais / & we maye be one another / and that I maye marry my daughter vnto the accorde to thy desire. So Ptolomey wete out of Egypte wyth his daughter Cleopatra / & came vnto Ptolomais in the .x. .ij. yeare: where kyng Alexander met hym / and he gaue Alexander his daughter Cleopatra / & married them at Ptolomais wyth greates joye / lyke as the manner of kynges is to be. Then wrote kyng Alexander vnto Jonathan / that he shoulde come and mete him. So he wente honozably vnto Ptolomais / and there he met the two kynges / and gaue them greates presentes of golde and syluer / and soude sauoure in their syght. And there came together agaynst Jonathan certayne wicked men & ingracious persones of Israel / makinge complayntes of hym / but the kyng regarded them not. As for Jonathan / the kyng commaunded to take of his garments / and to clothe hym in purple: and to theyr by. Then the kyng appointed hym to syt by hym / and sayde vnto his prynces: Go wyth hym in to the myddell of the ctyte / and make a proclamacion / that no man complayne agaynst him of any matter / and that no man trouble him for any manner of cause.

So it happened that when his accusers sawe the wyrtynge whych was proclaimed of hym / & that he was clothed in purple: they fled euerychone. And the kyng made moch of hym / wrote hym amonge his chere frendes / made hym a duke / and partaker of his domynyon. Thus Jonathan wente agayne to Jerusalem wyth peace and gladnesse. In the .x. .ij. yeare came Demetrius the sonne of Demetrius from Syria in to his fathers lande: wherof when Alexander herde tell / he was syght soe / and returned vnto Antioche. And Demetrius chose Appollonius (whych had the gouernance of Celosyria) to be his captayne.

So he gathered a greates host and came vnto Tarnis / and sende wordes vnto Jonathan the hye pryest / sayenge: Warrest thou stande by thy self alone? As for me / I am but laughed to scorne and shamed / because thou proudest thy strength agaynst vs in the most tayne. Now therfore if thou trustest in thine awne strength / come downe to vs in to the playne felde / and there lett vs proue oure strength together: thou shalt synde / & I haue baleant men of warre wyth me: and shalt knowe whom I am / and the other that stande by me.

Whych saye / that poure sote is not able to stande before oure face / for thy fathers haue bene twyfe chased in to their awne lande. And now / how wyll thou be able to abyde so greates an host of bozsmen and foremen in the felde / where as is nether rocke / stone nor place to ste vnto?

When Jonathan herde the wordes of Appollonius / he was moued in his mynde: wherfore he chose .x. thousande men and wete out of Jerusalem / and Symon his brother met hym for to helpe hym: And they pitched their tentes at Joppa / but the ctyte kepte hym forth hym forth / for Joppa was an holde of Appollonius. Then Jonathan layde sege to it / and they that were in the ctyte / for very feare let hym in: and so Jonathan wane Joppa. Appollonius hearpyng of this / toke the thousande horse men / with a greates host of fote / & wete as though he wolde go to Azotus / and came immediatly in to the playne felde: because he had so many bozsmen / & put his trust in them. So Jonathan folowed vpon hym to Azotus / and there they stroke the battayll. Now had Appollonius leste a thousande bozsmen behinde the pyruel in the felde. And when Jonathan knew that soch wayte was layde behynde them / they went rounde aboute the enemyes host / and shot darter at the people from the moynyng to the euenyng. As for Jonathan people / they kepte their ordze as he had commaunded them / and the enemyes hoyses were euer labouryng.

Then brought Symon forth his host / & set them agaynst the fote men. For the bozsmen were wery allready. So he discomfyted them / and they fled. And they that were scattered in the felde / gat them to Azotus / and came in to the temple of Bagon their god / that they myght there saue their lyues. But Jonathan sett fyre vpon Azotus and all the ctytes rounde aboute it / & toke their goodes / and byent by the temple of Bagon wyth all them that were fled in to it.

Thus were slayne and byent well nyne. thysse thousande men. So Jonathan remoued the hoste from thence / and brought them to Ascalon: where the men of the cite came forth / and met hym with greates joye. After this wente Jonathan and his hoste agayne to Jerusalem / wyth greates substaunce of good. And when kyng Alexander herde these thynges / he thought to do Jonathan moze wyrtynge / and sent him a colar of golde / as the vse is to be geuen vnto such as are of the kynges nerte bloude. He gaue hym also the ctyte of Accaron (wyth the landes belonyng therto) in possession.

The dyscrecyon betwixte Ptolomey & Alexander his sonne in lawe. The death of Alexander. Demetrius raygneth after the deeth of Ptolomey. Symon is beleghed of Jonathan. Demetrius seing that no mde ressted him / sende his armye agayne. Cephis moneth Antiochus agaynst Demetrius. Demetrius is deliuered by the succoure of Jonathan. After his deliuerance he breaketh his couenaunt that he had made.

The .x. Chapter.

And the kyng of Egypte gathered an hoste / lyke the lande that lyeth vpon the see thore / and many shippes: & wete aboute thozow disceate to optayne the kyngdome of Alexander / and to loyne it vnto his awne realme. vpon this he toke his sournye in to Syria / and was letten in to the ctytes / & men came forth to mete him: for kyng Alexander had commaunded them so to do / because he was his father in lawe. Now when Ptolomey entred in to any ctyte / he letten men of warre to kepe it / & this he byd thozow out all the ctytes. And when he came to Azotus / they shewed hym the temple of Bagon and Azotus that was byent by / with the other thynges whych were destroyed / the deeth bodyes cast abrode / & the graues that they had made by the waye syde / for soch as were slayne in the felde: And tolde the kyng that Jonathan had done all these thynges / to the intent they myght gett hym euell wyll. But the kyng sayde not a worde therto. And Jonathan met the kyng wyth greates honoure at Joppa / where they saluted one another / & toke their rest. So when Jonathan had gone wyth the kyng / vnto the water that was called Eleutherus / he turned agayne to Jerusalem. Now Ptolomey had gotten the dominion of the ctytes vnto Seleucia vpon the see coast / ymagynyng wicked counceils agaynst Alexander / & sent embassours vnto Demetrius / sayng: Come / lett vs make a bonde betwixte vs / so shall I geue the my daughter that Alexander hath / and thou shalt raygne in thy fathers kyngdome. I repente that I gaue Alexander my daughter / for he goeth aboute to sle me. And thus he sleaundzed Alexander / because he wolde haue had his realme.

Thus he toke his daughter from him / gaue her vnto Demetrius / and forsoke Alexander / so that his malice was openly knowne. And Ptolomey came to Antioche / where he set two crownes vpon his awne head: the crowne of Egypte and of Asia. In the meane season was kyng Alexander in Cilicia / for they dwelt in those places / had rebelled agaynst hym. But when Alexander herde of this / he came to warre agaynst him. So kyng Ptolomey brought forth his host & met hym wyth a myghty power / and chased hym awaye. Then fled Alexander in to Araby / there to be defended / & kyng Ptolomeys honoure increased. And Zabbiel the Arabian smote of Alexanders head / & sent it vnto Ptolomey. But the ctyte dore after / byd kyng Ptolomey hym selfe: and they whom he had sett in the stronge holdes / were slayne of those that were within the ctytes. And Demetrius raygned in the hundredth and seven and fyrty yeare.

At the same tyme gathered Jonathan them that were in Jewry to laye sege vnto the castell whych was at Jerusalem / and so they made many instrumentes of warre agaynst it. Then wente there certayne brigodly persones (whych hated their awne people) vnto kyng Demetrius / and tolde hym / that that Jonathan beseged the castell. So whē he herde it, he was angrie / & immediately came vnto Ptolomais / & wrote vnto Jonathan / & he shulde not laye sege to þe castell / but come & speake with hym in all the haste. Neuertheles when Jonathan herde this he comaded to besege it. He chose also certayne of the elders & prestes of Israel / & put him self in the parell / & toke with him golde / siluer / clothe / & diuerse presentes: & wente to Ptolomais vnto the kinge / & founde him gracious.

And though certayne vngodly men of his awne people made cōplayntes vpon him / yet the kynge intreated him / lyke as his predecessours had done before: & promoted hym in the sight of all his frendes / confirmed hym in the hys p̄senthode with all the worshippe þe he had afore / & made him his chiefe frende. Jonathan also desyred the kynge that he wolde make Jewry fre / with the thye head cycles of Samaria & the landes pertaynyng therto: vpon this dyd Jonathan promise hym thye talents. Where vnto the kynge consented / & gaue Jonathan wrytyng of the same / consernyng these wordes. Kynge Demetrius sendeth grettinge vnto his brother Jonathan & to the people of the Jewes. Ide sende you here a cōpy of the lētre whych we dyd wryte vnto oure elder Lathenus / concerning you that ye shulde knowe it.

Kynge Demetrius sendeth grettinge vnto Lathenus his elder. For the saythfulnes þe oure frendes the people of the Jewes kepe vnto vs / & for the lounge kynndesse whych they beare toward vs: we are determed to do them good. Wherfore we ordene all the coastes of Ierupe wryth. I. cytyes / Lyda and Ramatha (whych are added vnto Jewry & Samaria) & all the landes pertayning therto: to be frely separated for soch as do sacrifice in Ierusalem: both concernyng the paymētes whych the kynge toke yearly afore tyme / & the scutes also of the earth & trees. As for other tithes & tributes that belonged vnto vs / we discharge them therof from this tyme forth. In lyke maner we graunte vnto them all the customes of salt & crowne taxes whych were brought vnto vs. And this freedom shall they haue firme & stedfast / from this tyme forth for euermore. Wherfore se þe make a cōpy of these our letters / & deliuer it vnto Jonathan: þe it maye be kepte vpon þe holy mount in a conuenient place.

After this / when Demetrius the kynge sawe that his lande was in rest / & that no resistance was made hym: he sent awaye all his hoste euery man to his awne place / excepte an armie of straungers / whom he brought from the Isles of the Heathen / wher for al his fathers hoste had euell wil at him.

Now was there one Crispion (that had bene of Alexanders parte afore) whych when he sawe that all the hoste murmured agaynst Demetrius: he wente to Emalcuel the Arabian (that brought by Antiochus the sonne of Alexander) & laye sege vpon him / to deliuer him this ydg. Antiochus: that he might raygne in his fathers steade. He tolde hym also what greute euell Demetrius had done / and how his men of warre loued him not: & so remayned there a longe season.

And Jonathan sent vnto kynge Demetrius / to d̄yue them out whych were in the castell at Ierusalem & in the other refuges for they dyd Israel greute harme. So Demetrius sent word vnto Jonathan / sayenge: I wil not only do these thynges for the and thy people / but at tyme conuenient I will do both the & thy people greute worshippe. But now thou shalt do me a pleasure / yf thou wilt send me men to helpe me: for all myne armie is gone from me. So Jonathan sent hym. I. strong men vnto Antioche / and they came vnto the kinge / wherfore the kynge was very glad at their cōmyng. But they that were of the cite (euen an. Cxx. thousande men) gathered them together / & wolde haue slayne the kynge / whych fled in to his court: and the citeyns kepte the stretes of the cite / and beganne to fyght.

When the kynge called for the Jewes helpe / whych came vnto hym al together / & wete abode thowow the cytye / & stode the same daye an. C. men: set fyre vnto the cite / gat many spoiles in that daye / & deliuered the kinge. So when the citeyns sawe that the Jewes had gotten their wil of the cytye / and they them selues dyspoyned of their purpose they made their supplicacion vnto the kinge sayenge: Graunte vs peace / and lett the Jewes cease from troubling vs and the cytye / & vpon this they cast awaye their weapons. Thus they made peace / and the Jewes gat greute worshippe in the syght of the kynge / & in the sight of all that were in his realme / & were spoken of thowow out the kynghome: and so they came agayne to Ierusalem with greute goodes.

So the king Demetrius sat in the throne of his kingdome / and had peace in his lande. Neuertheles he dyssembled in all that euer he spake / & with dyuise him self from Jonathan / neither rewarded hym accordyng to the benefytes whych he had done for hym / but troubled him very sore. After this came Crispion agayne with yonge Antiochus / whych raygned & was crowned kynge. When they gathered vnto him all the men of warre / whā Demetrius had put awaye: these fought agaynst Demetrius / whych fled & turned hys backe. So Crispion toke the elephant / & Iuanne Antioche. And yonge Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathan / sayenge: I conserne the in thy p̄senthode / & make the ruler of iij. countrees / & thou mayest be a frende of þe kinges. vpon this he sent him golden vessels to be serued in / & gaue him leue to d̄ynke in golde to be clothed in purple / and to were a colat of golde / He made hys brother Symon also captayne / from the coastes of Cyprus vnto þe borders of Egypte. Then Jonathan toke hys iourney / & wente thowow the cytyes beyonde the water (of Iordane) & all the men of warre of Syria gathered them vnto hym for to helpe hym. So he came vnto Ascalon / and they of the cytye receaued hym honorably: & from thence wente he vnto Gaza / but they wolde not lett him in / wherfore he layed sege vnto it burninge by and spoilyng the places that were aboute the cytye.

And the citeyns of Gaza submytted them selues vnto Jonathan / whych made peace wth them / but toke of their sonnes to p̄leage / sent them to Ierusalem / and wente thowow the countre vnto Damascus. Now when Jonathan herde that Demetrius prynces were come in to Cades (whych is in Galilee) with a great hoste / purposing to put Demetrius out from medlynge in the realme: he came agaynst them / and lette Symon his brother in the lande: whych came to Bethsura / and layed sege to it a longe season / and discomfited the. So they desyred to haue peace with him / whych he graunted them / & afterwarde put the out fro thence / toke þe cite / & set men to kepe it. And Jonathan with his hoste came to þe water of Genesar / & by tymes in þe morninge gat thē to the playne felde of Azot.

And beholde / the hostes of the Heathen met thē in the felde / & layed watch for thē in the mountaynes: so þe when Jonathan came agaynst thē / the other (whych were layed to watch) rose out of their places / & fought / & they that were of Jonathan syde / slew euery man: & there was not one of thē left / excepte Machabias the sonne of Abisalon / and Judas the sonne of Calphit the captayne of the hoste. When Jonathan rente his clothes / layed earth vnto his head / made hys prayer / & turned agayne to thē in þe felde: wher they fought together / and he put them to flyght. Now when his awne men þe were fled / saw this: they turned agayne vnto him / & helped him to folowe vpon all their enemyes vnto their tentes at Cades. So there were slayne of the Heathen the same daye. I. M. men / & Jonathan turned agayne to Ierusalem. Jonathan sendeth Embassadours to Rome & to the people of Sparta to renue their couenant of frendshipp. Jonathan putteth to fynde the prynces of Demetrius. Crispion taketh Jonathan by deceite.

The. xij. Chapter.

Jonathan seinge that þe tyme was mete for him / chose certayne men & sent them vnto Rome for to sta- blysh & to renue the frendshipp with them. He sent lētres also vnto Sparta / & to other places in lyke maner. So they wente vnto Rome / & entered into the coscell / & sayde: Jonathan the hys prest & the people of the Jewes sent vs vnto you / for to renue the olde frendshipp & bonde of loue. vnto this the Romaynes gaue them fre passp̄tes / þe men shulde lede them home into the lande of Iuda peaceably. And this is the cōpy of the lētres þe Jonathan wrote vnto þe Spartans: Jonathan the hys prest with þe elders / prestes / & the other people of the Jewes / sende grettinge vnto the Spartans their brethren. There were lētres sente longe agoo vnto Onias the hys prest / & to Arius / whych than raygned amōge you: þe ye are oure brethren / as the wrytyng made therupon / specifieth. And Onias entreated the embassadour that was sent / honorably / & receaued the lētres: wherethere was mencyō made of þe bonde of loue & frendshipp. But as for vs / we hede no such wrytynges: for whych we haue þe holy booke of scripture in oure handes to our cō- solte. Neuertheles we had rather sende vnto you / for the renuyng of the brotherhode and frendshipp: lest we shulde be straunge vnto you / for it is longe / sens the tyme þe ye sent wordes vnto vs. Wherfore in þe sacrifices þe we offe & other ceremonies vnto the hys solempne dayes and other / we alwaye remembre you without ceasyng (like as reason is / & as it becometh vs to thynke vnto our brethren) yet and are reghyt glad of youre prosperous honoure.

And though we haue had greute troubles and warres / so that the kynges aboute vs haue foughten agaynst vs: yet wolde we not be greuous vnto you ner to other of our louers and frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe from heauen / so that we are deliuered / & oure enemyes subdued. Wherfore we chose Dumenius the sonne of Antiochus and Antipater the sonne of Taron / and sent them vnto the Romaynes / for to renue the olde bonde of frendshipp and loue wth them. We commaunded them also to come vnto you / to salute you / and to deliuer you oure lētres / concernyng the renouacion of oure brotherhode. And now ye shall do right well / to geue vs an answer there vnto.

And this is the cōpy of the wrytyng / & whych Arius the kynge of Sparta sent vnto Onias: Arius kynge of þe Spartans sendeth grettinge vnto Onias the hys prest. It is founde in wrytyng / that the Spartans and Ietwes are brythē / and come out of the generacyō of Abrahā. And now for so moch as this is come to our knowledg / ye shal do well / to wyte into vs of youre prosperiteye.

As for vs / we haue wyttē our mynde unto you: Our catell and goodes are yours / and yours ours. These thynges haue we commaunded to be shewed unto you.

When Jonathas herde that Demetrius prynces were come forth to fyght agaynst hym/with a greater hoost then afoze/he wée from Jerusalem/ & met them in the lande of Demath/for he gaue thei not space to come into his awne coultre. And he sent spyes into their tentes/ whych came agayne & tolde hym/ that they were appoynted to come by him in the nyght season. wherfoze when the sunne was gone downe/ Jonathas commaunded his men to watch all the nyght/ & to be ready wth weapens for to fyght. & let watchmen rounde aboute the hoost. But when the aduersaries herde that Jonathas was ready with his men to the battayll/ they feared/& were afrayed in their hertes/ and kyndled fyres in their tentes/ brake vp/ and gat the awaye. Neuertheles Jonathas and his company knew it not tyll the moornyng/ for they sawe the fyres burnynge.

Then Ionathas folowed vpon them/ but he myght not ouertake them/ for they were gone ouer the water Cleutherus. So Ionathas departed vnto the Arabias (which were called Zabadi) slew them/ & toke their goodes. He proceeded further also/ and came vnto Damascus/ & wente thowow all that cōtrey. But Simō his brother toke his iourney and came to Alsalon & to the nexte stronge holdes: departyng vnto Toppa/ and wanne it. For he herde that they wold stande of Demetrius partye: wherfoze he sent men of warre in the cyte/ to kepe it. After this came Ionathas home agayne/ & called the elders of the people together: and deuyded with the for to buyde by the stronge holdes in Jewry/ and the walles of Ierusalem / to set by an hye wall betwixt the castell and the cite/ for to separate it from the cite/ that it myght be alone / and that men shulde nether bye nor sell in it.

¶ Upon this they came together for to build by the cite: & for moche as the wall upon broke of þe wall cyd (called Eaphethetah) was fallen downe, they repayed it. And Symon set by Dolsadah in Sephelah / & made it strong setting portes & lockes upon it. Now when ¶ Tryphon purposed to raygne in Syria / to be crowned / & to slaye the kynge Antiochus: he was afrayed of Jonathan wolde not suffre him / but fight against him. Wherefore he w^o te about to take Jonathan / & to kill him.

So he departed / & came into Bethsan.
Then wente Jonathas forth agaynst him to the battayil with fourtye thousande chosen men / & came into Bethsan also . But when Eriphon sawe that Jonathas came with so greate an Hoste to destroye hym / he was afraied: and therfore he receaued him honorably comended him vnto all his frendes / & gaue hym rewardes / and commaunded hym much of warre to beas obedient vnto hym as to hym selfe.

And sayde vnto Jonathas: why hast thou caused thys people to take such trauaile/saying there is no warre betwyxe vs? Ther-foze sende them home agayne / & chose certaine men to wayte byd the / & come thou to me to Ptolomais: for I will geue it þe / with þe other ströge holbes / men of warre & their officers: As for me / I must departe / thys is only the cause of my comyng. Jonathas be-leued him / and byd as he sayde / puttyng awaye his host / which wente in to the land of of Iuda. He kepte but .iij. M. by him / wher-of he sent .ij. M. in to Galilee / and one. M. wente with him selfe.

Now as soone as Ionathas entred in to Bethloms / the cytlens sparred the gates of the ctye / and toke him / and slewe all the with the swerde / & came in with him. Then sent Crifphon an host of fore men and hoys-men in to Galilee and in to the great playne seide / to destroye all Ionathas cōpany. But when they knew that Ionathas was take / & all they layne that waited vpon him: they toke counsell together / & came forth ready to & battayll. So when they which folowed vpon the / sawe that it was a matter of lyfe / they turned backe agayne. As for the other / they wente in to the lande of Iuda peaceably / and bewailed Ionathas / & them that were with hym ryght sore. And Israel made great lamentacyon. Then all the heathen & were rounde aboute them / sought to destroye the for they sayde: now haue they no captayne / nor any man to helpe them. Therefore lett vs ouercome them / and rote out their name fro amonge men.

After Jonathas was taken hymon is chosen captayne of whom Crifphon takyng his chyld & money for the redempcyon of Jonathas kyleth hym and his chyldren. The graue of Jonathas. Crifphon kyleth Antiochus & possleth the reaine. Demetrius taketh truce with Simon. Simon winneth Gaza. He possleteth the tower of Sion. He maketh his sonne John Captayne.

The 11th Chapter.

Now whē Symō herde that Er-phon gathered a greate hoste / to come in to the lande of Iuda / and to destroye it: a salwe & the people was in greate fearfulnessē & care: He came by to

by to Ierusalem/and gathered þ people together/and gaue them exortacion/ sayinge:
We knowe what greate battayls I and my brythzen & my fathers house haue stricken for the lawe & the Sanctuary/ & what maner of troubles we haue sene: thowtwe occasyon wherof/ all my brythzen are slayne for Israels sake/ and I am left alone. And now lett not me spare myne owne lyfe in any maner of trouble/ for I am no better then my brythzen: but wyl auenge my people & the Sanctuary/ oure chyldren and oure wyues: for all the Heathen are gathered together / to destroye vs obbery malyce.

At these wordes the hertes of the people were kyndled together / so that they cryed w a loude voyce / sayinge: Thou shalt be oure captayne in steade of Judas and Jonathas the bryethen / or dye thou oure bartell / a whatsoeuer thou commaunde st vs, we shall do it.
So he gathered all y men of warre making haste to synke all the walles of Ierusalem / which he made ströge rounde aboute. Then sent he Jonathas the sonne of Abisalomus with a fresh hoste vnto Ioppa / which droue thout y were in the castell / and remayned there hym selfe. Crisphon also remoued from Ptolomaïs with a greate armie / to come in to the lande of Iuda / and Jonathas w hym in warde. And Simon pitched his tentes at Addus befoze the playne seide.

But when Crithon knewe that Symon Rode by in steade of hys brother Jonathas / ¶ that he wolde warre agaynst hym: he sent messenger vnto him / saying: Where as we haue kepte Jonathas thy brother / it is for money that he is a wyng in the kynges account / concernyng the busynesse & he had in hande. Wherefoze sende now an. C. talētes of syluer and hys two sonnes for suertye / that when he is letten forth he shall not for-sa ke vs: and we shall sende him agayne. Reuerthelesse Symon knewe / that he dyssem-bled in his wordes: yet commaunded he the money & chyldren to be deliuered vnto hym:
lest he shuld be the greater enemy agaynst the people of Israel / & saie: because he sent him not the money and the chyldren / therfoze is Jonathas deed.

So Symon sent him the chydre and an hundredth talentes / but he dissembled / & wolde not let Jonathas go. Afterwarde came Crifphon in to the lande / to destroye it / and went rounde aboute by the waye / that ledeth vnto Adoz. But where soeuer they wente / they ther wente Symon and his holle also. Now they that were in the castell / sent messengers vnto Crifphon / & he shulde make haste to come by the wyldetnesse / and to sende the bytales: And Crifphon made ready all by hoysmen to come that same night. Heurthe lesse it was a very greate snowe / so that he came not in Galaadithim. And when he de-we nye Balchama / he slewe Jonathas and his sonnes there / and then turned for to goo home in to his auncle lande.

Then sent Symon for to fet his brothers deed coarſe / and buried it in Hoolis his fathers cytie. So all Iſrael bewayled hym wth greate lamentacon / and mourned for hym very longe. And Symon made vpon the ſea pulcre of his father and hys bryth^{er} a buydyngge h^{ou}ſe to loke vnto of ſre ſtone behynde & before: and ſet vp ſeuē pylers / one agaynſt another (for hys father / hys mother & fourē bryth^{er}en) & ſet greate pilers rounde aboute / with armes vpon them for a perpetuall memory / and carued ſhylpes betwix the armes: that they might be ſene of men ſayynge in the ſea. This ſea pulcre which he made at Hodin: ſtandeth yet vnto this daye.

Thomas Cryphon went forth to walke wth Josephus kyng Antiochus/ he slew him trayterously/ and reigned in his steade/ crowned him self kyng of Asia/ and dyd moche euell in the lande. Symon also buyte by the castles in Jewry/ makinge them stronge wth hye towres/ greate walles/ portes and lockes/ & layed by bytales in the stronge holdes. And Symon chose certayne men / and sent them to kyng Demetrius: to despye him / that he wolde discharge the land from all bondage/for Cryphon had spoiled it very sore. Where vpon Demetrius the kyng answered hym/and wrote vnto him after this maner.

Demetrius the kynge sendeth gretyng unto Symon the hye prest his frende / wth the elders & people of the Jewes. & he golde crowne and precious stone that ye sent unto us / haue we receaued: and are ready to make a stedfast peace with you / pre & to wyte to oure officers / soz to release you / concernyng the thynges wherein we made you fre & the appoyntment that we make with you / shal be fyme and stable. & he stronge holdes whiche ye haue buyded / shal be youre owne.
As soz eny ouer syght oz sawte comytted vnto this daye / we forgeue it / & the crowne taxe þe ye ought vs also. And where as was eny other trybute in Iherusalem, it shal now be no trybute: and loke who are mete amonge you to be in oure counte, let them be wyte wth / that there maye be peace betwixte vs.

Thus the rock of the Heathen was taken from Israel / in the hundredth and seventye yeare. And the people of the Jewes beganne to wyte in their letters & actes on this maner. In the fyrst yeare of Symon the hye p[ri]est / and p[ri]nce of the Jewes.

In those days went Symd. into Ezra/
and

and beseged it rounde aboute / where he sett by ordinaunce of warre. And wanne a towre whych he toke. So they that gatt in to the towre leapt in the ctyte / whych was in a greate feare. In so moch that the people of the cite rente their clothes / and chymmed by byon the walles with their wyes & chylde beseechynge Symon to be at one wyth the sayenge.

And he was not after oure wicheidnes / but he gracious unto us / and we shall do & scrupce. Then Symon for very pite / wolde sight nomore agaynst them / but put the out of the ctyte / and caused the houses (wherein the images were) to be censed: and so entred the ctyte with psalmes of praye / geuyng thaches unto the Lorde. So wher he had call all abhominacions out of the ctyte / he lett such men in it as kepte the law of God / and made the ctyte stronge / and buylded a dwellynge place for hym selfe.

Now when they in the castell at Jerusalem were kepte so streitly / that they coude not come forth ner in to the cuntry / & myght nether bye ner sell: they were very hungrye / and many of them samphed to death. In so moch that they besought Symon to be at one with them / whych he graunted them. So he put them out from thence / and censed the castell from fylthynesse. And upon the xxij. daye of the seconde moneth in the .C. lxxi. yere they entred in to it with thankesgeuyng and bzaunches of palme trees / with harpes / crowdes / cymbals / and lutes / syngynge psalmes / and songes of praye unto God / for that the great enemy of Israel was out come.

And Symon ordered that the same daye shuld be kepte every yere in gladnesse / and made ströge the hyll of the temple that was besyde the castell / where he dwelt hym selfe with his company. Symon also perceauynge that Jhon his sonne was a myghtie man of armes / made him captayne of all the hostes / and caused him to dwell at Gaza.

¶ Demetrius is overcome of Antiochus. Symon being captayne there is gentyler in his heart. The co-mynall of friendship with the Romans & with the people of Sparta is renewed.

¶ The .xliij. Chapter.

In the .C. lxxi. yere gathered kynge Demetrius his host / and departed unto Media / to gett him helpe for to fight agaynst Antiochus. Now when Antiochus the kynge of Persia & Media herde / that Demetrius was entred within his borders: he sent one of his prynces to take hym alpye / & to bynne hym unto hym. So he wente and Antiochus hoste / toke hym selfe / brought hym to Antiochus / which kept hym inwarde. And all the lande of Juda was in rest / so longe as Symon liued for he sought the wealth of his people / therfore were they glad to haue him for their ruler / & to do him worshippe allwaye.

Symon wanne the cite of Joppa also for an haven towne / & made it an inuance in to the fles of the see. He enlarged the borders of his people / & conquered them more lande.
He gathered by many of their people that were prisoners: he had the domynion of Gaza / Bethsura and the castell / whych he clen-sed from fylthynesse / and there was no man that resisted hym: So that every man tyld his grounde in peace / the lande of Juda and the trees gaue their frute and encrease. The elders satt all in iudgement / & toke their deuyce for the wealth of the lande: the yonge men put on worshippe and harnesse upon the.
He prouided bytalles for the ctytes / and made goodly stronge holdes of them: so that the fame of his worshippe was spoken of unto the ende of the worlde. For he made peace thorow out the lande / and Israel was full of myght and loye.

¶ Every man sat under his byne & figge trees and there was no man to fraye the awaye.
There was none in the lande to fight agaynst them / for then the kynge was overcome. He helped those that were in aduersyte amonge his people / he was diligent to se the lawe kepte as for such as were vngodly and wycked he toke the awaye. He set by the Sanctuary / & encreased the holy vessels of the temple.

¶ When the Romaynes and Sparciens had gotten worde / that Jonathan was ded / they were ryght soye. But when they herde that Symon his brother was made bye prest in his steade / and how he had wonne the lande agayne with the ctytes in it: they wrote briefly in tables of lacy / to reuue the friendshype / & bonde of loue / which they had made also with Judas & Jonathan his brethren.
Which wytynges were red befoze the congregation at Jerusalem.

¶ And this is the copy of the litters / that the Sparciens sent: The Antiochus and of Celyns of Sparta sende greeting unto Symon & great prest to the elders / prestes / & other people of the Jewes their brethren: When yours embassytours were sent unto oure people / certified us of yours worshippe / ho-noure & prosperous wealth: we were glad of their comynge / & haue wytted the earande which they spake befoze the councell of the people: namely / that Numentus & sonne of An-tiochus / And Antipater & sonne of Jason the Jewes embassytours are come vnto us / for to reue the olde friendship with us. Upon this the people consented / that the men shulde be honorable

honorably intreated / and that the copy of their earande shulde be wytted in the specyall bokes of the people / for a perpetuall memory vnto the Sparciens: yee and that we shulde sende a copy of the same vnto Symon & great prest.

After this byd Symon sende Numentus vnto Rome / with a golden chryse of a thou-saund pounce weight to cōfirme the friendshype with them: which when the Romaynes vnderstode / they sayde: what thankes shall we recompence agayne vnto Symon & his chylde: for he hath stablished his brethren / & overcome the enemyes of Israel.
Wherfore they graunted him to be fre. And all this wrote the Jewes in tables of lacy / and naled it vnto the prests vpon the moun-te Zion. The copy of the wytyng is this:

¶ The .xliij. daye of the moneth Elul in the C. lxxi. yere in the thirde yere of Symon the bye prest / in the greate congregacion of the prestes / rulers of the people / and elders of the cōfite at Asaram / were these wordes openly declared:

¶ For so moch as there was moch warre in oure land / therfore Symon & sonne of Ma-tathias (come of the chylzen of Jareb) and his brethren / put them selues in perill / and resisted the enemyes of their people: & their Sanctuary and lawe might be manteyned / and byd their people greate worshippe. Jona-thas in lyke maner / after that he had go-uerned his people and bene their bye prest:
dyed / and lyeth buried besyde his elders.

¶ After that wolde their enemyes haue trodded their holy thynges vnder fote / destroyed their lande / and utterly wasted their Sanctuary. Then Symon withstode them / & fought for his people / spent moch of his awne money / weapened the valeant men of his people / gaue the wages / made stronge the ctytes of Juda / with Bethsura that lyeth vpon the borders of Jerycho (where the ordinaunce of their enemyes laye somtyme) and set Jewes there for to kepe it.

¶ He made fast Joppa also / which lyeth by the see / and Gaza that bozdyeth vpon Egi-pt (where the enemyes dwelt also) & there he sett Jewes to kepe it: & whatsoever was mete for the subduynge of the aduersaryes / that layed he therein. Now when the people sawe the noble actes of Symon / and what worshippe he purposed to do for the godly behauoure / and saythfulnesse whych he kept vnto them / and how he sought by all wayes the wealth of his people / because he dyd all this / therfore they chose hym to be their prync and bye prest. And in his tyme they prospered well by hym / so that the heathen were take out of their land: & they also which were in the ctyte of David at Jerusalem in the castell (where they wet out a desyled all thynges that were aboute the Sanctuary / and byd greate harme vnto ctenynes) and Symon put me of the Jewes in it / for the defence of the lande and the ctyte / & set by the walles of Jerusalem.

¶ And kynge Demetrius confirmed hym in his bye presthode / made hym his frende / and byd hym greate worshippe. For he herde that the Romayns called the Jewes their frends / louers and brethren: how honorable they recreued Symons embassytours: how the Je-wes and prestes contented that he shulde be their prync and bye prest perpetually (tyll God rapsed by the true prophete) and that he shuld be their captayne / to care for the Sanctuary / and to sett officers vpon the wyches therof / ouer the land / ouer the weapes / ouer the houses of defence / to make prouision for the holy thynges / and to be obeyed of every man / & all the wytynges of the lande to be made in his name: that he shulde be clothed in purple and golde / & that it shulde be lau-full for none of the people nor prestes to breake any of these thynges / to withstande his wordes / ner to call any congregacion in the lande without hym: & he shulde be clothed in purple / & weare a colar of golde: And yf there were any which disobeyed / bzahe this ordi-naunce / that he shulde be punished.

¶ So all the people consented to a loue Symon / and to do accordynge to these wordes.
Symon also hym selfe toke it vpon hym / & was contente to be bye prest / the captayne and prync of the Jewes and prestes / and to gouerne them all. And they commaunded to make this wytyng in tables of lacy / and fasten it vnto the compasse of the Sanctuary in an open place: and to laye by a copy of the same in the treasury / that Symon & his posterite might haue it.

¶ Antiochus maketh a couenaunt of friendship with Symon / and Antiochus is persecuted. The Romaynes wyte litters vnto kynge and nacyons in the defence of the Jewes. Antiochus refusinge the helpe that Symon sent him / breaketh his couenaunt.

¶ The .xl. Chapter.

Mouer / kynge Antiochus & sonne of Demetrius sente litters from the fles of the see / vnto Symon the bye prest and prync of the Je-wes / and to all the people / conteynyng these wordes: Antiochus the kynge sendeth gre-tyng vnto Symon the bye prest and to the people of the Jewes. For so moch as certayne wycked men haue gotten the kyngdome of oure progenytours / I am purposed to chalenge the realme agayne / and to restore it to the olde estate.

The fyrst booke

Of the Machabees.

Ixxix.

Wherfore I haue gathered a greace host made shippes of warre: that I maye goo thowme the countre/ and be auenged of the which haue destroyed oure lande / and washed many cities in my realme. And therfore now I make the fre also from all the tributes/ wherof all kinges my progenitours haue discharged the/ and from other customes (wher from they haue released the) whatsoeuer they be: Yee I geue the leaue to syme money of thynne a tyme within the lande. As for Jerusalem/ I will that it be holy and fre:
and all the weapens and houses of defence which thou hast buyded & kept in thynne handes/ shall be thynne. Wher as any thyng is or shall be awynge vnto the kynge. I forgeue it the/ fro this tyme forth for euermore.
And when we haue obtayned our kyngdom/we shall do the / the people and the temple greace woth shyppe: so þ your honoure shall be knowne thowme vnto the whole worlde.

In the Cxxxix. yere wente Antiochus in to his fathers lande/ & al the mē of warre came together vnto him / so that fewe were left with Crispion. So the kyng Antiochus solowed vpon him/ but he fled vnto Doria/whych lyeth by the see syde: for he sawe that there was myschele conynge vnto hym/that his host had forsaken him. When came Antiochus vnto Doria with an hundred and twenty thousande men of armes bps lode/& egypt thousande horsemen. So he capsed the ctye rounde aboute/ & the shippes came by the see. Thus they besied the ctye by land and by water/ in so moch that they suffred no man to go in nor out.

In the meane season came Numenius (& they that had bene with him) from the ctye of Rome/ haupnge letters witten vnto the kynges & prouynces/ wherin were conteyned these wordes: Lucius the Mayre of Rome sendeth greetynge vnto Ptolomey the kyng.
The embassours of the Jewes oure frendes beyng sent from Symon the hie prest and from þ people of the Jewes/ came vnto vs/for to renue the olde frendshyppe/ and bonde of loue/ & brought a shylde of golde weyng a thousand ponde / which we were cōscie to receaue of them. Wherfore we thought it good to wryte vnto the kynges and prouynces/ to do them no harme/ nor to take parte agaynst them/ their ctyes nor countrees nether to mayntene their enemies agaynst the.
If there be any wycked personnes therfore fled from their countre vnto you/ deliuer the vnto Symon the hie prest/ that he maye pu-nysh them accordynge to their awne lawe.

The same wordes wote the Romaynes also vnto Demetrius the kyng/ to Attalus/Araba/ Arsaces & to all regions: as Sam-lanes/ to the of Sparta/ Delo/ Cydo/ Sy-don/ Caria/ Samos Pamphilia/ Lycia/ Alicarnassum/ & to the Rhodes / to Gasela/Coo/ Sida/ Arado/ Gortina/ Gynum / to Cyprus & to Cyren. And of euery lētre they sent a cōpy to Symon the hie prest & to the people of the Jewes. So Antiochus þ kyng brought his host vnto Doria þ secōde tyme/to take it: where he made diuerse ordinaunce of warre/ & kepte Crispion in / þ he shuld not come forth. Then sent Symon Antiochus two thousande chosen mē to helpe hym with gold/ syluer and other plenteous geer: Neuertheles he wolde not receaue them/but brake all þ couenaunt which he made w Symon afore/ & withdrew him self fro hym.

He sent Athenobius also a frende of hys vnto Symon/ for to reason with him sayng: Ye withholde from me Toppa & Gaza/ with the castell that is at Jerusalem / which are ctyes of my realme / whose borders ye haue destroyed/ & done greace euill in the land/ ha-uyng the dominacion in many other places of my kyngdom. Wherfore deliuer now þ ctyes which ye haue takē with the tributes of the places þ ye haue rule bps without þ borders of Jewry: & els geue me true hundredth talentes of syluer/ yee & for the harme þ ye haue done in the ctyes & for the tributes of the same/ other true hundredth talētes.
If no/ we shall come & fyght agaynst you.

So Athenobius the kynges frende came to Jerusalem/ & when he sawe þ greace woshpe & honoure of Symon in golde/ syluer and so greace plenty of ornaments: he mar-ueled/ and tolde Symon as the kyng commaunded him. Then answered Symon and sayd vnto him: As for vs/ we haue neyther taken other mens land/ nor withholde the / but only oure fathers heretage/ which oure ene-myes had brrighuouly in possession a cer-tayne tyme. This heretage of oure fathers haue we chalenged in proceesse of tyme. And where as thou cōplaynest concernynge Toppa and Gaza/ they bps greace harme to oure people and in oure lande/ yet will we geue an. C. talentes for them.

Neuertheles Athenobius answered hym not one worde/ but turned agayne wrythly ly vnto þ kyng/ & tolde him all these wordes/and the greace dignyte of Symon wryth all that he had sene / and the kyng was very angrie. In the meane tyme fled Crispion by shyppe vnto Orthosida. When the kyng made Cendebeus captayne of the see coast/ & gaue him an host of sote men & horsemen/ cō-maunding him to remoue the host towarde Jewry/ & to buyde by the ctye of Cedron/to make by the portes/ & to warre agaynst þ people of the Jewes. As for the kyng he selfe/

selfe/ he solowed vpon Crispion. So Cendebeus came vnto Jamnia/ & beganne to bere the people / to treade downe Jewry/ to take the people prisoners/ to slaye the & to buyd by Cedron: where he sett horsemen and other men of warre/ that they myght come forth & go thowme the strettes of Jewry / lyke as the kyng had commaunded him.

Cendebeus the captayne of Antiochus hoste is put to fygth of the sonnes of Symon þ Ptolomeus þ son of Abobus hilleth Symon þ sonnes at a bāker John hilleth them that spe in wayte for his life.

The xxi. Chapter.

Then came Jhon by from Gaza/ & tolde Symon his father/ what Cendebeus had done vnto the people. vpon this called Symon two of his eldest sonnes/ Judas & Jhon / & sayde vnto them: I and my brethzen & my fathers house / haue euer from oure youth by vnto this daye/ foughten agaynst the enemyes of Israel/ & God gaue vs good fortune to deli-uer Israel oft tymes. And now for so moch as I am olde/ be ye in steade of me & my brother/ to go forth and fyght for oure people/ & þ helpe of God be with you. So he chose. xx.
men of the countre / w horsemen also/ which wente forth agaynst Cendebeus and restid at Modin.

In the mornynge they arose/ and went in to the playne felde: and beholde / a myghty greace host came agaynst them/ both of sote men and horsemen. Now was there a water broke betwixte them/ and Jhon remoued þ host towarde them. And when he sawe that the people was afrayed to goo ouer the water broke/ he wente ouer fyrst him selfe: and the men seyng this/ solowed him.

Then Jhon set his horsemen & sote men in ordre/ the one by the other/ for their enemyes horsemen were very many. But when they blewe by þ prestes trompettes/ Cendebeus fled wryth hys hoste / wherof many were slayne / and the remnaunt gat them to their stronge holde. Judas also Jhons brother was wounded at the same tyme. And Jhon solowed styll vpon the enemyes/ tyll he came to Cedron which he buyded. The enemyes fled also vnto the towres that were in the feldes of Azotus/ and those dyd Jhon burne by. Thus there were slayne. xi. men of them/ and Jhon turned agayne peaceably in to Jewry.

And in the felde of Jericho was Ptolomey the sonne of Abobus made captayne: which because he had aboundaunce of syluer and golde/ for he had maryed þ daughter of Symon þ hie prest/ waxed proude in his mynde/and thought to conquere the lande / ymage-ning falsed agaynst Symon & his sonnes/to destroye them. Now as Symon was goynge aboute thowme the ctyes / that were in the countre of Jewry/ and carryng for the:

he came downe to Jericho/ with Batathiah and Judas his sonnes / in the Cxxxix. yere in the xi. moneth called Sabat. Then Ptolomey the sonne of Abobus receaued the / but with dyscreete / in to a stronge house of hys called Doch/ which he had buyded / wher he made them a bancket.

So when Symon and hys sonnes were mery and haddzonchen well/ Ptolomey stode by with his men/ (whom he had byd there) and toke their weapens/ entred in to the bancket house/ & slewe Symon with his two sonnes / and certayne of his seruantes. Soch greace bnsaythfulnesse dyd Ptolomey in Israel/ and recompensed euell for good. Then wote thys Ptolomey the same vnto kyng Antiochus/quyng him that he shulde sende hym an host to helpe him: & so shulde he deliuer hym the lande/ with the ctyes and tributes of þ same. He sent other men also vnto Gaza/ for to take Jhon: and wote vnto the captaynes to come to him/ and he shuld geue them syluer/ golde and rewardes. And to Jerusalem he sent other/ to take it and the Sanctuary.

Then rane there one before/ & tolde Jhon in Gaza/ that is father & his brethzen were slayne / and how that Ptolomey had sent to slaye him also. Wht Jhon herde this/ he was soze abatshed/ and layed hādes of them that were come to destroye him/ and slewe them:
for he knewe/ that they went aboute to kyll
hym.

As for other thynges concernynge Jhons of his warres/ of his noble actes (wherin he behaued him selfe manfully) of the buyding of walles whych he made / and other of hys dedes: they are wrytten in the cronicles of hys presthode / from the tyme forth that he was made hie prest after his father.

The.ij.boke

The seconde boke of the Machabees.

An Epistle of the Jewes that dwelt at Jerusalem sent unto them which dwelt in Egypte/when in they exhorted them to geue thanks for the death of Antiochus. Of the fyre & howe he dyed in the pye. The prayer of Nehemias.

The first Chapter.

In the brethren of the Jewes which be at Jerusalem & in the lande of Jewry / I write vnto those brethren of Jewes that are thowout Egypte: good fortune, health & peace.

God the Lord be gracious vnto you / and thynke vpon his couenaunt & he made with Abraham / Isaac & Jacob his saythfull seruantes: and geue you all such an hert / that ye maye loue and serue him / yee & perforce me bys wyll wyth an whole herte and of a willyng mynde: He open youre hertes in his lawe and in his commaundementes / sende you peace: heare youre prayers / be at one wth you / and neuer forsake you in tyme of trouble. This is here oure prayer for you.

What tyme as Demetrius reigned / in the Cxxx. yere / we Jewes wrote vnto you in trouble and violence that came vnto vs. In those yeres after that Jason departed oute of the holy lande and kyngdome / they bent vpon the portes / & shed innocent bloude. When made we oure prayer vnto the Lord / and were hearde: we offered / & lyghted the candles / setting forth cakes and bryed. And now come ye vnto the feast of tabernacles in the moneth Casleu.

In the Cxxxviii. yere the people & was was at Jerusalem & in Jewry / the counsell and Judas him self / sent this wholsome salutation vnto Aristobolus kyng of Iudomys master / which came of the generation of the anoynted prestes: and to the Jewes & were in Egypte: In so much as God hath deliuered vs from grete perils / we thanke hym byllie. In that we resisted so mightie a kyng. And why: he brought men out of Persia by heapes / to fyght agaynst vs & the holy cytie. For as he was in Persia (namely / the Captayne wth the great host) he persued in the temple of Manes / beyng discaured thowout the deuoyce of Manes prestes. For as he was purposed to haue dwelt there / Antiochus and his frendes came thither / to receaue much moneye for a dowry. So when Manes prestes had layed forth the moneye / he entred wth a small company in to the copse of the temple / and so they shut the temple.

Now when Antiochus entred by opening the pryce intrance of the temple / the prestes stoned the captayne to death / & threw them in peces that were wyth hym / smote of there heades / and theye them out in all thynges. God be prayed / which hath deliuered the wicked in to oure handes.

Where as we now are purposed to kepe & purifycation of the temple vpon the xxi. daye of the moneth Casleu / we thought necessary to certifie you therof: that ye also myght kepe the tabernacles feast daye / & the daye of the fyre / which was geuen vs when Nehemias offered / after that he had let vpon temple and the altar. For what tyme as oure fathers were led awaye vnto Persia / prestes / which then sought & honoure of God / toke the fyre pryncely from the altar / and had it in a balley / where as was a depe dyre pye: & therein they kepte it / because the place was unknowne to euery man. Now after many yeres when it pleased God / Nehemias shulde be sent fro the kyng of Persia: he sent the chylders chyldren of those prestes (which had had the fyre) to seke it. And as they tolde vs / they founde no fyre / but thicke water. Then commaunded he the to drawe it vpon / & to bringe it him / and & offeringes wythall. Now when the sacrifices were layed on & ordered / the prest Nehemias commaunded to sprinkle them & the wod wth the water. When this was done / & the tyme come & the Sonne shone / which afore was hydin in a cloude: there was a greatesse kyndled. In so much that euery man marvelled. Now all prestes prayed / while the sacrifice was a making. Jonathan prayed first / and the other gaue answer.

And Nehemias prayer was after this manner: O Lord God maker of all thynges / thou fearfull & stronge / thou ryghteous & mercifull / thou that art onely a gracious kyng / onely lyberall / onely iust / Almightie & euertlastyng / thou that deliuerest Israel fro all trouble / thou that hast chosen the fathers and halowed them: receaue the offeringe for the whole people of Israel / preserve thyne awne porcyon / & halowe it. Gather those together / that are scattered abrode from vs: deliuer them that are vnder the Heathens bondage / loke vpon them which are despyled & abhorred / that the Heathen maye knowe and se / how that thou art oure God: Punishe the that oppresse / & proudly put vs to dishonoure. Set thy people agayne in thy holy place / like as Moses hath spok.

And the prestes songe Psalmes of thankesguyng / so longe as the sacrifice endured. Now when the sacrifice was bynt / Nehemias commaunded the grete Rones to be sprinkled wth the residue of water which when it was done / there was kyndled a flame of them of them also: but it was consumed thowout the lyght / that shyned from the altar. So when this matter was knowne / it was tolde the kyng of Persia / that in the place where the prestes / which were led awaye / had had the fyre / there appeared water in steade of fyre / & that Nehemias & his company had purified the sacrifices wythall. When the kyng considered / & pondered the matter diligently / made him a temple to proue the thyng that was done. And when he founde it so in dede / he gaue the prestes many gyftes & dyuerse rewardes: yee he toke them wyth hym a wone hand / and gaue them. And Nehemias called the same place Nehptar / which is as much to saye as a clensyng: but many men call it Nehpt.

When Jeremie hadde the tabernacle / the Arcke / and the altare in the hill. Of the. ii. booke of Jason commaunded in oure.

The.ii. Chapter.

In founde also in the writings of Jeremie the prophet / that he commaunded them which were caried awaye to take the fyre / as it is sayde afore. He commaunded them also / that they shulde not forget the lawe and commaundementes of the Lord / and that they shulde not erre in their myndes / when they se Images of syluer and golde with their ornaments. These and such other thynges commaunded he them / & exhorted them / that they shulde not lett the lawe of God go out of theyr hertes.

It is written also / how the prophet (at the commaundement of God) charged them / to take the tabernacle & the Arcke with them: & he wente forth vnto the mountayne / where Moses clymmed vpon / & sawe the heretage of God. And when Jeremie came there / he founde an open caue / wherein he layed the tabernacle / & the Arcke & the altar of incense / & so stopped the hole. There came certayne men together also folowynghim / to mark the place / but they coude not fynde it. Which when Jeremie perceaued / he reprouched them sayng: As for that place / it shalbe unknowne / vntill the tyme & God gather his people together agayne / & receaue the vnto mercy. When shal God shew them these thynges / & the maiesty of the Lord shal appeare / & the cloude also / like as it was shewed vnto Moses: & lyke as when Salomon desyred the place / myght be sanctified / & it was shewed him.

For he beyng a wyse man / handled honorably and wisely offeringe vnto God in the halowinge of the temple / when it was finished. And lyke as when Moses prayed vnto the Lord / the fyre came downe from heauē / and consumed the burnt offeringe: Euen so prayed Salomon also / and the fyre came downe from heauen / and consumed & burnt offeringe. And Moses sayde: because the offering was not eaten / therfore it is consumed. In lyke maner Salomon kepte the dedycacion (or halowinge) eight dayes.

In the Annotations & writings of the. x. reyn / were these thynges put also: & how he made a lybary / & how he gathered out of all countrees the booke of the prophetes / of David / the epistles of the kynges / and of the prestes. Euen so Judas also / loke what he lerned by experyence of warre / & such thynges as hath happened vnto vs / he gathered them all together / and so we haue them by vs. Ye now desyre to haue the same / sende some body to fetch them vnto you. Where as we then are aboute to celebra the purifycation / we haue written vnto you. Therfore ye shal do well / if ye kepe the same dayes. We hope also / that the God / which deliuered his people / and gaue them all the heretage / kyngdome / presthode & Sanctuary that he promised them in the lawe / shal shortly haue mercy vpon vs / and gather vs together from vnder the heauen in to his holy place: for he hath saved vs from grete perils / and hath glensed the place.

As concernynge Judas Machabeus and his brethren / the purifycation of the grete temple / the dedycacion of the altar / yee & of the warres that cōcerne noble Antiochus & Epipatoz his sonne / of the thynges & cam downe from heauen vpon those / which manfully defended the Jewes. For though they were but fewe / yet defended they the whole lande / & drove awaye the enemyes host / recovered agayne the temple / that was spoken of thowout all the world / deliuered the cite / doyng the best that the lawe of the Lord which was put downe / might wth all tranquillite be restored agayne vnto the Lord / & was so mercifull vnto them. As touchynge Jason also of Cyren / we haue vnder take & pendiously to bringe in to one boke / & thyngs that were comprehended of him in fyue. For we cōsiderynge the multitude of the booke / and how harde it shulde be for them / to moule medle wth stories and actes / & that because of so diuerse matters / haue vnder taken so to comprehend the stories: that such as are disposed to reade / myght haue pleasure and pastyme therein: & that they which are diligent in such thynges / myght the better thinke vpon the: yee and that whosoever read the / might haue profit thereby.

Nevertheless we oure selues that haue medled wth this matter for the shortnyng of it / haue taken no small labour / but great diligence / watchynge and traualle. Lyke as the

as they that make a feast / wolde saye do other men pleasure: & so we also (for many mensakes) are very well content to take the labour: where as we maye shortly comprehende the thynges that other men haue truly written.

For he that buyeth an house and / must prouide for many thynges, to the whole buydyng: but he that payeth it afterwarde / seeth but only what is comly / mete & convenient to garnish it withall. Euen so do we also in the manner. And why? He that beginneth to wyte a story for the first / must with his vnderstandynge gather the matter together / set bys wordes in order / and diligently seke out of euery parte: But he that afterwarde wylt shewen it / sleeth scowles / and cou-cheth not the matter at the largiest. Let thes be sufficient for a prologe / now will we be-gynne to shewe the matter: for it is but a so-ly thinge to make a longe prologe / and to be shortly in the story itself.

Of the honoure done vnto the temple by the kynge of the Gentyles. Symon desireth what treasure is in the temple. He liodorus is sent to take the treasure. He is cryshen of God & heark at the prayer of Onias.

The .iiij. Chapter.

What tyme as the holy cyte was inhabited in all peace & wealth / & where the lawes were yet very well kepte. (For so was it ordered by Onias the hye prest & other godly men / that were enemies to wickednesse) He came ther-to / that euen the kinges & princes the seuer byd the place grete worshippe / & garnished the temple with grete gyftes: In so much Seleucus kynge of Asia of his awne reues bare all the costes belonging to the scrupce of the offrynges. Then Symon of the trybe of Benjamin / a ruler of the temple / laboured to worke some myschance in the cite: but the hye prest resisted him.

Nevertheless when he myght not ouer-come Onias / he gat him to Appolonius the some of Cetera (which then was chiefe lozde in Celosyria and Phenices) & tolde him / that the treasury in Jerusalem was full of innumerable money / and how that the commons goodes (which belonged not vnto the offerin-ges) were exceding grete also: yet & how it were possible / that all these myght come vnder the kynges power.

Now when Appolonius had shewed the kyng of the money / as it was tolde hym:
the king called for Heliodorus his steward / & sent him with a commaundement / to bringe him the same money. Immediately Heliodorus toke his journey / but vnder a colour / as though he wolde go thowow Celosyria & he-nices to visit the cities / but his purpose was to fulfill the kynges pleasure. So when he came to Jerusalem / & was loungly recei-ued of the hye prest into the cyte: he tolde what was determed concerninge the money / and shewed the cause of his comynge: he asked also / yf it were so in dede. Then the hye prest tolde him / that there was soch money layed by for the byholdynge of weddowes and fatherlesse chyliden / & how that a certayne of it belonged vnto Pyrcanus Tobias a noble man: & that of all the money (which that wyched Symon had bewrayed) there were .iiij. hundred talentes of syluer / and .iiij. hundred of golde: yet & that it were impossible for those mens meanynge to be dyscreued / he had layed by thet money in the place and temple (which is had in worshippe thowow the whole world) for the mayntenaunce and honoure of the same. Wherevnto Heliodorus answered / that the kynge had commaunded him in any wyse / to bringe hym in the money.

So at the daye appoynted / Heliodorus entred in to the temple to ordeyne this matter.
But there was no small feare thowowout the whole cyte. The prestes fell downe before the auter in their bestymentes / and called vnto heauen vpon hym / whych had made a lawe concerninge this geuen to kepe / that they shoulde be safely preserued / for soch as commytte them vnto keepynge. Then who so had looked the hye prest in the face / it wolde haue greued his herte: for his countenaunce and the chaunginge of his coloure / declared the inward sorow of his mynde. The man was all in heynesse / and his body in feare: whereby they that looked vpon him / myght per-ceiue the grete of his herte. The other people also came out of their houses by heapes vnto the comd prayer / because the place was like to come in to confusyon. The women came together thowow the streets / with hearte clothes aboute their byches.

The virgins also that were kepte in / rane to Onias / some to the walles / other some loked out of the wyndowes: yet they all helde by thet handes toward heaue / and prayed.
A myserable thinge was it / to loke vpon the comen people / & the hye prest bringe in soch trouble. But they besought almyghty God / that the goodes which were commytted vnto them / myght be kepte whole / for those that had dyscreued them vnto thet keepynge. Ne-uertheless the thyng that Heliodorus was determed to do / that perswaded he in the same place / he hym selfe personally bringe about the treasury with his men of warre.
But the spere of almyghty God shewed him selfe openly / so that all they which presumed to obey

obey Heliodorus / fell thowow the power of God into a grete fearfulness & dyede. For there appeared vnto the anhoyle / with a terrible man sitting vpon him / decked in goodly aray / and the hoyle smote at Heliodorus with his foze sete. Now he that sat vpon the hoyle / had hainelle of golde vpon him.

Whereouer there appeared .iiij. sayre & beutyfull ydg men in goodly aray / which rode by him / scourged hym of both the sydes / and gaue hym many stripes without ceasinge.
With that fell Heliodorus sodenly vnto the grounde. So they toke him by (beinge compased aboute with grete darknesse) & bare hym out vpon a beare. Thus he that came with so many runners and men of warre in to the sayde treasury was borne out / where as no man myght helpe hym: & so the power of God was manifest and knowne. He laye still homme also by the power of God / destitute of all hope and lyfe. And they prayed the Lord / that he had shewed his power vpon his place and temple / which a lytle afore was full of feare & trouble: and that thowow the reuelacyn of the almyghty Lord it was fylled with foze and gladnesse.

Then certayne of Heliodorus frendes prayed Onias / that in all haste he wolde call vpon God / to graunte him his lyfe / which was ge-uynge by the good. So the hye prest considered the matter / and lest the kinge shuld suspecte that the Jewes had done Heliodorus some euill: he offered an healt offerynge for him. Now when the hye prest had opteyned his peticion / the same yonge men in the same clothinge appeared & rode before Heliodo-rus / sayinge: Whancke Onias the hye prest / for his sake hath the Lord graunted the lyfe: therefore seing the God hath scourged the / geue him prayse & thanckes / & shewe euery man his myght & power. And when they had spoken these wordes they appeared nomore.

So Heliodorus offered vnto God / made grete bowes vnto him / which had graunted him his lyfe / thached Onias / toke his hood / & wente agayne to the kynge. When testified he vnto euery man of the grete wordes of God / & he had sene with his eyes. And when the kynge asked Heliodorus who were mete to be sent yet once agayne to Jerusalem / he sayde: yf thou hast any enemy or aduersary vnto thy realme / sende him thither / and thou shalt haue hym punished / yf he escape with his lyfe: for in that place (no doute) there is a specyall power & workinge of God. For he dwelleth in heaue / bysyeth & defendeth that place: and al that come to do it harme / he pu-nysmeth & plageth thet. This is now the matter concerninge Heliodorus / & the keepynge of the treasury at Jerusalem.

Simon reported the tuel of Onias. Jason bewrayne the office of the hye prest corrupteth the kynge with rewards. He wyched intent of Jason.

The .iiij. Chapter.

Simon now (of whome we spake afore) beinge a bewrayer of the money & of his awne naturall contrer / & so forth. reported the word of Onias: as though he had moued Heliodorus vnto this / & as though he had bene a bytger by of euell.
Thus was he not ashamed to call hym an enemy of the realme / that was so faythfull an ouersee & defender of the elte & of his people: yet & soferent in the lawe of God. But when the malice of Symon increased so farre / that thowow his frendes there were certayne mandaugeters committed: Onias considered the patell & might come thowow this stytle / & how that Appolonius (namely the chiefe lozde in Celosyria and Phenices) was all set vpon tyranny / and Symons malice increased the same: He gat hym to the kinge / not as an accuser of the cytelins / but as one that by him selfe intended the comon wealth of the whole multitude. For he sawe it was not possible to lyue in peace / neither Symon to leaue of fro his folywede / except the kynge dyd loke ther-to. But after the deeth of Seleucus / when Antiochus (which is called the noble) toke the kingdome: Jason the brother of Onias laboured to be hye prest: for he came vnto the kynge / and promysed hym thre hundred & .ix. talentes of syluer / & of the other rentes .lxxx. talentes. Besides this he promysed hym yet an .C. & .l. yf he myght haue the scole of the chyliden / & that he myght call them of Jerusalem Antiochians. Which when the kynge had graunted / & he had gotte the superioryte / he begane immediatly to drawe his kynsmen to the custome of the heathen / put downe the thynges that the Jewes had set by of loue / by John the father of Eupolemus / whych was sent embassytoure vnto Rome / for to make the bonde of frendshyppe and loue. He put downe all the Jewes & liberties of the Jewes / and set by the wyched statutes. He durst make a feyghtynge scole vnder the castell / and let sayre ydge men to lerne the ma-ners of whores and byobels.

This was now the begynnyng of the heathenish & straunge comerslacyd / brought in thowow the ingracious & vnderde wyched-nesse of Jason / which shoulde not be called a prest / but an vngodly personne. In so much that the prestes were now nomore occupped about the scrupce of the auter / but dyspyled the temple / regarded not the offrynges: yet gaue their dyspygence to lerne to feyght / to wastle / to leape / to daunce / & to put at the stone: not lettynge by the honour of the lashes. them /

The second booke

thers/but liked the glory of the Grekes best of all: for the which they stroue perillously / & were greedy to followe their statutes / yee their lust was in all thinges to be lyke the / which also were their enemyes & destroyers. Now be it to do wylfully agaynst the law of God / shall not escape unpunished: but of this we shall speake here after.

¶ What tyme as the Olympiades sportes were played at Cyzus (the kynge him selfe beinge present) this bngacious Jason sent wylked men / bearing from them of Jerusalem (whych now were called Antiochyans) iiij. C. drachmas of syluer for an offeringe to Hercules. These had they that caried them / despyed vnder such a fashion / as though they shulde not haue bene offered / but bestowed to other bles. Neuertheles he that sent them / sent them to the intent that they shulde be offered vnto Hercules. But because of those that were present / they were geuen as to the makinge of synnes. And Appoloniuss the sonne of Nesteus was sent in to Egypte / because of the noble men of kynge Ptolomey Philometoz. Now when Antiochus perceaued / he was put out from medlynge in the realme / he sought his awne pzoyle / departed from thence / came to Joppa / & then to Jerusalem: where he was honozably receaued of Jason & the cite / & was brought in to the lyght and with greete prayse: and so he turned his hood vnto Phenices.

¶ After iij. yere Jason sent Menelaus / the forsayde Symons brother / to beare the money vnto the kynge / & to bringe him and were of other necessary matters. But he (when he was prayled of the kynge for magnyfyng of his power) turned the pzoyle vnto him self / layinge by iiij. C. talentes of syluer for Jason. So whē he had gotten commaundementes fro the kynge / he came hauinge nothinge but becometh a pzeit / but bearinge the stomach of a cruell tyraunt / & the wrath of a wyld brute best. When Jason (which had dysceaued his awne brother) seinge that he him selfe was begyled also / was fayne to fle into the lande of the Ammonites / & Menelaus gat the domnyon. But as for the money he had promysed vnto the kynge / he dyd nothinge therein / when Sosistratus the ruler of the castell requyred it of him. For Sosistratus was a man that gathered the customes: wherfore they were both called before the kynge. Thus was Menelaus put out of the pzeit / & Appoloniuss his brother came in his steade. Sosistratus also was made lord of the Cyzus. It happened in the meane season / that the Chaldeans & Melochians made insurreccio / because they were geuen for a pzeit vnto kynge Antiochus concubyne. Then came the kinge in all the haste / to flyll them agayne / & to pacyfy the matter / leauing Andronicus there to be his debyte / as one mete therfore. Now Menelaus supposinge he had gotten a ryght comenient tyme / stole certayne vessels of golde out of the temple / & gaue them to Andronicus for a pzeit: & some he solde at Cyzus and in the cytys therby.

Which when Onias knewe of a suertye / he reproued him: but he kepte him in a Sanctuary besyde Daphnis / that lyeth by Antioche. Wherfore Menelaus gat hym to Andronicus / & prayed hym that he wolde save Onias. So whē he came to Onias / he conuiled him craftely to come out of the Sanctuary / geuyng him his hande with an othe (howe be it he suspecte him) and then he flew Onias / without any regarde of rightuousnesse. For the which cause not only the Jewes / but other nacionys also toke indignacion / & were displeased for the vnrightuous death of so goodly a man.

And when the kynge was come agayne from Cilicia / the Jewes and certayne of the Grekes wrote vnto him / complayninge for the vnrightuous death of Onias. Yee Antiochus hit self was soze in his mynde for Onias / so that it pited him / & he wepte / remembryng his sobernesse & manerly behauoure. Wherfore he was so kyndled in his mynde / he commaunded Andronicus to be strypped out of his purple clothinge / & so to be led thozow out all the cite: yee & the bngacious man to be layne in the same place / where he comytred his wyckednes vpon Onias. Thus the lord rewarded him his punishment / as he had deserued. Now when Lysimachus had done many wycked dedes in the temple thozow the counsell of Menelaus / & the voyce came abrode: the multitude gathered them together agaynst Lysimachus / for he had caried out now moche golde.

So when the people arose / and were full of dyspleasure / Lysimachus armed iiij. M. vnyrystes to defende him: a certayne tyraunt bringe their captayne / which was growen both in age & wylfulness. But whē the people vnderstode the purpose of Lysimachus / some gat stones / some good ströge clubbes / & some cast athes vpon Lysimachus. Thus there were many of the wounded / some beinge slayne / & all the other chased awaye. But as for the wycked churchober hym self / they killed hym besyde the treasury. Of these matters therfore there was kepte a court & a gaigne Menelaus. Now when the kynge came to Cyzus / they made a complaynte vnto him of Menelaus / concernyng this busynesse / and the embaystours were thre. But Menelaus wote a pzoyle Ptolomey to geue him him much money / yf he wolde perswade the king. So Ptolomey wēt to the kynge in to a court / (where as he was sett to coole him) & byoghē him out of that mynde. In so moche that he discharged Menelaus from the accusacions / that not withstandinge was cause of all myschefe: and those poore men / whych yf they had tolde the cause / yee before the Scythians / they shulde haue bene iudged innocent / them he condemned to death.

Thus were they soone punished / whych folowed vpon the matter for the cyte / for the people / and for the holy vessel. Wherfore they of Cyzus toke indignacion / and dyspyed them honozably. And so thozow the couetousnesse of them that were in power / Menelaus remayned still in authozyte / increasyng in malyce / to the hurte of the cytelens.

¶ Of the synnes and tokens sent in Jerusalem. Of the ende and offence of Jason. The pzeit of Antiochus agaynst the Jewes. The spoyle of the temple.

The .v. Chapter.

¶ At the same tyme Antiochus made hym ready to go agayne in to Egypte. Then were there sent at Jerusalem / xl. days longe / hostien tunnyng to and fro in the ayre / whych had rayment of golde / and speares. There were sene also whole hostes of men weapened / & hostes tunnyng in an ordye / how they came together / how they helde forth the shieldes / how the harnessed men dyd out their sweat / and thott their dartes.

The wyne of the golden weapens was sene / and of all maner of armure. Wherfore euery man prayed / that those tokens myght turne to good. Now when there was gone forth a false rumour / as though Antiochus had bene deed: Jason toke a M. men / and came sodenly vpon the cyte. The cytelens came vnto the walles / at the last was the cyte taken / & Menelaus fled in to the castell.

As for Jason / he spared not his awne cytelens in the slaughter / neither considered he what greete euill it were / to destroye the pzoyle of his awne kynsmen: but dys as one that had gotten the victorie of his enemyes / and not of his frendes. For all this gatt he not the supersozyte / but at the last receaued confurcion for his malyce / and fled agayne lyke a bagabunde in to the lande of the Ammonites.

Finally / for a reward of his wyckednesse / he was accused before Bretha the kynge of the Arabians: In so moche that he was fayne to fle from cyte to cyte / beyng despyled of euery man as a forsaker of the lawes / and an abhominable personne. And at the last

(as an open enemy of his awne natural countre and of the cytelens) he was dyspurned in to Egypte.

Thus he that afoze put many out of their awne natyue land / perished from home hym self. He wēt to Lacedemō / chynchinge there to haue gotten succoure by reason of kynred. And he that afoze had casten many one out vnder / was thozowen out hym self / no man mounyng for hym / ner puttynge him in his graue: so that he nethe enjoyed the buriall of a straunger / neither was he partaker of his fathers sepulchre.

Now when this was donie the kynge sut. ¶ pecte / that the Jewes wolde haue faile from hym: wherfore he came in a greete dyspleasure out of Egypte / and toke the cyte by violence. He commaunded hym self of warre also / so that they shulde hyl & not spare / but laye downe such as wylthode them / or slymmed by vpon the houses.

Thus was there a greete slaughter of yonge men / olde men / women / chyldren and byrgines. In iij. dayes were there slayne ixxx. M. fourty thousande put in pzeit / and no lesse solde. Yet was he not content with this / but durst go in to the most holy temple (where Menelaus that traytoure to the lawes and to his awne naturall countre / beyng his gyde) and with his wycked handes toke the holy vessel / whych other kynges & cytelens had geuen they: for the garmynginge & honour of the place: them toke he in his handes vnto wylthely / & despyled them.

Somado was Antiochus / that he considered not / how that God was a lytle wozth for the synnes of them that dwelt in the cite / for the which such confurcyd came vpon that place. And whyp it had not happened them to haue bene lapped in many tymes / this Antiochus (as soone as he had come) had sodenly bene punished / and thott out for his synnes. pzeit / lyke as Heliopodus was / whō Seleucus the kynge sente to robbe the treasury. Neuertheles God hath not chosen the people for the places sake / but the place for the peoples sake: and therfore is the place by come partaker of the peoples trouble / but afterwarde shall it enioye the wealth of them. And lyke as it is now forsaken in the wrath of Almyghty God / so when the greete God is reconcyled / it shall be set by in hye wozthippe agayne.

So when Antiochus had taken a M. and biiij. C. talentes out of the temple / he gat him to Antioche in all the haste / chynching in his pryde / that he myght make men sale vpon the byre land / and to go vpon the see / such an hye mynde had he. He lesse debytes there to be: & the people: At Jerusalem left he Philippe a

Wherof the maner is more cruell then he self set him there. At that tyme he left Andronicus and Melancthus / whiche were more greuous to cite then other. Now as he was thus set in malice agaynst the Jewes / he sent Appollonius an hated pynce / to take the maiding him to slay all those that were of perfect age / & to sell the women / maydes & childre.
Wher he cam now to Jerusalem / he founde pre-ce / & kepte it till the Sabbath daye. And then he commaunded his men to take the to their weapens / for the Jewes kepte holy daye / & so he slew all the that were gone forth to the place / standing here & there / so that the cite was weapened / & murdered a great nombre. But Judith Machabees whiche was the tenth / fled into a wilderness / led by the life there to his co-panye amonge wilde beastes & upon a mountain / dwellinge there / and eatinge grasse / lest they shuld be partakers of the synne.
The Jewes are compelled to leave the law of God.
The temple is despoiled. The readers are monyfyed that they shal not abhorre the aduersitie wherewith the Lord afflicted the. The greuous payne of Eleazar.

Chapter.

At longe after this / sent the king a messenger of Antioche / to the cite of Jerusalem to alter the ordinaunces of the fathers & the law of God / to defile the temple that was at Jerusalem / & to call it the temple of Jupiter Olympius / & the people shuld be in Sa-zarim / as those which dwell at the place of Jupiter & herbeuous. Whiche wicked counsaile of the king was heuyn by the people / for the temple was full of voluptuousnes / bibbinge & vol-ling of the deathe / of ribauds & harlots together. The women went into the holy place / & bare in that was not lawfull. The altar also was full of unlaful thinges / which the lawe forbode to laye vpon it. The Sabbathes were not kept / & other colde feastes of the lawe were not regarded. To be playne / there durst nomā be a knowe that he was a Jewe. In the daye of the king / by which they were compelled to force to offer / & whiche feast of Bachus was kepte / they were constrained to weare garlandes of pype / so to go aboute for the honour of Bachus.
Wherof the king & counsaile of Antioche / there went out a commaundment in the nexte cities of the deathe / & they shuld intreate the Jew-es in like maner / namely / to compel the to to sacrifice after the lawes of the Gentiles / & whoso wolde not / to put them to death. A pyreous thyng was it to se. There were / if we men accused to haue circised their sonne / wher when they had led roide aboute the cite (the babes hanging at their belles) they cast the downe headlonge ouer the walles. Some were crepte in to denne / & had kepte the Sabbath / were accused vnto Philippe / & bent in the pyre / because the king feared of God they kepte the commaundment to kill / & wolde not defende the selus. Now I beseeche all those which rede this booke / that they refuse it not for these fall of aduersite / & iudge the thinges that are happened / for no destruction / but for a chastenynge of oure people. And whiche the Lord suffereth not sinners to goe to folow their awne mynde / but shortly punisheth the / it is a token of his greate louynge kynndes. For this grace haue we of God more then other people / & he suffereth not vs longe to synne unpunished by the other nacjons / that when the daye of iudgment cometh / he maye punish the in the fulnes of their synnes. If we synne / he correcteth vs / but he neuer withdroweth his mercie fro vs / as though he punished aduersite / yet doth he neuer forsake his people. But lett this & we haue spokē now to few wordes / be for a warning & exhortaciō of the deathe. Now will we come to the declarynge of the matter. Eleazar one of the principall scribes / an aged mā & of a welltraied costenace / was constrained to gape to open his mouth to eat the swynes flesh. But he despyng rather to dye gloriously then to lyue in shame / offered him self willingly to the martyrdome. Now wher he sawe the hemmynge go to it / he toke it patiently / for he was at a poynte to die / & he wolde consente to no un-lawfull thing for any pleasure of life. They stode by being moued to pite (but not a right) for the olde frendshipe of the mā / toke him as depietely / & prayed him that he wolde let such fleshe be brought him as were lawfull to eat / & the

to make a costenace as though he had ea-te of the flesh of the sacrifice like as the king commaunded / for so he might be deliuered from death / & so for the olde frendshipe of the mā / they shewd him this kynndes. But he began to cōfesse his discreet & honorable age / his noble & worthy full stoke / & howe the Lord his youth by he had bene of an honest & good conuersaciō / ye & howe constantly he had kepte the ordinaun-ces & lawes commaunded by God / wherfore he gaue the this answer / & sayde / Yet had I rather first be laied in my graue / for it becommeth not myne age (sayde he) in any wyse to dissimble / wherby many yong personnes might thinke / & Eleazar being lxxx. yere olde & x.
were now gone to a straunge life / & so the yowmyne hypocryte / for a lytle tyme of a trasitōry life / they might be deceaued by this meane also shuld be defile myne age / & make it abhominable. For though I were now deliuered fro the tomyng of men / yet shuld I not escape the hand of almighty God / nether algaue nor deede.
Wherfore I will dye manfully / & do as it becommeth mine age / wherby I maye peradventure leue an exaple of stedfastnes for such as be yonge / yet I am a ready mynde & manfully dye an honest death / for I most worthy & holy lawe.
Wher

When he had sayde these wordes / immediately he was drawen to the tomyng. Now they that led hym & were myde a litle afoze / began to take dyspleasure because of the wordes that he sayde / for they thought he had spoken them of an hye mynde. But when he was in his martyrdome / he mourned and sayde / Thou Lord whiche hast the holy knowlege / knowest openly that wher as I might be deliuered from death / I suffer these soze paynes of my body / but in my mynde I am well content to suffer them / because I feare thee. Thus this man dyed / leauynge the memorial of his death for an exaple / not only vnto yonge men / but vnto all the people / to be stedfast and manly.

As he punished the synners of their mother.
The vij. Chapter.

It happened also that there were six brethren (with their mother) taken by the king agaynst the law / to eat swynes flesh / namely with scourges & lychen whippes. And one of them which was the chiefe / sayde / What se-dest thou / & what requyrest thou of vs / As for vs / we are ready rather to suffer death / then to offend the lawes of God and the fathers. When was the kinge angrye / and had brake cauldrons and brasen pottes / whiche when they were made hote / immediatly he commaunded the tonge of him that spake first to be cut out / to pul the skynne ouer his hea-de / to pare of the edges of his handes & feete / yet and that in the syght of his mother and the other of his brethren. Now when he was cleane mard / he commaunded a fyre to be made / and so (while there was any breath in him) to be tryed in the cauldron / In the which when he had bene longe payned / the other brethren with the mother exorted hym to dye manfully / sayenge / The Lord God shall regarde the treuth / and comforte vs / lyke as Moses testified and declarth in his songe / sayenge / and he will haue compayson on his seruauntes.

So when the fyrst was deede after this maner / they brought the seconde to haue him in derysion / pulled the skynne with the heare ouer his heade / & asked him / yet he wolde eate swynes flesh / or he were payned in the other membres also the yowme ouer his body. But he answered boldly / and sayde / I will not do it.
And so was he tomyng lyke as the first / & when he was euen at the geuyng by the good he sayde / Thou most bngacious personne puttest vs now to death / but the kyng of the world shall rayle vs vp (whiche dye for his lawes) in the resurrection of euerylastynge life.
After hym / was the thyrde had in derysion / and when he was requyred / he putt out his tonge / and that right soone / holdynge forth his handes manfully / and spake to the a stedfast faith / These haue I of heauen / but now for the lawe of God I despyse them / for my trust is / that I shall receaue them of him agayne. In so much that the kyng and they which were with hym / marvelled at the yonge mans boldnesse / that he nothyng regarded the paynes.

Now when he was deede also / they bered the fourth with tomynges in lyke maner. And when he was now at his death / he sayde / It is better that we beynge put to death of man haue our hope and trust in God / for he shall rayle vs vp agayne. As for the / thou shalt haue no resurrection to lyfe.

And when they had spoken to the fyrst / they tomynged him. When looked he vnto the kinge / & sayde / thou hast power amonge us / for thou art a mortall man also thyself / to do what thou wilt / but thinke not / that God hath forsaken oure generaciō. Whiche the kinge still a while / and thou shalt se the great power of God / how he will punish the a thy fede. After hym they brought the fyfte / whiche beinge at the poynte of death / sayde / We not disceaued (the king) for this we suffer for our owne sakes / because we haue offended oure God / & therfore marvelous thynges are shewed vpon vs. But thinke not thou / whiche takest in hande to stryue agaynst God / that thou shalt escape unpunished.

This excellent mother (worthy to be well reposed of / and had in remembrance) sawe her seven sonnes dye in one daye / and suffered it patiently / because of the hope that she had in God / yet she exorted every one of them in esperaill / and that boldly and stedfastly to partye with dome / & akyng by her wyse thought with a manly stomache / and sayde vnto them / I can not tell how ye came in my wombe / for I nether gaue you brethren to be le / nor to lyfe. It is not I that toyne the members of your bodies together / but the maker of the world / whiche fashioned the byrth of man / & began all thynges. When he also of his awne mercye shal geue you breath and life agayne like as ye now regarde not oure awne selus for his lawes sake.

Now thought Antiochus that she had despyed him / therfore he lett her go with her reprochs / and beganne to exorte the yongest sonne (whiche yet was leste) not to be but to goe vnto him in an oath / & he shuld make hym a rich & welthy man / yet he wolde forsake the lawes of his fathers / yet and he shuld geue him / what so euer were necessary for him. But when the yonge mā wolde not be moued / for all these thynges / he called his mother / and collected her to saue her sonnes lyte. And whē he had exhorted her wth many wordes, he promysed hym that he shoulde speake vnto her sonne. So she turned her vnto hym (laughynge the cruelle payn to scorn) and spake wth a bolde voyce: O my sonne, haue pitie vpon me; that saye I ly. monethes in my wybe; that gaue the sucke; noysshed the & brought the vp vnto this age.

O beseeche the (my sonne) loke vpon heauē and earth and all that is therein / and confesse; that God made them and mans generacyon of nought: so shalt thou not feare thys hangman / but suffer death stedfastly / lyke as thy brythren haue done: that I maye receaue the agayne in the same mercy wth thy brythren.

Whyle she was yet speakynge these wordes, the yonge mā sayde: Whom loke ye for? Wherfore do ye saye? I will not obeye the kyniges commaundment; but the lawe that God gaue vs by Moyses. As for the that ymagyneth all myschance agaynst the Jewes / thou shalt not escape the hande of God / for we suffer these thynges; because of our synnes.

And though God be angry wth vs a lytle whyle (for our chastyng and refozmaycyon) yet shall he beate one agayne wth hys seruantes. But thou. (O shamefull and most abhominable personne.) Wyldest thou self thow wagne hope / in beyng so malicious vpon the seruantes of God: for thou hast not yet escaped the iudgment of the God whych is almyghty / and seyth all thynges. Why brythren that haue suffered a lytle payne are now vnder the couenaunt of euerslastynge lyfe: but thow the iudgment of God? thou shalt be punysshed righteously for thy pryde.

As for me (like as my brythren haue done) I offre my soule and my body for the lawes of our fathers / callynge vpon God; that he wyl soone be merciful vnto our people: yee and wth payne and punysshment to make the graunte; that he only is God. Tyme now and in my brythren the wrath of almyghty God is at an ende / whych righteously is fallen vpon all our people.

When the kynge beyng enuied in anger was moze cruell vpon hym; then vpon all the other / and toke indignacion; that he was so righty regarded. So thys yonge man was vndeuyled / & put hys trust vpon the Lorde. Last of all after the sonnes / was the mother put to death also. Lett thys now be enough spoken; concernynge the offynses / and extreme cruellnesse.

Judas gathereth together hys host. Nicanor is sent agaynst Judas. Judas exhorteth his souldiers to couraiges. Nicanor is overcome. The Jewes geue thanks after they haue put their enemies to flight; buryng the spoyles vnto the fatherles and vnto the wydes. Nicanor dyeth vnto Antiochus.

The. lxxvii. Chapter.

Ben Judas Machabeus and they that were with hym / wente ppyrly in to the towne / called they synnfolkes and frendes together / toke vnto them all such as contynued yet in the sayth and lawe of the Jewes / & brought forth vij. M. men.

So they called vpon the Lorde / that he wolde haue an eye vnto hys people / whych was trodden downe of eueryman: to be gracious vnto the temple / that was despyled of the vngodly: to haue compassion vpon the destruction of the cytye / whych was shortly lyke to be layed waste / to heare the voyce of the bloude that cryed vnto hym: to remembre the most bryghteous deathe of yonge innocent chylde; the blasphemys also done vnto hys name / and to punyssh them.

Now when Machabeus had gathered thys multitude together / he was to myghty for he beate them (for the wrath of the Lorde was turned in to mercy) he fell vpon the towne and cytyes bywarres / dynt them toke the most commodious places / and slew many of the enemies. But specially he made such chases by nyght / in so much that hys manynesse was spoken of euerywhere.

So when Philippe sawe that the man was increased by litle and litle / and that the matter prospered wth hym for the most parte: he wrote vnto Ptolomey (whych was a captayne in Celosyria & Phenecy) to helpe hym in the kynges busynes. When sent he Decanor Patrocle (a speccall frende of hys) in all the haste / and gaue hym of the comen fozte of the Heathen no lesse then xx. M. harnessed men / to rote out the whole generacyon of the Jewes / haungynge to helpe hym one Gorgias a man of warre / whych in matters concernynge battayls had great experience. Nicanor ordeined also a trybute (whych the Romaynes shoulde haue had) to be geuen vnto the kynge / out of the captiuite of the Jewes / namely ij. M. talentes. And immediately he sent to the cyties of the see coast / requyringe them for to bye Jewes to be their seruantes & bonde men / promysynge to sell the lxx. and ten for one talente: but he considered not the wrath of almyghty God / & was to come vpon hym.

When Judas knewe of thys / he tolde the Jewes that were wth hym of Nicanors comynge. Now were there some of them fearfull / not trustynge vnto the rightuousnes of God and led their waye.

But the other that remained / came together and besought the Lorde / to deliuer them from that wycked Nicanor / whych had solde had solde them of euer he came nye them: & though he wolde not do it for their sakes / yet for the couenaunt that he made wth the fathers / & because they called vpon hys holy & glorious name. And so Machabeus called his men together / namely aboute vij. M. exortynge them not to agree vnto their enemies nether to be afrayed for a multitude of their aduersaries comynge agaynst them bryghteously: but to fight manly / considerynge the reproche that they had done to the holy place without cause / how they had despyled and oppressed the cytye / yee & destroyed the lawes of the fathers. For they (sayde he) trust in their weapons and boldnesse / but oure confidence is in the almyghty Lorde / whych in the twyncklynge of an eye maye both destroye them that come agaynst vs / and all the world.

He exorted them also to call to remembrance the helpe / that God shewed vnto their fathers: as when there perished an C. & lxxv. M. of Sennacheribs people: And of a batall of thephar in Babilon agaynst a Gallaryan: how & all the Macedonys & came to helpe the / fode in feare: & how they being but only vij. M. slew an C. & xx. M. thow the helpe that was geuen them from heauen / wherby they also had receaued many benefites.

Thow these wordes the men toke good vertes vnto them / ready to bye for the lawe & the costre. So he sett vpon euery company a captaine / one of his awne brythre: Simo / Joseph & Jonathan: geuyng eche one xv. C. men. He caused also to reade the holy booke vnto them / and to geue them a token of the helpe of God.

Then he himself beinge captayne in a foze front of the battayll / buckled wth Nicanor / And God was their helpe / in so much that they slewe aboute ix. M. men & compelled a moze parte of Nicanors host to fle / they were so wounded & seable. Thus they toke the money from those that came to bye them / & folowed vpon them on euery syde. But whē the tyme came vpon them / they returned / for it was the Sabbath / and therfore they folowed none vpon them. So they toke their weapons & spoyles & kepte the Sabbath / geuyng thanks vnto the Lorde / whych had deliuered them that daye / and shewed them his mercy. After the Sabbath they distributed the spoyles to the sike / to the fatherlesse and to wyddowes / and the resyde had they them selues wth theirs. When this was done / and they all had made a generall prayer: they besought the mercifull Lorde to be at one wth his seruantes.

Of those also that were wth Amotheus and Sachides / whych fought agaynst them / they slewe xx. M. wanne hys and stronge holdes / and deuided moze spoyles: euer geuyng an equal porcion vnto sike / to fatherlesse to wyddowes & to aged persons. And when they had diligently gathered their weapons together / they layed them all in conueniente places / & the remnaunt of a spoyles brought they to Jerusalem. They slewe Phylarches that wicked personne / whych was wth Amotheus / and had beryed many Jewes. And when they helde the thankes geuyng at Jerusalem for the victorie / they bent those that had sett fyre on the portes of the temple: namely Callisthenes / whych was fled in to an house / and so they gatt a worthy reward for they wyckednesse. As for that most vnglacous Nicanor / whych had brought a thousande marchantes / to bye the Jewes / he was thow the helpe of the Lorde brought downe euen of them whom he regarded not: in so much & he put of hys glorious rayment / fled by see / and came alone to Antioche / wth greateshame and dishonour / whych he gatt thow the destruction of hys host. Thus he & promysed the Romaynes to paye them their tribute / when he toke Jerusalem: began now to sape plainly / that God was the defender of the Jewes / & therfore not possible to moue them / because they folowed the lawes whych God had made.

Antiochus willing to spoye Jerusalem is byruen to flight. As he persecuteth the Jewes / he is stryck of the Lorde. He sayeth repentance of Antiochus. He dyeth.

The. lxxviii. Chapter.

The same tyme came Antiochus agayne to by honoure out of Persia. For when he came to Persopolis / and vnder toke to robbe the temple and to subdue the cite / the people ranne together and defended the selues / in so much that he and his were sayne to sle wth shame. And so after that flight / it happened / that Antiochus came agayne wth by honoure. But when he came to Egbatana / he gatt knowledge what was happened vnto Nicanor & Amotheus. Now as he was amauynge himself in hys wrath / he thought he was able to abenge the iniury that was done to them / vpon the Jewes: and therfore commaunded to make ready hys chare / hapyngynge on hys iourney wythout crasyng / the iudgement of God prouokinge him / because he had spoken so proudly / that he wolde come to Jerusalem / and make it a graue of the Jewes. But the Lorde God of Israel / that seyth all thynges / smote hym wth an inspyble plague / whych no man coulde heale.

xxx. 402

The seconde booke

For as soone as he had spoken these wordes, there came vpon hym an horrible payne of his bowles / and a soze greife of the charmes. And that was but right: for he had martyred other mens howels with dyuerse and straunge tormentes / howebeit he wolde in no wise ceasse from his malice. For he was yet the prouder and more malicious against the Jewes: But while he was commaunding to make haste in the matter, it happened that he felldowne violently from the charret, so that it brysed his body / and by hym greate payne.

And so he that thought he myght commaunde the floudes of the see (so proude was he beyonde the condycion of man) and to weye the hye mountaynes in a paye of scales / was now brought downe to the grounde / & caried vpon an horsslytter / knowlegynge the manifeste power of God vpon hym: so that the wicked body of his was ful of wormes / whych in his payne fell quyk out of his fleshe: In so much that his hooft was greued with the smell and syncke of hym. Thus he that a lytle afore thought he myght reach to the starres of heauen / hym myght no man now abyde ner beare / for the vehemence of syncke.

Wherfore he beyng brought from his greate pynde, beganne for to come to knowlege of hym self: for the punishment of God warned hym / and his payne increased ever more and more. And when he hym self might not abyde his awne syncke / he sayde these wordes: It is reason to be obedient vnto God and that a man desyre not to be lyke vnto hym. Whys wycked personne prayed also vnto the Lorde / of whom he shoulde haue obtained no mercy. And as for the cytie that he came vnto so hastily / to bynge it downe to the grounde / and to make it a graue for deed men: now he desyeth to deliuer it free.

And as touching the Jewes / whom he had iudged not worthy to be buried / but wolde haue cast the out for to be deuoured of foules & wilde beastes / sayenge / that he wolde haue destroyed both olde and yonge: Now he promyseth / to make them lyke the cytyens of Athens. And where as he had spoiled the holy temple afore / now he maketh promys to garnish it with greate giftes / to increase the holy ornamente / and of his awne rentes to beare the cosse / and charges belonging to the offeringes: yee and that he wolde also become a Jewe hym self / to go thowt every place of the worlde / and to preach the power of God.

But when his paynes wolde not ceasse / (for the righteous iudgment of God was come vpon hym) out of a very despayre he wrote into the Jewes a lettre of intercession / concerning these wordes: The kynge and prince Antiochus wytheth vnto the vertuous cietyens of the Jewes / much health and good prosperite.

I ye and youre children fare well / and of all thinges go after youre mynde: we geue greate thanks. In my sicknesse also do I remembre you loungly: for as I came out of Persya / and was taken with soze dysease: I thought it necessary to care for my comwealth. Whether despayre I in my self / but haue a good hope to escape this sickness.

But consyderynge that my father led an hooft sometime in the hyer places / and thewed who shoulde ragge after hym / that if there happened any cotrouerisy / or any hard thyng were declared / they in the lande might knowe their cheste lorde / that there shoulde be no insurreccion: Agayne / when I ponde by my self / how that all the myghty men and neighbours rounde aboute / are layenge waste / and loke but for oportynyte to do harme: I haue ordered that my sonne Antiochus shall ragge after me / whom I oft commended to many of you / when I was in the hyer kyngdomes / and haue wyrtten vnto hym as it foloweth herafter. Wherfore I praye you requyre you / to remembre the benedyctes that I haue done vnto you generally and in especiall. For I hope that he shal be of sober & lounge behauiour / & if he folowe my desyre / he shal be indyfferent vnto you.

Thus that murthurer and blasphemare of God was soze synneth: & lyke as he had intreated other men / so he dyed a miserable death in a straunge countre vpon a mountayne. And his body byd Philyppe (that went with hym) carry away: whych fearynge the sonne of Antiochus / wente in to Egypte to Ptolomy Philometor.

Judas Machabeus taketh the cytie & the temple. He beginneth to write the actes of Eupator. The Jewes feght agaynst the Idumeans: Timotheus inuadeth Jerusaleme / with whom Judas fought battell. All men aspre in the ayre to the helpe of the Jewes. Timotheus is slayne.

The x. Chapter.

Machabeus now and his company (thowt the helpe of the Lorde) I. Mach. 10. 1. swanne the temple and the cytie agayne / destroyed the alters and chapels & the heathen had buylded thowt the stretes: cleansed the temple / made another altier of brycke stone / & after .ii. yeres they offered sacrificys / set forth the incense / the lyghtes & thewe bryd. When that was done / they fell downe flat vpon the grounde / and besought the Lorde / that they myght come nomore in to soch trouble: but if they synned any more enymore agaynst him / he himself to chastise them with mercy / and not to come in the habes of those aleauntes and blasphemous men.

Now vpon the same daye that the straungers polluted the temple / it happened that on the very same daye it was clenched agayne: namely / the .xxiiij. daye of the moneth called Casleu. They kepte .viij. dayes in gladnesse / lyke as in the feast of the tabernacles: remembreynge that not longe afore / they helde the feast of the tabernacles vpon the mountaynes and in demnes lyke beastes. And to the same token they bare grene bowes / bryanches and palmes before him that had geuen them good fortune to cleanse his place. They agreed also together / and made a statute / that every yere those dayes shoulde be solemly kepte of all the people of the Jewes.

How Antiochus then (that was called the noble) dyed / it is sufficiently tolde. Now will we speake of Ptolemy the sonne of that wicked Antiochus / how it happened with him: and so with few wordes to comprehend the aduersyte that chaunced in the warres. When he had take in the kyngdome / he made one Lysias (whych had bene captayne of the host in Phenices and Siria) ruler ouer the matters of the realme. For Ptolomy that was called Macron / beyng a ruler for the Jewes (and specially / to sit in iudgment for soch wronge as was done vnto them) under toke to deale peaceably with them. For the which cause he was accused of the frenches before Eupator: and when he was suspecte to be a traytoure (because he had left Cyprus that Philometor had committed vnto hym: and because he departed from noble Antiochus / that he was come vnto) he poisoned him selfe / and dyed.

Now when Bogias was gouernour of the same places / he toke straungers and under toke of tymes to warre with the Jewes. Wherouer the Idumeans that helde the stronge holdes / receaued those that were buyen from Jerusalem / and toke in hande to warre also. But they that were with Machabeus besought and prayed vnto the Lorde / that he wolde be their helper: and so they fell in to the stronge holdes of the Idumeans / and wanne many places by strength: Soch as came agaynst them they slew / and killed no lesse (of all together) then twenty thousande. Neuerthelesse some / no lesse then nyne thousande / were fled in to two stronge towres / haunye all maner of ordynance to withstande them.

Then Machabeus leauing Symon / Josephus / Zacharius and those that were with them (whych were very many) wente to besee ge them / and to fight where most neede was. Now they that were with Symon beyng led with courtownesse / were intreated for money / thowt certayne of those that laye in the towres: toke .iij. M. machmas / & let some of them escape. But when it was tolde Machabeus what had happened / he called the captaynes of the people together / accusynge those personnes / that they had tolde the bytzen for money / and lett their enemyes go. So he slewe those traytours / and immediatly wente in hande with the .iiij. towres. And whē they had ordred them selues manly with their weapens and handes / they slewe in the two castels moe then twenty thousande.

Now Timotheus whom the Jewes had overcome afore / gathered a multitude of strange people / brought an hoste also of horsmen of the Arians / to wyne Jewry by strength. But when he dyeme nye / Machabeus & they that were with hym fell to their prayer / sprinkled ashes vpon their heades / beyng gyrded with bearric cloth about their loynes / fell downe before the altier / and besought the Lorde that he wolde be mercifull to them / but an enemye vnto their enemyes / and to take parte agaynst their aduersaries / accordynge as it is promysed in the lawe. So after the prayer / they wente on further from the cytie: and when they came nye the enemyes / they prepared them selues agaynst them.

And by tymes in the mornyng at the break of the daye / both the hostes buckled together. The one parte had the Lorde for their refuge / whych is the geuer of prosperite / strength and victorie. The other had a manly stomack / whych is a captayne of warre.

The battayll now beyng grete / there appeared vnto the enemyes from heauen .iij. M. men vpon horsbackes with byrds of golde / ledynge the Jewes / and two of them haunye Machabeus betwixte them / that kepte him safe on every syde with theyr weapens / but shot darters and lightenynges vpon the enemyes: where thowt they were confounded with blindness & so soze afrayed / that they fell downe. There were slayne of eote men twenty thousande and fyue hundred / and fyve hundred horsmen. As for Timotheus himselfe / he fled vnto Gazar a very stronge holde / wherin Cereas was captayne. But Machabeus and his company layed sege to it chearfully .iiij. dayes.

Now they that were within trustynge to the strength of the place / cursed and banished exceedingly / and made greate cryinge with wycked wordes. Neuerthelesse geuen them the victory.

The 11th Chapter.

When these covenantes were made / Astas wente into the kyng / & the Jewes tyllid their grounde. But Cimotheus / Appollonius & Sonne of Genet / Jerome and Demophon & Proude / Ricanor the captayne of Cypers / & they that laye in those places: wolde not lett them lyue in rest and peace. Chy of Toppa also dyd euen such a shamefull dede. They prayed the Jewes that dwelt amonge them / to go with their wyues and chyldren in to & Appes which they had prepared / and dyd with them / as though they had ought the no euell will. For so moch then as there was gone forth a generall pzoclamacion thoro the Cytte because of peace / they consented ther-to / a suspecte nothyng: but when they were gone forth in to the depe / they drowned no lesse then .xj. of them,

When Judas knew of this cruelte thewred vnto his people / he commaunded those that were with him to make the ready / exhorting them to call vpon God the ryghtuous iudge: went forth agaynst those murthurers of his breythen / let fyre in the haue by nyght / brett vpon the wyppes / and those that escaped from the fyre / he slewe with the swearde. And whē is he had done thys / he departed as though he wolde come agayne / and rote out all them of Joppa. But when he had gotten worde that the Jamnites were mynded to do in lyke maner vnto the Tewes which dwelt amōge the / he came vpon the Jamnites by nyght / & lett fyre in the hauen with the wyppes: so that the lyght of the fyre was sene at Ierusalem / vpon a .ij. C. and .xl. furlonges.

Now when they were gone from thence
ix. hundredes / in their journey towards Ci-motheus. v. thousande men of foce and. v. hundredz hoisemen of the Arabians fought with hym. So whē the battell was earnest / and prospered with Judas thezow the helpe of God: the residue of the Arabians beinge ouercome / besought Judas to be at one wth them / & promysed to geue hym certayne patures / and to do hym good in other thynges.
Judas thynkeynge that they shulde in orde be profytable concernynge many thynges / promysed them peace: wherbyon they shoke handes / and so they departed to their tentes.
Judas wente also vnto a cyyte / whych was very faste kepte with byrdes / fenced round about wth walles / and dyuerse kyndes of people dwellynge therein / called Caspin.

They that were within it / put such trust in the strenght of the walles / & in their floare of bytales: that they were the flacker in their doynges / cuttyng and reuyllyng Judas wth blasphemys / and speakyng such wordes as it becommeth not. But Sathabens cal-lyng vpon the greates Prynce of the worlde (whych without any battayllrammes or ordynaunce of warre / dyd cast downe the walles of Jericho / in the tyme of Josue) fell Ioue, ble: manfully vpon the walles / toke the ctye / & (thozow the helpe of the Lorde) made an exceedyng greates slaughter: In so much that a lake of two furlonges brode whych laye therby / semed to flowe wth the bloude of the dayne.

Then departed they from thence. vij. C. x. furlonges / and came to Caracanto the fennes that are called Tubianet. But as for Amoth^r / they coude not get him there: for (not one matter dyspatched) he was departed from thence / and had lesse certayne rich in a very stronge holde. But Dositheus & Sosipater / which were Captaynes wyth Machabeus / slewe those & Timotheus had left in the house of defence / c. x. men. And Machabeus prepared him with the. vi. men & were aboute him / let them in & by by companies / and wente forth agaynst Timotheus / which had with him an. c. and xx. men of fote. ii. c. and. v. c. horsemen. When Timotheus had knowledge of Judas commynge / he sent the women / chyldren and the other baggage into a castell called Carnion. For it coulde not be wone / & was harde to come into / the wayes of the same places were so narrow / and whē Judas company came fyrst in syght / the enemyes were smytten with feare / thow the presence of God / which seyth all thynges: In so moch & they sleynge one here / another there / were rather discomfited of their awne people / and wounded wth strokes of their awne weapons. Judas also was very earnest in followynge upon them punishynge those vngodly / and slewe xxx. men of them. Timotheus also himselfe fell in to the handes of Dositheus and Sosipater / whom he besought wth many prayers / to let him go with his lyfe: because he had many of the Jewes fathers & brethren in prison / which (if they put hym to death) myght be disapoynted. So whē he had promysed faythfully to despyer the agayne according to the condicpon made / they let him go without harme / for the health of the brethren. And when Judas had slayne. x. men. he wente from Carnion.

Now after & he had chased away & slayne his enemyes / he remoued the holte towarde Ephron a stronge cite / wherein dwelt many bquerle people of the heathen / & the stronge ponge men kepte the walles / defendynge the myghtely. In this cite was moch ordynance / and prouysion of darters. But when Judas and his company had called vpon Almighty God (which wth his power breaeth the strength of the enemyes) they wanne the cite / and slewe. x. men of them / that were within. From thence wente they to the cite of the Socythians / which lyeth. vi. c. fur longes from Jerusalem. But whē & Jewes which were in the cite refused / that & cite-tyens deale soungly with them / yee and treated them kindly in the tyme of their aduerfite / Judas and his company gaue them thanches / despyng them to be frendly still into them: and so they came to Jerusalem the hye feast of the wekes beyng at hande. And after the feast they went forth agaynst Gorgias the gouernoure of Idumea / wyth iii. c. men of fote &. lxx. c. horsemen. Which when they met together / it chaunced a fewe of the Jewes to be slayne. And Dositheus & one of the Bachenors a myghty ho / ma to the holde of Gorgias / and wolde haue takē him quyetly: But an horsman of Chyacta fell vpon him / and smote of his arme / so that Gorgias escaped & fled in to Mozeia. When they now & were of Gorgias lyde / had soughte longe & were weary: Judas called vpon the Lorde that he wolde be their helper / & captayne of the felde: and with that / he beganne wyth a manly hope to take by a longe of prayer / & a crye: In so moch that he made the enemyes afrayed / and Gorgias men of warre toke their flight. So Judas gathered his holte / & came in to the cite of Mozeia. And when the seuenth daye came vpon them / they censed them selues (as & custome was) & kepte the Sabbath in the same place. And vpon the daye followynge / Judas & his company came to take by the bodies of those that were slayne / and to burye the in the fathers graues. Now vnder the cotes of certayne Jewes which were slayne / they founde Jewels that they had takē out of the temple & from the Treasuries of the Jamiters: which thyng is soz byddē of the Jewes by the lawe. When every mā saw that this was the cause / wherfoze they were slayne.

And so every man gaue thanches vnto the Lorde for his ryghtuous iudgment / which had opened the thyng that was hyd. They fell downe also vnto their prayers / and besought God / & the lawe which was made / might be put out of remembrance. Besydes that / Judas exorted the people earnestly / to kepe the selues from forch synne: for so moch as they sawe before their eyes / & these men were slayne for the same offence. So he gathered of every one a certayne / in so moch & he brought together two thousande Machabes of syner / which he sent vnto Gerusalem / that there myght a sacrifice be offered for the mysdede. In the which place he dyd well and ryght: for he had some consyderacyon & ponderynge of the lyfe that is after this tyme. For he had not thought that they / which were slayne / dyd yet lyue / it had bene superfluous / & to make any bowe of sacrifice / for those that were dead. But for so moch as he sawe / that they which dye in the sauoure & beleue of God / are in good rest and sope / he thought it to be good & honozable for a redemptiō / to do & same for those which were slayne / & the offence myght be sozgeuen.

The alowe the ceremonye of Chyistening for the dead / namoure dothe any place of the canonycall scripture alowe the ceremonye of offerynge for the dead. Forthermore / this holden of the Machabees / and specially this second / is not of sufficient auctorite to make an article of our faith as it is before sufficently proued by the auctorite of the Jewes in the prouoke of these bookes called Apocrypha.

The chynge of Supat in to Jewrye. The death of Demetrius. Machabeus goynge to fight agaynst Supator / moueth his souldiers vnto prayer. He killeth xlii thousande men in the tentes of Antiochus. As he dothe the betwex of the Jewes is taken. Antiochus retaketh frendship with the Jewes.

The. xlii. Chapter.

In the. xlii. years past Judas knewlege / that Antiochus Supator was commynge wyth a greate power in to Jewrye / & Lysias the Stewarde and ruler of his matters with him / haunge an. c. and. x. men of fote. v. c. horsemen. x. elephants / and. lxx. charrettes. Demetrius also loyned him self wyth them / but wyth greate dyscreete / and spake saye to the kynge / not for any good of the countre / but because he thought to haue bene made some greate man of auctoryte. But the kynge of hungen moued Antiochus mynde agaynst this vngodly personne / and Lysias inuournd the kynge / that this Demetrius was the cause of all mychele: so that the kynge commaunded to take him / and (as the maner of them is) to put hym vnto death in the same place.

There was also in the same place a towne of. l. cubytes hye / heapped with alshes: but about it was so made / that men myghte loke downe on euery lyde. Where in to the kynge commaunded that shamefull person to be cast amonge the alshes / as one that was cause of all vngodlynesse. And reason it was / that & bychist shulde dye such a death / and not to be buried: for he had done much myschefe vnto the aulter of God (whose syre & alshes were holy) therfore was it right / & behim self also shulde be destroyed wth alshes.

But the kynge was woode in his mynde and came to shewe hym self more cruell vnto the Jewes / then his father was. Which when Judas perceaued / he commaunded the people to call vpon the Lorde myght and daye: that he wolde now helpe them also / lyke as he had done allwaye: for they were afrayed to be put from their lawe / from their naturall countre and from the holy temple: and not to suffer the people (which a lyte whyle afore beganne to recouer) to be subdued agayne of & blasphemous nacions.

So when they had done this together / and besought the Lorde for mercy / with wepyng and fastynge thre dayes longe / stode vpon the grounde: Judas exorted them / to make them selues ready. But he and the elders together drayfed / to go forth first wyth their people / afore the kynge brought his hoost in to Jewrye / and afore he beseged the cite / & so to commytte the matter vnto God. Wherfoze he ascribeth the power of all thynges vnto God the maker of the world / exhortynge his people to fight manfully / (yee euen vnto death) for the lawes / the temple / the cite / their awne natyue countre / and to defende the criteyns: and let his hoost before God. He gaue them also that were wyth hym / a token of the vctory of God / sholynge out the manifest ponge men / twenty by nyght in to the hynge pauplyon / slewe of the hoost. xlii. men / & the greatest Elephantes / wyth those that satt vpon them.

Thus when they had brought a greate feare and rumour amonge the tentes of their enemyes / and all thynges went prosperously wyth them / they departed in the breahe of the daye / God beyng their helper and defender. Now when the kynge perceaued the manlynesse of the Jewes / he wente aboute to the take the stronge places by craft / and remoued his hoost vnto Bethsura / which was a well kepte house of defence of the Jewes: but they were chased away / hurte and dyscomfyted.

And Judas sent vnto them that were in it / such thynges as were necessary. In the Jewes hoost also there was one Rhodocus / which tolde the enemyes their secretes: but they sought him out / and when they had gotten hym / they put hym in prison. After this dyd the kynge comen wyth them that were in Bethsura / toke truce wyth them / departed / and broke a battayl wyth Judas / which ouer came him.

But when he vnderstode / that Phylippe (whē he had left to be ouerfeer of his busynesse at Antioche) beganne to rebel agaynst hym / he was astonysed in his mynde: so that he yelued hym self to the Jewes / and made the an othe / to do whatsoeuer they thoughte ryght.

Now when he was reconcyled wyth them / he offered / made moch of the temple / gaue greate gyltes vnto it / embraced Machabeus / maynge hym captayne and gouernour vnto Ptolonays vnto the Serrenes.

Nevertheless when he came to Ptolonays / the people of the cite were not content wyth that bonde of frendshype: for they were afrayed / that he wolde breahe the couenaint. Then wente Lysias vnto the feate / and enuournd the people / shewed the cause why / and pacified them. So he came agayne to Antioche. This is now the matter concernynge the hynge's iourney / & his returne.

The morpon of the Lorde / Demetrius sendeth Nicanor to hyll the Jewes. Nicanor maketh a compact wth the Jewes / which he yet breaeth through the morpon of the kynge. Nicanor commaundeth Machabeus to be taken. The boldnes of Razia.

The. xliii. Chapter.

After

After the peates was Judas in-loured/how that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come up with a greates power and myppes/thorow the haven of Tripolis/to take certaine commodious places and countrees/agaynst Antiochus & his captayne Lyfias.
Now Alcimus (which had bene hys prest/& wylfully despyled hym self/in the tyme of the myrtynge) seing / & by no meanes he coude be helpe / nerhaue any moze intrauce to the aultare: he came to kynge Demetrius in the hundredth and one & fiftie yere / presentyng vnto him a crowne of golde / a palme & an olyue tree: which (as men thought) belonged to the temple / & that daye he helde his tonge. But whē he had gotte oportynite for his madnesse / Demetrius called hym to coun-cell / and asked hym / what thynges oꝝ coun-cels the Jewes leane vnto? He answered: The Jewes that be called Alcides (whose captaine is Judas Machabeus) maynteyne warres / make insurreccions / and wyl not let the realme be in peace.

For I beynge depꝑued of my fathers ho-noure (I meane the hys presthode) am come hyther: partly because I was saydfull vnto the kynge / and partly because I sought the profyt of & cytelins. And whys all oure people / thorow the wickednesse of them / are not a litle troubled. Wherfore I beseeche the (O kynge) confydre all these thynges diligently / and then make some prouision for the lande and the people / accoꝝdyng to & kyndenesse that thou hast offred vnto them. For as longe as Judas hath the byperthade / it is not possible that men can lyue in peace.

When he had spoken these wordes / other frendes also hauinge euell wyl at Judas / sett the kynge Demetrius on fye agaynst him. Which immediately sent Alcimus (ruler of the Elephantes) a captayne / in to Jeruſalem: commaundyng hym / to take Judas him selfe alpye / but to slaye them that were with him / and to make Alcimus hys prest of the temple.

When the Heathen whych fled out of Jeruſalem from Judas / came to Alcimus by doches / thynchyng the harme and decaye of & Jewes to be their welfare. Now when the Jewes herde of Alcimus commynge / and the gathering together of the Heathen: they spꝛeked the selues with earth / & besought hym / which made them hys people / & euer defended his awne poꝛcion with euident tokens / that he wolde pꝛeserue them tyll. So at the commaundment of the captayne / they remoued from thence / and came to a towne called Bethſan. And Symon Judas brother fell in hande with Alcimus / but thorow the sodane commynge of the enemyes / he was afrayed.

Neuertheles Alcimus hearinge the mannynges of them that were with Judas / & the bolde stomaches that they had to fyght for their naturall countrey / durst not proue the matter with bloodsheddyng. Wherfore he sent Demetrius / Theodocius & Mathias besoꝛe / to geue and to take peace. So when they had taken longe aduysment there byd / and the captayne shewed it vnto the multy-tude: they were agreed in one mynde / to haue peace. And they appoynted a daye to fyt byd these matters quyetly amonge them selues / the stoles also were brought and set forth.
Nevertheles Judas commaunded certayne men of armes to wayte in conuenient places / lest there shulde sodenly arysse any euell thorow the enemyes. And so they commoned reasonably together.

Alcimus / whyle he abode at Jerusalem / ordꝛed hym selfe not vnreasonably / but sent awaye the people that were gathered together. He loued Judas euer with his herte / and fauoured him. He prayed hym also to take a wyse / and to byngne forth chylzen. So he marryed / lyued in rest / and they led a comen lyfe. But Alcimus perceauynge the loue & was betwixte them / and how they were a-gred together / came to Demetrius / & tolde him that Alcimus had taken straunge matters in hande / and ordꝛed Judas (an enemy of the realme) to be the kynges successeur.
Then the kynge was soꝛe displeased / & tho-row & wyched accusacyōs whych Alcimus made of Alcimus / he was so prouoked / that he wrote vnto Alcimus / sayng: that he was beryng angrie for & frendshyppe and agrement / whych he had made with Machabeus. Ne-uertheles he commaunded hym in all & haste / that he shulde take Machabeus pꝛesoner / and sende him to Antioche.

Whych litters when Alcimus had sene / he was at his wyttes ende / and soꝛe grieved that he shulde byrke the thynges wherby they had agreed: specially / sayenge Machabeus was the man / that neuer dyd hym har-me. But because he myghte not with stande the kynge / he sought oportynite to fulfil his commaundment. Not withstanding when Machabeus sawe that Alcimus beganne to be churlysh vnto hym / and that he intreated him moze roughly then he was wont / he perceaued & loch vnkyndnes came not of good / and therfore he gathered a few of his men / & withdyde hym selfe from Alcimus. Whiche when he knewe that Machabeus had man-fully pꝛeuented hym / he came in to the great and most holy temple: and commaunded the prestes (whych were doynge their usuall of-fyrnges) fringes) to deliuer hym the man. And when they swore that they coude not tell where the man was whom he sought / he stretched out his hande / & made an othe / sayng: Ye wyl not deliuer me Judas captiue / I shall remoue this temple of God into & playne felde / I shall byrke downe the aultar / and consecrate this temple vnto Bacchus. After these wordes he departed.

Then the prestes lyfted their handes to-warde heauen / and besought hym that was euer the defender of their people / sayng: Thou O Lorde of all / which hast nede of nothyng / woldest that the temple of thy habytacion shulde be amonge vs. Wherfore now O most holy Lorde / kepe this house euer undefyled / whych lately was clesed. Now was there accused vnto Alcimus / one Baisan an Alderman of Jerusalem / a louer of the whole cyte / and a mā of good repoyte: whych for the kynde herte that he bare vnto the people / was called a father of the Jewes. Chys man oft tymes / when the Jewes were mynded to kepe the selues undefyled / defended & deliuered them / beinge content stedfastly to spende his body and his lyfe for his people.

So Alcimus wyllynge to declare & hate / that he bare to the Jewes / sent fure hundred men to take hym: for he thought / yf he gat him / he shulde byngne the Jewes in great decay. Now when the people beganne to rushe in at hys house / to byrke the doꝛes / & to set fye on it: he beinge now taken / wolde haue defended himself with his swerde: chosynge rather to dye manfully / then to yelde hym self to those wicked doers: & because of his noble stroke / he had rather haue bene put to extreme crueltie. Notwithstanding what tyme as he missed of hys stroke for haste / & multitude fell in byoꝛely betwixte the doꝛes: he rane boldly to the wal / & cast hym selfe downe man-fully amonge the heape of the / whych gaue soone place to his fall / so that he fel vpon his bely. Nevertheles whyle there was yet breath withyn hym / he was kyndled in hys mynde / and whyle hys bloude gushyd out exceedingly (for he was very soꝛe wounded) he ranne thorow the myddell of the people / and gat hym to the topp of a rocke. So whē hys bloude was now gone / he toke out hys awne bowels with both his handes / & threw them vpon the people: callynge vpon & Lorde of lyfe & spꝛyte / to rewarde him this agayne / and so he dyed.

Alcimus goth aboute to come vpon Judas on the Sabboth daye. The blasphemie of Alcimus Machabeus expoundinge vnto the Jewes the vylon / boldenesse their heres. The prayer of Machabeus. After the holle of Alcimus is ouercome / Machabeus commaundeth his herd and hys handes to be cut of / & his longe to be geuen vnto fowls.

Now when Alcimus knewe that Judas was in the countrey of Samaria / he thought with all hys power to stryke a felde with hym vpon a Sabbath daye. Nevertheles the Je-wes that were compelled to go with hym / sayde: O do not so cruelly and vnkyndly / but halowe the Sabbath daye / and wyl myppe hym that seyth all thynges. For all thys / yet sayde the bngꝛacyous personne: Is there a myghty one in heauen / that commaunded the Sabboth daye to be kepte? And when they sayde: yee the Lyringe God / the myghty Lorde in heauen commaunded the seuenth daye to be kepte. he sayde: And I am myghty vpon earth / to commaunde them for to arme them selues / and to persourne the kynges butynesse. Not withstandinge he myght not haue his putpose.

Alcimus had deuyled with greates pyꝛde to ouercome Judas / and to byngne awaye the victoꝛy. But Machabeus had euer a fast confydence and a perfecte hope in God that he wolde helpe him / and exhorted his people / not to be afrayed at the comynge of the Heathen: but alwaye to remembre the helpe that had bene shewed vnto them from heauen / ye and to be sure now also / that almyghty God wolde geue them the victoꝛy. He spake vnto them out of the lawe and pꝛophetes / putting the in remembraunce of & battayls / that they had stryken afoꝛe / and made them to be of a good corage.

So when their hartes were plucke by / he shewed them also the dyscreetnesse of the Heathen / and how they wolde kepe no coue-naunt noꝝ othe. Thus he weapened the not with the armour of mylde and speare / but with wholsome wordes and exhortacyōs. He shewed them a dreame also / wherthorow he made the al glad / which was this: he thought that he sawe Onias (whych had bene hys prest / a vertuous and louynge man / sad and of honest conuersacion / well spoken / & one that had bene excerpced in Godlynes from a chylde) holdynge by his handes to warde heauen / and prayenge for his people. After this there appeared vnto hym another mā / whych was aged / honozable and gloriouse. And Onias sayde: This is a louer of the byethzen / and of the people of Israell. This is he that prayeth moch for the people / and for all the holy cyte: Jeremy the pꝛophete of God. He thought also & Jeremy helde out hys ryght hande / and gaue hym (namely vnto Judas) a swerde of golde / sayenge: Take this holy swerde / a gyfte from God / wherwith thou shalt smyte downe the enemyes of the people of Israell.

The second booke, & c.

And so they were well comforted thow the wordes of Judas / and toke courage vnto them / so that the yonge men were determed in their myndes to fyght / and to hyde they at it: In to moch that in the thynges whych they toke in hande / their boldnesse the word same / because the holy cytie and the temple were in perill: for the which they toke more care / then for their wyues / chyldren / brether and kynfolkes. Agayne / they that were in the cytie / were most carefull for those which were to fyght. Now when they were all in a hope that the iudgment of the matter was at hand / and the enemyes drew nye / the host beyng set in aray / the Elephants and horsemen every one standynge in hys place: Machabeus considered the commynge of the multytude / the ordynance of dyuerse wea-pens / the cruelnesse of the beestes / & helde by his handes to warde heauē / calling vpon the Lorde that doth wonders / which geueth not the victorie after the multytude of wea-pens and power of the host (but to them that please hym) accordynge to hys awne wyll.

Wherefore in his prayer he sayd these wordes.

O Lorde / thou that dydest sende thyne Angell in the tyme of Gezielah kyng of Juda / and in the holle of Sennaberib slewest an hundred and fyue and foure scoze thousand: sende now also thy good angell befoze us (O Lorde of heauens) in the fearfulness and dyede of thy myghtye arme / that they whych come agaynst thy holy people to blaspheme the / maye be afrayed. And so he made an ende of his wordes. When Nicanor & they were with hym / drew nye with shawmes and songes: but Judas & his company with prayer and callinge vpon God.

With their handes they smote / but with their hertes they prayed vnto the Lorde / and slew no lesse then .xiiij. M. men: for thow thou thyng of God they were gloriously comforted.

Now when they left off / & were turnynge agayne with ioye / they understode that Nicanor hym selfe was slayne with the other.
Then they gaue a greete shout and a crye / praysynge the Almighty Lorde with a loude voys. And Judas (whych was euer ready to spende his body and lyfe for his citeyns) commaunded to smyte of Nicanors head / with hys arme & hande / & to be brought to Jerusalem. When he came there / he called all the people / and the prestes at the altar with those that were in the castell / and shewed the Nicanors head / and his wyched harte / which he had presumptuously holden by agaynst the temple of God. He caused the tonge also of the vngodly Nicanor to be cut in lytle peces / & to be cast to the foules / and the cruell mans hande to be hanged by befoze the temple.

So every man gaue thankes vnto the Lorde / saynge: blessed be he / that hath kepte hys pynne vnderfyled.

As for Nicanors head / he hanged it by vpon the hye castell / for an euident & playne tokē of the helpe of God. And so they agreed all together / to kepe that daye holy / namely the .xiiij. daye of the moneth Adar / which in the Syrians language is called the nexte daye befoze Mardocheus daye. Thus was Nicanor slayne / & from that tyme forth the Jewes had the cytie in possession: And here will I now make an ende.

All the generacions fro Abraham to Da-uid are fortyetene generacions. And fro Da-uid unto the captivite of Babilon/ are fortyetene generacions. And fro the captivite of Ba-bilon to Christ/ are also fortyetene generacions.
The birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise.
When his mother Mary was married and sauced of the holy goost. When Joseph her husbande beinge a perfect man/ & loth to make an ensample of which illumined the world/ was mynded to put her awaye secretly. When the angel of the Lorde appered unto him in a dreame/sayinge. Joseph the sonne of David/ feare not to take unto the Mary thy wyfe. For that which is conceived in her is of the holy goost. She shall bringe forth a sonne/ and thou shalt call his name Jesus. For he shall save his people from their synnes.

All this was done to fulfill that which was spoken of by the Prophet/ sayinge.
Beholde a mayde shall be with childe/ & shall bringe forth a sonne/ and they shall call his name Emanuel/ which is by interpretacion God with us. When Joseph

The ii. Chapter.
When Jesus was borne at Bethleem in Jure/ in the tyme of Herode the kynge. Beholde there came three men from the East to Jerusalem/ saying. Where is he that is bozen kynge of the Jewes? We have sene his starre in the East/ and are come to worshippe him.
When Herode the kynge had hearde this/he was troubled/ & all Jerusalem with him/ & he gathered all the chief priests & scribes of the people/ & asked of them where Christ was borne.

And they sayde vnto hym: at because Chyld
was born there Bethleem beto
henech & the Attie: which in nyng the Prynces of Iuda. For out of the theepes of the mal come the captayne/that shall gouern
my people Israel.

Then Herode pryncely called the wyse men and diligently enquired of them/ the tyme of the starre that appered/ and sent them to Bethleem sayinge: Godd and searche dyly-gently for the chylde. And when ye haue founde by lernyng and hym/ byngenie worde/ that I maye come example. And when they had heard the kyng/ they departed: and lo the starre whych they sawe in the weste: wot before the, tyll it came & stode ouer the place where the chylde was. When they sawe the starre/ they were maruelously glad: and went into the house/ and found the chylde with Mary his mother/ & kneeled doune and worshipped hym/ and opened their treasures/ and offered vnto hym gyfts/ gold franchysence & myrr. And after they were warned of God in a dreame/ that they shuld not go agayne to Herode/ they returned into their owne countrie another waye.

When they were departed beholde the angell of the Lord appered to Joseph in a dreame sayinge: arise and take the chylde and his mother/ and fflye into Egypte/ & abyde there tyll I byngne the worde. For Herode wyll seke & chylde to destroye hym. & when he arose and toke the chylde and his mother by nyght and departed in to Egypte/ and was there vnto the deeth of Herod to fulfill that which was spoken of the Lord by the Prophet whych sayeth/ out of Egypte haue I called my sonne.

When Herod perceauynge that he was mocked of the wyse men was exceedinge wroth & sent forth and sle all the chylde/ & were in Bethleem/ and in all the costes there of/as many as were two yere olde & vnder/ ac-cordinge to the tyme whiche he had diligently searched oute of the wyse men.

When was fulfilled that whych was spoken by the Prophet Jeremy sayinge: On the hilles was a voyce hearde/ mourninge/ we-pinge/ and greafe lamentacyon: Rachel wesayde: Je to let pynge for her chylde/ and wolde not be co-forted/ because they were not.

When Herode was deyd beholde/ an angell of the Lord appered in a dreame to Joseph in Egypte sayinge: arise and take the chylde and his mother/ and go into the lande of Israel. For they are deyd whych sought the chyldeys lyfe. & when he arose by/ and toke the chylde and his mother/ and came into the lande of Israel. But when he heard that Archelaus dyd raygne in Ieruzalem/ in the towne of his father Herode/ he was afrayde to go thither. Not withstandinge after he was warned of God in a dreame he turned & fflye into the parties of Galile/ and went & dwelt in a cite called Nazareth/ to fulfill that whych was spoken by the Prophetes: he shall be called a Nazarene.

And the baptysme/ preaching and offyce of Iohn/ how Christ was baptysed of him in Iordane.

The iiij. Chapter.

In those dayes Iohn the Baptyst came & p. each in the wyldernes of Ieruzalem/ sayinge: Repente & bringe dome of heauens at hande. Chys is he of whom it is spoken by the Prophet Esay/ whych sayeth: The voyce of a cryer in wyldernes/ prepare the waye/ and make his pathes straghte. Chys Iohn had hys garment of camels harte/ and a gyrdell of a skynne aboute hys loynes. Hys meate was locustes and wyld honey. When went oute to Iherusalem and all Ieruzalem/ and all the regyon rounde aboute Iordan/ and were baptysed of hym in Iordan/ confessyng they synnes.

When he sawe many of the Pharisees & Saducees come to his baptysme/ he sayd vnto them: Generacyon of vipers/ who hath taught you to fle from the vengeance to come? Bryngye forth therfore the frutes belongynge to repentance. And what peons thynke not to saye in your selues/ we haue Abraham to our father. For I saye vnto you/ God is able of these stones to rayse chylde vnto Abraham. Euen now is the are put vnto the rote of the trees/ so that ryt tree whych byngeth not forth good frute/is hewen downe and cast into the fyre.

I baptysye you in water in token of repentaunce: but he that cometh after me/ is myghtier then I/ whose shoes I am not worthy to beare. He shall baptysye you in the holy goost and with fyre: whych hath also his fan in hys hand/ and will pouge his floure/ and gether the wheat into his garner/ and wyll burne the chaffe with vnquencheable fyre.

Then cam Iesus from Galile to Iordan vnto Iohn to be baptysed of him. But Iohn forbade him/ sayinge: I ought to be baptysed of the: & comest thou to me? Iesus answered and sayde to him. Let it be so now. For thus it becometh vs to fulfill all righte-nes.
Then he suffered hym. And Iesus as lone he was baptysed/ came streight out of the water And lo/ heauens was open ouer hym/ and Iohn sawe the spyrte of God descendinge lyke a doue a lyght vpon hym. And lo/ there came a voyce fro heauen sayinge: & this is that my beloued sonne in whom is my delyste.

And Iesus went aboute all Galile/ teaching in their synagoges/ & preachinge the gospell of the kyngdome/ & healed all maner of synnes/ and all maner dyseases amonge people. And his fame spred abroode throughe out all Syria. And they brought vnto him al synke people that were take with diuers dyseases and gripinges/ & them that were possessed with deuyls/ & those which were lunatyke/ & those that had the palsy: & he healed them. And ther folowed him a greafe nobbe of people/ from Galile/ & fro the ten cities and from Ierusalem/ and from Ieruzalem/ & from the regions that lye beyonde Iordan.

The iij. Chapter.

Then was Iesus led awaye of spyrite into wyldernes/ to be tēpted of the deuyl. And when he had fasted fourty dayes & fourty nyghtes/ he was afterward an hungred. Then came to h the tēpter/ & sayde: If thou be the sonne of God commaunde these stones be made bred. He answered and sayde: It is wyrtten/ man shall not lyue by bred onely/ but by every worde proceadeth out of the mouth of God.

Then the deuyl toke hym by into the holy cite/ & set hym on a pynacle of the tēple/ and sayde vnto hym: If thou be the sonne of God/cast thy selfe downe. For it is wyrtten: he shall geue his angels charge ouer the/ & with their handes they shall holde the/ that thou dash thy foot agaynst a stone. And Iesus sayde to hym/ it is wyrtten also: Thou shalt not tempte the Lord God.

The deuyl toke hym by agayne and ledde hym in to an exceedinge hye mountayne/ and shewed hym all the kyngdomes of the worlde/ & all the gloire of them/ and sayde to hym: all these wyll I geue the/ if thou wilt fall doune and worship me. Then sayde Iesus vnto hym Iuorde Satan. For it is wyrtten/ thou shalt worship the Lord thy God/ and hym only shalt thou serue.

Then the deuyl left hym/ and beholde/ the angels came and ministered vnto hym.
When Iesus had heard that Iohn was take/ he departed into Galile and left Nazareth/ & went & dwelt in Capernaum/ whych is a cite by the see/ in the coastes of zabuld & Nephtalim/ to fulfill that whych was spoken by Esay the Prophet/ sayinge: The lande of Zabulon & Nephtalim/ the waye of the see beyonde Iordan/ Galile of the Gentyls/ the people whych sat in darcknes/ sawe great lyght/ & to the whych late in the region & shadowe of deeth/ lyght is begone to hyne.

From that tyme Iesus began to preache/and to saye: Repente/ for the kyngdome of heauen is at hande.

As Iesus walked by the see of Galile he sawe two brythzen: Simon whych was called Peter/ & Andrew his brother/ castinge a net into the see/ for they were fisshers/ and he sayde vnto the/ folowe me/ & I wyll make you fyllers of men. And they streight waye lefte their nettes/ and folowed hym.

And he went forth from thence/ and sawe other two brythzen/ James the sonne of Zebede/ & Iohn his brother/ in the shyppe with Zebede their father/ mēdyng their nettes/ & called them. And they without taryng lefte the shyp and their father and folowed hym.

In this Chapter and in the two nexte folowynge is contayned the more excellent & louinge sermon of Christ in the mount: Whiche sermon is the very hepe that openeth the vnderstandynge in to the lawe. In this fyfth Chapter specially he preacheith of the bybeatitudes of blyssynesse/ of manlynghter/ myght and anger: of aduocacyon/ of sweetyng of fustynge wyse and of loue euen toward a mans enemyes.

The v. Chapter.

When he sawe the people he wēt by into a mountayne/ & when he was set/ his disciples came to hym/ and he opened hys mouth/ and taught the sayinge: blessed are the poore in spyrte for theirs is the kyngdome of heuen. Blessed are they that moorne/ for they shall be consolated. Blessed are the meke/ for they shall enheret the erth. Blessed are they whych hon-ger and thirst/ for ryghtewynes: for they shall be fylled. Blessed are the mercifull/ for they shall obteyne mercy. Blessed are the pure in herte/ for they shall see God. Blessed are the peacemakers/ for they shall be called the chylde of God. Blessed are they whych suffre persecucion for ryghtewynes sake/ for theirs is the kyngdome of heuē. Blessed are ye when men reuyle you/ and persecute you/and shall saye all maner of euyl sayngs agaynst you for my sake. Reioyce & be glad/for greate is your rewarde in heuen. For so persecuted they the Prophetes whych were before your dayes.

Ye are the salt of the erthe: but if the Luke. ch. 11.

 To destroye them/ but to fulfill the. For true-ly I saye vnto you/ tyll heuen and erth peryshe/ one lott of one tyle of the lawe shall not scape/ tyll all be fulfilled.

Whosoever breaketh one of these lest commaundmentes/ and teacheth men so/ he shall be called the leest in the kyngdome of he-uen. But whosoever obserueth and teacheth/ the same shall be called greates in the kyngdome of heuen.

For I saye vnto you/ except youre righ-tewynesse excede the rightewynesse of the Scribes and Pharisees/ ye cannot entre into the kyngdome of heuen.

Ye haue herde howe it was sayd vnto the of the olde tyme: Thou shalt not kyll. For whosoever killeth/ shall be in daunger of iud-gement. But I saye vnto you/ whosoever is angry wth his brother/ shall be in daunger of iudgement. Whosoever sayeth vnto his brother: Racha/ shall be in daunger of a cos-sell. But whosoever sayeth thou sole/ shall be in daunger of hell fyre.

Therefore when thou offerest thy gyfte at the altare/ and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought agaynst the: leue there and then come and offre thy gyfte.

Agre with thyne aduersary quicklye/aduersary deliuer the to the iudge/ and the iudge deliuer the to the mynyster/ and then thou be cast into prison. Merely I saye vnto the: thou shalt not come out thence/ tyll thou haue payed the lymost farthinge.

Ye haue heard howe it was sayd to the of olde tyme. Thou shalt not commit adoultrye. But I saye vnto you/ that whosoever looketh on a wyfe/ lustinge after her/ hath comit-ted adoultre with her already in his hert.

Wherfore if thy ryght eye offende the plucke hym out/ or cast hym from the. Better it is for the that one of thy members perishe then the whole bodye shuld be cast into hell.
 Also if thy ryght hand offende the/ cut hym of and cast hym fro the. Better it is that one of thy members perishe/ then that all thy bodye shuld be cast into hell.

It is sayd/ whosoever put awaye his wolfe/ let hym geue her a testimonye also of the deyojement. But I saye vnto you/ whoso-uer put awaye his wyfe (except it be for for-nyccacyon) causeth her to breake marrymony. And whosoever marryeth her that is deuoiced/ breaketh wedlocke.

Agayne ye haue heard howe it was sayd to them of olde tyme/ thou shalt not forswere thy selfe/ but shalt performe thyne othe to God. But I saye vnto you/ swere not at all:

neither by heauen/ for it is Goddes seate: nor yet by the erth/ for it is his fote stole: neither by Ierusalem/ for it is the cytye of that greates kynge: neither shalt thou sweare by thy hert/because thou canst not make one wythe hert or blacke. But youre communication shall be/ye/ yea/ nay. For what soeuer is moze then that/ commeth of euyl.

Ye haue heard howe it is sayd/ an eye for an eye/ a toth for a toth. But I saye to you/if ye resist not worgge. But whosoever geue the a blowe on thy right cheke/ turne to hym the other. And if any man will sue the at the lawe/ and take awaye thy coote/ let hym haue thy cloocke also. And whosoever will copell the to go a myle/ go with hym twayne. Geue to hym that asketh/ and from hym that wolde bozowe turne not awaye.

Ye haue heard howe it is sayd/ thou shalt loue thine neryghbour/ as hate thyne enemye.
 But I saye vnto you/ loue youre enemyes.
 Blesse them that curse you. Do good to the that hate you. Praye for them whych do you wodge and persecute you/ that ye maye be chyldren of youre father that is in heauen: for he maketh his sunne to aryse on the euell/ and on the good/ and sendeth his raine on the iuste and vniuste. For if ye loue them/ whych loue you: what reward shall ye haue? Do not the Publicans euen so? And if ye be friendly to youre brethren onlye: what synnguler thyng do ye? Do not the Publicans lyke wyse? ye shall therfore be perfecte/ euen as youre father whych is in heauen/ is perfecte.

Of almes/ prayer/ a fastyng. he forbyddeth the
 of woldyng of woldyng thynges.

Chap. 11.

He hede to youre almes. That ye geue it not in the syght of men/ to the intent that ye wolde be sene of them. For if ye get no reward of youre father whych is in heauen/ wherfore therfore thou geuest thyne almes/ thou shalt not make a troget to be blowe before the as the hypocrites do in the synagoges/ and in the stretes/ for to be praysed of men/ merely I saye vnto you/ they haue their reward. But wher thou doest thine alme/ let not thy left hand knowe what thy right hand doeth/ that thyne almes may be secret: and thy father whych seeth in secret/ shall rewarde the openly.

And when thou prayest/ thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are. For they loue to stand praye in the synagoges/ and in the corners of the stretes/ because they wolde be sene of men.
 Merely I saye vnto you/ they haue their reward. But wher thou prayest/ entre into thy chamber/ and shut thy doore to the/ and praye to thy father whych is in secrete: and thy father whych seeth in secret/ shall rewarde the openly.

Chap. 11.

Chap. 11.

Chap. 11.

And when ye praye/ bable not moche/ as the heathen do: for they thinke that they shall be heard/ for their moche babylnges sake. Be ye not lyke them therfore. For youre father knoweth wherof ye haue neede before ye aske of hym. After this maner therfore praye ye.

Our father whych arte in heuen/ halowed be thy name. Let thy kyngdome come.
 Thy will be fulfilled/ as well in erth/ as it is in heuen. Geue vs this daye oure dailly bred.
 And forgyue vs oure trespasses/ euen as we forgyue oure trespassers. And leade vs not in temptation: but deliuer vs fro euyl. For thyne is the kyngdome/ the power/ and the glorie for euer. Amen. For if ye shall forgeue other men their trespasses/ youre heuily father shall also forgyue you. But if ye wyl not forgyue nether their trespasses/ nor moze shall youre father forgyue you youre trespasses.

Wherfore when ye faste/ be not sad as the hypocrites are. For they disfigure their faces/ that they myght be sene of men how they faste. Merely I saye vnto you/ they haue their rewarde. But thou/ when thou fastest/ annoynte thyne hert/ and washe thy face/ that it appere not vnto men howe thou fastest: but vnto thy father whych is in secrete: and thy father whych seeth in secrete/ shall re-warde the openly.

Se that ye geather you not treasure vpon the erth/ where rust & moultres corrupte/ & where theues breake through & steale. But geather ye treasures to gether in heuē where nether rust nor moultres corrupte/ & where theues nether breake vp nor yet steale. For wher soeuer youre treasure is/ there wyl youre hertes be also.

The light of the bodye is thine eye. Wher the light of thyne eye be synge all thy bodye shall be full of lyght. But if thyne eye be we-ked then all thy bodye shall be full of bercknes.
 Wherfore if the lyght be in the/ be berck-nes: how great is that bercknes.

No man can serue two masters. For ether he shall hate the one & loue the other/ or he shall leane to the one & despise the other: ye cannot serue God & Mammon. Therefore I saye vnto you/ be not carefull for youre lyfe/what ye shall eate/ or what ye shall drinke/nor yet for youre bodye/ what ye shall put on.
 For not the lyfe moze worth then meat/ & the bodye moze of value then rayment. Beholde the fowles of the ayer: for they sowe not/ nether reape/ nor yet cary into the barnes: and yet youre heuily father sedeth them. Are ye not moche better then they.

Whych of you (though he take thought therfore) coude put one cubit vnto his stature? And why care ye then for rayment? Consider the lylies of the felde/ how they growe.

They labour not nether spynne. And yet for all that I saye vnto you/ that euen Salomō in all his royalte was not arrayed lyke vnto one of these. Wherfore ye God so clothe the grasse/ whych is to daye in the felde/ & to mo-rowe shall be caste into the fournaice/ shall he not moche moze do the same vnto you/ who of lytle sayth?

Therefore take no thought sayinge: what shall we eate/ or what shall we drinke/ or wherwith shall we be clothed? After all these thynges seke ye gentylis. For youre heuily father knoweth that ye haue neede of all these thynges. But rather seke ye fyrst the kyngdome of heuen & the rightwylnes therof/ & all these thynges shall be mynistrd vnto you.

Care not then for the morow/ but let the morow care for it selfe: for the daye present hath euer ynough of his awne trouble.

The forbyddeth foolys & temerarious iudgement/ & proueth pprophete/ & howe it vnto prouer warneth betwene of false prophetes/ & to concludeth his sermon.

Chap. 11.

Judge not/ & ye be not iudged. For as ye iudge so shall ye be iudged. And with what measure ye mete/ with the same shall it be measured to you agayne. Wherfore if thou a moote in thy brothers eye/ & perceauest not thy beame that is in thyne awne eye. Wherfore sayest thou to thy brother: suffice me to plucke oute the moote oute of thyne eye/ & behold a beame is in thy-ne awne eye. Ypocryte/ fyrst cast oute thy bea-me oute of thyne awne eye/ & then shalt thou se clearly to plucke oute thy moote oute of thy brothers eye.

Geue not that which is holy/ to dogges nether cast ye youre pearles before swyne/ lest they treade them vnder their fete/ and the other tyme agayne and all to rent you.

And it shall be geuen you. Seke ye that shall synde/ knocke vnto it shall be opened vnto you. For whosoever asketh receaueth/ & he that seke thynketh and to him that knocketh it shall be opened. For there any man amōge you whych if his sonne asked hym bred/ wolde offer hym a stone? Or if he asked synthe/ wolde he prouer hym a serpent? If ye then whych are euyl can geue to youre chyldren good gyftes how moche moze shall youre father whych is in heuen geue good thynges to the that aske hym?

Therefore whatsoeuer ye wolde that men Lawe and shuld do to you/ euen so do ye to them. Chys is the lawe and the Prophetes.

Enter in at the strypte gate: for wyde is the gate/ and broad is the waye that leadeth to destruccyon: and many ther be whych go in therat. But strypte is the gate/ and narrowe is the waye whych leadeth vnto lyfe: & feawe ther be

¶ Ther be that synde it. ¶ Beware of false prophetes which come to you in shepes clothes: but inwardly they are ravenynge as hysers that pervert & wren the woide of God. Do men gather grapes of thornes? or figgs of thystles? Euen so euery good tree bringeth forth good frute. But a corrupte tree bringeth forth euill frute. A good tree canot bring forth the bad frute: no yet a bad tree can bring forth good frute. Euery tree that bringeth not forth good frute, shall be hewen downe: and cast into the fyre. Wherefore by their frutes ye shall knowe them.

¶ Not all they that say vnto me, Lozde, Lozde shall enter in to the kyngdome of heauen: but he that dothe my fathers wyll whych is in heauen. ¶ Many wyll saye to me in that daye: Lozde, Lozde, haue we not in thy name prophesied? And in thy name haue caste out deuylls? And in thy name haue done many miracles? And then will I knowlege vnto the that I neuer knewe the. ¶ Departe from me, ye workers of inquite.

¶ Whosoever heareth of me these sayinges & doth the same, I will liken him vnto a wise man whiche ¶ buildeth his house on a rocke: & about dance of rayne descended, & the fluddes came and the wyndes blew & bet vpon that same house & it fell not, because it was grounded on the rocke. And whosoever heareth of me these sayinges & doth the not, shall be likened vnto a folysh man whych bylt his house vpon the lande: and aboundaunce of rayne descended, and the fluddes came, and the wyndes blew and beet vpon that house, and it fell, and great was the fall of it.

¶ And it came to passe, that when Iesus had ended these sayinges, the people were astonnyed at his doctrine. For he taught them as one hauinge power, and not as the scribes.

¶ Ther cleareth the leper, healeth the captaynes seruant and many other dycaies, helpeth Peters mother in law, sylleth the se and the wynde, & dyueth the deuils out of the possessed in to the swyne.

¶ The. viij. Chapter.

¶ When he was come downe from the mountayne, moche people folowed him. And lo, ther came a leper and worshipped him sayinge: Master, if thou wilt thou canst make me cleane. And Iesus put forth his hand & touched him sayinge: I will, be thou cleane. & immediatly his leprosy was cleded. And Iesus sayde vnto him: se thou tell no man, but go & shewe thy selfe to the prest, & offer the gyfte that Moyses commaunded in wytnes to them.

¶ When Iesus was entred into Capernaum, ther came vnto hym a certayne Centurion, and besought hym sayinge: Master, my seruauit lyeth sycke at home of the pal- sy, and is greuously payned. And Iesus sayd vnto hym: I wyll come and heale hym. The Centurion answered and sayde: Syr, I am not worthy that thou shouldest come vnder my rofe, but speake the woide only & my seruauit shall be healed. For I also my selfe am a man subiect to the authoryte of another, and haue souldyers vnder me, and I saye to one go, and he goeth, and to another come & he cometh, and to my seruauit, do this, & he doeth it. When Iesus hearde that, he marvelled and sayd to the that folowed hym: whereof I saye vnto you, I haue not founde so great fapth: no, not in Israel. ¶ I say therfore vnto you that many shall come fro the east & west, and shall rest with Abraham, Isaac & Jacob in the kyngdome of heauen: and the chyldren of the kyngdome shall be cast out in to utter darcknes: there shall be wepyng and gnawing of teth. When Iesus sayde vnto the Centurion, go thy waye, and as thou belieuest so be it vnto the. And his seruauit was healed the selfe houre.

¶ And then Iesus went to Peters house, & sawe his wyues mother lyinge sycke of a feuer, & touched her hande, & the feuer left hir, and she arose, and mynystred vnto them.

¶ When the euen was come, they brought vnto hym many that were possessed with deuylls. And he cast out the spytes with a woide, & healeth all that were sycke, to fulfill that which was spoken by Iseas the Prophet sayinge: He toke on him oure infymities, and bare oure synnes.

¶ When Iesus sawe moche people about hym, he commaunded to go ouer the water. And ther came a Scribe & sayde vnto him: Master, I wyll folowe the whither soeuer thou goest. And Iesus sayde vnto hym: the foxes haue holes, and the byrdes of the ayer haue nestes, but the sonne of man hath not wher to rest his heed. Another that was of his Disciples sayde vnto hym: master, suffer me to go and burye my father. But Iesus sayde vnto him: folowe me, & let the deed buryethey deed.

¶ And he entred into a shyppe, & his Disciples folowed hym. And beholde there arose a great tempest in the see, in so moche that the shyppe was couered with waues, & he was a slepe. And his Disciples came to hym, & awoke hym sayinge: Master, saue vs, we perishe. And he sayd to them: why are ye fearful, O ye of lytell fapth? When he arose, and rebuked the wyndes and the see, and ther folowed a greace calme. And hymen marueyled and sayd: what man is this, that both wyndes and see obey hym?

¶ And whē he was come to the other syde, in to the cōstie of the Gergesites, ther met him two two possessed of deuylls, which came out of the graues, & were out of measure feare, so that no man myght go by the waye. And beholde they cryed out sayinge: O Iesu thou sonne of God, what haue we to do with the? Art thou come hither to torment vs before the tyme be come? And ther was a good waye of fro the a greate heerd of swyne sedyng. When the deuylls besought him sayinge: if thou call vs out, suffer vs to go oure waye into the heerd of swyne. And he sayde vnto them: go poure wayes. When went they out, & departed into the heerd of swyne. And beholde the whoale heerd of swyne was carped with bloode, & theyng into the see, and perished in the water. ¶ Then the heerdme fled & wēt their wayes in to the cite, and tolde euery thyng, & what had fortuned vnto the possessed of the deuylls. And beholde all the cite came out & met Iesus, and when they sawe him, they besought him to departe out of their coastes.

¶ He healeth the palsey, called Mathew from a cōfession, answered for his disciples, healeth the woman of the bloody yllue, helpech Iairus daughter, geneth the blynde their syghte, maketh a domine ma: & speaketh and dyueth out a deuill.

¶ The. ix. Chapter.

¶ When he entred in to a shyppe and passed ouer & came into his awne cite. And lo, they brought to hym a man sycke of the palsey, lyinge in his bed. And when Iesus sawe the fapth of of them, he sayde to the sycke of the palsey: sonne be of good chere, thy synnes be forgiven the. And beholde certayne of the Scribes sayde in them selues, this man blasphemeth. And when Iesus sawe their thoughtes, he sayde: wherefore thyncke ye euill in your heart? whether is easer to saye, thy synnes be forgiven the, or to saye, arise and walke? What ye maye knowe that the sonne of man hath power to forgive synnes in erth, then sayde he vnto the sycke of the palsey: arise, take vp thy bed, and go home to thyne house. And he arose & departed to his awne house. And when the people sawe it, they marueyled and glorified God which had geue such power to men.

¶ And as Iesus passed forth fro thence, he sawe a man syt a receauyng of custome, named Mathew, and sayde to hym: folowe me. And he arose & folowed hym. And it came to passe as he sat at meate in the house, beholde many Publycans and synners came and late downe also with Iesus and his Disciples.
